IN THE

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

BEECH-NUT PACKING COMPANY,
Plaintiff,

vs.

P. LORILLARD COMPANY,
Defendant.

In Equity No. 3056.

Bill of Complaint.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, a New York corporation, having its principal place of business and doing business at Canajoharie, New York, brings this its bill of complaint against P. Lorillard Company, a New Jersey corporation, having its principal place of business and doing business in the City and State of New York.

And plaintiff says:

1. Beech-Nut Packing Company is a corporation of New York, having its principal place of business in Canajoharie, New York. P. Lorillard Company is a corporation of New Jersey, having its principal place of business in the City and State of New York. The amount in controversy herein is more than five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), irrespective of interests and costs.

2. Plaintiff's predecessor, Imperial Packing Company, a corporation of New York, inaugurated its business prior to 1892 or thereabouts. For the purpose of identifying goods made by it and distinguishing the same from all other goods, plaintiff's predecessor, prior to 1892, adopted and has ever since used continuously, the trade-mark "BEECH-NUT"; and a trade-mark or distinctive badge, comprising the collocation of the trade-mark "BEECH-NUT," with other distinctive and conspicuous features; and particularly has adopted a label, comprising a red and white border, within which is an outline oval (generally in blue), within which outline oval appears the word "BEECH-NUT" (generally in blue) curved about within the upper part of the oval, below which word appears a pictorial representation of a beech-nut cluster, located in the center of the outline oval, with symmetrically arranged small type printing on either side of said pictorial representation; while the name of the particular product to which the label relates is applied symmetrically with the name "BEECH-NUT" on the lower part of the label, all as more perfectly presented by the two specimen labels attached hereto as Beech-Nut Packing Company Exhibit A.

3. In 1899 or thereabouts, plaintiff, desirous of acquiring, developing, and extending the business of the Imperial Packing Company; and particularly having in mind the addition from time to time of successive new items each different specifically from preceding items of its manufacture; and therefore particularly desirous that the reputation of those goods be synonymous with the reputation of their maker; and that it be known to the public in a distinctive and personal sense, discarded the name "Imperial Packing Company" and adopted as the distinctive part of its corporate name the trade-mark "BEECH-NUT." Then and ever thereafter, plaintiff, "Beech-Nut Packing Company," has successfully striven to cause the trade and the public to recognize and accept, and the trade and public have recognized and accepted the label, Exhibit A, as not only the trade-mark by which the desired manufacturer of this or that goods may be identified, but also and more particularly as the distinctive autograph or personal signature of the Beech-Nut Packing Company (appearing in unmistakable form on any and all of scores of items), and as indicating the personal responsibility of the known Beech-Nut Packing Company for any goods so marked.

4. In 1899 was formed plaintiff corporation "Beech-Nut Packing Company," which by purchase acquired all of the assets, trade-marks and good-will of "Imperial Packing Company," plaintiff's predecessor, and continued the business, established prior to 1892 by said Imperial Packing Company.

5. Plaintiff's predecessor, Imperial Packing Company, then dealing in certain meat products, shortly after 1891 began a rapid extension of the items of its manufacture; and plaintiff from the time of its acquisition of the business has persistently and rapidly continued that extension. The business of plaintiff by reason of the expenditures, care, skill and industry of plaintiff increased with great rapidity, so that prior to the acts herein complained of, plaintiff's trade-mark, trade name, and distinctive badge and autograph were familiar to and highly regarded by the public, and on sale largely, in stores dealing in package consumable products such as general stores, grocery stores, drug stores, tobacco stores, news stands, and the like; its business aggregated many millions of dollars every year, and comprehended a very large number of packaged products of widely varying character, such as chewing gum, ham, peanut butter, jellies, and scores of others. Plaintiff has since added many new products to its line, as for instance ginger ale and tin foil, and has always expected and now expects and intends, in the rapid expansion of its business, to continue so to do, all without reference to specific similarities or differences between the various items included in plaintiff's line. Plaintiff's goods and those of its predecessor have always been identifiable by the trade-mark, trade name, distinctive badge, and autograph (Exhibit A', supra).

6. Plaintiff's business has for many years prior to the acts herein complained of been in large measure dependent upon the standing in the mind of the public of its trade-mark "BEECH-NUT," and that of its trade name, badge and autograph (Exhibit A'). The aforesaid trade-mark, badge and autograph, Exhibit A', except for variations in size, name of particular product and other immaterial variations, has been displayed conspicuously by plaintiff without exception upon all of the widely varying kinds of packaged consumable goods plaintiff has from time to time put upon the market. Plaintiff in the expansion of its business has expended more than two millions of dollars in advertising, including substantially every known kind of advertising, such as advertising in periodicals and newspapers, upon billboards, by display cards, circulars and other ways. The aforesaid advertising has in particular always featured and has forcibly impressed upon the mind of the public the trade-mark and trade name "BEECH-NUT" and the distinctive badge and autograph of plaintiff (Exhibit A'); as by its presence on any consumable product indicating that that product, so marked, was of plaintiff's manufacture, and of the same high standard of excellence as that of all other products similarly marked, regardless of specific difference between the widely varying items from time to time offered by plaintiff.

7. By reason of the foregoing, of the care, skill and industry and expenditures of plaintiff; and by reason of the high regard enjoyed by plaintiff's trade-mark and trade name "BEECH-NUT," distinctive badge and autograph (Exhibit), it came about (long prior to the beginning of the acts herein complained of) that the trade and public of the United States recognized the label Exhibit as plaintiff's distinctive badge and as plaintiff's personal autograph; and as indicating that any consumable packaged product bearing aforesaid badge, trade-mark and trade name and appearing upon the shelves of a retailer alongside other products bearing the same badge, was of the same origin as those other products and of the same high standard of excellence. Each new product so marked was long prior to 1915, and thereafter, and is now, received with immediate and marked favor by the public, by reason of the public's gratification and satisfaction with the previous products, similarly identified, by reason of the high regard the public had for plaintiff, and without such sales resistance as meets the ordinary merchandizing of a new product. By maintaining its standards of quality, at the cost of the most indefatigable and zealous effort, plaintiff has been and is enabled to maintain a large and growing demand for the goods of its manufacture, identified as of its manufacture by the trade-mark, badge and autograph, Exhibit .

8. The outline oval, containing the word "BEECH-NUT" and the pictorial representation of a beech-nut cluster, has been recognized and registered in the United States Patent Office as plaintiff's trade-mark and protected therein by registration grant 89,613, registered December 31, 1912, a copy of said registration being affixed hereto and marked Exhibit ~~B~~ 4; said registration specifies about sixty-seven products of widely varying character (some thereof being edible and others not, but all being packaged consumable products), as those upon which as early as 1912 the aforesaid trade-mark had appeared. The said trade-mark was so registered under due form of law largely so that the public and other manufacturers might be informed of the rights of plaintiff in the premises, and of the many items of wide variety, upon which plaintiff then had employed and was employing said trade-mark, and of the fact that some or all of said items distinguished to be of plaintiff's manufacture would be likely to be found offered for sale in any store dealing in packaged consumable products designed to gratify the taste or satisfy the appetite of the purchasing public.

9. Defendant, well knowing the premises, and contriving to injure plaintiff, to cramp the legitimate expansion of its business, and divert from its profits gains and advantages which otherwise would accrue to plaintiff, to the irreparable and vast damage of plaintiff has infringed plaintiff's trade-mark, appropriated plaintiff's trade name and forged plaintiff's autograph; and has been guilty of unfair competition in trade against plaintiff. These acts and doings of defendant have been wilfully and fraudulently performed in spite of plaintiff's remonstrance and request that they be discontinued; and defendant now threatens and intends not only to continue but to aggravate its injury to plaintiff and will do so unless prevented by this court.

10. Thus defendant in the District of New Jersey, and elsewhere throughout the United States, without leave or license from plaintiff and against its protest, has been and is engaged in the manufacture and sale (in commerce among the several states) of a product known as "Beech-Nut" Scrap Tobacco, a cheap tobacco made of "scrap" for tobacco chewing, upon which product, as packaged for the consumer and the retailer, is prominently displayed a fraudulent imitation of the distinctive label of plaintiff (Exhibit 1); a specimen of said imitative label appears affixed hereto as Exhibit 2; to the confusion of the trade and the public, who are likely to, and in fact have generally believed that the so-called "BEECH-NUT" Scrap Tobacco is another extension of plaintiff's line, and a product made by plaintiff. Defendant in so doing, and in its sales effort with respect to the so-called "BEECH-NUT" Scrap Tobacco, has been guilty of trade-mark infringement and of unfair competition in trade and has promoted and caused confusion in the trade to its own illegitimate profit and to the vast and irreparable loss, damage and injury of plaintiff.

11. Plaintiff (and its predecessor) by thirty years of cumulative, persistent, indefatigable effort of an organization now numbering many hundreds of individuals, and by the expenditure of more than two millions of dollars in advertising, has established its label, Exhibit 1, as indicating plaintiff's manufacture wherever it appears, thereby denoting the highest quality that can be obtained, with respect to cleanliness and general supreme desirability of any consumable product bearing that label. This reputation of plaintiff, associated with the aforesaid label, is nowhere better established than among the most refined and prosperous of the female members of the public. Among these persons, as well as to a substantial extent among the public in general, chewing tobacco is regarded with disfavor. Recognition as a manufacturer of chewing tobacco (particularly a cheap scrap tobacco) is not compatible with the standing plaintiff has achieved either in the minds of its female customers or in the minds of the public. Yet such recognition of plaintiff as a manufacturer of cheap chewing tobacco has been and will be the inevitable result of defendant's imitation of plaintiff's label, Exhibit A. Furthermore, such recognition has and will jeopardize plaintiff's standing with a considerable body of plaintiff's trade (i. e., retailers and jobbers), both through prejudice, among members of that trade, against chewing tobacco, and also through a lowered respect for plaintiff's intelligence which has been and will be the result of plaintiff's being believed in its trade to have embarked on the manufacture of cheap chewing tobacco, in spite of the totally inconsistent and opposite standing and reputation of plaintiff. Plaintiff's position substantially at the top of a highly competitive industry, is a fragile and precarious one, requiring intense, persistent, and indefatigable effort for its maintenance; and has been and will be irreparably damaged by the injuries just referred to.

12. Defendant, desirous of aggravating its injury to plaintiff, has recently begun a campaign of poster and billboard advertising which blatantly displays the label used by defendant (Exhibit B). This advertising has been and is likely to be generally attributed to plaintiff. This advertising in effect conspicuously forces upon the attention of the public (including plaintiff's female customers) what purports to be the fact that plaintiff is manufacturing cheap chewing tobacco. The said blatant billboard advertising of defendant is likely to counteract and destroy the good-will and reputation, for many years laboriously built up and maintained with zealous care, indefatigable effort and at enormous expense by plaintiff.

13. Defendant further aggravating its injury hereinabove complained of and desiring still further wrongfully to exploit the good-will of the purchasing public toward any packaged consumable product bearing plaintiff's trade-mark, trade name and autograph, without leave or license from plaintiff, but over its protest and against its will intends, is prepared, and threatens to flood the market (and engage in commerce among the several states) with a so-called "BEECH-NUT" cigarette, upon the retail package of which is displayed prominently (as shown in Exhibit 3 hereto attached), a close imitation of plaintiff's trade-mark, trade name, distinctive badge, and autograph. In so doing defendant threatens, and the result of such acts and doings will inevitably be, to cause the public to believe that the cigarettes whose packages are so marked are made by plaintiff, and to buy the same in that belief, to the illegitimate profit of defendant and the loss of plaintiff. These acts constitute threatened trade-mark infringement and threatened unfair competition in trade toward plaintiff.

14. Plaintiff (and its predecessor) in the legitimate extension of its lines for the past thirty years or thereabouts, has in rapid succession added from time to time new packaged consumable products of widely varying character, all however sold under the same trademark, trade name and autograph. In its national, persistent, long continued and enormous advertising, utilizing practically every known means of appealing to the trade and the public, through which advertising in part plaintiff's business has been developed, plaintiff has conveyed for many years to the public the impression of "quality" as associated with any packaged consumable product which bore plaintiff's label, Exhibit A. Thus the term or slogan "Beech-Nut Quality" has been used very largely by plaintiff in advertising both verbatim and by words containing inevitable inference of the same meaning. And this slogan has been and is recognized by the public, when associated with the name "Beech-Nut," in general as denoting plaintiff's products, regardless of the particular character of any specific goods within the field of packaged consumable products. Thus, furthermore, as a part of plaintiff's sales efforts, by enormous national advertising and otherwise, in the legitimate and continuous actual and prospective expansion of its business by the inclusion of new items, plaintiff has caused the public to believe that plaintiff would never put out a new product unless and until plaintiff had so mastered the art of making that product that the product was of "Beech-Nut Quality."

15. Defendant, desirous still further of promoting confusion in the trade and of illegitimately converting to its own uses the good-will and reputation of plaintiff, has caused to be printed upon its imitative cigarette wrapper, approximately a million of which defendant has had printed and is ready to launch onto the market (Exhibit 3), a panel containing the inscription:

> "Cigarettes of Beech-Nut Quality have never before been offered to the Public"; thereby and in conjunction with the imitation of plaintiff's distinctive badge and autograph still further working to promote the belief, on the part of the public, that defendant's cigarettes are merely another of the widely varying additions to plaintiff's line which have appeared before the public in rapid succession for substantially thirty years. Defendant is thus guilty of threatened unfair competition in trade with plaintiff, and of illegitimately preparing to appropriate the good-will of plaintiff's business to promote the sale of its own goods, offered to the public in false and misleading dress.

16. Defendant, desirous still further of promoting confusion in the trade, and of converting to its own uses the good-will of plaintiff, has sold and offered for sale in commerce among the several states, large quantities of cigarettes bearing a close and fraudulent imitation of plaintiff's trade-mark, trade name and autograph, as exhibited in Exhibit E hereto attached, and has advertised said cigarettes extensively by advertising of a misleading character; said cigarettes have largely been purchased by persons who believed that they were of plaintiff's manufacture; all of which defendant persists in doing in spite of requests by plaintiff that it desist, and will continue to do in large and increasing measure unless prevented by this court. These acts and doings of defendant constitute trade-mark and trade name infringement and unfair competition in trade, and work irreparable injury to plaintiff.

17. Packaged tobacco and cigarettes are both within the legitimate field of expansion of plaintiff's business. Defendant by imitating plaintiff's trade-mark, trade name and autograph is attempting illegitimately to limit and shut off the expansion of plaintiff's business, as well as to damage and injure plaintiff as previously stated.

18. By reason of its acts and doings, defendant has gained large profits; those profits are largely, if not altogether, the result of defendant's conversion and exploitation of plaintiff's good-will, and unwarranted use of plaintiff's trade-marks, trade name and autograph; and of defendant's unfair competition; these profits therefore belong to plaintiff. The aforesaid profits are distinct and separable from the damage done plaintiff by defendant.

Plaintiff therefore prays the court:

First: That an injunction issue out of this court, enjoining defendant, its officers, agents, employees, confederates and associates from

(a) Using, selling or offering for sale tobacco products under the trade-mark "BEECH-NUT" in any form;

(b) Displaying the name "BEECH-NUT" in its advertising;

(c) Displaying the imitative badge or label, Exhibit 2, either in that form or in colorable imitation thereof, on any of its goods or advertisements;

(d) Using, selling, or offering for sale cigarettes under the imitative label Exhibit 3, or under the name "Beech-Nut";

(e) Using in association with the name "Beech-Nut" the slogan "Beech-Nut Quality" in any form; and

(f) Enjoining defendant to deliver up and destroy all the infringing label tags, cartons, advertisements, placards, signs and other display devices containing the infringing mark.

Second: That the cause be referred to a Master to take an accounting to determine the profits defendant has made out of its infringement and unfair competition, and the damages suffered thereby by plaintiff; and that plaintiff recover said profits and threefold damages from defendant.

Third: That plaintiff recover its cost herein as taxed by the clerk.

Fourth: For such other and further relief as the court may deem it proper to grant.

And forasmuch as your orators can have no adequate relief save in this court, to the ends therefore that defendant may, if it can, show why your orators should not have the relief hereby prayed, and may (but not under oath—answer under oath being waived), according to the best and utmost knowledge, information and belief of its officers, full, true and perfect answer make to the premises and to all of the several matters hereinbefore stated and charged as fully and particularly as if severally and separately interrogated as to each and every of said matters.

May it please your Honors to grant unto plaintiff a writ of subpoena ad respondendum issued out of and under the seal of this court, directed to said defendant, P. Lorillard Company, at New York, New York, commanding it by a certain day and under a certain penalty to be and appear in this Honorable Court, then and there to answer to the premises, and to stand to and abide by such order and decree as may be made against it.

Plaintiff will ever pray.

UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE.

BEECH-NUT PACKING COMPANY, OF CANAJOHARIE, NEW YORK.

TRADE-MARK FOR CERTAIN FOODS.

89,613. Registered Dec. 31, 1912.

Application filed March 22, 1909. Serial No. 41,324.

STATEMENT.

To all whom it may concern:

Be it known that BEECH-NUT PACKING COMPANY, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of New York, and located and doing business at Canajoharie, county of Montgomery, in said State, has adopted for its use the trade-mark shown in the accompanying drawing, the annular band being red, for cured ham, bacon, beef, codfish, and herring, sausage, Camembert cheese, pimento-cheese, Roquefort-type cheese, peanut-butter, canned beans, canned bacon and beans, canned beans with tomato sauce, canned bacon and beans with tomato sauce, canned beans and selected pork, malt vinegar, cider vinegar, olive-oil, gelatin, tomato catsup, prepared mustard, strawberries, raspberries, and cherries preserved in syrup, grape, quince, fig, peach, blackberry, raspberry, strawberry, cherry, and plum jams, blackberry, pineapple, huckleberry, cherry, and ginger pear preserves, cranberry sauce, olives, orange, grape-fruit, rhubarb, and lime-fruit marmalades, spiced plums, preserved Persian and Fard dates and figs, quince, apple, black-currant, grape, crabapple, and red-currant jellies, peppermint, lime, wintergreen, clove, cinnamon, lemon, hoarhound, and anise cut candies, wintergreen, mint, and vanilla cream candies, and chewing-gum, all in Class 46, Foods and ingredients of foods.

The trade-mark has been continuously used in the business of said corporation, and in the business of its predecessor, the Imperial Packing Company, since the latter part of the year 1899.

The said corporation is the owner of the following trade-mark registrations in the United States Patent Office:—Imperial Packing Company, No. 19,838, July 7, 1891; Imperial Packing Company, No. 24,978, July 3, 1894; Beech-Nut Packing Company, No. 35,731, Jan. 8, 1901; Beech-Nut Packing Company, No. 36,444, May 21, 1901.

The trade-mark is applied or affixed to the goods or to the packages containing the same by placing thereon a printed label on which the trade-mark is shown, and by branding the goods, or the boxes or cases in which the said goods or packages are shipped, with an impression showing the said trade-mark.

BEECH-NUT PACKING COMPANY,
By BARTLETT ARKELL,
President.

DECLARATION.

State of New York county of New York ss.

BARTLETT ARKELL, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is the president of the corporation applicant named in the foregoing statement; that he believes the foregoing statement is true; that he believes said corporation is the owner of the trade-mark sought to be registered; that no other person, firm, corporation, or association, to the best of his knowledge and belief, has the right to use said trade-mark in the United States, either in the identical form or in any such near resemblance thereto as might be calculated to deceive; that said trade-mark is used by said corporation in commerce among the several States of the United States, and between the United States and foreign nations, and particularly with Great Britain and France; that the drawing presented truly represents the trade-mark sought to be registered; and that the specimens show the trade-mark as actually used upon the goods.

BARTLETT ARKELL.

} In Equity No. 3056.

Answer to Defendant's Counterclaim.

Plaintiff answering defendant's counterclaim, or so much thereof as it is advised is material and necessary to be answered, answering says:

I. (Paragraph 20 of Answer.) Plaintiff denies that defendant is the owner of the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for tobacco products of all kinds, including cigarettes, and that for many years prior to the acts of plaintiff referred to, this defendant and its predecessors in business had and has manufactured and marketed tobacco products under the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" in vast quantities of a value running into millions of dollars. Plaintiff denies that the alleged predecessors were predecessors of defendant with respect to the alleged trade-mark "Beech-Nut." Plaintiff says that the first considerable quantity of Beech-Nut Tobacco ever manufactured either by plaintiff or its alleged predecessors, and the first quantity of value even comparable with the sum of a million dollars was sold by defendant subsequently to the beginning of the year 1915. Plaintiff admits that the value of the subject-matter in controversy is in excess of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00), but denies that the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" is defendant's trade-mark for tobacco or any other product. Plaintiff denies that the trade and public in general or that the tobacco trade, or the tobacco using public has ever recognized the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for tobacco products to be that of defendant. Plaintiff denies that by reason of the long experience and great care of defendant in its tobacco business and the superior quality and character of its tobacco products and particularly its tobacco products sold under its trade-mark "Beech-Nut," such "Beech-Nut" tobacco products of defendant had become widely known in the community and throughout the various states of the United States and have commanded and still command an extensive sale throughout the various states of the United States; plaintiff asserts that the aforesaid sales are due to the use of plaintiff's trade-mark and trade name and the imitation of plaintiff's label by defendant and not at all to anything else contributed by defendant. Plaintiff admits that the sale of the aforesaid tobacco products has been a source of great profit to this defendant.

Plaintiff denies that this defendant or its predecessors ever enjoyed a long and quiet use of the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for tobacco products. Plaintiff denies that, well knowing the premises and with the preconceived intention to injure the defendant and with the purpose to defraud it, and with the purpose to deprive this defendant of any legitimate benefits and profits resulting from the alleged reputation acquired by its "Beech-Nut" tobacco products and with the intent to acquire for itself the benefits and profits of defendant's reputation and with the intent to assist others to palm off on the public tobacco products, particularly cigarettes, under the name "Beech-Nut," not manufactured or sold by the defendant and in wilful disregard of defendant's rights in the premises, that it has recently but prior to the filing of the bill of complaint and the answer, to-wit, since about June or July, 1919, manufactured or caused to be manufactured and endeavored to sell within the District of New Jersey and elsewhere in the United States, and now threatens to sell within the District of New Jersey and elsewhere, an inferior grade of cigarettes under the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" with the intent to deceive and defraud the public, to injure the reputation of defendant and particularly in connection with its Beech-Nut tobacco products, such as scrap tobacco and cigarettes and to reap and receive for this plaintiff's own benefits and profits, the gains lawfully due defendant. Plaintiff denies that any act or deed done by plaintiff is an infringement or threatened infringement of any right of defendant in the premises or of any right in defendant in its alleged trade-mark "Beech-Nut" as applied to tobacco products.

II. (Paragraph 21 of the Answer.) Plaintiff denies that in pursuance of an unlawful policy of infringement or of threatened infringement of defendant's rights in the premises, this plaintiff with full knowledge of the fact that defendant or its predecessors had for many years manufactured and marketed tobacco products under defendant's trade-mark "Beech-Nut," manufactured and shipped or caused to be manufactured and shipped an inferior grade of cigarettes, packaged as described in the aforesaid paragraph of the counter-claim. Plaintiff denies that cigarettes so packaged were shipped into the District of New Jersey and attempted to be sold therein. Plaintiff admits that certain cigarettes made for it did not bear plaintiff's alleged label, Plaintiff's Exhibit A, but states that they did bear plaintiff's trade-mark "Beech-Nut." Plaintiff denies that such cigarettes presented such a cheap appearance that if permitted to be sold they would and will operate to the injury and damage of defendant's reputation, particularly with relation to its "Beech-Nut" tobacco products. Plaintiff admits that it filed in the United States Patent Office an application for registration of the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for cigarettes as described in the counterclaim, but denies that such application was filed in pursuance of any unlawful policy or with full knowledge of defendant's alleged prior adoption or exclusive right in the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for tobacco products. Plaintiff admits that defendant filed opposition, that it filed answer, that testimony was taken, as stated in the counterclaim, but denies that defendant has any rights in the premises.

III. (Paragraph 22 of the Answer.) Plaintiff denies that the alleged acts, threats and intention of plaintiff are in disregard of defendant's rights in the premises or that they will have the effect to and will encourage others to interfere with defendant's alleged trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for tobacco products or to disregard its rights, or that it will result in any irreparable damage and injury and loss to defendant, except such damage, injury and loss as may be involved in preventing defendant from continuing to perpetrate a fraud and injury on plaintiff and the public.

Plaintiff claims the right to merchandise packaged consumable products such as cigarettes under its own trade-mark "Beech-Nut," and particularly under its own label and autograph, used by it for many years on scores of packaged consumable products, if it should see fit at any time to do so.

Plaintiff, having therefore fully answered to the aforesaid counterclaim and to so much thereof as it is advised is material and necessary to be answered, prays that the counterclaim may be dismissed, together with the prayer therein for relief, and that plaintiff be with respect to such counterclaim hence dismissed with its costs in this behalf most wrongfully expended.

} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before L. W. DePass, a notary public within and for the County of Suffolk, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at the Chamber of Commerce building, Boston, Massachusetts, and the Touraine Hotel, Boston, Massachusetts, beginning the sixteenth day of August, A. D. 1921, at 10 o'clock A. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, attorneys for P. Lorillard Company.

HARRY S. COHEN, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Harry S. Cohen; 236 Chestnut Street, Chelsea, Massachusetts; age, 19.

Q. 2. What is your occupation?

A. Salesman.

Q. 3. Where are you employed?

A. L. K. Liggett, 15 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Q. 4. And what products do you sell?

A. Cigars, cigarettes, tobacco and that line.

Q. 5. Are you employed behind the cigar counter in the Liggett store?

A. I am.

Q. 6. Is that a drug store?

A. Drug store; yes.

Q. 7. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you sold these cigarettes over your counter? If so, please state when you first began selling them.

A. Why, we began about the early part of April, I believe.

Q. 8. 1921?

A. 1921.

Q. 9. Will you state when you began selling these cigarettes, or offering them over your counter, you heard any remarks, comments, inquiries or the like from the public over the counter about these cigarettes?

A. They would say if Beech-Nut gum is as good as the cigarettes, they would buy them.

Q. 10. Well, Mr. Cohen, which of these products were on sale first, the gum or the cigarettes?

A. The gum.

Q. 11. Was the gum a new product, or were the cigarettes a new product?

A. The cigarettes.

Q. 12. Had the public been buying the gum?

A. They were.

Q. 13. Please state whether or not Beech-Nut gum was a good seller in your store.

A. It was a good seller.

Q. 14. Was this true prior to the appearance of the cigarettes?

A. I think so.

Q. 15. Will you listen to the reading of your previous answer: "They would say if Beech-Nut gum is as good as the cigarettes they would buy them." Is that what you meant?

A. No; that was an accidental mistake. What I meant is that they would say, "If the Beech-Nut cigarettes are as good as the Beech-Nut chewing gum, then they will buy the cigarettes."

Q. 16. Please state any other remarks that you heard over the counter when the cigarettes were first offered.

A. Well, people wanted to know whether the Beech-Nut gum manufacturers were the same people that put out the cigarettes.

Q. 17. Will you state what proportion of your customers made these kind of remarks, if you can remember, when the cigarettes were first offered?

A. Well, two-thirds of the people would make them like that.

Q. 18. Did you ever have people come into your store and ask for Beech-Nut?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. And what would you do?

A. I would ask them whether they wanted the cigarettes or the gum.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 20. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) How old did you say you were, Mr. Cohen?

A. 19.

X-Q. 21. How long have you been acting as a salesman?

A. About two years.

X-Q. 22. How long have you been with L. K. Liggett & Company?

A. The same number of years.

X-Q. 23. How long have you been selling the tobacco line with Liggett?

A. About eighteen months.

X-Q. 24. Did you start in directly in the tobacco line when you went to work, or did you have some other line first?

A. Some other line.

X-Q. 25. What was that?

A. Jewelry.

X-Q. 26. Jewelry?

A. Well, that was with my father.

X-Q. 27. So when you went to work with Liggett & Company, you started right behind the cigar and tobacco counter?

A. No, I was in the soda department for a short while.

X-Q. 28. And subsequently you went to selling the tobacco line behind the counter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. Now, how many people are employed in this store where you are in Liggett's, 15 Huntington Avenue?

A. Well, there are about twelve.

X-Q. 30. And how many are there behind the cigar and tobacco counter?

A. Well, there is myself and others that help me out when I am away.

X-Q. 31. You mean relief?

A. Relief.

X-Q. 32. You say you sell all sorts of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco?

A. We do.

X-Q. 33. You are familiar with the various lines?

A. I am.

X-Q. 34. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. So far as I know, the Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 35. That is known as Lorillard's brand?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. Do you know who makes the Egyptian Deity cigarette?

A. It is the same people, I believe, or S. Anargros.

X-Q. 37. Do you sell scrap tobacco, chewing tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. What kind?

A. B. L., and Climax—plug, that is.

X-Q. 39. I show you a package of tobacco which is known as scrap tobacco and which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. Did you ever see a package of tobacco like that?

A. I have seen it, yes.

X-Q. 40. Whose tobacco is that?

A. Lorillard's.

X-Q. 41. That is known in the tobacco market as Lorillard's tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. Who makes Beech-Nut chewing gum that you sell?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company, I think. I don't know just who makes that. So far as I know it is not the same people who put out the cigarettes.

X-Q. 43. Reverting to this package of scrap tobacco, Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1, which I showed you a moment ago, is there anything on that package to indicate that it is Lorillard's?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. What is that?

A. That name on the package (indicating).

X-Q. 45. And what is that name?

A. Lorillard.

X-Q. 46. Now, I think you said, Mr. Cohen, that Beech-Nut gum was on the market before Beech-Nut cigarettes. How do you know this?

A. So far as I know.

X-Q. 47. That is simply your personal opinion?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. I think you also said that when the Beech-Nut cigarette was first put on sale in Liggett's store, at 15 Huntington Avenue, two-thirds of the customers asked if it was the same people that put out Beech-Nut cigarettes and the gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. Did you count, or keep track of the number of people that asked you that?

A. I could tell pretty plainly from the customers who would mention the fact.

X-Q. 50. How did you know that practically two-thirds of them mentioned it?

A. Practically every one that came into the store mentioned it.

X-Q. 51. You said two-thirds. How did you reach this conclusion?

A. Well, some would not say it.

X-Q. 52. Did you count them?

A. No, I didn't; it is just my estimate.

X-Q. 53. So you really don't know whether it was two-thirds or not?

A. Well, I could truthfully say it was about that number.

X-Q. 54. You didn't count them, did you?

A. No; you can't count them; you could not possibly do that, you know.

X-Q. 55. At Liggett's store, do you sell Beech-Nut gum?

A. We do.

X-Q. 56. Do you sell it personally?

A. I do.

X-Q. 57. I hand you a small package of gum, which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 2. Will you tell me what that is?

A. That is the Beech-Nut gum.

X-Q. 58. What is the color of that label?

A. Yellow.

X-Q. 59. And what is the color of the cigarette label, the background of it?

A. Why—

X-Q. 60. The Beech-Nut cigarette label, the background of it.

A. Red.

X-Q. 61. You would not confuse those two colors, would you, yellow and red?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 62. (By Mr. Hinton.) Over what counter in your store do you sell the gum?

A. The candy counter.

R-D. Q. 63. Do you sell that gum personally?

A. Well, when I relieve the candy girl, when she goes out to lunch, I hop over to the candy counter.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

(Signature waived.)

ROBERT SKENE, JR., a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, being first duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Robert Skene, Jr.; Boston, Massachusetts; 50 years of age; New England representative for Arkell & Smiths Company, Canajoharie, New York.

Q. 2. What does Arkell & Smiths do?

A. They manufacture paper and cotton sacks for flour and feed.

Q. 3. State what, if any, connection you have with the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

A. I have no direct connection with the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but Mr. Arkell, who is president of the Arkell & Smiths Company, is also president of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and I am intimately acquainted with the whole Arkell family and other officers of the Beech-Nut Packing Company and have been intimately associated with them for 25 years—these people.

Q. 4. Are you known among your friends in Boston as being in some way connected or familiar with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Everybody here, around the Chamber especially, persistently associates me with the Beech-Nut Company. They seem to think that I have something to do with it in some way, all the time.

Q. 5. By "Chamber," you mean the Chamber of Commerce?

A. Yes, Chamber of Commerce.

Q. 6. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes,

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 in this case. Have you ever seen these cigarettes before, and if so, when and where did you first see them?

A. Yes, I have seen these. I first saw them at the cigarette stand here in the Chamber of Commerce.

Q. 7. When was that?

A. In the spring of this year.

Q. 8. About what time?

A. The early part of this year.

Q. 9. Were they on sale at that stand when you first saw them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Will you please state whether you had heard anything about these cigarettes prior to the time that you actually saw them offered for sale?

A. On the floor of the Chamber quite a number of people came to me and said: "I see that your people are getting out a new cigarette, the Beech-Nut cigarette." And so many persisted in this, making this inquiry of me, "Are you getting out a new Beech-Nut cigarette," that I inquired about where they could be found and I went down to the cigar stand and got a package.

Q. 11. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you think they were made?

A. I thought it was a Beech-Nut Packing Company product.

Q. 12. What made you think that?

A. Well, the Beech-Nut hyphenated, just the same as the Beech-Nut Packing Company do, and the form of the label, and the cluster under the "Beech-Nut" and the whole color scheme, the whole general form of the label.

Q. 13. Now, you stated you went down and bought a package of these cigarettes. Then what did you do?

A. Of course, I examined it and found that the name Lorillard Company was on them.

Q. 14. And what did you then conclude, Mr. Skene?

A. So then I was not sure whether it was a Beech-Nut product or not, but I thought perhaps Lorillard might be putting it out for the Beech-Nut people, and I wrote down to Canajoharie to inquire before I gave any positive information to my friends about it one way or the other.

Q. 15. And then what happened?

A. The Beech-Nut people wrote me that it was not their product, and that they had nothing to do with it. And from that time I informed all friends who made inquiries of me, and who had spoken to me about it, that it was not our product at all.

Q. 16. You said that several of your friends had spoken to you about these cigarettes. Will you state, if you remember, and as carefully as you can, exactly what these people said to you?

A. Well, there were so many different forms that it would be hard, but generally it was "I see that the Beech-Nut people are getting out a cigarette," or, "I see that you have a new brand of cigarettes," or, "Why don't you send us some of your Beech-Nut cigarettes?"

Q. 17. Can you, Mr. Skene, give me the names of any of your friends in the Boston Chamber of Commerce, whom you can remember, who definitely made remarks of that character to you when the cigarettes came out?

A. Well, Fred Godfry—

Q. 18. Will you please also state what these people do, so far as you know?

A. Fred Godfry, John F. Lapham, Dick Pope, Warren Torrey, John King, Billy Wise—is that enough?

Q. 19. I would like to have you mention all you can.

A. Fred Lamb, and a great many others. These gentlemen are in the flour and grain business, and all of them have offices in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 20. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) I understand that you are connected with Arkell & Smiths, which in turn is connected with the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is that right?

A. No, not connected with the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 21. Explain their relation.

A. Mr. Arkell, president of the Arkell & Smiths Company, is president of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 22. Have you been using any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. Well, I have been using them along for years.

X-Q. 23. What are those products in general; how would you classify them?

A. Well, they run all the way from Beech-Nut bacon and ham to chewing gum and peanut butter and preserves and jams, and now they are making ginger ale and spaghetti—I don't know how you would class it.

X-Q. 24. Are they food products?

A. Well, yes, in a measure, but I don't know that you would call chewing gum a food product.

X-Q. 25. Do you use tobacco?

A. I do; yes.

X-Q. 26. Are you familiar with the names of any of the big tobacco companies?

A. Oh, I am with the Lorillard name and the American Tobacco Company, and Liggett.

X-Q. 27. What Liggett concern do you know?

A. I just know the Liggett concern in a general way, not especially in regard to the product.

X-Q. 28. Does your work bring you in contact with the tobacco dealers or the tobacco using public?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 29. When you examined this Beech-Nut package of cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, you found the name P. Lorillard Company on it, did you?

A. Yes, down below in small type.

X-Q. 30. Just as it is on the Beech-Nut package of cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. And you didn't find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company anywhere on that package, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 32. Have you ever examined any of the Beech-Nut Company packages?

A. Well, you mean—you don't mean the packages, you mean—

X-Q. 33. I mean the packages, the same as you looked at this, the Lorillard cigarette package.

A. You don't mean the contents of the package, you mean the outside?

X-Q. 34. Yes, the outside, or dress.

A. Oh, I have seen it so many times that its general form and style is familiar to me, that is all.

X-Q. 35. Does the name Beech-Nut Packing Company appear upon packages of goods put up by this concern?

A. I don't really know.

X-Q. 36. You never looked at a package close enough to find out?

A. No; I have not had occasion to examine them; I have always accepted their packages as Beech-Nut packages without examining them closely.

X-Q. 37. You don't know whether it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company or some other concern; is that it?

A. Well, I felt pretty fully assured that it was, that is all. I would not know from examining the name, no—just the general form of Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 38. So you might take the product of any other concern for that package so far as that name of Beech-Nut is concerned?

A. Yes, if it had Beech-Nut name and label on it, I would take it without examining it very closely.

X-Q. 39. Without ascertaining whether or not their name appeared on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. I understand you have used tobacco have you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 41. Do you use chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. If you went into a store and asked for a package of chewing gum, would you accept a package of tobacco in place of it?

A. No, I should not.

X-Q. 43. You would think a man was crazy who would do that, wouldn't you?

A. No; I might have some reason for it—for accepting it.

X-Q. 44. Supposing you wanted a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, and nothing else, would you accept a package of cigarettes in place of the chewing gum?

A. I would not accept any other package of gum, for that matter. I have often refused any other kind of chewing gum—if they tried to pass me other gums, I would not have it.

X-Q. 45. Will you just answer my question?

A. Naturally I would not take anything else in place of it, any more than I would take any other article when I asked for something else in any store.

X-Q. 46. So you never would, in your own mind, as a person of intelligence—you would never confuse tobacco with chewing gum, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 47. When you examined this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, and saw the name P. Lorillard Co. on it, didn't that indicate to you that that package was made by P. Lorillard tobacco people?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. Did you ever know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out any tobacco product?

A. No.

X-Q. 49. Did you ever see Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No; I don't recall it. I may have seen the word years ago.

X-Q. 50. Well, I show you a package of it that is in this case as P. Lorillard's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. Did you ever see that package?

A. No.

X-Q. 51. Are you related to any of these gentlemen to whom you referred as having asked you about Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir; or to any of the Beech-Nut people.

X-Q. 52. But you are employed by a concern in which Mr. Arkell is an officer, and Mr. Arkell is also an officer of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 53. Who is the Beech-Nut Packing Company representative in this section?

A. I don't know; I think his name is Hubbard; I understand his name is Hubbard, but I don't know.

X-Q. 54. So you don't handle yourself any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 55. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Skene, I wish you would state, if you can remember, after you purchased this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, and upon examination thereof, as you have testified, found the name P. Lorillard Company on there, what did you conclude?

A. Either that they were being manufactured for the Beech-Nut people by Lorillard, or being distributed by P. Lorillard Company.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 56. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Upon what did you base that conclusion?

A. Because of the practice in my business. We get out a great many brands of flour, and we put on who they are manufactured for, or distributed by. It may be that two or three men, different men, use the same flour, but this name indicates who it is distributed by, or how it is put out; but the brand is a well known brand.

R-X Q. 57. Now, just on this point, will you give an example of one such product, the name?

A. Well, take King Arthur flour, on that it says distributed by Sands, Taylor & Wood; that is a well known brand in New England, one of the most popular brands we have, and a fine flour. That flour is made by the Northwestern Consolidated Milling Company.

R-X Q. 58. Now, what other concerns distribute King Arthur flour?

A. Why, nobody; but I know it is sold by a great many people.

R-X Q. 59. And can you give me the name of a flour, for example, which is distributed under the same name by different concerns?

A. No, I can't, offhand.

R-X Q. 60. As I understand it, this flour, King Arthur, has the name of the distributor of it?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 61. What was the name?

A. Sands, Taylor & Wood.

R-X Q. 62. So Sands, Taylor & Wood have their own name on it, and they are the ones that put the flour on the market?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 63. Wouldn't you take the name on the package as the name of the party that manufactured the flour?

A. For a long time they didn't have their name on it, only Minneapolis, Minnesota, and that is where the mill was.

R-X Q. 64. Minneapolis, Minnesota, was the only name on it?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 65. And now they put their own name on?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 66. So that the name of a concern on a package would indicate the party who puts it on the market?

A. Not necessarily, no.

R-X Q. 67. Well, you saw P. Lorillard's name on this Beech-Nut cigarette, and could you possibly conceive that this was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, if their name was not on it. That is what I am trying to get at.

A. Because I knew P. Lorillard was manufacturing tobacco, but I could not conceive that he would use the Beech-Nut label.

R-X Q. 68. Then, the only thing that made you think it was manufactured by the Beech-Nut Packing Company was the words "Beech-Nut" on it?

A. The Beech-Nut, and form of label. The oval form of the label, and the cluster, and the color scheme.

R-X Q. 70. What color scheme?

A. Well, in the form of the label and the red right around it.

X-Q. 71. You mean this red background?

A. No, I mean the label itself.

R-X Q. 72. You don't mean the red background?

A. No, that is the color. I am talking about the label.

R-X Q. 73. Just the oval part?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 74. You knew that the Lorillard Company put out tobacco and cigarettes, did you not?

A. Yes; I believed they did.

R-X Q. 75. And you never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out tobacco and cigarettes?

A. No; it was a new matter, so far as I was concerned.

R-X Q. 76. I show you a sheet marked for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 3. Do you recognize that label?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 77. What is it?

A. It is a Beech-Nut label.

R-X Q. 78. Now, calling your attention to the beech-nut in the center of it, is it like the beech-nut on the Lorillard label?

A. No, but very similar, I would say.

R-X Q. 79. What is the difference?

A. Well, why, in a general way, we would call each of these a cluster, an interior cluster.

R-X Q. 80. The beech-nut is a single beech-nut, isn't it?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 81. With green leaves?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 82. Extending over it?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 83. And the Lorillard label shows just two separate beech-nuts, red and gold; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 84. And there is a red oval line around the beech-nut, isn't there?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 85. And there is no such line around the Lorillard beech-nut, is there?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 86. On the wide red band on the label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 3, you find, do you not, at each end a beech-nut imposed on three leaves?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 87. And you don't find that on the Lorillard cigarette package, do you?

A. No.

R-X Q. 88. And you find on this Beech-Nut Packing Company label, Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 3, "Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, N. Y., U. S. A.," do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 89. Do you find that on the Lorillard package?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 90. So there is quite a difference?

A. But, nevertheless, the general impression would come to anybody, especially to me, that that is a Beech-Nut label.

R-X Q. 91. But I am asking you, there are quite a few differences?

A. Yes, in these small details that you refer to.

R-X Q. 92. Did you ever know of any Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods to be put out in a label or package with red radiating lines like that—as shown by Lorillard scrap tobacco package, and marked herein Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1?

A. I don't recall it, unless it was in the peanut bar they got out. I think it had a stripe on it, something like that.

Mr. Hinton: The examination in connection with the Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1, Lorillard's Scrap Tobacco, is objected to as outside of the scope of the direct examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

ROBERT SKENE, JR.

A. W. GODFREY, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Alfred W. Godfrey, and I am mill representative, selling mill feeds and flour; my legal residence is Lowell, Mass., and my place of business is 201 Chamber of Commerce, Boston.

Q. 2. Did you give your age?

A. 44.

Q. 3. Do you trade on the floor of the Chamber of Commerce, Boston, Mr. Godfrey?

A. I do.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen those cigarettes before, and, if so, when and where did you first see them?

A. I saw them first on the counter of the cigar stand in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

Q. 5. And when was that?

A. Some time last spring, I should say. I have no definite date in mind.

Q. 6. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe that they were made?

A. It came to my mind that they were put out by the Beech-Nut people that put out all the other Beech-Nut goods that I had ever seen.

Q. 7. You may state, if you will, what it was that led you to that belief.

A. The label was such that immediately it brought to my mind the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods, manufactured at Canajoharie, New York.

Q. 8. Do you now believe that they are made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I have been informed that they were not.

Q. 9. When did you first learn that this product was not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and how did you find out?

A. Why, on seeing the package, I immediately got hold of my friend, Mr. Skene, and asked him how long they had been putting out cigarettes by the Beech-Nut people, knowing he was intimately acquainted with them, and he professed absolute ignorance of putting them out. And in due course, I don't know whether it was that day or the next day, but very soon after, I went downstairs and purchased a package of them to see what there was in them, and upon looking them over I saw Lorillard's name on it, and I think it was sometime after that, after talking with Mr. Skene about it, and asking if Lorillard were putting the cigarettes out for them, and he said he didn't know anything about it, and he came back afterwards and told me, sometime afterwards, that they were not putting them out, he had inquired; and that is how I gained my information, which I supposed was good information.

Q. 10. You used the expression in your last answer that Lorillard was putting the cigarettes out for "them." Who did you mean?

A. Why, the Beech-Nut people, the Beech-Nut Packing Company, whatever their title is, up to Canajoharie.

Q. 11. Will you please state how these cigarettes impressed you, if you remember, in respect to quality, price, and so on, in connection with the many Beech-Nut products with which you have been familiar?

A. Well, I might state it in this way; that my knowledge of the Beech-Nut products had left the impression in my mind that they put out a strictly high-grade class of goods, and you never would expect to buy a Beech-Nut product at a cheap price; that you paid the full value indicated by the high-priced product that they put out. And I noticed they were selling the lowest-priced cigarettes for the number of cigarettes put out that I knew of. In other words, they were selling for 15 cents cigarettes which generally, to my mind, was being sold by everybody else at 20 cents. I won't state it was the cheapest cigarette, but that was the impression that came into my mind. In other words, that they were not the same priced cigarette, according to numbers delivered, that other people were asking 20 cents for the same number of supposedly the same grade of cigarette.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 12. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Are you familiar with the products put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. To some extent.

X-Q. 13. Will you name those products?

A. You mean, can I name all the products that they put out?

X-Q. 14. Yes.

A. No, I can't name them all, because I would probably slip some that I have known about that I don't remember now, but I do know that they put out food products and chewing gum, and such things as that. I have seen them constantly in the different stores. To name them all over, I would not attempt to name all I have seen.

X-Q. 15. Did you ever know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out tobacco products?

A. I never heard of it, or thought of it until I saw this label.

X-Q. 16. So you never knew they put out a tobacco product?

A. No; I didn't know all they put anyway.

X-Q. 17. But you didn't know that anyway?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. If you went into a store and wanted a package of chewing gum, would you take a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of that gum?

A. No sane man would.

X-Q. 19. When you examined the cigarette package, Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, you found the name P. Lorillard Co. on it, didn't you?

A. May I ask you what time I examined it—just now?

X-Q. 20. No, when you said you made your examination of it and bought it and looked at it.

A. I didn't say I bought it and looked at it. I said I saw it, I saw the Beech-Nut label on it. I definitely stated I didn't buy it until afterwards.

X-Q. 21. When you did buy it, you examined it carefully, didn't you?

A. Because I had the question raised whether it was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but I don't know when it came into my mind.

X-Q. 22. When you made your examination, then, you found the name P. Lorillard Co. on it?

A. When I read the package all over I found the name of P. Lorillard Co. on it.

X-Q. 23. You knew that P. Lorillard Co. was a large tobacco manufacturer?

A. I simply knew that P. Lorillard Co. had been in the tobacco business, but in regard to their size, I couldn't state.

X-Q. 24. It is a well known tobacco concern, is it not?

A. Not very well known to me, but I knew that name had been in the tobacco business, because my father sold tobacco at one time years ago; that is how I knew, not because of its market value in the trade.

X-Q. 25. Do you smoke?

A. Very limited.

X-Q. 26. Do you smoke?

A. Mostly cigarettes; I never smoke cigars.

X-Q. 27. What brand of cigarettes do you smoke?

A. Well, I smoke several different brands, mostly 20 in the package, such as Fatimas, Lucky Strike, and any of those in that class, Chesterfields, and any of those like that. I am not a crank on cigarettes, or who makes them.

X-Q. 28. What do you pay for Lucky Strike cigarettes?

A. 25 cents.

X-Q. 29. How many in a package?

A. Twenty cigarettes, if my memory is correct.

X-Q. 30. Do you know what Piedmonts sell for?

A. No, I don't. I believe that I bought one package of Piedmonts once, and didn't like them.

X-Q. 31. Do you know what Mecca cigarettes sell for?

A. I know that they were at one time put up in smaller packages and sold for less money; I just know of it, I never had a package in my hand.

X-Q. 32. Do you know what Helmar sells for?

A. The what?

X-Q. 33. Helmar.

A. Why, 20 or 25 cents, and ten in a box, isn't it?

X-Q. 34. What do the Egyptian Deities sell for?

A. The what?

X-Q. 35. The Egyptian Deities.

A. I don't know.

X-Q. 36. Do you know what Sweet Caporals sell for?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. So, then, as a matter of fact, in this question of comparison you made, you can't really say how the price of Beech-Nut cigarettes compares with the other cigarettes on the market?

A. I didn't ever say so.

X-Q. 38. I ask you; I ask you now.

A. I distinctly stated that I didn't compare it with everything in the market. I compared it with those that I considered a similar package.

X-Q. 39. Then you don't know that the cigarettes I mentioned, which you said you didn't know the price of, you don't know how those brands compare with the Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you?

A. I don't know how they compare with them enough to make a definite statement of price. I do have an impression in my mind as to where they would be classified with the other cigarettes.

X-Q. 40. You mean with the other cigarettes that you know of?

A. That you have mentioned.

X-Q. 41. How would you say that the quality, price and other factors of the Beech-Nut cigarette compares with the Sweet Caporal cigarette?

A. The smoking value or price value?

X-Q. 42. The price and quality.

A. I think I told you I didn't know the price of Sweet Caporal, didn't I?

X-Q. 43. Did you ever see the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Never.

X-Q. 44. The Beech-Nut scrap tobacco put out by Lorillard?

A. I never saw it.

X-Q. 45. You never saw a package like that before?

(Mr. Cavanagh refers to Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1.)

A. No, I never saw it.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: Deposition closed.

ALFRED W. GODFREY.

ARTHUR A. SKINNER, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, residence and occupation?

A. Arthur A. Skinner; 38 years old; residence, Reading, Mass.; occupation, grain broker.

Q. 2. Do you trade on the floor of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Skinner?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen these cigarettes before, and if so, when and where did you first see them?

A. Why, I first saw them, probably, Oh, somewhere in the spring. In fact, I bought a package downstairs.

Q. 4. When you first saw these cigarettes by whom did you believe they were made?

A. Why, I assumed that they were made by the Beech-Nut people, the gum people, the people that make candy and gum, and so forth.

Q. 5. You may state, if you will, what led you to that belief.

A. Why, because I had seen so much of the Beech-Nut gum, and if you knew the gum you would naturally think the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people.

Q. 6. Did you continue to believe that the Beech-Nut people put out these cigarettes after you bought them?

A. Why, yes; I never knew any different. I didn't know who made them, I assumed they were made by the same people, so far as I knew.

Q. 7. When were you first informed that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, I never knew any different; in fact, I guess you were the first one that told me.

Q. 8. And when was that?

A. That was day before yesterday.

Mr. Hinton: That is all the direct examination.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 9. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Do you smoke, Mr. Skinner?

A. Yes

X-Q. 10. Do you smoke Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Why, I have smoked them. I smoke the Lucky Strike mostly. I smoke anything, for that matter, pipe and cigars.

X-Q. 11. About how often have you smoked these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Why, I don't think I ever bought but two packages. When they first came out a fellow had them on the floor, and I bought a package—in fact, two packages.

X-Q. 12. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard people?

A. The tobacco people, yes.

X-Q. 13. How long have you known those people?

A. Oh, I couldn't say off-hand. I have seen their ads, you know; I would not know, a number of years, possibly.

X-Q. 14. You know that they are well known tobacco manufacturers?

A. Why, I have seen their names times enough on things.

X-Q. 15. Mr. Skinner, if you went into a store and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you be confused or deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. If I went for gum?

X-Q. 16. Yes.

A. I would expect to get gum.

X-Q. 17. You would not take Beech-Nut cigarettes, or any tobacco product in place of the gum?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 18. When you purchased the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes like this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, to which you have referred, did you examine the wrapper of it?

A. No, I took them out and smoked them.

X-Q. 19. Will you examine that and tell me what that name is on there?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 20. Well, that is not the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, is it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. Will you examine that package to see if you can find the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on it?

A. I do not find it.

X-Q. 22. So when you purchased those cigarettes, after you examined them, you would have seen that name, P. Lorillard Co. on it, would you not?

A. Oh, yes, if I examined them closely, but I didn't notice the cigarettes. I am not particularly interested in who makes them. I open them and smoke them. Of course, I don't know who makes the Fatimas, or the Camel, but I do know who makes Lucky Strike, because I smoke so many of them.

X-Q. 23. You never really take the trouble to examine them?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Mr. Hinton: I have no redirect examination.

Deposition closed.

ARTHUR A. SKINNER.

JOHN J. KING, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. J. J. King; 707 Chamber of Commerce, Boston, Mass.; grain broker; age, about 27.

Q. 2. Do you trade on the floor of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Mr. King?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, and ask you whether or not you ever saw these cigarettes before, and, if so, when and where did you first see them?

A. I have seen them at the Chamber of Commerce cigar stand.

Q. 4. When was that?

A. Oh, it was some little time ago, I don't know just how long. To tell you frankly, I never paid much attention to them anyway.

Q. 5. When you first saw these cigarettes by whom did you believe that they were made?

A. I understood they were a Beech-Nut product. The only Beech-Nut product I knew was bacon, and so forth.

Q. 6. Will you tell us what you mean by a Beech-Nut product?

A. Why, something put out by the people who put out peanut butter, bacon, and so forth.

Q. 7. Please state, if you know, what it was that led you to that belief.

A. Why, I simply thought that. I only knew that there was only one Beech-Nut Company, and that was the people that put out the other stuff.

Q. 8. Did you ever smoke any of these cigarettes?

A. One or two.

Q. 9. When did you first find out, if you did find out, that these cigarettes were not the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

Mr. Cavanagh: That is objected to.

Mr. Hinton: Question withdrawn.

Q. 10. Do you now believe that these cigarettes are the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: Objected to as leading.

Q. 11. When did you first find that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Upon talk with Colonel Skene, about two months ago.

Q. 12. Is Colonel referred to Robert Skene, Jr.?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Did he give you this information before or after you had smoked these Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you remember?

A. I believe it was after.

Q. 14. Did you subsequently purchase any of these cigarettes?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 15. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Have you ever purchased any Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 16. Never bought any?

A. Not of the Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 17. Did you ever carefully examine that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. Why, never carefully, no. I have seen them at a distance, that is all.

X-Q. 18. You find the name, P. Lorillard Co. on that package, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. They are big tobacco people, are they not?

A. I understand so.

X-Q. 21. Well, you know they are in the tobacco business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Do you find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package?

A. No, sir; I don't see it anywhere.

X-Q. 23. So, if you had looked at this package you would have considered that it was put up by Lorillard Company, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. If you went into a store and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, could you be deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Probably not; unless I didn't examine the package closely.

X-Q. 25. Well, I mean if you wanted chewing gum, if you wanted to chew some gum at that time, and wanted a package of chewing gum, would you take a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of it?

A. Oh, no.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 26. (By Mr. Hinton.) If you went to a store and wanted to buy Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you take Beech-Nut mints, or Beech-Nut ham, or Beech-Nut bacon in place of it?

A. I might take the mints, I don't think I would take the ham.

Mr. Hinton: Nothing further.

Deposition closed.

JOHN J. KING.

RICHARD E. POPE, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Richard E. Pope; 44; Marblehead, Mass.; grain merchant.

Q. 2. Where is your business, Mr. Pope?

A. In the Chamber of Commerce.

Q. 3. Do you trade on the floor of the Boston Chamber of Commerce?

A. Yes, constantly.

Q. 4. Mr. Pope, I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, and ask you if you have ever seen these cigarettes before, and if so, when and where did you first see them?

A. Well, I would not remember the exact date. I bought some here in the building, I remember, when they were first put on sale.

Q. 5. Could you tell me the approximate date?

A. Well, three or four months ago, I guess.

Q. 6. Was it in the spring or summer?

A. It was in the spring.

Q. 7. Would you be able to say it was early or late spring?

A. No, I could not.

Q. 8. When you first saw these cigarettes, Mr. Pope, by whom did you believe they were put out?

A. The people who put out Beech-Nut bacon—I don't know who they are.

Q. 9. Did you buy a package of these cigarettes with that belief?

A. I did, yes, naturally.

Q. 10. Do you now believe that the people who put out Beech-Nut bacon put out these cigarettes?

A. No, I know they don't.

Q. 11. When and how, if you remember, were you first informed that these people did not put out these cigarettes?

A. Why, in conversation with Mr. Skene, he told me that they did not make them, which was a surprise to me.

Q. 12. Is the Mr. Skene you have referred to, Mr. Robert Skene, Jr.?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Who does business in this building, and on the floor?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. Mr. Pope, will you state, if you are able to, why you believed that this was a product of the same people who put out the bacon, if you remember?

A. Well, because of the extreme popularity of the Beech-Nut bacon, it was a likely brand to attract popular attention. Therefore I supposed they were using it with a cigarette, as they had with their other products. It was a perfectly natural conclusion, I should say, that was.

Q. 15. Are you familiar at all with the label or dress of Beech-Nut products, such as the bacon, and other products?

A. I don't know that I am; no, I am not. I don't carry them about in my pocket as I would cigarettes, naturally. Well, I do know them in a way. If I saw Beech-Nut bacon in a shop, I would recognize it without reading the label.

Q. 16. Are you familiar with the general appearance of the Beech-Nut label; I don't mean the technical details of the label, but the general appearance of the label, sufficiently so you would recognize it if you saw it?

A. I could not describe it.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

—in fact, I was rather friendly with him, he used to come out to the house to spend the evening, and I most always took lunch with him two or three times during the week he was here, and he sent me down a case of Beech-Nut products, and, of course, I naturally was interested in the Beech-Nut products, more so than others would be on account of knowing him as well as I did.

Q. 7. You stated that when you first saw these cigarettes you believed that they were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I believed they were sold by them, yes.

Q. 8. Yes. Did you receive that impression from looking at the cigarettes?

A. No, I received the impression from the brand entirely. I didn't look at the package to see who made it; in fact, I didn't know for quite a while.

Q. 9. Do you now believe that these cigarettes are put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I don't believe they are now, because I have been told they were not.

Q. 10. Do you remember who it was that told you they were not?

A. Why, no; I don't know whether I found out by looking at the package, or through Colonel Skene. I had more or less jollying with him about them—about everyone did who knew him—and I can't say exactly when I knew.

Q. 11. Is this Mr. Skene you refer to Mr. Robert Skene, Jr., who does business in this building?

A. Yes, he is.

Q. 12. What kind of jollying was this that you refer to?

A. Why, we merely mentioned the fact that they had gone into the tobacco business, and they were not making a very good cigarette, something like that. Perhaps it started in a jolly, with some truth to it.

Q. 13. If I understand you, you are not able to state now whether Mr. Skene advised you or not?

A. Oh, he has advised me, but whether he advised me first, I couldn't say; I don't remember.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 14. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Do you know the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. What kind of business are they in?

A. In the tobacco business, manufacturers of both smoking tobacco and chewing tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 16. You have known that concern for years, haven't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. Whose name appears on that package, Plaintiff's Exhibit 1?

A. Lorillard's name appears on it.

X-Q. 18. That would indicate to you that that was their package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out any tobacco product?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. You never heard of their doing so?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store and wanted a package of chewing gum, to chew at that time, could you be deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, if you asked for chewing gum?

A. Not if I asked for chewing gum, no.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Recess until 2:30 P. M.

Deposition closed.

JOHN F. LAPHAM.

Afternoon session.

THOMAS F. MALONEY, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Thomas F. Maloney; 61 White street, Roxbury, Mass.; salesman.

Q. 2. Your age.

A. 28.

Q. 3. Where do you do business?

A. Chamber of Commerce.

Q. 4. Chamber of Commerce Building, Boston, Massachusetts?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you seen these cigarettes before, and if so, will you please state when and where you first saw them?

A. Why, I saw the cigarettes in the hands of another fellow at one time, and the next time I bought cigarettes I bought them myself. I don't know exactly at what store.

Q. 6. When you saw and bought these cigarettes, by whom did you believe they were put up?

A. Why, not having any interest in it, I naturally associated the name of Beech-Nut with the ham products, and so forth.

Q. 7. Did you continue to believe this after you had bought and smoked the cigarettes?

A. Surely; I didn't give it any thought.

Q. 8. Do you now believe that these cigarettes are put up by the same people who put out the gum?

A. No, I know differently than that.

Q. 9. Will you state how and when you first learned that these cigarettes were not put out by the people who put out the gum?

A. The first I knew of it was when you came around the other day and told me about it. I don't know what that day was, Thursday or Friday—Thursday, I think it was.

Mr. Hinton: I think that is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 10. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Where did you buy these Beech-Nut cigarettes, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. At a smoke store; I think it was on State street, I am not sure. It might have been down on the counter here in this building.

X-Q. 11. Did you examine the package to see if the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name appeared on it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 12. Then you didn't deliberately buy this as a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I did not, no.

X-Q. 13. Will you tell me whose name does appear on that?

A. P. Lorillard Co. I never heard of them before I saw it there—P. Lorillard Co., no.

X-Q. 14. If you went into a store, Mr. Maloney, and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you be deceived or confused into taking a package of cigarettes for a package of chewing gum?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 15. By what?

A. Deceived? I would not be deceived, surely not.

X-Q. 16. You would know the difference between tobacco and chewing gum?

A. Surely, yes.

X-Q. 17. And between cigarettes and chewing gum?

A. Sure I would.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

THOMAS F. MALONEY.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto. through their respective counsel, that if Mr. GEORGE CATLIN were called he would testify as follows:

My name is George Catlin, and I am a member of the firm of Catlin & Company, brokers. I trade on the floor of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. I first saw Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, on the cigar stand in the Chamber of Commerce Building. Boston, early in the spring of 1921; when I first saw these cigarettes I believed that they were made by the Beech-Nut people, the same people that make the other Beech-Nut products, like the ham, chewing gum, and so forth. I never bought a package of these cigarettes, but have smoked them when my friends had them. I continued to believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut people until I was told, on August 12, 1921, by Mr. Hinton, that they were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. My reason for believing that these cigarettes were the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company was the name "Beech-Nut," and the appearance of the package.

On cross-examination it is agreed that he would testify as follows:

As above stated, I have never purchased any of these cigarettes, but have smoked some given to me by my friends. I did not examine the package, and therefore I didn't know that the name, "P. Lorillard Co." appeared thereon, as I now see by examining this package, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. If I went into a store and asked the salesman for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, I would not be confused or deceived into accepting a package of cigarettes like this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, in the place and stead of a package of chewing gum.

W. G. TORREY, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. W. G. Torrey; 509 Chamber of Commerce Building; residence, 56 Crescent avenue, Revere, Massachusetts; occupation, miller representative; age, 49.

Q. 2. Is the Chamber of Commerce you refer to the Chamber of Commerce in Boston, Massachusetts?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Do you trade on the floor of the Boston Chamber of Commerce?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut No. 1. Have you ever seen this cigarette before? If so, when and where did you first see them?

A. Why, I think I first saw them probably at the cigar stand on the street floor of the Chamber of Commerce.

Q. 5. When was that?

A. That I cannot say, some time last year, as I remember.

Q. 6. Do you mean during the year 1920?

A. I should say during the year 1920; it might have been before that—just as soon as they came out, I know, and were for sale, I saw them.

Q. 7. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe that they were put out?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company, Arkell & Smiths Company—we say Arkell & Smiths, because they are familiar to us, thinking they are the same concern that handle the Beech-Nut lines.

Q. 8. You have referred to the Beech-Nut products. Will you give an illustration of what you mean by Beech-Nut products?

A. Why, we have a number of them that we use at home; I guess Beech-Nut bacon is one, and—I can't say right off-hand what they are; we have different things; I think they are jellies and jams, and things of that sort, if they make them.

Q. 9. Will you state, if you can remember, and if you know, why you believed that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company when you saw them?

A. They are the only people that I ever connected the name with.

Q. 10. Have you a general familiarity with the label which has appeared on various products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Did the dress of this package of cigarettes, by dress, it's general appearance, have anything to do with your believing that it was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. The name was the first thing that led me to think it was theirs, because I never connected the name with any other concern than the Beech-Nut people in Canajoharie. I have traveled through there many times and have seen their sign, and knew the members of the concern.

Q. 12. The last question is repeated.

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Will you explain what you mean?

A. Well, the brand on the cigarettes led me to believe that it was one of the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 14. Will you tell me, please, Mr. Torrey, whether you now believe that these cigarettes are a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I do not.

Q. 15. Will you state, if you can remember, when and how you first found out that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, I think after buying packages of them I discovered some tobacco company's name on the package, and, as I recall, I spoke of the matter to Mr. Skene, who represents Arkell & Smiths here, who are the same people as the Beech-Nut people, I spoke to him about it—I don't know that he knew it at the time until we talked the matter over, that there was such a cigarette on the market, and then I learned it had nothing to do with the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 16. Did Mr. Skene tell you this, do you remember?

A. In conversation with him, I think he told me that they didn't.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 17. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You say you have got packages of these cigarettes?

A. When they were first on sale here.

X-Q. 18. When you examined the package, what name did you find on it?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Mr. Hinton: Witness examines package before answering the question.

X-Q. 19. What did that indicate to you?

A. That P. Lorillard were the manufacturers.

X-Q. 20. You don't find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store and asked for a package of Beech-Nut Packing Company's chewing gum, would you be confused or deceived into taking a package of these Lorillard cigarettes for the chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. You consider them an entirely different article?

A. Why, I would not accept these cigarettes for chewing gum, if that is what you mean.

X-Q. 23. Yes, that is what I mean.

A. No.

X-Q. 24. Before you saw these cigarettes you never knew that the Beech-Nut Packing Company put out any tobacco product, did you?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 25. (By Mr. Hinton.) Do you smoke Camel cigarettes?

A. Occasionally.

R-D. Q. 26. Can you tell me what is written on the package of Camel cigarettes, underneath the picture of the camel?

A. No.

R-D. Q. 27. Have you smoked the Fatima cigarette?

A. Yes; smoking one now.

R-D. Q. 28. Can you tell me what is written on the bottom of the package of Fatima cigarettes?

A. Nothing but the name "Fatima," I think, and the appearance of the package.

R-D. Q. 29. Mr. Torrey, I show you a package of Camel cigarettes, on which appears in bold-faced type, certain printing underneath the picture of the camel. Will you tell me which appears the most conspicuous to you, that bold-faced printing, or the name "P. Lorillard Co.," and on Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, as that name shows through the wax paper wrapper?

A. Will you repeat that question?

R-D. Q. 30. The last question is repeated.

A. The printing on the package of Camels. The reason I asked to have it repeated, I thought you asked me about the name of the makers of it.

R-D. Q. 31. Now, will you examine a package of Fatima cigarettes, which you have just pulled out of your pocket; do you find the name of the manufacturer at the bottom of this cigarette package?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 32. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Comparing this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit 1, with the glasé wrapper removed, doesn't the words "P. Lorillard Co." appear to you just plainly on that package as the printing on the Camel package of cigarettes?

A. No.

R-X Q. 33. Then, in your opinion, the contrast of black on red is as distinct as brown upon yellow; is that right?

A. The printing at the bottom on the package of Camel cigarettes is much clearer, to me, than the printing on the bottom of the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

R-X Q. 34. But you have no trouble in reading that name, "P. Lorillard Co.," on there, have you?

A. No.

Deposition closed.

W. G. TORREY.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, as follows:

That if Mr. W. J. BUCKLEY were called that he would testify as follows:

I am of lawful age, and am employed by the Southworth Company, brokers, who have offices here in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Boston, Massachusetts.

I first saw cigarettes similar to Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1 on the cigar stand in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Boston, Massachusetts; subsequently I remember that my friend, Thomas Maloney, who is employed in the same building, bought a package of these cigarettes and he had them on the table at lunch. I smoked some of the cigarettes. When I first saw the Beech-Nut cigarette, and when I smoked them, I believed that they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people who make the ham, bacon, chewing gum, and other products. I continued to believe that these cigarettes were the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until Mr. Hinton told me, on August 12, 1921, that they were not.

And on cross-examination it is agreed that the witness will testify as follows:

That I had no discussion with Mr. Maloney or anyone else as to whether or not these Beech-Nut cigarettes, like Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company or not; I did not pay any particular attention to the package, but now that it is called to my attention, I see that the words P. Lorillard Co. appear upon this Beech-Nut package of cigarettes (Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1), and I do not find anywhere on the package the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I have not myself purchased any of these Beech-Nut cigarettes.

If I went into a store and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, I would not be confused or deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, taking it for or accepting it in the place and stead of a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum.

MARGARET M. HUNT, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, residence and occupation.

A. Margaret M. Hunt, 662 Columbia Road, Dorchester, Massachusetts.

Q. 2. And you are of legal age?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. What is your occupation?

A. Clerk here at the cigar stand.

Q. 4. This cigar stand is in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Boston, Massachusetts?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Do you sell over the counter here cigarettes similar to Beech-Nut Exhibit 1, which I now show you, and if so, how long have you sold them?

A. Yes; I could not really state how long we have had these cigarettes. Did you say they came out in April?

Q. 6. Would it be the spring or summer of 1921, or what?

A. You better make it in April. I don't think we have had them any longer than that time.

Q. 7. When you first sold these cigarettes, by whom did you believe they were made?

A. Why, I thought the Beech-Nut people put them out.

Q. 8. When and how did you first find out, if you found out, that the Beech-Nut people did not put them out?

A. I asked Mr. Steare about them, and he said, "No, they don't put them out." That is all.

Q. 9. When you first sold these cigarettes over the counter here, did you hear any remarks or inquiries from people over the counter, if you can recall?

A. No, I just passed them out, that is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 10. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Do you have anything to do with the purchasing of the goods here?

A. No, Mr. Schroder does that. I don't do the buying at all. Mr. Schroder does all the buying.

X-Q. 11. Will you tell me what name is on that package of cigarettes (showing witness package of cigarettes)?

A. What name is on there?

X-Q. 12. Yes.

A. "P. Lorillard Co.," not and company, just "P. Lorillard Co."

X-Q. 13. You never took P. Lorillard Co.'s cigarettes for any product of the Beech-Nut Company, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. If a person came and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you try to sell him a package of Lorillard cigarettes?

A. We don't do that at all; we give them what they ask for.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 15. (By Mr. Hinton.) When you were questioned by Mr. Cavanagh when you were handed this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, did you make out the name yourself, or did you ask somebody else here to help you read it?

A. I just asked Mr. Schroder, and he said it was "P. Lorillard Co."

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 16. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) When you spoke about the date when you first got these cigarettes here, you asked Mr. Hinton what the date was?

A. Yes, because I didn't buy them, you know. I don't do any of the buying here at all, and I can't recall just when we got them in here.

Mr. Hinton: The record shows that I certainly did not tell the witness anything during the examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

MARGARET M. HUNT.

Further taking of depositions adjourned to Wednesday, August 17, 1921, at 10 o'clock A. M.

BOSTON, MASS., 10 A. M., Wednesday, Aug. 17, 1921.

Met pursuant to adjournment.

LEO LEWIS, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. What is your name?

A. Leo Lewis.

Q. 2. Please state your name, residence and occupation.

A. Leo Lewis; home address, 9 Dewey street, Roxbury, Mass.; business address, 42 Huntington avenue, Boston; occupation, cigar clerk.

Q. 3. That is, Huntington avenue, Boston, Mass.?

A. That is Boston, yes.

Q. 4. And what kind of a store are you a clerk in?

A. Cigar store.

Q. 5. That is located at the Huntington address that you just gave?

A. 42 Huntington avenue.

Q. 6. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. State whether or not you are selling these cigarettes over the counter, and if so, how long you have sold them.

A. Why, I have been selling Beech-Nut cigarettes ever since they have been on the market, that is, some time in March or April. I don't know just when they came out, but ever since they have been on the market.

Q. 7. That is, March or April, 1921?

A. 1921; yes, sir.

Q. 8. Will you state when you first saw these cigarettes and first sold them over the counter, by whom you believed they were made?

A. Why, I believed they were made by the Beech-Nut Products.

Q. 9. That is, the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: I object; it is leading.

Q. 10. How long did you continue to believe this, and how were you first advised differently, if at all?

A. Why, about the first or second day—it was either the first or second day that I was selling them, the salesman from the Lorillard Company came in; of course, I knew him well, the salesman, and he had the cigarettes, and of course he gave me a package of cigarettes. Of course that is when I knew they were Lorillard cigarettes, either the first or second day, the second day, I think—we had just got them in, and he came the next day.

Q. 11. Had you sold these over the counter before this salesman came in?

A. Yes, I had.

Q. 12. Had you in the first of your selling these cigarettes over the counter heard comments or remarks from the public over the counter about these cigarettes; if so, will you please state what those remarks or comments were?

A. Why, yes; when they first came out, at the start, they asked me if the cigarette was as good as the gum. In other words, if the cigarettes were as good as the gum, they were pretty good.

Q. 13. How frequently did you hear remarks of that character?

A. Oh, why, pretty near every day; that is, for about two or three weeks, that is, when the cigarette was new, when I was pushing the cigarette.

Q. 14. Well, what I want to get at, Mr. Lewis, is whether you heard a good many of these remarks, or a few, or what?

A. Yes, I have heard a good many of these remarks.

Q. 15. Did people ever come into your store and say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. And what did you do then?

A. Why, I often asked them if they wanted the gum or the cigarettes. As the cigarette was new, I didn't know what they wanted.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 17. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) How long have you been in the cigar store business—the tobacco business?

A. A year ago last June.

X-Q. 18. Are you in business for yourself, or do you work for somebody else?

A. Somebody else.

X-Q. 19. What is the name of the concern?

A. Schryder Segar Company.

X-Q. 20. Where is that store located?

A. 42 Huntington avenue, Boston.

X-Q. 21. How many men are employed in that store?

A. Two; that is, myself and another man—oh, by the company, do you mean?

X-Q. 22. No, where you work.

A. Two men, myself and another one.

X-Q. 23. How large is that store there, a large store?

A. Why, it is about as large as this room here, I should think.

X-Q. 24. Is it a corner store?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. In the middle of the block?

A. Well, yes, in the middle of the block, yes; where the Hotel Oxford is.

X-Q. 26. Is it a residential neighborhood or business section?

A. Why, it is residential and business.

X-Q. 27. It is not like the center of Boston?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. It is more of a residential neighborhood?

A. It is more of a residential neighborhood.

X-Q. 29. You say you have been in business over a year?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. I presume you have made some study of the various concerns in the tobacco business?

A. Some of them, yes.

X-Q. 31. Would you name some of the larger tobacco manufacturers?

A. Why, the American Tobacco Company is about the largest, I think.

X-Q. 32. What other concerns?

A. Schenasi Brothers; and there is J. P. Lorillard, if I am not mistaken.

X-Q. 33. What other concerns? Did you ever hear of Liggett & Myers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Did you ever hear of R. J. Reynolds & Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 35. What cigarette does Reynolds put out?

A. Camels.

X-Q. 36. What cigarette does Liggett & Myers put out?

A. They put out Condax cigarettes.

X-Q. 37. What others?

A. I think they put out Fatimas and Chesterfields.

X-Q. 38. What cigarette does American Tobacco Company manufacture?

A. He puts out "111." He puts out the Pall Mall.

X-Q. 39. What cigarette does the Lorillard Company put out?

A. Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 40. What else?

A. Murads.

X-Q. 41. What else?

A. I don't know; I am not sure whether they make the Helmars or not.

X-Q. 42. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Would you tell me what name that has on there?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 43. Is that the J. P. Lorillard Company you meant when you named one of the big tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. When this cigarette first came to your attention, or reached your store, did you notice the name on it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. You didn't take the trouble to examine the package?

A. No, I don't think I did.

X-Q. 46. If you had examined that package, would you have known it was not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. If I had examined it, yes.

X-Q. 47. You don't find the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it, do you?

A. No, I don't find it on it.

X-Q. 48. But you do find "P. Lorillard Co." on there?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. And that indicates to you that it is a product of P. Lorillard Company, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 50. Did you ever sell anybody Beech-Nut chewing gum, made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, for and in the stead, or in the place of the Beech-Nut cigarette made by P. Lorillard Company?

A. No; I never sold chewing gum in the place of cigarettes.

X-Q. 51. If a man came into your place and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, you would not try to sell him a package of Lorillard's cigarettes?

A. No, certainly not.

X-Q. 52. Do you think a man would be crazy to do that?

A. Why, a man would be crazy, who was in the tobacco business.

X-Q. 53. I hand you a package which is in this case, a package of scrap tobacco which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. Do you recognize that package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. Have you sold that tobacco?

A. I do.

X-Q. 55. Is that a good seller?

A. It is.

X-Q. 56. Whose tobacco is that; who makes it?

A. Why, on the package it says, "P. Lorillard Co."

X-Q. 57. How do you know, by the name of the package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 58. You have sold that since you have been in the business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 59. You would not think that the Beech-Nut Packing Company made that tobacco, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 60. I show you a carton, or a package, and ask you if you recognize that.

A. I do.

X-Q. 61. Will you tell me what that is?

A. That is made by Lorillard; is that what you mean?

X-Q. 62. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: The package submitted to the witness, which is a sealed carton, "Lorillard Beech-Nut Perfect Cigarettes," is offered in evidence, and is marked Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 4.

X-Q. 63. You would not take that package to be any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's product, would you?

A. I would not take it to be after I knew, but, as I said before, I didn't know what they were.

X-Q. 64. I mean that package now.

A. Oh, now, no.

X-Q. 65. And you saw that name Lorillard on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 66. Did you ever have any customer come into your store and say, "I want a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company"?

A. No, I don't reall it just in that way.

X-Q. 67. And if any customer did ask you that question, you would not try to sell him Lorillard's cigarettes, if he wanted a cigarette of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, no. I would tell him who they were made by, if they did.

X-Q. 68. Yes. The Lorillard salesman that calls at your store, who is he?

A. I can't recall his name.

X-Q. 69. Can you describe him?

A. Yes; I only knew that he was head fellow from out of town; he don't belong here at all. I think he came from New York; he is a big, heavy, stout fellow—big, stout fellow.

X-Q. 70. You don't recall his name?

A. He is the head—I believe he is the head of the whole organization. I believe he is from New York.

X-Q. 71. You have never made an attempt to sell Lorillard's products in the place of Beech-Nut Packing Company products, have you?

A. Never.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 72. (By Mr. Hinton.) Do you remember, Mr. Lewis, when you first observed the name Lorillard on Beech-Nut scrap tobacco which was shown you this morning by Mr. Cavanagh in cross-examination?

A. Do I remember? Just what do you mean, the name?

R-D. Q. 73. Do you remember when you first noticed the name Lorillard on Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. I just noticed it this morning, today.

R-D. Q. 74. Just when Mr. Cavanagh showed you this package?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 75. (Mr. Cavanagh.) You never sold that package believing you were selling the Beech-Nut Packing Company's product, did you?

A. Why, I didn't give it a thought, that way; I never have. I never took particular notice.

R-X Q. 76. You sold it as a tobacco product, did you?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 77. And you had the big cartons in the store filled with these small packages, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 78. And they have printing all over them?

A. We don't get the big cartons up there. You see the store I work in buys through wholesalers, jobbers. In other words, when we order for our store we get small packages.

R-X Q. 79. Packages of this size?

A. No; there are two dozen, I think in a little square carton.

R-X Q. 80. Who do you buy your tobacco from?

A. From Berrenger-Hanauer Company.

R-X Q. 81. So you don't buy direct from the manufacturer?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 82. You simply get it from a jobber, a wholesaler?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 83. If you took the trouble to look at that package you would know it was a Lorillard product, wouldn't you?

A. If I had, yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: I haven't any more. That is all, Mr. Lewis.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

R. W. BLANCHARD, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. R. W. Blanchard; age, 30; residence, 1 Valley Road, Swampscott, Massachusetts; salesman.

Q. 2. For whom are you employed, Mr. Blanchard?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 3. How long have you been employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and what did you do before that?

A. I have been employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company since February, 1, 1921. Previous to that I sold tobacco and cigars.

Q. 4. What territory do you cover for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Essex County, Massachusetts.

Q. 5. What towns does that include, big towns?

A. That includes Lynn, Salem, Beverly, Peabody, Lawrence, Haverhill and Gloucester.

Q. 6. I show you a package of cigarettes which are in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you seen these cigarettes before?

A. I have.

Q. 7. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe that they were put out?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 8. State, if you remember, what you did when you first saw the cigarettes.

A. I inquired, and I found out that they were made by P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 9. Why did you make these inquiries?

A. Because I was having so many questions asked me as to whether they were made by my concern or not, and I wanted to find out for my own information.

Q. 10. When these cigarettes first came out in this territory, did you hear any comments or remarks, or inquiries, or the like, in the course of your work for the Beech-Nut Packing Company about these cigarettes? If so, will you please state what they were?

A. I had innumerable inquiries as to the cigarette. Dozens asked me when we came out with a cigarette; others asked what we were coming out with next, and a lot of people have said to me, "If your cigarette is as good as your chewing gum, it ought to be a good seller."

Q. 11. Will you give me an instance of remarks that you have heard by people about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I can state an incident that happened in Lawrence, Mass.

Q. 12. How long ago?

A. About six weeks ago.

Q. 13. Please state the incident.

A. I entered a grocery store in Lawrence, Mass., and shortly after my entering the store a gentleman came in and inquired if they had marmalade. The clerk reached up on the shelf and took down a jar of Beech-Nut orange marmalade. He turned to me—I was standing near the—

Q. 14. Did the clerk say anything to the gentleman that you heard?

A. He told him—

Mr. Cavanagh: That I object to as calling for hearsay and not the best evidence.

Mr. Hinton: We are trying to get at the conversation and not trying to prove the truth or falsity of what the clerk said.

Q. 15. Proceed.

A. The clerk made a remark such as this: He said, "Here is the Beech-Nut man now." The gentleman turned to me, and he said, "If your marmalade is not any better than your cigarettes, I don't want it." I turned to the gentleman, and I told him that we had absolutely nothing to do with the cigarette. After I made that remark to him he purchased the marmalade and paid for it and went on his way.

Q. 16. Did you make any effort to get the name of the customer?

A. I did not.

Q. 17. Can you give the name of the clerk who was trying to sell this marmalade?

A. Mr. John J. Creevan, 34 Amesbury Street, Lawrence, Mass.

Q. 18. Well, give me some more inquiries, remarks, and so on, that you heard, if you can.

A. I entered a store in West Lynn, Mass., owned by Mr. C. A. Wilkins, and we got into conversation over the cigarette, and he informed me that P. Lorillard Co. controlled the Beech-Nut Packing Company. In fact he convinced me to believe it myself.

Q. 19. Did you have any more of these incidents that you can recall definitely?

A. Last Thursday morning, August 11th, I entered the same store of Mr. Wilkins, in West Lynn, Mass., and Mrs. Wilkins says, "You are the Beech-Nut man. Can you tell me something: Are the Beech-Nut cigarettes put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company? I have had innumerable inquiries as to whether they were, and I would like to know so as to tell my trade, when they ask me."

Q. 20. All right. Give me any others.

A. On the afternoon of the same day, August 11, Mr.

Dennis Callahan, who is connected with a Salem wholesale jobbing house, asked me if the Beech-Nut Packing Company made the Beech-Nut cigarette.

Q. 21. Are you sure that that is what Mr. Callahan asked you exactly? I want you to state these things as accurately as possible.

A. I think he asked me if the P. Lorillard Co. didn't own the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 22. You have testified that you have been a tobacco salesman until recently in this territory?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 23. Can you tell me whether there is much of a market through this country for scrap chewing tobacco?

A. To tell you the truth, I never have seen scrap tobacco until last Thursday, and I saw it in two stores —just two.

Q. 24. I am talking about the market for scrap tobacco as compared with plug chewing tobacco.

A. There is very little market for it in Essex County.

Mr. Hinton: That is all. You may cross-examine.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 25. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Mr. Blanchard, how long were you in the tobacco business?

A. A little over a year.

X-Q. 26. At what period?

A. Oh, 1920.

X-Q. 27. Just give me when you started and when you left the business.

A. Why, I started along in July, 1919, and I worked at it until about the middle of August, 1920.

X-Q. 28. What concern were you with?

A. Rosenthal Brothers & Bendetson.

X-Q. 29. Where are they located?

A. 121 North street, Boston.

X-Q. 30. What was the nature of their business?

A. They are wholesale tobacco jobbers.

X-Q. 31. And you sold tobacco in Boston for them?

A. I sold cigars in Essex County and part of Middlesex County.

X-Q. 32. On the road throughout that territory?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. Did you sell chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir; nothing but cigars.

X-Q. 34. Didn't sell cigarettes?

A. Very, very seldom. I had two or three concerns in Salem, and I handled them myself, but my regular line was to sell cigars.

X-Q. 35. Did you ever make any particular study of the tobacco business; that is, do you know how the different brands and blends are made and brought out?

A. I don't know as I do, particularly.

X-Q. 36. About how many customers or stores were embraced in your territory when you were working for this concern—just approximately?

A. Oh, approximately? The customers I had?

X-Q. 37. Yes.

A. Hundreds of them. I could not state just exactly.

X-Q. 38. Well, approximately.

A. It was about a five weeks' trip going around the circuit, so you see I called on hundreds of customers.

X-Q. 39. Retail stores?

A. Retail stores, yes.

X-Q. 40. Did you ever hear of the "Polar Bear" scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 41. Did you ever hear of "Honest" scrap?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 42. Did you ever see that package in your trips around? I call your attention to Lorillard's Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1.

A. Not until last Thursday had I ever seen a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

X-Q. 43. You don't chew tobacco, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 44. Did you ever see any of the Beech-Nut Packing products with those red radiating lines on it, like that—these red lines here?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. At what store was it that you have stated the customer made some remark about the marmalade—is that what it was?

A. Lawrence, yes.

X-Q. 46. And went on and said if it was not any better than the Beech-Nut cigarette, he didn't want it—where was that?

A. 34 Amesbury street, Lawrence, Mass.

X-Q. 47. What is the party's name?

A. James J. Creevan.

X-Q. 48. You say you don't recall the name of that customer?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 49. I notice that you are smoking a cigar now. You smoke, don't you?

A. Yes, cigars entirely.

X-Q. 50. Did you ever smoke a cigarette?

A. Some.

X-Q. 51. You know different people have different tastes and different favorites in cigars and cigarettes, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. One man may praise one brand a lot and another man may say this is no good?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 53. It is all a matter of individual taste, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 54. And that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, which Mr. Hinton showed you, you noticed that name on there, didn't you?

A. I do now.

X-Q. 55. What is that name?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 56. You know the Lorillard Company is a large tobacco concern?

A. I know that.

X-Q. 57. Manufacturers and sellers of tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 58. You never heard of them making any food products, did you?

A. Not that I can recall.

X-Q. 59. Then, to anyone who had been in the tobacco business, the name "P. Lorillard Co." on that tobacco package would indicate to them that it was a P. Lorillard Company package, wouldn't it?

A. It would to me.

X-Q. 60. When you were in the tobacco business you would not sell the P. Lorillard products to a man who asked for Beech-Nut Packing Company cigarettes, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 61. What was the name of the party who asked if the Beech-Nut Packing Company was controlled or owned by the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Mr. C. A. Wilkins, West Lynn, Mass.

X-Q. 62. What did you tell him?

A. I told him that I didn't know.

X-Q. 63. Well, do you know who does control the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I know it is a stock company.

X-Q. 64. But you don't really know anything about the ownership of it, do you?

A. Why, I can't say that I do.

X-Q. 65. What business is this Dennis Callahan in?

A. Wholesale tobacco business.

X-Q. 66. What is his address?

A. Washington street, Salem, Mass. I just don't know the number.

X-Q. 67. What was it he wanted to know from you last week?

A. If P. Lorillard Company owned the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 68. When you were on the road selling cigars did you sell any products of the P. Lorillard Company, any tobacco products, any cigars or cigarettes, or anything like that?

A. I did.

X-Q. 69. What did you sell?

A. Muriel cigars.

X-Q. 70. I show you a small tin package, and ask you if you recognize that?

A. "Between the Acts."

X-Q. 71. Yes. What is it?

A. It is a little cigar.

X-Q. 72. A little cigar?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 73. Did you ever sell them?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 74. Do you know who makes that?

A. I didn't until just now.

X-Q. 75. Who does make it, as indicated to you by the box?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 76. You didn't handle little cigars, or all tobacco cigarettes when you were selling, did you?

A. Yes; "Little Bees."

X-Q. 77. Whose brand is that, do you know?

A. You have got me, I couldn't tell you.

X-Q. 78. Neither can I.

A. I never noticed.

X-Q. 79. If you went into a store and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you be confused or deceived into taking cigarettes like that, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. No, not for the chewing gum, I would not.

X-Q. 80. In other words, an unscrupulous dealer could not fool you into taking cigarettes for chewing gum, could he?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: I guess that is all.

Mr. Hinton: I have nothing further.

Deposition closed.

R. W. BLANCHARD.

O. A. HUBBARD, a witness called on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. O. A. Hubbard; home address, 51 Morrison road, Braintree, Mass.; business address, 743 Main street, Cambridge, Mass. That is the service station of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I am division manager for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; my age is 51.

Q. 2. How long have you been with the Beech-Nut Packing Company, Mr. Hubbard?

A. Nineteen years.

Q. 3. At the beginning of that time, what was the principal product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. They only had two products when I went to work for them; the whole line has come out practically in that time.

Q. 4. What has been your experience in selling these Beech-Nut Packing Company products, as they came out?

A. It has always been a very easy matter to introduce anything with the Beech-Nut label on.

Q. 5. What is the situation with respect to Beech-Nut gum; is that easy to sell, or difficult to sell?

A. It is a good deal easier to sell than to get. There has hardly been a time in the last seven or eight months that we could fill our orders. In fact, for the last few months, since the first of January this year, we haven't been allowed to take on new customers; and the old ones have been supplied from one-half to one-third what they ought to have.

Q. 6. Where is Beech-Nut gum sold to the public, in what kind of stores, or over what counters?

A. Almost all stores, drug stores, delicatessen stores, tobacco stores, and these little fruit stands—most every stand of every kind, candy counters, where mints and confections are sold.

Q. 7. I show you a package, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, being a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Do you remember when these cigarettes came out in this territory, and if so, when was it?

A. It was sometime the latter part of March or April, I don't remember the exact date.

Q. 8. 1921?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. When you first saw this package, by whom did you believe that these cigarettes were being put out?

A. Well, the first time I saw it, several called my attention to it, and I bought a package, and I saw the name P. Lorillard Co. on it on close examination.

Q. 10. The last question is repeated.

A. I thought it was a new Beech-Nut product, until I bought a package.

Q. 11. Why did you buy this package and make a close examination of it?

A. Well, I thought it strange that there would be a new product come on the market without my hearing it, or their sending me samples, and I thought the only way to determine it was to buy a package and examine it.

Q. 12. When these cigarettes were first offered in this territory, did you hear any comments or remarks in the course of your work for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; if so, please state the nature of those remarks which were made to you, and the extent to which they were made?

A. Well, I heard innumerable remarks and statements made, and questions asked of me regarding this product from our jobbers and customers and friends and acquaintances. I didn't keep any track of the number, but it must have gone into the hundreds.

Q. 13. What was the nature of those remarks?

A. Well, they asked about the new product, and said if it was going to be as good as the gum, they thought it would sell, and how long had they been putting it up, and to what extent were we going into it, whether we were going to make cigars, or what the end would be.

Q. 14. In your last answer you said that people asked you how long "they" had been putting it out. Who did you mean by "they"?

A. By "they" they referred to the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 15. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Mr. Hubbard, do you today have charge of handling of a complete line of products put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. In this division; yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. You handle the complete line?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. Do you handle any of the Mohawk brand of goods?

A. Very little.

X-Q. 18. They have a Mohawk brand of goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Can you name any other brand than the Mohawk?

A. The Erie, that is still another brand they have.

X-Q. 20. Have they any others that you know of?

A. That don't bear the Beech-Nut label, you mean?

X-Q. 21. Yes, other brands.

A. No, I don't recall any.

X-Q. 22. What is the nature of the products that you handle?

A. Well, they are very largely food products, with the exception—I don't know whether you would hardly list gum as a food product. I don't know just what category that would belong to—I don't know about that; but of course it is very largely food products.

X-Q. 23. You never knew in your nineteen years' experience of the Beech-Nut Packing Company handling tobacco or cigarettes?

A. I heard they put out some cigarettes. I have never seen a package in this territory.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever sell a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 25. Did you ever sell any tobacco product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 26. Did you ever receive any instructions from the Beech-Nut Packing Company that they were going to put out cigarettes or any other tobacco product?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. Do you smoke?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. What do you smoke?

A. Pipe mostly.

X-Q. 29. Did you ever smoke cigarettes?

A. Why, yes; but I am not any judge of them, and I probably never smoked three packages in my life.

X-Q. 30. Where did you first purchase this package of Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I am not sure that I purchased it. I think a man by the name of Phillip Dimodica gave me a package. I am pretty positive that he gave me this package; that I had two packages—one, I know Mr. McKay, the buyer at the South Station restaurant, brought in and gave me, at the time we had a sales meeting at the South Station, and he brought this package in, and I am pretty sure that Dimodica, the candy manufacturer, gave me this other package. I would not swear that I purchased that, I don't think I did. I believe that he passed me this package, this first one I saw.

X-Q. 31. Have you purchased any Beech-Nut Lorillard cigarettes since that time?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. When you took this first package in your hand and examined it, you saw the name P. Lorillard Co. on it?

A. I did.

X-Q. 33. That indicated to you that that was their product?

A. It did; just as soon as I got the package and examined it, and saw the name, "P. Lorillard Co." on it, I was satisfied then.

X-Q. 34. You knew it was not a Beech-Nut Packing Company product?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. And you knew it was a product of the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I did, when I saw the package.

X-Q. 36. Did you ever know of any person who went into a store and asked for cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and were handed cigarettes like this P. Lorillard Co. package?

A. I don't think so.

X-Q. 37. You don't know that you ever did, do you?

A. I don't know that I do.

X-Q. 38. You never heard of any such person?

A. One that went in and asked for Beech-Nut cigarettes?

X-Q. 39. Beech-Nut cigarettes of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and were passed the Lorillard cigarette?

A. No, I can't say that I do.

X-Q. 40. As I understand it, you handle the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 41. Did you ever know of any person who went into a store, or other establishment, wanting and asking for Beech-Nut chewing gum of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and was confused and deceived into taking a package of the Lorillard cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 42. Well, if you went into a store and wanted a package of chewing gum or any other Beech-Nut product with which you were familiar could you be confused or deceived into taking a package of Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I don't think so.

X-Q. 43. Well, you know you would not, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, which is in evidence in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. Did you ever see a package like that before?

A. Today is the first time I ever saw it.

Mr. Hinton: This is objected to as outside of the line of direct examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: The witness has testified that he is familiar with the various products that are sold in tobacco stores, so far as concerns the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and I simply want to test his knowledge in this direction.

X-Q. 45. Did you know of any Beech-Nut Packing Company product having these red radiating lines on the package?

A. No, but there is a certain similarity, as compared with some of our labels—similar labels, but they are a little different; they might be blue or they might be red, those lines running around.

X-Q. 46. Did you ever know them to use any red radiating lines like these?

A. No, not that same kind.

X-Q. 47. If you saw a package with red radiating lines on it, similar to these, would you think it was a Beech-Nut Packing Company product?

A. If I saw the "Beech-Nut" and the nuts on there, I should want to look at it again.

X-Q. 48. If you looked at it again, examined it closely, would you take that for a Beech-Nut Packing product?

A. No, I would not now. Still, if I was around a store and I saw that "Beech-Nut" and the nuts there, I should want to look at it a second time.

X-Q. 49. And then, after you had looked at it, you would say it was not a Beech-Nut Packing Company product, but a Lorillard, would you not?

A. After I looked at it, yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: I guess that is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

The further taking of testimony was adjourned to Worcester, Massachusetts, at 10 o'clock A. M., Thursday, August 18, 1921.

Deposition closed.

O. A. HUBBARD.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that the exhibits in this case may be retained in the custody of the counsel offering the same, to be produced at the trial, subject to inspection by either side.

It is further stipulated that exhibits such as packages of cigarettes, which may be destroyed by repeated handling, may from time to time be replaced by new and identical packages, marked with the original exhibit numbers.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that in order to expedite the taking of testimony, and in appreciation of the difficulty of obtaining the attendance of a Master in small towns, and so forth, any and all formalities in the taking of the foregoing depositions are hereby waived, and it is agreed that the said depositions shall have the same weight and effect as though taken by a duly authorized Special Examiner.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that in order to suit the engagements of counsel and expedite the prosecution of the case, plaintiff's time for pleading to the answer, and the answer to counterclaim therein contained, may be extended thirty days.

It is further stipulated that the plea to the answer and the answer to the counterclaim may be filed nunc pro tunc, as of the date of August 16, 1921, to take precedence over the testimony herein taken.

This stipulation is made to suit the engagements of counsel, and to permit certain testimony to be taken in New England during the month of August, 1921, at a time most convenient for both counsel.

I, L. W. DePass, a notary public within and for the County of Suffolk, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, do hereby certify that the foregoing depositions of Harry S. Cohen, Robert Skene, Jr., A. W. Godfrey, Arthur A. Skinner, John J. King, Richard E. Pope, John F. Lapham, Thomas F. Maloney, W. G. Torrey, Margaret Hunt, Leo Lewis, R. W. Blanchard and O. A. Hubbard, were taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to agreement and notice, before me, at Boston, Massachusetts, beginning August 16, 1921; that each of the foregoing witnesses was by me duly sworn; that the testimony of said witnesses was taken down in shorthand, under my supervision, by Whitman W. Collins, a court reporter, well known to me, and thereafter reduced to typewriting; that the opposing party hereto was represented by Richard B.

Cavanagh during the taking of said testimony; that the testimony was taken at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Boston, Mass., and at the Touraine Hotel, Boston, Mass., beginning at 10 A. IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Deposition taken on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before me, James E. Connor, a notary public within and for the County of Essex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at No. 25 Central Square, Lynn, Massachusetts, on Friday, August 19, 1921, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, attorneys for P. Lorillard & Company.

CLARENCE A. WILKINS, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, in pursuance to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, and occupation.

A. Clarence A. Wilkins; residence, 3 Myrtle Street; business at 623 Boston Street, Lynn, Mass.

Q. 2. And your occupation?

A. News dealer, stationery, and general variety store. I don't know just how you would class it.

Q. 3. Will you please state what you carry and offer to the public in your store, Mr. Wilkins?

A. Cigars, tobacco, confectionery, soda, ice cream, a few patent medicines, newspapers and periodicals of all sorts.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes, such as in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes. Will you please state whether you have sold these goods over your counter, and if so, approximately how long have you sold them?

A. Oh, since last spring—since the spring time, I won't say what time.

Q. 5. Now, Mr. Wilkins, can you tell me about the quantities of these cigarettes that you have personally sold over the counter, since last spring?

A. I cannot tell you the exact quantity, but I know I average about 400 cigarettes a week—well, that is a fair average, I should say. I may have sold more.

Q. 6. Can you tell me, Mr. Wilkins, whether or not the name of the manufacturer of these cigarettes appears on the package?

A. I cannot.

Q. 7. Since you have been selling these cigarettes over the counter, have you heard comments, inquiries, or the like, from your customers over the counter about these cigarettes? If so, will you please state the nature of those comments, inquiries and remarks?

A. Several times I have been asked if they were made by the same people who manufacture the Beech-Nut gum.

Q. 8. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you think, yourself, that they were made?

A. The Beech-Nut products people, naturally.

Q. 9. And where are these Beech-Nut products people located, do you know?

A. I do. Canajoharie, New York. I have been down there and seen the factory.

Q. 10. Mr. Wilkins, do you recall ever having a conversation with Mr. Blanchard about the Beech-Nut cigarettes? If so, will you tell me in a general way, what the conversation was?

A. Why, if I remember it correctly, I think I asked him if they were—if the Beech-Nut product people were owned by the P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 11. Do you know what suggested that idea to your mind?

A. Well, nothing more than the specialty man of the Lorillard Company had been along and I had given him an order for cigarettes. That is how I found that they were manufactured by the Lorillard Company.

Q. 12. Now, what I want to get at is, why the idea came into your mind that the Lorillard Company owned or controlled the Beech-Nut Company; what was it that brought that idea to your mind, do you remember?

A. No special reason, only the reason that large manufacturing concerns do not use the same trade-marks, or apparently the same trade-marks, without having some understanding that one or the other of the companies is behind the other.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 13. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Are you the owner of your business, Mr. Wilkins?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. How many people do you employ there?

A. At present only one. That is, the boy. My wife is my only help at present, outside of my boy.

X-Q. 15. Do you do a large business in tobacco, or is it a retail business?

A. Well, it is a retail—I don't know whether to call it a large business.

X-Q. 16. It is a retail business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. And you sell various brands of tobacco products?

A. Yes, I do.

X-Q. 18. What do you sell?

A. I don't know that I can give you a list of the whole thing, but all the popular brands.

X-Q. 19. You sell cigars, do you not?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

X-Q. 20. Do you sell the Muriel cigar?

A. Not lately; I have sold it.

X-Q. 21. And you got that from Lorillard, did you?

A. I bought that through a jobber; I don't know really who it came through, I think J. P. Manning, Boston.

X-Q. 22. Do you sell chewing tobacco; do you sell Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No Beech-Nut scrap; I knew nothing about it until yesterday.

X-Q. 23. But you do sell the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. I do.

X-Q. 24. And you buy that from P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I buy it through a jobber; the original order was given to the Lorillard salesman.

X-Q. 25. When was that?

A. Sometime in the spring, I couldn't tell you. I never saved the copy of the order.

X-Q. 26. And is that the first you knew of the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. I had heard of it probably several days before, but I knew nothing about it.

X-Q. 27. I show you a package which is in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Is the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes like I show you, similar to the Beech-Nut cigarette that you sell?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. Whose name is on that?

A. I don't know. I will have to look. I think it is Lorillard. I don't know that I ever saw that before; I don't know that I ever noticed that name was on the package. One thing I did notice, which was called to my attention, and that was comparing this here with the Beech-Nut gum label—seeing the difference in this part of the label. But that was some time ago.

X-Q. 29. I noticed when you handled this package just now you pointed to the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the panel on the back of the package, and then turned it over and referred to the label on the front of the package. Does the name P. Lorillard Co. appear on the front of the package?

A. I don't know; I can't see it over here.

X-Q. 30. Will you look at it closely and see?

A. It may be there, but I don't see it.

X-Q. 31. Have you any trouble with your eyes?

A. I can't see much of anything now (removing glasses). I couldn't recognize you.

X-Q. 32. Your eye sight is really defective?

A. Yes, sir; I can't see it now.

X-Q. 33. I notice you replaced your glasses and said you couldn't see it.

A. Yes; I couldn't see anything on there now, anyway, through that paper there.

X-Q. 34. Will you explain to me then how you can read that name—

A. That is plain enough.

X-Q. 35. —on the back of the package, but can't read the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the front?

A. That is on a white background, and shows up. And if there is anything there, it doesn't show, so I can see it, on there. Up here I can see it, but nothing down there. If there is anything down there I can't see a thing.

X-Q. 36. You are color blind, are you?

A. Somewhat. On that white background, I have no trouble at all, but anything there on the dark background, I would not see it at all. Black on red is almost out of sight to me.

X-Q. 37. You know of P. Lorillard Company, do you not?

A. Oh, yes, I have bought their goods for years, but I never bought anything direct from them, as I know of.

X-Q. 38. And that is a high class, reputable tobacco concern, are they?

A. Well, I suppose they are, that their reputation is good.

X-Q. 39. You don't know anything to the contrary?

A. No, I don't know anything to the contrary.

X-Q. 40. No one ever told you that the P. Lorillard Company owned or controlled or had any relation to the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did they?

A. Oh, no; that is merely a matter of discussion. One or two persons and myself, possibly at times just got to wondering whether they were connected or not.

X-Q. 41. Did you ever hear any discussion regarding it by anybody else?

A. No; there has been nothing definite about it said before, but we might meet and talk about it.

X-Q. 42. In your business, if a person came into your store and asked for a package of cigarettes, made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you sell him a package of Lorillard cigarettes in place of it?

A. I couldn't now, because I know; I might at sometime, but I wouldn't now.

X-Q. 43. Would you deliberately palm them off on him?

A. No.

X-Q. 44. If a person came into your store and asked you for Beech-Nut chewing gum, made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you sell him a package of cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. No, sir. Further I should question the Beech-Nut Packing Company—it is Beech-Nut Products Company, isn't it, as I have seen it? I am not sure of that.

X-Q. 45. And if you went into a store yourself and wanted Beech-Nut chewing gum, could you be deceived or confused into taking a package of Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes for a package of chewing gum?

A. No, I don't think so.

X-Q. 46. You would think a man was crazy that would take a package of cigarettes for chewing gum, would you not?

A. I should think he would be.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 47. (By Mr. Hinton.) If you went into a store, Mr. Wilkins, and wanted to buy a pick, would you accept a shovel in the place of the pick?

A. I certainly should not.

R-D. Q. 48. Will you please read for me the matter appearing on the white panel on the back of the Beech-Nut cigarettes; see if you can read it?

A. "Beech-Nut cigarettes. Mildest of all. Perfect quality. Delicious taste. P. Lorillard Co. Established 1760."

R-D. Q. 49. Did you have any difficulty in reading that, "Established 1760," on that package?

A. Not at all.

R-D. Q. 50. You wear glasses, do you not?

A. At all times, except when I am asleep.

R-D. Q. 51. And when you told Mr. Cavanagh you could not recognize him, then you had your glasses raised from your eyes?

A. Yes, sir.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 52. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) And when you said you could not read the name, "P. Lorillard Co." on the front of the Beech-Nut package, when I, Mr. Cavanagh, was examining you, you had your glasses down, didn't you?

A. I did.

R-X Q. 53. So you were looking through your glasses?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 54. And when Mr. Hinton just had you read off at that matter so rapidly on the back of the package, he showed you a package from which the glacé or transparent tissue paper had been removed?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 55. And when I showed you the package, the wrapper was on; is that right?

A. That is right.

R-X Q. 56. And when you read the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the package, when I questioned you, you were looking through the glacé wrapper?

A. I was.

R-X Q. 57. And your glasses were in position?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 58. Now, did you ever purchase any tobacco products from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I never purchased anything in that line from the Beech-Nut Packing Company that I know of.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 59. (By Mr. Hinton.) I show you a package of cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 in this case, which has the glacé or wax paper wrapper on it, and I invite your attention to the white panel containing black printing on the back of that package. Can you read that?

A. Easily.

R-D. Q. 60. Can you read "Established 1760" at the bottom?

A. I can.

R-D. Q. 61. With difficulty, or easily?

A. No, easily enough.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 62. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) When you said you could not see me with your glasses off——

A. I said I could not recognize you.

R-X Q. 63. ——how far away was I sitting from you?

A. Four or five feet.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 64. Do you wear glasses all the time?

A. All the time.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

CLARENCE A. WILKINS.

ALFRED WILLIAM STURGIS, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Alfred William Sturgis; grocer; 819 Boston street, Lynn; I live upstairs; 43 years old.

Q. 2. How long have you kept a grocery store at that location?

A. Six years.

Q. 3. Do you carry tobacco products in your grocery store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes. Do you handle these cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe they were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 6. How long did you believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company; do you remember?

A. About ten minutes.

Q. 7. How did you find out that they were not?

A. Well, because I asked the salesman for the cigarettes, their agent, who takes the orders—they are shipped direct, you know, through the jobber, they are shipped direct from them to the store, but they put the bill through the jobber.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 8. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) I understand, Mr. Sturgis, that when you bought these cigarettes you bought them from some salesman?

A. Yes, sir; I bought them through, what do you call them—a fellow——

X-Q. 9. Agent or salesman or something like that?

A. Yes, sir; there is a special name for them. There is what they call the agent, they have the regular salesman for the jobber, but the salesman for the firm that manufactures.

X-Q. 10. What manufacturer was that?

A. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 11. He was a Lorillard agent?

A. Yes, a Lorillard agent.

X-Q. 12. And he came to your store?

A. Well, he was agent for the——

X-Q. 13. Well—pardon me.

A. He was the agent for the one above, the jobber, what they call the agent in Boston, wherever it is, when they buy in bigger lots, you know.

X-Q. 14. And he came into your store and asked you for an order?

A. Well, he asked me if I wanted to buy some Beech-Nut cigarettes and other tobaccos, a combination, and I said yes.

X-Q. 15. You knew he was a Lorillard man?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. And he told you that these cigarettes were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, he didn't tell me.

X-Q. 17. How did you find it out?

A. I asked him.

X-Q. 18. Asked him what?

A. I said, "I thought the Beech-Nut people made them," and he said, "No, we make them, the P. Lorillard Co."

X-Q. 19. And after he told you that, you gave him the order?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. And you bought P. Lorillard's goods because you had a sale for them?

A. Yes, sir; I bought these because of the demand for them; everybody was asking for Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 21. And, as I understand it, you have always bought other Lorillard products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. Can you name some of them that you have bought; just name the brands?

A. The chewing tobacco—I don't know that I could call them all right off that they manufacture, but the brands I carry, Camels, Lucky Strike, Fatimas, Helmars, Sweet Caporal, large and small, and Perfections, and Beech-Nut, and the "111," that is about all I carry in the cigarette line, some made by one and some are made by another.

X-Q. 23. In carrying the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarette, like this package, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, you never told your customers that it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. And you would not tell them it was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No; nobody asked that question. If anybody had asked that question I would have told them that they were not made by that company.

X-Q. 25. Who would you have told them they were made by?

A. Lorillard, but I would sell them just the same.

X-Q. 26. What kind of gum do you sell?

A. Beech-Nut and the——

X-Q. 27. Made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. If a person came into your store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing, made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you sell him a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of it?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. Would you think a person was crazy that would take a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

ALFRED WILLIAM STURGIS.

IDA W. WILKINS, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, in pursuance of notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please give me your name, residence and occupation, Mrs. Wilkins?

A. Mrs. Ida W. Wilkins; 623 Boston street, West Lynn, Mass.; I am jack at all trades; I am postmistress part of the time, and housekeeper and storekeeper.

Q. 2. Are you the wife of Mr. C. A. Wilkins, who has testified in this case this morning?

A. I am.

Q. 3. Mrs. Wilkins, do you carry Beech-Nut cigarettes similar to the package I show you, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. Do you know how long you have sold these cigarettes in this store?

A. I don't know as I know; I think ever since they came out. I don't know how long that is.

Q. 5. Would that be this year or last?

A. Oh, yes, it would be this year, I should say. I don't do the buying, so I wouldn't understand about that as well as Mr. Wilkins.

Q. 6. When you first saw this brand of cigarettes, by whom did you believe that they were made?

A. Why, I believed that the Beech-Nut people made them.

Q. 7. Do you carry any of the products made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. Yes, the Beech-Nut gum; that is all.

Q. 8. Do you remember when Mr. Blanchard, the gentleman over there, came into this store last week, and whether or not you asked him anything when he came in?

A. Yes; I asked him if he was the Beech-Nut cigarette man, and if the Beech-Nut people put out the Beech-Nut cigarette.

Q. 9. I see. When, Mrs. Wilkins, were you first told or informed that the Beech-Nut people did not put out the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Well, that is the day Mr. Blanchard came, when I asked him, whatever day that was.

Mr. Blanchard (interrupting): It was Thursday, the 11th.

Q. 10. Mrs. Wilkins, have you heard over your counter any comments or remarks by your customers about these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, I have; several people have asked if the same people that made the gum made the cigarettes.

Mr. Hinton: I see. That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 11. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Who do you buy these Beech-Nut cigarettes from?

A. Well, I don't do the buying at all; Mr. Wilkins does the buying.

X-Q. 12. So you don't do the buying?

A. No, I don't do the buying. I don't know whether we get them from Manning or Tucker. We trade with both Manning and Tucker.

X-Q. 13. You have never taken any trouble to observe that package, have you?

A. No, only as I put it out, not to go through it closely, all the reading on it, and look at it.

X-Q. 14. Whose name is that written on it?

A. P. Lorillard Co., I see written on it.

X-Q. 15. So, if you had observed that package closely, you would have known that it was a P. Lorillard Co. cigarette?

A. Yes, sir; the Lorillard tobacco company.

X-Q. 16. Did you ever hear of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any cigarettes at all?

A. No; I didn't know anything about it.

X-Q. 17. I understood you to say that you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir; lots of it.

X-Q. 18. If a customer came into this store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you sell him a package of P. Lorillard's Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the chewing gum?

A. Not if they asked for gum, but they say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut"; that is what puzzles me. I had an instance of that, he said, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut," and I reached out for gum, and he said, "I meant cigarettes." So I went clear across the store and got the cigarettes. They don't usually add on "cigarettes," they say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 19. But if they wanted cigarettes, you would not sell them Beech-Nut chewing gum in place of them?

A. No.

X-Q. 20. And if they took the cigarettes in the place of gum, or they took gum in the place of cigarettes, you would think they were crazy, would you not?

A. Of course I should, and I should think that I was crazy to give it to them.

X-Q. 21. If a person came into this store and asked you for a package of cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you sell him Lorillard cigarettes?

A. I would not now, now that I know. I would say, "Well, I haven't got them, made by those people."

X-Q. 22. You never knew a person to come into this store and ask for cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I never knew of one.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 23. (By Mr. Hinton.) I call your attention to this oval device on the front of this package of cigarettes, containing the name, "Beech-Nut," and underneath it the beech-nut cluster. What manufacturer does that label suggest to you?

A. Why, the "Beech-Nut" suggests that the Beech-Nut Packing Company makes them, naturally, because they have other advertisements of the same kind, and it is so common, you know.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 24. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Mrs. Wilkins, haven't you ever seen and sold other goods which had labels bearing an oval on them?

A. Oval?

R-X Q. 25. Yes, the shape of a ring, or ellipse.

A. You mean a cigarette?

R-X Q. 26. Anything.

A. No—I am trying to recall what others there are. I don't know really what others. There are circles, but I don't know about ovals.

R-X Q. 27. I notice in your case here a Proctor cigar box label. What is the shape of that label?

A. Well, it is not so long an oval as on the Beech-Nut; it is nearer round.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 28. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mrs. Wilkins, would you ever confuse that Proctor cigar label which Mr. Cavanagh has called to your attention, with the Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. No.

R-D. Q. 29. It would be impossible, would it not?

A. I don't see how it would be possible. It has "Proctor" written across the label there. If it said "Beech-Nut," I might.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 30. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Mrs. Wilkins, I show you a label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, which has been marked in this case for identification Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. —, and I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Is that oval on the Beech-Nut cigarette, outside of its elliptical shape, like that Beech-nut oval?

A. The gold on that ring here and the red lettering here, it is a little different, of course. The oval itself, you mean?

R-X Q. 31. You pointed to the "Beech-Nut."

A. Yes, sir—yes, it has all the Beech-Nut red, just the same.

R-X Q. 32. And how about the shape of the oval, the color of the oval?

A. It is white, and has not this interlining of red.

R-X Q. 33. And it has not the wide red band around it, has it?

A. No.

R-X Q. 34. And the Beech-Nuts are different?

A. Yes, the nut with the leaves on here, I should say they were just the same beech-nuts as these without the leaf, wouldn't you?

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 35. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mrs. Wilkins, do you know whether all the labels used by the Beech-Nut Packing Company—I mean the regular Beech-Nut labels used by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, are all exactly alike, or do they vary?

A. I should say what I have used, that they are alike.

R-D. Q. 36. I mean in the small details?

A. I never examined them minutely, you know, because I have not had any occasion, so I couldn't say as to that.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

(Mrs.) Ida W. Wilkins.

The further taking of depositions adjourned to Salem, Mass.

I, James E. Connor, a Notary Public within and for the County of Essex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as special Examiner by consent of counsel, do hereby certify that the foregoing depositions of Clarence A. Wilkins, Alfred William Sturgis and Ida W. Wilkins were taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to agreement and notice, before me at Lynn, Massachusetts, on the 19th day of August, A. D. 1921; that each of the above named witnesses was by me duly sworn; that the testimony of said witnesses was taken in short-hand, under my supervision, by Whitman W. Collins, a court reporter, well known to me, and thereafter reduced to typewriting; that the opposing party was represented by Richard B. Cavanagh during the taking of said testimony; that the testimony was taken at 25 Central Square, Lynn, Massachusetts, and 623 Boston street, West Lynn, Massachusetts, beginning at 10 o'clock A. M., August 19, 1921, and ending at 12 o'clock, noon; that the deposition of each witness was read by said witness before signing the same, except where the signature of a witness was waived, as indicated on the deposition.

I am not connected by blood or marriage with either of the parties hereto or interested directly or indirectly in the matter in controversy.

JAMES E. CONNOR,
Notary Public.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, attorneys for P. Lorillard & Company.

EDWARD MOSCOVITZ, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. 160 Lafayette Street, Salem, Mass.; I am clerk at Schrivers Cigar Company store.

Q. 2. And that store is located at what place?

A. 127 Washington Street, Salem, Mass.

Q. 3. Did you say what your age was?

A. I am 25 now.

Q. 4. How long have you been a clerk in this store?

A. I have been with them about nine months, with this company.

Q. 5. Did you sell tobacco products before that?

A. Yes; I had a store myself.

Q. 6. Is this a retail store?

A. Yes, wholesale and retail both. It is mainly retail, but we do sell wholesale.

Q. 7. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes, and ask you when you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you think they were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut gum company.

Q. 8. Will you please state whether you now believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut gum company?

A. No, I should say not, for the simple reason I inquired of the salesman of the Beech-Nut Company, and he explained to me that it is an entirely different company, and I know now that it is, that it is not concerned with the Beech-Nut gum company.

Q. 9. Did you have them on sale here at the time you inquired of this salesman?

A. Yes; we had them on sale already; that was the first or second week after we had them in.

Q. 10. And in that one or two weeks, had you sold these cigarettes over the counter?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Yourself?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all the direct examination.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 12. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) How long have you been in the tobacco business altogether?

A. Well, I will tell you; I had a store myself about a year, and I have been with them about nine months, so I have been in the business about two years.

X-Q. 13. You know the P. Lorillard Company, do you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. And you handle their goods?

A. Some of it, I do.

X-Q. 15. You sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16 Do you sell the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. Whose tobacco is that?

A. I think it is made by the American Company, isn't it? It is made by the American Company, I think.

Mr. Hinton: Questions about the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco are objected to as outside the direct examination.

X-Q. 18. Does it say what company it is made by (passing package to witness)?

A. Is it made by the Lorillard Company?

X-Q. 19. Will you examine the package and see if you can tell who it is made by?

Mr. Hinton: It is noted that the witness is examining the package for nearly a minute.

A. Well, I don't know yet by whom it is made. I presume it is made by Lorillard.

X-Q. 20. Why do you presume it is?

A. Isn't that the company?

X-Q. 21. Why do you say you presume it is?

A. I mean that on there.

X-Q. 22. You mean that the name Lorillard is—

A. Yes; that is what it is, and I think it is made by this company.

X-Q. 23. Whose name is on that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. That is Lorillard Company. Now, I see it is made by the same company.

X-Q. 24. So you never really took the trouble to examine the cigarette package, that Beech-Nut cigarette package to know who it was made by?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. When you were under the impression that that cigarette was the Beech-Nut Packing Company product, you hadn't taken the trouble to examine the package to know?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. If a customer came into this store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you sell him a package of these Lorillard cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. I say, when a customer comes in and says "Beech-Nut," I usually ask him what he wants, whether Beech-Nut cigarettes or gum.

X-Q. 27. (Question repeated.) And if he wanted Beech-Nut chewing gum, you would not sell him a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Of course not.

X-Q. 28. You never did?

A. No, it never happened to me yet.

X-Q. 29. And you yourself would not go into a store, if you wanted a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, and take in place of it a package of chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 30. You would think a man would be insane or crazy that would take a package of tobacco or cigarettes in the place of gum, would you not?

A. Yes, sure, I would.

X-Q. 31. Do you know any of the Lorillard agents that come here?

A. Some of their salesmen come in quite often. I know quite a number of them.

X-Q. 32. Who are they?

A. I couldn't tell their names. One fellow particularly comes in—he used to be here, but he was not for some time for a long while. I don't recall his name.

X-Q. 33. You don't recall his name?

A. No, I can't recall the names of them, but they come quite often in the store.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

EDWARD MOSCOVITZ.

CHARLES E. GEARY, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Charles E. Geary.

Q. 2. Age.

A. 23.

Q. 3. Residence.

A. 11½ Hardy street.

Q. 4. Occupation.

A. I am clerk in here, that is all.

Q. 5. Is this a drug store that you are working in?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Do you sell cigarettes and tobacco here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 7. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette, similar to this package which I now show you, and which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. When you first saw this cigarette, and sold it, by whom did you believe that they were made?

A. The Beech-Nut people.

Q. 9. Can you name any other products made by the Beech-Nut people that you sell here?

A. No, not outside of the gum.

Q. 10. How long did you continue to believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. Continuously, until I met you.

Q. 11. And do you remember what day that was?

A. A week ago last Wednesday, wasn't it?

Q. 12. Do you remember, Mr. Geary, when these cigarettes first came on the market, and were placed on sale in your store here?

A. About three or four months ago, I think.

Q. 13. And have you been since selling them over the counter?

A. I have.

Q. 14. Yourself, personally?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all of the direct.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 15. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You say you have been selling these cigarettes for the past three or four months, Mr. Geary?

A. Yes, about that time.

X-Q. 16. Whose name is that on the package I show you?

A. Lorillard.

X-Q. 17. Do you know what line of business P. Lorillard Company is in?

A. I think they are in the cigarette business.

X-Q. 18. Tobacco products?

A. Tobacco products, yes.

X-Q. 19. If you took the trouble to look at that package, you would know that P. Lorillard Company made it, would you not?

A. Naturally, if I had looked at it and saw it was marked with their name on it.

X-Q. 20. You never even took the trouble to look at that and see who made them?

A. No; I just passed them out.

X-Q. 21. Do you know who makes Anheuser beer, or did made it? Did you ever hear of Anheuser beer?

A. I have heard of it, yes.

X-Q. 22. I notice you have got in your window a can of Budweiser malt extract——

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. ——as I call it. Would you sell a can of it?

A. Sure, I would.

X-Q. 24. I would like to buy a can, if you don't mind.

A. You would like to buy a can of it?

X-Q. 25. Yes, I would; I would like to purchase a can of it now, if you will get a can.

A. Of course we have it for sale. Why should I object to it? Do you really want to purchase it?

X-Q. 26. Yes, I really do. I want to buy a can. (Can produced.) This can bears the name "Budweiser Malt Syrup" on it, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. Inside of an oval. Can you tell who that is made and sold by?

A. No, I don't do the buying.

X-Q. 28. Whose name appears on it?

A. Budweiser Malt——

X-Q. 29. Malt Products Corporation?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. The Anheuser-Busch name does not appear on that, does it?

A. No, I don't see it.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

X-Q. 31. How much is that can?

A. $1.25.

X-Q. 32. Mr. Geary, if a person came into this store and asked you to sell them a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, you would not sell them a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you, in place of it?

A. In such a case I would remark about it, make the statement, which do they mean, Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut gum—always did.

X-Q. 33. And you would not yourself, if you went into a store and wanted Beech-Nut cigarettes, you would not take a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum in place of it?

A. Naturally I would not, if I wanted the cigarettes, take the gum.

X-Q. 34. And you would think a person was crazy to take the cigarettes for gum, wouldn't you?

A. Why, sure.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all. Oh, just one more question.

X-Q. 35. You would not mistake or confuse that can of Malt Syrup for a bottle of Budweiser beer, would you —Anheuser-Busch?

A. No, certainly not.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

CHARLES E. GEARY.

The further taking of testimony was adjourned to Lawrence, Mass.

I, J. F. Dalton, a Notary Public within and for the County of Essex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as special examiner by consent of counsel, do hereby certify that the foregoing depositions of Edward Moscovitz and Charles E. Geary were taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to agreement and notice, before me at Salem, Massachusetts, on the nineteenth day of August, A. D. 1921; that each of the above named witnesses was by me duly sworn; that the testimony of said witnesses was taken in short-hand, under my supervision, by Whitman W. Collins, a court reporter, well known to me, and thereafter reduced to typewriting; that the opposing party was represented by Richard B. Cavanagh during the taking of said testimony; that the testimony was taken at 127 Washington street and 128 Washington street, Salem, Massachusetts, beginning at 2 o'clock P. M., and ending at 3 o'clock P. M., August 19, 1921; that the deposition of each witness was read by said witness before signing the same, except where the signature of a witness was waived, as indicated on the deposition.

I am not connected by blood or marriage with either of the parties hereto or interested directly or indirectly in the matter in controversy.

J. FRANK DALTON,

[SEAL.] Notary Public.

My commission expires Dec. 31, 1921.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before me, T. Edwin Andrew, a Notary Public within and for the County of Essex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at Room 303, Bay State Building, Lawrence, Massachusetts, on Friday, August 19, 1921, beginning at 4 o'clock P. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, attorneys for P. Lorillard & Company.

JAMES J. CREEVAN, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. John J. Creevan; age, 51; 203 Haverhill street, Lawrence, Massachusetts.

Q. 2. What is your occupation?

A. Salesman in a grocery store.

Q. 3. Where is that grocery located?

A. 34 Amesbury street, Lawrence, Mass.

Q. 4. Who is the proprietor?

A. M. J. Bailey.

Q. 5. Mr. Creevan, have you sold Beech-Nut products in this grocery store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. Have you seen Beech-Nut cigarettes similar to the package I now show you, which is in evidence in this case, as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 7. Mr. Creevan, can you relate an incident which happened in connection with these cigarettes in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Will you please do so?

A. A man came in and asked for a jar of Beech-Nut marmalade; I told him it was the best marmalade we had in the shop, and I said, here is the Beech-Nut man right here now, and he will tell you all about it. The man said, "If it isn't any better than the cigarettes, it is no good."

Q. 9. What did the Beech-Nut man say?

A. I asked the Beech-Nut man if they didn't make the cigarettes, and he said, "No," so I sold the marmalade to the man then.

Q. 10. Now, this man was a customer, was he?

A. A customer, yes.

Q. 11. Did he ask for Beech-Nut marmalade, or just marmalade?

A. Marmalade.

Q. 12. What is the name of the Beech-Nut man who was there at the time?

A. The gentleman with you. I have forgotten your name.

Mr. Blanchard: Blanchard.

Q. 13. When you first saw these Beech-Nut cigarettes, by whom did you think they were put up?

A. By the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 14. How long did you continue to believe that?

A. I believed that right along until this Mr. Blanchard told me that they did not.

Q. 15. Do you know why you believed that, Mr. Creevan?

A. Well, it had the same label, Beech-Nut label, as the advertising in the papers, and I knew they put out a line of gum, and lots of stuff, and naturally I thought it was the same label, they put up cigarettes, too.

Q. 16. You carry other marmalades in your store besides Beech-Nut marmalade?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 17. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) I understand, Mr. Creevan, you are engaged as a salesman in this store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. And you handle various lines of tobacco products?

A. No; no tobaccos.

X-Q. 19. You don't sell tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. When did you first see this Beech-Nut cigarette package?

A. I saw it advertised in the papers, away back, perhaps, maybe three or four months, but I really forget how long since. It is advertised in the papers right here in the town.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever make inquiry or investigation to find out what concern actually manufactured the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 22. You looked at that advertisement, did you?

A. I looked at the advertisement, yes sir. I may have spoken to some of the men that the Beech-Nut people were putting up cigarettes. I think I have made that remark.

X-Q. 23. Does that advertisement resemble the one you saw? I direct your attention to an advertisement on a page of the Boston Herald of August 18, 1921, and which is in this case marked for identification, Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 5. Does that look like the advertisement that you saw?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. The name "P. Lorillard Co." appears on that advertisement, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. Do you notice the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on that advertisement in any place?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Do you smoke?

A. No, sir; I don't smoke cigarettes, I smoke cigars and a pipe.

X-Q. 27. Did you ever buy a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir; never smoked a cigarette in my life.

X-Q. 28. Did you ever go into a store and ask for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 29. Did you ever carefully examine a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 30. I show you this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes; what name is on that package?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 31. If you saw that you would not think that it was a package put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you?

A. If I saw the name Lorillard on it, I would not.

X-Q. 32. Did you ever chew tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 33. Did you ever see Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 34. Like this package here that I show you?

A. I never did see one before.

X-Q. 35. You never saw that scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 36. I understand that you have never sold tobacco?

A. In my present place of business?

X-Q. 37. Yes.

A. No, we have never kept tobacco there.

X-Q. 38. How long have you been in your present place?

A. I have worked at this Bailey store seventeen years.

X-Q. 39. If you went into a store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, could you be deceived or confused into taking a package of cigarettes like this package of Lorillard cigarettes, for a package of chewing gum?

A. I don't think I would.

X-Q. 40. You would think anyone would be crazy that would take a package of cigarettes for a package of chewing gum, would you not?

A. I would naturally think that the Beech-Nut people put them up. Is that the way you want me to answer it?

X-Q. 41. No, my question is simply this: You would think a person, if they wanted to buy a package of chewing gum, that would allow anyone to pass off a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes on him, was crazy?

A. I think they would be.

X-Q. 42. You don't think a person would be deceived into taking a package of chewing tobacco or cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 43. When you spoke of this gentleman who wanted to buy the marmalade, you, of your own volition, recommended to him the Beech-Nut marmalade, didn't

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. I understood you to say that you smoked cigars.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 45. And you know that every smoker has his favorite, and his own taste in regard to tobacco products, such as cigars?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 46. And that the cigars that you like the other fellow doesn't like, and vice-versa?

A. Very true.

X-Q. 47. And you find this in every line of business in regard to different articles, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. Different men probably have different preferences and tastes for goods of the same class?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D. Q. 49. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Creevan, I don't think I asked you how long ago, approximately, was this incident of the man coming in and asking for marmalade. Do you remember?

A. About two months, I believe.

R-D. Q. 50. That would be in July or June?

A. It wouldn't be that long—it might be about July, I guess.

R-D. Q. 51. Do you remember when the Beech-Nut cigarettes first appeared in this territory?

A. Well, I have seen them advertised in the paper, the only way I knew about them.

R-D. Q. 52. Yes, but when, how long ago did you first see them advertised in this territory?

A. I really couldn't tell. It might be five or six months, but I would not be sure.

R-D. Q. 53. Now, you have said that you spoke to people and told them that the Beech-Nut people were putting out cigarettes. Were those people customers of yours in the store?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 54. Mr. Creevan, can you tell me, recite to me a list of the products made by the Beech-Nut people, the whole list?

A. Well, I know quite a few of them. Marmalade, raspberry jam, strawberry jam, blackberry jam——

R-D. Q. 55. Well, to save time, I just wanted to know if you could give me the full list of the products or not. Just answer yes or no—all the products that they make.

A. No, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination.

R-X Q. 56. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You say you spoke to some men and told them that the Beech-Nut Company were putting out cigarettes. Were those customers?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 57. Upon what did you base that statement that these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company; you didn't make any investigation, did you?

A. No, sir, only the label.

R-X Q. 58. Did you look at the cigarette package itself?

A. I never saw the cigarette package until down here; you showed it to me.

R-X Q. 59. When was that?

A. About ten minutes ago, just as I came up.

R-X Q. 60. So the first time you saw a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes was today, August 19, 1921?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 61. And you say that this advertisement that you saw in this paper had P. Lorillard Company on it, and you don't find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on it?

A. No.

R-X Q. 62. It was from that advertisement that you got the impression that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting the goods out; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 63. You never made a careful examination of the advertisement?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 64. Just glanced at it?

A. That is all.

R-X Q. 65. And never looked at the cigarettes until today?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: Deposition closed.

JAMES J. CREEVAN,
203 Haverhill St.,
Lawrence, Mass.

ROBERT JAMES WINTERS, a witness produced on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Robert James Winters; age 26 years next birthday; residence 30 Salem Street, Andover, Mass.

Q. 2. Occupation?

A. Grocery clerk.

Q. 3. In what grocery store do you work?

A. M. J. Bailey's.

Q. 4. That is in Lawrence, Mass.?

A. 34 Amesbury Street, Lowrence.

Q. 5. Mr. Winters, have you ever before seen a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, like a sample I now show you, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. I have had a glimpse of them, just to look at them.

Q. 6. Have you seen the advertisement of this product that has appeared in this territory?

A. I have.

Q. 7. Have you ever smoked any of these cigarettes?

A. I have smoked one.

Q. 8. Where did you get that cigarette?

A. A friend of mine gave it to me. I asked him for a cigarette and he handed me one from a package.

Q. 9. He handed you a package of them?

A. He just took a package out, and I took a cigarette from his package.

Q. 10. By whom did you think these were made?

A. I assumed the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 11. How long did you entertain that belief?

A. Since I had smoked it. I think it was two or three months back.

Q. 12. Who would you think, if you just looked at that package, it was made by; would you think it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I would, unless I examined it. For instance, as you hold it up, as it now is, I would naturally think it was a Beech-Nut Packing Company product.

Q. 13. When were you first advised that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company; do you remember how you first found it was not?

A. Yes; I think it was when you were in the store. I don't remember just the date, the exact date.

Q. 14. That was last week, was it?

A. Yes, last week.

Q. 15. Did I tell you that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make these cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. Do I understand that up to that time you believed that they did?

A. I was under the impression that they did.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 17. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Do you sell tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 18. Cigarettes, cigars, chewing gums?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever buy a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. Will you examine the package I show you, in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes, and tell me what that name is on there?

A. I can't pronounce it. P. Lorillard Company, isn't it?

X-Q. 21. Does that indicate to you the manufacturer of that cigarette, the words "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. It does not say manufactured by them, does it?

X-Q. 22. Would you take it to be that they are the manufacturers?

A. I would know what it was, just what was the name just wrote across the package.

X-Q. 23. See if you can find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company in any place on that package?

A. No, I can't find it now.

X-Q. 24. I hand you a small package of mints. Can you tell me what name that is on there?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 25. Would you look over that and see if you see any words, "Manufactured by," on that any place?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Whose goods would you take that to be?

A. By the label I should take it to be the Beech-Nut Packing Company, by the label, just glancing at it.

X-Q. 27. You don't know who manufactured that, do you?

A. No, sir. But I assume, though, it is a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, by the label.

X-Q. 28. But you don't know whether they manufacture it or not?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: The small package of Beech-Nut mints is offered for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 6.

X-Q. 29. I understood you to say on your direct examination that you saw an advertisement of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Is that similar to the advertisement that you saw? I call your attention to a page of the Boston Herald of August 18, 1921, marked for identification in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 5.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. Do you find the name "P. Lorillard Co." on that package?

A. Yes, on the bottom; yes.

X-Q. 31. Do you find the name, Beech-Nut Packing Company, anywhere on that advertisement?

A. No, sir; I can't see it anywhere.

X-Q. 32. Do you think you could be confused or deceived into buying a packing of Beech-Nut cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 33. You would think a man was crazy to take cigarettes for chewing gum, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Mr. Hinton: Deposition closed.

ROBERT JAMES WINTERS.

I, T. Edwin Andrew, a Notary Public within and for the County of Essex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as special examiner by consent of counsel, do hereby certify that the foregoing depositions of James J. Creevan and Robert James Winters were taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to agreement and notice, before me at Lawrence, Massachusetts, on the nineteenth day of August, A. D. 1921; that each of the above named witnesses was by me duly sworn; that the testimony of said witnesses was taken in shorthand, under my supervision, by Whitman W. Collins, a court reporter, well known to me, and thereafter reduced to typewriting; that the opposing party was represented by Richard B. Cavanagh during the taking of said testimony; that the testimony was taken at Room 303, Bay State Building, Lawrence, Massachusetts, beginning at 4 o'clock p. m. and ending at 5 o'clock p. m., August 19, 1921; that the deposition of each witness was read by said witness before signing the same, except where the signature of a witness was waived, as indicated on the deposition.

I am not connected by blood or marriage with either of the parties hereto or interested, directly or indirectly, in the matter in controversy.

(L. S.) T. EDWIN ANDREW,
Notary Public.

My commission expires October 24, 1924.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken before Penelope Comberbach, a Notary Public in and for the County of Worcester, State of Massachusetts, acting as Special Commissioner, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and agreement of counsel, at 918 Park Building, 507 Main Street Worcester, Massachusetts, on Thursday, August 18, 1921.

Present: Sebastian Hinton Esq., of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

JOSEPH S. AISENBERG, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Joseph S. Aisenberg; thirty-four years; wholesale grocer; 18 Woodford Street, Worcester, Mass.

Q. 2. Does your firm handle tobacco products for its grocery trade?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. What is the name of your firm?

A. United Wholesale Grocery Company.

Q. 4. What is your position with that firm?

A. I am general manager and buyer.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in evidence in this case as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1." Have you ever seen these cigarettes before?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. State, if you can remember, about when you first saw these cigarettes.

A. Well, that I don't know.

Q. 7. Well, approximately?

A. I couldn't tell you. I remember seeing the ads in the paper when they first came out. Exactly when I don't remember; I don't know whether it is this year or less than a year ago.

Q. 8. When you first saw these cigarettes, or ads to which you refer, by whom did you think this product was made?

A. Well, my first impression was that they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 9. And do you know what led you to that belief?

A. Well, the fact was that the Beech-Nut people, as we always knew them, were in the jams, jellies and meat business, and then they went into the candy business. I thought they just added another line to their products and had gone into the tobacco business.

Q. 10. Can you tell me anything further about the impression you received when you first saw these Beech-Nut cigarettes, with respect to the Beech-Nut people or the rest of their line or anything of that character?

A. Well, knowing the Beech-Nut people as I knew them, and the quality they manufacture, from the line we handle in our own business, I was very much disappointed with the appearance of the package and the price of the cigarettes. I did not think that the quality and the appearance were in line with the general character of the quality of their products.

Q. 11. Do you now believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, I did believe that until I found out otherwise upon making inquiry.

Q. 12. And do you remember, Mr. Aisenberg, how long after you first saw the ads or the cigarettes it was that you learnt upon inquiry that these cigarettes were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, I believe it was over a month or so later that I happened to be in one of the tobacco stores and I asked various things, and amongst them I asked whether the Beech-Nut cigarette was being made, or being put out, by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and I was informed to the contrary.

Direct Examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 13. As I understand it, you were in the wholesale grocery business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. You are the general manager and buyer?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. Do you buy tobacco products?

A. Why, yes.

X-Q. 16. Do you do the buying?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. From what concerns do you buy tobacco products?

A. We buy tobacco largely from H. E. Shaw Company, the Worcester Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 18. A jobber and distributor?

A. Jobber and distributor, as I understand it. It is the direct agent of the American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 19. You do not buy direct from the American Tobacco Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 20. How many people are employed by your concern?

A. You mean salesmen?

X-Q. 21. Entirely.

A. I believe we employ about thirty.

X-Q. 22. Where is your business located?

A. 133-135 Grafton Street.

X-Q. 23. You employ about thirty people all told?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. In what region do you sell your products?

A. We ship as far as Maine; we ship New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut—of course, Massachusetts; we also make some shipments into New York State, and, occasionally, into Pennsylvania.

X-Q. 25. Do you do a general grocery business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Just name some of the brands of tobacco products your concern handles.

A. Why, we handle "Union"—in cigarettes, you mean?

X-Q. 27. Cigarettes and tobacco.

A. Camel, Helmar—the various brands we get orders for, we stock up as we get the orders.

X-Q. 28. Do you handle the Mogul?

A. We handle a small amount, not very many, unless we get a special order, a specially large order.

X-Q. 29. Do you handle Climax Plug?

A. No.

X-Q. 30. Do you handle any Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. We have, off and on. We handle the cigarette.

X-Q. 31. You do handle Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Occasionally we have had orders, and filled our orders.

X-Q. 32. Do you recall when you got your first order?

A. I can't tell.

X-Q. 33. Approximately.

A. I really couldn't tell. We have through a week about a thousand orders. I couldn't recall any particular order.

X-Q. 34. Was it about the time the cigarette first came along?

A. Some time after I first saw the ads in the paper.

X-Q. 35. When did you first see a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, some time after I saw the ad. I have always been interested in advertising. I saw them, I believe, in a tobacco store—whether it was a month or a week later after I saw the ad I don't recall at this time.

X-Q. 36. When you first saw that package of cigarettes, did you examine them?

A. No, only on the face of it.

X-Q. 37. Are you familiar with the names of large tobacco concerns, manufacturing concerns?

A. Why, with some of them, yes.

X-Q. 38. Which ones do you know?

A. American Tobacco Company, Lorillard—those are the only two I recall.

X-Q. 39. You know A. J. Reynolds and Liggett & Myers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes (similar to Beech-Nut Exhibit 1). Is that package the Beech-Nut cigarettes to which you refer as having thought they were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 41. Whose name appears on that?

A. Now, as I recall, on the ads as they appeared originally, I don't believe there was any name. On the ads I didn't see a name, or didn't notice a name.

X-Q. 42. I call your attention to an advertisement of Beech-Nut cigarettes appearing in the "Boston Herald" of today, August 18th, 1921. Is that similar to the advertisement you saw?

A. I don't recall.

(Page 1, Boston Herald, referred to marked for identification, Defendant's Cross Exhibit No. 5.

X-Q. 43. Was it like that advertisement?

A. I think it was a much larger ad I saw at the time.

X-Q. 44. Did it show the picture of the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. That I don't recall.

X-Q. 45. You don't know whether it had P. Lorillard's name on it?

A. I don't recall.

X-Q. 46. You find P. Lorillard's name on it now?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 47. You can't say that that advertisement you saw didn't have Lorillard's name on it?

A. Not at this time.

X-Q. 48. When did you first examine a package of those Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. At the time I made the inquiry regarding the maker of the cigarettes or the manufacturer.

X-Q. 49. Then you examined them?

A. Then I looked at them, yes.

X-Q. 50. Whose name did you see?

A. I saw the name that appears on there. P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 51. You knew it was not the Beech-Nut Packing Company's cigarette?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. Up to that time you had not examined the package?

A. Up to that time I had not taken the trouble to, no.

X-Q. 53. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. Why, I do smoke, but not what you call a very heavy smoker of cigarettes.

X-Q. 54. Have you smoked Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, I haven't.

X-Q. 55. Well, then, you don't know anything about the quality of the Beech-Nut cigarette from personal experience?

A. No, not from personal experience.

X-Q. 56. You don't know anything about the tobacco or its blend?

A. No, nothing at all.

X-Q. 57. You are not really in a position to pass on its merits?

A. No, not on the merits, but my impression was conveyed by the general appearance of the package.

X-Q. 58. What do you mean by that?

A. Well, as I stated, previously always having the Beech-Nut concern in our mind, we handled their line in everything they put out, I felt the cigarette would be a much better one in appearance and perhaps a higher-priced cigarette than what it is.

X-Q. 59. You mean the appearance of the package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. You mean it offended your artistic sense?

A. No, it isn't in line with the appearance of the Beech-Nut products.

X-Q. 61. Did you ever sell cigarettes?

A. I have been selling them right along.

X-Q. 62. Do you sell Beech-Nut products?

A. The full line, yes.

X-Q. 63. What does that line consist of?

A. Why, their line consists of jellies, jams, gum, glass—well, bacon glassed, dried beef and other odds and ends.

X-Q. 64. Food products?

A. Food products in general.

X-Q. 65. You never knew the Beech-Nut people to put out tobacco products?

A. I never have until I happened to see the ad.

X-Q. 66. That was the first time you thought they might have put them out?

A. That was my impression.

X-Q. 66*a*. But you didn't know?

A. I didn't know, no.

X-Q. 67. You never had anyone come into your place and ask you for a package of cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 68. And if a person did ask you that question, if cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, you would not sell them that package of cigarettes?

A. I would tell them it was not put up by the Beech-Nut people, after I got that information.

X-Q. 69. You would tell them it was P. Lorillard's cigarette?

A. If they asked me the question in the way you just put it.

X-Q. 70. If they asked you for cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company you would not sell them that package?

A. No.

X-Q. 71. Because that name on there would indicate it as Lorillard's product?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 72. If a person came into your place of business and asked you for one of the many food products made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, any one of them, you would not sell that person a package of these Lorillard "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. No—as a food product?

X-Q. 73. As a food product.

A. No.

X-Q. 74. Suppose a man asked you for Beech-Nut gum, you would not sell him a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I would mention we had Beech-Nut cigarettes in stock, but not put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 75. But suppose a man came into your place of business and said, I want a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, you would think he was crazy if he took a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of chewing gum?

A. In place of chewing gum?

X-Q. 75*a*. Yes.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 76. Are you a member of this firm you stated?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 77. General manager?

A. And buyer.

Cross-Examination closed.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 78. Mr. Aisenberg, in your direct examination you testified about Beech-Nut Exhibit 1, package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. In cross-examination you were shown and testified about another package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. What is the difference between these two packages?

A. Why, in the first place, one has tissue over it and in the second place I don't believe the blend of red on the one to your left is the same as the one to your right.

R-D. Q. 79. That is, as far as you can tell through the tissue paper?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 80. The one you were testifying about on direct examination is one with tissue paper on it?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 80*a*. And the one you were testifying about on cross-examination is the one without the tissue paper—is that correct?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 81. Mr. Aisenberg, if anybody came into your store and asked you for any single Beech-Nut package, such, for instance, as bacon, or jelly, some particular kind of glassed product or chewing gum, would you try to sell him or substitute on him any other Beech-Nut product than the one he asked for?

A. No. I don't believe I would. I don't believe if I tried, I could.

Re-Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X. Q. 82. As one that is familiar with tobacco and especially cigarettes as put on the market, is it customary, it is, isn't, Mr. Aisenberg, to place a tissue or glacé paper wrapper around the cigarettes to keep the air out?

A. Yes.

R-X. Q. 83. You have often seen it?

A. Many times.

R-X. Q. 84. If you wanted to purchase a package of Lorillard's cigarettes, you could read P. Lorillard's name on it?

A. I guess I could, if I was interested to find it.

R-X Q. 85. That is, if you wanted that brand?

A. Yes, if I bought a 7-20-4 I would see his name on it.

R-X Q. 86. You know it is customary to put that wrapper on the cigarettes?

A. Yes, but I believe I appreciate, and you do, that it is hard to find the name through tissue paper.

R-X Q. 87. And the same way with an Arrow Collar —you would see this name on it?

A. Yes. I just want to say this word for a matter of explanation. I don't consider myself an expert as a tobacco buyer because tobacco is one of our side lines. Our large and chief line is food products, groceries, and we handle tobacco because all grocers handle it and we like to give our grocers a complete line. I don't want to appear in the light of being an expert or big tobacco man. I am not. I want to say we buy from Worcester Tobacco Company, but also Henry Freeman in town; in case one is short, we naturally go to the other. We buy from both of these men and our profit on our merchandise is always as large as if we bought direct.

Re-Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 88. Mr. Aisenberg, whom do you sell tobacco products to when you sell them?

A. Mostly grocery stores.

Re-Re-Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 89. Do you sell to tobacco stores, too?

A. Why, our percentage of sales to tobacco stores is very, very small.

R-X Q. 90. But you do sell to them?

A. Yes, we do, but we have about two thousand accounts on our books and I don't believe a hundred of them would be and have been of the tobacco stores on our books, but they buy very little tobacco unless they should happen to run short on their regular jobber.

JOSEPH S. AISENBERG.

RALPH H. HORNE, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Ralph H. Horne; 31; 11 Marsh Avenue, Worcester, Massachusetts; salesman for Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 2. How long have you been working for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Three years and a half.

Q. 3. And what territories have you covered?

A. Eastern Massachusetts.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in evidence in this case as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1," these being "Beech-Nut" cigarettes. Have you ever seen this product before? If so, when and where did you first see it?

A. I saw them first in Worcester about the first of March, this year.

Q. 5. When these cigarettes first came out, state if you remember whether in the course of your work for Beech-Nut Packing Company you heard comments, remarks, inquiries, or the like, about the cigarettes?

A. Why, people have asked me if—how long we had been putting out cigarettes. Others have come up to my car—people that I knew—and asked for cigarettes.

Q. 6. How many times has that kind of thing happened?

A. Oh, I should say hundreds of times.

Q. 7. Can you tell me the names of any people who have made this kind of inquiry from you or made that kind of remark?

A. H. J. Kearns, Dr. F. C. Hayes, F. E. Lekberg, A. H. Powers, David Harrington, Francis M. Farrell, Warner Bottomly.

Q. 8. Have there been others besides these particular instances?

A. Why, yes, a number of others.

Q. 9. When was the last time that you heard this kind of a remark and what was the remark you heard?

A. This morning, I would say about ten o'clock. This Francis M. Farrell made the remark—I was talking about Beech-Nut cigarettes, and he stepped up and asked me this question, "Ain't you putting out the Beech-Nut cigarettes?"

Q. 10. Well, now, take, for instance—did you mention a man named Bottomly or something like that?

A. Yes, Warner Bottomly.

Q. 11. See if you can remember what he said.

A. He says, "I have been saving a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. You expect us to smoke them," and, he says, "You can smoke them yourself."

Q. 12. How long ago was this?

Mr. Cavanagh: What was his answer?

A. He says, "I have been saving a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes—what there is left." He says, "You expect us to smoke them. You can smoke the rest of them yourself."

Q. 13. Can you recite any further instances of this character or any further remarks made to you about

Beech-Nut cigarettes? Be careful to state exactly what was said and nothing more.

A. This Kearns, H. J. Kearns, stepped up to me one day and says, "Give me a package of cigarettes." Dr. Hayes says, "How are the cigarettes going?" A. H. Powers says, "I see you are putting out cigarettes now." David Harrington, "How long have you been making cigarettes?" I told you about Farrell, didn't I?

Q. 14. Yes. And these instances you have referred to, have they been confined to Worcester or have they happened in other territory you have covered?

A. They have happened in all my territory.

Q. 15. Can you state an instance in some other town, for illustration?

A. Why, there is one in Fall River, Walker's Market, New Boston Road. I went into this store and saw his cigarettes and he asked me, "How Beech-Nut cigarettes were going?" I asked him that, and he said, "Not very good." He says, "I put them in knowing your other products were good."

Q. 16. When was this Fall River episode?

A. Last Tuesday, which would be August 16th.

(Direct examination closed.)

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. What did you say your connection with the Beech-Nut Packing Company is?

A. Salesman.

X-Q. 18. Mr. Horne, you have been assisting Mr. Hinton in collecting witnesses and evidence in this case, haven't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. You have been going around interviewing witnesses about this, and talking to them?

A. I haven't been talking. I?

X-Q. 20. Haven't you seen witnesses——?

A. Mr. Hinton did the talking.

X-Q. 21. You never went to see a witness by yourself?

A. Not any of the witnesses we had.

X-Q. 22. Did you see any probable witness by yourself?

A. What do you mean by a witness?

X-Q. 23. I mean this, by a "witness": As I understood, you have been assisting Mr. Hinton in collecting evidence?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. That is being taken during this time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. And by "this time," I mean the past few days or for the past few weeks. Your territory is here in Worcester?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. And you have been collecting witnesses?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. When did you first see Mr. Hinton about this matter?

A. Last Saturday.

X-Q. 28. After you saw Mr. Hinton, did you see any witness in connection with this matter or ask anybody to testify?

A. Of course I have talked with several. I haven't asked any of them to testify.

X-Q. 29. Have you gone around and talked to them?

A. Why, I have talked; I have talked to hundreds, not anything to do with witnesses.

X-Q. 30. That is what you have been doing during the last few days?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31. You haven't done any of that work since last Saturday?

A. Not to have any official witness at all.

X-Q. 32. What have you done in this connection?

A. Why, well, I guess I have talked with people and if they had anything to say I tried to remember it and jotted it down for my own convenience.

X-Q. 33. So you didn't talk to them about this case?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 34. Well, didn't you go out of here this morning to try to get a witness?

A. To try to get a witness?

X-Q. 35. Yes.

A. Sure.

X-Q. 36. A witness that didn't appear on time, or something of that sort?

A. Well, I went out to get a man for Mr. Hinton.

X-Q. 37. You gave Mr. Hinton that man's name, didn't you?

A. You mean like this man that has come up here?

X-Q. 38. Yes. You told Mr. Hinton that man's name?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. You got that witness for Mr. Hinton?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. Do you sell any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. Do you ever sell any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 42. Do you know if they handle, or make, or sell tobacco products?

A. Not to my knowledge.

X-Q. 43. You say you talked to hundreds of people that have said they were under the impression that this Beech-Nut cigarette was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. You haven't named hundreds of people here, have you?

A. No.

X-Q. 45. Do you recall who those hundreds of people were?

A. No, I can't. I can't give the definite number of people either.

X-Q. 46. Did you see any of these persons that you have named, such as Kearns and others, examine or handle a package of cigarettes like that which is here as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1"?

A. Did I see them handle it, do you say?

X-Q. 47. Yes, and examine it.

A. No.

X-Q. 48. So you don't know whether they ever examined that package or not, do you?

A. Well, they would all—some of them had smoked it.

X-Q. 49. But you couldn't say they ever examined that package and read the matter on it?

A. No, I couldn't.

X-Q. 50. Do you use tobacco yourself?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 51. And you know, as far as the various brands go, that each man may have his own favorite brand and blend?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. Some men might prefer Camel or Fatimas?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 53. It is the same way with cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. When the Beech-Nut Packing Company puts a new article of merchandise on the market, do you get notice of it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. Just before it goes on the market—what is the procedure?

A. Why, we hear of it sometimes two or three months before it goes on.

X-Q. 56. Through the usual form, circular letters or instructions, or something of that sort?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 57. You never had any such instructions regarding any tobacco product from Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 58. Will you tell me whose name appears on this tobacco package?

A. P. Lorillard & Company.

X-Q. 59. The name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company does not appear on that package, does it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 60. And it is the practice for the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put its name on its packages of products, isn't it?

A. Why, naturally, the same as any other concern.

X-Q. 61. So that you know that isn't any product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, don't you?

A. I know now.

X-Q. 62. With that name, "P. Lorillard Company," that indicates it is Lorillard's, to you?

A. It would, if I looked it over.

X-Q. 63. The minute you examine it you would know that?

A. If I looked for it.

X-Q. 64. Did you ever know of any person to go into a store and ask to purchase a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes made and put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and to be handed or palmed a package of P. Lorillard cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 65. Well, if you went into a store yourself and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, could you be deceived or confused into accepting a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 66. And you don't know of any person who was so deceived, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 67. You never sold tobacco yourself?

A. No.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 68. Mr. Horne, you have been asked by Mr. Cavanagh about going for Mr. Aisenberg immediately before you testified. Do you know what happened in connection with Mr. Aisenberg, and why you had to go for him?

A. It was because I knew him; so I could get him up here quicker, to save time, as I thought he was going to Boston on the 2 o'clock train.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

No recross-examination.

RALPH H. HORNE.

DORACE L. BOTTOMLY, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Dorace L. Bottomly; 6 Fridel street, Worcester; grocery clerk.

Q. 2. In the grocery store in which you work, have you handled any of the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. And how long, as far as you know, have you handled those products?

A. Why, off and on for a number of years, quite a number of years.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes which is in evidence in this case as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1." Have you ever seen these cigarettes before?

A. I have.

Q. 5. If so, when and where did you first see them?

A. Well, my brother bought a package, the first time I saw them; I saw them possibly before that on the cigar stands.

Q. 6. About when was this?

A. Why, this spring; this last spring.

Q. 7. You have said that your brother bought a package of these cigarettes. Did you smoke any of those cigarettes?

A. I did.

Q. 8. Did you take them out of the package your brother had?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. 9. At that time, by whom did you believe this product was made?

A. Why, I thought it was the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 10. Do you know why you believed that?

A. Why, I thought I recognized the label on there.

Q. 11. How long did you continue to believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Until I met Mr. Horne, the agent, one night.

Q. 12. Who is Mr. Horne?

A. The representative or agent, salesman, for Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 13. Yes, and then what happened?

A. I asked him if he ever tried one of the cigarettes—something like that. He laughed. And finally it come about I asked him if he made these cigarettes. He replied, No, his firm didn't make them.

Q. 14. Have you a brother?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. What is his name?

A. Warner; J. Warner.

Q. 16. J. Warner Bottomly?

A. J. Warner Bottomly.

Q. 17. Is he acquainted with Mr. Horne, do you know?

A. Yes, he is.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 18. Mr. Bottomly, what concern are you employed by?

A. Maywood Market.

X-Q. 19. What is their line of business?

A. Grocery and meats.

X-Q. 20. Wholesale or retail?

A. Retail.

X-Q. 21. Do they sell tobacco products?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. So you do not sell tobacco products?

A. Never sold them.

X-Q. 23. Did you purchase any of these Beech-Nut cigarettes yourself?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 24. You have never gone into a store and asked for Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I never have.

X-Q. 25. Did you handle the package your brother had?

A. I did.

X-Q. 26. Did you take the trouble to examine it?

A. Not closely, no.

X-Q. 27. Didn't read anything on it at all, did you?

A. No, I didn't. I saw there was the Beech-Nut label on there.

X-Q. 28. You mean, you saw they were Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, I saw they were "Beech-Nut" cigarettes.

X-Q. 29. Is that what you mean by the Beech-Nut label?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. Just that name "Beech-Nut"?

A. "Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 31. Will you look at that package now, and tell me whose name is on it?

A. Why, Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 32. I call your attention to Plaintiff's Exhibit 1.

A. "Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 33. What wording on that package would you take to indicate the party making or putting out that cigarette?

A. "Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 34. What does this mean (indicating)? Can you read?

A. I can read it, yes.

X-Q. 35. Read it, then.

A. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 36. Did you ever hear of the Lorillard Company?

A. I never did.

X-Q. 37. You don't chew tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 38. Smoke cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. Did you ever smoke Moguls?

A. No.

X-Q. 40. Or Egyptian Deities?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. Murad?

A. No.

X-Q. 42. Helmar?

A. I believe I have.

X-Q. 43. You are really not familiar with the makes of cigarettes?

A. I have an idea of who they are made by.

X-Q. 44. Do you know Beech-Nut Packing Company's name appears on its goods?

A. I believe it does.

X-Q. 45. But you don't know, do you? Do you know if Beech-Nut Packing Company puts out any other brands of goods other than under the name "Beech-Nut"?

A. I don't know.

X-Q. 46. You never heard of "Mohawk" brand?

A. No.

X-Q. 47. Or "Erie" brand?

A. No.

X-Q. 48. If you went into a store and wanted to buy some Beech-Nut chewing gum—by that I mean the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company—could you be confused or deceived into taking a package of these Lorillard "Beech-Nut" cigarettes in place of the article you wanted?

A. Not if I asked for Beech-Nut cigarettes.

(Question read.)

A. Well, as I take it, Beech-Nut don't make cigarettes. How could I be confused on Beech-Nut cigarettes?

X-Q. 49. Well, I will put the question this way specifically, so you will understand me. If you went into a store, and we will say, for example, a retail store, and asked for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum made by Beech-Nut Packing Company, could the clerk fool you or deceive you into taking a package of these cigarettes in place of the gum?

A. No, not if I wanted gum. I would know what it was.

X-Q. 50. That is it. So you would never mix cigarettes with gum?

A. No.

DORACE L. BOTTOMLY.

JOHN H. LANG, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. John H. Lang; 41; 44 William street, Worcester; wholesale grocer.

Q. 2. With what firm are you connected?

A. C. A. King Company.

Q. 3. Do they do business in the wholesale grocery line in Worcester?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Does your firm handle tobacco products for the grocery trade?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1." Have you ever seen cigarettes like these before; if so, when, if you can remember, did you first see them?

A. That brand?

Q. 6. Yes.

A. Well, I first saw it in a newspaper advertisement.

Q. 7. Did you subsequently see the cigarettes themselves?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. When you first saw the advertisement to which you have referred, by whom did you think this product "Beech-Nut" was made?

A. Well, I read it at home, and I said to Mrs. Lang, "What in the dickens do the Beech-Nut people want to come out with a cigarette for?"

Q. 9. What made you think this product was the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, naturally, being a wholesale grocer, we think of the brand "Beech-Nut" as applied to the meat people, and my thought was "what do the meat people want to get into the cigarette game for?"

Q. 10. Will you state how long you continued to believe the Beech-Nut cigarettes were product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Oh, it probably run along—why it must have run along for a month or six weeks.

Q. 11. And then did you find out the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with these cigarettes?

A. One day at the office, when the specialty man was there, the subject came up and I guess I asked him the question: "What the Beech-Nut people wanted to go into this game for?" and he said, "That isn't a Beech-Nut product at all, that it was being made by a tobacco house." Then I remember of saying, "How the dickens —I might have made it a stronger term than that—can a tobacco house get away with it?"—that was my first thought, how can a tobacco house get away with it, how can they get away with a Beech-Nut brand of cigarettes? I was quite surprised, as I say, because my thought was I realized that when the Beech-Nut Packing people was putting out a cigarette I thought immediately, it is pulling down the high prestige they have had as a meat house; my thought was, it wasn't a good thing.

Q. 12. I would like to have your whole thought, if you have something further to say.

A. My thought was, they have built a high prestige in the meat line of packing, and if they had got to resort to a cigarette it seemed to me it was pulling down that prestige they had been working on for years. That was why I was surprised the Beech-Nut people had come out with a cigarette.

Q. 13. Did you ever hear of a Beech-Nut chewing tobacco or scrap tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 14. It is not sold in this territory?

A. No, sir.

Q. 15. Will you tell me, if you know, whether scrap chewing tobacco sells through this territory?

A. I never heard the term "scrap tobacco."

Q. 16. Do I understand you have sold tobacco products through your house to your grocery trade?

A. Yes.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. Mr. Lang, do you personally sell tobacco?

A. The C. A. King Company, and our salesmen, and I being one of the salesmen, we sell tobacco.

X-Q. 18. Have you personally sold tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. What brands?

A. Why, all the local, popular brands of tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 20. What are those?

A. "Just Suits," Mayo's, that is—(I have a whole page of them in the cost book)—all the popular cut plugs, Prince Albert—I don't use tobacco myself; there is a new one that has come out in a cigarette, 1-11, Meccas, Helmars, Perfections, Eglantin, Planet, and, oh, probably half a dozen different cigars. We buy quite a little direct and quite a lot through Shaw. The tobacco account has been one that we handle more for accommodation to our outlying customers than because there is any real benefit to King & Company. In other words, the profit isn't enough to make us interested in it particularly, although we sell thousands of dollars worth through the year.

X-Q. 21. Do you consider it a different line from the grocery business—from food products?

A. No, sir; we would like, and would welcome, a big tobacco business if we could see that it was helping us financially. We talked with a wholesaler in this state some time ago, knowing that he had developed a million-dollar business a year, and we found he was doing it on so close a margin experts had told him who had made a study of profits in the wholesale grocery line, that he was losing money, even though he was doing a million-dollar-a-year business, and apparently was not increasing his overhead by so selling that line.

X-Q. 22. You mean that the tobacco business has gained, in itself?

A. I mean that we cannot see where there is a profit large enough to interest us in it particularly.

X-Q. 23. Yes. Outside of the question of profit, you would never mix food products with tobacco; you would not sell one for the other, would you?

A. I don't just get you.

X-Q. 24. I mean this: If a person came into your store, for example, and wanted to buy, say, 1000 Beech-Nut hams and 1000 jars of preserves, or a thousand packages of Beech-Nut chewing gum, all being the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, you would not fill that person's order by sending him a carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes like this; would you substitute the cigarettes for the food product?

A. Why, that would be what we call a shipping error, to send something different than what he ordered.

X-Q. 25. You would not do it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 26. Do you know the names of any prominent tobacco manufacturers?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 27. You have never paid enough attention to tobacco for this purpose?

A. No, I haven't. It has often come up in the office that we could buy these many different things that we sell in the tobacco line, we could buy them as cheaply of Shaw as we could direct of the tobacco people, and I only think of the tobacco people as some organization, some big trust or a combination of trusts that control that whole sweep of the tobacco industry, and so we trade more locally, with Shaw, and buy very little direct.

X-Q. 28. You don't enter the tobacco field at all?

A. No, sir. There is a man that comes in who deals in some of the plugs, and I suppose he represents a big tobacco concern, but if I was to give my stenographer an order for some tobacco direct, I wouldn't know where to mail the order. I haven't taken any interest in it.

X-Q. 29. You have never examined carefully tobacco packages, have you?

A. Only as I would glance at them as one would get the first impression.

X-Q. 30. As I understand it, you never carefully examined that package?

A. Only as I saw it advertised in the paper.

X-Q. 31. I call your attention to an advertisement appearing on page one of the Boston Herald of August 18th, 1921, today, and which page has been marked for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 5, and direct your particular attention to an advertisement of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Could you tell me what name is shown on that fac-simile of the package?

A. It is P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 32. You do not find the words "Beech-Nut Packing Company" anywheres on that advertisement?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 33. Is that the same, or similar to the advertisement you saw in the paper?

A. I should say it was identical.

X-Q. 34. So you did not read the advertisement very carefully, to see if the Beech-Nut name was on it, or Lorillard's name?

A. The thing that impressed me the first time I saw it was the name "Beech-Nut," and what seemed to clinch my thought it must be a Beech-Nut product was the similarity in the trade-mark below "Beech-Nut." I always think of the Beech-Nut products as having a picture of the two half or two whole beech-nuts present; that, having the same, I had no thought that it could be other than the Beech-Nut product. I didn't go below the trade-mark. I didn't go below this circle here.

X-Q. 35. So you didn't examine it carefully at all?

A. I remember at the time this traveling man told me it wasn't a Beech-Nut product. I says, "For Heaven's sake," I says, "they have got the Beech-Nut picture, the same as Beech-Nut has for theirs."

X-Q. 36. What do you mean by the picture?

A. This, here (indicating)—these two—I don't know whether that is two halves of a beech-nut or whether it represents two beech-nuts together. I always think of the Beech-Nut trade-mark as having the beech-nut pictured under their Beech-Nut brand.

X-Q. 37. You say that label is identical with the Beech-Nut label?

A. I say that was my thought when I first saw it.

X-Q. 38. I show you a representation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company label, which is in this case, which has been marked for identification in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 3. Is that Beech-Nut picture (indicating) like that one in the advertisement?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. Why isn't it like it to you?

A. It is not just like it.

X-Q. 40. Well, it isn't like it, is it?

By Mr. Hinton: The witness has answered the question.

A. Well, it isn't like it, no.

X-Q. 41. I presume you have handled a great many varieties of package goods, such as food products and the like, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 42. And of course you have observed a great many instances where these various food products have as a part of their label an oval, haven't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 43. That is quite common?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. Isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 45. As I understand it, you never purchased a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 46. And you never examined them until today, did you?

A. Well, I haven't today, only as you have shown me the package of them.

X-Q. 47. I mean, this is the first time you saw a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. So you never really made an examination, to decide whether it was a Beech-Nut Packing Company cigarette or P. Lorillard's cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 49. So, as far as you know, no person has ever come into your place of business, or any other place of business, and asked for Beech-Nut Packing Company cigarettes?

A. No, sir, not into our place; we don't sell Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 50. Now, I understand you do not handle the Beech-Nut cigarette at all?

A. Not to my knowledge, unless it might be on some special order that might have come in and our head office man may have called up Shaw for a carton; there are a great many times through the month that from our outlying customers through the country districts we get certain things in the tobacco line for, as an accommodation. There are a number of brands that I go through and that I check from day to day that I am not even familiar with the prices of.

X-Q. 51. Well, personally you have never sold a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Personally I don't remember of Beech-Nut cigarettes going through our house.

X-Q. 52. And personally you have never sold a package, have you?

A. No.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 53. You testified on cross-examination about a certain comparison between the beech-nut on the Beech-Nut cigarette package and the beech-nut on the Beech-Nut Packing Company label. State whether or not when you were being asked about those two beech-nuts you had them both before you side by side, and were comparing the two. Do you understand the question?

A. I don't think I get you.

R-D. Q. 54. All I want to get at is this: Were you comparing the two that way (lying side by side), or comparing the appearance of the two, one with the other, or testifying from recollection, or both of them? If you don't understand the question, let me make it plain to you before you answer it.

A. I can tell you my impression when I first saw the ad in the paper, and I can now give you my impression as I compared them side by side, if that is what you want.

R-D. Q. 55. On direct examination you gave us your impression as you saw the ad in the paper. On cross-examination you were shown this Beech-Nut Packing Company label and the "Beech-Nut" label on the cigarettes and asked whether the two pictures of the beech-nuts were the same. When you answered those questions were you comparing these two pictures with each other, or were you testifying from recollection?

A. Well, I was testifying, comparing the two; comparing the two. My recollection as I saw it in the paper was they were much more similar than they appear to be now side by side under direct examination.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 56. They look different to you when you compare them now, don't they?

A. They look different to me, surely.

JOHN H. LANG.

ALVAH L. CONANT, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, first being duly sworn, notice of production of the said witness being waived, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Alvah L. Conant, 30 Hartshorn Avenue, Worcester; thirty-seven; salesman.

Q. 2. Mr. Conant, have you used Beech-Nut Packing Company products in your home? If so, how long have you used them, do you remember?

A. Oh, five years, roughly, jellies.

Q. 3. And nothing else other than Beech-Nut jellies?

A. We used the full line.

Q. 4. Prior to the early Spring of this year, tell me what you thought of Beech-Nut Packing Company and their products?

A. I looked upon them as one of the representative houses in the States, thoroughly reliable, and was proud to be a consumer of theirs, a family consumer.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1." Have you ever seen these cigarettes before, or an advertisement of these cigarettes? If so, tell us, please, when you first saw this?

A. I was first attracted to the fact they might be making a cigarette when my boy called my attention to an unusual billboard on the road while I was touring with my family.

Q. 6. When was this, do you remember?

A. It was the first thirty days of their campaign.

Q. 7. Was this in 1921, should you say?

A. Well, it was if it wasn't the last part of 1920. I cannot tell you that right offhand, sir.

Q. 8. When you first saw that large billboard ad, by whom did you believe those cigarettes were made?

A. Beech-Nut Products Company, sir, decidedly.

Q. 9. Will you state, Mr. Conant, why if you know when you saw that advertisement you believed this was the product of Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, because I have a great respect for the trade name "Beech-Nut," and my two kiddies being consumers of the product, I was forcibly impressed and instantly impressed with the fact that it seemed to be unusual to blend purity with impurity, if you know what I mean—(you will have to accept me as I am). I thought that with the line they were producing, that with a thorough corps of salesmen, they would have all they could do to produce what could be consumed without having an intelligent corps of salesmen explain why there had to be a side line or blending of anything that was forcibly contrasted to me as those two products to manufacture.

Q. 10. Can you state what the effect was on you, on your personal attitude to the Beech-Nut Packing Company, when, as you have stated, you saw these cigarettes or an advertisement thereof and believed they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. My estimation of them as manufacturers was decidedly altered.

Q. 11. What if any decision did you make about the purchase of their products?

A. Why, I immediately made the decision to learn of a manufacturer of pure food products solely, to see that my friends and myself purchased our requirements from them, and I told all my friends and my folks they ought not to purchase from a firm that was becoming what it was evident to me the Beech-Nut Products Company were becoming.

Q. 12. Did you confine this opinion and change of good will about the Beech-Nut Packing Company to yourself, or did you mention the matter to others?

Mr. Cavanagh: The question is objected to. There has been no testimony given to indicate any change of good will; the questions calls for a conclusion of the witness.

Mr. Hinton: What the witness has said certainly does indicate a change of good will.

(Question read.)

A. I did decidedly mention it to my business friends and social friends.

Q. 13. And what did you tell your business friends, do you remember?

A. Why, being a one-line man myself, I decided any product that came into my home must be one-line products, and that I felt, as I said before, that we should stand by a manufacturer who was consistent with his declarations and advertisements as to purity and that sort of thing—perhaps you won't understand my wording in there—and that just as soon as I found a house I could sincerely recommend I would advise them of it. And this I did, too.

Q. 14. Will you state again, so that I may clearly understand you, what recommendation if any you made to your friends about this proposition?

A. Yes, I recommended the "Burlington Jelly House."

Q. 15. Now, you mean instead of Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes. Yes, I did. A Mrs. Jenkins, a concern known as Mrs. Jenkins' Jellies.

Q. 16. How long did you continue to tell your friends, advise your friends, to buy the products of another house than the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Oh, I would say—as I told you this morning, there was about three or four or five weeks, say a month, offhand.

Q. 17. Did you subsequently stop telling your friends or recommending to your friends to buy other products in place of the Beech-Nut products?

A. Well, decidedly; but it is a question as to how far I might have gone where I could correct a wrongful opinion, that is, not a wrongful opinion—it is a question of how far I might have gone to where it was impossible to correct a natural decision—I had a thought. I don't know whether I have put it on paper. I know what I mean.

Q. 18. Mr. Conant, what was it which caused you to stop recommending other products in place of the Beech-Nut products and again recommend Beech-Nut products?

A. A clear explanation on the part of the Beech-Nut Products Company's representative, Mr. Ralph Horne, led me to believe I would be decidedly loyal to Beech-Nut.

Q. 19. What did he tell you?

A. There wasn't any connection between the cigarette manufacturers and the manufacturers of his products, of his company.

Q. 20. You have testified that when you first saw the sign, you believed the cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company; that you thereafter not only yourself decided not to purchase further Beech-Nut Packing Company products, but so recommended to your friends; that subsequently you were advised by the Beech-Nut man here that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make the cigarettes and again became loyal to the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I would like to have you tell me in a little more detail, if you can remember, just what you said to your friends and business acquaintances during the time you were recommending people to buy other products rather than Beech-Nut Packing Company products.

A. Well, I imagine the three of you gentlemen are cigarette users here. I am very antagonistic to cigarettes, you know. I decide very quickly, and I just decided there wasn't anything coming into my home for the kiddies in the way of a mixed line of manufacturer's products. That was all. I decide things quickly, and that was decided inside of thirty seconds. I wouldn't any more think of mixing high-grade jellies and cigarettes than I would of race horses and fast launches. I don't think there should be any connection and was very much astonished to have this billboard proclaiming to me the Beech-Nut Packing Company, I believed, in marketing their stock and my being personally solicited, that they should want additional funds to venture into any such, to my mind, unwise step.

Q. 21. Can you remember what it was that you said to your friends about this business at the time you were recommending people against buying Beech-Nut prod ucts—what argument did you give them?

A. It would be quite difficult to go over my quickly concocted selling explanation, either whether I was receiving remuneration for it or whether I was recommending courteously or hammering discourteously a line I wanted my business friends and social friends to be aware of, or to be aware of from a point of letting them alone. It would require so much energy, and not being willing to expend the energy, I don't see how I could tell you except with each individual being reviewed, really. I emphasized the fact that it was unwise for a house of that sort that I thought Beech-Nut products was, to be making a tobacco product and that I was disappointed and that I thought any high-grade manufacturers of jellies, who was having their profit solely from that source, should benefit by what little business we had to give them.

(Direct examination closed.)

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 22. Mr. Conant, what line of goods do you sell? You say you are a salesman?

A. Cleaning products; chemicals and cleaning products.

X-Q. 23. You don't sell any grocery lines?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever sell any food products?

A. No, sir, not for a remuneration to myself.

X-Q. 25. I mean, in your business?

A. Not as having held a position; no, sir.

X-Q. 26. You were speaking a while ago of certain billboard that you saw. Where was this billboard?

A. I would say between here and Fitchburg.

X-Q. 27. Fitchburg, Massachusetts?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. Were you riding past the billboard in a car?

A. Yes, I was.

X-Q. 29. You didn't stop and go up and examine that billboard?

A. I slowed down to be courteous to my boy's observation in this particular matter. I pulled my throttle right down.

X-Q. 30. Will you please describe that advertisement to me in detail, what it showed?

A. Oh, in pulling down from thirty-five or forty to twenty-five or thirty, I remember seeing the word "Beech-Nut" and that was sufficient for me to see, as descriptive of that product.

X-Q. 31. How did you know it related to tobacco?

A. I know it said "Cigarettes" on the billboard.

X-Q. 32. Did it have a package of cigarettes on it?

A. That I don't recall. I recall the "Beech-Nut" and the "Cigarettes."

X-Q. 33. Did it have the name of Beech-Nut Packing Company on it?

A. That I don't recall. I would say from what I know now that it did not.

X-Q. 34. It did have the name P. Lorillard Company on it?

A. That I don't know, sir. I repeat, it seemed to be for me sufficient to see the words "Beech-Nut" and "Cigarettes" on it.

X-Q. 35. You just glanced at it and then went by, as you rode along in your car?

A. And emphatically formed my conclusions. I did not glance at it and then drop the topic, because I was forcibly impressed, personally.

X-Q. 36. But you did not stop your car and examine it?

A. You would not be supposed to do that in connection with billboard advertising.

X-Q. 37. How long have you known this Mr. Horne?

A. Five years, I would say.

X-Q. 38. How long have you known Mr. Horne to represent the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. You are testing me forcibly now, but just give me a second—three years, sir, roughly.

X-Q. 39. Did you ever buy any Beech-Nut products from Mr. Horne?

A. Quantities of them, yes, sir.

X-Q. 40. How long a period of time?

A. On and off, for three years, sir.

X-Q. 41. At how frequent intervals?

A. Sixty to ninety days, through those years.

X-Q. 42. And Mr. Horne lives in town, doesn't he?

A. Yes, he does.

X-Q. 43. Do you know where the Beech-Nut Packing Company is located?

A. Yes, I remember of Mr. Horne telling me he went to a conference there, that was the only way I knew that. It is an Indian name.

X-Q. 44. Canajoharie, New York?

A. Yes, that is it.

X-Q. 45. You knew they were up there?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 46. And you have been buying goods from Mr. Horne for three years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 47. And you rode by a sign in Fitchburg, without stopping to look at it, and you came to the conclusion that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out cigarettes—is that right?

A. Decidedly, yes.

X-Q. 48. Are you antagonistic to tobacco? You are, aren't you?

A. Yes, I am.

X-Q. 49. You don't use cigarettes, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 50. Or chew tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 51. Or smoke?

A. I don't smoke at all.

X-Q. 52. And, being antagonistic to tobacco and all its works, as I understand it, you rode by a sign along side the road and you just gave a glance at it——?

A. No.

X-Q. 53. ——or looked at it?

A. No; I read it sufficiently to know the words "Beech-Nut" and the word "Cigarettes" were on there.

X-Q. 54. I want to get this clear. Whether you read it sufficiently to know whether Beech-Nut Packing Company's name was on it or not, or whether P. Lorillard's name was on it or not, as you have testified that on the strength of that fleeting impression, do you mean to tell me you came back to this town and not only ceased your trading with a reputable concern like Beech-Nut Packing Company, but that you deliberately went around and spread the report amongst other people, that these people were engaged in selling cigarettes?

A. Not on that conclusion alone.

X-Q. 55. You did that?

A. Pardon me, not on that conclusion alone.

X-Q. 56. But you spread the report amongst these people, your friends, that these people were selling cigarettes and you recommended another house to them?

A. I would decidedly do that, with a firm that was manufacturing cigarettes in a case like this.

X-Q. 57. You have stated you did recommend them to other houses to deal with?

A. Decidedly.

X-Q. 58. And Mr. Horne was representing Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 59. And knew where the Beech-Nut Packing Company was located?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. And, instead of calling up Mr. Horne and asking him if they were putting out cigarettes, or instead of using a two-cent stamp and writing to the Beech-Nut Packing Company, you turned around and without any definite evidence as to whether or not they were putting out cigarettes, you went around individually and caused a loss of trade amongst the customers of a reputable concern?

A. I had those reasons for my concluding it was a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 61. If you had written to Canajoharie when you got home from the automobile trip, you would have found out, wouldn't you?

A. As a consumer of theirs, I am not obliged to.

X-Q. 62. But, not knowing whether they were putting out cigarettes or not, you convicted them of putting out that cigarette?

A. I convicted them, because unfortunately, being a representative myself, I would say that led the general public to conclude that was the fact, sir.

X-Q. 63. But you didn't ask Mr. Horne was it a fact?

A. Yes, I did.

X-Q. 64. Immediately?

A. As soon as I saw him.

X-Q. 65. Immediately?

A. No, I don't think so.

X-Q. 66. You knew where Mr. Horne was?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 67. And you knew where the Beech-Nut Packing Company was?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 68. If you thought a man was doing a wrong

A. I had no reason to believe they were doing other than what appeared on that billboard, sir.

X-Q. 69. You did not know it was the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I concluded it was. It wasn't put there for me to take the trouble to stop and look. I simply saw "Beech-Nut Cigarettes," and concluded, as did my eight-year-old boy, that it was a Beech-Nut product——

X-Q. 70. So, on the opinion of an eight-year-old boy you convicted the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out this cigarette, did you?

Mr. Hinton: He has testified that other people had spoken about it.

Mr. Cavanagh: Let him finish.

Mr. Hinton: He was not taking a mere word of an eight-year-old boy.

Mr. Cavanagh: Mr. Hinton is not asked to testify in this case. Mr. Cavanagh is cross-examining the witness and will continue it. If Mr. Hinton has any legal objection, he should state it.

X-Q. 71. Let us go back. You didn't write to the Beech-Nut Packing Company at Canajoharie and ask them if they were putting out cigarettes?

A. I don't know as I was obliged to—I think I should have to object to the way you put that, but but being a consumer of theirs I don't know of any reason why I should write.

X-Q. 72. You did not write to them and ask if they were putting out the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Not being a consumer of cigarettes there would be no reason why I should do that. I was using their jellies, etc.

X-Q. 73. You immediately, after seeing that sign, went around amongst your acquaintances and friends and told them they should not buy the Beech-Nut products but recommended others, and because you happended to be antagonistic to tobacco——

A. Not necessarily that, but because of the disappointment of having that impression made on me. Impressions come to me quickly.

X-Q. 74. Don't you think it would be fair to have found out whether or not the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out Beech-Nut cigarettes before you went to such extremes as to go around amongst your friends, neighbors and acquaintances and ask them to stop buying Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods and recommend to them a competitor's goods?

A. Not in connection with the weighty matter this has turned out to be. I find in my connection with it that others were so impressed.

X-Q. 75. So you believe in convicting them of putting out the Beech-Nut cigarettes before you knew anything about it?

A. Through no fault of their own, decidedly yes.

X-Q. 76. That is all on that point. You say you never bought a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 77. Will you tell what name is on this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes which I show you?

A. Lorillard's.

X-Q. 78. Read the name, please.

A. P. Lorillard & Co. I have sold thousands of dollars of their goods.

X-Q. 79. You have sold thousands of dollars' worth of their goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 80. It is a reputable house in its line, isn't it?

A. Now that I know them, as I have—right now is the first time I knew Lorillard was putting out the Beech-Nut cigarettes, and they have lowered their standing very, very decidedly, sir, with me.

X-Q. 81. What line of business is P. Lorillard & Co. in?

A. High-grade tobacconists.

X-Q. 82. You have sold their goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 83. And you didn't take the trouble, before you spread the report that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out a cigarette, you didn't even take the trouble to buy a package and look and see whose name is on it and write to the Lorillard Company to find out?

A. I ask you why I should buy a package of cigarettes?

X-Q. 84. If you thought so much of the Beech-Nut products, like you have led me to believe, and before you would go around and damage a reputation, I should think you might have paid fifteen cents to find out what it would be and look at the package—wouldn't you do that?

A. Not being a buyer in other lines, I would not take the trouble to look at the house putting it out.

X-Q. 85. Couldn't you go to a cigar store and look at a package?

A. No. It would be sufficient for me to have them put out by the Beech-Nut people, to put "Beech-Nut" on their product.

X-Q. 86. Do you realize that it is dangerous business to go about and damage a firm's reputation on so slight evidence as that?

A. I decidedly contradict that, when I say in being a consistent user of the Beech-Nut products, and seeing that sign, I could form my own conclusions as to their making a cigarette, and speak of it as tactfully as I could.

X-Q. 87. Don't you think it would lead to a suit for slander, libel on the case?

A. No, sir. No.

X-Q. 88. Do you find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package any place? Examine it.

A. It is sufficient to me, I tell you again, to see the word "Beech-Nut" on it.

X-Q. 89. I ask you, do you find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package any place? Examine it, please.

A. No, sir. I answer, no, sir.

X-Q. 90. So that you now know that the package of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company?

A. Why, I don't know that it is.

X-Q. 91. Would the name on there lead you to believe that?

A. Oh, from what I know now I wouldn't question that. But I know this—and I want to say what I think—I think the Beech-Nut Company has a very high-grade clientele in the States and I think any product that used Beech-Nut in connection with selling of a product would be the result of a direct thought-out campaign, sir.

X-Q. 92. That is only your personal opinion, and that is objected to as voluntary. Did you ever hear of "Beech-Nut" whiskey?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 93. You never heard of that being trade-marked?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 94. Do you know how long P. Lorillard has been putting out Beech-Nut tobacco products?

A. Oh, as Beech-Nut products?

X-Q. 95. As tobacco products going under that trade name?

A. Hasn't it been about a year? It seems to me I recall something about it.

X-Q. 96. That is all you know about it?

A. That is all I know about it. I was called in here in twenty minutes.

X-Q. 97. Did you ever see a package similar to that tobacco (indicating)? Scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 98. Whose name is on there?

A. Lorillard's.

X-Q. 99. Do you know how long Lorillard Company has been putting out that?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 100. If you went into a store and wanted to buy a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, could you be confused or deceived into accepting and purchasing a package of this P. Lorillard "Beech-Nut Cigarettes" in the place of that chewing gum? Would you take that for chewing gum?

A. Why, decidedly not, no sir.

X-Q. 101. I show you a copy of the first page of the Boston Herald of today, August 18, 1921, which has been marked in this case for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 5. Is that like the billboard advertisement you saw?

A. I don't recall, sir, really. I don't recall. I repeat to you I simply saw "Beech-Nut Cigarettes."

X-Q. 102. As you rode by?

A. As I rode by, yes.

Cross-examination closed.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 103. Mr. Conant, did I understand you to say on your cross-examination you had sold tobacco products of P. Lorillard & Company?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 104. Mr. Conant, was there any doubt in your mind—I am simply asking for the fact—any doubt in your mind that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out these cigarettes?

A. There never was for a second, no, sir.

R-D. Q. 105. Mr. Cavanagh has shown you a package of scrap tobacco and called your attention to the name "Lorillard" on it. Had you ever seen that package before today?

A. No; I hadn't ever seen that package before today, in all my tobacco selling.

Redirect examination closed. No recross-examination.

ALVAH L. CONANT.

HORACE R. PEARSONS, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Horace R. Pearsons; thirty-eight years; wholesale grocer; 41 Clifton Street, Worcester.

Q. 2. Are you with the Daniels-Cornell Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Wholesale grocer?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. What is your position with the company?

A. Treasurer and manager.

Q. 5. Do the Daniels-Cornell Company carry tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. How long have they carried tobacco products?

A. Always.

Q. 6*a*. To whom do they sell those tobacco products?

A. Retail stores.

Q. 7. Is that grocery stores?

A. Yes. No tobacco stores, just grocery stores.

Q. 8. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in evidence as "Beech-Nut Exhibit 1." Have you ever seen these cigarettes before? If so, about when did you first see them?

A. Well, I will tell you; I first saw them, when I saw the ads; must be six months ago; but the first time I ever really paid attention to them was about a couple of months ago.

Q. 9. When you first saw them about a couple of months ago, by whom did you think they were made?

A. I thought they were made by the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 10. How long did you continue to believe they were made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. Up within a couple of months ago. I examined a package in a window on Front Street and then found out it said "P. Lorillard Co." on the bottom.

Q. 11. Is there much scrap tobacco sold through this territory?

A. I don't know, I am sure; we never handle it. I never heard of it. You mean scraps of any kind?

Q. 12. Any scrap tobacco?

A. No, we have not had scrap tobacco.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 13. Do you sell tobacco yourself personally?

A. No, not personally.

X-Q. 14. Do you know of P. Lorillard Company? You do, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. So when you examined that package for the first time, you saw P. Lorillard's name on it, did you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. If a customer came into your store, or if a party ordered from you Beech-Nut cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you hand them Beech-Nut cigarettes made by P. Lorillard Company?

A. No; I probably would not if they asked for them; I know they didn't make them.

X-Q. 17. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company making tobacco products such as cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. What line have they been in?

A. Fruits, jams, bacon, beef, etc.

X-Q. 19. Food products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. But if you went into a store and wanted to buy a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum made by Beech-Nut Packing Company, could you be confused or deceived by the salesman into accepting a package those Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, in place of the chewing gum?

A. What is that you say?

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store and wanted to buy a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, could you be confused or deceived by the salesman into accepting a package of those Lorillard Beech-Nut Cigarettes, in place of the chewing gum?

A. No, I don't think so.

X-Q. 22. You think a person would be weak-witted that would, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. I understand you never sold any scrap tobacco in your line of business?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. You are the sales manager for your concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. Where is that store located?

A. 78 Mulberry Street.

X-Q. 26. How many people do you employ in the whole department?

A. Thirty or forty offhand.

X-Q. 27. About how many salesmen?

A. Five salesmen.

X-Q. 28. I understand you handle tobaccos as a side line to groceries?

A. Grocery stores, yes.

X-Q. 29. But the main business is wholesale grocery?

A. That is our main business, yes, sir.

Cross-examination closed.

HORACE R. PEARSONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, IN AND FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
County of Worcester,
District of Massachusetts, ss.

I hereby certify that on the 18th day of August, 1921, before me, Penelope Comberbach, a notary public in and for the County of Worcester, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as Special Commissioner, by consent and agreement of counsel, at my office No. 918 Park Bulding, in the City of Worcester, County of Worcester, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, personally appeared, pursuant to notice, between the hours of nine o'clock A. M. and six o'clock P. M., the following witnesses, Joseph S. Aisenberg, Ralph H. Horne, Dorace L. Bottomly, John H. Lang, Alvah L. Conant and Horace R. Pearsons, and also Sebastian Hinton, Esq., of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, appearing for Plaintiff, and Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh Whitehead & Hyde, appearing for Defendant; and each and all of the said witnesses, Aisenberg, Horne Bottomly, Lang, Conant and Pearsons, being by me first duly cautioned and sworn to testify the whole truth, and being carefully examined, deposed and said as in the foregoing annexed depositions of each of them, set out.

I further certify that all of said depositions were begun and completed on the 18th day of August, 1921.

I further certify that the several exhibits attached to said depositions were offered in evidence and marked for identification as is set out in said depositions.

I further certify that each of said depositions was then and there reduced to typewriting under my personal supervision, and that each of said depositions, after it had been reduced to typewriting, was read over and subscribed by the witness making same, and that each and all of said depositions have been retained by me for the purpose of sealing up and directing the same to the Clerk of Court as required by law.

I further certify that the reason why these depositions were taken was that the respective witnesses making same all reside at Worcester, County of Worcester, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, more than one hundred miles from Trenton, New Jersey, the place where this cause is to be tried.

I further certify that I am not the counsel or attorney for either of the parties, or related by blood or marriage to either of the parties, nor am I interested in the event of the cause.

I further certify that the fees for taking said depositions, $3.00, have been paid to me by the plaintiff and that the same are just and reasonable.

Witness my hand and official seal at Worcester, Massachusetts, this eighteenth day of August, 1921.

[SEAL.] Notary Public.
(Acting by consent of counsel as Special Commissioner.)

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company. } In Equity No. 3056.

I hereby certify that in the certificate by me attached to depositions in the above entitled case recently forwarded to the Clerk of the Court, the amount paid me for depositions was stated as $3.00. This amount, however, was erroneous and referred merely to an amount paid for administering oaths. The total for taking the depositions including the reporting, etc., was $80.50.

PENELOPE COMBERBACH, [SEAL.] Notary Public, Massachusetts.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before Walter C. Ross, a Notary Public in and for the State of Massachusetts, County of Hampden, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at 387 Main street, Springfield, Mass., beginning on Tuesday, August 23rd, 1921, at 12 noon.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for plaintiff; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, counsel for defendant.

FRANKLIN G. NEAL, a witness produced pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your full name, age, residence, and occupation?

A. Franklin G. Neal; 36 years old; 23 Washington road, Springfield, Mass.; lawyer.

Q. 2. Do you smoke?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Do you ever buy cigarettes?

A. Very seldom.

Q. 4. Have you recently bought any cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. What kind did you buy?

A. Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 6. When was this, and where was it, do you remember?

A. It was within two or three weeks, at one of the cigar stands in Springfield.

Q. 7. Would you be able to identify the cigarettes that you bought if you were shown a package of them?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Were these the Beech-Nut cigarettes that you bought?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. You have stated that you seldom buy cigarettes, but that you did buy a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes. Why did you buy these cigarettes?

A. I expected to get a remarkable smoke.

Q. 10. What led you to that expectation?

A. Because I thought the cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and I am acquainted with their products.

Q. 11. Do you know what made you think that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Because the label appeared to me to be the Beech-Nut label.

Q. 12. You have referred to the "Beech-Nut label." Can you explain what you mean by that expression?

A. The words "Beech-Nut," associated with a large oval and a general color scheme.

Q. 13. Have you seen that label previously on other products?

A. I have, many times. On chewing gum, candies and food products.

Q. 14. Have you purchased those products bearing that label?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. And what has been your experience with those products?

A. I have always found them to be of the very highest quality—exceptional in every respect.

Q. 16. After you had bought this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, what did you do?

A. I smoked one of them.

Q. 17. Was your expectation that you would find these cigarettes remarkable fulfilled?

A. No.

Q. 18. What did you then do?

A. I looked the package over and found the name P. Lorillard on it.

Q. 19. What did you then conclude, Mr. Neal?

A. That there was some connection between the Beech-Nut Company and Peter Lorillard; or, I mean to say, there was probably some connection between the two, since the label was the same on the Beech-Nut products and on these cigarettes.

Q. 20. Do you now believe that there is some connection between the Beech-Nut people and the Lorillard Company?

A. No. You told me within a day or two that there was not.

Q. 21. Mr. Neal, you have testified that when you bought these cigarettes you expected that you would get a smoke which was remarkable and that expectation was not realized. Could you mention some well-known brand or brands of cigarettes which would correspond more or less to the kind of cigarettes that you expected to get when you saw the Beech-Nut label on cigarettes?

A. Well, I expected to get a cigarette unlike others I had known. But in a general way, I expected a quality at least comparable to such a cigarette as the Phillip Morris, or the Pall Mall.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 22. Mr. Neal, I understood you to say that you were a lawyer?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. What branch of law do you practice?

A. I specialize in patent and trade-mark law, but I also do a general office business.

X-Q. 24. Have you always practiced here in Springfield?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. Since you started to practice patent and trade-mark law, I mean?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. This testimony is being taken under notice in your office, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. And you have consulted with Mr. Hinton and have given him permission to take the testimony of other witnesses in this office; in other words, use your office, have you not?

A. Yes, I have.

X-Q. 28. How long have you practiced trade-mark law?

A. Since 1911.

X-Q, 29. Did you ever hear of the Beech-Nut Packing Company making any tobacco products of any sort whatsoever?

A. No.

X-Q. 30. You have heard of the P. Lorillard Company, haven't you?

A. I have.

X-Q. 31. What kind of business do you know them to be in?

A. Tobacco business.

X-Q. 32. When you purchased that package of Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, you didn't examine it to see the name of the manufacturer or the producer thereon, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 33. You have stated substantially that the cigarette did not meet your expectations. What do you smoke, mainly, cigars?

A. Yes, cigars and a pipe.

X-Q. 34. You have smoked cigarettes from time to time, haven't you?

A. I have.

X-Q. 35. Then, as a person who smokes, you know that different people have a preference for different brands?

A. I do.

X-Q. 36. And that what one man might consider to be a good brand might be distasteful, or appear to be a poor brand to another man?

A. Certainly.

X-Q. 37. You have stated that when you purchased that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes you expected to get a cigarette of the same class as the Pall Mall or the Phillip Morris. What does the Pall Mall cigarette sell for?

A. I have not the price of different brands of cigarettes in mind, but it is about 25 cents.

X-Q. 38. What does the Phillip Morris sell for?

A. About 25 cents.

X-Q. 39. And what did you pay for that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I forget what I did pay for those cigarettes, but in the discussion with Mr. Hinton I was told that they sold for 15 cents. I realized at the time I bought them that they were not what I would consider the higher-priced cigarettes.

X-Q. 40. So that you could not expect to get for 15 cents the higher grade cigarettes that you would pay a quarter for, could you—10 cents difference to the pack?

A. I didn't ask the price of the cigarettes before taking a package, nor did I consider the price. In fact, I forgot the price. I bought the cigarettes solely upon the label.

X-Q. 41. Did you tell the clerk or the storekeeper that you wanted a cigarette that was the same class as the Pall Mall or the Phillip Morris?

A. No, I had no conversation with the clerk.

X-Q. 42. So, in the ordinary course of things you could not expect to get the same grade of cigarette for 15 cents that you could expect to get for a quarter, could you?

A. I did expect to, with the Beech-Nut label on the package.

X-Q. 43. And do you know anything about the tobacco industry—how the goods are blended, how the tobaccos are selected, where the tobacco in the Pall Mall or the Phillip Morris comes from, and other matters of that sort in connection with the manufacture of tobacco products like cigarettes?

A. I don't know, except in the most general way that these things are attended to.

X-Q. 44. You say that you have used or purchased Beech-Nut food products and chewing gum, and products of that sort?

A. Yes, I have.

X-Q. 45. And you are familiar with the label?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 46. Will you describe that label to me?

A. The label is not in my mind in any detail, but I will try to describe it generally as an oval label, with the long axis horizontal, the words Beech-Nut above the label (that is, along the upper line of the oval), and usually the name of the product somewhere on the label, and a general color of red and white. Also the representation of one of the beech-nuts, or more than one, I don't carry the exact detail in my mind.

X-Q. 47. And that oval that you speak of is in the nature of a wide red band, more than a line, is it not?

A. Well, the red band may be there, and I believe it is, for I have looked at the labels in the last day or two.

X-Q. 48. And that red band has printing on it? It is wide enough to carry plain printing, is it not?

A. I don't know whether it has printing on it or not.

X-Q. 49. And the beech-nut you refer to is a single cluster in the center of green leaves, is it not?

A. I don't know whether there are one or two beech-nuts. I have seen the labels with both since I have looked at these cigarette labels and the Beech-Nut labels, and they appear on the cigarettes and on the chewing gum, for example, and I have seen one or two nuts represented.

X-Q. 50. One or two nuts represented on what?

A. One nut on one label and two nuts on another label.

X-Q. 51. Can you produce specimens of those labels to which you have referred?

A. I have the package of cigarettes which I bought, and referred to in my answers, here with me. It is the only label I can produce, unless you or Mr. Hinton hand them to me.

Witness produces package.

X-Q. 52. I am afraid we are getting confused. I am not asking you about the label on the Lorillard cigarettes. I am asking you about the Beech-Nut labels on the Beech-Nut chewing gum and other products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I am asking you to describe that label for me, and in order to assist you I call your attention to a Beech-Nut label, which is marked in this case as Defendant's Cross Exhibit No. 3. Does that represent the Beech-Nut label?

A. It looks like that Beech-Nut label. I think it does represent the general impression which the Beech-Nut label has given to me.

X-Q. 53. So that is a single beech-nut superimposed on green leaves appearing in the center of the label, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. And it has two similar but smaller beech-nuts represented at the end of the oval, at the ends of the long axis of the oval, has it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. And it has a wide red band, with the words "Beech-Nut Mints" on it in this particular case?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 56. If you went to a store and asked for Beech-Nut chewing gum of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, would you be deceived into taking a package of these Lorillard cigarettes in the place of or instead of the gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 57. And you never heard of any person being so confused or deceived, did you?

A. No.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 58. Do you know how many cigarettes are in a package of Pall Mall or Phillip Morris cigarettes?

A. My memory is that there are ten.

R-D. Q. 59. You have produced on cross-examination the identical package of Beech-Nut cigarettes which you purchased. Will you give me that package?

Witness hands package to Mr. Hinton.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties through their respective counsel that the package of cigarettes which is produced by the witness was, prior to being opened, identical with Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1.

R-D. Q. 60. In opening this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes which you have produced, how much, if any, of the waxed paper covering the package was removed?

A. The top only, that is, the part of the waxed paper which covers the opening to the package.

R-D. Q. 61. Have you carried these cigarettes about in your pocket?

A. No.

R-D. Q. 62. Where did you just get them when you handed them to me?

A. I took them out of one of my desks before testifying.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 63. Do you remember where you bought these cigarettes?

A. No, it was at one of the cigar stands at Springfield, but I do not remember which one.

R-X Q. 64. You just went in and asked for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

A. No. I went in to buy some cigars and I saw the Beech-nut label on the package of cigarettes and that is the only reason I bought cigarettes.

R-X Q. 65. What did you say when you asked for the cigarettes?

A. I didn't say anything. The cigarettes were displayed on the top of the counter. I took a package and paid for it with my cigars.

R-X Q. 66. So you didn't ask for either cigarettes of the Beech-Nut Packing Company or cigarettes of the P. Lorillard Company, but you just took the package and paid for them.

A. That is all. I had no conversation with the clerk.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., 1:40 P. M.

CLEMENT W. KIRKPATRICK, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Clement W. Kirkpatrick; 35 years old; Chicopee Falls, Mass.; assistant to the general manager of the Fisk Rubber Company.

Q. 2. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is offered in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen these cigarettes before?

A. I have.

Q. 3. When and where did you first see these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. March of this year in New York City.

Q. 4. Will you state the circumstances of your first seeing these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I was down there visiting and during the course of a conversation I ran out of cigarettes and a friend of mine by the name of Mrs. Burrill told me I ought to smoke Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 5. And what did you do?

A. Being out, I went down to a store and bought some.

Q. 6. When you saw and purchased these Beech-Nut cigarettes, by whom did you think they were put out?

A. By the Beech-Nut people, the same people that make the gum and candy products and things of that kind.

Q. 7. Subsequently to this incident of March, 1921, have you purchased other packages of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have.

Q. 8. About how many have you purchased?

A. About a dozen.

Q. 9. Have you carried these cigarettes about with you and smoked them?

A. I have.

Q. 10. Do you now believe that these cigarettes are a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 11. When and how were you first advised that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Mr. Frank Neal advised me this morning.

Q. 12. Have you ever had these cigarettes brought to you by somebody else?

A. I have.

Q. 13. What happened then?

A. I was out of cigarettes and my wife was going to the post office—this was last Saturday morning—and I asked her to get me some and didn't specify the brand and she brought these back with the remark that these ought to be good, because they were Beech-Nut, which stood for quality.

Q. 14. What brand of cigarettes was it that she brought you?

A. Beech-Nut.

Q. 15. Were those cigarettes that she brought you the same as this Exhibit No. 1 that I have shown you?

A. Yes, as far as I know.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 16. Mr. Kirkpatrick, I understand you are connected with the Fisk Rubber Company?

A. I am.

X-Q. 17. So that you have had considerable experience in manufacturing lines, particularly the rubber industries?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. How many years have you been in the rubber industry?

A. Thirteen years.

X-Q. 19. I understand that you bought your first package of Beech-Nut cigarettes like this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 in New York City?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 20. And when was that?

A. In March of this year.

X-Q. 21. Whose name appears on that package?

(Witness examines package, Exhibit No. 1.)

A. P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. I have heard of it.

X-Q. 23. What line of business were they in?

A. I assume that they are in the tobacco business.

X-Q. 24. They are large tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. Do you find the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company" any place on that package?

(Witness examines package.)

A. No, unless it is in here (witness points to inside of package).

X-Q. 26. Do any of your goods of the Fisk Rubber Company bear the name "Fisk Rubber Company" on them?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. Any of the packages containing the goods?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. Any of the cartons?

A. No. The name "The Fisk Rubber Company."

X-Q. 29. Oh! Then my previous questions, to which you answered "No," were so answered because I omitted the word "The," but the packages or cartons, then, do bear the name of your concern?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. And what does that indicate to the public?

A. That it is the product of The Fisk Rubber Company.

X-Q. 31. And judging from that, would you not take the name P. Lorillard Company on that package of cigarettes to indicate that it is the product of the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers?

A. I would.

X-Q. 32. When you first purchased a package of the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes like that Exhibit No. 1, did you look to see whose name was on it?

A. I didn't.

X-Q. 33. Then you didn't examine the package in particular, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. I understand that you smoke cigarettes, do you not?

A. I do.

X-Q. 35. And you bought the Beech-Nut cigarettes several times since you purchased the first package?

A. I have.

X-Q. 36. Now, Mr. Kirkpatrick, basing your answer to this question of mine on your experience in the rubber industry, if you were going to purchase a rubber tire, say, or a rubber pair of shoes, would you purchase the goods of a concern that had been for years in the rubber industry or from a clothing house, say, that had just gone into the rubber business?

A. I would buy it from a concern that had been in business for years.

X-Q. 37. That had made a specialty of that business?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. At your home do you use any products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. We do.

X-Q. 39. What are those products?

A. They are bacon and gum, those are the only ones I can think of just now.

X-Q. 40. Well, if you went into a store and wanted some Beech-Nut bacon or Beech-Nut chewing gum, could you be confused or deceived into taking a package of those Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place and stead of the bacon or gum?

A. I do not think so.

X-Q. 41. In other words, you would not take cigarettes when you wanted gum or bacon?

A. No, sir.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 42. Do you smoke Camel cigarettes?

A. I do.

R-D. Q. 43. To what extent have you smoked Camel cigarettes?

A. Ordinarily, to about the same extent that I have others.

R-D. Q. 44. Do you smoke cigarettes all the time?

A. I do.

R-D. Q. 45. Have you smoked Lucky Strike cigarettes?

A. I have.

R-D. Q. 46. And how much have you smoked them?

A. I have smoked them about an equal proportion with the other brands.

R-D. Q. 47. How about Chesterfield cigarettes?

A. The same applies there.

R-D. Q. 48. And Fatimas?

A. The same.

R-D. Q. 49. What is written on the front of the package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel?

A. I do not know.

R-D. Q. 50. What is printed on the Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel, with the name "Lucky Strike" on it?

A. I do not know.

R-D. Q. 51. What is printed on the front of the Fatima cigarette package, underneath the name "Fatima" and the picture of a girl?

A. I do not know.

R-D. Q. 52. What is printed on the front of a Chesterfield package of cigarettes underneath the name "Chesterfield"?

A. I do not know.

Redirect Examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 53. Do you know what is printed on the Beech-Nut label for ham?

A. I do not.

R-X Q. 54. And likewise for chewing gum?

A. I do not know.

R-X Q. 55. Now, if you went into a store and you wanted, say, an Arrow shirt or an Arrow collar, of the Cluett-Peabody Company, and you wanted nothing but Cluett & Peabody goods, you would look and see if the Cluett & Peabody name was on it, wouldn't you?

A. I certainly would.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

MARTIN T. HUGGARD, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Martin T. Huggard; 55 Dresden Street, Springfield.

Q. 2. And your occupation?

A. Clerk.

Q. 3. In what kind of a store?

A. Meat and groceries.

Q. 4. Mr. Huggard, have you ever seen the so-called Beech-Nut cigarettes as advertised in the Springfield newspapers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. Would you recognize the advertisement that you saw if I were to show you a copy of it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. I show you a copy of the Boston Herald of August 18, 1921, marked for identification as Defendant's Cross Exhibit 5, and direct your attention to an advertisement of Beech-Nut cigarettes in that paper. Is this the advertisement that you saw?

A. It was like that. It was smaller. It was in the Daily News with small advertising.

Q. 7. When did you first see this advertisement?

A. Well, I can't tell just when. It was some time in April, along the latter part of April, 1921.

Q. 8. How frequently did you see that advertisement?

A. I saw it every day for quite a while.

Q. 9. When you saw that advertisement, as you have testified, every day for quite a while, by whom did you believe that those cigarettes were being put out?

A. I thought by the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 10. What other products do those Beech-Nut people make, do you know?

A. Why, they have jams, beans, chewing gum, mints. Why, a whole lot of stuff.

Q. 11. Do you now believe that these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut people?

A. I know that they are not.

Q. 12. How and when were you first advised that those cigarettes were not put out by the Beech-Nut people?

A. By Mr. Hover, the salesman.

Q. 13. Who is he employed by?

A. The Beech-Nut people.

Q. 14. And did he advise you about this?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. 15. And when was this?

A. Well, this was along—well, I should say the first of May some time, as near as I can recollect.

Q. 16. Was this after you had seen those advertisements that you refer to?

A. Yes, because I asked him how they were going, see?

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. Mr. Huggard, do you sell tobacco?

A. No, we do not sell tobacco.

X-Q. 18. You do not sell tobacco in your store?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. Do you smoke?

A. Yes, sure.

X-Q. 20. What do you smoke?

A. Cigarettes.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever buy the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I never have. I never smoke them.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever examine a package of the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have never seen one. Only that one he (indicating Mr. Hinton) showed me.

X-Q. 23. When did Mr. Hinton show you that package of cigarettes?

A. Last Saturday morning.

X-Q. 24. Whose name appears on that package?

Witness examines package.

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 25. Did you ever know of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco products?

A. I never knew that they did. No, sir.

X-Q. 26. But you know that Lorillard puts out tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. Mr. Hinton has called your attention to an advertisement in this Boston Herald of August 18, 1921, with reference to the Beech-Nut cigarette. Doesn't the name P. Lorillard Company appear there?

Witness examines paper.

A. Yes, it does.

X-Q. 28. So that you didn't examine the advertisement very carefully?

A. No, I didn't. I simply saw the package of cigarettes and "Beech-Nut" and as I supposed the Beech-Nut trademark.

X-Q. 29. So you just glanced at it carelessly and didn't examine it particularly at all?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. You can tell whether that wording on this advertisement is the same as in the advertisement you saw, is it?

A. No, I can't. I can't tell you.

X-Q. 31. If you went into a store and wanted to purchase a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, or any of the other Beech-Nut Packing Company products you have mentioned, could you be confused or deceived into taking a package of cigarettes in place of those products?

A. If I went in to buy chewing gum?

X-Q. 32. Yes, and the man handed a package of those Lorillard cigarettes in the place of the gum or other Beech-Nut Packing Company products mentioned, would you take the cigarettes in place of gum?

A. Why, no, naturally not if I didn't ask for cigarettes. Not if I asked for gum and he gave me cigarettes.

X-Q. 33. You would be crazy, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

Recross-examination closed.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

LOUIS ISENBERG, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Louis Isenberg; 48, will be 49; 46 Warriner Avenue, Springfield, Mass.; manager of the Springfield, Public Market.

Q. 2. How many people are employed in the Springfield Public Market?

A. Why, somewheres around one hundred and twenty-five.

Q. 3. Have you ever seen in the Springfield papers the so-called Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have seen it advertised.

Q. 4. Would you recognize one of those advertisements if I were to show you one?

A. I think so.

Q. 5. I show you an advertisement in the Boston Herald of August 18, 1921, marked for identification in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 5. Is that the advertisement that you have previously seen?

A. Somewhat similar.

Q. 6. When you saw that advertisement, by whom did you think that those cigarettes were being put out?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. Do you now believe that those cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut products people?

A. No.

Q. 8. When and how were you first advised that they were not?

A. Yesterday, August 22nd, you told me.

Q. 9. Did you ever hear any remark made about these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. How did that come about?

A. Some gentleman friend of mine called at the house one evening and he was smoking cigarettes and my wife passed the remark. She says, "I see the Beech-Nut people are putting out a cigarette."

Q. 11. And when was this?

A. Only a week ago, a little over a week ago.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 12. Mr. Isenberg, do you sell tobacco products and cigarettes?

A. We sell only edibles—food products.

X-Q. 13. Do you sell any food products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 14. What do you sell?

A. Well, practically their full line. Jellies, jams, preserves, gum and we got some marshmallows, bacon and dried beef, pork and beans, catsup, chili sauce, macaroni, spaghetti, also cereal coffee. I guess that is pretty much all they make. Also drinks—ginger ale, sarsaparilla and birch beer.

X-Q. 14*a*. Have you ever heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco products?

A. I was under the impression when I seen that advertisement that they put out cigarettes.

X-Q. 15. I am not asking now for your impression or what you thought, but did you ever know them to put out any tobacco products?

A. Not to my knowledge.

X-Q. 16. When you saw this advertisement did you see the name P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, I didn't look close enough. I just seen Beech-Nut on that and thought it was one of their products. I was not interested in the tobacco end of it.

X-Q. 17. Well, the name P. Lorillard Company is on that advertisement, isn't it?

Witness examines advertisement.

A. Yes, I see it now.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever buy any Beech-Nut cigarettes of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, I do not smoke cigarettes.

X-Q. 19. So you just never buy cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 20. If you went into a store and wanted to buy some Beech-Nut bacon or Beech-Nut gum or any of the other products which you have mentioned as being put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, could you be confused or deceived into taking a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I positively would—that is, if I bought cigarettes I would take it for Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 21. So you would go into a store and ask the man for a package of Beech-Nut gum and if he handed you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes you would take them?

A. I would not take it for cigarettes.

X-Q. 22. But you told me you would.

A. I would if I asked for cigarettes and they said they had Beech-Nut cigarettes. I would take it for a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 22*a*. I didn't ask you that. I asked you if you would take gum for cigarettes.

A. No, why should I take gum for cigarettes?

X-Q. 23. Didn't you say awhile ago that you had never heard of the Beech-Nut people putting out tobacco products like cigarettes?

A. Yes, I didn't know they put out any tobacco products.

X-Q. 24. And the name P. Lorillard Company is on this package, Exhibit No. 1, is it not?

Witness examines package.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. And it is on the advertisement, isn't it?

Witness examines paper.

A. From what I see, it is.

X-Q. 26. And you do not find the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. The Beech-Nut products which you sell have the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company" on them?

A. They all have the name on them. This label is similar to the Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 28. You say that is the same label?

A. Very similar.

X-Q. 29. Will you describe the Beech-Nut label to me that they use on Beech-Nut products?

A. Well, it is an oval label with a red border around it. I think you have one there. (Witness points to label in Mr. Cavanagh's hand.)

X-Q. 30. I show you a label which is marked in this case as Defendant's Cross Exhibit 3. Is that the Beech-Nut label to which you refer?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. Will you look at this Exhibit No. 1? Do you find any wide red oval band with printing on it?

Witness examines exhibit.

A. No, not on this package of cigarettes.

X-Q. 32. I notice on the Beech-Nut Packing Company label a single beech-Nut overlying three green leaves; do you find that on this?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 33. And I notice two single beech-nuts at opposite sides of the central beech-nuts—these two beech-nuts being single nuts mounted on green leaves. Do you find that there?

A. No, not there.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

ADELARD J. LANDRY, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Adelard J. Landry; 27; 83 College Street, Springfield; clerk—meat cutter.

Q. 2. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen cigarettes like these displayed for sale in Springfield stores?

Witness examines Exhibit No. 1.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. And how long have you seen these cigarettes?

A. Well, I should say along four or five months.

Q. 4. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe that they were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 5. And how long did you continue to believe that?

A. Why, I believed it until the salesman insisted that they did not make them. I should say about six weeks ago or two months.

Q. 6. And what was this salesman's name?

A. The salesman for the Beech-Nut people—Mr. Hover.

Q. 7. I call your attention to the brand on these cigarettes. Have you ever seen that brand on other products?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Can you tell some of the other products on which you have seen this brand?

A. Why, on all the jams and Beech-Nut gum. I could name a half a dozen if I could think of them. All the Beech-Nut house packing products. On all of them.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 9. Where are you employed?

A. At 1083 State Street.

X-Q. 10. What line of business is that?

A. Meat and groceries.

X-Q. 11. Do you sell tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 12. You don't handle them at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 13. Do you smoke yourself?

A. Cigars and tobacco.

X-Q. 14. Do you ever smoke cigarettes?

A. Not for the last six or seven years.

X-Q. 15. Did you ever buy a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes like Exhibit No. 1?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 16. You notice the name P. Lorillard Company on that?

A. Yes, I notice it. I'd never notice it unless you pick it up and glance it over very thoroughly.

X-Q. 17. Did you ever have a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes in your possession before today?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. So, when I handed you these cigarettes it was the first time you ever handled this package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 19. It was the first time you ever closely examined this package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 20. Are you familiar with the label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that it uses upon its gum and various food products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. I show you a label which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit 3, is that the Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. That label has a wide red oval band, has it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. And that band has the words "Beech-Nut Mints" on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. This package of cigarettes has no such oval band, has it?

A. No, it has not.

X-Q. 25. And this label has in the center a single beech-nut imprinted upon three green leaves, has it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. You do not find any such beech-nut on this package, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. And this label has the words "Beech-Nut Packing Company" on it, has it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. And you do not find any words "Beech-Nut Packing Company" on that package, do you? Will you examine it?

Witness examines package.

A. No, there is not, sir.

X-Q. 29. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. They are large tobacco manufacturers, are they not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. Well known tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 32. If you saw a package of tobacco products, such as these cigarettes, with that name on it, you would naturally presume that that was a product of the P. Lorillard Company, the tobacco manufacturers, would you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 33. Now, Mr. Landry, if you went into a store and you wanted to buy a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, or some Beech-Nut bacon, say, could you be fooled or confused or deceived into taking a package of these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of your gum or bacon?

A. Why, I do not quite understand you, sir. I wouldn't be fooled. I can't get you clear. I would not buy bacon for cigarettes.

X-Q. 33*a*. That is what I mean, you would not be fooled into buying cigarettes for chewing gum when you asked for gum?

A. Why, certainly not.

X-Q. 34. And likewise, if you asked for a pound of Beech-Nut bacon, you would not be fooled into buying Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you?

A. No, sir.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

ROBERT N. BROUGHTON, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Robert N. Broughton; 34; 151 Sherman Street, Springfield, Mass.; druggist, pharmacist.

Q. 2. Do you sell tobacco products in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in evidence in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, have you sold these cigarettes in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long?

A. Since they were on the market, since they started around leaving the packages in the store. Since they have been on the market, I presume.

Q. 5. Was that in the Spring of this year?

A. Yes, March or April.

Q. 6. When you first saw and sold these cigarettes over the counter, by whom did you think they were put out?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. Do you now believe that these cigarettes are a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I do not.

Q. 8. How were you first advised that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. By your representative who came around here first. He called my attention to it.

Q. 9. And what company did he represent?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 10. And how long ago was this?

A. It seems a month ago.

Q. 11. And in this period from March or April, 1921, until about a month ago did you personally sell these cigarettes over the counter?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. 12. Did you hand the cigarettes to the customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. I call your attention to the brand on this package of cigarettes. Have you ever seen that brand on other products?

A. Yes. I have seen them on Beech-Nut gum and on Beech-Nut peanut butter.

Q. 14. And any other products, you think?

A. Beech-Nut bacon, Beech-Nut mints.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 15. Are you still buying these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have not bought any in a week's time.

X-Q. 16. Who do you buy them from?

A. Whitcomb.

X-Q. 17. Who is Whitcomb; what kind of business?

A. Wholesale cigar jobbers.

X-Q. 18. You did not buy from the manufacturer direct?

A. No. The first carton I bought I bought direct from their salesman, the P. Lorillard Company salesman. I paid him cash right on the spot.

X-Q. 19. He didn't tell you that those cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. He didn't say anything. He simply said they were Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 20. You notice the name "P. Lorillard Company" on this package, do you not?

A. I do now.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever look at this package to decide whether the goods were those of the P. Lorillard Company or the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I never did.

X-Q. 22. Just handed the cigarettes out?

A. Yes. If they called for Beech-Nut I handed them out.

X-Q. 23. That name, P. Lorillard Company, on this package of cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, indicates to you that it is the product of the P. Lorillard Company, does it not?

A. Yes, it does.

X-Q. 24. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco products whatsoever?

A. I never did, no.

X-Q. 25. You never had a man come into this store and say "I want a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company," and then you handed him a package of P. Lorillard Company's cigarettes, did you?

A. No, I never heard him say that.

X-Q. 26. And you never sold him Lorillard's cigarettes when he asked you for Beech-Nut Packing Company cigarettes, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. As I understand it, you sold Beech-Nut chewing gum of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, didn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. You never sold anybody Lorillard's cigarettes when they wanted and asked you for Beech-Nut chewing gum or any of the other Beech-Nut Packing Company products which you have?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. If you yourself went into a store and asked for Beech-Nut chewing gum you could not be fooled into taking a package of the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes for chewing gum, could you?

A. Not for chewing gum.

X-Q. 30. It would be absurd, would it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. I show you a label which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit 3. Does that represent the Beech-Nut label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, I never particularly noticed. It looks very much like it.

X-Q. 32. Whose name appears on it?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company. Besides without you looked at it you would think it was. Beech-Nut is Beech-Nut with us in the store. We don't pay attention to who it is made by. We just know them by what they ask for.

X-Q. 33. If he says "Beech-Nut" what do you hand him?

A. If he asks for Beech-Nut gum at the candy counter we hand him Beech-Nut gum. If he asks for cigarettes at the cigarette counter, we hand him cigarettes.

X-Q. 34. The two counters are separate. One at one side of the store and the other at the other?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 35. By the two counters I mean the candy counter is one place where you keep the gum and the tobacco counter is at the other side where you keep the tobacco and where you keep these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Signature waived.

GEORGE L. CARLTON, a witness produced pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, deposes and says as follows, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, place of residence and occupation.

A. George L. Carlton, grocer, 929 Dwight Street, Holyoke, Mass., 47 years of age.

Q. 2. Do you sell tobacco products in your grocery store?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in this case, as Exhibit No. 1. (Mr. Hinton displays to Mr. Carlton a package of cigarettes.) Have you ever sold these cigarettes in your store?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long have you sold them?

A. Since the early spring of 1921.

Q. 5. When you bought these cigarettes which other product did you have for sale?

A. Beech-Nut. The same people that put up the canned goods and the gum.

Q. 6. Why did you put Beech-Nut cigarettes in? Do you remember?

A. Well, Beech-Nut product is a good seller. Then I thought they would sell good, the same as the gum and the same as the canned goods.

Q. 7. How long did you continue to think that these cigarettes were a Beech-Nut product?

A. Until Mr. Hover, drummer, who sells Beech-Nut products, told me the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with it.

Q. 8. Who is Mr. Hover?

A. Beech-Nut drummer, fellow who sells the goods.

Q. 9. How long after you had put in these cigarettes did Mr. Hover tell you that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with them?

A. Why, a month, I guess, after I had the cigarettes in.

Q. 10. Did you yourself sell these cigarettes over the counter during that month?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Did you hand packages of the cigarettes to your customers?

A. Yes.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 12. Mr. Carlton, you state that you bought these Beech-Nut cigarettes about last spring?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. From whom did you first buy them?

A. Well, the drummer's name I do not know. There were two of them together. I did not ask him his name. He says we have new packages of cigarettes, Beech-Nut brand. He said there are twenty cigarettes in a package for fifteen cents and ought to be a good seller. The Beech-Nut brand is a good brand and it ought to sell. I will take some of them.

X-Q. 14. Did you ask him if those cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, now, I do not remember whether I did or not.

X-Q. 15. Have you bought any of those cigarettes since?

A. Yes, I have, right along.

X-Q. 16. Are you still buying cigarettes like these? (Mr. Cavanagh here exhibits a package of P. Lorillard Company's Beech-Nut cigarettes to Mr. Carlton.)

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. So after the Beech-Nut Packing Company's agent told you they were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company you still continued to buy them? And have you a good sale for them?

A. Well, pretty fair.

X-Q. 18. Do you notice the name "P. Lorillard Company" on this package of cigarettes? (Mr. Cavanagh exhibits a package of P. Lorillard Company's Beech-Nut cigarettes to Mr. Carlton.)

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. You know they are not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. The Lorillard Company is a large and well known tobacco concern, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. If you had taken the trouble to look at that package when you first bought those cigarettes you would have known that it was P. Lorillard Company's product, would you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. You did not find on that package the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. Only that Beech-Nut brand.

X-Q. 23. You mean that name Beech-Nut?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. And Beech-Nut bacon?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. If a customer came into your store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, or asked you for a pound of Beech-Nut bacon, you would not hand him this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of the gum or bacon, would you?

A. Of course not.

X-Q. 27. You would think or say you were crazy for taking these cigarettes for Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. You know that these cigarettes are the cigarettes of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes. I never examined the package. Never noticed the name on the package.

X-Q. 29. You have lots of food products that you do not notice?

A. Yes. The name of the party that is making them I do not know. The brand is all there is. We go by the brand.

X-Q. 30. From whom do you buy your Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Kaffir Cigar Company. Sometimes from H. G. Sears.

X-Q. 31. And these people are tobacco jobbers and not manufacturers and wholesalers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. And do you buy direct from P. Lorillard Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 33. You never buy direct from P. Lorillard Company?

A. Not unless those two fellows were from there. That I do not know.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 34. Do you know whether H. G. Sears sells other things than tobacco products?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 35. What do they sell besides tobacco products?

A. Confectionery, fruits, groceries, etc.

R-D. Q. 36. Does the Kaffir Cigar Company run a wholesale grocery business?

A. Wholesale and retail.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 37. How many people do you employ in your store?

A. Three or four.

R-X Q. 38. You do retail grocery business?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 39. Your store is in a residential neighborhood?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 40. That's all Mr. Carlton. Thank you.

MICHAEL O'CONNOR, a witness produced pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, deposes and says as follows, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, place of residence and your occupation.

A. Michael O'Connor; age, 32; residence, 801 Canal street, Holyoke, Mass.

Q. 2. Your occupation, Mr. O'Connor?

A. Clerk.

Q. 3. In what kind of a store?

A. General store, public market.

Q. 4. Mr. O'Connor, I show you a package, which is in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen these cigarettes, and if so, when did you first see them?

A. Six months ago.

Q. 5. Did you ever buy any of these cigarettes (Mr. Hinton here exhibiting a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes to Mr. O'Connor)?

A. Once.

Q. 6. Why did you buy these cigarettes, do you remember?

A. Because they were new on the market and I tried them, seeing the Beech-Nut label, and thought I would take a shot at it.

Q. 7. When you saw and bought these cigarettes, by whom did you think they were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut people. They put out chewing gum, peppermint candies, and I thought that they had gone into the tobacco business.

Q. 8. Do you now believe that the Beech-Nut people put out these cigarettes?

A. No. I do not.

Q. 9. When were you first advised that the Beech-Nut people did not put out these cigarettes, and by whom?

A. By one of your salesmen, Mr. Hover.

Q. 10. What company does Mr. Hover represent?

A. The Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 11. How long after you had bought and smoked these Beech-Nut cigarettes was it that Mr. Hover told you?

A. About two weeks. Near there anyway. Two weeks anyway.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 12. Mr. O'Connor, when was it you said that you bought a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. The first package I bought of them was maybe two months ago.

X-Q. 13. Around about June, 1921?

A. Possibly, yes.

X-Q. 14. Have you bought any of these cigarettes since?

A. No.

X-Q. 15. Do you sell tobacco in the store where you work?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. Did you ever buy tobacco from tobacco manufacturers in your line of business; that is, to sell in your store?

A. I do not handle tobacco of any description.

X-Q. 17. You notice the name of P. Lorillard Company? (Mr. Cavanagh here exhibits a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes of the P. Lorillard Company to Mr. O'Connor.)

A. Now I do, yes.

X-Q. 18. When you first purchased a package of these cigarettes, about two months ago, you did not notice the name on it, did you?

A. No, I did not.

X-Q. 19. You did not ask the dealer who they were made by, did you?

A. No, I did not.

X-Q. 20. You just went in and bought cigarettes and told him just what you wanted?

A. I just went in and said, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes."

X-Q. 21. That was the only thing you asked him?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Then you did not notice the package in particular when you bought the cigarettes?

A. I did not notice it, only the label and the beech-nuts. The label was similar to the other ones and the regular beech-nuts, that is why I took them.

X-Q. 23. Are you familiar with the regular Beech-Nut label?

A. Yes. Well, to a certain extent I am.

X-Q. 24. I show you a label, which is in this case as the Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 3; is that the regular Beech-Nut label?

A. No, it is not.

X-Q. 25. This label which I have shown you has a wide red label, has it not?

A. It has.

X-Q. 26. And it has the words "Beech-Nut Mints" on it, and it has a single beech-nut in the center on green leaves, has it not?

A. It has.

X-Q. 27. It is not like them? (Mr. Cavanagh displays the label on the cigarette package put out by the P. Lorillard Company to Mr. O'Connor.)

A. No, it is not.

X-Q. 28. On this defendant's label you find the words, "Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, New York," do you not? (Mr. Cavanagh displays label to Mr. O'Connor.)

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. Mr. O'Connor, if you went into a store and you wanted to buy some Beech-Nut chewing gum or some Beech-Nut bacon, would you be confused or be deceived into permitting the dealer to sell you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of the gum or the bacon you asked for?

A. Why, that would be out of the question.

X-Q. 30. In other words, they are different things and you wouldn't be fooled, would you?

A. Of course not.

X-Q. 31. You would not take bacon for cigarettes?

A. No, of course not.

X-Q. 32. You would not take chewing gum for cigarettes?

A. No, of course not.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 33. Do you recognize this label that I now show you?

(Mr. Hinton displays to Mr. O'Connor the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label.)

A. Beech-Nut brand.

R-D. Q. 34. Is that a Beech-Nut label?

A. That nut in the center does not look familiar to me.

R-D. Q. 35. Can you describe the nut in the center of the regular Beech-Nut label; what does it look like?

A. Well, if I am right, I always figure there are two nuts there.

R-D. Q. 36. That is on the regular Beech-Nut Packing Company's label?

A. Yes.

NOTE.—The label which has been shown to the witness is marked for identification "Plaintiff's Exhibit," and is a Beech-Nut strawberry jam label.

HENRY LE CLAIR, a witness produced pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, deposes and says as follows, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, place of residence and occupation.

A. Henry Le Clair; 289 Walnut street, Holyoke, Mass.; age, 28.

Q. 2. What is your occupation?

A. Grocer.

Q. 3. Do you smoke, Mr. Le Clair?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. (Mr. Hinton displays package of Beech-Nut cigarettes to Mr. Le Clair.) Have you ever seen these cigarettes before?

A. I have.

Q. 5. Have you bought and smoked these cigarettes?

A. I have.

Q. 6. When you saw, bought and smoked these cigarettes, by whom did you think they were put out?

A. Well, by the Beech-Nut people, of course. I did not notice and did not care who they were put out by.

Q. 7. How long did you continue to think that these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut people?

A. A couple of weeks, I suppose. As soon as the salesman came around.

Q. 8. What salesman was this, do you remember?

A. Your Holyoke salesman of the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 9. Do you remember what you said to this salesman when he came around?

A. The only thing I told him was "what are they going to put out next?"

Q. 10. Did he tell you that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Company?

A. He did.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 11. Are you the proprietor of this store, Mr. Le Clair?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. Where did you buy these cigarettes?

A. At George Carlton's store across the street. I sent a boy after them.

X-Q. 13. You do not sell tobacco products in your store, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. And you never buy any tobacco products to sell from your store, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 15. You notice P. Lorillard Company on this package of cigarettes, don't you? (Mr. Cavanagh displays a package of P. Lorillard Company's cigarettes to Mr. Le Clair.)

A. I notice it after I have been shown. I never cared to look at it. I gave them away. I could not smoke them.

X-Q. 16. You did not pay any attention to the package at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. How many times have you bought these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Once.

X-Q. 18. You did not like the cigarettes, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. As a smoker you know that different people have different tastes for tobacco; and you know that what one man might like another might dislike?

A. Certainly.

X-Q. 20. Do you sell Beech-Nut Packing Company's products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. Do you sell chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Do you sell jam and bacon?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. Do you sell peanut butter and ginger ale?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. If you went into a store and wanted to purchase Beech-Nut chewing gum or ginger ale, would you be fooled by the salesman into taking a package of these cigarettes? (Mr. Cavanagh exhibits a package of P. Lorillard Company's cigarettes.)

A. I notice the package by looking at it, and after I have once seen the package I could tell it.

X-Q. 25. If you wanted a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you take a package of cigarettes in the place of the gum?

A. No, of course not.

X-Q. 26. They are different things, are they not?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination closed.

HENRY BUTCHER, a witness produced pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, deposes and says as follows, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, place of residence and occupation.

A. Henry Butcher; 476 South street, Holyoke, Mass.; age, 52.

Q. 2. Give me your occupation.

A. Grocer and merchant.

Q. 3. Is your grocery store in the business part of Holyoke, Mass.?

A. I would say that it is in the center of things.

Q. 4. How many clerks do you employ in your store?

A. Seven.

Q. 5. Did you see the advertising of Beech-Nut cigarettes displayed in this territory, and if so, when did you first see it?

A. Along in the springtime, about April.

Q. 6. When you saw the advertising of the cigarettes, by whom did you believe these cigarettes were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. Why did you think they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Because I know of no other company by that name.

Q. 8. I call your attention to the brand on the cigarettes, Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. What company does that brand suggest to you?

A. It suggests to me the Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, New York.

Q. 9. Do you now believe that these cigarettes are made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I do not believe it now because I know different.

Q. 10. When did you first find out that they were not made by them?

A. I took it up with your salesman and expressed my sentiments in regard to the Beech-Nut Packing Company doing anything of that sort. That is how I received my information. I got it from the salesman.

Q. 11. What were your sentiments about that, Mr. Butcher?

A. My sentiments were that the Beech-Nut Packing

Company's standard was lowered by the fact that they were putting out cigarettes under their own label. I was very much surprised to think that they would do a thing of that sort. It seemed to me that the output of cigarettes and foods were decidedly at variance. One was beneficial and the other was not.

Q. 12. For how long a time did you believe that these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company after you first saw the advertising?

A. I could not say definitely as to that.

Q. 13. Would it be more or less than one month?

A. Well, I could not say. It might have been a month, and it might have been longer.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 14. Do you sell tobacco products and groceries in your store?

A. No.

X-Q. 15. Do you use cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. You don't believe in people using tobacco?

A. I am always opposed to it.

X-Q. 17. You have never, of course, bought a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever closely examine a package of them?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. You did not notice the name P. Lorillard Company on the package?

A. I could not say that they were Lorillard Company's. I did not examine the package anyway. I did not know that the name Lorillard Company was on there until after Mr. Hover had informed me that the Beech-

Nut Packing Company did not make the cigarettes. I never examined the package.

X-Q. 20. You see the name P. Lorillard Company on that package? (Mr. Cavanagh exhibits a package of P. Lorillard Company's Beech-Nut cigarettes to Mr. Butcher.)

A. Yes, I see it now.

X-Q. 21. Do you know that they are large tobacco merchants?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. That name on the package would indicate it was one of their packages?

A. Certainly if I saw it, but I did not see it.

X-Q. 23. And you did not see it because you never examined the package?

A. No, I never examined the package.

X-Q. 24. Mr. Butcher, if a man came into your store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you sell him Beech-Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut ham for cigarettes?

A. That looks to me like a foolish question. What do you take me for, a fool?

X-Q. 25. In other words, as you said before, you consider them widely different classes of goods?

A. I consider them diametrically opposed. One product is to eat and the other is for pleasure. I do not consider that smoking lets every man live. I do not consider it necessary to smoke in order to live. They get along without it in the Springfield jail, and they get along without it in the hospitals, but they cannot get along very well without their baked beans.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 26. Mr. Butcher, how do you regard the Beech-Nut products?

A. A No. 1. Highest thing possible to make. I haven't anything better in my store than the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods, and don't see how they can make them any better.

My commission expires April 16, 1922.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of plaintiff at New Haven, West Haven, Milford and Hartford, Connecticut, before Herbert J. Krause, a notary public and Court Reporter, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, beginning August 29, 1921.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for plaintiff; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for defendant.

JOHN A. PETERS (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is John A. Peters; you are 52 years of age; your residence is 132 Thompson street, New Haven, Conn., and you are a salesman; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. By whom are you employed, Mr. Peters; how long have you been employed by this concern, and in what capacity?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Co. since 1905, as a missionary and salesman, for about four years and three months, and as division manager in Connecticut since January 1st, a year ago, eleven years. I have been with them eleven years last January, last January, that's it.

Q. 3. In the course of your work for the Beech-Nut Packing Co., has that company, from time to time, come out with new products?

A. It has.

Q. 4. And have these products been always similar to previous products made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No they weren't sometimes.

Q. 5. Can you give me an instance of what you mean by a product that is different from previous products?

A. Ginger ale and Beech-Nut gum are different than the products that we have previously put out like beef and peanut butter.

Q. 6. Do you remember when Beech-Nut chewing gum came out?

A. I think about ten years ago, I think it was.

Q. 7. And what was your experience with Beech-Nut chewing gum with respect to its sales?

A. Went off from the very start, the Beech-Nut name started it going, people tried it because it was Beech-Nut. I had no trouble selling it; in fact, we have been oversold on this product ever since nearly all the time.

Q. 8. What is the present situation with respect to Beech-Nut gum?

A. I am not supposed to accept or solicit orders for Beech-Nut gum.

Q. 9. When a man does order Beech-Nut gum and sends you the order, what do you do with it?

A. Forward it to the house.

Q. 10. And how much of his order does he get?

A. Well, we fill, I believe, about one-third of what he previously has been getting; we have been short ever since 1914, I believe; we got short and have been short ever since. He gets about one-third of what has previously been shipped.

Q. 11. How long ago did Beech-Nut ginger ale come out?

A. Why, I think between two and three years, nearly three years, I believe it is; I haven't the exact date.

Q. 12. And what was your experience in selling Beech-Nut ginger ale from the standpoint of its sales?

A. I had no trouble in selling it; everybody wanted to try it, because it was a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 13. Previous to coming out with Beech-Nut chewing gum, had the Beech-Nut Packing Company, to your knowledge, ever made a similar product?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. 14. Previous to coming out with Beech-Nut ginger ale, had the Beech-Nut Packing Company, to your knowledge, ever made a similar product?

A. No.

Q. 15. What has been your experience generally with respect to the selling of the various new Beech-Nut products which, from time to time, have come out?

A. It has been no trouble to put them down the first time, because everybody knew a Beech-Nut product; even a new man would go out and sell Beech-Nut goods; green men we call them.

Q. 16. And how are all these products marked?

A. With an oval label and Beech-Nut name at the top.

Q. 17. Mr. Peters, in your selling experience, what is the greatest sales instrumentality which you have encountered?

A. The Beech-Nut label.

Q. 18. When the Beech-Nut chewing gum was offered on the market, did you hear any comments, remarks or inquiries about it; if so, to what extent, and what was the nature of the remarks?

A. A great many people asked me how long we had been putting out chewing gum, how it was going, and if it was as good as the other products.

Q. 19. And did you hear that kind of remark frequently, or only a few times, or what?

A. Oh, plenty of times.

Q. 20. When Beech-Nut ginger ale was offered on the market, did you hear any comments, remarks or inquiries as you went about in your territory, about this product?

A. Why, the same inquiries that we had about the gum and other products—how long we had been putting it out, how it was selling, how the Beech-Nut Products would certainly make a good one. I sold a great many customers twenty-five case lots that I would probably not have sold more than one on account of its being a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 21. Were these twenty-five case lots the first sales?

A. The first sales, yes; I can give you several instances in this town where I sold twenty-five cases the first time.

Q. 22. When did the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to the package I now show you (Mr. Hinton showing witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, come on the market in this territory?

A. Why, I think I saw them this year first about either April or May; I think I saw them in Hartford first, although I am not sure.

Q. 23. Did you ever hear any comments, remarks or inquiries about these Beech-Nut cigarettes when they came on the market?

A. People asked me how long we were making cigarettes, how they were selling, and if they were as good as the other products.

Q. 24. I wish you would give me an estimate conservatively as to the number of times you have heard inquiries, comments or remarks of that kind and character since these cigarettes were first offered.

A. I should say five or six hundred times; in covering the whole State of Connecticut you hear a good many remarks.

Q. 25. Would you say that was a conservative estimate?

A. I should say it was.

Q. 26. Can you give me any special or particular instances of comments, remarks or inquiries of the character you have just mentioned? I want you to confine your answers to cases where you can state definitely where the remark was made, who made it, and just exactly what was said.

A. Well, about two weeks ago I was at S. D. Tendlers, wholesale candy people on George street, New Haven, and gave them all a stick of gum around. One of the men I gave it to said, "I don't want any gum, give me a Beech-Nut cigarette." I said, "Why do you ask me for a Beech-Nut cigarette?" He said, "Why, the Beech-Nut Packing Company make cigarettes, don't they, the same as the other goods?" I told him, "No," and he wanted to know how it was that they used our name.

Q. 27. Can you give any further instances?

A. Last Wednesday, when I was down in Milford, in front of Gardner's store, with Mr. Hinton, when I stopped the car and got out of the car, a man who was standing waiting for the trolley said, "Why don't you put out a near beer? The Beech-Nut Packing Company make nearly everything else and near-beer sure would sell." Mr. Hinton said to him, "What was the last product the Beech-Nut Packing Company put out?" He said a cigarette. This man's name is Harrison, and he has a clothing store in Milford; and another instance which happened about three weeks ago, but I don't know the man's name, happened in Waterbury. I was driving from Bank street into Center street when a man who stood on the curb looked at the name and then motioned me to stop, ran out on the street and came to the side of the car and asked me who to see in regard to getting advertising for Beech-Nut cigarettes. He said he was a newspaper man. I said Beech-Nut cigarettes were not our product——

Q. 28. Just a minute, I don't want what you said particularly.

Mr. Cavanagh: Let him go on.

Q. 29. Well, go ahead.

A. He said he was a newspaper man and wanted the advertising. He didn't give me his name, and I didn't ask him.

Q. 30. You stated that you and I got out of a car in Milford, and also that a man called to you while you were driving your car in the instance you have just related. Is there any sign on that car?

A. There is a Beech-Nut sign on the door.

Q. 31. What do you mean by a Beech-Nut sign?

A. A copy of the trade-mark, containing the Beech-Nut label.

Q. 32. Do you know whether Beech-Nut scrap tobacco sells largely in this territory or not?

A. There is some of it sold here, not largely I should say.

Q. 33. Did you ever hear any comments, remarks or inquiries about Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. A few times, when it first came out, they asked me about the making of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, but not lately.

Q. 34. How does the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco sell in comparison, for instance, with chewing gum and other products of that character through this territory, do you know?

Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to as calling for an opinion on the part of the witness, who has not been shown in any manner qualified to answer.

Mr. Hinton: Question withdrawn.

Q. 35. To what extent have you seen Beech-Nut scrap tobacco displayed through this territory in comparison, for instance, with Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, in certain sections I have seen quite a little of it; in other sections I have seen hardly any of it.

Q. 36. Speaking generally, has the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco been displayed as much as the cigarettes?

A. Oh, no, not near.

Q. 37. I show you a photograph which I now mark for identification in this case as "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 2, West Haven Drug Store Window Display," and ask you if you recognize the display shown in this photograph?

A. Yes, I saw that display myself.

Q. 38. Did you directly or indirectly have anything to do with putting that display of "Beech-Nut" gum boxes into that window?

A. No, I did not have anything to do with it. My first knowledge of it was when I saw it.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 39. As I understand it, you are division salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. In Connecticut, yes.

X-Q. 40. And how many years have you occupied that position?

A. Eleven years last January.

X-Q. 41. You say you have a Beech-Nut sign on your car?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. Will you just tell me the wording that appears on that sign; describe the sign in detail.

A. It says "Beech-Nut Packing Company" on it.

X-Q. 43. What sign is that?

A. On the car.

X-Q. 44. How long have you had that car?

A. Since—I have had the car since October, 1919, but I haven't had the sign on it all that time.

X-Q. 45. How long have you had the sign on it?

A. The sign was put on, well, about a year ago, I think.

X-Q. 46. Is that the car in which you drove Mr. Hinton from the Garde Hotel this morning?

A. The same one, yes.

X-Q. 47. That car has got a sign on it reading "Food Products," hasn't it?

A. I think it has, I didn't think of it before.

X-Q. 48. Never even took the trouble to notice it?

A. I didn't notice about the food products; it is an absolute fact, I didn't think of the food products when I spoke.

X-Q. 49. But you hadn't noticed it, had you?

A. I noticed the Beech-Nut Packing Company had it on there.

X-Q. 50. But you didn't notice the "Food Products" and have been driving the car for a year?

A. I didn't think of it.

X-Q. 51. When did you first notice these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I think April or May.

X-Q. 52. 1920 or 1921?

A. 1921, yes, in the spring some time.

X-Q. 53. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. No, very, very seldom.

X-Q. 54. Did you ever buy any of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I never bought any, I never smoked one.

X-Q. 55. But you never took a package in your hand, you never took the trouble to examine it, did you?

A. No, I don't think I have ever had a Beech-Nut package in my hand as far as I remember.

X-Q. 56. So it didn't occur to you, when you first saw this package, to examine it and see if it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, it didn't occur to me to examine it to see if it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 57. Just what is the procedure that is followed in informing you when the company brings out new products?

A. They usually notify me when they bring them out and send me a sample of the product. I usually get the new products before any of the other men.

X-Q. 58. Do they usually write you a notice?

A. They send me a letter.

X-Q. 59. So you didn't get any notice of the Beech-Nut cigarette from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I surely did not.

X-Q. 60. Do you know if the Beech-Nut Packing Company ever manufactured or marketed a tobacco product?

A. No.

X-Q. 61. Never heard of them putting out cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 62. Or scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 63. Whose name is on that package? (Mr. Cavanagh indicating Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1.)

A. P. Lorillard & Co.

X-Q. 64. You don't find the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name anywhere on it, do you?

A. No, I do not.

X-Q. 65. If you went into a store and wanted to purchase a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum or a bottle of Beech-Nut ginger ale, would you be confused or deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the gum or ginger ale?

A. If I asked for chewing gum would I take cigarettes?

X-Q. 66. Yes.

A. No, if I asked for gum I wouldn't take cigarettes.

X-Q. 67. Do you think a man who asked for gum would take cigarettes?

A. Why, a man who asked for cigarettes wouldn't take gum, no.

X-Q. 68. Or if he had asked for a jar of peanut butter he wouldn't take a jar of bacon?

A. Not unless he is a fool.

X-Q. 69. You spoke of the amount of scrap tobacco displayed in this territory, Lorillard scrap tobacco and Lorillard cigarettes. As a matter of fact, you don't know anything about the Lorillard business; what they do in Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you?

A. I see the cigarettes in nearly all the stores that I go into where they have candy and tobacco. Now and then I see some scrap tobacco.

X-Q. 70. You don't know how much scrap tobacco Lorillard sells?

A. Absolutely nothing, I don't know anything about the Lorillard business whatever.

X-Q. 71. You say that during the course of conversation you had with some party, he asked you for a Beech-Nut cigarette when you offered him gum?

A. He did.

X-Q. 72. He said substantially, "I don't want the gum, but you can give me Beech-Nut cigarettes"?

A. He said, "I don't want the gum, give me a Beech-Nut cigarette."

X-Q. 73. What did you say?

A. Why do you ask me for Beech-Nut cigarettes?

X-Q. 74. What did he say?

A. The Beech-Nut Company put out Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 75. What did you say?

A. I said, "You think so?" He said, "Sure." I said, "They do not," and then he wanted to know what right they had to use our label.

X-Q. 76. Then you informed him that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not put out cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 77. As far as you know, the Beech-Nut people had never put out a cigarette?

A. As far as I know.

X-Q. 78. That Beech-Nut label I asked you about; that is the one with the wide red band?

A. The Beech-Nut is an oval label and has Beech-Nut on it.

X-Q. 79. What else?

A. Well, it has a beech-nut with leaves, I think, below the name.

X-Q. 80. And it has a wide red band, has it not?

A. I think it has a red band.

X-Q. 81. And it has got printing on that red band?

A. I don't know if it has printing on a red band or a white band, I couldn't tell you.

X-Q. 82. The Beech-Nut Packing Company also sells other goods—other food products—but not under the Beech-Nut label to which you have just referred, does it not?

A. What do you mean?

X-Q. 83. I mean they have other brands of goods, food products, which the Beech-Nut Packing Company sells and upon which they do not use the Beech-Nut label which you have described generally?

A. They don't use Beech-Nut on the oval. They don't have it on the oval.

X-Q. 84. No, they don't have the oval with the word "Beech-Nut"?

A. I don't know, I can't think of any that don't have the oval labels that I have ever seen. There is some beef.

X-Q. 85. You mean Erie beef?

A. Erie Beef and Holly Beef.

X-Q. 86. They have a Mohawk brand, have they not?

A. They haven't got that in this part of the country, they have that in other territories. I don't think they have the name on it although they may, I couldn't say.

X-Q. 87. But they have the Erie brand and the Holly brand?

A. Yes, they have the Erie brand and the Holly brand.

X-Q. 88. And those are not sold under the Beech-Nut label?

A. No.

X-Q. 89. Beech-Nut is put on the better brand of goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 90. But does the words "Beech-Nut Packing Company" appear on those brands?

A. I think so.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if JEROME F. CARNEY was called, he would testify as follows:

I am of legal age and reside at 289 Dwight Street, New Haven, Connecticut. I am a university student, at present on my vacation. I know the people in a cigar store on Dwight Street, New Haven, Connecticut, and have spent considerable time there recently during my summer vacation. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, displayed in that and other stores. I have seen posters of these Beech-Nut cigarettes and the advertising in the newspapers about these cigarettes. I always believed that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people who put out the chewing gum, bacon and other products. I was led to this belief by the appearance of the package.

I do not now believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company because I was told on August 24th, 1921, by Mr. Griffin, the salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with these cigarettes. I had never seen a package of the Beech-Nut scrap chewing tobacco before until I was shown one on August 25th, 1921.

On cross-examination by Mr. Cavanagh it is stipulated that the witness would testify as follows:

I have never purchased a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco. I never examined a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and therefore did not notice the name "P. Lorillard Co." which appears thereon, as I now see it does, and I have been informed by the Beech-Nut salesman, Mr. Griffin, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company has nothing to do with the manufacture or marketing of these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes. I would not confuse Beech-Nut chewing gum with Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, nor be deceived into accepting the one product for the other.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if MARY W. GREGORY were called, she would testify as follows:

I am the wife of Mr. Gregory, who keeps a grocery store in Milford, Connecticut, and I work in the store. This store is a general grocery store and handles tobacco products. We do not handle Beech-Nut cigarettes. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes advertised and I have seen them displayed in various windows and I always believed that they were a Beech-Nut Packing Company product, made by the same people who make the chewing gum and other products, until August 25th, 1921, when I was told by Mr. Hinton that these cigarettes were not a Beech-Nut Packing Company product. I have never seen a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco until Mr. Hinton showed me one on the date mentioned.

On cross-examination it is stipulated that the witness would testify as follows:

We do not sell Beech-Nut cigarettes in our store, nor do we handle the same. I have never purchased a package of Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, have never made any particular examination thereof and therefore did not note the name P. Lorillard Co. appearing on the package.

I would not confuse chewing gum with Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, nor be deceived into accepting the one product for the other.

JAMES J. CASHMAN, JR. (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is James J. Cashman, Jr., your age is 23, your occupation is a drug clerk and your place of business is 615 Howard Avenue, New Haven, Conn. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Do you sell tobacco products in this drug store, Mr. Cashman?

A. Yes.

Q. 2*a*. When did you first see Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to the package I now show you, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1? (Mr. Hinton shows witness Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1.)

A. About April.

Q. 3. Did you put these cigarettes in this store for sale?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Did you personally sell these cigarettes to customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Did you take them out of the case or off the shelf and hand them to the customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you think they were made?

A. The Beech-Nut Gum Company.

Q. 7. How long did you continue to believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut gum people?

A. About a month or six weeks.

Q. 8. And during this month or six weeks were you selling the cigarettes over the counter?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. When were you first advised that these cigarettes were not made by the Beech-Nut gum people?

A. Why, I asked Mr. Griffin how long since he has been putting out cigarettes and he told me they were not putting out cigarettes. He said they had nothing to do with it.

Q. 10. Who is Mr. Griffin?

A. He is a salesman for the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 11. And what does he sell?

A. Beech-Nut gum and candy.

Q. 12. Have you ever seen a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco before I showed you this package the other day? (Mr. Hinton showed the witness a package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco.)

A. No.

Q. 13. I call your attention to an oval brand on this package, which is marked in this case Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. Do you recognize that brand; if so, will you state what it is?

A. The same label as on Beech-Nut gum, on the gum.

Q. 14. That's all.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 15. I notice you have a candy counter and a cigar counter and they are both separated by the soda counter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. You handle the gum at the candy counter, do you not, and you handle the cigarettes at the cigar counter near the front of the store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. I also note that you have a show window, which is completely dressed or filled with advertising of tobacco products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. And I notice these products that are advertised in the windows are Beech-Nut cigarettes, Murad cigarettes, Mogul cigarettes and other products. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever buy goods from the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Not directly, indirectly.

X-Q. 20. But you knew you were buying their goods?

A. Yes, yes.

X-Q. 21. And that window is practically dressed with P. Lorillard Company's goods, is it not?

A. If those cigarettes are made by those people. Those are Anargyros, is it Lorillard?

X-Q. 22. What is that cigarette you named?

A. Murad is made by Anargyros.

X-Q. 23. You don't buy tobacco yourself here, do you?

A. Yes, yes.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever smoke Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, I have smoked them the other day for the first time.

X-Q. 25. But that was after you knew they were made by P. Lorillard Co., was it not?

A. He didn't tell me who they were made by, but he gave them to me the other day.

X-Q. 26. Did you ever take the trouble to examine a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 27. Never even glanced at them?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 28. Never took the trouble to examine the package at all?

A. I never took the trouble to look at any of them. On the Murads the name is quite plain. I am quite sure I think S. Anargyros is on there.

X-Q. 29. But if you had noticed that name on there you would have noticed the name P. Lorillard on it, would you not?

A. Yes, I would.

X-Q. 30. And that would indicate that was a package of the P. Lorillard Company's tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. If you took the trouble to examine the package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. I think you testified substantially that the label on the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco was like the label on the chewing gum?

A. As far as I remember.

X-Q. 33. Will you look at those two (Mr. Cavanagh indicating a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum)? Do you see on the Lorillard scrap tobacco package that red band that appears on the Beech-Nut gum package?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. And the red band oval on the Beech-Nut package has printing on it, has it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 35. And that is not on the single line oval of the package?

A. No.

X-Q. 36. And the beech-nuts in the center are not the same, are they?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. And you don't know of any gum package or any other Beech-Nut product package that has those red radiating lines like a sunburst, do you?

A. No, I do not.

X-Q. 38. And the name "Lorillard" appears on the Beech-Nut package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. And that would indicate to you that is a product of the tobacco people, the Lorillard people, would it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. If a customer of yours came into this store and asked for a package of this Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you sell him a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes in its place?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. And would you yourself, if you wished to purchase a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, be confused or deceived into accepting a package of these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes or a package of Lorillard Beech-Nut chewing tobacco in the place of chewing gum?

A. Not if I asked for chewing gum, no.

X-Q. 42. You would think a person was crazy that would confuse the two, do you not?

A. Yes, as far as I was concerned.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

EDWARD J. GLYNN (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says:

Q. 1. Your name is Edward J. Glynn, your age 24, you are a clerk by occupation and your residence is 630 Campbell Avenue, West Haven, Connecticut, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Have you ever seen Beech-Nut cigarettes like the package I now show you (Mr. Hinton shows witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. I have.

Q. 3. When did you first see these cigarettes that you remember?

A. Quite a while ago. A year or so, in the spring—last spring—sometime, I guess it was.

Q. 4. Did you ever buy and smoke any of these cigarettes?

A. I did.

Q. 5. When did you buy this first package of these cigarettes?

A. I don't remember just what store it was.

Q. 6. When?

A. Last spring, I guess.

Q. 7. Have you subsequently bought other packages?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Why did you buy these cigarettes last spring?

A. Because they were Beech-Nut cigarettes, I thought they were made by this company, the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 9. Have you purchased other Beech-Nut products?

A. Yes, and sold Beech-Nut products besides.

Q. 10. What has been your experience with the Beech-Nut products which you have bought; have they been satisfactory?

A. Absolutely in every way.

Q. 11. Do you know why you believed that these cigarettes were a Beech-Nut product?

A. Well, they are Beech-Nut brand. I thought they were the Beech-Nut brand, I think it is now, that is, it appears to be to me.

Q. 12. Do you now believe these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I do know now that they are not.

Q. 13. When did you first find out they were not put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Last week when Mr. Green told me.

Q. 14. What did he tell you?

A. He told me they were not made by the Beech-Nut Company. And Friday or Saturday I bought a package to see who they were made by, but I didn't know then, I didn't know they were made by Lorillard, but I do now.

Q. 15. Did you find out when, as you have stated, you bought these cigarettes in the spring of this year in the belief that they were a Beech-Nut product, did you find that they came up to the standard of quality which you expected of a Beech-Nut product?

A. No, I did not.

Q. 16. Do you know the name of some brands of cigarettes which would seem to you to come up to the Beech-Nut standard of quality more than the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Pall Mall, Philip Morris, or any good quality of cigarettes.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. Mr. Glynn, when did you buy your first package of Beech-Nut cigarettes about?

A. Well, I couldn't give you any exact date you know.

X-Q. 18. Approximately.

A. Last spring, I guess it was.

X-Q. 19. When did you buy your last package?

A. The last package I bought Saturday, Friday or Saturday, to find out who they were made by, that's all. I was always under the impression that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Company.

X-Q. 20. And how frequently, from the time you first bought them and last Saturday did you purchase these cigarettes?

A. I only bought one or two packages.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company?

A. I have.

X-Q. 22. They are a large tobacco concern, are they not?

A. I knew they made Level Head.

X-Q. 23. They are large tobacco manufacturers?

A. I don't know how large they are, I know they made Level Head.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever hear of Climax Plug tobacco, chewing tobacco?

A. I have seen it, yes, in red tin boxes.

X-Q. 25. When you first purchased that package of cigarettes (Mr. Cavanagh showing witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), did you look on it to see whose name was on it?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 26. If you had looked at that package you would have seen the Lorillard name on it, wouldn't you?

A. I presume I would if I had looked at the package, but I didn't look at the package, I looked at the Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 27. You didn't take the trouble to examine the package?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 28. Had you looked at it, you would have seen the Lorillard name?

A. Yes, I presume so.

X-Q. 29. Do you know that the P. Lorillard Company have been in the tobacco business for many years?

A. No, not for many years; I knew they made Level Head.

X-Q. 30. How long do you know that they had been in the tobacco business, to your own knowledge?

A. Why, I should say around—well, six years. I worked in a grocery store and I seen the name.

X-Q. 31. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. putting out any tobacco products?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. But you know Lorillard did put them out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. But when purchasing tobacco, you prefer to purchase tobacco from a concern in the tobacco business rather than one in the food business?

A. Not absolutely.

X-Q. 34. Wouldn't you think they would know more of the tobacco business?

A. I would presume so.

X-Q. 35. Now, if you went into a store and wanted to purchase some Beech-Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut bacon, would you be confused into taking a package of these Lorillard cigarettes instead of chewing gum or bacon? If a man tried to palm off on you cigarettes in the place of chewing gum or bacon would you be confused into taking cigarettes for gum or bacon?

A. Absolutely not.

X-Q. 36. You think a man would be crazy to do that?

A. I know if it said cigarettes on it, it wouldn't be bacon.

X-Q. 37. And you think a man who would take cigarettes for bacon would be crazy?

A. Yes, I would.

X-Q. 38. Now, you said a good cigarette was something along the line of Pall Malls or Philip Morris?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. Do you know what Pall Malls sell for?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. What is the price?

A. I think 25 cents.

X-Q. 41. Are there twenty in a package of Pall Malls?

A. Either ten or twelve.

X-Q. 42. Philip Morris about the same; are they a 25-cent cigarette?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 43. What did you pay for Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Fifteen cents.

X-Q. 44. And there are twenty in a package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 45. Now, you didn't expect to get the same grade of cigarettes at the rate of twenty for fifteen cents as you would when you paid twenty-five cents for ten, would you?

A. Well, I don't know as I would, I wouldn't expect to get the same grade; I would expect to get a good quality if it has got that brand on it.

X-Q. 46. You have heard of the Hanan shoe, haven't you?

A. No, I haven't.

X-Q. 47. What high price shoe have you heard of?

A. High priced shoes?

X-Q. 48. Yes.

A. You mention some of them.

X-Q. 49. French, Shriner and Earner?

A. No.

X-Q. 50. Name a high priced shoe.

A. Well, the Walk-Over, you call that a high priced shoe or good quality shoe.

X-Q. 51. For instance, there is a Hanan shoe that costs twenty dollars. I don't know how high a Walk-Over shoe goes.

A. I see.

X-Q. 52. Well, I will put it like this. You know that manufacturers of high grade goods also have brands they sell of cheaper materials and of an inferior grade?

A. I don't know as to that.

X-Q. 53. You know a manufacturer has high grade goods and also lower grade goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. Yes. Do you mean to say he would sell the lower grade for the higher price goods?

A. No.

X-Q. 55. You take a Hanan shoe, for example, you can get a pair of Hanan shoes for $20 and you can get a pair of Hanan shoes for $16.

A. I see.

X-Q. 56. You can get a pair of Hanan shoes for $14.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 57. You know that it is customary in the trade for a man to charge different prices for his goods under different brands?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 58. In other words, you wouldn't expect to get a Packard automobile at the same price as a Ford?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Cross-examination closed.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 59. Have you ever seen the Beech-Nut brand on any product put out by the Beech-Nut Company that was not a high quality product?

A. No.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

ROBERT G. GREENE (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says:

Q. 1. Your name is Robert G. Greene, your age is 49, and your occupation is the meat and grocery business at 735 Washington Avenue, West Haven, Connecticut. Is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. (Mr. Hinton showed witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes.) Have you ever seen these cigarettes displayed or advertised in this town?

A. I have seen them advertised and displayed by a carton about that long (indicating) in the windows of stores.

Q. 3. When did you first see these cigarettes advertised?

A. About two months ago.

Q. 4. When you first saw these cigarettes advertised, by whom did you think they were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 5. Why?

A. The initials were the same, the letters were the same as the Beech-Nut product people, that is what drew my attention to the cigarettes, the letters looked so much like the other.

Q. 6. You refer to this oval device that is on the cigarette?

A. The oval device, yes.

Q. 7. How long did you continue to believe this the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Until I saw Peters about a month ago.

Q. 8. Who is Mr. Peters?

A. Drummer for the Beech-Nut Product Company.

Q. 9. Did he tell you that the Beech-Nut Product Co. did not make these cigarettes?

A. He said they had a suit against them now.

Q. 10. That's all.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 11. Do you sell tobacco, Mr. Greene?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. You do not handle Beech-Nut chewing tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 13. Did you ever see a package of it?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. You didn't look to see if the name Lorillard was on it?

A. No, I don't smoke.

X-Q. 15. Didn't you look at the cigarette package or advertising to see if the name Lorillard was on it?

A. No, all I see was Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 16. I show you a package of the Beech-Nut brand of chewing gum (Mr. Cavanagh showed the witness a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum). That has got a red oval on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. That has got a Beech-Nut leaf in the center?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. That has got a double beech-nut?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. If you went into a store and wanted to purchase some Beech-Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut food product, would you be confused or deceived into accepting a package of cigarettes in place of the gum?

A. I wouldn't, no, because I am experienced in the business myself.

X-Q. 20. You wouldn't confuse chewing gum with tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. You wouldn't confuse a tobacco product, such as cigarettes, with chewing gum or a food product, would you?

A. What do you mean, I wouldn't confuse chewing gum with cigarettes?

X-Q. 22. You wouldn't accept one for the other?

A. Oh, no, absolutely not.

Witness of signature waived.

Deposition closed.

NATHAN HAMMERMAN (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says:

Q. 1. Your name is Nathan Hammerman, your age is 29, your occupation is a drug clerk, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Where is your drug store located?

A. 1235 Whitney Avenue.

Q. 3. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton showed witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you sold these cigarettes in your store; if so, how long have you sold them?

A. I don't know, about six months, I guess. No, I don't know, about four months they have been out, haven't they?

Q. 4. When you first sold these cigarettes in your store, by whom did you think they were made?

A. The Beech-Nut people.

Q. 5. Can you name any other products made by these Beech-Nut people?

A. Peanut butter, popcorn, gum, that's about all. I know they make a whole line, but don't know all of them.

Q. 6. How long did you continue to believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. About two months.

Q. 7. Do you now believe they were made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. No.

Q. 8. How did you first find out they were not?

A. Some one come in and told me you people were suing the people who put them out. I don't know his name.

Q. 9. In this period of two months that you believed these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut people, did you sell them yourself to customers over the counter?

A. Oh, yes, surely.

Q. 10. Did you take them out of that—those shelves and hand them to the customers? (Mr. Hinton indicated.)

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Have you ever heard customers make remarks about Beech-Nut cigarettes to you over the counter; if so, what kind of remarks did they make, if you remember?

A. Just that they thought—that they wanted to know if the Beech-Nut people were putting out cigarettes, they wanted to know how long since the Beech-Nut people went into the tobacco business. I sell quite a lot of it now. It is the biggest 15 cent seller we got.

Q. 12. What did you tell customers who made remarks of this kind to you?

A. I guessed they were because I didn't know.

Q. 13. Did you ever have customers purchase gum in this store and ask for just Beech-Nut?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. And what did you do then?

A. I don't know, I always asked them whether they wanted the gum or cigarettes.

Q. 15. How often did this happen?

A. Every day now; well, not so much now because people kind of got hip to it, but up to a month ago anyhow.

Q. 16. You mean when you say they got hip to it you mean they have got hip to the fact that there are both cigarettes and gum?

A. Both cigarettes and gum, that is what I mean.

Q. 17. Do you know what caused you to believe that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. The name.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 18. From whom do you buy your Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. All the tobacco jobbers, the New Haven Tobacco Co., Cozzilano down there on College Street. They buy through Anthony Pepe.

X-Q. 19. On this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 (Mr. Cavanagh showed the witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), you notice the name P. Lorillard on it, don't you?

A. I do now that you have called my attention to it.

X-Q. 20. You never did before?

A. I never took the trouble to examine it.

X-Q. 21. I understand you are still buying those Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. You have heard of P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. They are a large tobacco concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. That name would naturally indicate to you that it was their product?

A. Yes, it would, if I had gone to the trouble to look at it I would have known it; otherwise I wouldn't know whether they were putting it out for the Beech-Nut people.

X-Q. 25. But you noticed the Lorillard name on the product?

A. Yes, but I never did before.

X-Q. 26. You don't find any Beech-Nut Packing Company on it, do you?

A. No, but I would have to look at it, to tell the truth.

X-Q. 27. You have purchased lots of other Lorillard products?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 28. And you naturally presumed, being in the tobacco business, that that was a Lorillard brand?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. Not even with the name on it?

A. I do now, I see the name on it.

X-Q. 30. Since you have found out that it was not the Beech-Nut Packing Company's cigarette, you have still been purchasing it, haven't you?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 31. You said it was a good seller?

A. Yes, better, if anything, than it was.

X-Q. 32. You have quite a demand for it?

A. Yes, it is the biggest 15-cent seller we have.

X-Q. 33. You never deliberately had a customer come in and ask you for the Beech-Nut cigarette of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and you deliberately sold him a Lorillard cigarette of the Beech-Nut brand?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. And you never had a customer come in this store and ask you for Beech-Nut chewing gum, and in place of Beech-Nut gum you have handed him cigarettes?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 35. You have?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 36. You have?

A. He asked for Beech-Nut, and I gave him a pack of Beech-Nut gum, because Beech-Nut gum is a whole lot better known than the cigarette.

X-Q. 37. My question was this: If a customer asked you for Beech-Nut gum you would not palm off a package of cigarettes in place of the gum?

A. Oh, no.

X-Q. 38. You would think the man was crazy to take it?

A. I wouldn't think very much of him, I probably would think I was much more crazy for giving it to him.

X-Q. 39. You yourself wouldn't be confused in buying Beech-Nut cigarettes when you wanted Beech-Nut gum?

A. Oh, no, if I know what they came in for, and know what they was after. Anyway, it is up to you people to take care of your trade-mark, not me.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

JAMES J. MARRINAN (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says:

Q. 1. Your name is James J. Marrinan; your age is 25; your residence is 228 Blatchley avenue, New Haven, Conn., and your occupation is a drug clerk; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. What is the name of this drug store in which you are now employed?

A. W. A. Hussion.

Q. 3. How long have you been in the drug business?

A. Nine years.

Q. 4. Have you, in that time, been selling to customers over the counter?

A. Yes, yes.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton showed witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. When did you first see these cigarettes or see them advertised; do you remember?

A. Early in the spring of this year.

Q. 6. When you first saw these cigarettes and saw them advertised, by whom did you believe they were made?

A. The Beech-Nut people.

Q. 7. Can you name other products made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. Gum, ginger ale, peanut butter and bacon; I see that advertised.

Q. 8. Do you now believe these cigarettes are made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. No, no.

Q. 9. How did you first find out these cigarettes were not made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. I inquired of Mr. Griffin and he told me they were not made by the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 10. Who is Mr. Griffin?

A. Salesman for the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 11. I notice you have in this store a rack or set of shelves for cigarettes, containing cigarettes.

A. Yes.

Q. 12. And a shelf immediately below the rack there, forming part of the same cabinet, and on this shelf immediately adjacent to the cigarettes is the display of ginger ale.

A. That isn't on display; that will be put out of there in five minutes.

Q. 13. It is there now?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. Ginger ale, seeded raisins, Beech-Nut chewing gum, etc.; is that right?

A. Yes, that's right.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 15. Next to your tobacco rack or shelving this wall forms a continuation of the shelving, and you have on it pharmaceutical preparations and packages like patent medicines?

A. Patent medicines; that is what it is.

X-Q. 16. And your chewing gum is directly under the patent medicine counter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. And it is not your tobacco counter?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. And your cigarette shelves are in line with your cigar counter?

A. Directly in back of it.

X-Q. 19. Directly in back of it; and your pharmaceutical shelves with your chewing gum, is back of your candy counter?

A. Yes, and here are three boxes of gum behind this case here.

X-Q. 20. What gums are these?

A. Apollo, Peppermint and Beeman's. The Peppermint and double mint is in back of it.

X-Q. 21. But the Beech-Nut chewing gum is not in the cigarette case?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. And your pharmaceutical preparations are on this shelf?

A. I call it the ledge.

X-Q. 23. They are on the ledge?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. They are large tobacco manufacturers, are they not?

A. So I understand.

X-Q. 26. How long have you been buying Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I never bought them myself.

X-Q. 27. You never yourself bought a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. How long have you been buying them here in the store, four or five months?

A. I have been out of here, I have been out of here nine months; I came back a month ago.

X-Q. 29. Yes. So they have been buying them since you came back?

A. They were here when I came, so I take it for granted they were buying them for the last two or three months.

X-Q. 30. Are you buying them yet?

A. Yes, they are still selling them, they are here on the counter.

X-Q. 31. You have sold them over the counter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. The name P. Lorillard Co. would naturally indicate to you a Lorillard product?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. You never heard a person come in here and ask for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes made by Beech-Nut Packing Co., have you?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. If a person came into this store and asked you for a package of chewing gum made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, that is, the Beech-Nut chewing gum, you wouldn't sell him a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for a package of chewing gum?

A. In New Haven, no.

X-Q. 35. You would think he was crazy if he took it?

A. Yes, sure.

X-Q. 36. Well, if you went into a store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, you wouldn't be confused or deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum for Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. As I understand it, you never smoked Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 38. And you didn't examine the package?

A. No, not until the other day.

X-Q. 39. And you saw the name P. Lorillard Co. on it?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 40. Was this examination made after your attention had been called to it?

A. After my attention had been called to it, yes.

Signature of witness waived.

Depositon closed.

T. J. BRANIGAN (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is T. J. Branigan; you are employed in a shoe store at 1022 Chapel street, New Haven, Connecticut; you are 24 years of age, and your residence is 182 Wolcott street, New Haven, Connecticut; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen these cigarettes before on advertisements or posters of them; if so, when did you first see them?

A. It was last spring when they first came out I saw them displayed.

Q. 3. Did you ever buy a package of these cigarettes?

A. Yes, one package.

Q. 4. Why did you buy those cigarettes?

A. I thought they were a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 5. Had you previously bought Beech-Nut products?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. And what had been your experience with Beech-Nut products?

A. Very good.

Q. 7. What Beech-Nut products do you remember having bought prior to having bought the cigarettes?

A. Gum and caramels.

Q. 8. Do you know why you believed these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut people when you bought them?

A. I saw the Beech-Nut name on them.

Q. 9. How long did you continue to believe that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut people?

A. Until about two weeks ago.

Q. 10. How did you first find out they were not?

A. I met Mr. Griffin one day and he gave me a sample of the gum, and I asked him for a sample of the cigarettes, and he informed me then that they weren't a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 11. Did these Beech-Nut cigarettes that you bought in the belief that they were made by the Beech-Nut people, come up to your expectations as to quality?

A. No, they didn't.

Q. 12. Did you ever buy any more Beech-Nut cigarettes after that first package?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. 13. Mr. Branigan, you have testified that these cigarettes came out in the spring, that you saw them advertised or displayed and that you bought a package of them. Can you give me an idea to what extent you saw the cigarettes advertised and displayed in the store windows between the spring and the time Mr. Griffin told you they were not the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I saw them on billboards and displayed on quite a few store windows, dummy boxes and like all different types of advertising.

Q. 14. Were these dummy boxes similar to these boxes of cigarettes that I have shown you?

A. Why, no, I can't say they were. I don't remember the dummy boxes very well.

Q. 15. What I mean is, were they dummy packages of cigarettes?

A. Yes, about like that.

Q. 16. And did you see posters and the like in the windows?

A. Yes.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. A great deal.

X-Q. 18. What brands do you use?

A. Mostly Lucky Strikes.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever smoke any Murads?

A. Yes, quite a lot.

X-Q. 20. Moguls?

A. Moguls, yes.

X-Q. 21. And Egyptian Deities?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Those are all good brands, are they not?

A. Very good.

X-Q. 23. They are made by P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I never looked to see who they were made by.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. They are large manufacturers of tobacco products, are they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. If I tell you that they make those brands I have mentioned—Murads, Moguls, Egyptian Deities, you know Lorillard makes a good cigarette, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. And you also know, as a smoker, that different people have different tastes as to tobacco—cigars and cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. You know what you might consider to be a high grade brand, another man might consider very poor and inferior, do you not; that is true, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 29. So it is a matter of individual taste in cigarettes?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 30. Did you notice the name P. Lorillard Co. on this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes (Mr. Cavanagh indicating)?

A. I have noticed it in the past week or so.

X-Q. 31. You never took the trouble to examine that pack of cigarettes to see who did produce it, did you?

A. Never.

X-Q. 32. And when you were looking at all these advertisements and displays you never took the trouble to see whose name was on them?

A. No, I didn't. I just looked at the head line.

X-Q. 33. At the word Beech-Nut?

A. That's all.

X-Q. 34. You didn't pay any attention to the name at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 35. If you wanted a shirt like an Arrow shirt, you would see if Cluett-Peabody's name was on it, would you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. You have probably had that experience?

A. Yes, that is true.

X-Q. 37. You are in the shoe business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. Have you ever heard of the Hanan shoe—H-a-n-a-n?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. You know that the Hanan Shoe Co., for example, like many merchandise concerns, will have a very high grade, expensive shoe, and then they will have shoes of other prices, not of the same superior grade?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. And that is so in a great many lines of business?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 41. So, for example, you, as a smoker, would not expect in all common sense, to get a package of twenty cigarettes at the price of 15 cents that would equal a pack of, say, Pall Malls, ten in a pack, for 25 cents, would you?

A. You wouldn't expect the same quality.

X-Q. 42. That is what I mean. The Pall Malls you would naturally expect, you would naturally expect the high price cigarette to be superior, as you would in the shoe business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 43. I understood you to say you had purchased Beech-Nut chewing gum.

A. Chewing gum, yes.

X-Q. 44. Did you ever go into a store and ask the man for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum and have him pass you out a substitute and you accepted a package of these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes for the chewing gum?

A. No, not when I ask for gum.

X-Q. 45. You would be crazy if you took the cigarettes for the gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 46. You think that a man would be crazy or insane that would try to pass off cigarettes for gum, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sure.

X-Q. 47. You never chew tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 48. You never heard of this Lorillard scrap tobacco like the package I show you (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness a package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco)?

A. Only the same as the package, that is all; I didn't take any notice to see who put it out.

X-Q. 49. You didn't pay any attention to that?

A. No.

Cross-examination closed.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if J. P. McHUGH were called, he would testify as follows:

I am of legal age, a lumberman by occupation, and my residence is at 12 East 31st street, New York City. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes advertised, have seen them displayed in cigar store windows, and have seen posters of them in cigar store windows and on billboards since the spring of 1921. I believed until today, when I was advised by Mr. Griffin, a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, to the contrary, that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people who make chewing gum and other products.

On cross-examination the witness would state that he never paid any attention to the advertising and never examined it to see whose name was on it; that if he had examined this package to see whose product it was, and seen Lorillard's name on it, he would recognize it as a product of the P. Lorillard Co. That he never personally purchased any of these cigarettes, never having had occasion to, and therefore never examined a package carefully. He has never smoked any of these cigarettes.

ADAM SATTIG (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Adam Sattig; you are the proprietor of a grocery store and also sell meat products in Milford, Connecticut. This store employes four people altogether. You are 58 years of age, and your residence is No. 3 Center street, Milford, Connecticut, while your store is located on River street, Milford, Connecticut; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton showed the witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen these cigarettes before or advertisements or posters displaying these cigarettes?

A. I did.

Q. 3. When did you first see these cigarettes approximately?

A. I should say that I saw them next door here on the shelf.

Q. 4. This year, was it?

A. Oh, sure, this year, but if in the last month or so I couldn't tell you the exact date, because I go in there every day at least.

Q. 5. Did he have the cigarette boxes on display in the store on the show case?

A. No, on the shelf.

Q. 6. When you first saw these cigarettes, Mr. Sattig, by whom did you believe they were put out?

A. By the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 7. What made you believe that, do you know?

A. Because on account of the name Beech-Nut showed similar to all their packages; the label.

Q. 8. How long did you continue to believe these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut people?

A. Why, I can't tell exactly how long, but quite a while. Mr. Peters called my attention to the name Lorillard and afterwards I spoke to Mr. Peters about handling my starch. I got a Flossy starch, and I told him if they put up cigarettes and advertised them, they have got enough money to put my starch on the market.

Q. 9. Now, Mr. Sattig, you say you told Mr. Peters if they are putting up and advertising cigarettes that they could do it for your starch. What do you mean by "they"?

A. The Beech-Nut people.

Q. 10. You say after your attention had been called to the name Lorillard on these Beech-Nut cigarettes, you said what has just been quoted, to Mr. Peters the next time you saw him?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Will you tell me just what you thought the situation was, after your attention had been called to the name Lorillard on this package?

A. I thought Lorillard was making and putting them up for the Beech-Nut Company, that is what I thought, because that is what I wanted to do for the starch.

Q. 12. In other words, you wanted Mr. Peters to distribute the starch?

A. Yes, because I didn't have the money to do so myself.

Q. 13. What did Mr. Peters tell you?

A. He told me that the Beech-Nut people had nothing to do with the cigarette. That was the first I was positive they did not. I knew him so long I thought he would know.

Q. 14. I show you a package of scrap tobacco (Mr. Hinton shows the witness a package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), which has been marked in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. What brand is that on that tobacco?

A. Beech-Nut.

Q. 15. Whose product would you take that to be?

A. Beech-Nut people.

Q. 16. Had you ever seen this tobacco before you were shown this package the other day?

A. No, not that one.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. Do you sell Beech-Nut products here?

A. I do.

X-Q. 18. What do you sell?

A. Everything in their line; Beech-Nut catsup you will find up here (indicating), and if you will come up here I will show you. (Witness walked to front of store with Mr. Cavanagh.)

X-Q. 19. Do you sell tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. Did you ever sell them?

A. No, sir, that is years ago, but not here in Milford.

X-Q. 21. You never sold Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 22. Do you smoke?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. So you have never smoked Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. When did you first have a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in your hand?

A. I never had them in my hand. I looked at them on the shelf in the restaurant, that is the first package that I ever saw.

X-Q. 25. You looked at them at a distance?

A. No, they are right on the counter on the shelf.

X-Q. 26. So you didn't pick up a package and examine them?

A. No, I saw them from a distance.

X-Q. 27. You didn't take the trouble to see whose name was on that package?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. You know that P. Lorillard Company's name is on that package now?

A. Yes, I do now when my attention was called to it.

X-Q. 29. I have purchased from you a small glass of Beech-Nut brand peanut butter. You have also referred to the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco. Whose name appears on the scrap tobacco? (Mr. Cavanagh indicates.)

A. Lorillard, where you have just pointed.

X-Q. 30. So that would indicate to you that it was Lorillard's?

A. No, sir, it would not. It would indicate to me that Lorillard was putting them up for the Beech-Nut people.

X-Q. 31. Do you see their name anywhere on the package?

A. No, sir, Beech-Nut there and Beech-Nut there. (Indicating.)

X-Q. 32. On this small jar of peanut butter which I have purchased from you, you notice the name Beech-Nut Packing Company, do you not?

A. Yes, I see the Beech-Nut name right above there.

X-Q. 33. You see Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I do.

X-Q. 34. And the address, Canajoharie, N. Y.?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. And on this small package of gum I show you (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness package of Beech-Nut chewing gum), you also see the name Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 36. And Canajoharie, N. Y.?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 37. But do you know of any product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company where their name don't appear on it?

A. That I couldn't say. We don't scrutinize the labels to such an extent, knowing they are Beech-Nut products and put them on our shelves, and sell them, as I sold you this peanut butter.

X-Q. 38. Do you know of any package of this peanut butter that has red radiating lines on it as this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. That I couldn't say, I don't remember any.

X-Q. 39. On this Beech-Nut Packing Company's label they have a wide red band, with the words Beech-Nut Peanut Butter printed on it, do they not?

A. That one, yes.

X-Q. 40. You don't find any red band on that package (Mr. Cavanagh indicating package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco)?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. And the Beech-Nut label is a nut imposed on three green leaves?

A. That one, yes.

X-Q. 42. You didn't notice any such words on that?

A. No, that one changed my opinion as to the Beech-Nut goods.

X-Q. 43. And on this Lorillard package you find the words "Lorillard" and "Beech-Nut tobacco," do you not?

A. I do.

X-Q. 44. You never heard of the Lorillard Company?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 45. They are large tobacco manufacturers, are they not?

A. I suppose so.

X-Q. 46. You never heard of them in the trade?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 47. If you saw the name Lorillard on there you would know it was their product, wouldn't you? And came from their factory?

A. No, sir, I would not think they were putting it up, but that a large concern was putting it up for other people. I was with Lewis De Groff & Son of New York City and there is their goods and labels and we had this man put up our jellies and the other man put up their goods and from my experience I was satisfied it was a product of the Lorillard Company put up for the Beech-Nut people.

X-Q. 48. Then your theory would be that the Lorillard Company, the tobacco concern, put out a tobacco with their name on it for the Beech-Nut Packing Company and without the name Beech-Nut Packing Company appearing anywhere on that label? Now, as I cannot conceive of that situation, would you kindly get me a can which you have spoken of where any such condition would exist? (Witness got a glass jar.)

X-Q. 49. Now you have handed me a can of sweet corn which I will gladly purchase, and it bears on it the name of Lewis De Groff & Son, wholesale distributors, New York. Now whose goods are these?

A. Mine, I paid for it from Lewis De Groff. You mean who put it up?

X-Q. 50. Yes.

A. Well, you shouldn't ask me that. Who put it up for them I couldn't say but the U. S. Register office will tell you because there is registered the U. S. patent on it.

X-Q. 51. Does the name of the manufacturer or party that put those goods up appear anywhere on that label?

A. No.

X-Q. 52. There is absolutely nothing to indicate where that can came from; the only thing that appears on there is De Groff's name, is it not?

A. De Groff's.

X-Q. 53. Your name doesn't appear on it, does it?

A. Not that I know of, I don't see it there.

X-Q. 54. So that, as far as the public is concerned, looking simply at this label, they wouldn't know the concern that manufactures this; whether it was a high grade corn concern or whether it was from some inferior factory or they wouldn't know it was coming to a first class store like yours or whether it was coming to some store that would sell seconds. All that appears on there is Lewis De Groff & Sons?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. So you couldn't tell, as far as that went, where the corn came from?

A. Only that that corn was put up by Lewis De Groff.

X-Q. 56. I am not in any way trying to confuse the situation, Mr. Sattig, I simply want to get a clear explanation. On this package of scrap tobacco we have the name Lorillard, which is, as you know, a tobacco house, and they manufacture tobacco. The Beech-Nut Packing Company's name does not appear on this so there is nothing to indicate on that package that Lorillard ever put out anything for the Beech-Nut Packing Company. On the contrary, in this case of the can of sweet corn there is nothing to indicate the manufacturer, the same as the Lorillard Co. would be for the tobacco, but there is something to indicate the distributor, Lewis De Groff & Son. Now, my point is that you don't know of any case of this sort where the manufacturer's name would appear on it and not the distributor where it was made for the distributor, do you?

A. No, I couldn't tell you that.

X-Q. 57. That is all on that point.

A. You will agree with me that Lewis De Groff has got the label registered, won't you?

X-Q. 58. I absolutely will not, as a patent lawyer, I will not.

A. (Witness gets a jar of jelly from shelf.) I know the party that puts this up because I have been in that place. I just want to see if they have got it on there.

X-Q. 59. Mr. Sattig, if you went into a store and wanted to purchase some Beech-Nut peanut butter or Beech-Nut jellies or Beech-Nut gum and you asked the clerk for peanut butter or jellies or gum, would you be confused or deceived into taking a package of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes for jelly or gum?

A. I don't quite understand that question.

X-Q. 60. I will just explain that. The point is this, that if you went into a store and said to the man, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut jelly" or Beech-Nut gum and that man handed you out a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, you would not take the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for the gum or jelly?

A. I would think I had Beech-Nut in my hand if the name Beech-Nut was on there I would be satisfied that the Beech-Nut people were putting it out and would purchase it for that.

X-Q. 61. If you went into a store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut gum and you were handed a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you take the Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the gum?

A. Certainly not, if I asked for the gum.

X-Q. 62. You would know the difference between the cigarettes and the gum immediately?

A. Certainly.

Cross-examination closed.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 63. On one of the questions of the cross-examination I understood Mr. Cavanagh to say that there was nothing on this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco to indicate that the Beech-Nut people put it out. Do you agree with that statement?

A. No, sir, I take it that the Beech-Nut name would be Beech-Nut goods.

Re-Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 64. You mean the word Beech-Nut?

A. The word Beech-Nut on there would satisfy me it was a Beech-Nut product.

R-X Q. 65. But you don't find the name Beech-Nut Packing Co., do you?

A. I didn't scrutinize the label as closely as that. If I went into a store to buy a package of Beech-Nut gum I would not take any cigarettes, but if I bought a package of Beech-Nut tobacco I would think it was their product, and I am still of the opinion that the Lorillard Company are putting out the cigarettes for the Beech-Nut people.

R-X Q. 66. In spite of the fact that you found Lorillard's name on it?

A. Sure, that wouldn't make any difference any more than this starch here if I had it put up under the Beech-Nut name.

R-X Q. 67. So that the public would be led to believe this was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Not at all, I would say that it was the Beech-Nut people that were putting out my goods.

R-X Q. 68. How long have you known the Lorillard people to put out Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. As I said before, I don't know how long.

R-X Q. 69. Do you know how many years they have been putting it out?

A. No.

R-X Q. 70. Do you know how long Beech-Nut tobacco has been on the market?

A. No, sir, I don't.

R-X Q. 71. Never heard of it before?

A. I have not seen it before.

R-X Q. 72. You would be surprised if you found they had been putting it out for years?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Hinton: I object to this as immaterial and irrelevant.

The Witness: If you don't—— I haven't got time to stand here all day and answer these questions. I have my work to do.

Mr. Cavanagh: Well, if you don't want to answer these questions here, I'll see that you have an opportunity to do so in the United States court.

Mr. Hinton: I would be very glad to have the witness place himself fully at the disposition of the opposing counsel, but this is degenerating into an argument between the counsel and witness; for instance, on the question of whether the witness knows how long the scrap tobacco has been put out. He has testified that he has never seen it before and that would seem to me to end the proposition.

Mr. Cavanagh: This testimony is being taken in the witness's store. Mr. Cavanagh has endeavored to accommodate Mr. Hinton by coming to examine the witness at the store. As the witness is under cross-examination and as this is a suit pending in the United States District Court for the District of New Jersey, the defendant is entitled to avail himself of his rights under the laws and statutes in such cases made and provided. If Mr. Hinton has any objection to the nature of the questions he shall simply enter his objection on the record and let the court pass on the same.

However, in view of the attitude assumed by the witness, counsel refuses to cross-examine further and the deposition is closed so far as he is concerned. The Beech-Nut peanut butter purchased from the witness is marked for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 7.

The deposition of the witness, so far as his opinion of the Lorillard scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarette is concerned, is objected to as merely opinion made without any support.

Mr. Hinton: The witness has just expressed a perfect willingness to answer any number of questions. My only point is that I don't think that counsel and the witness should engage in argumentative matter about how long Lorillard has put out the scrap tobacco. The witness is proffered to counsel for further cross-examination if he desires to cross-examine him further and is not in a hostile frame of mind. On the contrary, he is, at the present moment, engaged in an amicable and friendly talk with opposing counsel.

Mr. Cavanagh: Opposing counsel tries to make it a habit of being amicable and friendly with every person in this universe when possible.

Mr. Hinton: So does the witness.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

SANFORD HAWKINS (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Sanford Hawkins, your age is 67, you are the proprietor of a grocery and general store at 53 Broad Street, Milford, Connecticut, and your residence is 45 Broad Street, Milford, Connecticut, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Do you handle tobacco products in this store, Mr. Hawkins?

A. I do.

Q. 3. Have you sold Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to the package I now show you (Mr. Hinton shows witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long have you sold these cigarettes here?

A. Well, I started in last spring, about the spring of 1921.

Q. 5. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe they were put out?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Co.

Q. 6. Do you know what led you to that belief?

A. Well, the name Beech-Nut on the goods. Of course, I hadn't seen the package at that time, but they were a demand for them so we put them in and as I sold them I thought first of course, I thought they were put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. Yes.

A. And afterwards, when I came to open them, I found out they were packed by the Lorillard people.

Q. 8. Where did you get your information that they were packed by the Lorillard people as you opened them?

A. By looking over the package.

Q. 9. You mean the carton in which the cigarettes were packed?

A. Well, I don't recall that, but I know I examined the package and I see there was a similarity of the label that the Beech-Nut Packing Company uses and that led me to believe they were the packers of it, but I soon found out by the name they were packed by other parties.

Q. 10. You have referred to the package—what I want to get at is that the container that holds a number of packages of cigarettes in which the cigarettes come.

A. The small package?

Q. 11. Well, how many individual packages of cigarettes are in that package do you know, about?

A. I think there are ten. I don't recall now whether there was or not. I couldn't say positively but of course when I opened up the package, then I——

Q. 12. Was there a slip in the package?

A. I think there was at that time.

Q. 13. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), which has been marked for identification in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. I call your attention to the brand on it; have you ever seen that brand before?

A. Yes, I have seen the same or one similar to that on the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods.

Q. 14. Yes. Had you ever seen this package of scrap tobacco before or any like it before I showed you this one?

A. No, that is the first time.

Q. 15. Whose product would you take that to be?

A. From just the appearance of it, the Beech-Nut Packing Company's.

Mr. Hinton: That is all, you may cross-examine.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 16. Mr. Hawkins, do you buy tobacco products direct from the manufacturer?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. You know of the Lorillard Company, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. It is a large and well known tobacco concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. And this name, P. Lorillard Co., on that package indicated to you, when you examined it, that it was a Lorillard product?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. And the Lorillard name also appears on this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. That would indicate to you that it was a Lorillard product, would it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. And on this question of the label, I show you a package or jar of peanut butter, which has got on it the Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, N. Y. Do you recognize that to be the label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. That contains a wide red label with printing on it, does it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. There is no such label on Lorillard products, is there?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. You know it is very common in the trade, especially in connection with packaged goods, to use an oval or a circle or the like on the package?

A. Well, it is quite commonly done.

X-Q. 26. That is a practice in the printing of the label?

A. Well, the Armour people, they use an oval label on theirs.

X-Q. 27. And this package here has the words on it, chewing tobacco, has it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. And you don't find that on any Beech-Nut label you know of?

A. Chewing tobacco?

X-Q. 29. Yes.

A. No, not chewing tobacco.

X-Q. 30. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. putting out a tobacco product?

A. I never had up to that time, but of course they were putting out so many other things all the while I wasn't surprised they were getting out the cigarettes and I supposed, until my attention was called to that, they were putting up the cigarettes.

X-Q. 31. But the products you have been handling of theirs have been food products?

A. Yes, food products altogether excepting chewing gum. I don't know if that is classed in among the food.

X-Q. 32. And the various products which you have, except chewing gum, which you don't know how to classify, all these products have been along the food product line, haven't they?

A. Yes, altogether, with the exception of the chewing gum, I guess.

X-Q. 33. Now, Mr. Hawkins, if a man came into your store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum or asked you for a jar of peanut butter, you wouldn't hand him a package of this Lorillard's scrap tobacco or a package of the Lorillard cigarettes for peanut butter, would you?

A. Oh, certainly not.

X-Q. 34. And you yourself wouldn't be deceived if you wanted to purchase the peanut butter or chewing gum, you wouldn't let a man in the store palm off tobacco on you, would you?

A. Well, now, of course after I found out——

X-Q. 35. Answer my question.

A. Well, of course, after I knew these goods were put up by the Lorillard people, of course I knew that that label did not stand for their goods, the Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 36. The Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, no, because they are—well, there was a similarity, of course, in the two—between the regular label that they have and that one, and they was so near alike that it would deceive me at first until I found out who packed the goods, you know.

X-Q. 37. Will you say that, looking at those labels, that that label on the scrap tobacco isn't like that label (Mr. Cavanagh indicating)?

A. It was so near to it it deceived me at first.

X-Q. 38. The name Beech-Nut?

A. The name Beech-Nut, and I wondered how they could use that and everything so closely resembling that without the permission from the Beech-Nut people, but I was afterwards told by parties who said that they knew—who said that they had given the Beech-Nut people a large amount of money for the use of that label.

X-Q. 39. The label on the scrap tobacco is not the same as the label on the peanut butter?

A. Well, of course, when you come to examine it closely there is a similarity, of course, and a little difference.

X-Q. 40. But my original question was back there if you wanted to buy some peanut butter or chewing gum, would you take this scrap tobacco or cigarettes for chewing gum or peanut butter?

A. Oh, no, no.

X-Q. 41. Did you ever see any Beech-Nut product with those red radiating lines or the like on that scrap tobacco package?

A. No, no, I don't recall any.

X-Q. 42. You never saw any Lorillard cigarettes with that wide red band and the printing on it, did you?

A. No, I haven't seen any.

X-Q. 43. And you never saw a Beech-Nut Packing Company product with the two crossed beech-nuts like that, did you; like is on the cigarette package (Mr. Cavanagh indicating)?

A. No, I haven't seen any, but they have something very similar.

X-Q. 44. They have a single beech-nut imposed on three green leaves, haven't they?

A. Well, I never noticed—yes, that is the one (witness indicating).

X-Q. 45. Do you smoke cigarettes yourself?

A. No.

X-Q. 46. So you never bought the Lorillard cigarettes to smoke yourself?

A. No.

X-Q. 47. But you have bought their other products and know them to be good sellers?

A. Yes, we have handled their products almost ever since I been in business.

X-Q. 48. And sell a good line of goods?

A. Yes, always.

X-Q. 49. And since you found out that Lorillard put out those cigarettes you have still stocked them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 50. And have purchased them from time to time and know they are Lorillard's?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 51. And if a customer came in and asked you for some of them you would be interested enough to tell him, wouldn't you——

A. Yes, I think the general public all know that name ——

(Question continued.) ——that they were Lorillard cigarettes?

A. Yes, as far as that goes.

X-Q. 52. I think that is all.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 53. Have you talked to anybody who came into your store about these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, I can't say that I have.

R-D. Q. 54. Has anybody who comes into your store and wants to buy these cigarettes, told you he thinks they are made by the Lorillard Company?

A. No, they just simply come in and ask for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, and I hand them out.

R-D. Q. 55. And you have not discussed this question of who makes these cigarettes with the people who come into the store?

A. No, I don't recall.

R-D. Q. 56. You don't recall any conversation with anybody about it?

A. Only in regard—I know I had several times reference to—I thought they would have to get a permit from them to use that label. That's all I have recalled speaking about.

R-D. Q. 57. Then your statement that the general public knows about this is just a guess on your part?

A. As far as I know, as far as our customers are concerned. When I say general public, of course, that had not ought to have been so wide, it covers too much.

Redirect examination closed.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

ALEXANDER C. GARDNER (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. You are the proprietor of a grocery and confectionery store, which sells tobacco products, in Milford, Connecticut; your age is 37; your residence is 11 Cherry street, and your store is located at 28 Baldwin street, Milford, Connecticut; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How many people do you employ in this store altogether?

A. This one here?

Q. 3. No, both, altogether.

A. Nine.

Q. 4. Do you sell tobacco products in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Do you remember when you first stocked these cigarettes in this store?

A. When I did?

Q. 6. Yes.

A. I don't remember exactly.

Q. 7. Do you remember whether it was spring, summer, or fall?

A. Well, let's see; I should say we got those in about the middle of winter, probably a little later.

Q. 8. In the early spring?

A. Yes, in the early spring.

Q. 9. This year?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. When you first saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe they were made?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Co.

Q. 11. Why did you believe that?

A. From the label, the Beech-Nut label.

Q. 12. Do you refer to this oval device on the front of the package of cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Do you now believe they are made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 14. When did you first find out they were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, do you remember?

A. There was a salesman, who informed me they were not a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 15. Have you ever had any customers make any remarks to you over the counter about these cigarettes; if so, will you state the nature of the remarks?

A. Why, they said if they were as good as the other Beech-Nut products they would be all right.

Q. 16. Can you remember any other remarks that was made over the counter?

A. Well, let's see, my mind is so full of other things—I was just trying to get these orders out.

Q. 17. All right. Never mind that. Have you, since you knew who made these cigarettes, ever told customers they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, but I have had to inform them they were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 18. How often has this happened; I don't mean the exact number, but has it been frequent or not?

A. Quite frequent when they first came out.

Q. 19. Yes. Have you ever seen a package of this scrap tobacco, which is in this case, marked for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1 (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), before I showed you one the other day?

A. Not until you showed it to me.

Q. 19. I call your attention to the oval panel on the front of this package of scrap tobacco. Have you ever seen that device before?

A. On all Beech-Nut products.

Q. 20. Whose product would you take this to be?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company from the label.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 21. I understand you first bought the Beech-Nut cigarettes several months ago, did you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Are you still buying them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. From whom do you buy them?

A. New Haven Tobacco Co.

X-Q. 24. You don't buy from the manufacturer?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. You have bought at least several orders of these cigarettes, I presume, since you first knew they were Lorillard's?

A. Yes, I buy them in one thousand lots.

X-Q. 26. And it is a good seller?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. You know of the Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. You know they are large tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. And you have handled their goods of various kinds?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. Have they always been very satisfactory?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. Lorillard has a good reputation as a tobacco concern?

A. As far as I know; of course I never dealt direct with them, but——

X-Q. 32. You have always handled their goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. And have handled a lot of their brands?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. The name Lorillard always appears on the package, does it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 35. And that would indicate it was a Lorillard product?

A. Well, the name is so small at first you wouldn't notice it.

X-Q. 36. But if you took the trouble to examine it, you would notice it, would you not?

A. Yes, I would notice it; of course I can read.

X-Q. 37. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out a tobacco product, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 38. You never sold any Beech-Nut Packing Co. tobacco products, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. Do you sell Beech-Nut products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 40. Of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 41. What do you sell?

A. Jellies, jams, chewing gum, beans, catsup, jelly sauce.

X-Q. 42. That's enough. If a person came into your store and asked you for any of those products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that you have just named, you wouldn't hand him a package of those Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of the stuff he asked for, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 43. And you yourself, if you went into a store and wanted some Beech-Nut chewing gum or asked a man for Beech-Nut jelly, you wouldn't walk out of that store with a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Not if I wanted jelly.

X-Q. 44. You wouldn't confuse the two?

A. If a man asked for jelly of any kind, I wouldn't hand him cigarettes of any brand.

X-Q. 45. I show you a can of peanut butter, bearing the Beech-Nut label (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness jar of peanut butter made by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.), which is in this case, marked for identification Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 7. You recognize that label, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 46. Whose label is that?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company's.

X-Q. 47. The name Beech-Nut Packing Company appears on it, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. And consists of a wide red band, with printing on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. With the name?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 50. And has in the center a single beech-nut with leaves superimposed on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 51. You don't find on that scrap tobacco a wide red oval band, with a single beech-nut, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 52. And you know that, from your experience in the grocery and other business, you are in the store business, that lots of products have ovals on the packages and have an oval on which the name appears, do you not?

A. Why, there is some, yes.

X-Q. 53. For instance, Armour's Veribest, and others, have an oval, don't they?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. You don't recall any Beech-Nut product having any of those red radiating lines like shown on that package, do you? (Mr. Cavanagh indicating package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco.)

A. No.

X-Q. 55. That cigarette package hasn't that wide red band, with the name shown on it, has it?

A. No, but I didn't remember the Beech-Nut having a red band until you called my attention to it.

X-Q. 56. You know the oval is very old in the business?

A. Yes, but an oval with a beech-nut is very different from an oval without a beech-nut.

X-Q. 57. But I understood you to say you never knew of the Beech-Nut people to put out any tobacco.

A. No.

X-Q. 58. You have never sold any of their tobacco?

A. No, but they have put out so many new articles lately that it was no surprise to me to see a Beech-Nut cigarette. I classed it as a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 59. All the Beech-Nut products you have known have been in the nature of food products, have they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. Did you ever buy any of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco yourself?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. You don't handle the Beech-Nut scrap chewing tobacco?

A. No.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 62. You say you handle Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I do.

R-D. Q. 63. You said that chewing gum is a food product?

A. I don't know that it is exactly a food.

R-D. Q. 64. Where do you keep your chewing gum here?

A. Right on top of the case. You got the Beech-Nut gum out of it.

R-D. Q. 65. Yes. Is that case adjoining——

A. Right next to the cigar case.

Mr. Cavanagh: But you keep the chewing gum on top of your candy case, do you not?

The Witness: Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: And it is not on top of the cigar case?

The Witness: No.

Mr. Cavanagh: It is more of a confection than it is tobacco?

The Witness: Absolutely.

Redirect Examination continued by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 66. Did you ever go into a United Cigar store?

A. I have been in them.

R-D. Q. 67. Do you know where they keep the chewing gum in the United Cigar stores?

A. I have seen it right on top of the cigar counter.

R-D. Q. 68. Do you know if that is the universal practice in the United Cigar Stores?

A. I don't know if it is universal.

Redirect examination closed.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if C. A. SATTIG were called, he would testify as follows:

My name is C. A. Sattig; I am of legal age; I work in the grocery and meat store of Adam Sattig, who testified in this case, and am his son. I first saw the Beech-Nut cigarettes advertised and on display in the early spring of 1921. I believed that they were a product of the Beech-

Nut Packing Co. I bought a number of packages, I do not know exactly how many, in that belief, and smoked them. I continued to believe that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. until about three months after I had bought my first package. I was riding in a train and I pulled out a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes to smoke one, and a man in the seat next to me said, "Why do you smoke those Beech-Nut cigarettes?" and I said, "Well, the Beech-Nut people make good stuff," and he said, "Those cigarettes are not made by the Beech-Nut people," and called my attention to the name P. Lorillard Co. on the package.

It is further stipulated that on cross-examination the witness would say, that he made no particular examination of the package and did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. thereon; that if he had he would have known the cigarette to be a product of that company; if he went into a store to buy chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product he would not be confused or deceived into accepting a package of the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of the chewing gum.

NEWTON HARRISON (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Newton Harrison; you are the proprietor of a dry goods store in Milford, Connecticut; your residence is 8 Crown street, Milford, Connecticut, and your store is located at 18-20 Broad street, Milford, Connecticut; you are of legal age; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Mr. Harrison, what else do you do beside being the proprietor of a drygoods store?

A. Editor of the Central Station, a monthly newspaper devoted and representing the interests of the electric light and power plants of the United States.

Q. 3. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness a package of Beech Nut cigarettes), which is in this case, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, and ask you if you have ever seen these cigarettes before, and if so, when you first saw them?

A. Sometime in the spring in Mr. A. C. Gardner's store.

Q. 4. Do you remember the month?

A. Yes, April, and I purchased a package.

Q. 5. Why did you buy these cigarettes when you first saw them?

A. Because I saw the character of the name and believed it to be a Beech-Nut product. I thought it was good, and I thought I would try them.

Q. 6. You thought it was good before you bought the cigarettes?

A. I thought it was a Beech-Nut product, I thought the package was a good package, so I tried it, believing it was a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 7. You subsequently bought other packages?

A. Yes, other packages.

Q. 8. When did you first buy these cigarettes; was that in the spring?

A. Sometime in the spring, I presume; I couldn't give you the exact date, but believe it was in Gardner's store, but I have seen them in other places since then, believing it was a Beech-Nut product.

Q. 9. Do you now believe it is a Beech-Nut product?

A. Not since I have heard from your representatives quite recently that the Beech-Nut people have nothing to do with it.

Q. 10. Do you remember seeing myself and another man get out of an automobile in front of Mr. Gardner's store?

A. Last week?

Q. 11. Last week.

A. Yes, and I said first, "Why don't you bring out a good grade of near beer as long as you have so many other good products. Then you spoke to me and I discovered in a very short time that the Beech-Nut cigarette was not made by you, at which I was very much surprised.

Q. 12. What was on this automobile we got out of?

A. Beech-Nut stamp, the Beech-Nut trade-mark.

Q. 13. And was it that——

A. That was what attracted my attention.

Q. 14. And then you said to me, "Why don't you put out a near beer?"

A. I was thinking of the other companies that had made near beer, and I thought in these prohibition days you might develop a nice branch of your business by use of the Beech-Nut trade-mark.

Q. 15. Do you remember what I asked you exactly?

A. You told me at the time, as nearly as I can recollect, that had I any particular brand in mind. I said, "You recently came out with a Beech-Nut cigarette." I think that was what I said as nearly as I can remember.

Q. 16. Yes, that is my recollection. You have bought Beech-Nut products before, have you?

A. Yes, jellies.

Q. 17. And what has been your experience with them?

A. They were excellent, always excellent, good quality, what we call a good brand. The name Beech-Nut seems to speak well for their ginger ale and jellies and such products as I have bought.

Q. 18. I show you a package of scrap tobacco (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen that brand or panel on that before; I mean have you ever seen that label before?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Where have you seen it?

A. I have seen it in Bridgeport in a tobacco store.

Q. 20. Have you ever seen this label on any other product?

A. Why, that particular label—

Q. 21. Or one like it?

A. I have looked at that label and believed it to be a label belonging to the Beech-Nut Company because the name Beech-Nut seems to be comprehensive. I naturally concluded it was a Beech-Nut product, that was my impression of it, also the cigarette.

Direct Examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 22. How often did you purchase these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, we will say a half a dozen times. I smoke various brands. I buy Murads, Pall Malls, Chesterfields or Egyptians, and I have been buying Saulsbury's lately. I tried the Beech-Nut. I have had Beech-Nut cigarettes in the house; we gave them to friends and they smoked whatever we had there.

X-Q. 23. Have you ever heard of P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. You know them to be large tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. Do you notice the name P. Lorillard Co. now?

A. Yes, I notice it now but would not have otherwise.

X-Q. 26. Do you notice the name Beech-Nut on there?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. If you had taken the trouble to notice the name Lorillard—

A. I would have noticed it was not a Beech-Nut product, but the Beech-Nut trade-mark is so conspicuous that I didn't draw any other conclusion but that it was a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 28. That is, that word Beech-Nut?

A. That is sufficient.

X-Q. 29. And if you had taken the trouble to examine the package and noted the P. Lorillard Co. on it you would have known it was the tobacco company's product and not the Beech-Nut Company's?

A. Yes, but the Beech-Nut is very conspicuous and the Lorillard very inconspicuous.

X-Q. 30. On this scrap tobacco (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), can you find the name Lorillard on that?

A. Yes, if you know where to look for it.

X-Q. 31. You have never seen any Beech-Nut products with any of those red radiating lines on it like that, have you?

A. To my recollection they have a simple oval trade-mark, that is as far as I saw the goods, that is the way I remember their product. It just has a red oval with Beech-Nut in it.

X-Q. 32. Do you know that in trade-marks it is very customary to use an oval on packages?

A. Yes, it seems to be convenient for them.

X-Q. 33. Did you ever hear of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco product whatsoever?

A. Not since I have been informed, I realized they haven't put out any tobacco products. It was a surprise to me to know it wasn't their product.

X-Q. 34. You never made any particular inquiries to find out whether or not it was their product?

A. I took it as a matter of course that it was their product.

X-Q. 35. Because of the name Beech-Nut?

A. Yes, because of the name Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 36. You don't know how long the Lorillard people have been using that as a trade-mark, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. If you went into a store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut jelly or gum, would you be confused or deceived into accepting a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the gum or jelly?

A. I don't think so.

X-Q. 38. You would think a man who did was crazy, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

That's all.

Cross-examination closed.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

JOHN F. GRIFFIN (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is John F. Griffin; you are 26 years of age; you reside at 518 Orange Street, New Haven, Connecticut and your occupation is salesman; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. By whom are you employed, Mr. Griffin, and how long have you been employed by this concern?

A. I am employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and have been for two and three-quarter years; two years and eight months.

Q. 3. What territory do you cover?

A. All Connecticut but Fairfield County.

Q. 4. What do you sell?

A. I sell confectionery, chewing gum and beverages.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes) which is in the case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1; do you remember when these cigarettes came out in your territory?

A. March, 1921.

Q. 6. Have these cigarettes appeared in the state generally?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. Have they been displayed in windows of stores and the like?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Have you seen advertising and posters of these cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Have you, in the course of your traveling about from place to place for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, heard anybody make any comments, remarks or inquiries about these cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Will you state the nature of these comments, inquiries or remarks? What did they say?

A. They asked me how they were going, how they were selling, and they are selling because Beech-Nut products always have been known to be good products and people asked me for samples.

Q. 11. I wish you would give me a strictly conservative estimate as to the number of comments you have heard; or this kind of remarks made since this spring.

A. About five or six hundred and I am hearing them every day yet.

Q. 12. What is this? (Mr. Hinton shows witness photograph.)

A. That is a photograph of a window display I had taken.

Q. 13. Where was that window display?

A. At the corner of Elm Street and First Avenue, West Haven.

Q. 14. What store?

A. It was in the drug store.

Q. 15. Who was the proprietor?

A. Mr. Coughlan, I don't know his initials.

Q. 16. Was he one of your customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. Did you have this photograph taken yourself?

A. I saw the window display and went there and got this Mr. Madden and he took the photograph.

Q. 18. Do you recognize it as the picture of this display?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Now, Mr. Griffin, did you in any way instigate or cause this display to be made?

A. None whatsoever.

Q. 20. I refer to the display of the Beech-Nut gum in this picture.

A. None whatsoever.

Q. 21. Have you investigated through the company's sources and do you know whether the Beech-Nut Packing Company recently sent the proprietor of this store this display of gum boxes or whether they are old boxes?

A. They are old boxes. We are not sending out gum advertising now on account of the scarcity.

Q. 22. When was this picture taken?
A. The 24th day of August, I think.
Q. 23. Were you present when it was taken?
A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: The photograph, identified by the witness, is introduced and offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 2, West Haven Drug Store Display.

Mr. Cavanagh: The exhibit is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant and is not properly proven.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if FRANK MADDEN was called, he would testify as follows:

I am of legal age and reside in New Haven, Connecticut. I am a photographer by trade and am frequently employed by Donnelly's Photo Studio, 1050 Chapel Street, New Haven, Connecticut, to take photographs.

I was employed on August 25th, 1921, to go with Mr. Griffin of the Beech-Nut Packing Company and take a photograph of a display in a drug store on the corner of Elm Street and First Avenue, West Haven, Connecticut. I accordingly took the photograph, developed it, and printed it. The photograph, which is marked in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 2 (West Haven Drug Store Display Window) is the photograph which I then and there took.

Mr. Cavanagh: Without waiving any objections to the introduction of this photograph as an exhibit, so far as it concerns its immateriality and irrelevancy, counsel for P. Lorillard Co. proceeded to cross-examine Mr. Griffin as follows:

X-Q. 24. Did you personally instruct the photographer Madden to take this picture?

A. Indirectly I did.

X-Q. 25. Just tell us how it happened.

A. Well, Mr. Hinton and I were coming up from West Haven; we saw the window there and thought we would have it taken, so I got this employee, this Frank Madden, to come with me and photograph this window display.

X-Q. 26. What instructions did you give Madden?

A. To take the photograph of this window and—just to make a photograph of the window. That's about all the instructions I gave him.

X-Q. 27. Did you say anything to the proprietor of the drug store about it?

A. I asked him where he got the display from, as there was hardly anybody displaying Beech-Nut gum because you can't get it under the circumstances and it seems that it was some old advertising he had in his cellar.

X-Q. 28. Will you look at the part of this photograph so far as the section under the window, under Ex-Lax is concerned; is that a true representation, do you know, of the advertisements that appear in that window?

A. Why, yes, it is.

X-Q. 29. You never sold tobacco for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, tobacco products?

A. No.

X-Q. 30. So far as you know, they don't sell tobacco products, do they?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31. You never told any persons that these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 32. You didn't keep any particular account of the number of people that asked you if they were as good as the chewing gum and the other remarks you made, did you?

A. Just approximately.

X-Q. 33. I mean, you didn't keep any count of them?

A. No, no.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 34. Can you give me any particular instances of people who made these comments and remarks you refer to? Please give me no instances except where you can state definitely who made the remarks and definitely what he said.

A. Mr. Marrinan, the drug clerk, one night in a restaurant, came up to me and asked me how the Beech-Nut cigarettes were going.

R-D. Q. 35. Has Mr. Marrinan testified in this case?

A. Yes, he has.

R-D. Q. 36. All right. Give me another one.

A. Mr. Branigan, a shoe clerk on Chapel Street, New Haven, on giving him a few samples of Beech-Nut gum said, "Let me have a few samples of Beech-Nut cigarettes instead."

R-D. Q. 37. Did he testify in this case?

A. Yes, he did, too.

R-D. Q. 38. Can you give me any more?

A. A fellow named James Cashman. On meeting him one day downtown, he asked me how the cigarettes were moving.

R-D. Q. 39. Did he testify in this case?

A. Yes, he did.

R-D. Q. 40. Can you give me another one?

A. Yes, Robert Greene, who runs a store in West Haven, grocery and meat market, just here the other day I got into conversation with him about Beech-Nut cigarettes and when I informed him we weren't making them he said it was an awful surprise.

R-D. Q. 41. What did he say?

A. He said that—he asked me about the sale of cigarettes. "I hear they go good," and I told him we had nothing to do with the cigarettes absolutely.

R-D. Q. 42. He has testified in this case?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 43. Now, about this photograph, I notice that on the right of the photograph, it apparently does not run to the extreme end of the window. Do you know, as a matter of fact, whether that photograph shows the entire display of the window or not?

A. No.

R-D. Q. 44. Is there a wide or narrow window on the right?

A. A narrow window, there is a board coming down right here (witness indicates). See that board there, it shows only about a quarter of the big one. I thought he had the whole picture.

R-D. Q. 45. Did he come close to the edge?

A. Awfully close to the edge.

R-D. Q. 46. I mean is there a lot more of this window that dosn't show in the photograph?

A. Oh, no, that is practically the end.

Redirect examination closed.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

JOSEPH DE RAGO (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Joseph De Rago; your age, 34; your residence, 82 Spring Street, Hartford, Connecticut; you are the proprietor of a general store at 72 Union Place, Hartford, Connecticut; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Do you handle tobacco in this store, Mr. De Rago?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes) which is in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 1, being a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Have you sold these cigarettes in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long about?

A. Since they come out, when they come was in the spring.

Q. 5. Yes. Mr. De Rago, who did you believe made these cigarettes?

A. Always believe Beech-Nut make it; also call same name, that's Beech-Nut.

Q. 7. Yes. Is that the people who make the gum?

A. Yes, that's it.

Q. 8. Do you sell the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Mr. De Rago, have you sold Beech-Nut scrap tobacco in this store?

A. Yes, I have been selling for six years here.

Q. 10. Who did you believe made the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. I believe just the same, Beech-Nut make Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

Q. 11. Is this the scrap tobacco I show you? (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut chewing tobaco.)

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: The package shown the witness is produced and offered in this case as Beech-Nut Exhibit No. 3, Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco.

Q. 12. Mr. DeRago, did you ever tell people in this store that this scrap tobacco was made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. They ask me who makes; I say I think Beech-Nut people make the same thing; they say that is right, Beech-Nut makes everything, that's all.

Q. 13. Now, when, if at all, when did you first find out; when was the first time you found out?

A. Today.

Q. 14. That the Beech-Nut people did not make this product?

A. Today.

Mr. Hinton: You may cross-examine.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 15. You say you have been buying this scrap tobacco for about six years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. From whom have you been buying it?

A. I bought it from the wholesale house.

X-Q. 17. What is the name of it?

A. Gregier Tobacco Co., they are all over Connecticut, every place.

X-Q. 18. From whom did you buy your Beech-Nut products, like your chewing gum?

A. I buy from Silver Braun, Corn Brothers, Abel, any of them.

X-Q. 19. How many people do you employ in this store?

A. Nobody.

X-Q. 20. Just yourself?

A. Myself and mother.

X-Q. 21. So you didn't buy anything from the Beech-Nut Packing Company itself?

A. No, but still I send through Silver Braun for some of those marshmallows.

X-Q. 22. But you don't buy direct from the Beech-Nut agent?

A. No, only sometime when they come around, I give them an order and send them to the jobber.

X-Q. 23. Give who the order?

A. The Beech-Nut people, and they send them direct to the jobber.

X-Q. 24. During the last six years about how often have you sold this scrap tobacco? (Mr. Cavanagh indicates a package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco.)

A. I can't tell you that, about every week, when I run short, I buy every week.

X-Q. 25. You have never asked the Beech-Nut man if his concern put out this tobacco?

A. No, only today he told me he didn't.

X-Q. 26. So that you didn't really have any foundation for saying it was made by the Beech-Nut Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. Just a guess on your part?

A. No, that's all.

X-Q. 28. You notice the name Lorillard on this package, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. You notice the name P. Lorillard Co. on this cigarette package, do you not?

A. Yes, but this I cannot read, I don't know how to read in English.

X-Q. 30. How long have you been in this country about?

A. About ten years.

X-Q. 31. From Italy?

A. Yes. I never go to school, I couldn't read.

X-Q. 32. You never went to school and studied English?

A. No.

X-Q. 33. You never saw on your Beech-Nut jellies or gum or food products any of those red lines, did you, like on this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco package?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. If a man came into your store and wanted to buy some Beech-Nut jelly or something such as Beech-Nut chewing gum, you wouldn't sell him this Beech-Nut tobacco for chewing gum, would you?

A. No, we can't do it. If he would have taken them I would sell them.

X-Q. 35. If he wanted gum, you wouldn't deliberately deceive him, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 36. You were just joking when you said that?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 37. You yourself wouldn't go into a store and buy gum for tobacco, would you?

A. No, I wouldn't do that.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 38. Mr. DeRago, can you tell me why it was you supposed that these things were made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. I thought it was, it looked the same thing (witness points to oval brand on two packages), but I never looked at the name, as I told you, because I can't read and never bother with them. People say Beech-Nut makes, and I say I think so. I don't know. Beech-Nut always make them, because the same name.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 39. You spoke about the two beech-nuts on this package. I show you a package of Beech-Nut peanut butter of the Beech-Nut Packing Company; that has got three green leaves, hasn't it?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 40. And this has two red nuts with no green leaves?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 41. So that they are not the same, are they?

A. No.

R-X Q. 42. You never took the trouble to look, did you?

A. No, I never took a real look.

Mr. Hinton: I show you a package of Beech-Nut cough drops, which is marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 4. Is that nut there on three green leaves, or what is the color?

A. You can't tell, you have got no leaves at all here.

Mr. Cavanagh: Do you offer this in evidence?

Mr. Hinton: I will mark it for identification. Do you want me to offer it in evidence? I may want it to go in evidence.

Mr. Cavanagh: Well, mark it for identification.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that if SOLOMON S. KRAMER was called, he would testify as follows:

I am of legal age, and keep a delicatessen grocery and tobacco store at 84 Church street, Hartford, Connecticut. I have been the proprietor of this store for five months. I have stocked and sold in this store a line of Beech-Nut products, such as jellies, jams, chewing gum and the like. I have also stocked and sold Beech-Nut chewing tobacco, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, and Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1.

I believed, until this morning, that the scrap tobacco and the cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people that make the rest of the Beech-Nut products that I carry. Customers frequently come in and ask me for Beech-Nut, and I ask them whether they want the Beech-Nut chewing gum, Beech-Nut chewing tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes. One customer came in here and asked me for some cigarettes, and I said, "Why not try Beech-Nut cigarettes, they ought to be good, because I carry the rest of the line."

It is further stipulated that on cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I never made a close examination, either of the cigarette or the scrap tobacco package, and I never read the name Lorillard thereon. If a customer came into my store and asked for chewing gum I would not give him cigarettes or scrap tobacco, and I would not myself be fooled into buying cigarettes or scrap tobacco if I wanted chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if JAMES EUSTACE was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is James Eustace; I am employed at the Sigourney Grocery Company, 97 Asylum street, Hartford, Conn. We sell tobacco products and have carried in stock the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, since they first came out, in the spring this year.

I have sold these cigarettes over the counter myself; for the past month we have been out of these cigarettes. I always believed that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people who make the chewing gum and other Beech-Nut products, and continued to believe that until August 30, 1921, when I was told by Mr. Ray, a Beech-Nut Packing Company salesman, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with the cigarettes. The reason for my belief was the brand appearing on the cigarettes.

It is further stipulated that on cross-examination he would testify as follows:

I never made an examination of the package and had not seen the name P. Lorillard Co. on the package. If a customer came into my store and asked for Beech-Nut chewing gum I would not hand him a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, and I would not be confused or deceived myself into taking cigarettes for chewing gum or Beech-Nut jelly or the like.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if EDWARD GROSS was called, he would testify as follows:

I am a clerk employed by the County Market Co., 270 Trumbull street, Hartford, Connecticut, and am of legal age. I have seen Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, advertised and displayed since the spring of 1921. I believed until the other day that they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people who make the chewing gum and other Beech-Nut products. I was told the other day by Mr. Ray, a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, that these cigarettes were not a product of that company. The reason for my belief was the brand on the cigarettes.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I never bought a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and I never made an examination of the package. I never smoked them. I would not confuse Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes with Beech-Nut chewing gum, nor would I confuse it with Beech-Nut food products, and I would not accept one of these in place of the other.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if R. A. BROWN was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is R. A. Brown; I am of legal age, and a claim adjuster for the Ocean Insurance Company, located in the Connecticut Mutual Building, Hartford, Connecticut. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plain-tiff's Exhibit No. 1. When these cigarettes first came out I bought a package because I thought I would get a good smoke, seeing what I thought was the Beech-Nut label on them. I was under the belief that these cigarettes were a Beech-Nut product for about two months until I was told by Mr. Griffin, of New Haven, Connecticut, the Beech-Nut Packing Company's representative, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with these cigarettes.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I have only purchased, as I recall, one package of these cigarettes, and when I purchased them I did not ask for cigarettes of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but merely for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. I did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. on the package, as I did not examine the package very closely.

I would not be confused or deceived into accepting a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes if I asked the storekeeper for Beech-Nut gum or a Beech-Nut food product, of which there are a number of different brands.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if HERMAN A. DOLGE was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is Herman A. Dolge; I am of legal age; I am the proprietor of a grocery and delicatessen store on Church street, Hartford, Conn. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, displayed and advertised in Hartford since the spring of 1921. I believed that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and my reason for this belief was the label or brand on the cigarettes. I knew the Beech-Nut people put out so many articles, including chewing gum, that I was not surprised at their putting out cigarettes. I remained under the belief that these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company until August 28th, 1921, when I was told by the Beech-Nut Packing Company's representative that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with these cigarettes.

On cross-examination he would testify as follows:

I do not smoke cigarettes and do not sell tobacco. I have never purchased a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, and therefore did not make a particular examination of the advertisement on the cigarette package; consequently did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. thereon, nor did I make any direct comparison of the label on the Beech-Nut cigarettes with one of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's labels.

I would not be confused or deceived into accepting a package of these cigarettes for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum or other Beech-Nut food product with which I am familiar.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if JOHN F. WHALEN was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is John F. Whalen; I am of legal age, and am a clerk in the store of C. P. Case, grocer and butcher, 597 Albany avenue, Hartford, Connecticut. I have seen Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, advertised and displayed in Hartford, Connecticut, since the spring of 1921. I always believed these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, on account of the label that appears on them, until I was advised by Mr. Ray, a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, on August 28th, 1921, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with them. I do not smoke, nor have I ever bought a package of cigarettes.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I have never purchased or handled the Beech-Nut cigarettes like the Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, and never made any particular examination of the advertising or display matter, and therefore did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. appearing thereon, and that I never made any comparison of the cigarette labels with the Beech-Nut Packing Company labels.

Furthermore, I would not be confused or deceived into accepting the package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes for Beech-Nut chewing gum or a Beech-Nut food product.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if C. HOUSLING were called, he would testify as follows:

My name is C. Housling; I am of legal age, and am a clerk employed in the store of C. P. Case, 597 Albany Ave., Hartford, Connecticut. I saw the Beech-Nut cigarettes displayed last spring. I thought they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on account of the label thereon and I bought a package of the cigarettes, expecting to get a good smoke. I never bought another package. I have never seen a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco before I was shown one today.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

When I purchased these cigarettes, I did not ask for cigarettes made or put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company but simply asked for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. I did not examine the package and therefore did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. appearing thereon, nor did I make any direct comparison of the label on the Beech-Nut cigarettes with the label, such as appears on the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, with which I am familiar. I only bought this one package of cigarettes.

I would not be confused or deceived into purchasing or accepting these Beech-Nut cigarettes if I asked the dealer for Beech-Nut chewing gum or for any of the food products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if P. LYNCH was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is P. Lynch; I am of legal age, and am a clerk employed in Burnham's Market, West Hartford, Conn. I have seen Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. When I first saw these cigarettes I thought they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company and I bought a package and expected to get an exceptional smoke. I am familiar with Beech-Nut products and have always been satisfied with every Beech-Nut product I have bought. I did not buy another package of the cigarettes. I was first informed that these cigarettes were not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company by Mr. Ray, a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, a few days prior to testifying.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

When I purchased the pack of cigarettes I did not ask for cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company but merely for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and made no particular examination of the package and therefore did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. appearing thereon. That I would not be confused or deceived into accepting these Beech-Nut cigarettes as and in the place of Beech-Nut chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product. That I have never seen a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if R. J. ANDREWS was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is R. J. Andrews; I am of legal age, and am employed in the store of J. Burnham, West Hartford, Connecticut. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes advertised and on display in Hartford, Connecticut, since last spring when the cigarettes first came out. I bought a package in the belief that they were a Beech-Nut Packing Company product. I never bought another package of these cigarettes. I continued to believe that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until I was advised a few days ago by Mr. Ray of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with them.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I did not ask for Beech-Nut cigarettes of the Beech-Nut Packing Company when I made the purchase but simply asked for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. I did not examine the package particularly and therefore did not notice the name P. Lorillard Co. appearing thereon. I would not be confused or deceived into accepting or purchasing a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes if I asked for and wished Beech-Nut chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if JOHN MEAD was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is John Mead; I am of legal age, and am employed as a clerk in Preston's market on Asylum Street, Hartford, Connecticut. I have seen the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco on display and have bought a few packages of it and always thought it was a Beech-Nut product, made by the same people that make the gum and other Beech-Nut products. I have seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, advertised and on display in Hartford, Connecticut, since the spring of 1921 and thought that these were made by the same people who made the Beech-Nut gum and other food products. I was first informed that neither the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or the Beech-Nut cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, on August 30th, 1921, by Mr. Ray, a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I never made any examination of the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco package and did not notice the name Lorillard thereon. I have never purchased a package of the Beech-Nut cigarettes and have not paid any particular attention to the same. I would not be confused or deceived into buying either Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes in place and instead of Beech-Nut gum or any Beech-Nut food product.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if JAMES MATREACE was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is James Matreace; I am of legal age, and reside at 80 Village Street, Hartford, Connecticut. I am a clerk in the store of O. Matreace, Hartford, Connecticut, a grocery and general store, and have at various times bought and do buy tobacco supplies for this store. In the spring of 1921 a salesman came around and urged me to stock Beech-Nut cigarettes. When I saw the cigarettes I took them to be the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company by reason of the label thereon. I put in the cigarettes because I thought they were the Beech-Nut Packing Company's product and would sell because the other Beech-Nut products we had were selling well. I continued to believe that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until August 28th, 1921, when I was told by Mr. Ray, a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, that these cigarettes were not the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company but were the product of the P. Lorillard Co. I have sold these cigarettes myself over the counter.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I am merely an employee in this store and it is a small store, employing about four persons. I do not know from whom I purchased the first of the Beech-Nut cigarettes as I did not ask the salesman what company he represented but I have since bought these cigarettes from jobbers in Hartford. At the time I purchased the first order of cigarettes I did not ask the salesman if they were made by or if they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company nor did I examine them or observe the name P. Lorillard Co. thereon. I know the P. Lorillard Company is a large tobacco concern and I have handled other products of theirs and if I had seen the name P. Lorillard Co. on the package I would have presumed it was their product. I never paid any particular attention to the matter but simply bought the cigarettes from time to time and sold them over the counter. I never made a direct comparison of the label on the Beech-Nut cigarettes with that of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. We are still selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes in this store. We sell certain products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, such as food products, and if a man came into this store and asked me for a food product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company I would not hand him or sell him the Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the food products but would give him what he asked for, nor would I myself be confused or deceived into taking Beech-Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut food products for and in the place of the Beech-Nut cigarettes or vice versa.

HARRY W. AVERY (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Harry W. Avery; you are 34 years of age; your residence is South Windham, Connecticut; you are a salesman employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes) which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you seen these cigarettes before; if so, when did they first appear in your territory?

A. I have seen them before, I should say last spring, about March.

Q. 3. What is your territory, Mr. Avery?

A. Eastern Connecticut, the four eastern counties, Windham, Tolland, Middlesex and New London counties.

Q. 4. Did you see these cigarettes in stores and advertising and posters of the cigarettes?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. 5. To what extent have you seen these displayed?

A. I have seen the cigarettes displayed to a very great extent in many stores, in practically all the stores in fact. I have seen a great deal of poster advertising and I have seen some newpaper advertising.

Q. 6. Have you heard any comments, remarks or inquiries as you went around on your route, about these cigarettes; if so, please state what these comments, remarks or inquiries were?

A. I have heard comments and remarks. The question has been asked me many, many times, "How long have you been in the cigarette business?" "If they are as good as the rest of your products they will certainly sell."

Q. 7. Have you ever been asked for these cigarettes?

A. I have. I have been asked many times for samples of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 8. Will you tell me what has happened when you have been asked for samples of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. A man named Timmons—he called to me when I was standing beside my machine—my company car.

Q. 9. What is on that car?

A. The Beech-Nut label and besides that the Beech-Nut Packing Company is printed on there in big gold letters—letters, I should say, 6 inches high. Mr. Timmons asked me for samples. I gave him samples of Beech-Nut gum. He said, "No, I didn't mean gum, I meant cigarettes."

Q. 10. Where was this, and when was this?

A. Willimantic, at the corner of Main and Bridge street, about a week and a half ago, less than two weeks ago.

Q. 11. Have you had other requests for samples of cigarettes?

A. I have many times been asked by truck drivers on the road, by young men standing in the streets when I stopped in front of stores.

Q. 12. You have testified to comments, remarks and inquiries which you have heard about these cigarettes and indicated the nature thereof. Will you give me a conservative estimate of the number of times this has happened?

A. Why, I should say conservatively hundreds of times. I have no means of getting at the exact number, but it is an everyday occurrence, a frequent occurrence.

Q. 13. Is it still going on?

A. It is, yes.

Q. 14. Can you give me some more particular instances of cases where you have heard this kind of comment, remarks or inquiries? I do not want any instances except those where you can give me definitely the names of the persons who made the comments or remarks, the place and approximately when it happened.

A. Mr. Bidwell, of the Bishop & Bidwell Co., wholesale grocers, of Norwich, I should say about two weeks ago, asked me how long we had been in the cigarette business. I said, "We are not in the cigarette business." He said, "I thought you were in the cigarette business." I said, "I have sold——"

Q. 15. I don't want the whole conversation. Can you give me any other instances of this character?

A. Mr. Pendleton, clerk in the Mohican Hotel, in New London. This was possibly last April, it was shortly after they came out that he said this: "How long have you been in the cigarette business? How long have you been making cigarettes?" Mr. Hall, F. Lewis Hall, he is the State Factory Inspector in Connecticut, told me, I should say two weeks ago; shall I state what he told me in his exact words, or just what he told?

Q. 16. Well, I don't want a long conversation, if you can remember what the man said, tell it.

A. He said, "I have been using your cigarettes." I said, "They are not our cigarettes." He said, "I thought I was helping you by buying your cigarettes."

Q. 17. All right. Give me another one.

A. Mr. Foss, Frank Foss, he is judge of the Police Court in Willimantic.

Q. 18. Where?

A. Willimantic.

Q. 19. What did he say?

A. He said, "I have been helping you out by buying your cigarettes." I said, "They are not our cigarettes." He said, "I thought they were."

Q. 20. Can you remember any other definite instances of this character at the present time?

A. Mr. Johnson, Frank Johnson, of the M. P. Johnson Co., of New London, asked me recently—I can't give you the exact date, I can't recall just when it was—asked me how long we had been in the cigarette business; how long we had been making cigarettes?

Q. 21. Yes.

A. I have been asked this question many, many times, innumerable times, where I can't recall the person or the date.

Q. 22. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco (Mr. Hinton shows witness a package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you seen this scrap tobacco displayed in your territory, Mr. Avery?

A. I have.

Q. 23. To what extent have you seen it displayed in comparison with the cigarettes?

A. Not nearly as much I should say as the cigarettes; not nearly as much I should say.

Q. 24. Have you seen it, however, many times?

A. I have.

Q. 25. Did you ever see the name of the manufacturer on this scrap tobacco?

A. I have.

Q. 26. When did you first see the name of the manufacturer on the scrap tobacco?

A. Yesterday.

Q. 27. Did you ever previously buy a package of this scrap tobacco?

A. I did.

Q. 28. How long ago was that?

A. I should say it was nearly five years ago.

Q. 29. Why did you buy this package of scrap tobacco, do you remember?

A. The label attracted my attention. I noticed it in a store. I thought it was the same label as ours; it appeared to me as being the same label as ours.

Q. 30. When did you first know who made this scrap tobacco?

A. Yesterday.

Q. 31. Have you ever heard any comments, remarks or inquiries or the like about this scrap tobacco?

A. I have.

Q. 32. And what has been the nature of those remarks?

A. The remark has been made to me many times, "I am surprised to see your label on a package of goods of that nature."

Q. 33. Can you give me any particular instances where you can state the names of the persons who made the remarks; remarks or comments or inquires made to you with respect to the scrap tobacco?

A. Recently, while at A. M. Bowers' store, in Eastford, Connecticut, Mr. Bowers' son said, "How long have you been in the tobacco business?" I said, "We are not in the tobacco business." He said, "I thought you were."

Q. 34. I don't want the entire conversation, Mr. Avery. Can you give any other instances?

A. Yes, in the store of De Garra & Son, New London, Mr. De Garra's brother said, "How long have you been making tobacco?" He also combined that with cigarettes. He seemed surprised to learn that we did not make the tobacco.

Q. 35. Can you recall any other instances of this?

A. There have been many, many instances that I can't recall.

Q. 36. I think that is all, I may have one or two questions later.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 37. How long have you been employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Very nearly six years.

X-Q. 38. You are familiar with their complete line of products?

A. I am.

X-Q. 39. Do you handle the entire line of products?

A. I do.

X-Q. 40. Through this territory of Connecticut, as I understand it?

A. Eastern Connecticut; it is called the Eastern Connecticut territory.

X-Q. 41. You have referred to a number of conversations you had with different parties about Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, which are here in evidence. As I understand it, in no instance did you repeat the entire conversation you had with the parties, did you?

A. I did not, no, not the entire conversation, because it drifted off into other things.

X-Q. 42. And two or three times Mr. Hinton stopped you and told you he did not want the entire conversation about the matter, didn't he?

A. Well, that was possibly so, yes.

Mr. Hinton: I simply stopped the witness because I did not think a long conversation would be competent evidence in this case.

Mr. Cavanagh: Objection is now made to all the testimony of this witness relative to any conversations he had with other parties relative to Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes on the ground that same is incompetent, and, furthermore, is not including the entire conversation, but merely detached portions thereof.

X-Q. 43. When did you first examine a package of those cigarettes?

A. I should say in March, last spring, 1921. I couldn't say definitely the exact date, it might have been April.

X-Q. 44. Did you look at the package carefully?

A. I did.

X-Q. 45. You saw the name P. Lorillard Co. on the package, did you?

A. I did.

X-Q. 46. You knew then it was Lorillard's product?

A. I knew before then it was not our product. Of course, when I saw the name P. Lorillard Co., I knew it was a Lorillard product?

X-Q. 47. And that it was not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I did know it was not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 48. Before you ever saw a package?

A. I did.

X-Q. 49. You simply heard the cigarette was on the market?

A. I did not, I heard nothing about it.

X-Q. 50. Well, just tell me exactly how you first found out these Beech-Nut cigarettes were not a Beech-Nut product.

A. I knew it was not a Beech-Nut Packing Company product because the company always sent us samples and data on new products they are putting out.

X-Q. 51. Now, just tell me how you first came to know of this Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarette.

A. I saw it in a store.

X-Q. 52. All right, we will start there; you saw it in a store?

A. I did.

X-Q. 53. You had heard of it before then?

A. I had not.

X-Q. 54. When you saw it in the store, you looked at it, didn't you?

A. I did.

X-Q. 55. Then you saw it was a Lorillard cigarette, and not the Beech-Nut Packing Company's cigarette?

A. Before I saw it was a Lorillard cigarette, the label appeared to me as being our label. I bought it for the purpose of seeing who made it, and also for the purpose of sending a package in to the house.

X-Q. 56. So that the first thing you ever knew about that cigarette at all was when you saw it?

A. Yes

X-Q. 57. And you immediately purchased a pack?

A. I did.

X-Q. 58. You then saw it was not a Beech-Nut Packing Company product?

A. After an examination I did, yes.

X-Q. 59. As soon as you examined it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. Now, you have spoken something about a label; you have a label on your car, haven't you?

A. I have.

X-Q. 61. Will you just describe that label to me?

A. That is a label, the label itself is a circular label, an oval label, it has Beech-Nut food products on it. It has a nut on it, and in very, very fine black letters at the bottom—I wouldn't say very fine, but in fine letters at the bottom Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, N. Y.

X-Q. 62. Now, describe that oval to me.

A. In what respect, Mr. Cavanagh?

X-Q. 63. As far as the width or dimensions or color are concerned.

A. Why, that oval on my car, I should say, was a foot and a half long and possibly a foot high. It is quite a big oval, it is not the standard letters that they use.

X-Q. 64. What is the color of the oval?

A. It is red and gold.

X-Q. 65. It has a red band in it?

A. There is some green in it, some black in it.

X-Q. 66. There is a red band, isn't there?

A. There is, yes.

X-Q. 67. How wide is that red band?

A. Why, I couldn't say exactly in inches. Possibly two and a half inches, possibly a little less than that. The label on my car, Mr. Cavanagh, I tell you frankly, is not the standard Beech-Nut advertised label, it was a label printed on there in New Haven. It may not be exactly like the standard Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 68. I show you, Mr. Avery, a small jar of Beech-Nut peanut butter (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness jar of Beech-Nut peanut butter), which is in this case as marked for identification, Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 7, and it has a label on it. Can you tell me whose product that is?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company's.

X-Q. 69. And that is the Beech-Nut standard label?

A. That is the standard label.

X-Q. 70. Now, this label has a wide red band on it, has it?

A. It has.

X-Q. 71. And you always recognize that in connection with the Beech-Nut products, don't you?

A. Why, possibly so, yes, I am so familiar with the Beech-Nut label that I perhaps wouldn't notice the red label.

X-Q. 72. But this red label has printed on it, it is a wide red label with printing on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 73. Isn't it one of the salient things that would strike your eye in the Beech-Nut label?

A. Yes, it is, but those labels become faded, I have found in many instances where the red was entirely faded out.

X-Q. 74. On old goods?

A. Yes, on old goods that have been wet.

X-Q. 75. But that has the brand printed on it?

A. Yes, when they left the factory.

X-Q. 76. And that wide red band is not found on the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, that wide red band isn't on it.

X-Q. 77. With the printing on it?

A. No.

X-Q. 78. Now, you are a Beech-Nut salesman; when you saw that label you know that wasn't the standard label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, didn't you?

A. I didn't see that label in the condition the package is in now when I saw that label.

X-Q. 79. You saw the word Beech-Nut?

A. Yes, I saw the word Beech-Nut; that was what attracted my attention.

X-Q. 80. That attracted your attention?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 81. So, when you picked that up, you saw it wasn't your label?

A. Yes, I would know it wasn't our label.

X-Q. 82. Just before we leave the cigarette, have you ever bought any of these cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 83. And smoked them?

A. Smoked one package.

X-Q. 84. You don't prefer that brand, do you?

A. I do not, not because it is made by Lorillard, that is not the idea, but the flavor doesn't appeal to me.

X-Q. 85. You smoked other cigarettes of Lorillard's make?

A. I say "yes," I have smoked a great many different kinds of cigarettes. I have probably undoubtedly smoked Lorillard's cigarettes.

X-Q. 86. You have smoked Murads?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 87. Moguls?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 88. Egyptian Deities?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 89. And, of course, you know, as a smoking man, that various individuals have various tastes and preferences to brands?

A. I do.

X-Q. 90. You have never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company selling tobacco products, have you?

A. I never did.

X-Q. 91. Cigarettes or scrap tobacco either?

A. No.

X-Q. 92. And I take it that when any of these parties that you have mentioned, asked you about the Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, as to whether the Beech-Nut Packing Company had put it on the market, or had gone into the tobacco business, you told them it wasn't your brand?

A. I did.

X-Q. 93. You told them it was the Lorillard Company?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 94. What did you tell them?

A. I have probably in some instances told them the cigarette was Lorillard's, but I have simply denied we put the cigarette out or the tobacco. In some instances I told them possibly that Lorillard did make the cigarette.

X-Q. 95. Well, as a salesman, if a man came to you and said that he wanted to get from you a dozen cartons of these Beech-Nut cigarettes—of the Beech-Nut cigarettes—you wouldn't take that order?

A. No, I would not.

X-Q. 96. You would simply tell that man, as an honest salesman, that your company did not make the cigarette?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 97. You never have taken such an order for them?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 98. Now, on this scrap tobacco package, to cut this matter short, you never, in all your connection with the Beech-Nut Packing Company, saw any Beech-Nut product resembling that in ornamentation or dress, did you?

A. I have never—I, of course, would know that was not the Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 99. Yes, but I mean you have never seen a Beech-Nut Packing Company product with those red radiating lines in a sunburst arrangement, have you?

A. I have not.

X-Q. 100. They are very prominent on that package?

A. They are.

X-Q. 101. And meet on a single line from a blue oval?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 102. You don't know of any arrangement on any of your Beech-Nut packages like that, do you?

A. I do not, no.

X-Q. 103. And as I understood, it was about five years ago you first purchased a package of this?

A. I couldn't say approximately. I could tell exactly by looking up old correspondence with the firm, I could tell the exact date.

X-Q. 104. I mean approximately, Mr. Avery; I don't want to hold you too exactly in this examination.

A. I should say roughly five years ago.

X-Q. 105. When you say you examined this package, you saw the name Lorillard on it?

A. No.

X-Q. 106. Then you didn't examine it very carefully?

A. I did and I didn't. If the name was there, I evidently overlooked it.

X-Q. 107. You knew the P. Lorillard Co. was a large tobacco manufacturing concern, did you not?

A. I do.

X-Q. 108. And if you had really examined this package, you would have noticed that it had on it—that it was made by Lorillard?

A. I didn't notice that.

X-Q. 109. You would have noticed the name P. Lorillard Co. on the front?

A. If the name Lorillard was on it I evidently overlooked it, because I bought a package yesterday for the express purpose of finding out what name was on it.

X-Q. 110. You have been assisting counsel for the Beech-Nut Packing Company in collecting evidence in this case, haven't you?

A. No, sir, aside from being chauffeur for his machine; that's all. I drove the machine around a lot for him, and I went into a store with him once.

X-Q. 111. So you haven't attempted to get any evidence except once?

A. I went into a store with him and he asked me not to go into any more.

X-Q. 112. Yesterday, on the street in the city of Hartford, didn't you stop a gentleman, who looked like a Hebrew peddler?

(Witness interjects.) No, sir; he stopped himself—

X-Q. 113. I stand corrected. Didn't a peddler stop at your car when Mr. Cavanagh was present and try to sell some cigarettes?

A. Yes, he did.

X-Q. 114. And didn't you have some conversation with him about them?

A. Yes, I recall that now; I didn't think of it at the time you asked the question.

X-Q. 115. And then didn't you go to Mr. Hinton and tell him about this peddler?

A. I can't recall just what I said to him.

X-Q. 116. You thought he might be a witness?

A. Yes, I thought he might be a witness.

X-Q. 117. So you would help him out?

A. Yes, I didn't think of that at first, but the man's testimony wasn't used.

X-Q. 118. Before you went with the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you ever sell any other products?

A. I sold crackers and other things.

X-Q. 119. Did you ever sell tobacco products?

A. In retail stores.

X-Q. 120. But I mean in your capacity as a road salesman visiting the trade?

A. No.

X-Q. 121. You simply sold them in retail stores along with other things?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 122. If you went into a customer's store and he gave you an order, say, for 100 boxes of Beech-Nut gum or 50 cases of Beech-Nut peanut butter, would you send that man, in filling his order, 100 cartons of Beech-Nut cigarettes or 100 cartons of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 123. In other words, you wouldn't send to that man a tobacco product in the place of any of the Beech-Nut products which you are now selling or handling at this time, would you?

A. I would not.

X-Q. 124. Did you ever know of any customer or person who went into a store and said, "I want a package of cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company"?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 125. And was handed a package of these Lorillard cigarettes?

A. I do not; that is, not asked in that way, no.

X-Q. 126. And you never knew of any person who wanted gum or any other Beech-Nut Packing Company product which you handle at this time and who was confused or deceived into taking the Beech-Nut cigarette or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco in the place of it, do you?

A. Why, I do not; no, I don't know of a case where they went in to buy gum and took cigarettes instead. No, I do not. A person wanting gum would not necessarily want cigarettes.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 127. Mr. Cavanagh has asked you about this Hebrew peddler, who peddled cigarettes, who came up to you yesterday and you testified that you called me over and talked to him. Why did you call me over to talk to him?

A. Why did I call you over?

R-D. Q. 128. Yes.

A. I called you over to talk to him because I asked him if he had Beech-Nut cigarettes. He said, "No, I am all sold out." I said, "Who makes them?" He said, "The Beech-Nut Company." I called Mr. Hinton over to talk to him then.

Re-direct examination closed.

Re-Cross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 129. This party was rather a suspicious looking customer, wasn't he?

A. Why, I held on to my watch.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

E. IRVING RAY (sworn by Mr. Krause), a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is E. Irving Ray, your age is 31, your residence is 50 Union Street, Meriden, Connecticut, you are a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, Mr. Ray?

A. About a year ago, the 15th of last February.

Q. 3. What territory do you cover?

A. Northern Connecticut.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes (Mr. Hinton shows witness package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Do you remember when these cigarettes first came out in your territory?

A. Why, about this spring, I should say, in March.

Q. 5. Have you heard any comments, remarks or inquiries about these cigarettes as you have gone about your work; if so, please indicate the nature of these comments, remarks or inquiries?

A. I have heard hundreds of different people that I have seen, such as clerks, say, "Well, I see you people are putting out cigarettes now. What next line are you going into?" and "How are the cigarettes selling with you?" and many other different comments of the same similar sort.

Q. 6. Do you drive a Beech-Nut Packing Company car?

A. No, except when I am with Mr. Peters in his car.

Q. 7. Will you kindly give me some particular instances of your having heard this kind of comments or remarks? I want you to give me only instances where you can state definitely the name of the person and accurately what he said.

A. Well, Mr. Austin in Waterbury, at the Hotel Kingsbury, on my purchase of a package of Camels, didn't seem to understand why I shouldn't smoke my own brand of cigarettes and passed a remark to that effect.

Q. 8. Do you remember what his exact words were?

A. As near as I can remember, he says, "I should —" oh, he says, "We are stocking your brand of cigarettes now, don't you want a deck of them?" I says, "No," I says, "I prefer Camels." "Well," he says, "I don't know why you don't smoke your own brand."

Q. 9. Did you tell him that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make these cigarettes?

A. I did after the conversation.

Q. 10. Can you give me any other instances?

A. Why, Mr. Austin's son, on being offered a Camel by me, stated he didn't see why I didn't smoke Beech-Nut cigarettes and he didn't smoke cigarettes himself, but he didn't see why I didn't smoke my own brand of cigarettes.

Q. 11. All right. Give me another instance.

A. Why, Mr. Young and Mr. Andrew of M. J. Burnham's, West Hartford, asked me how long we had been in the tobacco game, the cigarette game, and I told him they weren't our product.

Q. 12. What's that?

A. I told him they weren't our product after that.

Q. 13. All right. Can you remember any more?

A. Mr. Harry Eustace of the Sigourney Grocery Company asked me how they were selling, as near as I can remember, and he asked me if they were made by us and I told him they weren't.

Q. 14. Any others?

A. Mr. Loury, out to C. P. Case's, asked me about the cigarettes and—well, his conversation was I see that we bring out a cigarette and couldn't understand it when I told him it wasn't a Beech-Nut cigarette.

Q. 15. Do you recall any further instance of this same sort of thing? Please give the name of the man and try to tell exactly what he said; also where it was.

A. Mr. Mazacotti in Meriden asked me how—he said, "That Beech-Nut cigarette should sell," seeing that the rest of the products did, gum for instance, mostly. Mr. Cashman, Mulberry Street, Hartford, asked me a couple of times about the cigarettes. I informed him in the first instance, I remember; he asked me about how long we were making them. I guess that's about all I can recall at this time.

Q. 16. How long did you say you have been working for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. A year about the 15th of last February, I started.

Q. 17. Prior to your being employed by the Beech-Nut people, had you ever seen this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco (Mr. Hinton indicates package of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco), which I now show you, which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 1.

A. Yes, I had an instance—

Q. 18. Do you remember whose product you thought it was?

A. Why, I didn't give it any thought until I was about to go to work for this company. I felt it would be one of the products I would sell at the time. I didn't know but I thought it was, being Beech-Nut, it was a Beech-Nut product at that time. Of course I—

Q. 19. What's that?

A. I had not thought otherwise at the start until I took up this work; I thought the tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 20. To what extent have you seen Beech-Nut scrap tobacco displayed in your territory in comparison with the cigarettes?

A. Not to anywhere near great an extent as the cigarettes. To a certain extent, of course.

Q. 21. That is all for the direct examination. Now Mr. Cavanagh will have a few questions.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 22. Mr. Ray, you have related a number of instances of people, who spoke to you about the Beech-Nut cigarette and in connection with that, whether it was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Do you know of your own knowledge if any of these people took the trouble to examine that package of cigarettes before they asked you that question?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 23. You smoke, don't you?

A. Yes, lots of them.

X-Q. 24. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. Will you kindly mention some of the brands you have smoked?

A. Why, I think for the past three years I have smoked Camels; previous to that—well, I have smoked them pretty near as soon as they come out; I don't know just how long it has been.

X-Q. 26. Did you ever smoke Murads or Moguls?

A. Perhaps once or twice; never to any great extent.

X-Q. 27. Egyptian Deities?

A. I don't believe I have ever smoked Egyptian Deities.

X-Q. 28. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Co., do you?

A. Why, yes.

X-Q. 29. You know they are a large tobacco manufacturing concern and put out various brands of cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. This name, P. Lorillard Co., on this package of cigarettes would indicate to you that it was one of their brands?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. And if the name Beech-Nut Packing Company is not on that package any place, that would indicate to you that it is not their cigarettes, would it not?

A. Well, it would, yes, if I examined the package closely and found P. Lorillard on it.

X-Q. 32. But on all products of Beech-Nut Packing Company you handle—take, for instance, this glass jar of peanut butter (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness glass jar of Beech-Nut peanut butter) which I show you and which is in this case as Defendant's Exhibit No. 7 for identification, the name Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, N. Y., appears on it?

A. It does.

X-Q. 33. And that is the practice with all their products, as far as you know?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Do you handle the Mohawk and Erie and Holly brands for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, but I have never sold any—they handle them, the company itself, but I have never sold any but the Erie.

X-Q. 35. That doesn't bear the Beech-Nut label, similar to this on the peanut butter, does it?

A. No, not that I know of.

X-Q. 36. You have seen the goods?

A. Yes, oh yes.

X-Q. 37. Do you chew tobacco? You never have chewed any of this Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap?

A. No.

X-Q. 38. When did you first see a package of this Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap?

A. It is a long time ago. I don't know; I can't just recall how many years; it must have been a few years ago.

X-Q. 39. You didn't pay any attention to it?

A. No.

X-Q. 40. You didn't examine it, did you?

A. No, I never did.

X-Q. 41. Now, as I understand it, this Beech-Nut label on the peanut butter is a good representation of their standard label, as far as you know?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. And that label contains a wide red band with printing on it, above and below the oval, does it not?

A. Yes, it does.

X-Q. 43. Now, as you look at this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco package, to which Mr. Hinton called your attention, you see it has got a single blue lined oval, from which wide radiating red lines run out like a sunburst, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. You don't know of any Beech-Nut product that you handle that has any such a dress or decoration, do you?

A. Not the sunburst part, no, I don't.

X-Q. 45. And the sunburst runs out from a single lined blue oval?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 46. Now, on this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes you don't find a wide red oval band with any printing on it, do you?

A. No, not on close examination, no.

X-Q. 47. But just look at the thing; you are familiar with the Beech-Nut label, of course?

A. No.

X-Q. 48. That don't look like your Beech-Nut label?

A. No, but if I wasn't so close, if I looked at it at a distance, the Beech-Nut would look just the same.

X-Q. 49. Is it the beech-nut that attracts your attention or the wide red band?

A. The word "Beech-Nut" naturally and the cluster on it.

X-Q. 50. But this cluster on the peanut butter, the Beech-Nut Packing Company has a single nut imposed on three green leaves, has it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 51. And here there are two nuts without any leaves and with red and gold?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. Is that right?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 53. Now, we will get back to that outline of the oval; isn't it a fact, Mr. Ray, that one of the things that would attract your attention is the fact that the Beech-Nut Packing Company label has a wide red oval?

A. Not necessarily. I wasn't attracted by that; I never gave that a thought; the red oval part was simply —the beech-nut is exactly the same except that it is red here and white here, to me.

X-Q. 54. Do you mean the word beech-nut?

A. The word beech-nut, yes.

X-Q. 55. That was what you were talking about in your last answer?

A. Yes. But on examining it, I know, of course.

X-Q. 56. But I was talking about that red oval. Now you have ridden around with Mr. Peters, in his car, haven't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 57. And he has a Beech-Nut sign on the side of that car?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 58. And haven't there been times when you were on the street and were looking for his car, when you would see that red oval at a distance and recognize his car among the others?

A. Why, yes, I think, as near as I can remember, now, Mr. Peters is a full body of red.

X-Q. 59. But you can see that at a distance, that red oval?

A. Why, yes, you can see it at a distance.

X-Q. 60. I understand you sell the Beech-Nut Packing Company's products, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. Their complete line?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 62. That is, you sell all their products; you sell chewing gum and ginger ale?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 63. And things of that sort?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 64. Did you ever know of any person who wanted to purchase a Beech-Nut food product or Beech-

Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut ginger ale and who was confused or deceived into accepting a package of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of their food products?

A. No, I can't say that I do know of any such specific instance of that sort.

X-Q. 65. Would you, yourself, if you went into a store and wanted to buy, say, a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum or a package of this Beech-Nut peanut butter, which I show you (Mr. Cavanagh indicates a glass jar of Beech-Nut peanut butter), you wouldn't be fooled into taking a package of cigarettes for the chewing gum or peanut butter when you wanted those?

A. No.

X-Q. 66. You never knew of any person being fooled on goods like that?

A. No.

X-Q. 67. And you don't know of any instance where a person went in and said, "I want a package of cigarettes, made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company," and the man sold him the Lorillard cigarettes?

A. No; I can't say I do.

X-Q. 68. You yourself never tried to tell anybody that the Beech-Nut Packing Company made these cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 69. You told them they were made by—?

A. Why, I told them Lorillard.

X-Q. 70. In other words, as a fair salesman, when inquiries were made, you always told them who the goods were made by?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 71. You were speaking of a man by the name of Cashman who asked you a couple of times about this?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 72. On the first occasion, what did he ask you?

I don't want the exact words, just substantially what he asked you.

A. Well, I don't know as I can tell you the exact words. I know he asked me in a certain way how long we had been putting out cigarettes, and of course, as he was very busy, I walked along. I didn't stop to talk to him.

X-Q. 73. What did you tell him?

A. I didn't talk to him at that time at all. There was another time when he asked me in regard to the cigarettes; I told him it was a Lorillard product.

X-Q. 74. So that the first time he just put that question to you as you went by?

A. No. I very seldom have a talk with Mr. Cashman, for any length of time. He is a very busy man.

X-Q. 75. At any time anybody would ask you and you had time to talk to him, you told them they were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but by the Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 76. You have been assisting counsel for the Beech-Nut Packing Company in looking up and collecting evidence in this case, haven't you? That is, interviewing parties?

A. I have not interviewed them to any extent. I have introduced Mr. Hinton to parties.

X-Q. 77. That you have talked to first?

A. I haven't talked to people with Mr. Atkinson.

X-Q. 78. You and Atkinson went around and saw parties who you thought might know something about the case and then referred them to Mr. Hinton?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination closed.

Signature of witness waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, through their respective counsel, that if T. J. LENAHAN was called, he would testify as follows:

My name is T. J. Lenahan; I am of legal age; I am the proprietor of a cigar store near the railroad station in Hartford, Connecticut, and employ two people. I have handled the Beech-Nut cigarettes, similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. I have heard people say over the counter a considerable number of times in connection with these cigarettes, "What are these people going to come out with next? If these cigarettes are as good as the gum, they are all right." I have handled Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, similar to plaintiff's exhibit, for about two years, and I have been selling very little of this. I never noticed the name P. Lorillard Co. on the package of scrap tobacco. I buy through the jobbers and did not know who makes the scrap tobacco.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I never took the trouble of examining the scrap tobacco package to see what name was on it, and therefore if I had examined it, I would have seen Lorillard's name there and would know it was a product of the P. Lorillard Co., well known tobacco manufacturers, and further than this, I myself, did not believe that the tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but didn't pay any attention to the matter, and, not having examined the package, did not know who it was made by.

As to the cigarettes, I know them to be a product of P. Lorillard Co., and not of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I buy my supplies through the jobbers and handle various brands of their cigarettes and tobacco products, such as the Murads and Moguls, and, in fact, all the well known brands of cigarettes on the market today.

I never told any customers that the cigarettes or tobacco were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and never sold the same as a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company, Defendant.
} In Equity. No. 3056.

CERTIFICATE.

State of Connecticut, County of New Haven, ss.

I, Herbert J. Krause, a Notary Public, within and for the State of Connecticut, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, do hereby certify that the foregoing depositions of John A. Peters, James J. Cashman, Jr., Robert G. Greene, Nathan Hammerman, James J. Marrinan, T. J. Branigan, Adam Sattig, Sanford Hawkins, Alexander C. Gardner, Newton Harrison, John F. Griffin, Joseph De Rago, Harry W. Avery, E. Irving Ray, were taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to agreement and notice, before me, at New Haven, West Haven, Milford and Hartford, Connecticut, beginning August 29, 1921; that each of the foregoing witnesses was by me duly sworn; that the testimony of said witnesses was taken down in short-hand by me and thereafter reduced to typewriting by me; that the opposing party hereto was represented by Richard B. Cavanagh during the taking of said testimony; that the testimony was taken in New Haven, West Haven, Milford and Hartford, beginning at 12 o'clock noon, August 29, 1921; and ending at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, September 1, 1921; that the said deposition of each witness was read by said witness before signing the same, except where the signature of a witness was waived, as indicated on the deposition, and except for the depositions which were stipulated as appears in the record.

I am not connected by blood or marriage with either of the parties hereto, or interested either directly or indirectly in the matter in controversy.

I also certify that I have been paid my fees as Special Examiner and for copies taken in accordance with the attached bill, amounting to $139.69.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and official seal, this 25th day of October, 1921.

HERBERT J. KRAUSE,
Notary Public.

My commission expires February 1st, 1926.

State of Connecticut, County of New Haven, ss.

I, Alfred N. Wheeler, Clerk of the County of New Haven, and Clerk of the Superior Court in and for said county, do hereby certify that the said court is a court of record. That Herbert J. Krause, Esquire, whose name is subscribed to the certificate or proof of acknowledgment of the annexed instrument, was at the time of taking the same a Notary Public in and for said county, residing in the County of New Haven, duly commissioned and sworn, and qualified to act as such; that as such Notary Public he was at the time of taking such acknowledgment duly authorized by the laws of the State of Connecticut to take the acknowledgments and proofs of deeds or conveyances for lands, tenements or hereditaments in said State of Connecticut; that I am well acquainted with the handwriting of said Herbert J. Krause, Esquire, and verily believe his signature to said certificate or proof of acknowledgment is genuine.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court at New Haven, in said County of New Haven, State of Connecticut, this 25th day of October, A. D. 1921.

ALFRED N. WHEELER,
Clerk.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} In Equity. No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before Louis M. Altman, a Notary Public for the State of Connecticut, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, on September 8, 1921, at Stamford, South Norwalk and Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for plaintiff; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for defendant.

JOHN MORELLI, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. John Morelli; 50; 22 Union street, South Norwalk, Connecticut; fruit business.

Q. 2. Your fruit store is located at?

A. 81 North Main street, South Norwalk.

Q. 3. You handle tobacco products?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. 4. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, which are in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 1 and 3. Have you handled these products?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. 5. Do you ever hear customers come into the store and make remarks about these products?

A. They come in and say, "What is that Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?" and I say, "Yes," and they say, "Who puts that up, the Beech-Nut Company?" I say, "No. No, it is either the American Tobacco Company or the Lorillard Company," and then they'd say, "Oh, I thought it was the Beech-Nut Company."

Q. 6. How many times has this happened?

A. Oh, quite a few times. At first no one knew nothing about it. Now they don't ask so much; they know it isn't the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 7. That is, the ones you have talked to?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. You have, then, told people that this scrap tobacco isn't put out by the Beech-Nut Company?

A. Oh, yes; I do.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 9. The Lorillard Company's name is on this cigarette package, isn't it?

A. I never knew it was put up by Lorillard.

X-Q. 10. That is, the name of the tobacco company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. On the scrap tobacco it is also Lorillard on the package?

A. Yes, I see.

X-Q. 12. You always tell the customers that it isn't put out by the Beech-Nut Company?

A. Yes, I do.

X-Q. 13. But that it is put out by the tobacco company?

A. I always tell them it is a P. Lorillard or American Tobacco Company tobacco.

X-Q. 14. And you would not sell a customer tobacco or cigarettes like these Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco of the Lorillard Company if he wanted chewing gum or the food products of the Beech-Nut Company?

A. No, I wouldn't.

X-Q. 15. You would not consider them the same class of goods?

A. No, I guess not.

X-Q. 16. You never knew of the Beech-Nut Packing Company ever putting out any tobacco products?

A. No.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

GEORGE F. MOULTON, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. George F. Moulton; retail druggist; 43 Washington street, South Norwalk, Connecticut; 55 years.

Q. 2. Do you handle tobacco products in this store?

A. Cigars and cigarettes.

Q. 3. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you handled these here?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long have you handled them?

A. Several months.

Q. 5. Whose product did you think these cigarettes were prior to yesterday?

A. Beech-Nut people, of course.

Q. 6. Do you now think they are a Beech-Nut product?

A. From what you told me, no.

Q. 7. When did I tell you that they were not?

A. Yesterday.

Q. 8. Have you yourself sold these cigarettes over the counter?

A. I have, yes.

Q. 9. I show you a package of scrap tobacco, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Whose product would you take that to be?

A. Beech-Nut, of course.

Q. 10. What do you mean by Beech-Nut?

A. Made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 11. Why would you take that to be a Beech-Nut product?

A. From the name and label on it and the trade-mark.

Q. 12. Have you ever seen this scrap tobacco before today?

A. No.

Q. 13. Have you ever seen it displayed around anywhere in this town or elsewhere?

A. No, I have not.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 14. From whom do you buy these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Jobbers.

X-Q. 15. Ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, tobacconists.

X-Q. 16. You notice P. Lorillard Company's name on the package?

A. I do now, yes.

X-Q. 17. You notice the name Lorillard on the scrap tobacco?

A. I do now, yes.

X-Q. 18. So when you first saw that package, or when you handled them first, you didn't pay any attention to the name, just glanced at the package?

A. Well, Beech-Nut was the prominent name.

X-Q. 19. If you had seen Lorillard's name on them you would have known it was the product of the tobacco company, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. Do you sell Beech-Nut products here—chewing gum and the like?

A. Yes, indeed.

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store you wouldn't be confused or deceived into taking Beech-Nut mints or Beech-Nut chewing gum for or in place of Beech-Nut cigarettes or scrap tobacco?

A. Not in place of them, no.

X-Q. 22. You would consider them a different class of goods, made by some company only foreign to the other, so far as the class of goods goes?

A. Yes.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that if TRACY N. COLLINS were called he would testify as follows:

My name is Tracy N. Collins; I am of legal age, and the proprietor of a grocery and general store, and restaurant located in Noroton, Conn. I have stocked and sold Beech-Nut scrap tobacco similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 for about two years, and I have stocked and sold Beech-Nut cigarettes similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 since these cigarettes came out in this territory, which was in the spring of 1921. I always believed that both the scrap tobacco and the cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people who make the chewing gum and other food products, until I was told by Mr. Hinton, on September 7, 1921, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make either of these two products.

On cross-examination witness would testify as follows:

I bought the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes from jobbers, and am still buying and selling these products. I never noticed the name Lorillard or P. Lorillard Company on the packages, as I did not take the trouble to look at them, and as I now see from looking at the package that the name Lorillard's appears on the scrap tobacco and P. Lorillard Company on the cigarette package, and from this I would understand these to be a product of P. Lorillard Company, the tobacco manufacturers. I would not be confused or deceived into selling this scrap tobacco or the cigarettes in the place or instead of the chewing gum, or any of the Beech-Nut food products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, nor would I be myself deceived into accepting gum or food products in the place of a tobacco product, and vice-versa.

WILLIAM P. MELIA, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is William P. Melia; your age is 32; your residence is 305 Laurel avenue, Bridgeport, Connecticut, and you are a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is this correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and what territories do you cover?

A. Two years I have been with the Beech-Nut Company, covering the territory from Greenwich back to Danbury.

Q. 3. What counties would this be?

A. Fairfield County.

Q. 4. Connecticut?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, being a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. When did these cigarettes come out in this territory?

A. In this territory? I should judge about six months ago.

Q. 6. Have you since that time seen these cigarettes displayed in store windows and advertised by posters and the like?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. 7. Do you drive a car in your work?

A. I drive a Beech-Nut car—a car with the Beech-Nut label on the side.

Q. 8. Have you heard comments or remarks from the people you have encountered in your work since these cigarettes came out, about these cigarettes?

A. About these cigarettes? Yes, sir.

Q. 9. Please state the nature of comments, inquiries and remarks which you have heard.

A. Some would say, "Say, how long have you been making cigarettes?" Other people would ask for samples, and would say, "When did you start to make cigarettes?" Others would say, "Well, I hope these will be as good as the gum."

Q. 10. I wish you would give me a strictly conservative estimate of the number of remarks of this general character which you have heard since these cigarettes came out.

A. What do you mean "Since these cigarettes came out?"—about the total number I have heard as I have gone over my territory?

Q. 11. Yes, in so far as you can estimate it.

A. I should say a thousand times easy.

Q. 12. How many would you get in a day?

A. Well, that would all depend on the trade you were calling on. If you are calling on delicatessen trade and fruit stores, you would probably get about thirty-five or forty; if you call on hotels and drug stores you would get an average of a hundred. That would be taking in the people in the rear who are as a rule always looking for samples from a man when he enters the place, regardless of the line he carries.

Q. 13. And these people would ask you for samples; is that what you mean?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. Of what?

A. Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 15. Have you seen the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 displayed at all in this territory?

A. I have some, yes.

Q. 16. To what extent have you seen it displayed in comparison with the cigarettes?

A. Well, not as much, for I don't see very much of it.

Q. 17. Will you give me an illustrative instance of some particular instance that you can remember, if you can, of people who asked you for cigarette samples?

A. Well, for instance, I go to the Elks' Club quite a lot, and we go down to bowl. And since these cigarettes first came out, they say, "Why don't you bring us around some samples of your cigarettes?" I have had instances on the road, too; I had one only on my last trip up to Reading. I was in a store demonstrating candy goods, and I had a few samples of Beech-Nut gum in my pocket. Two ladies drove up in a car, as apparently all in that section are very wealthy people. Two girls got out, and after I had given them samples of the gum they walked out to the car, but came back and asked in a whisper for a few samples of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 18. How long ago was this, Mr. Melia?

A. This was a month ago.

Q. 19. Did you get the names of those two girls?

A. No, I did not; but the lady who owned the store knows they asked for the cigarettes.

(Last portion of witness' answer objected to as hearsay.)

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 20. What products do you sell for the Beech-Nut Company in this territory?

A. Full line.

X-Q. 21. That includes food products?

A. That includes food products, chewing gum, mints —confectionery line right straight through.

X-Q. 22. And also ginger ale?

A. Ginger ale, yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. Do you handle any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. Do you ever sell any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 25. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company ever put out cigarettes or scrap tobacco or chewing tobacco, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 26. You never sold for the Beech-Nut Packing Company any product which was packed or made up in a cigarette package like this?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. Likewise you never sold any tobacco for the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up in a package like the Lorillard scrap tobacco, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 28. You say that there are hundreds and perhaps about a thousand people who have asked you if the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting these out?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 29. Did you keep track of this number?

A. No, sir; I used to make a record of the cigarette inquiries when they first came out and a fellow on Water street was handling them.

X-Q. 30. So you have kept track of the number of people who have asked you?

A. No, I haven't. Just as I told you, when they started to come out from my own observations, I used to keep a little record for my own information, as about fifty or sixty people would ask me right along.

X-Q. 31. And they asked you if the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out cigarettes?

A. How long they had been.

X-Q. 32. I understand that the Beech-Nut Packing Company has put out a new food product every now and then?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 33. Well, you haven't had an average of fifty or sixty people a day asking how long they have been putting these out?

A. No, if you are a good, live salesman you are supposed to tell them and show them samples.

X-Q. 34. You never had all these thousand inquiries from this territory of yours in Connecticut with Beech-Nut ginger ale when it was first put out, did you?

A. No, sir; but I would not say that I wouldn't have the inquiries.

X-Q. 35. And if you were down in the basement of this club in the bowling alleys that you speak of, you didn't have all your friends asking for ginger ale samples?

A. Off and on I have had people asking for ginger ale samples.

X-Q. 36. But not to the same extent as the cigarettes?

A. No, I didn't have any cigarettes to give out.

X-Q. 37. But you didn't go down into the bowling alley of your club, for instance, and generally hand out samples of ginger ale?

A. I didn't give a sample of ginger ale down in the club.

X-Q. 38. Not in bottles and not to individuals?

A. No; I talked to the manager and handed him a sample.

X-Q. 39. But you didn't make a practice of giving away your products in samples to individual members at the club?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 40. Isn't it a fact from your experience as a club member, that the men or fellows at the club will take an interest in a thing like a cigarette where they wouldn't in food products or ginger ale; that is, they would want samples of cigarettes when they wouldn't want them of the other?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 41. You would naturally attribute that to the fact that men are universally the same and would want cigarettes where they wouldn't want to bother about ginger ale?

A. Well, if I stopped in at the bowling alley usually they would say, "Give me a sample of Beech-Nut gum." and I have continuously given out samples there and built up a nice business, and never go in without leaving samples of gum.

X-Q. 42. And you have found that the men would also then turn around and ask for samples of the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 43. Did you ever take the trouble to look at that package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. You saw the name P. Lorillard Company on it, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 45. You know who the Lorillard Company is?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 46. And when you examined the package of scrap tobacco you saw the name Lorillard on that, didn't you?

A. No, sir. I didn't look at the scrap tobacco; didn't bother with it.

X-Q. 47. When these people asked you for samples of Beech-Nut cigarettes, that is, the various people you met in your business (I am requiring you to say no particular ones, but just in your traveling generally)—what did you tell them?

A. I told them we never made cigarettes.

X-Q. 48. Told them that they were made by Lorillard Company, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. Beech-Nut?

A. Well, they would say, for instance, if it is in a store, a man handling thousands of packages never knew they were Lorillard's product, but was under the impression also that they were Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 50. What man handling thousands of packages do you mean?

A. What man?

X-Q. 51. Yes.

A. An Italian fellow in Stamford who had a fruit stand.

X-Q. 52. Do you know if he sold thousands of packages of them?

A. I never saw him buy less than eight or nine cartons.

X-Q. 53. You don't know whether he ever looked to see if Lorillard's name was on the package?

A. That I can't say.

X-Q. 54. You don't know what gave him this impression?

A. No, sir; I have been going there off and on to sell my line to Abrams, back of the Hotel Davenport. He used to handle them right along, and brought a package out one day, and said, "I am handling all the Beech-Nut products," and I said, "That is not ours."

X-Q. 55. You don't know anything yourself about why he might have thought they were Beech-Nut?

A. No, I don't know anything about it.

X-Q. 56. You never told any people that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out these cigarettes, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 57. And you have never yourself tried to sell this product or taken orders for these Beech-Nut cigarettes on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, have you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 58. If you went into a store and wanted to buy some Beech-Nut chewing gum or other Beech-Nut food product, you wouldn't be confused or deceived into accepting Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or the Beech-Nut cigarettes in place of the chewing gum or other food product, would you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 59. You would consider them different classes of goods, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir, entirely.

X-Q. 60. You say your whole territory covers Fairfield County?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. You sell in Stamford?

A. Yes, sir; Greenwich, South Beach, Stamford, Darien, Noroton, Norwalk, Southport, Westport, Bridgeport, Fairfield.

X-Q. 62. You don't sell to the United Cigar Stores up here or to Schultes?

A. No, sir.

Signature waived.

Deposition closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that if EDWARD ABRAMS were called in he would testify as follows:

My name is Edward Abrams; I am of legal age, and am proprietor of a news and tobacco-stand in the Davenport Hotel, Stamford, Connecticut, and of a cigar store at 33 Bank street, Stamford, Connecticut. I work in both places and sell goods therein. I have sold the Beech-Nut cigarettes similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, since they came on the market in this territory, and always believed them to be the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until I was told, about September 5, 1921, by Mr. Atkinson, a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, that this company had nothing to do with this product. I had never before seen a package of Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco, until I was shown one the other day.

On cross-examination the witness would testify that he never examined a package of cigarettes and never paid any attention to the same, as he buys his goods from jobbers, and not direct from the manufacturers; that if he had seen the name P. Lorillard Company on the package, he would have known that it was a product of P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers, as he knows that the P. Lorillard Company is a large tobacco manufacturing concern; that he is still buying and selling the cigarettes, and that if a customer came into his store and wanted to purchase Beech-Nut chewing gum, which he handles, he would not sell him, and has never sold any customer, Beech-Nut cigarettes for and in place and instead of Beech-Nut chewing gum, and that he himself could not be confused or deceived into accepting Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, for and in place of the Beech-Nut chewing gum; and vice-versa.

CERTIFICATE.

State of Connecticut, County of Fairfield, ss. Stamford.

I, Louis M. Altman, a Notary Public in and for the State of Connecticut, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, hereby certify that the foregoing depositions of John Morelli, George F. Moulton, Tracy N. Collins, William P. Melia and Edward Abrams, were taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, pursuant to agreement by and before me, beginning on September 8, 1921, at Stamford, Connecticut, and ending the same day; that the depositions were taken at Stamford, Connecticut, South Norwalk, Connecticut, and Bridgeport, Connecticut; that the opposing party was represented by counsel during the taking of the testimony; that the depositions were taken stenographically and transcribed under my supervision by Helen E. Woods, a public stenographer well known to me; that I am not related by blood or marriage to either of the parties to this cause and have no interest therein.

I further certify that I have been paid $35.41 as fees for attendance and taking of the depositions, and that the same is a fair, just and reasonable fee.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and official seal this 27th day of September, 1921.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity. No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before S. E. Harvey, a Notary Public within and for the County of Cook and State of Illinois, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at the office of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, 1737 First National Bank Building, Chicago, Illinois, beginning the thirty-first day of October at one o'clock P. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for the Beech-Nut Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, attorneys for P. Lorillard Company.

ROY B. SOUTHERN, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Roy B. Southern, your age is 38, your residence is 4641 Lake Park Avenue, Chicago, you are a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company and have been employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Company since December, 1920?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. What territory do you cover, Mr. Southern?

A. From 75th Street, south, including Will County, Illinois.

Q. 3. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, in this case. Have you seen this tobacco displayed since you have been working for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. As you have been going about your work, have you ever heard comments, remarks or inquiries about this scrap tobacco? If so, what has been their character?

A. Well, "Have you people been making Beech-Nut tobacco?" "How long have you been making Beech-Nut tobacco?" "I didn't know you had been making Beech-Nut tobacco." "Have you a sample of Beech-Nut tobacco?"

Q. 5. From whom have you heard these comments, remarks and inquiries? I mean from what class of people.

A. Grocerymen and working people. Paving crews.

Q. 6. How frequently have you heard such comments, remarks and inquiries?

A. Numerous remarks. Several daily.

Q. 7. Can you give me any particular instances where you have heard such comments, remarks, and inquiries? I want only the instances where you can state definitely where the instance occurred and have a very definite recollection of what was said, and who said it.

A. Some that I can call to memory—Paul Meyers of Madison, Illinois, groceryman. When I called on him he said. "Hello, Beech-Nut. Give me two cartons of scrap tobacco. That's all I want this trip." I informed him we did not make the scrap tobacco, but was unable to convince him. He said if some other company was making Beech-Nut tobacco he would make Beech-

Nut sausage. Another case: C. B. Johnson in Joliet. When I called on him he said, "Hello, Beech-Nut, give me some tobacco and cigarettes. I have been waiting for you to give you an order." Called on a man in Palos Park. After I left the store there was a paving crew working just below. They stopped me and wanted some samples of scrap tobacco and asked me why I didn't keep this groceryman supplied.

Q. 8. Were you driving an automobile at the time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. What, if anything, was on the automobile?

A. Beech-Nut Pure Food Products.

Q. 10. Was this automobile where the paving crew could see it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. Well, give me some more instances, if you can remember them.

A. Along in January, I believe it was, or February, I stopped in an ex-saloon in Lemont, near beer account, to sell them some ginger ale. Was passing my samples. He says, "I can't use that, but I can use two or three cartons scrap tobacco if you have them with you." Numerous others. I don't recall right now. But there were several others.

Q. 12. I now show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, in this case. Will you please state how long, to your knowledge, these cigarettes have been displayed in the territory that you cover?

A. I first noticed them about two months before today.

Q. 13. Will you please state briefly what your experience has been in connection with the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have numerous inquiries, asking if they were made by us, and why I don't tell them I handle cigarettes and give them some samples. "How long have you been making them," and so on.

Q. 14. How many times would you say that has happened? I want a conservative estimate.

A. I should judge ten or fifteen times a day.

Q. 15. Can you give me any particular instances of such comments, remarks and inquiries concerning the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, Mr. Zwyers, the butcher at Thompkins & Son—I called in his place—asked me why I hadn't told him we were making cigarettes and give him some samples. Said he told cigarette salesman when he called he would get all the samples of cigarettes he wanted when I called. Another case. Called on Charles Larson in Roseland, 113 and Vincennes. He said, "Hello, Beech-Nut. You are the very fellow I wanted to see. If you people are making cigarettes I want to cancel that ten case drop shipment I have on the road." Another case, I believe, that I recall in Blue Island. His name is Sck————. Called on him last week. Asked him how the Beech-Nut line was going. He said he was selling lots of gum and tobacco, but the cigarettes weren't moving so fast, although he told his trade they were good, because they were all three made by the same company. I believe that is about all I recall right now that I can give names of. Several others. Mr. Stube in Blue Island is another. I was talking to one of his grocery salesmen about Beech-Nut cigarettes and Mr. Stube came up and I saw fit to inform him that we didn't make them. Seemed very much surprised to think that they were not a product of Beech-Nut Packing Company. I believe that is all I can recall right now.

Q. 16. Have there been other instances of this character in connection with cigarettes and scrap tobacco, besides those which you have specifically enumerated?

A. Yes. I have inquiries every day. I believe that's all that I know names and addresses of.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. I understand that you have been with the Beech-Nut Packing Company since about December, 1920?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. As a salesman?

A. I have.

X-Q. 3. You visit the trade, don't you?

A. Grocery trade. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 4. Approximately, how many stores do you visit in your territory?

A. A day?

X-Q. 5. No. Just total approximately.

A. Four hundred.

X-Q. 6. And how many do you visit a day?

A. From fifteen to twenty-five.

X-Q. 7. How long have you known of that Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, Plaintiff's Exhibit 3, to be on the market?

A. I guess two years.

X-Q. 8. So you knew it was on the market before you entered the employ of Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I had just seen it.

X-Q. 9. Do you smoke?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 10. Do you chew?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 11. Did you ever smoke any Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. One.

X-Q. 12. Did you ever buy a package of them?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 13. You note the name Lorillard on that scrap tobacco package?

A. The fact someone showed it to me. I believe Mr. Vosburg showed it to me. I don't recall who showed it to me.

X-Q. 14. Never bought a package?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 15. So you had no occasion to look at it all during those two years?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 16. Will you describe the sign you say is on your automobile?

A. Beech-Nut (in oval) Pure Food Products.

X-Q. 17. That oval is a red band, is it not?

A. No; it was gold.

X-Q. 18. In order to save time, I show you one of the labels of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Does the sign on your wagon resemble that in general?

A. On the back and each door. Not on the sides.

X-Q. 19. What is on the door?

A. On each door and on the back, this label.

X-Q. 20. So substantially that label does appear on you automobile?

A. Yes, but not on the sides.

X-Q. 21. And on the sides you have the words Beech-Nut Food Products. Now, just what do you sell for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I sell gum, candy, peanut butter, beans, catsup, chili sauce, mustard, alimentary paste products.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever sell any tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. Did you ever know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to sell any tobacco products?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. Did you ever know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to sell any product that was packaged exactly like the scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. Likewise, did you every know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to sell any goods packaged like packages of cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Is it your practice when you call on the trade to give them samples of your various products?

A. Every time I call.

X-Q. 27. You give away samples to the grocers and trade in general?

A. Yes, sir. To the trade in general.

X-Q. 28. And do you give samples away to people on the streets that ask for them?

A. Everybody we meet, if it is convenient, we can.

X-Q. 29. Where was it you said this paving crew was?

A. Palos Park, Illinois.

X-Q. 30. Had you ever given that crew any samples before?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31. How long does it take you to get around through your trade, to cover the territory of your four or five hundred customers?

A. Four or five weeks.

X-Q. 32. And when these customers ask you about Beech-Nut tobacco, do you tell who it was made by?

A. Not as a rule. Just told them we didn't make tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 33. Never had any more conversation about it? Simply told them you did not make it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Is that the way the incident happens? They look and see who does make it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. Did you ever see a carton of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. How large is it?

A. I should judge 8 wide, 14 the other and probably 18 the other.

X-Q. 37. Do you know the names of any of the men on that paving crew?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 38. You haven't seen that crew since that time?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 39. As one who smokes, could you be confused into buying a package of those Beech-Nut cigarettes for a food product or for chewing gum?

A. I might by the name. If I was used to chewing chewing gum.

X-Q. 40. Then you consider tobacco to be the same as food?

A. Gum is not food.

X-Q. 41. Do you consider tobacco the same as chewing gum?

A. I consider the habit the same as chewing gum.

X-Q. 42. You don't know the difference between chewing gum and tobacco?

A. Oh, sure!

X-Q. 43. Then if you wanted some tobacco and a man handed you a package of chewing gum, you would take it for tobacco?

A. If I wanted some chewing tobacco and I chewed Beech-Nut gum, I might buy Beech-Nut tobacco, thinking it was good like the gum.

X-Q. 44. I am not asking you what you would think it was good like; would you take the tobacco for the gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 45. Different kinds of goods, are they?

A. Yes. Tobacco is tobacco and gum is gum.

X-Q. 46. What was the name of that party you mentioned in Madison?

A. Paul Meyers.

X-Q. 47. And the man in Joliet was Johnson?

A. C. V. Johnson, 500 College Street.

X-Q. 48. Then there was another man named Zwyers?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. Then, those people say, "Hello, Beech-Nut"?

A. Every time I enter store, that is first thing they say.

X-Q. 50. They don't call you by your own name?

A. No. Rarely ever.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 1. Who is Mr. Vosburg?

A. Division manager for the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

ALBERT B. LEWIS, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Albert B. Lewis, your age is 46, your residence is 510 W. 72nd Street, Chicago, you are a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been employed as salesman by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and in what territory?

A. Fourteen years. At the present from the loop to 75th Street, in Chicago, Illinois.

Q. 3. I show you package of scrap tobacco, being Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you seen this tobacco displayed in your territory? If so, how long?

A. About four or five years.

Q. 4. Have you, as you were going about your work, heard comments, remarks and inquiries about this scrap tobacco? If so, in about what numbers?

A. I have heard any number. Say several hundred times during that time.

Q. 5. From whom?

A. From retailers that I call on, such as grocers, druggists, confectioners, tobacco dealers, and a number of inquiries from personal acquaintances that are not retailers.

Q. 6. Will you please give me an illustration of the kind of comments, remarks and inquiries you have heard? What they would say to you?

A. In entering a store I am generally greeted, "Hello, Beech-Nut! I see you are putting out Beech-Nut tobacco." "How long have you been putting out tobacco?" It is the general impression that Beech-Nut tobacco is a Beech-Nut product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. I wish you would give me an illustrative definite instance of this character.

A. One recently. In calling on a Mr. Ballard I was asked by him, "I see you are putting out Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarettes." Mr. Christiansen, who works for him, says, "Yes, I saw the tobacco and cigarettes at the cigar store." To convince them that they were not a Beech-Nut product, I bought a package of cigarettes at the United Cigar Store right near them. In making the purchase I asked the clerk if Beech-Nut cigarettes were as good as the Beech-Nut gum they were putting out. He said, "Just as good."

Q. 8. Where was this cigar store?

A. 1528 E. 53rd Street.

Q. 9. What is its name?

A. United Cigar Store.

Q. 10. What streets is it on?

A. 53rd.

Q. 11. Is it on the corner?

A. No. 1528. Near corner of Lake Park Ave.

Q. 12. Do you know what building it is in?

A. Holland Hotel.

Q. 13. Now, have you heard comments, remarks and inquiries about the Beech-Nut Cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, a package of which I show you?

A. I have had more inquiries about the cigarettes than I have had about tobacco. They are more widely displayed and more advertised. Practically same inquiries as were made, only more so.

Q. 14. You have said in your testimony that your customers have greeted you, "Hello, Beech-Nut!" To what extent do they greet you that way?

A. Practically all of them. Very seldom I find a man that will ever call me by my name. Sometimes it is a personal friend and he will call me by my name. Not one out of twenty-five will call me by my name.

Q. 15. Approximately, how many stores do you call on, Mr. Lewis?

A. Why, there would be at least one thousand.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. As I understand you, Mr. Lewis, you have been a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company for about fourteen years?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. What line of their products do you sell?

A. Everything that they put out.

X-Q. 3. Did you ever sell any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 4. No cigarettes nor scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 5. When you visit a store, one of your customers,—he gives you an order for whatever Beech-Nut products he wants?

A. Yes. The goods I try to sell him.

X-Q. 6. What I mean is he gives you his entire order for any Beech-Nut stuff. He doesn't buy through any jobbers?

A. He does. We do our business through jobbers.

X-Q. 7. Why do you visit the store?

A. We take the orders through the jobbers.

X-Q. 8. I do not quite follow you. Would you just detail for me the procedure that you follow from getting an order from a man until the goods is delivered to him?

A. We call on retailer, whatever line of business it is. We take his order, sell him what he can use in our line, ask him what jobber he wishes that delivered through. Then that order is turned over to the jobber.

X-Q. 9. Then, as I understand it, you, a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, will take the order personally and direct and then deliver the goods through the jobber?

A. The jobber delivers the goods.

X-Q. 10. You come into personal contact with customers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. You never sold any of these customers tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. You never took an order from any of them for tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 13. You never told any of the customers that this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Absolutely not. Told them that it was not.

X-Q. 14. Who did you tell them it was made by?

A. I have shown them it was made by P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 15. All of the Beech-Nut Packing Company products which you sell, so far as you know, bear the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on them?

A. In some way, some place on them.

X-Q. 16. I understood you to say that you handled all Beech-Nut products. Under what other trade-marks or trade names other than that shown by Beech-Nut red band label like this Beech-Nut bacon label which is marked for identification, Defendant's Cross Exhibit 8, are some of the Beech-Nut goods sold? I will make myself a little clearer. Do you sell Mohawk goods for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. The Mohawk Brand, you mean. They have it, but we never sell that in Chicago territory. It is listed on our price list.

X-Q. 17. The same as to the Erie Brand for the Beech-Nut Packing Company. The Erie Brand. This also appears on your price list?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. You never sold or took orders for any goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that were put up in a package like that tobacco scrap package, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. And you never sold any of their goods in a package that looks like the cigarette package?

A. No.

X-Q. 20. The cigarette package has a sort of individuality of its own?

A. Looks like a cigarette package.

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store and you wanted some chewing gum, could you be confused and deceived into taking scrap tobacco or cigarettes in place of chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. Because it is entirely different goods?

A. If I went in for chewing gum, they couldn't give me chewing tobacco for chewing gum.

X-Q. 23. Likewise, you wouldn't take chewing gum if you wanted chewing tobacco or cigarettes?

A. Absolutely not.

X-Q. 24. You regard them as different goods?

A. I do.

Cross-examination closed.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 1. Would you say that a Beech-Nut ham had an individuality of its own as regards the appearance of the package?

A. You could tell a ham by its wrapping.

R-D. Q. 2. How about Beech-Nut canned goods? Would you mistake any Beech-Nut canned goods for a Beech-Nut ham?

A. No. I could tell. If a label was the same as a Beech-Nut label I might be confused into thinking that was a Beech-Nut Brand.

Re-Cross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 1. Beech-Nut ham and Beech-Nut canned goods are both food products?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 2. They are eaten and taken into the stomach?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 3. At the dinner by the kids and the women and the rest of the family?

A. Absolutely.

R-X Q. 4. Never heard of them eating tobacco?

A. They take it in their mouths.

R-X Q. 5. Did you ever hear of them taking it into the stomach?

A. No. No more than gum.

R-X Q. 6. You don't consider gum to be tobacco?

A. No.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

ALBERT LEVY, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. At the present time?

Q. 2. Yes, sir.

A. Albert Levy; 55; Oak Park, Illinois; candy jobber.

Q. 3. Where is your place of business?

A. 181 West Lake Street.

Q. 4. Do you carry chewing gum, mints and the like, Mr. Levy?

A. I do.

Q. 5. State if you know whether tobacco jobbers carry these products.

A. Many do.

Q. 6. Will you please state when your attention was first directed to the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, a package of which I now show you, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3?

A. Several years ago.

Q. 7. What happened then?

A. My first impression on seeing same was that it was another product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 8. Do you remember what it was that you first saw?

A. A cut out sign covering a large space in the window of a cigar store.

Q. 9. What was on that sign, do you remember?

A. No.

Q. 10. After you saw the cut out sign, did you subsequently see on display in different places package of this scrap tobacco?

A. Which scrap tobacco?

Q. 11. This scrap tobacco we are talking about. (Shows witness Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3.)

A. Yes.

Q. 12. How long did you continue to believe that the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco was another product put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Until quite recently.

Q. 13. And how were you advised or informed quite recently that this belief was erroneous?

A. By the agent of Beech-Nut Packing Company calling upon me in his regular line of work, who in a general conversation informed me that they did not manufacture nor were they interested.

Q. 14. Had you prior to being definitely informed by the agent of the Beech-Nut Packing Company ever seen the name Lorillard's which appears on the top of this package of scrap tobacco?

A. I did.

Q. 15. Will you please state the circumstances under which you first saw this name "Lorillard's"?

A. Having occasion to purchase some cigars at a cigar store on 47th Street near Vincennes Ave., Chicago, I purchased my cigars and then was about to enter a room in the rear of the cigar store and noticed this package of tobacco on sale in the glass show case. Curiosity prompted me to look at the label. Then noticed the name of Lorillard on the top of same.

Q. 16. If you can remember, I would like to have you say how close about were you to the package when you first noticed the name "Lorillard's" on it?

A. Twelve or fifteen inches.

Q. 17. Do you mean that your eyes were that close to it?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. Now, after you had observed this name "Lorillard's" on the package, what did you then conclude as to the origin or responsibility for this tobacco?

Mr. Cavanagh: Objected to as simply calling for an opinion on the part of the witness.

A. I was under the impression that either Lorillard was making this tobacco for the Beech-Nut people or possibly had some arrangement for the use of the name.

Q. 19. And you were first definitely advised that the Beech-Nut Packing Company had nothing to do with this product, when?

A. In general conversation with their agent, Mr. Vosburgh, some time in October.

Q. 20. I wish you would tell me if you remember approximately how long before this general conversation it was that you had detected the name "Lorillard's" on the package? I don't want anything but an approximation.

A. Several years.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Mr. Levy, how long have you been in the confectionery business, approximately?

A. Over twenty years.

X-Q. 2. Do you sell any products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I do.

X-Q. 3. What do you sell? Name them.

A. Beech-Nut gum, Beech-Nut mints, all flavors, Beech-Nut candy, all flavors, and possibly several other numbers off and on.

X-Q. 4. They all relate to the confectionery business?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 5. Do you buy your goods through an agent of the Beech-Nut Packing Company or do you order direct from firm in Canajoharie?

A. Both.

X-Q. 6. You always get them from or through somebody connected with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. Do you sell tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 8. You do not handle it at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 9. You never ordered any tobacco through any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company people, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 10. You never heard of Beech-Nut Packing Company selling tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 11. Do you use tobacco?

A. Smoke cigars.

X-Q. 12. You don't use cigarettes or you don't chew scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 13. Did you ever buy a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 14. Did you ever buy a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 15. You never had occasion to handle packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes or scrap tobacco—take in your hand and look at them?

A. Once.

X-Q. 16. When was that?

A. Several years ago.

X-Q. 17. Is that the occasion you spoke of when you noticed the name "Lorillard's"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever hear of Lorillard Company—tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes. To the best of my knowledge and belief.

X-Q. 19. You saw that name "Lorillard's" on there. So far as that name went you connected it with that tobacco company?

A. Directly or indirectly.

X-Q. 20. Well, the name "Lorillard's" on there wouldn't connect that up with any other tobacco company?

A. It didn't mean anything to me.

X-Q. 21. It meant the name Lorillard. You could read it?

A. I did.

X-Q. 22. You did not buy the tobacco at the time?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 23. Had no use for it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. You say it was several years ago when you first looked at this package of scrap tobacco and saw name "Lorillard's" on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. And it was just recently that in the course of general conversation you were informed that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make this scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. So several years elapsed between those two occasions—between the time you first saw it and the time you were so told that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make the tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. The matter wasn't of any particular interest to you to find out who made it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 28. You weren't selling tobacco, you weren't buying it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 29. And you didn't give it any thought?

A. I did give it a thought.

X-Q. 30. But you didn't give it enough thought during those years since you first saw the package to ask one of the Beech-Nut men, whom I presume you met frequently in the course of business, who makes the tobacco?

A. I did not ask any question about the tobacco.

X-Q. 31. Do you buy confectionery from other manufacturers outside of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I do.

X-Q. 32. Did you ever know in the confectionery business for one manufacturer to put the name of another manufacturer on its package of goods—I am not speaking of jobbers. I am speaking of one manufacturer to put another manufacturer's name on its goods.

A. I do not understand the question.

X-Q. 33. Did you personally ever know of the P.

Lorillard Company to make any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 34. Likewise you never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company making any products for P. Lorillard Company?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 35. You know these concerns are both manufacturing concerns, do you not?

A. I know Beech-Nut Packing Company is. I don't know that the Lorillard Company exists.

X-Q. 36. You say you do not know that the Lorillard Company exists?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. You have heard of them?

A. I have heard of them.

X-Q. 38. You said in one of your answers in your direct examination substantially that you thought that Lorillard might have been making this tobacco for the Beech-Nut Packing Company. If you didn't know that the Lorillard Company was in existence, how did you figure out that they were making tobacco for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Very simply. By the fact that I had reason to believe that many years ago the Lorillard concern had sold out and that simply the name of Lorillard remained.

X-Q. 39. So you really didn't know anything about the situation as concerned the Lorillard Company?

A. I did not. Definitely no.

X-Q. 40. If you went into a store and wanted to buy some chewing gum, could you be fooled or confused into accepting some chewing tobacco or cigarettes in the place of gum?

A. I cannot answer that question.

X-Q. 41. You mean to say you do not know the difference between tobacco and chewing gum?

A. I do.

X-Q. 42. You would not take chewing gum for tobacco?

A. I would not.

X-Q. 43. They are different goods, aren't they?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. As you as a confectioner know they are different goods?

A. I do.

X-Q. 45. You know it from common sense standpoint?

A. I do.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

JOHN E. WATSON, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is John E. Watson; your age is 31; your residence is 3819 Michigan Ave., Chicago; your occupation is druggist, and your place of business is 679 North Clark Street, Chicago; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Mr. Watson, how long have you been in this drug store at 679 North Clark Street?

A. Perhaps two months.

Q. 3. What is your position there?

A. I am head prescription druggist in charge of place.

Q. 4. Prior to taking charge of this store at 679 North Clark Street, Chicago, what were you doing?

A. Manager of R. B. Sherry's, at 31st and Indiana.

Q. 5. What kind of a store is that?

A. It is a drug store.

Q. 6. How long have you been working in drug stores?

A. Nine years.

Q. 7. In the course of that time, have you sold cigarettes, cigars and other such products, and confectionery?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Have all the drug stores you worked in carried cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, chewing gum and confectionery?

A. All of them.

Q. 9. I show you a package of scrap tobacco, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, being a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco. Have you ever sold this product over the counter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. How long have you sold it over the counter?

A. I would be right in saying five years and perhaps more.

Q. 11. I wish you would tell me whether you have sold very little of it or a good deal.

A. I have had in most places good business on it.

Q. 12. Do you now know who makes this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 13. Prior to a few weeks ago, who did you believe made this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. I presumed it was put out by Beech-Nut Company, like the chewing gum.

Q. 14. Have you ever had occasion to talk about this scrap tobacco to your customers and, if so, what would you tell them about it?

A. I would tell them it was put out by same company as Beech-Nut gum was.

Q. 15. Was this true for the whole period of the five years?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. Do you now believe that this scrap tobacco is made by Beech-Nut Packing Company—now this minute?

A. Well, I really don't know, because I never looked up on it. I always sold it.

Q. 17. Do you now believe that this is a Beech-Nut product or not? What do you believe about it now?

A. I suppose that it is.

Q. 18. You have said that you worked in the Sherry drug store prior to coming to your present store. Before that, where did you work?

A. Connor's, at 39th and Indiana.

Q. 19. Is that a drug store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 20. Is a big or small drug store?

A. Large drug store.

Q. 21. How do your present sales of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, compare with the sales that you had at Connor's drug store, for instance?

A. There is no comparison, because we haven't the tobacco displayed as we had at Connor's.

Q. 22. How was it displayed at Connor's store?

A. It was in a front case where it could be seen—the minute you walked to the cigar counter you could see the tobacco displayed in the case.

Q. 23. How is it placed now?

A. It is back behind the cigar counter, in a cabinet. No display at all.

Q. 24. Did a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company recently come to see you, do you remember?

A. Yes.

Q. 25. Did he tell you whether or not the Beech-Nut people made this tobacco?

A. I don't remember who he said made it. The best I remember he said cigarettes and tobacco weren't put up by the same people.

Q. 26. Were or were not?

A. Were not.

Q. 27. How long ago was that?

A. Perhaps three weeks ago.

Q. 28. Now, I direct your attention, Mr. Watson, to Beech-Nut cigarettes, in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, and show you a package thereof. Whose product did you think these were?

A. I presumed they were put up by same people as Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and gum.

Q. 29. How long have you handled these cigarettes?

A. A short while.

Q. 30. Have you yourself sold them over the counter?

A. I have sold a few.

Q. 31. Who makes the cigarettes, do you know?

A. I cannot say that I do.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Do you smoke, Mr. Watson?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. What do you smoke?

A. Cigars and cigarettes, both.

X-Q. 3. Do you chew?

A. No.

X-Q. 4. Did you ever buy any of that Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 5. You have bought it from wholesaler for drug company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. Did you ever buy any Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. I bought scrap tobacco and the gum.

X-Q. 7. I am asking you did you ever buy any products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I want to get you right. Is Beech-Nut scrap tobacco the Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

Mr. Cavanagh: Mr. Watson, I cannot answer that question for you, but I will try to clarify the situation. You have bought Beech-Nut chewing gum. From whom did you buy that?

A. I bought Beech-Nut gum from several stores.

X-Q. 8. Did you buy from Beech-Nut Packing Company man?

A. I cannot say that I did. Usually buy from jobbers.

X-Q. 9. You never had Beech-Nut Packing Company man call on you to sell gum?

A. If they have, I cannot say that I bought it.

X-Q. 10. Likewise, you don't know whether you ever bought any mints from the Beech-Nut Packing Company man?

A. I don't think I have.

X-Q. 11. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company?

A. Who?

X-Q. 12. P. Lorillard, tobacco manufacturers.

A. I don't know whether I have. If I have, I haven't bought anything from them that I remember of.

X-Q. 13. As I understand it, you never bought a package of this Beech-Nut tobacco for your own use?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. Did you ever look at that package?

A. I have noticed it.

X-Q. 15. Did you ever see the name "Lorillard" on it?

A. Never paid any particular attention to it. As a matter of fact, it is same as Bull Durham. Didn't pay any attention to it.

X-Q. 16. Just simply sell it as so much tobacco?

A. That's the idea.

X-Q. 17. Does the same apply to the cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. You never noticed name P. Lorillard Company on those cigarettes?

A. Never paid any particular attention to it.

X-Q. 19. These cigarettes come in cartons, do they not?

A. Same as other cigarettes.

X-Q. 20. They come in a carton like this—200—that I show you?

A. To the best I remember, that's the way they come.

X-Q. 21. Do you ever open up any of these cartons yourself?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever read the printed slip that comes in them?

A. No.

X-Q. 23. Never even looked at it?

A. No. I never read those things.

X-Q. 24. So when you told people that you thought that the scrap tobacco and cigarettes were made by same people who made gum, you didn't have anything on which to base that?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. You had never asked any of the Beech-Nut salesmen who made it?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. I understand that you sell chewing gum in the store, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. You never sold any person chewing gum when they asked you for cigarettes or scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. In other words, they are entirely different classes of goods?

A. Why, sure.

X-Q. 29. You would not yourself be confused into taking chewing gum or mints for cigarettes or tobacco?

A. Not gum for tobacco.

X-Q. 30. Or mints either?

A. No.

WILLIAM H. SAGE, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is William H. Sage; you are 54 years old; your residence is 121 Wheaton avenue, Wheaton, Illinois; your occupation is druggist?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Where are you employed now?

A. 421 North Clark street.

Q. 3. In what capacity?

A. Registered pharmacist.

Q. 4. Do you sell goods over the counter in that store?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. How long have you been selling goods over the counter in drug stores?

A. In any drug store?

Q. 6. Yes.

A. Twenty-five years.

Q. 7. Have you been selling for the past five or six years, and do you now sell cigarettes, chewing tobacco and cigars?

A. I haven't—only for the past two years have I been selling tobaccos and cigarettes.

Q. 8. Well, in the last two years that you have been selling tobacco and cigarettes have you been personally handing these goods out to the customer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. Have you in the past two years sold over the counter Beech-Nut chewing tobacco, similar to the package I now show you, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Will you please state by whom you believed this chewing tobacco to be put out, up to the past few weeks?

A. I always supposed it was put out by same people who manufactured chewing gum called Beech-Nut chewing gum.

Q. 11. Do you now believe that this product is manufactured by the same people who manufacture the chewing gum?

A. I understand it is manufactured by Lorillard Company.

Q. 12. How and when did you obtain the information that this product was manufactured by the Lorillard Company?

A. In a conversation with a customer some two or three weeks ago my attention was called to the Beech-Nut cigarettes now put out by Lorillard Company. In that conversation I was informed that they were not put out by Beech-Nut people. Up to that time I was under the belief that all three of the products, the chewing gum, chewing tobacco and Beech-Nut cigarettes were all manufactured by the same people.

Q. 13. Do you remember having ever discussed the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco with your customers, and if so, do you remember what you told them about its origin?

A. I recall in conversation talking about cigarettes. Some customer stated that the cigarettes were a superior quality of cigarettes, and also that the chewing tobacco was. I made the statement that all of the products manufactured by the Beech-Nut Packing Company were of superior quality, stating at that time that their chewing gum with us had largest sale of any chewing gum on the market.

Q. 14. Do you recollect whether or not at previous times you have made similar statements during the two years that you were handling the scrap tobacco?

A. Yes. I suppose it's been something the same. I probably made the statement other times. I don't know how many times.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Mr. Sage, do you chew?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 2. Tobacco, I mean?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 3. Did you ever personally buy a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco to chew?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 4. Do you buy for your store?

A. I do the ordering. I am not the buyer. Mr. Healy, the proprietor, does the buying.

X-Q. 5. From whom do you order your Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Chewing gum we buy from wagon or from wholesale druggist.

X-Q. 6. What wagon is that; what concern?

A. I know his name, but cannot think of it. An individual. Don't recall his name. Oppenheimer, or something like that.

X-Q. 7. Don't buy direct from manufacturer?

A. No.

X-Q. 8. What is name of manufacturer of that gum?

A. I don't know that. Beech-Nut Products Company, or something of that kind.

X-Q. 9. You never took the trouble to look on a package and see the name of the company?

A. No. I know it is Beech-Nut something. I don't recall.

X-Q. 10. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 11. They are large manufacturers of tobacco, are they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. On this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes you see the name P. Lorillard?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 13. That would indicate it is that tobacco company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. And likewise on this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco you find the name Lorillard?

A. I didn't notice this until after a conversation with this gentleman.

X-Q. 15. As a matter of fact, when you told the party that the same people that put out the gum were putting out scrap tobacco and cigarettes, you had never really looked into the matter?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. Wasn't of any particular interest to you?

A. No. None whatever.

X-Q. 17. You continued to sell the cigarettes and the scrap tobacco, as well as the gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. And you never made any inquiries from parties that you thought might know who put them out?

A. I was never interested in the manufacturer.

X-Q. 19. From standpoint of selling it meant nothing to you?

A. Oh, no.

X-Q. 20. If a person came into your store, Mr. Sage, and he wanted to buy some of the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes, you would not hand him Beech-Nut gum for cigarettes?

A. I have.

X-Q. 21. Sold him one for the other?

A. You said pass it. People have come in and said give me a package of Beech-Nut. I have thrown out package of Beech-Nut gum, and they then said they wanted tobacco.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever have a person come in and say, "I want a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes," and you handed him gum?

A. Oh, no. People come in frequently—customers frequently say, "A package of Beech-Nut," and mean either tobacco or chewing gum. That happens every day. We have to ask them what they want. Whether they want chewing gum or tobacco.

X-Q. 23. When a man comes in and says, I want a package of Beech-Nut, and you hand him, say, gum, when subsequent events show he wanted cigarettes, what does he do?

A. That doesn't usually happen in cigarettes, as it does in chewing tobacco. A man in asking for Beech-Nut cigarettes usually says cigarettes, but man asking for chewing tobacco usually says "Beech-Nut," throwing down a quarter. The same thing in gum.

X-Q. 24. Suppose you give him the gum, when it subsequently appears that he wanted the chewing tobacco?

A. He says I want the tobacco, or I want the chewing gum.

X-Q. 25. In other words, he knows it's different—that there is a difference between the chewing gum and the chewing tobacco.

A. Immediately.

X-Q. 26. And he immediately says he wants the chewing tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. So he is not confused for an instant with the gum and the tobacco?

A. The customer is never confused. The clerk behind the counter is confused many times when man merely says he wants "Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 28. You yourself would not be confused or deceived into taking a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum when you really wanted either Beech-Nut cigarettes or scrap tobacco?

A. Oh, no.

X-Q. 29. They are entirely different classes of goods, are they not?

A. Oh, yes.

A. H. CARLSON, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is A. H. Carlson; you are 23 years old; your residence is 5347 North Paulina Street, Chicago; you are employed by Thomas E. Wilson Company, sporting goods, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. In what capacity are you employed by the Thomas E. Wilson Company?

A. Bill clerk.

Q. 3. How long have you been with this concern?

A. Five months.

Q. 4. And what were you doing before that?

A. I was part owner of a cigar store.

Q. 5. Where was that cigar store located?

A. It was located at 5222 North Clark Street, Chicago.

Q. 6. How long did you have that store, Mr. Carlson?

A. Practically one year.

Q. 7. Did you sell scrap chewing tobacco in that store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Please name some of the brands of scrap chewing tobaccos that you sold?

A. Honest Scrap, Polar Bear, Beech-Nut, Union Workman.

Q. 9. Which of these was your best seller?

A. Off-hand, I would say Beech-Nut.

Q. 10. Is the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco that you sold the same as this package I now show you, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, is this the Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. During the time that you were selling this tobacco over the counter, whose product did you think it was?

A. I was always under the impression that it was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 12. Did you ever tell your customers that it was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. 13. Do you now believe that it is a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 14. You were first informed that it is not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company by whom?

A. As I remember the circumstances, a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company was in the store and we were discussing certain products. I believe the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco came under the question and then he told me that it was not one of their products.

Q. 15. Did you then ascertain whose product it was? Did you then find out who did make it?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. 16. Now, Mr. Carlson, of course you cannot give the exact number, but about how many times a day do you suppose you handed the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco out to customers in the store?

A. That is a hard question to answer. But you see part of the time I was in the store and the other part my partner was there. It may be that during the time I was there I would pass as many as five packages or more over the counter.

Q. 17. Did you sell Camel cigarettes over the counter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 18. In what quantities—many or few?

A. A great many, I would say.

Q. 19. What is written on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the camel?

A. I do not know.

Q. 20. Have you sold Lucky Strike cigarettes over the counter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 21. Have you sold many or few?

A. A great many.

Q. 22. What is written on a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel with the word Lucky Strike?

A. I don't know. I do know that it is a product of the American Tobacco people. I know that for a fact.

Q. 23. Now, who makes Murad cigarettes?

A. A Greek name—Anagyros or something like that.

Q. 24. Who makes Egyptian Deities?

A. The same concern.

Q. 25. Who makes Honest Scrap tobacco?

A. I don't know.

Q. 26. You know who makes Polar Bear tobocco?

A. No, sir.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Mr. Carlson, how long were you in the tobacco business?

A. One year.

X-Q. 2. And what line of business were you in before that?

A. I wasn't in business before that. I was clerk in the office.

X-Q. 3. You were about 22 years old when you went into the tobacco business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. I understand you to say that you sold this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 5. Did you buy any of that tobacco? You did the buying?

A. Yes. I or my partner. Either one.

X-Q. 6. Who was your partner?

A. His name was G. E. Lindell.

X-Q. 7. What is his address?

A. I don't know his present address.

X-Q. 8. Could you give me an idea?

A. I know he lives on Hermitage Ave., near Hermitage.

X-Q. 9. Is that in Chicago?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. When you bought this Beech-Nut tobacco, from whom did you buy it?

A. Hesser Bros., jobbers.

X-Q. 11. What is their address?

A. I don't know their address. They are located on Halsted and Fullerton.

X-Q. 12. Are they wholesale jobbers?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 13. When this tobacco would be delivered to your store, it would be in a large carton, would it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. About what were the approximate dimensions or sizes of those cartons?

A. I wouldn't be able to state that. Unusually large carton.

X-Q. 15. How many packages like this package would it hold?

A. I believe two or three dozen.

X-Q. 16. You are not sure?

A. No. You see it is five months since I have been in the business and of course I have forgotten things.

X-Q. 17. You weren't in the business long enough to become acquainted with the size and contents of the cartons?

A. Perhaps at that time I was. It has slipped my mind now.

X-Q. 18. As a matter of fact, Mr. Carlson, did you ever read any of the writing or printing on that carton?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever take the trouble to read the printing on this Beech-Nut package?

A. I did after I had been told it wasn't a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 20. Yes. Well, now you were in the tobacco business. You have heard of P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. They are big well-known tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Did you buy any products from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I don't know whether we ever did buy anything direct.

X-Q. 23. You don't recall?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. On this package of scrap tobacco you see the name Lorillard, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. As a person engaged in the tobacco business that would mean that was a P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. If you take the trouble to glance at that you would know that it was Lorillard tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. And you knew from general information at least that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was in the food product business?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. Making Beech-Nut bacon and Beech-Nut chewing gum, and preserves and things of that sort?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. Wouldn't you as a tobacco man prefer to have tobacco made by well-known tobacco concerns than by a food concern?

A. I don't understand the question.

X-Q. 30. As a tobacco man, one engaged in the business, wouldn't it be your preference to use tobacco made by a tobacco concern than by a food concern?

A. Oh, certainly.

X-Q. 31. They would know more about the blends and details going with the tobacco?

A. Yes, they would.

X-Q. 32. You know of four concerns, the American Tobacco Company, the P. Lorillard Company, Liggett & Myers, and R. J. Reynolds. You have heard of those concerns?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. They are all top notchers and old concerns in the tobacco business?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. As a matter of fact when you bought this tobacco, you never made any inquiry to see who made it?

A. No.

X-Q. 35. You knew it was a good seller?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. And even after you found out that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make this, you continued to buy it and sell it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 37. And the very fact that Lorillard's name was on it would be a guarantee that it was good tobacco and you would continue to buy and sell it?

A. I presume so.

X-Q. 38. In other words, it didn't make a particular difference so far as that went whether it was somebody else so long as it was guaranteed by a good concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. You never had any person come in and say I want a package of Beech-Nut tobacco made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 40. When you were buying this tobacco you never had any tobacco jobber come in and tell you that this was made by Beech-Nut Packing Company when you bought it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 41. So when you thought it was made by Beech-Nut Packing Company that was simply a general impression on your part without making any inquiry or study or examination at all?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. You had nothing to go on in forming that opinion? That is, if you had looked at the name Lorillard you would have known it was Lorillard tobacco; is that right?

A. Yes, I understand that.

X-Q. 43. You never saw any product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company with red radiating lines like on that package, did you?

A. I don't recall any.

X-Q. 44. If you see those red lines in the window, 10 feet off, you know that is Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. I wouldn't say that.

X-Q. 45. It's a general impression. It would seem to be Beech-Nut. As a tobacco man it would not look to you like a package of Honest Scrap, would it?

A. Sure not. It is not so much, the red lines, as that "Beech-Nut,"—sort of a trade-mark in the center.

X-Q. 46. You mean that word "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes, and the formation of it.

X-Q. 47. Well, when that package is 10 feet off, or 20 feet off, in the window, the big package you have seen them, have red radiating lines, stand out like barber sign. You could tell it by the red radiating lines when you couldn't tell it by the wording?

A. Yes. That's true.

X-Q. 48. You never knew of any of these other brands to have these red radiating lines on them?

A. I don't know of any.

X-Q. 49. Did you ever take the trouble to look at a Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. No.

X-Q. 50. You don't know whether the oval on the Beech-Nut Packing Company mark is red or blue?

A. I don't know.

X-Q. 51. You don't know whether the Beech-Nut Packing Company mark has two red beech-nuts on it, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 52. Now, I will show you a mark of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, which is their label and is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 8. Those two labels don't look very much alike?

A. Not when you compare them.

X-Q. 53. It was that word Beech-Nut that attracted your attention?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 54. And the way that our tobacco products are displayed—some nailed high on the fences, some stuck in the windows, the cartons piled up, as a matter of fact, it would be the red radiating lines which would be the Beech-Nut tobacco of Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. Do you smoke yourself?

A. Yes, I smoke.

X-Q. 56. Have you seen the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have noticed a few of my friends carrying them around. Never smoked any myself.

X-Q. 57. You know it is a red package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 58. That looks like a package (Mr. Cavanagh shows witness a package of Beech-Nut cigerettes)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 59. That package has P. Lorillard on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. That means to you that that is a package of Lorillard cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 61. Now, as I understand, you never looked at the large carton of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco to see if Lorillard's name was on it?

A. I believe I said I did before. After my opinion was corrected, when the Beech-Nut representative spoke to me about it, then I examined the package.

X-Q. 62. So the minute you looked at the package you saw Lorillard's name on it and knew it was Lorillard?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 63. If you had looked at that package when it first came into the store you would have known it was Lorillard?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 64. You never took the trouble to look at it, then?

A. No.

X-Q. 65. What was this Beech-Nut man doing in your store? Was he just in there to buy some tobacco?

A. No, I believe he was in there to sell me some gum or some other candies, the candies in the package.

X-Q. 66. Do you remember buying anything from him?

A. I don't recall that.

X-Q. 67. Now, as one that's been in the tobacco business and as a person of good ordinary common sense, if you went into a store and you wanted a package of scrap tobacco or a package of cigarettes, could you be fooled or deceived into letting the dealer hand you a package of chewing gum, if you wanted cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 68. They are entirely different classes of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 69. You handled candy?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 70. And chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 71. You never tried to sell a man chewing gum when he wanted tobacco?

A. Sure not.

X-Q. 72. You don't think you could sell a man of ordinary common sense candy for tobacco?

A. Would be foolish to try to.

X-Q. 73. You never opened up a carton of the Lorillard cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 74. You did not handle those at the time?

A. They weren't distributed then.

X-Q. 75. I think that is all.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 1. You were asked on cross-examination substantially as follows: "You never even glanced at the package of tobacco?" and I understood you to say that that was true. Did you reach for it in the store with your eyes closed?

A. Well, no, not that. I wouldn't take the trouble to examine the package closely every time I sold a package.

R-D. Q. 2. Would you consider chewing gum to be a food product?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 3. Why do you think chewing gum is a food product?

A. If it is not a food, we certainly all chew it. It is something to chew or eat, anyway.

R-D. Q. 4. I now call your attention to Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 8, and Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, being a Beech-Nut bacon label, and the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco package. Do you find a blue outline oval on each of these labels?

A. I find one on the tobacco package. I see one there also.

R-D. Q. 5. Do you find the word "Beech-Nut" just underneath inside the oval, hyphenated, in blue type, on either or on both of those packages?

A. On both.

R-D. Q. 6. Do you find a beech-nut underneath the hyphenated word "Beech-Nut"?

A. I do not understand.

R-D. Q. 7. Do you find a beech-nut cluster or representation of a beech-nut underneath the word "Beech-Nut" inside the oval?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 8. Now, referring to the part outside the blue line oval on both of these labels, what are the colors?

A. Solid red on the one, and red and white on this tobacco package.

R-D. Q. 9. Do you find any white in the red band in Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 8?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 10. You have testified on cross-examination that these labels were not similar when you compared them. After having now looked at the labels again, would you say that they were more similar than they were different, or more different than they were similar? It is a very difficult thing to answer, but give me your opinion.

A. When you examine them closely, you, of course, see there is a similarity between the two.

R-D. Q. 11. Which do you find in these labels to be more conspicuous, the similarities between the two or the differences between the two?

A. The similarities.

R-D. Q. 12. That's all.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 1. Mr. Carlson, I just want you to give me your frank, honest opinion about this thing. You recognize that as the Beech-Nut Packing Company label, that wide red band and yellow leaves on the cluster?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 2. If you saw it 2 feet away or 10 feet away you would recognize that as Lorillard scrap tobacco package?

A. I would recognize it as Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

R-X Q. 3. What would make you recognize that as Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. The fact that Beech-Nut is in the center of it.

R-X Q. 4. What else at a distance?

A. The red and white colors arranged in a particular manner.

R-X Q. 5. The way the Beech-Nut tobacco is arranged?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 6. And those lines running out from that oval?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 7. That would make you recognize that package?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 8. You don't find any such thing as that on that Beech-Nut Packing Company bacon label?

A. No, I don't.

R-X Q. 9. And it strikes your eye as that same impression, does it?

A. When you consider the two that way, you can see the differences. It strikes your eye.

R-X Q. 10. It hits you like blow between the eyes, doesn't it?

A. You have seldom any cause to make the comparison that way.

R-X Q. 11. If this red Beech-Nut Packing Company oval, with the words printed on it, was on a blue package, like that tobacco, you would recognize that, too?

A. No, sir.

Question is objected to as calling for an opinion.

R-X Q. 12. You spoke of a blue oval here on the Beech-Nut Packing Company bacon label. You don't find any red lines radiating from the oval, do you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 13. Now, you spoke about you didn't examine the package closely. Isn't it a matter of fact that you never looked at the package to see name Lorillard on it? You are a tobacco man and you stated that you knew the Lorillard Company, and you stated that you never looked to see whether Lorillard was on it or not.

A. I never looked closely to see that their name was on there except after I was informed by Beech-Nut Packing Company representative that it wasn't their prodduct.

R-X Q. 14. You never looked at it to see whose name was on it?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 15. Will you take that package and see if you can find Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it?

A. No, I cannot find it.

R-X Q. 16. So, if I would come into your store when you first got this tobacco and asked you to look at the package and tell me if Lorillard or Beech-Nut tobacco, who would you have told me?

A. Lorillard.

Recross-examination closed.

Re-Re-direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-R-D. Q. 1. Mr Carlson, you have testified that you have told customers that the tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Did those customers ask you to look the package over and then tell them whose product it was?

A. No, sir. I had always been under the impression that it was a Beech-Nut product.

Re-redirect examination closed.

Re-Re-cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-R-X Q. 1. You had been under that impression without ever looking at the package to tell whose it was?

A. Yes, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

ARTHUR E. FECHTER, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Arthur E. Fechter; your residence is 521 North Clark street; you are 59 years old; and you are the proprietor of a drug store; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you ever sold this product over the counter in your store, Mr. Fechter?

A. I have.

Q. 3. How long have you sold it over the counter?

A. About two years.

Q. 4. Up to within very recently, whose product did you believe it was?

A. Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 5. Do you now believe that it is a product of the Beech-Nut Company?

A. I know it is not.

Q. 6. How did you get your information that it was not?

A. One of the salesmen told me it wasn't.

Q. 7. One of whose salesmen?

A. I don't know who they are. I don't give salesmen much attention. I am bothered with them all day long. Don't know who he was.

Q. 8. Do you remember, Mr. Fechter, whether he stated to you at the time what company he represented?

A. No.

Q. 9. Do you know now who makes this scrap tobacco?

A. I do not.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Do you sell cigarettes and other tobacco supplies?

A. I do.

X-Q. 2. Do you sell such cigarettes as the Murad?

A. I do.

X-Q. 3. The Mogul?

A. I do.

X-Q. 4. Do you sell any Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I do.

X-Q. 5. Who do you get these tobacco supplies from?

A. Sol Blum?

X-Q. 6. Do you get all your tobacco supplies from this Sol Blum?

A. All cigarettes—I do.

X-Q. 7. Do you sell chewing gum?

A. I do.

X-Q. 8. Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I do.

X-Q. 9. Who do you get that from?

A. I get that from the wholesale candy man or wholesale drug house.

X-Q. 10. You don't get it from Sol Blum?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 11. He's the tobacco man?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. Do you get the cigarettes and this Beech-Nut tobacco from Sol Blum?

A. Yes. I haven't sold enough tobacco and cigarettes to talk about.

X-Q. 13. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company tobacco people?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. You have handled some of their goods?

A. I think so.

X-Q. 15. Did you ever take the trouble to look at that package and examine it?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. Do you still continue to buy this tobacco?

A. Certainly.

X-Q. 17. You don't have any interest in who it was made by?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. You noticed Lorillard's name on package?

A. I do now.

X-Q. 19. That would indicate to you that that was Lorillard's product?

A. I presume so.

X-Q. 20. I show you a carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 9. Have you bought cigarettes like that in cartons?

A. Well, I bought Beech-Nut cigarettes. Haven't bought enough to remember. Haven't handled cigarettes only couple of weeks. Not in charge of that department.

X-Q. 21. Never paid any attention to cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. If you went into a store and wanted a tobacco product, such as this scrap tobacco, or a package of cigarettes, could you be fooled into taking chewing gum in place of scrap tobacco or cigarettes?

A. No. I shouldn't think so.

X-Q. 23. Entirely different class of goods?

A. I wouldn't take gum for tobacco or cigarettes.

X-Q. 24. And if a man wanted to buy some cigarettes and asked you for cigarettes or scrap tobacco, you wouldn't hand him gum?

A. What kind of a darn fool question is that? You don't take me for a damn fool, do you? I won't listen to that stuff.

(Witness got up and walked out of room and left office. Said he wouldn't listen to such "Damn fool stuff.")

Mr. Hinton: If Mr. Cavanagh desires to continue the cross-examination, an immediate subpœna will be served upon the witness, who was voluntarily attending, and he will be produced for further examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is not necessary.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

CHARLES O. LARSON, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Charles O. Larson; 11419 Prairie Ave., Chicago; grocer; 33.

Q. 2. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, and a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Will you please tell me when you first saw either or both of these products?

A. The tobacco I saw several years ago and the cigarettes I have just seen here just last month or so.

Q. 3. Taking the cigarettes up first, when you saw these cigarettes, by whom did you believe they were made?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company that puts out food products.

Q. 4. Did a Beech-Nut salesman subsequently call upon you?

A. After I saw the cigarettes, he called.

Q. 5. And you remember whether you said anything to him about them?

A. As near as I can recollect, I said "Hello, Beech-Nut." That is the name we generally call them by. Heard his name and seen his name several times on orders but recall him more as "Beech-Nut." "You are the very man we are looking for. Since when has Beech-Nut Packing Company been putting out cigarettes? If so, I am off of you for life."

Q. 6. Would you recognize the man's name if I spoke it?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. Is it Southern?

A. That's it. I recollect that by his Southern brogue he has.

Q. 8. When you made this remark to the Beech-Nut Packing Company salesman, were you joking?

A. No, sir. I am very much opposed to cigarettes.

Q. 9. Would you as a matter of fact stop handling Beech-Nut products if the Beech-Nut Packing Company were in fact getting out cigarettes?

A. If I thought they were.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is objected to as immaterial.

Q. 10. Now about the scrap tobacco, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, whose product did you think this was?

A. I never gave that much thought. Had seen it and never thought much of it, until I saw the Beech-Nut cigarettes and then it dawned on me very forcibly.

Q. 11. Whose product did you think it was?

A. Naturally the same as the other.

Q. 12. Product of whom?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Do you sell the Beech-Nut Packing Company line of products?

A. Some of them.

X-Q. 2. Do you sell chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 3. Do you sell some of their food products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 4. Do you sell tobacco?

A. No, sir. None whatever.

X-Q. 5. Neither cigarettes or chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 6. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. No, sir. I wouldn't be caught with one in my mouth.

X-Q. 7. Do you chew tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 8. Do you use tobacco in any form?

A. Smoke cigars.

X-Q. 9. You are opposed to cigarettes and chewing tobacco?

A. I cannot stand smell of cigarettes.

X-Q. 10. You don't like chewing tobacco?

A. I am not directly opposed to that as I am cigarettes, although I never have tasted it.

X-Q. 11. Did you ever buy a package of those Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 12. Did you ever buy a package of that Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir. Have no use for it.

X-Q. 13. Did you ever take the trouble to look at a package?

A. Have looked at it tonight. Never took trouble to closely examine it.

X-Q. 14. You never prior to tonight took trouble to read printing on the package?

A. No, sir. I am not interested.

X-Q. 15. I suppose the same applies to the cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 17. You don't deal with any or buy any goods from any tobacco jobbers at all?

A. Wholesale jobbers and grocers, they handle tobacco.

X-Q. 18. You don't buy any tobaccos yourself?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. You have no interest in either the scrap tobacco or the cigarettes?

A. None whatever.

X-Q. 20. The only reason that you felt that you wouldn't buy any more Beech-Nut Packing Company products was because you thought they might put out cigarettes and you were opposed to cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store, and wanted to buy Beech-Nut Packing Company food product or Beech-Nut gum, could you be fooled into taking either that Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or the cigarettes in the place of the food product or gum?

A. I hope not.

X-Q. 22. Likewise if a customer came into your store and asked for Beech-Nut gum or food product, would you try to hand him that Beech-Nut tobacco or cigarettes?

A. Not unless I was drunk.

X-Q. 23. You consider them entirely different classes of goods?

A. Absolutely.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

JOHN SABELIS, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is John Sabelis; your age is 29; your residence is 11524 Eggleston Ave., Chicago; your occupation is clerk. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. What were you doing between the months of July, 1919, and the summer of 1921?

A. Working for the Harvester Company.

Q. 3. The International Harvester Company?

A. Yes, sir. West Pullman works.

Q. 4. What kind of work?

A. Efficiency department.

Q. 5. Did you ever work in the commissary department?

A. Yes, sir. Department took charge of that.

Q. 6. What did you sell in the commissary department?

A. Tobacco, candies, gum, later on we took on overalls and shoes.

Q. 7. Did you sell chewing tobaccos?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. What brands did you sell of scrap chewing tobaccos?

A. Beech-Nut, Mail Pouch, Scrap.

Q. 9. You have mentioned the Beech-Nut scrap chewing tobacco. Was that this tobacco that I now show you, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3? Is this the same as that you sold?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Did you yourself pass out this tobacco to the customers who bought it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. I mean did you sell it over the counter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 12. Mr. Sabelis, during this period of approximately two years, who did you think made this chewing tobacco?

A. I thought that the Beech-Nut Peanut Butter Company and Beech-Nut chewing gum made it. I thought that came from the same company.

Q. 13. How many packages a day of this chewing tobacco do you suppose you personally handed out over the counter? Of course I want an average.

A. About fifty packages of Beech-Nut chewing tobacco.

Q. 14. Do you know who makes this chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir. I don't.

Q. 15. Did you ever notice the name of the manufacturer anywhere on the package?

A. No, sir.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Did you ever look for the name of the manufacturer on it?

A. No, sir. I don't chew myself and I am not interested.

X-Q. 2. So you weren't interested in what appeared on the package?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 3. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers?

A. I believe I have.

X-Q. 4. Will you look at that package? You see the name "Lorillard" on it, do you not?

A. Yes, sir. I do.

X-Q. 5. These packages of tobacco—when you were selling them over the counter—you took them out of a large carton, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 6. And that carton contained, we will say generally speaking, several dozen of these packages, that carton also had a large number of red radiating lines like on this package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 7. You never took the trouble to notice any of printing on that package, whether it had name "Lorillard" on it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 8. You weren't at all interested in what was on it or who made the tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 9. I understood you to say that you also sold chewing gum and candy and different things like that?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 10. This commissary department is a sort of general store—I mean what we would liken to a general store?

A. For employees only.

X-Q. 11. They sold everything from clothing to tobacco and different articles?

A. Not clothing. Overalls and work shoes.

X-Q. 12. You sold those?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 13. You never had a man or a customer come up to you and ask you for some chewing gum and you handed him over a package of this chewing tobacco?

A. I have.

X-Q. 14. You have sold a man chewing tobacco when he said he wanted gum?

A. I have had a man ask me for a package of Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 15. And without designating whether he wanted gum or tobacco. But when a man said I want a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, you wouldn't hand him a package of tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 16. You wouldn't do so?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. In other words, you know the difference between tobacco and chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. You would think that if customer was of ordinary intelligence, he would know the difference?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 19. You, yourself, if you went into a store and you wanted chewing gum, you couldn't be fooled into taking a package of this tobacco for gum?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. You would think the man crazy to try to sell it?

A. I sure would.

X-Q. 21. All that's because they are entirely different classes of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

DARRELL S. BOYD, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories, propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Darrell S. Boyd, your age is 31; your residence is Winnetka, Illinois; your occupation is lawyer; your office is in the Corn Exchange Bank Building, corner of LaSalle and Adams; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever purchased a package of these cigarettes?

A. Yes, I have purchased a number.

Q. 3. When, and where, did you purchase them, do you remember?

A. All the purchases I have made have been at the cigar stand in the lobby of the Corn Exchange Bank Building, corner Adams and LaSalle. Purchases have ranged every three or four days for the last month.

Q. 4. Do you know who runs that cigar stand?

A. It's run by one of those chain tobacco stores. I am not sure—either Breitung or Shelby. I think it is Breitung.

Q. 5. Did you make these purchases from a clerk whom you had previously seen there?

A. You refer to any one purchase? I ordinarily purchase them from same clerk, who is behind stand practically every day, and at most times of the day except at lunch hour, when he is relieved.

Q. 6. Did you have any conversation with the clerk when you were making your purchase?

A. I made a purchase of a package of cigarettes about three weeks ago—just as I was coming back from lunch. I had noticed these advertisements and I don't know but what I had some conversation with you on the train or somewhere before that. I was curious to know what he would say about the maker of the product, so when I purchased the package of cigarettes I asked him if the cigarettes were made by the same company who marketed the Beech-Nut bacon and the other well known Beech-Nut products. He said that it was—that they were the product of the same company that got out Beech-Nut bacon and Beech-Nut candies and Beech-Nut gum and various other Beech-Nut products. I then called his attention—I picked up the package and called his attention to the name P. Lorillard underneath. I said, "If that's the case what do you make of this? What does P. Lorillard on the label mean?" And he said, "Oh, they are all made by the same company." I said, "The P. Lorillard Company is not the company that gets out Beech-Nut bacon." He said, "No. But they are all the same concern. The Beech-Nut bacon company owns or controls the P. Lorillard Company. It's all the same crowd."

Q. 7. Have you had any other conversation with any other clerk selling Beech-Nut cigarettes, or made any other purchases of Beech-Nut cigarettes besides the one you have just described?

A. No. I have never made any purchases of Beech-Nut cigarettes except at this counter.

Q. 8. Have you made any inquiries about Beech-Nut cigarettes from any other tobacco clerks?

A. Not from any other tobacco clerks.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. What did you say your occupation was?

A. Lawyer.

X-Q. 2. Where are your offices located?

A. Corn Exchange Bank Building.

X-Q. 3. Are you in any way connected with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 4. How did you happen to start this conversation with this clerk; what led you to do that?

A. I think the reason I started it was because I knew the controversy was on. I think I had some casual conversations with Mr. Hinton.

X-Q. 5. Do you live near Mr. Hinton?

A. Live in the same town.

X-Q. 6. That's out at Winnetka?

A. Yes. Winnetka.

X-Q. 7. When you went into this store, you knew that the cigarettes were the product of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. I knew they were.

X-Q. 8. So you weren't yourself laboring under any misapprehension on that point?

A. No.

X-Q. 9. You started this conversation?

A. I started the conversation.

X-Q. 10. How large a store is this?

A. Just a counter in the lobby. Say about 10 feet long, possibly.

X-Q. 11. And you know this clerk's name?

A. I don't know his name, no.

X-Q. 12. How old a chap is he?

A. I should say a man about 50 years old. Gray-haired gentleman. Behind the counter to my recollection for three or four years.

X-Q. 13. Just a clerk at the place?

A. I assume he is.

X-Q. 14. What do they sell at that counter besides tobacco?

A. They sell gum and candy, and have some apples, I believe, on display.

X-Q. 15. One of these little stands like you usually see in office buildings?

A. Yes. A cigar stand.

X-Q. 16. Little retail stand?

A. Little retail stand.

X-Q. 17. You say you don't know the name of the concern that runs that stand?

A. I am not sure whether it's Schulte or Breitung. If you look in the telephone book you will find it.

X-Q. 18. You have stated that you are a lawyer. This clerk didn't show you any documentary evidence, or what you might call authentic data in support of his statement, did he?

A. No. Just sort of gossip across the counter. If I may explain my motives there a little more fully. I was not collecting evidence from this clerk with any thought of testifying, but I was curious to know how far these venders of tobacco were fooled on the proposition that it was marketed by the Beech-Nut bacon crowd. I had been rather curious when I first saw the advertisements. I knew some ordinary purchasers were fooled. I was rather curious to see how far that went.

X-Q. 19. In your instance here it appears to have been a question on the part of this clerk as to the ownership of the companies, as to who controlled the companies?

A. No. It was a pure question of whose product this was.

X-Q. 20. I understand you showed him the name P. Lorillard on that?

A. That was after I had asked him whose product it was.

X-Q. 21. Then you showed him the name P. Lorillard on the package?

A. After I had asked him whose product it was?

X-Q. 22. Yes.

A. He told me it was a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 23. I understand that.

A. Marketed by same crowd that got out bacon and gum. Then I showed him the label and was curious to know how he would get around that, and he maintained his stand even then, and waved me aside with the proposition that it was all controlled by the same interests. I had no incentive to pursue argument any further.

X-Q. 24. Then you didn't ask him if he knew of the P. Lorillard Company, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. Nor the size of that concern?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Or call his attention to the length of time the Lorillard Company had been in existence?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. 160 years?

A. I didn't know that.

X-Q. 28. I show you the package of cigarettes. Will you read the last two lines on that panel?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. What does it say?

A. "P. Lorillard Company. Established 1760." First time I ever noticed that.

X-Q. 30. So you didn't go into any of these questions at all?

A. No. I wasn't interested in the case. I was just interested in his personal reaction.

X-Q. 31. You wouldn't consider tobacco or cigarettes to be the same class of goods as food products, so that you would take one for the other—tobacco instead of bacon for Sunday morning breakfast?

A. Hardly.

X-Q. 32. Because they are different kinds of goods?

A. No. Because I don't like cigarettes for breakfast.

X-Q. 33. They are different kinds of goods?

A. I don't think tobacco is food.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 1. What is the address of the Corn Exchange Bank Building?

A. 134 South LaSalle street.

R-D. Q. 2. What is 136 South LaSalle street?

A. That must be the entrance of the bank. The bank entrance proper is one door to the south. Both enter into the same lobby.

R-D. Q. 3. In the Chicago telephone book I notice a list of seventeen Breitung stores, including one at 136 South LaSalle street. Is the Albert Breitung whose name here appears the chain cigar store man whom you referred to?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That's all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That's all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

M. W. RYAN, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence, and occupation?

A. M. W. Ryan; 31 years; 504 Douglas avenue, Elgin, Illinois; employed by the National Vending Service Company, looking after the stock.

Q. 2. You are here in response to subpœna, are you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. To whom do you supply stocks?

A. Stands operated by National Vending Service Company on the elevated roads.

Q. 4. How many of these stands are there?

A. I will say there are about sixty-two. We add and subtract.

Q. 5. Do you stock these stands with Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, a package of which I now show you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. In stocking these dealers with this tobacco, can you tell me what your experience has been?

A. They have asked if it is a product taken care of and manufactured by same company that makes gum and candy.

Q. 7. Could you give me an idea of how often that has happened in any way?

A. It has happened many times.

Q. 8. And what have you told them?

A. I have had to tell them that the product was not made by the same company that made the gum.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Do you know the P. Lorillard Company puts out that tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. Do you do any of the buying for your concern?

A. I look after that.

X-Q. 3. And you buy that tobacco from Lorillard agency, do you not?

A. Well, through their local office.

X-Q. 4. From P. Lorillard?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 5. You know it is the Lorillard Company's product?

A. Surely.

X-Q. 6. This concern that you work for, just what is its line of business?

A. They vend newspapers and magazines on the elevated roads. Not all, but a part of them.

X-Q. 7. Newspapers, magazines, candies and tobacco, cigarettes, chewing tobacco, and things of that sort? Now, these stands that have asked you if this scrap tobacco was made by the same company that made Beech-Nut gum and food products, you don't know whether they ever took the trouble to look at package and see Lorillard's name on it, as far as you know?

A. I cannot say as to that.

X-Q. 8. As far as you know, you don't know whether they ever took trouble to look on package and see who made it?

A. No.

X-Q. 9. You still continued to deliver this tobacco to these stands?

A. Whenever they wanted it.

X-Q. 10. People who have asked the question as to whether it was made by the people who make Beech-Nut gum and food products, they still continue to take that tobacco, even after you tell that it is Lorillard's?

A. I don't know if they are the same people or not. We send it every time they want it.

X-Q. 11. You have steady demand?

A. Well, right along.

X-Q. 12. How long have you been delivering that tobacco to the stands, approximately?

A. I haven't been with them very long. I can't say as to how long it was.

X-Q. 13. How long have you personally?

A. Two years, January.

X-Q. 14. All that time you have been delivering this tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 15. You also deliver gums and candies?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. If a customer of one of these stands ordered some Beech-Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut candy, you wouldn't deliver this Beech-Nut tobacco in place of candy or gum—you wouldn't confuse the two?

A. They specify Beech-Nut gum or Beech-Nut tobacco.

X-Q. 17. If they wanted Beech-Nut gum you wouldn't give them tobacco?

A. Not unless they made a mistake in store in sending it in.

X-Q. 18. You yourself know the difference between chewing gum and tobacco?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 20. Absolutely different kinds of goods?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: That's all.

Deposition closed.

EUGENE C. SULLIVAN, a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Eugene C. Sullivan; 7632 North Marshfield; 31; advertising salesman.

Q. 2. By whom are you employed?

A. Chicago Elevated Advertising Company.

Q. 3. You are here in response to a subpœna, are you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you ever seen a similar package of scrap tobacco or an advertising display thereof?

A. I have never seen a package of tobacco until today. I have, however, seen a window cut-out reproducing the package, a little larger than the actual size, if I recall.

Q. 5. How big was the window cut-out, do you suppose?

A. I should imagine in length—it was made up of three panels. The right and left panels were probably, to my recollection, a foot wide, the center one about two and one-half feet wide. It was two and a half feet high or three feet high.

Q. 6. Now, when you saw that cut-out, whose product did you think was being advertised?

A. I happened to be going along East Illinois street, near the Pugh warehouse. I saw, in a rather dilapidated water front saloon, an equally dilapidated cut-out. In my recollection it was red and white. It was new to me, and being an advertising man and observant of all new products, it caught my attention, at least the name "Beech-Nut" did. I was first impressed that probably it was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but on closer inspection, due to the cheapness of the cut-out itself, I was immediately impressed that it couldn't be a printing job or a lithographing job, such as quality maintained by Beech-Nut Packing Company, so I immediately assumed that it was not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. I call your attention to the word "Lorillard's," which appears on the top of this package. When did you first see that name "Lorillard's"?

A. Today, when you called my attention to it.

Q. 8. That's all.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Did you ever buy any of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 2. Prior to today you never had a package in your hand to look at it?

A. No.

X-Q. 3. Did you read the printing matter on that lithograph sign you spoke of?

A. The chances are I did. At this late day I couldn't recall if I did or not.

X-Q. 4. Did you see Lorillard's name on it?

A. No.

X-Q. 5. You couldn't say whether or not Lorillard's name was on that?

A. No.

X-Q. 6. How close were you to the sign when you saw it?

A. It was in a window, must have been about 3 feet away.

X-Q. 7. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 8. How long have you been in the advertising business?

A. About fifteen years, off and on.

X-Q. 9. Do you solicit orders for advertising?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. And you never heard of P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir. I believe they are Eastern manufacturers, so I naturally wouldn't be interested.

X-Q. 11. Do you do any tobacco advertising?

A. I personally?

X-Q. 12. Do you solicit orders for any tobacco advertising?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 13. Have you ever handled any tobacco advertising accounts?

A. No, sir. I am working on one now. Near as I ever got to it.

X-Q. 14. Have you ever heard of the American Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 15. Liggett & Myres?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 17. Yet you never heard of the oldest of them, P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever hear of Climax tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever hear of "Between the Acts"?

459

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 20. Murad cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. Mogul cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. Sensation tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. Union Leader?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. Muriel cigars?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. You have heard of Egyptian Deities?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. You have heard of this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Only on these two occasions.

X-Q. 27. Now as an advertising man, wouldn't you say that a firm that manufactured and marketed those tobacco brands I have just mentioned to you ought to be a pretty big and pretty well-known firm?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. And you would expect an advertising man to know of them?

A. Not necessarily.

X-Q. 29. You knew the other three tobacco concerns I have mentioned?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. Knew those the minute I mentioned them, quite well?

A. No, not quite well. You couldn't tack me down to where I have seen those. I don't even know who makes Camel cigarettes and I smoke them all the time.

X-Q. 31. What accounts in the advertising do you work particularly for?

A. We don't specify on anything. I have, however, been fortunate in handling bank accounts and amusement places.

X-Q. 32. Programs?

A. No. Elevated advertising.

X-Q. 33. Theatrical programs?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. Ball rooms?

A. Those have been what I specialize in and exploitation of moving picture features.

X-Q. 35. So you have never paid any attention at all to the tobacco advertising, have you?

A. No, sir, for the simple reason that I assumed and accepted that the main office of most of them was in New York. My territory is Chicago.

X-Q. 36. You never made any study of this industry as connected with advertising to find out its possibilities and its probabilities?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 37. You never made any attempt to get any of those advertising accounts for your territory?

A. No, sir. It is not our policy to cover the eastern territory. It is already covered by eastern office.

X-Q. 38. You mean to say that your eastern office would handle advertising of tobacco products in Chicago?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 39. You wouldn't pay any attention to that at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 40. You say that this sign that you saw in the window had a three panel advertisement. What appeared on that beside the word "Beech-Nut"? Could you describe that sign in general?

A. Only what I gave you. The only thing I recall now is that it was red and white.

X-Q. 41. Don't know whether it had a blue girl on it or not?

A. No, sir. I don't recall what the side panels had at all. The only thing I recall is what the center panel had.

X-Q. 42. You don't know whether the red and white represented a package?

A. Yes. I recall that.

X-Q. 43. Was the package held by girl?

A. I couldn't recall that. I don't know details of sign.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

Stipulation.

It is stipulated by and between the parties through their respective counsel that if the parties whose names are appended hereto were called to testify in this case they would each testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

I am of legal age, a grocer, doing business at the address given in the appended list. I do not handle tobacco products. I have never stocked and sold Beech-Nut scrap tobacco (Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3). I was recently shown a package of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco by a person whose name and business connection I did not then know, but whom I now know to be a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and asked whose product it was. I immediately, without looking to see whose product it was, took it to be a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company by reason of the name Beech-Nut and the label appearing thereon.

I was subsequently informed that this product was not a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Cross-Examination.

I have never bought or sold goods like the scrap tobacco package or the cigarette package referred to and having no interest therein never looked at the package to see whose product it was, and never read the wording thereon and therefore never saw the name Lorillard on them. I never bought, sold, or saw a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company packaged or put up like Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, Scrap Tobacco. I have never been offered any Beech-Nut tobacco product by any Beech-Nut salesman, nor have I ever been advised by Beech-Nut tobacco salesmen that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was making tobacco products of any kind. I would never confuse either scrap tobacco or cigarettes with chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product nor would I accept one of these products in the place of the other, as I regard these as entirely different classes or kinds of goods, and I would think that anyone who would accept a package of scrap tobacco or a package of cigarettes in the place and stead of chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product would be crazy.

Stipulation.

It is stipulated by and between the parties through their respective counsel that if the persons whose names and addresses are appended hereto were called to testify in this case, they would each testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

I am of legal age, a grocer, doing business at the address given in the appended list. I do not handle tobacco of any kind and have never sold tobacco. My store is a grocery store in a residence neighborhood. I have never stocked and sold Beech-Nut scrap tobacco (Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3).

I have, however, seen the packages of scrap tobacco, identical with the aforesaid exhibit, displayed in stores and have seen poster advertising thereof for several years. I always believed that the scrap tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until I was advised to the contrary by a Beech-Nut Packing Company representative.

I have within the past several weeks seen on display packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes corresponding to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1 and have seen a great deal of poster advertising of these Beech-Nut cigarettes. I believed that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until I was advised to the contrary by a Beech-Nut Packing Company representative.

My reason for the aforesaid belief with respect to both the scrap tobacco and cigarettes is the name "Beech-Nut" and label on the scrap tobacco and the cigarettes.

Cross-Examination.

I have never bought or sold goods like the scrap tobacco package or the cigarette package referred to and having no interest therein never looked at the packages to see whose products they were and never read over the wording on the advertisements, and therefore never saw the name Lorillard's or P. Lorillard Co. on them. I never bought, sold, or saw a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, packaged or put up like Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, Scrap Tobacco, or Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Cigarettes. I have never been offered any Beech-Nut tobacco product by any Beech-Nut salesman, nor have I ever been advised by Beech-Nut tobacco salesmen that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was making tobacco products of any kind. I would never confuse either scrap tobacco or cigarettes with chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product nor would I accept one of these products in the place of the other, as I regard these as entirely different classes or kinds of goods and I would think that anyone who would accept a package of this scrap tobacco or a package of these cigarettes in the place and stead of chewing gum or any Beech-Nut food product would be crazy.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company, Defendant.
} Equity No. 3056.

Depositions on behalf of plaintiff, taken pursuant to notice and agreement of counsel, before Alice M. Rankin, a Notary Public in and for Cook County, State of Illinois, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, beginning on Monday, October 30, 1921, at 2 o'clock P. M., at Chicago, Cook County, Illinois.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, Esquire, representing the plaintiff; R. B. Cavanagh, Esquire, representing the defendant.

Whereupon the following proceedings were had:

WILLIAM I. THOMAS, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is William I. Thomas; I live at 5431 Kimbark; 54 years old; grocery business.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business located?

A. 931 East 47th.

Q. 3. Do you chew tobacco, Mr. Thomas?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long have you chewed tobacco?

A. About twenty—thirty years.

Q. 5. I show you a package of scrap tobacco, being a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 in this case. Have you ever chewed this brand of tobacco, and if so, for how long?

A. Tobacco?

Q. 6. Yes.

A. I have chewed that off and on for the last five years.

Q. 7. Prior to the spring of 1921 whose product did you think this was?

A. I supposed it was the Beech-Nut people that put out stuff such as bacon and chili sauce and all that class of stuff.

Q. 8. During the time that you have chewed this tobacco have you carried it around with you in your pockets, and taken it out when you wanted a chew?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Do you now think that this tobacco is put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Do I now?

Q. 10. Yes.

A. No. Not since I have been made wise to it last spring.

Q. 11. And do you know who put you wise to it last spring?

A. Some young fellow; I don't know who he was; come into the store there one day and he said he represented the Beech-Nut people, and I told him that we handled the Beech-Nut people's goods. He says, "Do you handle Beech-Nut chewing tobacco?" I says, "No, but I use it." He says, "Do you use it?" I says, "Yes, I have been using it over"—I told him then, I believe, about four years. "Do you think we put this out?" he says. I says, "Yes. Don't you?" He says, "No, it is not our goods."

Q. 12. Have you previously seen these cigarettes which

I now show you, being Beech-Nut cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. Well, I have seen that since I have had this conversation with that young man. Then I took it for granted it was that same tobacco concern that was using the Beech-Nut brand.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 13. Mr. Thomas, when was the last time you bought this Beech-Nut tobacco like Exhibit 3?

A. About three weeks ago, I think. I have got a big part of it in the drawer there yet.

X-Q. 14. But you have been buying it since you found out it was made by Lorillard Company?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 15. It is good tobacco?

A. Yes, I like it.

X-Q. 16. You like it, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 18. They are large tobacco manufacturers, are they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Put out a nice class of goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. You notice the name Lorillard on this package, do you not?

A. I do on this one. I have never noticed it before.

X-Q. 21. Never took a good look at it, did you, now?

A. No. All I was looking for was tobacco.

X-Q. 22. If you had noticed the name "Lorillard's," you would have connected it with the tobacco?

A. Why, evidently, yes.

X-Q. 23. Do you sell tobacco in your store?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. You sell food products?

A. We had a store down at 55th street where we sold tobacco and sold Beech-Nut. I never noticed, though; my son run the place, for I was working out, but I never noticed the maker's name.

X-Q. 25. You bought your goods from a jobber, did you?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 26. Or did you buy it direct from the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No; I bought from an agent here in Chicago.

X-Q. 27. Did you buy it in a large carton?

A. In cartons, yes.

X-Q. 28. You didn't notice whether the name "Lorillard" was on the carton or not?

A. I never noticed; no, sir.

X-Q. 29. If you had seen that name you would have known it was the tobacco company, would you not?

A. I think I would; yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. You handle Beech-Nut Packing Company products in your store where you work now, do you not?

A. Yes. We handle a few candies, and, oh, several items there; we handle Beech-Nut peanut butter.

X-Q. 31. Different Beech-Nut items?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. Do you do any buying for this store?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 33. If you went into a store and wanted a package of scrap tobacco to chew, would you be deceived or fooled into taking chewing gum for scrap tobacco, if you wanted scrap tobacco?

A. Oh, no.

X-Q. 34. You would consider it an entirely different class of goods, would you not?

A. Why, yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

A. V. BOBB, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. 5536 Kimbark; 26; butcher.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business, Mr. Bobb?

A. 1362 East 47th.

Q. 3. Do you run the meat market?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. At your place of business?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. Do you chew tobacco, Mr. Bobb?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. What brand have you chewed for the last four or five years, do you remember?

A. Why, Beech-Nut was one of them, and Golden Twins, Climax.

Q. 7. Is the Beech-Nut that you refer to the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco which I now show you, and which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3; is that the Beech-Nut scrap?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. How often, do you suppose, in the last five years you have purchased this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco; I mean, how many times a week?

A. Now, I would not say whether it is four years or not—five years, but it is pretty close to it; about four years that I can remember; the year before I went into the army; around four years.

Q. 9. I want an idea of how frequently you would purchase this tobacco?

A. About once a week, maybe twice a week.

Q. 10. And by whom did you believe that this product was put out?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, New York.

Q. 11. And how long did you continue to believe that?

A. Up until about—well, three months ago.

Q. 12. And how did you find out that that was not true?

A. By one of the salesmen, one of the Beech-Nut salesmen; he come into the store and I asked him about it; I asked him who puts up the Beech-Nut cigarettes, and he told me Lorillard's. I said, "I thought you was putting it out," and he said, no he didn't.

Q. 13. I show you a package of cigarettes, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, Beech-Nut Cigarettes. Have you seen these cigarettes before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. When, and how was your attention first directed to these cigarettes, do you remember?

A. Why, yes, I was out at Jones' pharmacy, 63rd street, and standing at the counter there, and I says, "Beech-Nut cigarettes," and he says, "Yes, I got some Beech-Nut cigarettes here, put out by the Beech-Nut Company." I says, "It isn't the same one that makes bacon?" He says, "Yes."

Q. 15. And did he mention any other product that was made by these same people?

A. Why, chewing tobacco; that was what I was after when I was in there.

Q. 16. Do I understand he told you the chewing tobacco was made by the same people?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 17. What made you think that this scrap tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. It had the two beech-nuts on there, the same as the bacon, and it was in an oval shape, the same as the bacon does, and red letters and blue letters, just exactly the same as it is on the bacon. I never thought of looking at what was on the package.

Q. 18. When did you first see the name of the manufacturer on this package, do you remember?

A. About three months ago, when I had a package and looked at it, and it said "Lorillard's" across the top.

Q. 19. On the back of the scrap?

A. Yes.

Q. 20. This was after you were advised?

A. After I was told it was not a Beech-Nut product. That is the reason I have been chewing it all the time, because I know the Beech-Nut bacon is good, and that the tobacco ought to be the same, and I liked the taste of it very much, being in the business I am in.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 21. Are you still buying and chewing this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco of Lorillard's?

A. Yes, I bought a package yesterday.

X-Q. 22. So you have been buying it steadily since you found out it was Lorillard's?

A. Yes, I have been using it all the time.

X-Q. 23. You have heard of the P. Lorillard Company, have you not?

A. Yes, I have heard of them; yes.

X-Q. 24. You know they are large tobacco manufacturers?

A. I know they are tobacco manufacturers. That is all I know about them

X-Q. 25. And this is a good tobacco, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. And it does not make any difference to you whether it is made by the Lorillard Company or the Beech-Nut Packing Company, so far as your use of it is concerned?

A. Yes; I like the taste of it.

X-Q. 27. That is the reason you continue to use it?

A. That is the reason I use it.

X-Q. 28. Do you ever use their cigarettes?

A. Never smoke cigarettes.

X-Q. 29. I understand you have been chewing this tobacco for five years?

A. About four years; I would not say five.

X-Q. 30. About four years?

A. About four years.

X-Q. 31. And you had never taken the trouble to look to see whose name was on there?

A. Never looked at the name; just stuck it in my pocket and when I wanted a chew just took a handful out.

X-Q. 32. You spoke of this label being something like the bacon label.

A. Like they have on the bacon; yes.

X-Q. 33. Have you got one of those bacon labels?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Could you get one a minute, please?

A. Sure.

(Witness produces label.)

Mr. Cavanagh: Mark this for identification as "Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 8."

(The paper was so marked.)

X-Q. 35. Now, this oval on the bacon label which you have produced is in the nature of a wide red band, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. That is a blue band around the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 37. And that red label has printing on it, "Beech-Nut Brand," and the word "Bacon," has it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. And there is no printing on that blue band of the oval of the Beech-Nut tobacco, is there?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. And the Beech-Nut has a single beech-nut on green leaves, has it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. And you have two red beech-nuts on the scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 41. And this scrap tobacco has large, prominent red radiating lines running from the oval, has it not, on the face of it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. So the two labels are not alike, are they?

A. Well, they are shaped alike.

X-Q. 43. That is, their ovals?

A. Their ovals, yes.

X-Q. 44. Now, if you went into a store and you wanted some scrap tobacco, being as you chew, and a man handed you a package of chewing gum for scrap tobacco, could you be fooled into taking that chewing gum in the place of scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. You would think a man was crazy that would, wouldn't you?

A. I would think so.

X-Q. 46. That is because they are an entirely different class of goods, is it not?

A. Absolutely.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

JAMES F. BALLARD, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Mr. Ballard, please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. James F. Ballard; 5213 Harper avenue; retail meat business.

Q. 2. Age?

A. Twenty-eight.

Q. 3. Where is your place of business?

A. 1516 East 53rd.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes, being a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in evidence in this case, as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen those cigarettes before?

A. No, I never have.

Q. 5. I am not referring to this particular package, but to another package like that.

A. Oh, yes, another package like that; certainly.

Q. 6. When did you first hear about these cigarettes?

A. From A. L. Christensen.

Q. 7. What did he say?

A. Told me the Beech-Nut Company was putting out a product in tobacco and cigarettes.

Q. 8. Who is Mr. Christensen?

A. He is a man in my employ.

Q. 9. Did you subsequently obtain and smoke any of these cigarettes?

A. I did.

Q. 10. What made you want to get some of those cigarettes?

A. Just because I handled some of the Beech-Nut goods, more than anything.

Q. 11. What did you expect the cigarettes would be?

A. I thought they would be an extra fine quality.

Q. 12. Was your expectation satisfied when you obtained and smoked those cigarettes?

A. I did not think they were. Of course, I am not a cigarette smoker. See?

Q. 13. From the time that Mr. Christensen spoke to you about the cigarettes, how long did you believe that they were a Beech-Nut product?

A. All the time.

Q. 14. Until when?

A. Until I was convinced they was not.

Q. 15. Who convinced you?

A. A representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I would have still firmly believed so.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 16. Do you chew, Mr. Ballard?

A. No, I do not, sir.

X-Q. 17. Do you smoke?

A. Not cigarettes.

X-Q. 18. You do not smoke cigarettes?

A. Nothing but cigars.

X-Q. 19. So it is very seldom you smoke cigarettes?

A. Very seldom. I think that was my first cigarettes.

X-Q. 20. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, I have heard of it.

X-Q. 21. They are a large tobacco company, are they not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. If you had seen that name, P. Lorillard Company, on that package of cigarettes, you would have thought it was one of their products?

A. Not necessarily.

X-Q. 23. Wouldn't that connect them in your mind?

A. Not necessarily.

X-Q. 24. Who would you have thought made it?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 25. Is Beech-Nut Packing Company anywhere on that package?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. You do find it on all of their other products?

A. This packing company? There is no name on the Beech-Nut Packing Company products; no.

X-Q. 27. I mean there is a name—for instance, to be specific, I show you a label in this case, known as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 8, of the Beech-Nut brand of bacon; do you not find the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, New York," on it?

A. Yes, sir, exactly.

X-Q. 28. That label is on all their goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. With that name Beech-Nut Packing Company on there?

A. Exactly.

X-Q. 30. You do not find the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company" on this package of cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 31. But you do find the name "P. Lorillard Company"?

A. Exactly.

X-Q. 32. And you know the P. Lorillard Company are tobacco people?

A. Yes, I know of them.

X-Q. 33. You have heard of them?

A. I have heard of them.

X-Q. 34. If you went into a store and you wanted a food product or chewing gum, could you be fooled into taking a package of cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. Could I be fooled into taking the package?

X-Q. 35. Yes.

A. No. But I could if I wanted cigarettes, not if I wanted chewing gum.

X-Q. 36. Perhaps you do not understand. Supposing you wanted cigarettes.

A. That is the idea.

X-Q. 37. Could you be fooled into taking gum for the cigarettes?

A. Could I be fooled into taking gum for cigarettes? No.

X-Q. 38. That is because they are an entirely different class of goods?

A. Yes; sure; exactly.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

ALEX B. CHRISTENSEN, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Alex B. Christensen; butcher; 1623 East 55th Street, that is my residence. I am fifty-four years old.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business, Mr. Christensen?

A. Well, right here, 1516 East 53rd.

Q. 3. By whom are you employed.

A. James Ballard.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen similar packages of cigarettes before?

A. Similar packages?

Q. 5. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. When did you first see these cigarettes?

A. When did I first see the cigarettes, close, do you mean—had it in my hand?

Q. 7. Well, no; I mean, when did you first see them?

A. First time I seen them, in the United Cigars Company.

Q. 8. When was the first time you bought them?

A. In the store here.

Q. 9. Now, when you saw them in the United Cigars Stores, did you have any conversation with the clerk about them?

A. I did, sir.

Q. 10. Do you remember what he told you?

A. Well, I asked him, I says, "Beech-Nut put out cigarettes?" He says, "Yes." He says, "They are also putting out scrap tobacco," and he says, "When the people ask me for a package of Beech-Nut, I don't know whether to give them gum, cigarettes or tobacco."

Q. 11. Did you believe that this was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I certainly did.

Q. 12. How long did you continue to believe that?

A. Why, until a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company come in here and told us different.

Q. 13. Did you say anything to Mr. Ballard about this cigarette?

A. I did. I come in and says, "Beech-Nut is putting out cigarettes as well as tobacco, Beech-Nut Packing Company."

Q. 14. Did you ever see Mr. Ballard with a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I did, yes, sir, previous—after we spoke about the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 15. Do you chew?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. Do you smoke?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever buy a package of this scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever buy a package of these cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. Did you ever take them in your hand and examine them?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. P. Lorillard Company's name is on that package, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. You do not find Beech-Nut Packing Company on there, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. Who was this man who told you that the Beech-Nut people were putting out this cigarette?

A. I don't know what his name is, clerk over here in the United Cigar Company.

X-Q. 25. You don't know what his name is?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 26. Where is this United Cigar Company?

A. Right here in the Holland Hotel.

X-Q. 27. Holland Hotel, Chicago?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. What corner, what street?

A. Fifty-third and Lake Park Avenue.

X-Q. 29. Is that clerk still working there?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. If you went into a store and wanted a package of cigarettes, could you be fooled into taking chewing gum in place of cigarettes?

A. Certainly not. Chewing gum and cigarettes are two different articles.

X-Q. 31. Entirely different class of goods, are they not?

A. Yes, certainly. One you chew and the other you smoke.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

DANIEL HUTTNER, called as a witness on behalf of plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Daniel Huttner; 5427 Kimbark Avenue, Chicago, Illinois; occupation, butcher.

Q. 2. Your age?

A. Thirty-six.

Q. 3. Where is your place of business, Mr. Huttner?

A. 1419 Fifty-fifth.

Q. 4. I show you a package of cigarettes in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, being a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Have you ever before seen a package of cigarettes like that?

A. I have.

Q. 5. When and where did you see them, do you remember?

A. Displayed in a United Cigar Store, 55th and Lake Park Avenue.

Q. 6. And whose product did you take them to be when you saw them?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. Did you purchase a package?

A. I did.

Q. 8. Why did you buy the package of cigarettes?

A. I am familiar with the goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company and I purchased a package to try them out.

Q. 9. Were you satisfied with the cigarettes?

A. Well, I haven't bought any since.

Q. 10. I show you a package of scrap tobacco, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 in this case, Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco. When you first saw that package, whose product did you take it to be?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 11. What made you take it to be the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. It says "Beech-Nut" right on the package.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 12. Do you sell tobacco?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 13. Don't handle any tobacco product at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. Do you chew?

A. Do not chew; no.

X-Q. 15. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. I do.

X-Q. 16. You know that different people have different tastes, as far as brands of cigarettes go?

A. I do.

X-Q. 17. What some might like in one some other people would not want?

A. Exactly.

X-Q. 18. And that is the same in most products, isn't it?

A. Well, yes, just a matter of taste.

X-Q. 19. Matter of taste. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard tobacco people?

A. No, I have not; no.

X-Q. 20. When you bought that package of cigarettes, you did not take the trouble to notice that name, P. Lorillard Company, on it, did you?

A. No, I did not.

X-Q. 21. If you went into a store and you wanted to buy a package of chewing gum, could you be fooled into taking cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. If I was buying an article that was worth any money at all I maybe would look into it further, more than twenty cents.

X-Q. 22. But what I am asking you is this: Supposing you wanted some cigarettes and a man passed you over chewing gum over the counter when you asked for cigarettes, could you be fooled into taking that chewing gum?

A. Not at all.

X-Q. 23. Entirely different class of goods?

A. Exactly. I suppose if I wanted cigarettes I would ask for cigarettes and not chewing gum.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

Whereupon an adjournment was taken until Tuesday, November 1, 1921, at 2:30 P. M.

CHICAGO, November 1, 1921.

Parties met pursuant to adjournment. Present: counsel as before.

WILLIAM OLIVER PARK, called as a witness on behalf of of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is William Oliver Park; my residence is 2821 Warren avenue; I am 48 years old; my occupation is delicatessen or grocery.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business?

A. 3447 West Madison.

Q. 3. How long have you had this place of business?

A. Since last February.

Q. 4. What were you doing before that?

A. With Sprague-Warner. Well, prior— you mean immediately prior to that? I was with the Hecker people, of Cleveland.

Q. 5. And what line was that?

A. That was in the railroad business.

Q. 6. And before you were with the Hecker people?

A. Sprague-Warner.

Q. 7. What is Sprague-Warner's business?

A. Wholesale grocery.

Q. 8. Were you salesman for Sprague-Warner?

A. No, I had the tea room.

Q. 9. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, being a package of Beech-Nut scrap. Do you sell this product in this store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. How long have you sold it here?

A. Ever since I have been in.

Q. 11. Do you know who makes this product?

A. No, I do not; I have never paid any attention to it.

Q. 12. Who did you think put out this product prior to August, 1921?

A. I thought Lorillard put it out, I guess. At least the salesman told me Lorillard put it out.

Q. 13. Did the salesman tell you that?

A. I don't know that. I thought the Beech-Nut people, naturally. It was called Beech-Nut scrap. We don't notice nothing except the mark. I never delved into it.

Q. 14. And when did this salesman tell you Lorillard put it out, do you remember when that was?

A. No, I don't remember exactly; must have been along in the spring sometime.

Q. 15. Have you ever seen Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Only the package you showed me; that is all.

Q. 16. You never handled them, Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, we don't handle any cigarettes.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. I notice the name "Lorillard's" on that package.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. You know the Lorillard Company?

A. I know of them, yes.

X-Q. 19. Tobacco manufacturers?

A. They are.

X-Q. 20. That would indicate to you that was a Lorillard product, would it not?

A. Yes, that is naturally what that would indicate. But we sell so little, I don't pay any attention. Some people come in for Beech-Nut, I never look at it, just give it to them. We don't handle tobacco, you know.

X-Q. 21. Do you handle any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's products here?

A. Yes, we handle Beech-Nut gum. We have handled Beech-Nut peanut butter.

X-Q. 22. You never bought any tobacco from the Beech-Nut Company, did you?

A. No, never.

X-Q. 23. Do you buy that product from Lorillard or from the jobber?

A. No; tobacco jobber out here.

X-Q. 24. If you went into a store and you wanted some Beech-Nut chewing gum, you couldn't be fooled into taking scrap tobacco when you wanted gum, could you?

A. Oh, no, not if I wanted gum.

X-Q. 25. They are an entirely different class of goods?

A. I imagine so.

X-Q. 26. You could never be fooled on that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. You wouldn't sell a person tobacco for gum?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 28. About how much of that tobacco do you sell here, Mr. Park, could you tell me?

A. Oh, I suppose, maybe a dozen a week would be a fair estimate of the Beech-Nut scrap.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 29. That is a mighty good selling tobacco?

A. For a place like this, don't amount to anything; a dozen a week don't amount to anything.

R-X Q. 30. How many people work in this store?

A. Only myself.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

F. J. LATZEL, called as a witness on behalf of plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation, Mr. Latzel?

A. My name is F. J. Latzel; I run a delicatessen store at 1122½ Lake street, Oak Park; and I live in the same premises.

Q. 2. I show you a package of scrap tobacco, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco. Do you sell this scrap tobacco in your store, Mr. Latzel?

A. Sure.

Q. 3. How long have you sold it, do you remember?

A. About a month now.

Q. 4. When you first stocked and sold this scrap tobacco, by whom did you think that it was put out?

A. By the Beech-Nut Company.

Q. 5. How long did you continue to believe that this scrap tobacco was the product of the Beech-Nut Company?

A. Well, I don't know how long I believed it. Just when you told me, you know.

Q. 6. And how long ago was it when I told you?

A. About a couple of weeks ago; maybe a week ago; I don't know.

Q. 7. Have you personally handed out this product to customers over the counter since it has been in this store here?

A. No. People want it, you know, and I give it to them, you know; that is all. I got the same thing here. I got a customer for it. You know how it is in a business.

Q. 8. Have you spoken to any jobber salesman of tobacco about this thing recently?

A. Well, except today.

Q. 9. And what happened today?

A. Well, he told me, I asked a fellow, another jobber what sells me cigars, and I asked him, "You got that tobacco?" He says, "Yes, I sell him." And I say, "You know that is maybe all kinds of trouble?" Why, he says, this is the case, you know, he says, "I don't know," just this way, and he says that for years now.

Q. 10. What did he say about who made the product?

A. He say nothing about this; nothing. I told him after who make it, you know. He says the name on it, he says, "I was sure that they sell that, that the Beech-Nut Company make that."

Q. 11. Beech-Nut Company made that?

A. Yes. Like I.

Q. 12. In other words, he was under the same belief that you were?

Mr. Cavanagh: Objected to as leading, and objected to as a conclusion that there is no foundation for, mere hearsay. That is a ridiculous question.

Mr. Hinton: This testimony is offered to show that tobacco jobbers will tell tobacco retailers in certain instances, at least, that the scrap is a Beech-Nut product.

A. How it looks, that people who know, they think it is from you, them dealers, you know, or them fellows.

Q. 13. Now, who was this jobber man, do you know his name?

A. What sold me the stuff?

Q. 14. No, the man with whom you had the conversation today.

A. Reimschreiber.

Q. 15. Mr. Latzel, was it Mr. Reimschreiber himself or one of his men?

A. I don't know; I can't tell you. Maybe. Maybe not. I can't tell you that.

Q. 16. Mr. Latzel, I wish you would try and tell me, if you know, slowly, what the conversation was between you and the jobber salesman who came in today, about this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

A. I told you already. I told you already again. I asked him about the tobacco. I asked him, "You sell that tobacco?" He says yes, and I told him maybe there is all kinds of trouble about this, the Beech-Nut. "Well," he says, "that is the first thing I hear." He was just the same mind as I, that you people make that. See? That is all. After this we look on that name, you know. I had a package out the other day.

Mr. Cavanagh: That part of the examination as to what the jobber or salesman might have thought is objected to on the ground this witness cannot testify as to that.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Company, the tobacco people?

A. I do not know him at all.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever hear of them?

A. This is the first thing I hear, a week ago, when we look on that package.

X-Q. 19. You see the Lorillard Company name on it?

A. I see it now. I see it last week; never before.

X-Q. 20. Never took the trouble to look for it?

A. Never looked at it.

X-Q. 21. It doesn't make any difference to you, as long as you sell the tobacco, whose name is on it, does it?

A. If they want tobacco and Beech-Nut stuff is good, maybe I sell it.

X-Q. 22. You still sell it?

A. I pay for it. I can't throw it away.

X-Q. 23. It is a good seller, then?

A. Yes, it is a good seller.

X-Q. 24. And you did not know that the Lorillard Company were large tobacco manufacturers?

A. I did not know. I never heard that name before, except when we looked for it when the gentleman was here about a week ago, my dear man.

X-Q. 25. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 26. If a man came in and wanted some chewing gum, you wouldn't sell him Beech-Nut scrap tobacco when he asked you for chewing gum, would you?

A. Do you think I am crazy? Such a question.

X-Q. 27. Then they are two entirely different classes of goods, are they not?

A. Tobacco is tobacco and chewing gum is chewing gum. Don't you think so?

X-Q. 28. You wouldn't mix up one with the other?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. Now, this salesman, this cigar salesman you were talking to, did you buy your Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, like this package of Lorillard tobacco scrap, did you buy it from that salesman?

A. I bought it from Neimann.

X-Q. 30. But not from the man you were talking to?

A. He is a different man. I have two men that bring me cigars.

X-Q. 31. You say you never had anyone come in to sell you this tobacco and claim it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. They never misled you on that?

A. When I had the talk about a week ago, I have had cigars before and tobacco before, when my tobacco man came he says, "You need some tobacco," he says, "Beech-Nut?" "Sure; all right; that is a good thing; give me a dozen packages." That is all.

X-Q. 33. You did not buy that package from the Beech-Nut Packing Company man, did you; it was from a cigar jobber, was it not?

A. From a fellow named Neimann; same jobber for years.

X-Q. 34. And he didn't say to you it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. No; we don't have no conversation about it. I don't know anything about it except when Beech-Nut come and he tell me, about three weeks ago and last week.

X-Q. 35. Was this man that you did talk to today about it around again, the man who sold you the tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 36. Had no connection with that man?

A. No; absolutely not.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

FRED KNOOP, called as a witness on behalf of plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Fred Knoop; I am 60 years old; grocery and market; I live at 1148 Holly court, Oak Park, Illinois.

Q. 2. And where is your place of business, Mr. Knoop?

A. 1108 Lake street.

Q. 3. How long have you been in the grocery business?

A. Twenty-nine years.

Q. 4. I show you a package of scrap tobacco, being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco. When you first saw that package, whose product did you take it to be?

A. Beech-Nut.

Q. 5. What label is that that appears on the package in the form of an oval on the front?

A. The same thing as we have on peanut butter and jellies, and of different things, all different articles that we sell in the store that is made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 6. How long, to your knowledge, has the Beech-Nut Packing Company used that label?

A. Well, ever since I have been in business.

Q. 7. Can you, Mr. Knoop, recite a full list of all the products the Beech-Nut Packing Company makes?

A. No, I could not, because I have handled some years more and some years less, but we have handled all their jams and jellies and the peanut butters, and we handle their bacon, and, oh, different things; handle their macaroni and all that. On every one of them you see that same label.

Q. 8. How many clerks do you employ in your place of business, Mr. Knoop?

A. Well, I only have four now, two of my boys and two outsiders.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 9. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company, Mr. Knoop?

A. No, sir; I do not know who they are, because——

X-Q. 10. Do you handle tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 11. Don't sell tobacco at all?

A. No; no, don't use it myself.

X-Q. 12. Don't chew or smoke?

A. No, nor drink; none of the three.

X-Q. 13. You never bought a package of this tobacco?

A. Thirty-five years ago I bought tobacco; couldn't tell you what it was.

X-Q. 14. You never bought a package of this that you know of?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 15. Do you handle Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. And you handle Beech-Nut bacon?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. I show you a label, which is in this case Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 8, of the Beech-Nut brand of bacon. Is that the label you say is the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. That label is on all their goods?

A. Yes, that I handle.

X-Q. 19. That label has a wide red band on it, with some printing of words in it, has it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. And it has a single beech-nut in the center, on three green leaves?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. Now, on this label here there is not, on Beech-Nut chewing tobacco, there is no wide red band on it, is there?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. There is no printing on the band itself, is there?

A. It has an oval around there, about the same, and says "Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 23. But you know ovals are quite common on lots of goods you sell, that is, they use an oval on the labels like Veri-Best?

A. Yes, that is about the one thing, I think.

X-Q. 24. How about Armour's stuff?

A. Only one is Armour's.

X-Q. 25. So these two labels are not alike, are they?

A. No, they are not printed alike.

X-Q. 26. And you never knew of any other Beech-Nut product with a label having the wide radiating bands, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. You would not confuse tobacco with chewing gums or food products so that you would take chewing gum when you wanted a chewing tobacco, would you?

A. No, not me.

X-Q. 28. They are an entirely different class of goods, are they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. You never saw Beech-Nut Packing Company's product with this Beech-Nut label on it that was put up like a package of tobacco, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 30. Like this?

A. No. The only thing, if I had seen that, I would have thought it was put up by the Beech-Nut people, because I don't know anybody else that put up Beech-Nut stuff; that would be the only thing.

X-Q. 31. On this package you do not find any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it anywhere, do you?

A. No. No.

X-Q. 32. But you find Lorillard's name, do you not?

A. Yes; on top there.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

By agreement of counsel for the respective parties to the above entitled cause, the signature of the witness to the foregoing deposition was waived.

State of Illinois, County of Cook, ss.

I, Alice M. Rankin, a Notary Public within and for the County of Cook and State of Illinois, duly commissioned and qualified and authorized to administer oaths, and to take and certify depositions, do hereby certify that in the equity cause depending in the District Court of the United States, for the District of New Jersey, wherein Beech-Nut Packing Company is plaintiff and P. Lorillard Company is defendant, I was attended at Chicago, Illinois, beginning on the 30th day of October, 1921, by counsel for the respective parties, as appears above, and by William I. Thomas, A. V. Bobb, James F. Ballard, Alex B. Christensen, Daniel Huttner, William Oliver Park, F. J. Latzel and Fred Knoop, the witnesses named in the foregoing depositions; that said witnesses, being of sound mind and lawful age, were by me duly cautioned and sworn to testify to the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth in said cause, and thereupon they testified as appears in the foregoing depositions, and that counsel for the respective parties in each case waived the signature of the witness to his deposition; that said depositions were taken down stenographically by me in the presence of witnesses, and from the statements of said witnesses, and at the time set forth, and that all was done in the presence of counsel for both parties.

I further certify that I am neither of counsel nor attorney to either of the parties to said suit, nor interested in the event of said cause, and that it being impractical for me to deliver said depositions with my own hand, I have retained the same for the purpose of being sealed up and directed and speedily and safely transmitted to the said court for which they were taken.

Witness my hand and seal as such Notary Public at Chicago, Illinois, on this 8th day of November, 1921.

ALICE M. RANKIN,
Notary Public.

[SEAL.]

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken in behalf of plaintiff, before Henry F. Weller, a Notary Public and Court Reporter, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, at Room 312 Wisconsin Hotel, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, beginning Friday, November 4, 1921, at 11 o'clock A. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

MRS. AMELIA PETERSEN, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name?

A. Mrs. Amelia Petersen.

Q. 2. Residence and occupation?

A. I live at 421 North Eighth, Manitowoc, Wisconsin; we have a grocery store.

Q. 3. Of course you are of legal age?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Do you sell tobacco products in that store of yours, Mrs. Petersen?

A. We do, yes.

Q. 5. Who is the proprietor of the store?

A. Petersen Brothers.

Q. 6. And are you the wife of one of those brothers?

A. I am.

Q. 7. Do you yourself work in the store?

A. I do at times, yes.

Q. 8. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, which is in this case as "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3." Have you sold this scrap tobacco in your store?

A. Yes, we have.

Q. 9. How long have you had it there, Mrs. Petersen?

A. Oh, I should think about a year or more, about a year.

Q. 10. Up to within very recently whose product did you think that was?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing concern.

Q. 11. Now, I show you some Beech-Nut cigarettes. Have you seen these cigarettes?

A. I have never seen them, no.

Q. 12. You never examined a package of these cigarettes?

A. No, I have not.

Q. 13. Have you ever heard about these cigarettes?

A. I have heard about them, yes.

Q. 14. When and where did you first hear about them?

A. Well, that morning when that man was in our store trying to sell them.

Q. 15. Now, how long ago was that?

A. I think about three weeks ago.

Q. 16. Do you remember what this man said when he tried to sell these cigarettes?

A. Well, he said they were branching, that the Beech-Nut Packing Company were branching off into tobacco and cigarettes, that is what he told us.

Q. 17. To whom did he make that statement?

A. To my brother.

By Mr. Cavanagh: All that testimony is objected to as merely hearsay.

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 18. Were you present at the time?

A. I was.

Q. 19. Did you hear it?

A. I heard it.

Q. 20. Did you talk with this man about any Beech-Nut product besides cigarettes?

A. We spoke about the peanut butter, and he said they were branching off into tobacco and cigarettes.

Q. 21. Did this man say anything about what territory he had been traveling in, that you heard?

A. No, I didn't pay any attention to that; there was more said, but I couldn't remember.

Q. 22. Did you just talk about the peanut butter to him?

A. Yes, spoke about the peanut butter, and he said it was the same.

Q. 23. When he left the store, who did you believe was putting out the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. We always thought it was the Packing Company putting out the tobacco and the cigarettes. In fact, we knew of no other company.

Q. 24. How long was this conversation, Mrs. Petersen? Do you remember approximately about how many minutes?

A. Oh, about fifteen minutes, I should think, or longer.

Q. 25. You were talking to that man about fifteen minutes?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 26. Do you sell any products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company in that store?

A. Yes.

Q. 27. What do you sell?

A. Oh, we got gum and baked beans and peanut butter and macaroni.

X-Q. 28. Then you have a general line of the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. We have a general line, yes.

X-Q. 29. From whom do you buy goods?

A. That man over there, I think, was there last (indicating).

X-Q. 30. What is his name?

A. I don't know that, I never inquired.

Mr. Cavanagh: I will ask the gentleman his name on the record.

Mr. Wesling: O. M. Wesling.

Mr. Cavanagh: X-Q. 31. You refer to the gentleman who said his name was Mr. Wesling?

A. Yes, sir, the regular Beech-Nut man.

X-Q. 32. How long have you been buying products from Mr. Wesling for your store?

A. That I don't know either.

X-Q. 33. Well, approximately. You need not be exact, one month or a year, or what?

A. Oh, we have had it at least a year, if not more.

X-Q. 34. That Mr. Wesling has been coming to the store?

A. I don't even know if that is the same man always comes, but I noticed the one comes lately.

X-Q. 35. But you have bought stuff from Mr. Wesling?

A. Yes, I have bought stuff from Mr. Wesling.

X-Q. 36. And you know the other Beech-Nut man by appearance, don't you?

A. The one sells this tobacco?

X-Q. 37. No, the one you bought your food products from.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. Now, this man you had the conversation with about tobacco, that I understood you to say said that the cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, had you ever seen him in the store before?

A. I had never seen him before, no.

X-Q. 39. And he wasn't the regular Beech-Nut man, was he?

A. No, he wasn't the regular Beech-Nut man.

X-Q. 40. And you had never bought goods—any Beech-Nut goods from anybody else except the regular Beech-Nut man, had you?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. How often would that Beech-Nut man come around to your place?

A. Well, I don't know how often he comes around.

X-Q. 42. Well, approximately?

A. Every five or six weeks.

X-Q. 43. Now, who was this man that came in and represented himself, and had this conversation about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I don't know his name at all.

X-Q. 44. Do you know who he represented?

A. He said he was selling Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 45. Do you know what concern he was from?

A. No, I don't know that either, but he let us believe he was with the Beech-Nut concern.

X-Q. 46. And didn't you ask him his name, for his card?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 47. You knew he wasn't the regular Beech-Nut man, didn't you?

A. No—well, he wasn't selling the other stuff, but we thought he was maybe a specialty man.

X-Q. 48. But you knew he wasn't the regular agent for the Beech-Nut Company that you had been in the habit of buying from?

A. No, he wasn't the regular agent, no.

X-Q. 49. You didn't buy any of these cigarettes, did you?

A. No, we didn't, didn't buy no cigarettes.

X-Q. 50. I understood you to say that you had been selling this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco like this (indicating).

A. Yes, we got it in the store.

X-Q. 51. Where have you been buying it?

A. That I don't know. I don't know where the buyer bought it, but I know we have got it in the store.

X-Q. 52. You don't know who he bought this tobacco from?

A. I don't know where he bought it.

X-Q. 53. You don't ever remember buying any of that tobacco from the man who represented himself to be the Beech-Nut Packing Company representative?

A. No.

X-Q. 54. From the man who tried to sell you the Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you?

A. No, I do not.

X-Q. 55. Was that the first time you ever saw that man?

A. That is the first time I saw that man.

X-Q. 56. You haven't seen him since?

A. No, I haven't seen him since.

X-Q. 57. So far as you know, he might have been some faker coming in just to mix you up on the cigarettes, might not he have been?

A. So far as I know, yes.

X-Q. 58. He didn't show you any credentials?

A. No.

X-Q. 59. He didn't give you any card?

A. No, he didn't give me no card.

X-Q. 60. He didn't say he was from the P. Lorillard Company, did he?

A. No, he didn't.

X-Q. 61. He didn't say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. He said he was selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco.

X-Q. 62. But he did say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I don't think he said that.

X-Q. 63. He didn't say who he was from, did he?

A. No, I don't think he said that.

X-Q. 64. Did you ever take the trouble to look at a package of that tobacco?

A. Yes, I have looked at it.

X-Q. 65. You have seen the name "Lorillard's" on it, haven't you?

A. No.

X-Q. 66. You didn't look at a package very closely, did you, and read it?

A. No, I never read it either.

X-Q. 67. I show you a package, Mrs. Petersen. You notice the name "Lorillard's" on it now?

A. Yes, I see it now.

X-Q. 68. Did you ever buy of P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, I did not.

X-Q. 69. If I understand the truth, then, you never took the trouble to read any of the printing, or anything, on the cigarettes?

A. Only the "Beech-Nut" is all I saw on there.

X-Q. 70. Just "Beech-Nut"?

A. Just that—"Beech-Nut Tobacco."

X-Q. 71. You didn't notice, then, the name "P. Lorillard"?

A. I never saw the cigarettes at all.

X-Q. 72. So, when this man was in the store—and I refer to the party who said the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting out those cigarettes—you never took the trouble to look at the cigarettes, did you?

A. I never seen them. I don't know as he showed them there.

X-Q. 73. You didn't even see him showing them?

A. No, I didn't see him showing them.

X-Q. 74. And you don't know whether he was the man you buy your tobacco from, either?

A. No, I don't know that either; I don't know where we bought the tobacco.

X-Q. 75. So this was practically some stranger dropped in the place and told you that?

A. It is a man I never saw before and never saw him since.

X-Q. 76. And you don't know anything about him at all?

A. Don't know anything about him.

X-Q. 77. He simply dropped in and said—

A. (Interrupting) That is what he said.

X-Q. 78. (Continuing) —told you that the same concern made both food products and the cigarettes and tobacco?

A. Yes, talking about the peanut butter and all the rest and he said he was branching out from that to tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 79. He just mentioned that in the course of conversation?

A. Yes, that is what he said.

X-Q. 80. He didn't leave you any samples of any cigarettes?

A. No, we didn't get any cigarettes. We have no cigarettes in our store, Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 81. And he didn't give you any prices on any of the cigarettes, that you know?

A. I believe he did give prices, but I didn't pay no attention to that.

X-Q. 82. Did he leave you any advertisement, or anything of the kind?

A. No.

X-Q. 83. Just walked in and talked about cigarettes and walked out again?

A. That is what he did.

X-Q. 84. You haven't the slightest idea where the man came from, have you?

A. No, I haven't. I don't know where he came from.

X-Q. 85. Now, I understood you to say that you were selling other Beech-Nut products like food products and chewing gum. If a man wanted some chewing gum or some Beech-Nut bacon, would you sell him a package of Beech-Nut tobacco for bacon or chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 86. You would think he was crazy if he took it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 87. In other words, they are entirely different goods, aren't they?

A. I should think so.

X-Q. 88. Then, Mrs. Petersen, so far as you know, of your own knowledge, this man that tried to sell you the Beech-Nut cigarettes might have been sent in there by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, might he not?

A. Yes, he might have been.

X-Q. 89. You don't know anything about it at all?

A. I don't know anything about it.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 90. Mrs. Petersen, I simply want to clear up one or two points. Was this man trying to sell these cigarettes to you personally or were you present when [illegible]

A. No, he wasn't trying to sell them to me. I simply overheard the conversation.

R-D. Q. 91. Now, Mrs. Petersen, if, as a result of the various questions you have been asked during this examination, there is any doubt whatever in your mind that that man tried to make you believe the Beech-Nut Packing Company were putting out these cigarettes, I wish you would say so.

A. I have no doubt but what he knew that we believed that he was selling those for the Packing Company, those cigarettes.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

H. N. PETERSEN, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposed as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. H. N. Petersen; I am forty-eight at present, will be forty-nine in January; live at Manitowoc, Wisconsin, 421 North Eighth street.

Q. 2. And what is your occupation?

A. Grocery business.

Q. 3. What is the name of the grocery store?

A. Petersen Brothers.

Q. 4. And are you one of the Petersen Brothers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. I show you a package of cigarettes in this case that is "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1." Have you ever seen these cigarettes before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. When was the first time you heard about these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. When that salesman was in the store that was trying to sell them.

Q. 7. Who was he trying to sell them to?

A. Well, he was asking about the buyer, and I told him the buyer wasn't in, exactly, but I asked him what he was selling, maybe I could give him a definite answer whether we would be in the market or not, so he told me then he was selling Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 8. Can you state the conversation that you had with this man?

A. Well, pretty well, I guess.

Q. 9. I wish you would, please.

A. Well, then I says to him when he showed them cigarettes, I says: "Well, if those cigarettes are as good as the Beech-Nut peanut butter, it is a good line, but," I said, "we have never had them before." And I said to him then: "Well, that is a kind of peculiar line to go into, from the peanut butter into cigarettes," and he said then: "Well," he says, "they are branching out," so I never paid no attention to the tobacco, really, whose that was, and never thought any more of it at the time.

Q. 10. Well, do you remember whether this man said anything about where he had been immediately prior to coming into your store?

A. Yes, he said he had been up north and sold lots of them, they were fine cigarettes.

Q. 11. Did he mention any particular town he had been in in the north?

A. Well, he did, but I don't recollect that now, because I didn't think anything would turn up or I would have taken notice of that.

Q. 12. Who, if anybody else, was present at this conversation?

A. Who else was present?

Q. 13. Yes.

A. My brother's wife; she was in the room, I believe, at the time. There was another gentleman in with him, too, I believe, some other man, whether he was a salesman or not, I don't know.

Q. 14. You brother's wife—is it your brother's wife who has just testified in this case?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. Now, are you acquainted with Mr. Wesling?

Mr. Hinton: Mr. Wesling, will you please stand up? (Mr. Wesling stands up.)

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Q. 16. Who is Mr. Wesling?

A. He is with the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 17. Did Mr. Wesling make a subsequent visit to your store after this conversation you have just talked about?

A. I don't know if Mr. Wesling, but I think there was some other gentleman came in there.

Q. 18. You mean another Beech-Nut Packing Company man?

A. Yes, that is what I took him for. Of course, I had never seen that gentleman before.

Q. 19. But do you remember what, if anything, you said to this other Beech-Nut Packing Company man when he came in?

A. Yes, I think I mentioned to him, I said: "How many men have you people got on the road making this territory?'' I didn't think any more of it, and just asked him that question.

Q. 20. How long after this conversation you had with the man who tried to sell you Beech-Nut cigarettes was it that the Beech-Nut Packing Company man came in?

A. I think it was the week after.

Q. 21. How long is it usually, Mr. Petersen, between the visits of Beech-Nut Packing Company men to your town or store?

A. Well, really I never paid so much attention to it, but something around six weeks, I should judge.

Q. 22. How long was this conversation you had with this person who tried to sell cigarettes, do you suppose?

A. Oh, it wasn't very long, somewhere around fifteen minutes, somewheres around there.

Q. 23. Were you discussing Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut Packing Company products in this conversation?

A. No, there was no more said about it, only I said that we had some tobacco over there that didn't sell at all, I says, but I never stopped to think that it was the same as—I figured on that as the Beech-Nut Packing Company line. I never paid no attention to the name on there.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 24. I understand, Mr. Petersen, that you buy products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. Various food products and chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. And you buy those from the regular Beech-Nut agent, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. And that agent is this gentleman in the room, Mr. Wesling?

A. Yes, that is the name.

X-Q. 28. He is the one that you have been accustomed to buying from all the time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. He is not the man that wanted to sell you the tobacco, is he?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 30. Or the cigarettes, rather?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31. He is not the man that wanted to sell you the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 32. From whom did you buy this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Well, now, I will leave that unsaid, because it is so long since we bought that tobacco. My brother did the buying.

X-Q. 33. But you were accustomed to buying your regular Beech-Nut Packing Company products, such as food and chewing gum, from this Beech-Nut man here (indicating Mr. Wesling)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 34. And a stranger came in and wanted to sell you the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. Now, I want you to think this over very carefully. Did this man, when he came in, say that he represented the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. He meant it this way, that I said to him: "Well, if it is the same people—"

Mr. Cavanagh: Would you just answer the question?

Mr. Hinton: Let him answer. He is entitled to finish his answer.

A. (Continuing) I asked him, "If it is the same people that turn out the cigarettes as the peanut butter, it is a good article, no question about it," and he said: "Yes." I said: "But that is a funny thing to branch out in that line from peanut butter," and he said: "Well, they are branching out." That is all he said.

Mr. Cavanagh: X-Q. 36. Then, he didn't say these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. No, he didn't say that that I understood, but I thought when I mentioned the peanut butter that would be sufficient.

X-Q. 37. As a matter fact, he didn't say those cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, he didn't say that, that I heard.

X-Q. 38. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 39. Do you use tobacco?

A. Yes, I use some.

X-Q. 40. Do you smoke and chew?

A. Well, a little, chew a little, but not very much.

X-Q. 41. Did this party you had this conversation with, when he tried to sell you the Beech-Nut cigarettes, leave you any samples of these cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 42. Did he leave any advertising matter?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 43. Did he leave his card?

A. No.

X-Q. 44. Did he tell his name?

A. Well, I don't know but he might have done that, but I didn't take notice.

X-Q. 45. But you don't know his name or the name he told you?

A. No.

X-Q. 46. Did he leave you any advertising matter?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 47. He didn't tell you who made the cigarettes?

A. Well, showed this cigarette, and as I said before.

X-Q. 48. Oh, he showed you the cigarette?

A. Oh, yes, he had one of them cartons, twenty in there or whatever it was, yes, he showed it to me.

X-Q. 49. He just had a small carton of the cigarettes?

A. Yes, he had one of them small cartons, he held it up and showed me so I could see the label and see the "Beech-Nut," that is all I could see.

X-Q. 50. So he showed you the carton of cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 51. He also showed you the individual package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 52. Now, on this scrap tobacco you see the name "Lorillard's" on there, don't you (indicating)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 53. You don't find the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company" any place on that package, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 54. And the goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, for example, as shown on this label, "Defendant's Cross Exhibit 8," which is a bacon label, that has the words "Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, N. Y., U. S. A."?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. That is the regular Beech-Nut label, is it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 56. You notice on this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes the name "P. Lorillard Co." on it, don't you (indicating)?

A. Down at the bottom, yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. You don't find the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on this label, do you (indicating)?

A. No, I don't see it.

X-Q. 58. You never saw this man again?

A. No, sir, I did not.

X-Q. 59. You didn't buy anything from him?

A. No.

X-Q. 60. You yourself thought it would be peculiar that the Beech-Nut Packing Company should take up such a widely different line of goods as tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. It had nothing to do with food products?

A. No.

X-Q. 62. You considered them an entirely different class of goods, didn't you?

A. I would, yes, sir.

X-Q. 63. And if a man came into your store and wanted some Beech-Nut bacon or wanted some Beech-Nut chewing gum, you would think he was a fool or crazy if he took tobacco in place of the article he asked for?

A. It would seem that way to me, it would be funny.

X-Q. 64. And as a common-sense man you wouldn't give him tobacco or cigarettes when he asked you for Beech-Nut food products or gum?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 65. And that is because they are an entirely different class of goods?

A. Yes, sir, sure.

X-Q. 66. That man that you had the conversation with about cigarettes, so far as you know, he might have been from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, might he not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 67. He might have been sent in there on a framed up proposition, so far as you know?

A. I thought he was a specialty man, or either the other man, something had happened to him, or he was put in to cover his territory, or something like that.

X-Q. 68. But he might have come from those people?

A. Sure, he might.

X-Q. 69. Might just have been a party sent in there to tell you that, so far as you know, mightn't he?

A. Yes, couldn't tell.

X-Q. 70. You couldn't say anything about it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 71. Mr. Petersen, I show you a carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which have been heretofore introduced in this case as "Defendant's Cross Exhibit 9." Does that look like the carton of cigarettes he showed you?

A. As near as I recollect, this tobacco cover was off (indicating), and there was a slit underneath, and he exhibited them up like that in front of me.

X-Q. 72. Oh, the cover was off?

A. The cover was off. I could see the "Beech-Nut" and then he held up one package like that (indicating), took it out of the box and held it up.

X-Q. 73. You were not looking at the package?

A. No, because I was standing as far away as from here to my brother's wife (indicating).

X-Q. 74. Didn't take time to look at the package?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 75. On the outside of this carton you see the name "Lorillard's," don't you (indicating)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 76. And there is a slip in this carton marked "P. Lorillard & Co., Manufacturers"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 77. Referring to those Beech-Nut cigarettes, and says: "Please Read," headed "Please Read."

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 78. There is also a small red card marked "Lorillard's Beech-Nut Perfect Cigarettes," isn't there?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 79. Do you remember seeing that little card?

A. No, sir, I do not.

X-Q. 80. Or the slip?

A. No.

X-Q. 81. Just opened the carton——

A. I didn't see this on it at all (indicating), only this front part as he held it up. I didn't see this top cover on it at all.

X-Q. 82. Just had the box open, showing the cigarettes?

A. Showing the cigarettes, yes.

X-Q. 83. Packed in?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 84. Mr. Petersen, do you now remember whether the Beech-Nut Packing Company man who came into your store approximately a week after the man who tried to sell cigarettes was Mr. Wesling; is it any clearer to you now than it was a few minutes ago?

A. Well, now, I don't think it was Mr. Wesling, it was a special man that come in to pick up points about this cigarette, it seems to me, because when he came in and spoke about that—that wasn't you, was it, Mr. Wesling?

Mr. Wesling: No.

The Witness: (Continuing.) I am pretty sure it was some other man. I am pretty sure of that, and when he came in he started to talk about the Beech-Nut line, and I spoke then to him: "How many is there representing the Beech-Nut Packing Company?" I didn't think any more of it.

Mr. Hinton: R-D. Q. 85. Was he trying to sell you products?

A. He was representing the Beech-Nut products.

R-D. Q. 86. He was selling?

A. Yes, and he took down the notes then what this other tobacco man had.

R-D. Q. 87. Do you know Mr. Lewis, of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the division manager here?

A. No, this is the only gentleman I really know that has been coming in there (indicating Mr. Wesling).

R-D. Q. 88. Do you know whether Beech-Nut cigarettes are now being sold in Manitowoc in other stores?

A. If I know they are sold?

R-D. Q. 89. Why, yes.

A. Yes, sir; I seen them in the barber shop.

R-D. Q. 90. And do you know whether they appeared there before or after the visit of this first man who tried to sell you cigarettes?

A. No, the only time after that, after this man had been trying to sell cigarettes, and I was in there last Wednesday, I think it was yesterday, and as I was going out they had a tobacco exhibit in the window and I noticed one of them packages there, and I then asked if they handled the Beech-Nut cigarettes.

R-D. Q. 91. Those are the first Beech-Nut cigarettes you saw on sale in Manitowoc?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 92. How long ago was this case where the man came into your store and tried to sell you Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I should judge maybe about three weeks ago.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 93. When this second Beech-Nut man came in, after the man tried to sell you the cigarettes, you state that he was not Mr. Wesling, was he?

A. No, I don't recollect it was this man (indicating Mr. Wesling).

R-X Q. 94. But Mr. Wesling is the man that usually comes in?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 95. And you didn't know this other Beech-Nut man, did you?

A. Not until he introduced himself.

R-X Q. 96. Did he ask you for an order?

A. No.

R-X Q. 97. He wasn't selling you anything, was he?

A. No.

R-X Q. 98. He was asking about those cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 99. He was digging up information, wasn't he?

A. It seems that way, yes, sir.

R-X Q. 100. And after this first mysterious cigarette man was in, this other man came around to dig up the information?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 101. Now, you have testified that a man came in and you said: "How many Beech-Nut salesmen have you got," or something of that character.

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 102. Now, can you state what you said then, what you told him?

A. Yes, I said then: "It is a peculiar thing for them to branch into cigarettes from other lines of peanut butter and that other product."

R-D. Q. 103. Evidently you didn't understand my question. I am talking about the Beech-Nut salesman who came in about a week after the man who tried to sell you the cigarettes.

A. Oh, the real Beech-Nut man?

R-D. Q. 104. Yes, the real Beech-Nut man. What I want to get at is, what you said to him when he came in.

A. Well, he introduced himself, he came in in a joking way, I greeted him, greeted the time of day, and I said he was with the Beech-Nut Packing Company? And then I says to him, "How many men have they got out?" Then he came out with it, and I told him, as I said before, about this here tobacco, and he took down the notes of it; then I told him: "Now, don't write anything down, because I don't want to have any trouble about it," and he said: "Oh, no, there won't be anything about it."

R-D. Q. 105. That is, you made this remark to him first, that you have just said?

A. Yes.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 106. Just a few questions. Is there a gentleman in the room by the name of Atkinson?

(Mr. Atkinson rises.)

R-X Q. 107. Does he resemble the man that was in to see you, the man that took down the notes about the Beech-Nut tobacco and Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I didn't pay such strict attention.

R-X Q. 108. But he didn't ask you for an order for goods, did he?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 109. Spent all his time talking about this cigarette case, as a matter of fact, didn't he?

A. Who is that?

R-X Q. 110. That other Beech-Nut man, the last man that was in?

A. This man here (indicating Mr. Wesling)?

R-X Q. 111. Is that the man?

A. That is the last man that I saw in the store.

R-X Q. 112. Is that the man who spoke about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

R-X Q. 113. But he is the one took down the notes for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, there was one before him, I think, took it. I don't know who that was.

R-X Q. 114. There are three Beech-Nut Packing Company men in the room, Mr. Wesling, Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Lewis.

A. I never paid enough attention.

R-X Q. 115. Is it either one of those men? Was it either one of those three men?

A. That came in the second time, you mean?

R-X Q. 116. That came in to investigate this cigarette.

A. That I wouldn't swear to now, it is so long ago now. I didn't take enough notice which one of them it was.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 117. Quite aside from this situation we are talking about, the man who has just come into the room, standing over there, have you seen him before that you recognize him (counsel indicates Mr. Lewis)?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 118. Do you know his name?

A. He did say his name, but I don't remember just what it was.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

MRS. AMELIA PETERSEN, a witness produced in behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Examined by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 1. Mrs. Petersen, you have testified this morning that a man came into your store and tried to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes. Now, when did the regular Beech-Nut man come around after that, do you remember?

A. About a week after.

Q. 2. And who was he?

A. That is the man over there (indicating Mr. Wesling).

Q. 3. This man right here (indicating)?

A. That is the man.

Q. 4. Mr. Wesling?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. He is the regular Beech-Nut salesman?

A. He is the regular Beech-Nut salesman.

Q. 6. Do you remember whether your brother made any remark to Mr, Wesling when he came in a week after the cigarette salesman?

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all objected to.

A. Yes.

Q. 7. What did he say?

A. He said: "Was there somebody here before?" and then he told him a week before about that tobacco man.

Q. 8. I want to get what, if anything, you heard your brother say to Mr. Wesling when he came into your store about a week after the man tried to sell you Beech-Nut cigarettes. Do you understand that question?

Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to as merely calling for hearsay; furthermore, as incompetent, as the witness has not been shown qualified to answer.

A. He asked him how many Beech-Nut men there were.

Mr. Hinton: Q. 9. And what did Mr. Wesling say?

Mr. Cavanagh: Same objection.

A. He said: "Why, has there been some before?"

Mr. Hinton: Q. 10. Then what did your brother say?

Mr. Cavanagh: Same objection.

A. Then he told him about the tobacco man that had been there the week before trying to sell cigarettes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all. No cross-examination.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

O. M. WESLING, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. O. M. Wesling; 48 years old on September 16th; live at 1182 26th avenue; occupation, salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 2. How long have you been an employee of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and in what territory?

A. State of Wisconsin, about nine months.

Q. 3. Mr. Wesling, were you present in the room this morning when Mr. and Mrs. Petersen testified?

A. I was.

Q. 4. Are you the Mr. Wesling that stood up once or twice to be identified by Mr. and Mrs. Petersen?

A. I was.

Q. 5. Do you make the town of Manitowoc, Wisconsin?

A. I do.

Q. 6. About how often do you go through there?

A. About every two months.

Q. 7. When was the last time you were there?

A. Last week.

Q. 8. Are you acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Petersen, who testified this morning?

A. I am.

Q. 9. Do they run a grocery store in Manitowoc?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Did you go into that store the last time you were there?

A. I did.

Q. 11. For what purpose?

A. To sell Beech-Nut products.

Q. 12. Had you been directly or indirectly instructed by anybody, prior to going into that store——

A. (Interrupting.) I was not, outside of to go in and sell Beech-Nut Packing goods.

Q. 13. You did not permit me to finish my question, I will therefore repeat it. Had you been directly or indirectly instructed by anybody, prior to going into that store, to go there for the purpose of getting evidence in this case?

A. I was not.

Q. 14. Did you, as a matter of fact, go there for the purpose of getting evidence in this case?

A. No, sir.

Q. 15. Now, when you went into that store, who was there?

A. Mrs. Petersen and her brother-in-law, Mr. Petersen. He is not the buyer.

Q. 16. That Mr. and Mrs. Petersen who were here? The same two who testified this morning?

A. They were.

Q. 17. Now, what was said?

A. When I went in there I told them who I was and introduced myself; in fact, they knew who I was, they said: "How many Beech-Nut men have they got on this territory?" and I said: "Why?" He said: "There has been a man here last week," and I said: "No, I am the only man on this territory for the Beech-Nut Packing Company." Then he went on and told me it was some specialty man had been in selling Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco, and I said: "What did you do about it?" He said, well, they didn't buy any because "I didn't do the buying in there." The brother does the buying, see, and this man told them the Beech-Nut Packing Company was branching out into the tobacco business, and that they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company that makes the Beech-Nut catsup and butter.

Mr. Cavanagh: All that portion of the answer with reference to the alleged conversation between the alleged tobacco salesman and the Petersens is objected to as merely hearsay.

Q. 18. Did you make a note of what this man said?

A. I did.

Q. 19. And who was the first person to whom you disclosed what had been said to you by this Mr. Petersen?

A. To you and Mr. Lewis, the district manager.

Q. 20. And when was that?

A. Last week Friday.

Q. 21. A week ago today?

A. A week ago today.

Q. 22. And where was it?

A. Down in the Hotel Wisconsin lobby.

Q. 23. Did you make other calls in Manitowoc?

A. I did.

Q. 24. At the same time?

A. I did.

Q. 25. Did you call on your regular trade?

A. On all of the groceries.

Q. 26. Was this trip that you made to Manitowoc in any way made for the purpose of obtaining evidence in this case?

A. It was not.

Q. 27. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, in this case "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1." Have you seen these cigarettes before?

A. I have.

Q. 28. Have they been offered for sale and displayed by posters in Milwaukee?

A. They have.

Q. 29. Have you heard any comment, remarks and inquiries about these cigarettes since they came out in this territory?

A. Lots of them.

Q. 30. And what is the nature of those comments, remarks and inquiries?

A. There is a few instances I can remember right now. There is a man over here in Manitowoc said: "Why don't you give me a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes instead of mint samples?"

Q. 31. Can you give any more you can remember definitely?

A. The grocery buyer of the Two Rivers Mercantile Company said: "Why don't you pass Beech-Nut cigarettes around instead of gum and mints?"

Q. 32. What was his name?

A. I couldn't tell you what his name is.

Q. 33. Where was he?

A. Right in the grocery department of the Mercantile Company of Two Rivers.

Q. 34. Can you give me some more?

A. Yes. "So you are making Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco, too, now." That was said by the clerk at the Sheboygan Hotel, the Grand.

Q. 35. How many times do you suppose you have heard that kind of comment, remark and inquiry?

A. I couldn't give you a definite number on that. A couple of hundred times if once.

Q. 36. What line do you sell for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Everything the Beech-Nut Packing Company makes, a full line.

Q. 37. How long have you sold the full line?

A. Six months.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 38. Do you sell the Mohawk Brand for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. It is all Beech-Nut Packing Company, isn't it?

X-Q. 39. The Beech-Nut Packing Company, I say, do you sell the Mohawk Brand for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. What do you mean by "Mohawk Brand"?

X-Q. 40. Do you sell the Erie Brand?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 41. But you don't sell the Mohawk?

A. I didn't know they made any.

X-Q. 42. Do you sell tinfoil?

A. Yes, sir, the gum comes in tinfoil and the mints.

X-Q. 43. I mean, do you sell foil as a separate commodity?

A. No.

X-Q. 44. You don't remember ever selling the Mohawk Brand?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. So you don't sell everything the Beech-Nut Packing Company makes?

A. Everything that comes on my regular price list.

X-Q. 46. So you don't know whether you sell everything that they make or not, do you?

A. I understood everything that is on the price list is what they make.

X-Q. 47. Did you ever sell any tobacco for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 48. Either scrap tobacco or cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 49. Never took an order on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company for tobacco or cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 50. Your line is practically food products, with candy contraptions and ginger ale and things of that sort?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 51. You say that approximately several hundred people have asked you if the Beech-Nut Packing Company were putting out this Beech-Nut cigarette, a package of which was shown you.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to. It is not exactly what the witness said.

Mr. Cavanagh: I don't mean to mislead you or to quote you incorrectly, and I will put the question this way:

X-Q. 52. You have stated that you had perhaps a couple of hundred inquiries as to the Beech-Nut Packing Company making the cigarettes. You don't know if those people ever took the trouble to look at the package, do you?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 53. You have never sold tobacco products at all, have you, in your business?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 54. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to sell a package of goods that looks like that, did you? (Counsel indicates.)

A. No, I did not.

X-Q. 55. I refer to the package of scrap tobacco. And likewise you never knew them to sell a package that looks like that, did you (indicating)?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: I refer to the cigarette package, Exhibit No. 1.

X-Q. 56. You would recognize that cigarette package, when you glanced at it, as a package of cigarettes, would you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. It has got a personality, as it were, all of its own?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 58. Now, you said that you had some conversation with Mr. and Mrs. Petersen at Manitowoc, Wisconsin, concerning the alleged visit of a so-called salesman who was trying to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes to the Petersen Brothers' store. When did you have this conversation with Mr. and Mrs. Petersen?

A. This was a week ago Wednesday—either Tuesday or Wednesday, I don't know exactly what day it was, it was either Tuesday of Wednesday.

X-Q. 59. At the Petersen Brothers' store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. How long did this conversation last, about?

A. Oh, I couldn't tell. About ten or fifteen minutes, I should judge. I wouldn't say for sure. I didn't pay no attention to how long it did last.

X-Q. 61. Was it a general conversation?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 62. Do you write shorthand?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 63. You said you made some notes of this conversation.

A. I just wrote down what he had told me; that is all.

X-Q. 64. Where are those notes?

A. I don't know. I might have them on the back of one of my letters, that is all I had. (Witness produces long envelope with pencil memorandum on back.)

X-Q. 65. Then as a result of this fifteen minute conversation—

A. (interrupting) I couldn't say how long it did take. I imagine about that long.

X-Q. 66. Then as a result of this approximately fifteen minute conversation the only note you made consisted of the words: "Tobacco salesman told them made by same Co. Branching out in tob.," and this note is on the back of an envelope, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 67. There is no date on that note, is there?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 68. There is no statement on there as to who made any such statement?

A. I know who made the statement.

X-Q. 69. But there is nothing here to indicate?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 70. There is nothing here to indicate when this note was made, is there?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 71. There is no repeating or transmission of the exact alleged words of Mr. or Mrs. Petersen in that?

A. That is just putting it in the short way they told it to me.

X-Q. 72. In other words, it is your own stuff?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 73. But you didn't take down what they said, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 74. The word "Beech-Nut" or "Beech-Nut Packing Company" does not appear in that note at all, does it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 75. So far as that note shows, that thing might have been made yesterday, might it not, so far as that note shows?

A. There is no date on that; it was made at the same time I was out to the store.

X-Q. 76. But so far as it shows, it might have been made yesterday?

A. There is not a date on it, no.

X-Q. 77. You never saw this salesman that they talked about, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 78. You never run across him in the territory?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 79. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company?

A. I have lately. Of course, I never paid no attention to it before that.

X-Q. 80. You smoke and chew tobacco?

A. Smoke cigars, that is all.

X-Q. 81. Don't use cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 82. Or tobacco, pipe?

A. Smoke a pipe of Prince Albert once in awhile.

X-Q. 83. You never bought a package of this tobacco (indicating)?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 84. Or a package of the cigarettes, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 85. You wouldn't confuse tobabcco with food products, would you?

A. I would not, no.

X-Q. 86. An entirely different class of goods, aren't they?

A. Why, certainly it is.

X-Q. 87. Tobacco is tobacco, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 88. To cut short any lengthy examination about this so-called visit of the alleged tobacco salesman to Petersen Brothers, all that you know about it is what Mr. and Mrs. Petersen told you?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 89. On cross-examination you were asked about what Mr. Petersen said to you, to which you had testified on your direct examination, and you have just testified that at the time of that conversation you made a note on the back of an envelope. Have you a clear recollection of making that note?

A. Yes sir.

R-D. Q. 90. Is this the envelope that you have produced with the inscription on the back: "Tobacco salesman told them made by same Co. Branching out in tob."—is that the note you made then?

A. That is the note I made the day I was over there to the store on my regular call over there.

R-D. Q. 91. In whose possession has this since been?

A. In my own only.

R-D. Q. 92. Have you a clear recollection of the conversation that you had with Mr. Petersen a week from last Wednesday?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: The envelope produced containing the memorandum in question is offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 8, Wesling Memorandum.

Witness is permitted to take half of the envelope which contained an irrelevant notice of his own, leaving the half with the note on for the exhibit.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

MISS C. HELLER, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, residence, occupation, and if you care to, your age or the fact that you are of legal age?

A. My name and address, do you mean?

Q. 2. Yes.

A. Well, my name is Miss C. Heller; I reside at 1061 8th street; occupation, clerk and bookkeeper, everything combined, and do you want to know how old I am?

Q. 3. No, if you are of legal age?

A. I am not ashamed of it; I am twenty-four.

Q. 4. What store is it that you work in, Miss Heller?

A. C. H. Beese.

Q. 5. Where is it located?

A. 701, on Murray Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Q. 6. What kind of store is that?

A. It is considered one of the best stores on the east side.

Q. 7. What do they sell?

A. A full line of groceries.

Q. 8. Do you sell cigarettes or any tobacco in that store?

A. No, sir, we do not.

Q. 9. Have you ever heard about Beech-Nut cigarettes, a package of which I now show you, and which is in this case as "Plaintiff's Exhibit 1"?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. 10. Please tell me approximately when and how you first heard about these Beech-Nut cigarettes.

A. About two months ago a salesman came in and asked me whether we wanted to buy any Beech-Nut cigarettes, and I said: "No, we didn't carry cigars nor tobacco," so I asked him where our little friend, Mr. Heube was, or rather, the little salesman, and he said whether he wouldn't do. Then I asked him whether he was just taking charge of the cigarette and tobacco part, taking orders for that, so he said: No, he could take the order for anything else if I wanted to give it to him.

Q. 11. Who is Mr. Heube?

A. Formerly a salesman for the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 12. How long, approximately, Miss Heller, did this conversation last that you had with this man?

A. I think about half an hour.

Q. 13. When you went out of the store, who did you believe was putting out the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. I thought surely it was put up by the same firm as any of the other goods is put up.

Q. 14. I wish you would do your best to describe for me the appearance of this man who came into your store?

A. He was about a medium sized man and he wore a dark overcoat, that is about all I can tell, as much as I remember.

Q. 15. Was there anyone present in the store at the time of this conversation?

A. Just myself and Miss Springer.

Q. 16. Do you think you would recognize this man if we could locate him?

A. Why, yes, I think I would.

Q. 17. If you would see him around Milwaukee, do you think you would know him?

A. Why, I don't think I would, no. I wouldn't know him. I couldn't recognize him that close, you know.

Q. 18. I understand you don't think you could pick him off the street out of a crowd?

A. No, I don't think I could.

Q. 19. Well, do you happen to remember, Miss Heller, whether you were back in the store or in front, or where you were, when this conversation took place?

A. Why, yes, I was at a side counter doing up prunes.

Q. 20. I ask that question to find out whether it was broad daylight.

A. Oh, yes, it was. It was about three o'clock in the afternoon, maybe a little better, about 3:30.

Q. 21. If you should happen to see this man again at any time, would you be willing to let Mr. Lewis or Mr. Wesling, of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, know that you had seen him and where you have seen him?

A. Why, yes.

Q. 22. Tell me, how do you greet or address Beech-

Nut Packing Company men when they come into your store, provided, of course, you know them?

A. We usually call them the "Beech-Nut man."

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 23. I understand you do not sell cigarettes at all, or tobacco products?

A. No, sir, we do not.

X-Q. 24. But you do handle the Beech-Nut line of food products?

A. Yes, we do.

X-Q. 25. Chewing gum?

A. Why, yes.

X-Q. 26. Ginger ale?

A. Not ginger ale, no, sir.

X-Q. 27. Chewing gum and food products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. And you buy all of those direct from the Beech-Nut man, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 29. That is, he calls around and takes the order?

A. Yes. Of course, if we run short on anything, Mr. gives his order to the Association, of course.

X-Q. 30. But it goes to the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. And when this man came in there did he give you his name?

A. No, sir, he did not.

X-Q. 32. Do you know what his name was?

A. No, I don't remember. I don't even remember whether he gave me his name or not.

X-Q. 33. Did he leave a card?

A. No, sir, he did not.

X-Q. 34. Did he show you any credentials?

A. Yes, he showed us the package of cigarettes.

X-Q. 35. I mean, did he show you any card or letter of any kind we may call a credential?

A. No, sir, not a thing.

X-Q. 36. Showing that he was a salesman?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. Did he say that he was a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, he didn't say he was a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, but he let me understand that it was all the same firm, that he was from the same firm.

X-Q. 38. But that was just an impression you gathered, you say?

A. He didn't say exactly, no, sir, he didn't, but when I asked him about an order he said whether he wouldn't do, and certainly that would give you an idea that he was from the same firm.

X-Q. 39. He didn't say he was just a tobacco salesman, did he?

A. No, sir, he didn't tell me that.

X-Q. 40. And he didn't say he represented any tobacco jobber or tobacco house, did he?

A. No, sir, he didn't.

X-Q. 41. But he did volunteer to take any order for Beech-Nut products you would give him?

A. Why, yes, he said if he wouldn't do to give an order to.

X-Q. 42. When you would give an order for Beech-Nut Packing Company products, a house of your standing, you do not pay cash right across to the agent for the goods you order?

A. No, sir, we do not.

X-Q. 43. A bill would come through from the Beech-Nut Packing Company for the amount of goods you ordered?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. So that this party that came in, if he was a faker, you wouldn't have paid him any money?

A. Oh, no, I wouldn't have.

X-Q. 45. That would have probably been done by check?

A. Mr. Wesling usually signed the check, yes, sir.

X-Q. 46. And he offered to take an order for food products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company from you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 47. And you presumed in the course of business he would send that to the Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 48. You never ordered anything from any tobacco company at all, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 49. You don't know of any of the tobacco companies, in your business?

A. No, I do not.

X-Q. 50. You didn't take the trouble to examine this cigarette package, did you (indicating)?

A. No, sir, I did not.

X-Q. 51. Didn't look at it at all?

A. No, sir, didn't interest me at all.

X-Q. 52. Did he have a carton of these cigarettes, or just a single package?

A. I think he had just a single package, if I am not mistaken, I am not real sure about that, though.

X-Q. 53. But he didn't tell you in so many words those cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. No; he just said the Beech-Nut cigarettes, that is all he told me.

X-Q. 54. Then you asked him about the order, and he said he would send it to the Beech-Nut Company?

A. He didn't say he was going to send it to the Beech-Nut Company, but he asked me whether he wouldn't do to take the order.

X-Q. 55. Then in the ordinary course of business you would take him to be a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 56. And so far as you know today, he was a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, wasn't he?

A. I know better now, but I did take it at the time for granted that he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 57. Now, how do you know better today?

A. Why, through the salesman coming to the store. You can't imagine they would want us to come down here and go through all of this if it was direct from them.

X-Q. 58. But, as a matter of fact, you personally don't know whether your first impression was right or wrong? The Beech-Nut Packing Company people might have sent that man there, so far as you know?

A. Yes, they might have. Of course, I don't know that.

X-Q. 59. In other words, that might have been a frame-up, they might have sent a man there, so far as you know personally?

A. Yes, of course, if these fellows hadn't come I would still be under the impression it was put up by the same firm as Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 60. And that impression that he was a Beech-Nut Packing Company man was strengthened by the fact that he volunteered to take an order for Beech-Nut Packing Company food products; isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 61. You say you would hardly know him if you saw him again?

A. I don't know. I think I would recognize him if anybody brought him in, of course, but I couldn't pass him onto anybody when I walked along the street, there is so many come in I can't recognize them all.

X-Q. 62. Did you personally ever sell over the counter any tobacco products at any place at all?

A. Not at Mr. Beese's, no, sir.

X-Q. 63. Did you ever sell any?

A. Yes, I did.

X-Q. 64. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir, I never have.

X-Q. 65. As a person who has been selling goods over a counter, if a customer came into your store and wanted to buy a Beech-Nut Packing Company's food product, or Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you hand him Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes if he asked you got gum or food products?

A. I suppose I would. I would think if he liked the rest of it he surely would take the tobacco also.

X-Q. 66. But, supposing a man came to your store and said, "I want a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum," would you sell him that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes (indicating) in place of that chewing gum?

A. No, not in place of it.

X-Q. 67. You wouldn't confuse the two goods, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 68. They are entirely a different class of goods, aren't they?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 69. One is tobacco and one is gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 70. And the same case with the food products, one is food and one is tobacco; isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 71. And you wouldn't get them confused because you knew they would be different goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 72. And you think any man that came in and asked for some Beech-Nut ham or bacon and let somebody hand him a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and walk out, you would think he was crazy, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: I guess that is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 73. Did you give this man any order at all?

A. No, sir, I did not.

R-D. Q. 74. I meant, of course, the man who came in to sell the cigarettes.

A. Yes, I understand.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

MISS M. SPRINGER, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, residence, occupation and either your age or the fact that you are of legal age, as you prefer?

A. My name is M. Springer; my residence address is 750 30th street; I am a clerk; I am of legal age.

Q. 2. Miss Springer, in what store are you employed?

A. At C. H. Beese.

Q. 3. Where is it located?

A. 701 Murray avenue.

Q. 4. What kind of store is it?

A. Grocery store.

Q. 5. Who else is employed there?

A. Miss Heller.

Q. 6. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, in this case known as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen these cigarettes before?

A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. 7. I do not mean this identical package, but a package like that.

A. No, I have only seen signs of the cigarettes.

Q. 8. Did you ever hear about Beech-Nut cigarettes before?

A. I saw them advertised in windows and on signs, and that is all.

Q. 9. Did anybody ever come into the store in which you are employed and try to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir, about two months ago.

Q. 10. Were you present when that man came in, and did you hear the ensuing conversation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. To whom did he talk?

A. Miss Heller.

Q. 12. Will you please state, as well as you can remember, what was said?

A. Well, the fellow came in and he let us understand he was selling Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco, and Miss Heller asked him where our friend was, Mr. Huebe, because we are on pretty good terms with him.

Q. 13. Who is Mr. Huebe?

A. A salesman who used to be the salesman for the Beech-Nut firm—and he said: "Well, won't I do?" and Miss Heller said: "Are you only taking the orders for cigarettes and tobacco?" And he said: "No, I will take the other order if you want me to," and while they were holding the conversation I didn't get any other impression but what he was from the same firm.

Q. 14. How long was he in the store talking to Miss Heller?

A. About an hour.

Q. 15. And when he went out of the store, Miss Springer, whose product did you think these Beech-Nut cigarettes were?

A. I took it for granted the same firm put up the peanut butter and other products.

Q. 16. How long did you continue to believe that these Beech-Nut cigarettes were the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, when these gentlemen came in (indicating) I didn't think it was, after I heard they said it was not the same firm.

Q. 17. After you heard what?

A. After they said it wasn't the same firm.

Q. 18. And did you say that the people who told you that, were the Beech-Nut people, who told you that the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not make the cigarettes?

A. I couldn't tell you that, I am sure.

Q. 19. Miss Springer, I wish you would describe, as well as you possibly can, the appearance of this man who came into the store and tried to sell these Beech-Nut cigarettes.

A. He was about medium size and he wore a dark overcoat, and I couldn't say for sure that he was dark, but I think he was.

Q. 20. Now, do you think you would recognize him if we could find——

A. I am almost sure I could.

Q. 21. Do you think you could pick him out if you saw him on the street?

A. No.

Q. 22. But if you ever do see him again and recognize him, would you be willing to let Mr. Lewis, of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, know about it?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 23. You never sold tobacco, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. And you don't sell it in the store, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 25. Do you sell goods over the counter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Do you sell goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. The food products, yes.

X-Q. 27. And chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. Candies?

A. No, not candies.

X-Q. 29. When this party that you said was attempting to sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes, or take an order for them, came into your store, did he give his name?

A. No, sir, I didn't hear it.

X-Q. 30. Did you take any part in the conversation at all?

A. Why, just when we were kidding along I kidded with them, but there was nothing I had to do about this conversation about the cigarettes.

X-Q. 31. You didn't take a package of the cigarettes in your hand and look at it, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 32. So you never read what was on the package at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 33. And you have never read it up to the present time?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 34. And you never took the trouble or interest to read what was on the advertisements, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 35. This man didn't give you any card, or leave any card at the store, that you know of?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 36. Or did not produce any papers to identify him?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 37. And he didn't say he was selling these cigarettes for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. No, sir, he didn't say it that way, but left us under the impression.

X-Q. 38. But that was simply the idea you gathered?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. He did offer to take other orders?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 40. For food products from you for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, or to be filled by the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is that right?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 41. So that was one strong factor that led you to believe he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 42. And in the ordinary course of events, if such an order had been sent to the Beech-Nut Packing Company you would expect to receive it due course of business, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 43. Now, as far as you know, from your own personal knowledge, that man might have been from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, mightn't he?

A. I am sure I don't know whether he was or not.

X-Q. 44. But your impression was that he was, as you have said?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 45. As far as you know today he might have been from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, might he not?

A. I don't know, he might have.

X-Q. 46. As far as you know, he might have been sent there by the Beech-Nut Packing Company just for this purpose, might he not?

A. He might have.

X-Q. 47. And seeing he couldn't sell cigarettes thought he would sell a little business on the side, or take an order for food products; is that right, to help the company along?

A. I suppose.

X-Q. 48. That is the way you would figure it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. In selling goods in the stores, if I came in and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, you wouldn't hand me out a package of those Beech-Nut cigarettes for gum, would you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 50. And you would think I was crazy if I took them, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 51. And if you wanted stick of gum at the store, Beech-Nut gum, and the man handed you a package of cigarettes, you would hand them back at him right away, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. You would hand them back and say you didn't want them?

A. Yes, I would.

X-Q. 53. You wouldn't be confused for an instant between gum and cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 54. Or chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 55. And that is because they are an entirely different class of goods, aren't they?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Cavanagh: That will be all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 56. Miss Springer, you were present during this entire conversation with this man, which lasted half an hour. If there is any doubt in your mind that he deliberately led you to believe that these cigarettes were part of the Beech-Nut line, I wish you would tell us about it.

A. Why, I naturally think—if he thought we had the impression it was from the same firm he would tell us it was from another firm.

R-D. Q. 57. Is there any doubt in your mind that he misled you on that? Have you any doubt that is what he was doing?

A. Why, no, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 58. You never had a tobacco man come in and try to sell you food products, did you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 59. And you never had a tobacco man come in and ask you for an order for food products, did you?

A. No, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

CARL W. NEMETZ, a witness produced on behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Carl W. Nemetz; I am proprietor of a grocery store; age, twenty-eight; residence, 592 Jackson street.

Q. 2. Where is the store located?

A. 592 Jackson street, the same place. We live there in the rear.

Q. 3. Do you sell tobacco products in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. I show you a package of scrap tobacco which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you ever sold this tobacco in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. How long have you sold it there?

A. Fourteen months.

Q. 6. During the time you sold this tobacco from fourteen months ago up to very recently, whose product did you think it was?

A. The Beech-Nut products, same as peanut butter and the likes of that.

Q. 7. What made you think that, do you know?

A. The name itself is the only reason.

Q. 8. Do you now believe this is a product of the Beech-Nut people?

A. Well, not since it has been explained to me, I don't.

Q. 9. How long ago was it explained to you to the contrary?

A. Oh, in the last month.

Q. 10. Do you know who explained it to you—whom he represented?

A. The Beech-Nut products.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 11. Do you handle the line of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's food products?

A. You mean peanut butter?

X-Q. 12. Yes.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. Do you handle the chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. Candies?

A. No Beech-Nut candies, no.

X-Q. 15. You say you sell this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. I show you this package of scrap tobacco (indicating).

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. From whom do you buy this tobacco?

A. Stein Brothers.

X-Q. 18. What are they?

A. Tobacco jobbers.

X-Q. 19. You never bought any food products from this tobacco jobber, did you?

A. No, just chewing gum and candy and the likes of that.

X-Q. 20. But you never bought any Beech-Nut food products from them?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. Stein Brothers never told you this was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did they? (Counsel indicates.)

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company?

A. Never until Stein Brothers told me, that was after he dropped in the same day your representative was in. In fact, twenty minutes afterwards, we discussed the same thing over with him.

X-Q. 23. What did he tell you?

A. He told me that was made by that firm.

X-Q. 24. P. Lorillard Company?

A. The one made Turkish cigarettes. And in fact, I never knew who made them until he told me.

X-Q. 25. You never took the trouble to find who they were made by, did you?

A. No, sir, never.

X-Q. 26. You don't chew tobacco, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. You never read that name "Lorillard's" on the package, did you?

A. I never took particular notice of it, no.

X-Q. 28. Do you do any buying for your concern?

A. I do it all.

X-Q. 29. You never bought any tobacco products from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 30. Either this scrap tobacco or cigarettes?

A. No kind of tobacco.

X-Q. 31. But you do buy the food products from the Beech-Nut Packing Company through their salesman?

A. Yes, also other jobbers of this town, not always from the salesman.

X-Q. 32. But you have bought from their salesman?

A. I think I placed one order through their salesman.

X-Q. 33. But you wouldn't order tobacco through that salesman, would you?

A. No, nor through any other one but Stein Brothers. I don't deal with any of the other jobbers, although they handle tobacco.

X-Q. 34. You mean other jobbers?

A. Other jobbers besides Stein Brothers, product jobbers.

X-Q. 35. Do you do any selling in your store?

A. Yes sir.

X-Q. 36. You never saw the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up like a tobacco package, did you?

A. The package itself?

X-Q. 37. Yes.

A. No.

X-Q. 38. I am referring to this package, Plaintiff's Exhibit 3 (indicating same).

A. Not in that style of package, no.

X-Q. 39. If a person came into your store and wanted to buy food product such as bacon, or wanted to buy some chewing gum, you wouldn't hand him over a package of scrap tobacco for bacon or chewing gum, would you?

A. If he specified what?

X-Q. 40. If he specified bacon or chewing gum.

A. Oh, no, sure not.

X-Q. 41. If you did hand it to him, he would throw it back to you, wouldn't he?

A. I presume he would.

X-Q. 42. If you personally went into a store and asked for a package of chewing gum and a man handed you a package of scrap tobacco, you would hand it back to him, wouldn't you?

A. If I wanted the gum, sure, I would ask for gum.

X-Q. 43. If you asked for gum and he handed you tobacco, you wouldn't be confused, you would know you wanted gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. That is because the two are an entirely different class of goods?

A. Surely.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 45. Where do you get your Beech-Nut gum?

A. Oh, from Stein Brothers and others.

R-D. Q. 46. They are the people you get your Beech-Nut scrap tobacco from?

A. Same people.

R-D. Q. 47. Do you know whether the wholesale grocers, or some of them, are handling tobacco?

A. Oh, yes; in fact, I think all of them do.

R-D. Q. 48. Do you know whether they sell this Beech-Nut scrap?

A. I don't know. The only reason I got Beech-Nut gum from Stein Brothers, at a time there it was pretty scarce to get and we used to gobble it up wherever we could get it from.

R-D. Q. 49. They are tobacco jobbers?

A. They are a tobacco and candy concern.

Mr. Hinton. That is all.

Re-Cross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 50. Their business isn't confined exclusively to tobacco?

A. No, they are the same as all other tobacco concerns in this town; every one of them carries gum and candy.

R-X Q. 51. You mean the jobbers?

A. Yes, tobacco jobbers; they carry it as a side line.

By Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

E. J. McFADZEN, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is E. J. McFadzen; age is twenty-three; residence, 643 72nd avenue, West Allis, Wisconsin; occupation, grocer.

Q. 2. Where is your grocery store located?

A. West Allis. Do you want the address?

Q. 2. Yes.

A. 6211-13 Greenfield avenue.

Q. 4. Do you smoke cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. What kind do you customarily smoke?

A. Lucky Strike.

Q. 6. Have you bought any other brand than Lucky Strike recently?

A. A package of Smoth-Nat cigarettes.

Q. 7. Are those Smoth-Nat cigarettes that you bought similar to this package I now show you, being Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 in this case?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Why did you buy those Smoth-Nat cigarettes instead of Lucky Strike cigarettes?

A. Why, I thought they would be good cigarettes, because I know Smoth-Nat products are good, the ones I sell, anyhow.

Q. 9. Did you believe they were a product of the Smoth-Nat Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Did you smoke this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes that you bought?

A. Some of them, not all of them.

Q. 11. Was your expectation as to the quality of the cigarettes realized?

A. No.

Q. 12. How long did you continue to believe that these cigarettes were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Until a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company came in the store one day.

Q. 13. Did he tell you they were not?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. In the intervening period between the time that you bought the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and smoked some of them and the time that the Beech-Nut representative came into your store, had you seen these Beech-Nut cigarettes advertised by posters in windows and on display in stores?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 15. Did you ever ask anybody who made these cigarettes?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. 16. Who did you ask, do you remember?

A. A salesman came in the store one day and offered me one.

Q. 17. And what did you ask him?

A. I asked him who made it, and jokingly he said: "We do," and then I said: "No, seriously, do you know who makes them?" and he said, "Why, yes, Beech-Nut, of course."

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 18. Do you sell cigarettes and tobacco in your store?

A. Tobacco, not cigarettes.

X-Q. 19. What kind of tobacco do you sell?

A. Oh, Niggerhair and a little plug—Niggerhair, Plowboy, and a little plug.

X-Q. 20. Do you sell Beech-Nut scrap?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever look at a package of Beech-Nut scrap?

A. Not closely. I would know if I saw it, I would know what it was, of course.

X-Q. 22. You never read any of the wording on it, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 23. When you bought this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes that you related you purchased, did you read any of the printed matter on it?

A. No, not when I bought it, I paid no attention to it. I saw what I thought was the "Beech-Nut" trade-mark.

X-Q. 24. You have heard of P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. You know they are large tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. If you had seen that name "P. Lorillard Company" on that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes you would have known it was Lorillard's cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. Same as you would know the Lucky Strike was the American Tobacco Company's cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. But you didn't pay any attention to it and didn't take the trouble to read it?

A. That is right, I just took it for granted it was a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 29. Now, this salesman that you said told you—Who did he say made the cigarettes when you asked him?

A. He said, "We do." He was a coffee salesman.

X-Q. 30. He was a coffee salesman?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. He was just joking?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. Then he told you who made it? Who did he say?

A. I asked him: "Really, do you know who makes them?" He said: "Sure, Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 33. Is that all he said, the word "Beech-Nut"?

A. "Beech-Nut people," something to that effect, "Beech-Nut people, of course."

X-Q. 34. But he was a coffee salesman?

A. Yes, coffee, peanut butter, tea, etc.

X-Q. 35. Did he pull out a package when he handed you the cigarette?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. Neither one of you took the trouble to look at it to see who made it?

A. No, I never did.

X-Q. 37. If you had taken the trouble to look at these cigarettes and saw the name "P. Lorillard Company," you would have known it was not Beech-Nut, wouldn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. You say that you didn't like this Beech-Nut cigarette when you purchased it, but you smoke the Lucky Strike. As one who smokes cigarettes you know that different smokers have different tastes, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 39. And that what might appeal to you in one brand of cigarettes would not appeal to another man, isn't that right?

A. Certainly.

X-Q. 40. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out any tobacco products, did you?

A. No, never knew they did.

X-Q. 41. Do you do the buying for your store?

A. I have in the past three or four months.

X-Q. 42. You never bought any tobacco products or cigarettes or scrap tobacco from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 43. And your salesman never told you they had any tobacco or cigarettes for sale, did he?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 44. You never yourself bought or ordered from the Beech-Nut Packing Company any goods which were packaged like a package of cigarettes, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. And likewise like that package of scrap tobacco, you never bought any goods put up like a package of scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 46. Now, do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. When I can get it, yes.

X-Q. 47. And you sell Beech-Nut food products?

A. Peanut butter and that stuff.

X-Q. 48. If a customer came in your store and asked you for a jar of peanut butter, or package of chewing gum, you wouldn't hand him out a package of cigarettes or a package of tobacco for the peanut butter or chewing gum, would you?

A. Why, no. What do you mean? If he came in and asked for peanut butter?

X-Q. 49. Yes.

A. No, certainly not.

X-Q. 50. An entirely different class of goods, aren't they?

A. Altogether.

X-Q. 51. And you yourself wouldn't be deceived into taking a food product or chewing gum for a package of cigarettes, would you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 52. Or a package of scrap tobacco?

A. No.

WILLIAM C. WEIGEL, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is William C. Weigel; thirty-three years old; retail grocer.

Q. 2. Where is your store located?

A. 810 Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Q. 3. Where do you live, Mr. Weigel?

A. At the same address, apartment 10.

Q. 4. Do you sell tobacco products in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, being Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 in this case. Have you sold this tobacco in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. How long have you sold it?

A. Oh, around two years, somewheres around there.

Q. 7. Did the man come and sell you this tobacco, put it in your stores?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. I wish you would tell me, if you can remember, what was said on that occasion when he came and put the tobacco in the store.

A. I don't know whether I asked him directly, or whether he told me, but I was given to understand that this was a label that was only permitted on the very best products and was leased by the different companies that put out this product.

Q. 9. Did you order tobacco from this man?

A. Yes, I bought it right from the man himself, I believe they carried it around with them, if I am not mistaken now.

Q. 10. You paid him cash for it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. That is your best recollection?

A. To my best recollection.

Q. 12. Or did you order it from him?

A. No, I am pretty sure he left it, he carried it right with him, that is as far as I remember it.

Q. 13. Now, whose product did you think this was, Mr. Weigel, or who did you think was responsible for the product?

A. I naturally supposed that the Beech-Nut label was owned by some man or some company and then leased out to the people that put it out in a very high class product.

Q. 14. How long did you continue to believe that?

A. Until about two or three or four weeks ago.

Q. 15. And by whom were you then advised to the contrary, do you remember?

A. By the Beech-Nut gum and dried beef people, Beech-Nut Packing Company, I guess it is.

Q. 16. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum in your store?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. Do you sell other Beech-Nut products?

A. Dried beef.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 18. From whom did you buy these Beech-Nut products?

A. O. R. Pieper Company, wholesale grocers.

X-Q. 19. You don't buy from the agents?

A. Yes, buy through the jobbers.

X-Q. 20. The agent comes first and takes the order?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. You give the order to the Beech-Nut agent?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Do you know who he is?

A. Representing the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 23. But you know him when he comes in the store, the Beech-Nut man?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. You didn't buy this tobacco from that man, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. How often have you bought this tobacco?

A. Well, I only bought that once from the man, I have bought it since from the wholesale jobbing house.

X-Q. 26. That man didn't tell you that that tobacco was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. He told me—No, he didn't, he told me it was a label, he explained to me was the label only the very best products were allowed to use.

X-Q. 27. Who was this man?

A. I don't know. As far as I remember, he was a specialty man, or maybe he was a tobacco man, because I know the first order I bought direct from him and paid him, he carried it with him, so I supposed he was the tobacco man.

X-Q. 28. You don't know his name, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. Or what concern he represented?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 30. Did you ever take the trouble to read any of the writing or printing on the package (indicating)?

A. I don't recollect. That is, I couldn't say what it said on there.

X-Q. 31. You notice the name "Lorillard's" on the package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company, the tobacco people?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. They are a large tobacco concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Those jobbers you now get the Beech-Nut tobacco from, they did not tell you it was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did they?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 35. And none of the agents told you it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did they?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 36. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out a package of tobacco like this (indicating), did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. You never knew them to sell tobacco at all, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 38. Is this tobacco a good seller, for scrap tobacco?

A. It is a pretty good seller.

X-Q. 39. You continued to buy it right along?

A. Yes, that is the only reason I remember it, it sells pretty good. I don't handle much tobacco.

X-Q. 40. From what you know of the Lorillard Company, that is a good responsible tobacco concern, isn't it?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 41. If you went into a store and you wanted to buy some chewing gum, would you be fooled into taking a package of this scrap tobacco in place of the chewing gum?

A. I don't think so.

X-Q. 42. An entirely different class of goods, aren't they?

A. Why, certainly.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 43. What jobber did you buy this tobacco from?

A. This tobacco I bought from the Grocers Wholesale Company, now I am a member of that company.

R-D. Q. 44. That is a wholesale grocery company, of course?

A. Yes, co-operative company.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

HENRY W. FOOTE, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Henry W. Foote; I have a room at 220 22nd street.

Q. 2. What is your occupation, Mr. Foote?

A. Delicatessen, I call it a grocery store.

Q. 3. Do you mind saying how old are you?

A. Sure, I am 59.

Q. 4. Mr. Foote, where is your store located?

A. 2116 Wells street.

Q. 5. Mr. Foote, I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit 1. Did you put any of these cigarettes in your store and sell them?

A. I put in one box of them, yes.

Q. 6. Why did you put them in?

A. When I bought them I supposed they were made by the Beech-Nut Company first.

Q. 7. Is that the reason you put them in?

A. Why, yes, that was the reason.

Q. 8. How long did you continue to believe they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Oh, why, let's see, it is hard to tell that just exactly.

Q. 9. Just approximately.

A. A week or ten days, maybe, in that neighborhood. It is only a short time.

Q. 10. How were you first advised they were not made by the Beech-Nut Company?

A. Let me think how that was exactly. Now, I couldn't just say the gentleman, whether that was the man, the agent, as I told you, for this company here—I think he is the gentleman told me, but I couldn't just say positively as to that. I think so.

Q. 11. Did he do anything beside tell you they were not made by the Beech-Nut Company?

A. No.

Q. 12. Did he cause you in any way to compare labels?

A. Well, he showed me the label of the gum and this here (indicating), that is all.

Q. 13. Did he point out the difference between the two labels, to you?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. What would you think about those two labels before he pointed out the difference to you?

A. Well, as I said before, I thought, until he explained to me, I supposed they were made by the Beech-Nut Company, naturally, because then I looked at it I thought sure it was the product of the Beech-Nut goods, and as he explained, he showed me these different ones here, I saw it was a little bit different, of course.

Q. 15. What would you have said about those two labels before he pointed it out to you? Would you have said they were different or the same, or what?

A. I couldn't have said anything, because I didn't take notice particularly to see. I didn't take notice, that is the idea.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 16. You never took the trouble to read the printed matter when you bought the cigarettes, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company, the tobacco people?

A. I have heard of them.

X-Q. 18. You would have seen that name on there if you had looked at it (indicating)?

A. When I got the cigarettes the agent came to ask me about the "Beech-Nut," I guess he was a good old friend of mine, from this Lewis-Leidersdorf Company, used to be Fay Lewis & Company, he wanted to know if I wanted some new cigarettes. I said: "What?" He said: "Beech-Nut." You would naturally think it was the Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 19. But he didn't say it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 20. Now, you still handle these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. You just got one carton?

A. That was all.

X-Q. 22. Do you handle much tobacco products at all?

A. Quite a little, yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. Scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir, not scrap, Niggerhair, Tuxedo and those.

X-Q. 24. How many people work in your store?

A. Only myself and a young lady.

X-Q. 25. And your principal business is groceries and delicatessen?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. And the tobacco is a side line?

A. Well, I don't know whether you would call it that or not; I sell it when I get a chance.

X-Q. 27. You don't sell as much tobacco as groceries and delicatessen?

A. Oh, no.

X-Q. 28. When you first bought the cigarettes you didn't take the trouble to look at the cigarettes to see if it was like a Beech-Nut package?

A. No, he handed it to me, and I didn't look.

X-Q. 29. Simply the word "Beech-Nut"?

A. That was all.

X-Q. 30. Did you buy any goods from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. You mean the Beech-Nut? No, I generally buy through the candy man.

X-Q. 31. But you handle the Beech-Nut Packing Company's food products?

A. Some of it.

X-Q. 32. Handle chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. You never knew of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting up cigarette packages or anything like that?

A. No, I never knew it.

X-Q. 34. If you went into a store and you wanted a package of chewing gum, could you be fooled by the dealer into taking a package of cigarettes instead of chewing gum?

A. Buy the cigarettes instead of gum?

X-Q. 35. Yes, if you asked for gum.

A. No, I shouldn't think so. I think I am pretty level-headed.

X-Q. 36. You would think a person was crazy if they took gum when they wanted cigarettes, or took cigarettes when they wanted gum?

A. Not only crazy, but I should think he didn't know what he wanted, hardly.

X-Q. 37. And if I came into your store and asked for a package of cigarettes, you wouldn't hand me a package of gum, would you?

A. I don't think I would hardly do that.

X-Q. 38. That is because they are an entirely different class of goods, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. As I understand it, you don't know who the first agent was sold you the cigarettes?

A. I don't know his name, but he is coming to me two years, or pretty near that, but after that——

X-Q. 40. He is a jobber, is he?

A. No, he works for this—used to be Fay Lewis, now Lewis-Leidersdorf.

X-Q. 41. What kind of business are they in?

A. Tobacco men.

X-Q. 42. And the man who explained to you and showed you the differences in the labels was a tobacco man, wasn't he, that you spoke of?

A. He was, if I am not mistaken, the man supposed to be from the factory of this concern, I think.

X-Q. 43. You mean the P. Lorillard Company, cigarette man?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. He wasn't a Beech-Nut Packing Company man?

A. No.

X-Q. 45. How long ago was it you bought this carton, approximately?

A. I will say it was a week ago Tuesday, I should think, just about, I would think. Now, it might be Tuesday, I couldn't say.

X-Q. 46. It was within a month?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 47. It was just a short while ago?

A. Yes, that is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

E. R. LEWIS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is E. R. Lewis; 30 years old last October 9th; live at 827 27th street, Milwaukee; work as division representative for the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 2. What territory do you cover?

A. State of Wisconsin, and the Northern Peninsula of Michigan.

Q. 3. How long have you been division manager for the Beech-Nut Packing Company in this territory?

A. Since February 19, 1919.

Q. 4. How long have Beech-Nut cigarettes similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit 1, which I now show you, been on the market and advertised and displayed in this territory, as far as you know?

A. A comparatively short time, I should say about a month or month and a half or two months.

Q. 5. Since these cigarettes have appeared here, have you heard any comments, remarks and inquiries about these cigarettes, and if so, what has been the character of these comments, remarks and inquiries?

A. I have had some inquiries, I should say two or three hundred inquiries, and they have been such as, "Are the cigarettes selling?" and "Give me a sample of cigarettes," and such similar inquiries.

Q. 6. Give me a conservative estimate of the number of times you heard this kind of comment, remark and inquiry.

A. Two or three hundred.

Q. 7. Can you give me any specific instances? I want only instances where you can state definitely the name of the person who made the remark and definitely, just exactly what he said.

A. Why, the first one that comes to my mind was Dr. O'Malley, in the Public Service Building, asked me how the cigarettes were selling. He said he saw one of the signs. And Joe Afferbal, who is located in the Meyer Building, 288 East Water street, came over and said: "Give me a sample of cigarettes," and a fellow by the name of Ernie Sprinkmann, located on Water street, asked me if I was going to put on a new salesman selling cigarettes. And various others.

Q. 8. Could you give other instances of this character?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. Were you present yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Petersen were testifying about the attempt made to sell some Beech-Nut cigarettes to them in Manitowoc, Wisconsin?

A. I came in when you called for me at the end there. I didn't hear it all.

Q. 10. When did you first, directly or indirectly, hear about this incident?

A. When Mr. Wesling told you and I together downstairs in the lobby last Friday.

Q. 11. You mean the lobby of the Wisconsin Hotel here in Milwaukee, Wisconsin?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. That would be a week ago yesterday?

A. That would be a week ago yesterday, yes, sir.

Q. 13. Did you subsequently go to Manitowoc?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. And did you see Mr. and Mrs. Petersen up there?

A. I did.

Q. 15. Has any other Beech-Nut representative, to your knowledge, been in Manitowoc since last Friday?

A. No, sir.

Q. 16. Or since the date of Mr. Wesling's previous call there?

A. No, sir.

Q. 17. Now, are you familiar with this product "Beech-Nut scrap tobacco," Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, which I show you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 18. Will you please state whether or not there has been, since you have been in charge of this territory, a drive on this Beech-Nut scrap?

Mr. Cavanagh: The question is objected to as leading, immaterial and irrelevant to the question at issue.

The Witness: Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: Q. 19. How many men, to your knowledge, were working on this scrap, and where did you say they worked?

A. There were, as I recall it, about six men in the crew, along with the boss, probably six or eight men, and I saw them working in Appleton and Green Bay in particular.

Q. 20. State whether or not they worked in Milwaukee too, to your knowledge.

A. Yes, they did. They worked the whole State of Wisconsin.

Q. 21. And about when was that, Mr. Lewis?

A. About two years ago.

Q. 22. Have you since that date heard any comments, remarks and inquiries about Beech-Nut scrap?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 23. What was the character of these comments, remarks and inquiries?

A. Practically the same as on the cigarettes, just the same as on the cigarettes.

Q. 24. Could you give me a particular illustrative incident of the kind of comment, remark and inquiry you heard about the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Mr. Schwarting was buyer of the Gazette Candy Company at Green Bay, and he asked me how the scrap tobacco was going. I could give you others, I can't think of them off-hand.

Q. 25. About how many comments, remarks and inquiries of this character about the scrap tobacco do you think you have heard?

A. Probably about seventy-five to one hundred.

Q. 25*a*. Mr. Lewis, what trade do you call on?

A. The jobbing trade mostly.

Q. 26. That is, the wholesale grocers?

A. Wholesale tobacco dealers, confectioners, druggists and all jobbers that job our product.

Q. 27. Do you come into contact with the retailers?

A. Not as much as some of the other boys that work under me. I do come in contact with the retailer, but not as much as some of the others.

Q. 28. Are you acquainted with Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 29. Who is he?

A. As I understand it from him, he is the division representative for P. Lorillard Company in this territory, in the cigarette department.

Q. 30. Have you heard Mr. Goldstein make any statements about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 31. What did he say?

A. I have heard him say on two or three different occasions that Beech-Nut cigarettes were like all other Beech-Nut products, they were quality goods and good sellers.

Q. 32. Was anybody else present when you heard Mr. Goldstein make that statement?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 33. Who was it?

A. Mr. Smith was present on one occasion, and Mr. Atkinson was present on another occasion.

Q. 34. What is Mr. Smith's full name, do you know—or, who is he?

A. Mr. C. W. Smith. He is the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, representative for Killian & Clark, food products, New York City.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 35. How long have you been in charge of this Wisconsin territory, Mr. Lewis?

A. Since February, 1919.

X-Q. 36. Did you take orders for the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 37. And I presume what you take orders for is food products and candy and chewing gum and ginger ale?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. All of those products that you take orders for have that Beech-Nut label on like this bacon label, Defendant's Cross Exhibit 8 (indicating same)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 39. You do not sell tobacco products with Beech-Nut Packing Company, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 40. Did you ever sell any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 41. Did you ever take an order for any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 42. Did you ever sell for the Beech-Nut Packing Company any goods packaged like that package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, Exhibit 1?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 43. And likewise, did you ever sell any goods packaged like that scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 44. Being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. How long have you personally known this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco like Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 to be on sale or in stores in this territory?

A. Why, since about three years, about three years ago, in this territory.

X-Q. 45. In other words, since about the time, or shortly after you took charge of this territory?

A. Well, let us see, I came here February, 1919, that is pretty near three years ago.

X-Q. 46. Well, we won't quarrel over the length of time, it is between two and three years.

A. In other words, when I first came out here I don't believe there was any Beech-Nut scrap tobacco sold in this market.

X-Q. 47. But it was very shortly after you came out here that you found it in this market; is that right?

A. To my knowledge there wasn't any Beech-Nut tobacco sold in this market until they put their crew on.

X-Q. 48. And that was about two years ago.

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. And you have been in charge of this territory over two years, but not quite three years?

A. Yes sir.

X-Q. 50. How long have you been with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Since the Friday after Labor Day, 1914.

X-Q. 51. And in what territory were you located just before you came here?

A. Pittsburgh.

X-Q. 52. You worked the Pittsburgh territory?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 53. Did you see this Beech-Nut scrap on the market in Pittsburgh?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 54. How long had you known it to be on the market there?

A. I was working—I suppose you want approximately the date?

X-Q. 55. Yes, approximately.

A. Well, let us see, in the latter part of 1916, as I recall it, I was in Lewistown, Pa., and at that time there was a crew introducing Beech-Nut scrap tobacco.

X-Q. 56. So you have known of this Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap tobacco since about 1916, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. And you were not any stranger to it when you came into this territory?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 58. Now, did you ever tell anybody that that scrap tobacco was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 59. Did you ever tell anybody it was put out by Lorillard?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. Did you ever hear any Lorillard man say that Beech-Nut tobacco was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 61. And I suppose the same applies to the cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 62. That is, you never heard a Lorillard man say that?

A. Personally I never heard it said directly to me, no, sir.

X-Q. 63. You were not in the store of Petersen Brothers at Manitowoc when this mysterious person who was supposed to be a tobacco salesman came in and tried to make the sales of tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 64. So you didn't see this person either, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 65. You say it was about a couple of years ago you saw a crew introducing this tobacco—Lorillard's Beech-Nut scrap tobacco—around Green Bay, in Wisconsin?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 66. Did you ever have any talk with those fellows?

A. Why, not about business.

X-Q. 67. But you knew there was a tobacco crew, didn't you?

A. Yes sir.

X-Q. 68. They were not introducing any food products?

A. No.

X-Q. 69. They were not representing themselves to be from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Not to my direct knowledge.

X-Q. 70. That is what I mean, so far as you know.

A. So far as I know directly.

X-Q. 71. How long have you known that there has been a controversy on between the Lorillard Company and the Beech-Nut Packing Company over this Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarette question?

A. Why, about two years, about the time this crew came on there.

X-Q. 72. And how long have you known there has been a controversy over the cigarettes? That is you knew there was a case pending in the Patent Office regarding this cigarette, didn't you?

A. I don't know much about the particulars.

X-Q. 73. I don't mean the particulars. You knew there was some controversy pending in the Patent Office?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 74. And you have known that for some time, haven't you?

A. I don't know how long I have known it, but not so awful long.

X-Q. 75. Well, just approximately.

A. About the patents pending? I haven't known that very long.

X-Q. 76. Well, how long have you known the Beech-Nut cigarette to be in this territory?

A. Oh, that is just comparatively a short time, I know.

X-Q. 77. A couple of months?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 78. But you knew before it ever came into this territory that the P. Lorillard Company had out a cigarette, didn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 79. And you knew they were having some difficulty with the Beech-Nut Packing Company about that cigarette, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 80. And you knew there was some sort of Patent Office proceedings pending in connection with it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 81. Were you asked by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, or some of its representatives, to make any investigations regarding the Lorillard scrap tobacco and the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarette in this territory and obtain whatever evidence you could for this state?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 82. And you have been going around interviewing the trade, have you not?

A. Well, I will tell you frankly, we did not, any of us, put ourselves out to get the information. We were asked to make a note of any information that may come to us. We were not particularly asked to go out and ask for the information.

X-Q. 83. But you have gone around and visited the different stores engaged with this matter, have you not?

A. Yes, sir. I have visited the principal stores after some one else had reported that had happened.

X-Q. 84. And you instructed the men under you to keep an eye out, and pick up whatever information they could, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 85. You never knew personally of any grocer or dealer to sell to a customer either the scrap tobacco or cigarette and tell him it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 86. You never knew a man to hand that over the counter to a customer and say: "That is made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company," did you, in those words?

A. No.

X-Q. 87. You yourself know that that tobacco is made by P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 88. And you also knew the cigarettes to be made by the Lorillard people?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 89. You wouldn't be deceived as to who it was made by?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 90. In other words, you know your own products the same as you would know your own children, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 91. Yesterday when Mr. and Mrs. Petersen were testifying, you were not in this room during all of that examination, were you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 92. You were just called in at the end to stand up?

A. To be identified.

X-Q. 93. —see if they could identify you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 94. As I recollect it, they could not identify you, could they?

A. Yes, sir, they identified me all right.

X-Q. 95. Now, who did you say this Lorillard man was here that you had some talk with? Mr. Goldstein, is that it?

A. Yes, sir, either Mr. Goldstein or Mr. Goldstine.

X-Q. 96. Where did you meet Mr. Goldstein?

A. The first time?

X-Q. 97. Yes, the first time.

A. I have known him ever since he has been here, I guess. He has only been here since the first of this year.

X-Q. 98. Where is he located?

A. Where is his office here?

X-Q. 99. Yes.

A. I don't know.

X-Q. 100. What line of business is he in?

A. Tobacco.

X-Q. 101. Do you know who he represents?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 102. Who?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 103. But you don't know where his office is?

A. I never took the trouble to look it up.

X-Q. 104. Do you know where the Lorillard representative is in this district at all? His address?

A. The street address?

X-Q. 105. Yes.

A. He lives out on Auer avenue.

X-Q. 106. Do you know where his business address is?

A. No, sir, I never had occasion to look it up.

X-Q. 107. You say you met him when he first came in this territory?

A. Shortly after he first came.

X-Q. 108. And when was that?

A. Since the first of this year.

X-Q. 109. Now, how did you happen to have any conversation with this Mr. Goldstein about these Beech-Nut tobacco products?

A. Well, as I say, I met Mr. Goldstein and he knows me and I know him; we met the first time in one of the tobacco jobber's places of business, and when you are around you are more or less apt to start to talk about various things, you don't know just how they happen to come about. Do you want me to give the particulars about the time that he made the statement?

X-Q. 110. Where was it you met him? In whose place —when you first met him?

A. When I first met him?

X-Q. 111. In this tobacco jobber's store? When was that?

A. It was along about the first of this year.

X-Q. 112. whose store was that?

A. A. S. Goodrich, I should say.

X-Q. 113. Did somebody introduce you to Mr. Goldstein?

A. I think they did.

X-Q. 114. You were told that he was the Lorillard man?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 115. And he was told you were the Beech-Nut man?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 116. So you got each other's status down right at the start?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 117. That is, that you knew thereafter that he was the Lorillard man and he knew you were the Beech-Nut man?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 118. All right, let us start from there. On that occasion, did you have any conversation about this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Not about Beech-Nut scrap, no, sir. On that occasion he told me about their selling Beech-Nut cigarettes in the east.

X-Q. 119. And when was that that you mention in Goodrich's?

A. The fore part of this year.

X-Q. 120. And when did this conversation take place with Mr. Goldstein, at which you said that Mr. Smith was present and when he discussed the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. About three or four weeks ago, the same time the cigarettes were out.

X-Q. 121. So that about nine months or so elapsed, approximately, between the time you first met Mr. Goldstein and the time you had this conversation in the presence of Mr. Smith?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 122. Now, in that period of about nine months, more or less, how often did you meet Mr. Goldstein?

A. Oh, quite often, quite a few times.

X-Q. 123. Just give me an approximate date. Was it five times?

A. I was going to say it would average almost once a week, but I don't think that much, maybe once in two weeks.

X-Q. 124. And it was very frequent?

A. Yes, very frequent. Saw him around the trade and around the street, and would say "Hello" to him.

X-Q. 125. Would you meet him in different towns?

A. The only other town I ever happened to meet him in was Kenosha.

X-Q. 126. Most times you met him here in Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 127. So you both knew each other very well, as a matter of fact?

A. Well, as well as you and I know each other.

X-Q. 128. As well as two business men would know each other?

A. Yes, we didn't hobnob together.

X-Q. 129. Each knew which concern the other represented?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 130. And so far as your business relations went, you were on a friendly basis?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 131. Greeted each other when you met in concerns?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 132. So when you had this conversation about three weeks ago in the store in the presence of Mr. Smith, about the Beech-Nut cigarette, there wasn't the slightest misunderstanding in either your mind as to who Mr. Goldstein represented, and you think there wasn't any in his, is that correct?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 133. He knew you were the Beech-Nut man?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 134. And this conversation you had in the presence of Mr. Smith was a friendly one, wasn't it, with Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 135. He didn't say at that conversation these cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. Not in so many words.

X-Q. 136. He didn't say it, did he?

A. Not in those words, no, sir.

X-Q. 137. Did he say it at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 138. And if he did, you would say he was crazy if he said they were put out by your concern, when you were there?

A. Yes, sir, I certainly would.

X-Q. 139. And immediately you would have corrected the impression he would have labored under, if he had so stated, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 140. And in connection with the cigarettes he didn't say the word "Beech-Nut Packing Company" at all, did he?

A. Not the word "Beech-Nut Packing Company."

X-Q. 141. So you could not possibly have been fooled, could you, as to who put out those cigarettes?

A. No, not I.

X-Q. 142. You never heard Mr. Goldstein tell anybody those cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 143. And when you met Mr. Goldstein around in these places, was he taking orders for tobacco or introducing tobacco in the trade, as far as you know?

A. Why, yes.

X-Q. 144. He wasn't selling any food products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 145. As I understood you to say, you never knew any Lorillard man to represent the cigarettes or scrap tobacco were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. Not to me.

X-Q. 146. So far as you know they never did?

A. Not to me.

X-Q. 147. As far as you personally know you never heard that said?

A. I don't know what they said, somebody else.

X-Q. 148. I am just asking about yourself. You don't know?

A. No.

X-Q. 149. They never misrepresented it to you?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 150. You testified on cross-examination that you never told anybody that the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Have you had occasion to tell anybody that it was not?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 151. How many times do you suppose?

A. About seventy-five to one hundred times.

R-D. Q. 152. You refer to your experience in this territory?

A. Yes, when I give that number.

R-D. Q. 153. You were asked on cross-examination whether you had ever heard any Lorillard representative say that the scrap tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and several other questions of the same character, and you answered: "Not directly," or "Not to me." What did you mean by qualifying your answers in this way?

A. Why, I have heard of instances where they left the impression with the retailers that we were making the tobacco as well as the cigarettes. At least, that was the impression that the retailer conveyed to our salesman or to myself.

R-D. Q. 154. In order to illustrate what you mean, will you give me one of those instances?

A. On the scrap tobacco?

R-D. Q. 155. Yes.

A. Why, at the time this crew was working at Appleton, our retail man, Mr. Siesennop, went in to call on one of our grocery accounts in this city—it was either the same day or the following day after the tobacco salesman had been there—and the retailer was under the impression we were making tobacco.

R-D. Q. 156. Where is Mr. Siesennop now?

A. I think he is in Ashland, Wisconsin.

R-D. Q. 157. Where?

A. He is either in Ironwood, Michigan, or Ashland, Wisconsin, this week, way up in the northern part of the territory.

R-D. Q. 158. Now, you have testified on cross-examination that you, before you came to Wisconsin territory, were in the Pennsylvania territory?

A. What we call the western Pennsylvania territory. I was in Altoona and from Altoona I came to Pittsburgh, and from Pittsburgh there.

R-D. Q. 159. Did you hear any comment, remarks and inquiries about the Beech-Nut scrap down there?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 160. What was the character of the comments, inquiries and remarks that you heard?

A. The same character as we hear out here this time.

R-D. Q. 161. How many do you suppose you have heard down there?

A. Quite a few.

R-D. Q. 162. Do you mean ten or two?

A. Oh, I should say—of course, that is quite awhile ago, I can't remember exactly, I didn't pay much attention to that at the time—but I should say one hundred, at least. I didn't pay much attention to it at the time.

R-D. Q. 163. You said that Mr. Goldstein made this remark, that you have quoted, more than once; that Mr. C. W. Smith was present on one occasion. Who was present on some of the other occasions?

A. Why, on the next occasion Mr. Atkinson and I went in a cigar store over here, I don't just remember the name of it. I took it it was a cigar store—

R-D. Q. 164. What Atkinson is that?

A. Our Mr. L. R. Atkinson of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and there were three or four other people in there.

R-D. Q. 165. Do you know the names of any of these other people?

A. Mr. Tuckwell was one. I don't know the others.

R-D. Q. 166. What is his initials?

A. I couldn't tell you.

R-D. Q. 167. Do you know him when you see him?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 168. What does he do?

A. He is running that cigar store.

R-D. Q. 169. What is the address of his cigar store?

A. East Water street, part of the Piggly Wiggly Store.

R-D. Q. 170. Are the Beech-Nut Packing Company products that you have personally handled, all packaged in the same kind of package?

A. No.

R-D. Q. 171. Well, how many different kinds of packages do you suppose there are? I don't want a tabulated list, I mean just approximately how many kinds of packages of goods?

A. Different sizes and styles and shapes, you mean?

R-D. Q. 172. Yes, could you give me an estimate of the number?

A. Over a dozen.

R-D. Q. 173. They pack goods in glass jars?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 174. They pack goods in cans?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 175. They put up goods in paper wrappers?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 176. They put up goods in paper and tinfoil wrappers?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 177. They put up goods wrapped in cloth?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 178. They pack goods in cardboard boxes?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-Cross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 179. Does the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up cigarettes in cigarette packages?

A. Not to my knowledge.

R-X Q. 180. Do they put up scrap tobacco in scrap tobacco packages?

A. Not to my knowledge.

R-X Q. 181. You say you heard general comments hundreds of times about people inquiring if the Beech-Nut cigarette and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco like these exhibit packages here were put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company. You never kept any track of the number of times?

A. No, might be more.

R-X Q. 182. That is simply an estimate on your part?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 183. You don't know whether a single one of those persons ever took the trouble to read the writing on those packages, do you?

A. No, sir, I don't know.

R-X Q. 184. In your redirect examination, you have stated in substance that you have heard of instances where Lorillard salesmen left the impression with retailers that this scrap tobacco and these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Now, let us get right down to cases on this and be blunt with each other. Do you yourself know of any instance where a Lorillard salesman did that?

A. Let us be frank.

R-X Q. 185. Absolutely.

A. I don't say what the Lorillard salesmen said, I don't know what the Lorillard salesmen said, all I know is what the retailers told us was their impression after the Lorillard salesman had left.

R-X Q. 186. Oh, then your whole answer was based on hearsay and upon some retailer's mental impression, is that it?

A. My remarks were given as given to me by either my retail man or the dealer.

R-X Q. 187. You yourself could not name any Lorillard man that left such an impression, that you know of?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 188. And you yourself were never present when any Lorillard man left such an impression with a retailer?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 189. It was simply some sort of gossip that some retailer told you and without giving the man's name or anything else; is that it?

A. I don't know as it was gossip; it was just what he told me.

R-X Q. 190. Well, you yourself don't know of a single Lorillard man?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 191. Or a single instance where a Lorillard man deliberately told that those tobacco products were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, do you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 192. And what they did tell you, was it some impression?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 193. And you don't know if those retailers ever took the trouble to read that package, do you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 194. And you know Lorillard's name was on the packages of scrap tobacco and cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 195. And you don't know if one of those retailers ever took the trouble to open up a carton of cigarettes, do you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 196. Or to open up a carton of scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 197. Or to look at the carton of scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 198. What did you say this agent's name of yours was, Mr. Lewis?

A. Siesennop.

R-X Q. 199. You were not with him when he was talking to this retailer, were you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 200. He works for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, this Mr. Siesennop?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 201. And he brought that situation back to you?

A. Yes, sir, he told it to me the next day.

R-X Q. 202. And this Mr. Atkinson that you were speaking about, he is with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 203. What does he do?

A. He is working on this case under Mr. Hinton's instructions, I believe.

R-X Q. 204. He is a sort of inspector, is he?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 205. He is from the home office at Canajoharie, N. Y., is he?

A. Yes, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

CLARENCE W. SMITH, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Clarence W. Smith is my name; age, 27; occupation, canned foods broker.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business?

A. You mean the office where I work?

Q. 3. Yes.

A. 288 East Water street; 976 38th street, Milwaukee, is my new address. I just moved.

Q. 4. Are you acquainted with a Mr. Goldstein in Milwaukee?

A. I have met Mr. Goldstein.

Q. 5. And who is he?

A. I was introduced to him as a representative of the P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 6. And where was this?

A. In Kern & Sons cigar store, down here on East Water street.

Q. 7. Did you hear Mr. Goldstein make any statement about Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Why, I heard Mr. Goldstein make the statement in the presence of Mr. Lewis that "Beech-Nut cigarettes were quality goods, like the rest of the Beech-Nut line."

Q. 8. Was Mr. Lewis, who was present, the Mr. Lewis who is the division manager for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. When Mr. Goldstein made this remark did he have Beech-Nut cigarettes with him?

A. He had a package and offered us a cigarette at the time.

Q. 10. Mr. Smith, when did I see you last?

A. About a week ago.

Q. 11. Since that time have you, of your own volition, made any inquiries from people about Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Why, on Sunday, this past Sunday, I was talking to my brother-in-law, who is quite a cigarette smoker and cashier of one of the leading banks here, and I asked him as to whether or not he ever knew that the Beech-Nut cigarettes, which he said he had smoked some, were packed by the P. Lorillard Company, and he said he did know it, but it was only recently he had found out they were put up by Lorillard, he was under the impression prior to that time they were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 12. I don't think it is permissible to say what people told you that they thought. I simply want any instances, if there have been any, where you asked somebody who made the cigarettes, and then I think you could state just what he said in direct answer to that question. Have there been any such instances as that?

A. Yes, there is just one instance that I know of. A friend of mine by name of William Enke, works over here in the Second Ward Bank; he was up to my house about two weeks ago when I asked him that question. He was smoking one—as a matter of fact it may have been a little longer than that, as a matter of fact, it was the same day the Beech-Nut cigarettes were put on the market here, I don't recollect what day that was, and I put the question to him and he said: "Yes, I bought them as being the Beech-Nut Packing Company cigarette." He said: "That was my opinion, I thought they were put out by the same people that put out Beech-Nut peanut butter."

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 13. Mr. Smith, as I understand it, you are in the food brokerage business?

A. Yes, sir; that is, the canned food brokerage business.

X-Q. 14. Do you handle in your business any of the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 15. You don't have any dealings with them whatsoever?

A. No, sir, I am not in the grocery line; the brokerage game is an entirely different line of business.

X-Q. 16. So you don't come into contact, either directly or indirectly, with the Beech-Nut Packing Company, do you?

A. No, we do not.

X-Q. 17. And you have never done a stroke of business for those people?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 18. Just tell me how you do your business in this food brokerage line.

A. Canned food line?

X-Q. 19. Yes, just briefly.

A. Our line of business is very similar to the stock brokerage business. We represent certain canners and do business for them, that is, sell their goods on a brokerage basis. That is about the sum and substance of the business, method of our doing business.

X-Q. 20. So your business brings you into contact with the food products line?

A. Oh, yes, yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. But it doesn't bring you into contact with the tobacco business, does it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 22. You don't handle any tobaccos at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. You regard those as entirely distinct classes of goods, tobaccos and foods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. They are different lines of business?

A. I wouldn't say that, not out in this territory they are not, because the average jobber in Milwaukee handles tobacco as well as food stuffs.

X-Q. 25. You don't handle tobacco?

A. Yes, but I am not a jobber, I am in the brokerage business.

X-Q. 26. I mean in your brokerage business?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. But you know that brokers handle tobacco stocks and tobacco goods, don't you?

A. I am not familiar with any of them, no, sir, not in this town here.

X-Q. 28. That is, as far as you are concerned, you don't know anything about the tobacco business at all; is that right?

A. That is right.

X-Q. 29. But if you wanted to buy, as an ordinary purchaser, if you wanted to purchase some chewing gum you would not take a package of cigarettes in place of the gum you asked for, would you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 30. And you would regard them as entirely distinct goods, wouldn't you? You couldn't be fooled for a minute, could you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31. And you think a man who would take cigarettes or take scrap tobacco, when he wanted chewing gum or bacon, was crazy, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, I would have to draw that conclusion.

X-Q. 32. Now, when did you first meet this Mr. Goldstein?

A. Oh, I should say it was about three weeks ago; that is approximate, now, I am not just certain when I met him.

X-Q. 33. And that is the first time you ever met him, is it?

A. That is the first time I was ever introduced to him. I saw him before on the street.

X-Q. 34. And this place where you met him, what line of business is that?

A. In the tobacco business, cigar store.

X-Q. 35. Wholesale place?

A. Retail.

X-Q. 36. How did you happen to be in there?

A. I just purchased some cigars.

X-Q. 37. Did you meet Mr. Lewis in there, or was he in there when you went in?

A. Mr. Lewis was in there when I went in.

X-Q. 38. And you ran into Mr. Goldstein in this store; is that it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 39. And you got talking about the Beech-Nut products, Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. Did you know he was a Lorillard man when you went in with Mr. Lewis in that store and met him?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 41. Did Mr. Lewis introduce you to him?

A. Mr. Lewis introduced me to him, yes, sir.

X-Q. 42. And Mr. Lewis told you that he was with the Lorillard Company, that is, that Mr. Goldstein was with the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 43. So Mr. Lewis told you that right before Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. And then in the course of conversation this matter of cigarettes came up and he offered you a Beech-Nut cigarette, did he?

A. He didn't offer me a cigarette. As I recollect, he offered it to Mr. Lewis.

X-Q. 45. Knowing that Mr. Lewis was a Beech-Nut Packing Company man, he offered him a cigarette?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 46. They were on friendly terms, evidently?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 47. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Goldstein, I mean.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. And he didn't say these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he? Mr. Goldstein didn't say that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 49. He said nothing at all that would indicate that he thought they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. Well, I would draw that conclusion from the statement he made to me; if he had made it to anybody else they would have drawn that conclusion.

X-Q. 50. That is, drawn the conclusion they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 51. Now, I would just like you to give me, as close as you can, his exact words that would lead a person to draw that conclusion. What were Mr. Goldstein's exact words?

A. He said they were quality products, like the rest of the Beech-Nut line.

X-Q. 52. He didn't say the Beech-Nut food products line, did he?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 53. He didn't say the Beech-Nut chewing gum line?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 54. He didn't say the Beech-Nut candy line?

A. No.

X-Q. 55. He might have meant the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco line, for all you know, might he not, being a tobacco man?

A. Possibly.

X-Q. 56. Well, did this man Goldstein look like an intelligent man, a man of ordinary commonsense?

A. Well, he had the average intelligence, I would say, yes.

X-Q. 57. Now, you were speaking about drawing a conclusion. In the ordinary course of human conduct, with the Beech-Nut candy company man standing right at your side, and being the man that introduced you to Mr. Goldstein, the Lorillard man, don't you think it entirely improbable that Mr. Goldstein would attempt in any way to misrepresent this cigarette as the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company with the Beech-Nut Packing Company's division manager standing right there before him and ready to deny it? He couldn't have done that seriously, do you think?

A. Well, that is more than I can say.

X-Q. 58. Well, now, you yourself, just take for example, Mr. Smith, that you are representing, say, the McCormick Harvester people, and you bring in a friend of yours to the establishment of a customer of the McCormick Harvester people who was not selling the harvester, you would not expect that other man to mislead that other man right in front of the McCormick man, would you?

A. No, I wouldn't expect him to.

X-Q. 59. So there was no misrepresentation on Mr. Goldstein's part, so far as you could understand?

A. Well, it was kind of misleading, in a way.

X-Q. 60. He just used the word "Beech-Nut line," didn't he?

A. "Like the rest of the Beech-Nut line," yes, sir.

X-Q. 61. Now, presuming the Beech-Nut line of food products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company to be a high class of goods, might not it have been probable that he meant his cigarettes were as good in the tobacco line as the other Beech-Nut food products were in the food line?

A. Yes, he may have wished to interpret that.

X-Q. 62. Or, as I said before, he might have interpreted in connection with the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, because that is a Beech-Nut line. He might have done that, mightn't he?

A. He made a rather broad statement to interpret it just that way.

X-Q. 63. But I am going on the presumption, as I understood you to testify, that the division manager of the Beech-Nut Packing Company was standing there. That would be the last moment in the world an ordinary man would make a misrepresentation, wouldn't it?

A. It ought to be.

X-Q. 64. It would seem insane for him to do otherwise, wouldn't it, to you, when the Beech-Nut man was right before him, ready to deny it and catch him up?

(No reply.)

X-Q. 65. That would have seemed far fetched, wouldn't it?

A. I would think so, yes.

X-Q. 66. You didn't take the package of cigarettes in your hands, did you?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

X-Q. 67. But he offered Mr. Lewis a package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 68. Will you read whose name is on that package (indicating)?

A. "P. Lorillard Company."

X-Q. 69. You don't find the word "Beech-Nut Packing Company" any place on that package, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 70. It was a package like this that Mr. Goldstein showed Mr. Lewis, wasn't it (indicating)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 71. So you had before you and Mr. Lewis, of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the package of cigarettes with "Lorillard" on it, and Mr. Lewis knowing that Mr. Goldstein is the Lorillard man, and you think Mr. Goldstein knowing Mr. Lewis is the Beech-Nut Packing Company man, with the stage set in that way, you don't think a sensible man would represent that to be the Beech-Nut Packing Company's package, do you?

A. He ought not to.

X-Q. 72. It would seem silly, wouldn't it, when it could be so easily disproven, with the facts right in front of you, wouldn't it? Doesn't that strike you that way?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 73. All Mr. Lewis would have to do is to take that package and hand it to you and show Lorillard's name on it, and show it was not theirs, and say: "I have been handling Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods for so many years, and it is not ours," and the man would have had no explanation, Mr. Goldstein, would he?

A. No.

X-Q. 74. You don't smoke these Beech-Nut cigarettes yourself?

A. I smoke no cigarettes at all.

X-Q. 75. You don't chew scrap tobacco, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 76. You never saw a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up like a package of cigarettes, did you (indicating)?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 77. And you never saw a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company like a package of scrap tobacco like this Exhibit 8, did you (indicating)?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 78. So far as you know the Beech-Nut Packing Company never put out any tobacco products, did they?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 79. You said—was it your brother-in-law?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 80. (Continuing.) Thought they were Beech-Nut Packing Company cigarettes when he bought them?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 81. You don't know personally whether he ever took the trouble to read the printed matter on the package and see who they were made by, do you?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 82. And likewise, in any other instance that you might have mentioned here, I think you did mention one more, you don't know if that party ever took the trouble to look at the package to see whose name was on it, do you?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 83. You have testified that Mr. Goldstein, exhibiting a package of cigarettes, said: "These cigarettes are quality goods like the rest of the Beech-Nut line." Now, of course, any statement is susceptible of a number of interpretations, some of which have been suggested by Mr. Cavanagh, as, for instance, that Mr. Goldstein meant that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were as good in the tobacco line as the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods were in some other line. I want to test the question in this way: If a P. Lorillard representative displayed Beech-Nut cigarettes and made exactly the statement that Mr. Goldstein made to an average person who knew nothing about the situation, what would you say the average person would have understood from that statement?

Mr. Cavanagh: Just one minute. That question is objected to as calling for an opinion, as based upon circumstances which are not proven here. The record conclusively shows that this witness was talking to a Lorillard man in front of a Beech-Nut man, and any question should be based upon that condition of affairs.

Mr. Hinton: I think it is a perfectly fair test of the statement, and it is not to be supposed that Mr. Goldstein would be any more careful with his statements in talking to average persons than he would when talking to a Beech-Nut Packing Company representative.

Mr. Cavanagh: Notice is hereby given that a motion will be made in proper time to strike out all testimony bearing upon the situation of affairs suggested in the last question propounded by counsel for Beech-Nut Packing Company and it is stipulated that this notice will stand for any similar questions relating to the same conditions.

(Last question read to the witness.)

Mr. Hinton: R-D. Q. 84. Do you understand the question?

A. Yes, sir. Why, I would say that the average person would conclude that Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people who put out most of the other Beech-Nut products, such as peanut butter.

R-D. Q. 85. I understand from Mr. Cavanagh that you were asked specifically whether you would accept a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum in place of a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Of course you answered "No." I want to ask you whether, if you were offered a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes bearing what appeared to you to be the same label as was on the chewing gum, you would accept those cigarettes as a product of the same people who made the chewing gum?

A. I don't quite get that question.

(Question read.)

Mr. Hinton: Assuming, of course, that you did not know the facts.

Mr. Cavanagh: The question is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant, as there is nothing in any exhibit or record in this case to show that there is any cigarette package bearing any chewing label similar to that used by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

(Last question read as follows:

"Q. I understand that Mr. Cavanagh asked you specifically whether you would accept a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum in place of a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Of course, you answered: 'No.' I want to ask you whether, if you were offered a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes bearing what appeared to you to be the same label as was on the chewing gum, you would accept those cigarettes as a product of the same people who made the chewing gum, assuming, of course, that you did not know the facts?")

A. Yes, because I very seldom look for the producer's name.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-Cross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 86. Now, Mr. Smith, one thing is certain: When you left this store, after your conversation with the Lorillard man in the presence of Mr. Lewis, you certainly were not under the impression those cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, were you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 87. You knew they were P. Lorillard's cigarettes, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 88. So, as far as what might or might not have been, it did not affect you, you knew they were Lorillard's cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 89. I understood you to say, in regard to the chewing gum and the accepting of chewing gum and cigarettes as the product of the same company, that you never took the trouble to read what was on the label or printed matter?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-Direct Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 90. Did you know before you went into the store where Mr. Goldstein made the remark, that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were not the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Did I know before?

R-D. Q. 91. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

THEODORE MUELLER, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Theodore Mueller; age, 44; residence, 443 64th Avenue; occupation, druggist.

Q. 2. Are you proprietor of a drug store?

A. I am.

Q. 3. Where is your drug store located?

A. I have two stores.

Q. 4. Where are they each located?

A. One at 6324 Greenfield Avenue, and one at 471 East Water Street.

Q. 5. Now, I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, in this case as Exhibit No. 1. Have you bought and sold those cigarettes in your store?

A. I have.

Q. 6. I wish you would tell me the circumstances under which you claim you ordered these cigarettes.

A. I was approached by a representative from a local tobacco firm and he asked me if we wanted any Beech-Nut cigarettes, and when I heard the name "Beech-Nut" cigarettes I took it for granted it was manufactured by the same firm that made other Beech-Nut products. Of course, we sell lots of Beech-Nut gum and Beech-Nut mints and other Beech-Nut products, so I gave him an order for 1000 to start out with and I asked him how they were selling, and he said they didn't have them in yet but that they expected them shortly and would send them over, and all this time I was under the impression that that was an article manufactured by the same firm that makes the Beech-Nut gum. And when I received the package I discovered that it was not a Beech-Nut product, not an article manufactured by the same firm that makes Beech-Nut gum.

Q. 7. What do you mean by the "package"—the carton, or what? You said when you received the package, you mean the little package of cigarettes or the carton or the big container, or what?

A. Well, I don't remember that. To tell you the truth, if you asked me now I couldn't tell you what is on the package.

Q. 8. On the little package?

A. On the package, yes.

Q. 9. Could you tell me now whether the name of the manufacturer is written on the little package of cigarettes containing twenty cigarettes?

A. The manufacturer's name?

Q. 10. Yes.

A. I don't know.

Q. 11. Now, you have testified that when this man offered you Beech-Nut cigarettes you immediately ordered a thousand of them, and that you were under the impression that they were a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. What, if anything, did that belief on your part have to do with your ordering the cigarettes?

A. Well, we have sold Beech-Nut gum for some years, and it was always a good seller, and I thought anything with the Beech-Nut label on ought to be a good seller. We have had a very good sale on the gum and also on the confects.

Q. 12. How long have you personally sold cigarettes over the counter?

A. Oh, over twenty years.

Q. 13. Have you sold Camel cigarettes over the counter?

A. Yes, a good many.

Q. 14. How many packages did you suppose you have handed out?

A. It would be pretty hard telling; I would have to look over my bills.

Q. 15. What is written on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of a Camel, do you know?

A. No, I don't.

Q. 16. How many little packages of Lucky Strike cigarettes do you suppose you have handed out? Of course, you can't give the exact number, but approximation—would it be one hundred or five hundred?

A. It would be one hundred thousand or more than that, I would say. We buy them in case lots.

Q. 17. What is written on a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel with the name "Lucky Strike"?

A. I don't know.

Q. 18. Do you have any difficulty in identifying a package of Camel cigarettes or Lucky Strike cigarettes when you want to get them to hand to a customer?

A. To identify that package?

Q. 19. No, I mean to pick them out from other brands.

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 20. Mr. Mueller, did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. They are very large tobacco manufacturers, aren't they?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. And you have handled the Murad, the Mogul and Egyptian Deity cigarettes made by that company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. Different brands?

A. I don't know whether made by that company or not.

X-Q. 24. But you have handled those cigarettes?

A. We sell them, yes.

X-Q. 25. So long as a cigarette brand is a good seller and is made by a reputable concern like Lorillard Company, you would not have any objection to handling that in your store, would you?

A. We are in the business to sell anything that sells.

X-Q. 26. That is what I mean, and if a product, for example a cigarette, is made by a well-known and established manufacturer, and it is a good seller, you have no objection to handling that, have you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. And as I understand it, when you first ordered these cigarettes and you received them you noticed they were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, didn't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. As a man purchasing goods you looked and saw they were not a Beech-Nut brand?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. I show you this package of cigarettes, Exhibit No. 1, P. Lorillard Company's name is on there, isn't it, as a Lorillard product?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. I also show you a carton or box in which the cigarettes, the individual packages, are placed in bulk. Lorillard's name appears on that package, too, doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. And without going into any details, it was the general appearance and the name on the thing that led you to know it was not a Beech-Nut Packing Company product, wasn't it?

A. No, the name "Beech-Nut" is so prominent on the package that would strike my eye before anything else.

X-Q. 32. But I am speaking about what did strike your eye that you knew it was not the Beech-Nut brand.

A. After I started to handle them, then I noticed it.

X-Q. 33. You noticed they were not the Beech-Nut people's product?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. So you did not labor under any misapprehension when you got those, as to whose cigarettes they were?

A. I was under a misapprehension when I ordered them.

X-Q. 35. The agent did not tell you they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir, I didn't ask him.

X-Q. 36. You didn't ask him and he didn't tell you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 37. You simply told him you would take Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. And that man that sold you the Beech-Nut cigarettes—did the man who sold them represent a reputable concern in town?

A. We have found them reputable.

X-Q. 39. What is the name of that concern?

A. Sher & Vinograd on Biddle street.

X-Q. 40. In your dealings you always found those people fair and reputable?

A. I haven't dealt with that firm very long, I have only been in this store since the first of July and we have had occasion to buy from them three or four times in that length of time.

X-Q. 41. But, I mean so far as your dealings with them have been, you have found them to be a reputable concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. When you opened the carton of cigarettes, did you notice a printed slip in there like this (indicating)?

A. I may have noticed it, but I never read it. I may have seen it. I never pay any attention to that.

X-Q. 43. You never pay any attention to it?

A. No.

X-Q. 44. But you did pay enough attention to see those cigarettes were not Beech-Nut Packing Company's when you got them?

A. I noticed that, yes.

X-Q. 45. Do you handle Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 46. A cigarette package has an individuality all its own, so far as its shape and general appearance goes, hasn't it, so you couldn't have any trouble in picking out a cigarette package from a package of chewing gum, would you?

A. I guess you can tell the difference.

X-Q. 47. If a man came into your store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you hand him a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum in place of the cigarettes he asked for?

A. Not if I was awake.

X-Q. 48. You would think he was crazy if he took chewing gum for cigarettes, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, I should think so. I suppose he would think I was crazy if I gave them to him.

X-Q. 49. And you yourself wouldn't be deceived or confused into accepting chewing gum when you wanted cigarettes, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 50. And that is because they are an entirely different class of goods; isn't that so?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 51. You never bought any tobacco products or cigarettes from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you, direct?

A. Don't smoke cigarettes.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 52. Mr. Mueller, your attention has been called on cross-examination to this carton, Lorillard's Cross-Exhibit—I think it is No. 6—being a carton containing ten little packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Do you know whether all of the cartons like this you have received have the word "Lorillard's" written at the top?

A. I couldn't say.

R-D. Q. 53. And on the end (indicating)?

A. I couldn't say.

R-D. Q. 54. So far as these cartons go, you have never looked at all of the cartons that were put out, have you?

A. Never looked at any of them.

R-D. Q. 55. And this carton is like those you got, as near as your recollection goes?

A. I don't know, I would have to look at it again.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

J. E. BRIMAKOW, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Hinton: Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. J. E. Brimakow; thirty-eight years of age; residence, 980 35th street; occupation, manager of the cigar department of the Kiefer Drug Company.

Q. 2. Have you sold Beech-Nut cigarettes similar to Plaintiff's Exhibit 1, which I now show you, in that store?

A. I have.

Q. 3. How long have these cigarettes been on sale in this territory, as far as you know?

A. As far as I know, about two months.

Q. 4. When they were first offered to you, how many did you order?

A. I ordered one case.

Q. 5. How many would that be?

A. That is 10,000.

Q. 6. Is this the average order of a new brand of cigarettes, or wouldn't you consider that a large order?

A. That I would consider, for this place, a large order.

Q. 7. Why did you make such a large order?

A. Being the first one, and on account of the name "Beech-Nut." If it was another one I wouldn't order any at all until they were in town.

Q. 8. Since you have been selling these cigarettes have any comments, remarks or inquiries about the cigarettes been made to you by your customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. What is the nature of these remarks?

A. "Made by the Beech Nut Products Company?" and, "If it is as good as the gum, it must be a good cigarette."

Q. 10. Have you heard that kind of remarks more than once?

A. About half a dozen times.

Q. 11. How many cases of these cigarettes have you sold?

A. This is my fifth case.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 12. This store that you are the manager of the cigar department, is a large drug store, is it not?

A. Well, no, not considered as a large drug store, but as one of the prominent corner cigar stores doing a legitimate business under a full price, not a cut rate. It is one of the largest Rexall stores in the city.

X-Q. 13. And the title of it is the Kiefer Drug Company?

A. Kiefer Drug Company, yes, sir.

X-Q. 14. And that is located where?

A. At 238 West Water street, Milwaukee.

X-Q. 15. How long have you been in charge of the cigar department?

A. I have been in charge just exactly four months. I was with the Central Drug Company at first.

X-Q. 16. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. I know them.

X-Q. 17. You have been selling, since you have been here, scrap tobacco known as the "Beech-Nut Scrap"?

A. Beech-Nut scrap, yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is objected to as outside of the line of direct examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: X-Q. 18. And you know that the cigarette package has on it the name "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. P. Lorillard, yes, sir.

X-Q. 19. And that cigarette comes in cartons like this one I show you (indicating)?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. Which is marked in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit 9?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. And that has the name "P. Lorillard, Beech-Nut" on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. And in the carton there appears a yellow slip, which I now mark for identification as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 10, and which bears the words "Lorillard's Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. And when you have a carton of these cigarettes open in your show window, you have this yellow sign in it, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. And that is the way you put it in your window (indicating)?

A. That is the way I always put them in the window, yes.

X-Q. 25. You know the Lorillard Company is a very large tobacco concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. They handle a good large line of cigarettes?

A. High-grade cigarettes.

X-Q. 27. You have a good sale of their products?

A. We have a good sale of their products.

X-Q. 28. In other words, you have absolutely no objection to ever putting in a P. Lorillard Company tobacco product, have you, because their reputation is good?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 29. Did you look at these packages when you first received them?

A. I did.

X-Q. 30. You saw the name "Lorillard's" on them?

A. Yes, I did.

X-Q. 31. You knew they were Lorillard's cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. You were perfectly willing to go on and sell Lorillard's goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. If you went into a store you wouldn't purchase chewing gum or candy, if you wanted cigarettes, would you? That is, I will put the question like this: If you went into a store and wanted to get a package of Lorillard's Beech-Nut cigarettes, you wouldn't be fooled by the salesman into taking a package of chewing gum in the place of cigarettes, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. An entirely different class of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. You knew that the scrap tobacco was a Lorillard's tobacco?

A. Always did know it.

X-Q. 36. You would naturally presume this was the same thing, the Lorillard cigarette?

A. Yes, sir.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 37. Did you know that the cigarettes were not the Beech-Nut Packing Company product before you received them?

A. I knew it.

R-D. Q. 38. That is, before the carton and package came in?

A. Before the carton came. I was told by the P. Lorillard representative they were going to take big. And there is another statement: This is one will take big, that we were compelled to uphold the price on this cigarette, if not we would be discontinued handling it on account of that name "Beech-Nut."

Depositions taken pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel by and before Leo M. Fox, a Notary Public and Court Reporter, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at the office of Leo M. Fox, 511 Produce Exchange Bldg., Toledo, Ohio, Wednesday, November 8, 1921, beginning ten A. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, Esq., of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff. Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company, defendant.

OSCAR JOSEPH, a witness produced on behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice, by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Oscar Joseph; 32; 1129 Summit St., Toledo, Ohio.

Q. 2. Your occupation?

A. I am in the grocery business, grocery and meat market.

Q. 3. Where is your store located?

A. At the present time, 502 Cherry.

Q. 4. Do you sell tobacco products in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in this case, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3; have you sold this product in your store?

A. A number of years.

Q. 6. How long have you sold it?

A. Between six and seven years.

Q. 7. How much have you sold, approximately—is it a good deal or little?

A. Oh, quite a bit. I cannot remember how much, but we sell an awful bunch of it.

Q. 8. During this six or seven years, that you have been selling this product, whose product did you think it was?

A. Of course the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 9. Do you know who makes that product?

A. I did not really know that always—I thought the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 10. I was in here about fifteen minutes ago and we have just come back to take this deposition. Did you in the meantime, ask a customer anything about this?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. And what did you ask him?

A. I asked him, "Who do you think makes the Beech-Nut tobacco?" He said, "Of course, the Beech-Nut people."

Q. 12. Have you previously heard this matter discussed by the customer?

A. Quite a few.

Q. 13. What have they said?

A. They all say—they talk about who is making the tobacco, they don't stop to think to read the name, they think it is the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 14. Have you heard this discussed a little or a good deal?

A. Quite often.

Q. 15. During the past six or seven years?

A. During the time I was doing business.

Q. 16. Do you know the name of this customer whom you just asked about this?

A. No, I can get you his name easy, he used to work for B. A. Berry; he is working for Wilson Company now.

Q. 17. What is their line?

A. Meat business.

Q. 18. You know him personally?

A. Yes.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 19. Do you do the buying for this concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. From whom do you buy this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. We buy it down town now.

X-Q. 21. From the jobber?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. You do not buy it from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

X-Q. 23. Never did?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Tobacco Company selling food products?

A. No, don't know anything about it.

X-Q. 25. You never heard of it?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. You have bought stuff from the Beech-Nut Packing Company salesmen?

A. No, we buy everything down town.

X-Q. 27. You never took the trouble to read the writing on a package of Beech-Nut scrap?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. You have heard of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, I have heard of them, sure.

X-Q. 29. Do you see Lorillard's name on there (Exhibiting Exhibit 3 to witness)?

A. Yes, of course, if you stop to read.

X-Q. 30. You never bought any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods, that is, their food products, or chewing gum, that was put up like a package of scrap tobacco?

A. Not like the package—same name, everybody thinks it is the same firm.

X-Q. 31. You never saw that name, Lorillard's?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. You never bought any food products or chewing gum that looked like a package of cigarettes?

A. No, not that looks alike; they are different packages.

X-Q. 33. If a man came in your store here, and he wanted to buy some Beech-Nut bacon, or he wanted to buy some Beech-Nut chewing gum, you would not hand him this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco for the chewing gum?

A. No. He will tell what he wants, Beech-Nut tobacco, or gum, or bacon.

X-Q. 34. You would think he was crazy if he would take the tobacco instead of the bacon?

A. Yes, he will think I am crazy if I give him tobacco instead of bacon.

X-Q. 35. That is because they are entirely different goods?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. This Beech-Nut tobacco is a very good seller?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 37. You know a tobacco concern like Lorillard's, that handles Murads, Moguls and Egyptian Deities, that is a good concern?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. You have no objection to handling their goods?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. So far as your business goes, as long as this tobacco is a good seller, it would not make any difference whether it is made by Lorillard or the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, it would not make any difference to me.

X-Q. 40. As long as it is a good seller?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 41. Did you know Lorillard Company made the Murad cigarettes before Mr. Cavanagh mentioned it?

A. No, I did not really know.

R-D. Q. 42. Who makes the Egyptian Deity cigarettes, do you know?

A. I don't know.

R-D. Q. 43. Do you know who makes the Camel cigarettes or Fatima?

A. No, by God, I don't remember it; I used to remember all the names of the firms.

R-D. Q. 44. Did you ever notice this name, Lorillard, on the package?

A. If you start to read it.

R-D. Q. 45. Let me ask this question: Did you ever notice the name "Lorillard" on this package before Mr. Cavanagh showed it to you?

A. No.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 46. Then you never took the trouble to investigate or find out who made Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, I never paid any attention to it.

R-X Q. 47. It did not make a bit of difference to you who made it, did it?

A. No, of course not.

R-X Q. 48. But you have heard of the Murad cigarettes?

A. I have sold them, I have sold the Murad cigarettes.

Recross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

MIKE SABA, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Mike Saba; 1129 Summit street.

Q. 2. You are a partner with Mr. Oscar Joseph in the grocery and meat market?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Located at 502 Cherry street, Toledo, Ohio; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Do you handle tobacco products in this store, Mr. Saba?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in this case Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3; have you sold this tobacco over the counter?

A. Yes, lots of it.

Q. 6. How long have you sold it over the counter?

A. Six or seven years. I used to be on the corner over there, and I moved here.

Q. 7. Now, during those six or seven years you sold this tobacco over the counter, whose product did you think it was?

A. I thought it was the same people—Beech-Nut chewing gum, all the same company.

Q. 8. Did you ever hear any of your customers talk about this tobacco, and who made it?

A. I heard sometime one fellow, he thought chewing gum and Beech-Nut tobacco all one kind, the same people make it, that is all I heard, all I know.

Q. 9. I understand the others did not discuss the question with you, the other customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Have you ever told your customers about who makes this tobacco?

A. No, I did not tell them—I thought the same company made them. You asked me if I thought the Beech-Nut chewing gum and tobacco were made by the same people. I said I do not know, I think it is one people. You told me yesterday. I said I did not know that before.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 11. You never took the trouble to find out who made the tobacco, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. You never read the package?

A. No, I do not read very much, and I did not look.

X-Q. 13. You did not pay any attention to it at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. It is a good selling tobacco, isn't it?

A. Yes, it is a good selling tobacco.

X-Q. 15. As long as it is a good selling tobacco, it don't make any difference to you who made it?

A. Yes, that is right; if it is a good seller.

X-Q. 16. A good seller, that is all you are interested in?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. You have been finding this to be a good selling tobacco for six or seven years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. And there is quite a demand for it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. If a customer came in this store and he wanted some chewing gum, or wanted some Beech-Nut bacon, you would not give him a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco for the bacon?

A. No; if he wanted Beech-Nut bacon or gum, I would ask him what he wanted.

X-Q. 20. You would not confuse him by giving tobacco for bacon?

A. Yes, when he wants bacon, he says bacon, and if he wants chewing gum, he says chewing gum; or if he wants tobacco, he says tobacco.

X-Q. 21. That is, because they are entirely different goods, tobacco is not like chewing gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. Chewing gum is not put up like this tobacco package?

A. No.

X-Q. 23. It don't look like that?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. You don't know whether these customers ever took the trouble to find out who made the tobacco, do you?

A. There is some fellow might.

X-Q. 25. But you never took the trouble to find out who made it?

A. No.

Cross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

JOHN JOZSA, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice, by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is John Jozsa; age, 36; residence, 2344 Calidonia.

Q. 2. Your occupation?

A. Meat cutter and grocery clerk.

Q. 3. Where are you employed, Mr. Jozsa; what store are you employed at?

A. I worked in Jacobs' grocery on Front street, and in Rachies', on Adams—it is not in business any more; I worked at 324 South street. That place is closed now, but I worked there.

Q. 4. Where are you now employed?

A. Saba & Joseph.

Q. 5. That is at 502 Cherry street?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you in the course of your working in these various stores, including this one, sold this tobacco over the counter?

A. Yes, sir, a lot of times.

Q. 7. How long have you sold it over the counter?

A. The first time I worked in the grocery store was in 1911 and 1912. That is the first time I worked in the grocery in connection with meat.

Q. 8. In that store?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. How long have you been working in this store here?

A. Since July.

Q. 10. 1921?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. How long did you work in that first grocery store?

A. Just even two years.

Q. 12. Then, what was the next one you worked in?

A. At Ratchie's, on Adams street.

Q. 13. How long did you work there?

A. I worked there about eight months.

Q. 14. Then the next one that you worked in?

A. Next one, I started in August and quit in March, about six or seven months.

Q. 15. Then you came here?

A. I came here in July.

Q. 15*a*. Now, during this time that you have been selling this scrap tobacco over the counter, whose product did you think it was?

A. I thought it was the Beech-Nut people; I never looked at the name, but Beech-Nut, I heard of those products before.

Q. 16. You have heard of Beech-Nut products before?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. Can you name some of these other Beech-Nut products?

A. Oh, they have bacon, and dried beef, and hams, and chewing gum.

Q. 18. Do you know now who makes this product?

A. I do not know of any one else than the Beech-Nut people.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 19. What is the name of the concern that makes the Beech-Nut ham and bacon, what is their names, do you know?

A. No, I cannot remember that, because I did not handle any of their products for quite a while.

X-Q. 20. So you do not know really who makes the Beech-Nut bacon?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. You never took the trouble to read the printing on the package to see who made the Beech-Nut scrap, did you?

A. No. Generally when somebody wants tobacco in a hurry, I just grab it and give it to them.

X-Q. 22. You never even took the trouble to look at it to see who made it?

A. No.

X-Q. 23. You see the name Lorillard on there, don't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. If a customer came into your store and he wanted to buy some bacon, or wanted to buy some Beech-Nut chewing gum, and he asked you for bacon or gum, you would not hand him out tobacco for bacon or gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. Entirely different kind of goods, aren't they?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 26. You would not confuse bacon or chewing gum with tobacco, would you?

A. No, because they would say bacon or tobacco or gum.

X-Q. 27. Entirely different goods?

A. Yes, oh yes.

X-Q. 28. Bacon and chewing gum are not put up to look like this tobacco package, are they?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. You could tell the difference about them in a glance, couldn't you?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

LLOYD SCHULTZ, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Lloyd Schultz, 914 South street, Toledo, Ohio; grocery clerk.

Q. 2. Where are you employed?

A. Saba & Joseph, corner Huron and Cherry streets, Toledo, Ohio.

Q. 3. That is 502 Cherry street?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How long have you been employed there?

A. Going on eight years.

Q. 5. Do you sell tobacco products in that store?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, which is in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3; have you sold this tobacco in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. For how long?

A. Ever since I was here, that they handled it.

Q. 8. How many years would that be approximately, or roughly?

A. Six or seven years.

Q. 9. Have you yourself personally handed it to customers over the counter?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Have you handed it a good deal or little?

A. Quite a bit.

Q. 11. Now, whose product did you think it was all this time?

A. I thought it was all the same thing, Beech-Nut, I never knew the difference. I never looked at it and never knew the difference but what it was Beech-Nut, all comes from the same place.

Q. 12. Can you name any other Beech-Nut things?

A. Yes. Beech-Nut bacon, Beech-Nut peanut butter, Beech-Nut beans, and quite a few things.

Q. 13. And chewing gum?

A. Yes, I always said tobacco, but I know better, it ain't now.

Q. 14. Do you know now who made this product?

A. I know you don't make it. Before I thought it was the same people that made the gum and tobacco.

Q. 15. Who told you?

A. The gentleman out there; the salesman, Mr. Atkinson.

Q. 16. When did he tell you he did not make this product?

A. Yesterday.

Q. 17. Had he told anybody else in the store at the same time he told you?

A. Yes, the two bosses.

Q. 18. Mr. Saba and Mr. Joseph?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Were you in the store in approximately the fifteen-minute interval between the time I first came in this morning up to the time I come back, and did you hear Mr. Joseph ask a customer about this scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 20. Who was this customer?

A. A meat salesman.

Q. 21. Do you know him?

A. Yes.

Q. 22. What is his name?

A. We call him Otke, Otkenheimer is his name.

Q. 23. By whom is he employed?

A. By Wilson & Co.

Q. 24. What did Mr. Joseph ask him?

Mr. Cavanagh: That is objected to; it is calling for hearsay.

Mr. Hinton: This is offered in corroboration of Mr. Joseph's statement.

Q. 25. Now, what did Mr. Joseph ask him, and what did he say?

A. He was talking about tobacco and he thought the tobacco and gum all come from one company.

Q. 26. Who said this?

A. This meat salesman.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 27. What is the name of the concern that makes peanut butter?

A. The Beech-Nut?

X-Q. 28. Yes; what is the name of the concern?

A. I never paid attention particularly to the name itself.

X-Q. 29. So you don't know what concern made it?

A. No.

X-Q. 30. Same as to the bacon and gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 31. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company, tobacco people?

A. I may have heard of them, but not paid any attention to it.

X-Q. 32. Do you use tobacco?

A. Yes, I do.

X-Q. 33. Smoke?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Did you ever smoke Murad cigarettes?

A. No, I always smoke Camels.

X-Q. 35. Do you chew tobacco?

A. Very seldom.

X-Q. 36. Did you ever chew any of this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. I never did.

X-Q. 37. But you have been selling it for five or six years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. It is a good seller?

A. Yes, good seller, best seller we got.

X-Q. 39. You never do any of the buying for this store, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 40. You never have bought chewing gum or tobacco for the store?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. You never took the trouble to read the wording on this package?

A. No, never paid any attention to it.

X-Q. 42. So you wouldn't know whether it was Smith, Jones or Brown's tobacco?

A. I know it was the Beech-Nut people; that is all I know about it.

X-Q. 43. You went by that name "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. That is all?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 45. You did not pay any attention to who manufactured it or where it came from, or anything?

A. No.

X-Q. 46. When the customers come in like this customer you spoke of this morning, you never got a package of tobacco to compare it with a package of chewing gum, to see who made it, did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 47. Just simply had some idle conversation and paid no further attention to it; is that right?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. If you wanted to find out whether a newspaper was of a certain date, or a product was made by a certain concern, and you were enough interested, you would read the printing matter and see?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. But you were not interested in this case, and paid no attention?

A. I did not pay any attention.

X-Q. 50. If you went into a store and wanted some Beech-Nut peanut butter or chewing gum, could you be fooled by the dealer in taking a package of tobacco instead of gum?

A. No, I am too much experienced for that.

X-Q. 51. In other words, you would think a man was crazy for taking tobacco for gum?

A. He ought to know better. If a man would ask for Beech-Nut peanut butter, he would not expect a man to give him Beech-Nut tobacco. If he would ask for tobacco, he would not expect him to give him peanut butter.

X-Q. 52. You never saw a package of chewing gum or a glass of peanut butter put up to look like the tobacco package like this?

A. No.

X-Q. 53. You could tell a tobacco package when you see it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. You can tell a cigarette package?

A. Certainly can.

X-Q. 55. You never saw any chewing gum, or peanut butter, or ham put up like cigarette packages, did you?

A. No.

Cross-examination closed.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that if the witnesses whose names are appended hereto were called they would testify as follows, except with respect to the particular length of time within which these witnesses had sold the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco over the counter; that the length of time during which each of said witnesses have sold the scrap tobacco over the counter is given in the appended list of witnesses and is to be understood as to being incorporated in the testimony of each witness.

Direct Examination.

I am a retail grocery, handling tobacco products. I have stocked and sold Beech-Nut scrap tobacco identical with Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 in this case for a period of ....., stated opposite my name in the appended list. I always believed that this tobacco was a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company until I was advised in November, 1921, by a representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that this tobacco was not a product of that company. I have purchased the tobacco through a jobber located in Toledo, Ohio.

On cross-examination the witness would testify as follows:

I never took the trouble to read the printed matter on the package and did not notice the name "Lorillard," or the name of the manufacturer, and paid no attention to the matter at all, as this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco is a good selling tobacco, which I have had on sale for a number of years past, and have bought at different times, and I would sell it irrespective of what company made it. Furthermore, I have never purchased or sold or known of a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company to resemble a package of scrap tobacco, or a package of cigarettes, and furthermore, I would not sell a customer this scrap tobacco when he asks for Beech-Nut chewing gum or Beech-Nut bacon, or Beech-Nut food products of any sort, nor would I be confused or deceived myself into accepting this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco for Beech-Nut gum or Beech-Nut food products, as I regard the same as entirely distinct and different class of goods.

LIST OF WITNESSES.

Frank O'Connell, 616 Jefferson St., Toledo, O. (sold tobacco over counter two years);

Henry Dieckman, 713 Monroe St., Toledo, O. (sold tobacco over counter two years);

W. Shaffer, 434 Dorr St. (sold tobacco over counter for one year);

H. A. Neff, 1129 Monroe St. (sold tobacco over counter for about a year).

It is further stipulated, if Isabel Shaffer were called, she would testify on direct and cross-examination, in accordance with the foregoing stipulation except that she is employed in the Shaffer Drug Store, 629 Cherry St., Toledo, Ohio, instead of a grocery store, as in the case of other witnesses, and that she has been selling the Beech-Nut tobacco for several years.

CERTIFICATE.

State of Ohio, County of Lucas, ss:

I, Leo M. Fox, hereby certify that I am a notary public within and for the County of Lucas, State of Ohio, and court reporter; that the foregoing depositions of Oscar Joseph, Mike Saba, John Jozsa and Lloyd Schultz were taken by me acting as Special Examiner by agreement of counsel, pursuant to notice, and by agreement of counsel; that these depositions were taken stenographically by me and by me reduced to written form, at this office beginning November 7, 1921, at 10 A. M., and ending the same day; that each witness was duly sworn before he testified, except with respect to these witnesses whose testimony was stipulated as appears in the record; that the signature of each witness was waived by agreement of counsel; that I am not related by blood or marriage to any of the parties to this case or interested directly or indirectly therein. I further certify that I have been paid $ ....., my fees for taking and transcribing the foregoing testimony, and that the same is a fair, just and reasonable charge.

Charles S. Roberts, First National Bank of Chicago.

Frederick L. Rossback, ex-president Hamilton Club, Chicago, and president of the Washington Shirt Company of Chicago, Minneapolis and other large cities where they have stores.

A. N. Marquis, is the founder and editor of "Who's Who in America."

William T. Smither, department manager of Marshall Field & Company, Chicago.

Q. 9. What is the purpose of the International Anti-Cigarette League?

A. The object is to safeguard the health and morals of the youths from the use of cigarettes and tobacco, and provide those who are addicted to the tobacco habit with a prescription for a cure, upon request.

Q. 10. What is the slogan of the League?

A. The slogan is "Give the Boy a Square Deal."

Q. 11. What is its geographical field?

A. No limit.

Q. 12. How much of the world do you cover at present?

A. United States, Canada, and eighteen foreign countries.

Q. 13. How does the league organize its work through that field?

A. Through local units, in cities, towns, villages, wherever there is an influential body of citizens who indicate that they are interested in our work.

Q. 14. Do you find interest is taken in many communities?

A. A great many communities.

Q. 15. What class of people are found to take an interest in this?

A. Prominent, influential people, who are interested in the welfare of the boy especially. Men's clubs, women's clubs, and business men.

Q. 16. About how many local units have you in the United States?

A. I presume six hundred.

Q. 17. What is the nature of the work that the League carries on through these local units?

A. Educational, curative, law enforcing.

Q. 18. In regard to what do you give out information?

A. In regard to the detrimental effects of the cigarette on the human system, and especially upon the boy. Injurious effects of the cigarette upon them. We also give prescription for a cure wherever it is requested—cure for cigarette or tobacco habit.

Q. 19. To whom do you aim to give this information?

A. Everybody. Boys, adults, legislators, anybody that is seeking it. Everybody that is seeking it.

Q. 20. Will you name some of the agencies beside your own members through which you reach the boys?

A. Reach them through Boy Scouts of America, Y. M. C. A., colleges, schools, Salvation Army, organizations organized for the safeguarding of the health and morals of boys—a great many different organizations.

Q. 21. Through what agencies do you reach grown people?

A. International Education Association, Parent-Teacher Association, through Salvation Army, women's clubs, men's clubs, and a great many other organizations and adult organizations, too numerous to mention.

Q. 22. In how many forms do you distribute your educational matter?

A. Through printed matter, pamphlets, letters, correspondence, moving picture films, lecturers—any way it is desired or suggested by those who wish our co-operation.

Q. 23. About how many pieces of printed literature do you send out per month?

A. Well, up to about a year ago, when we were working alone, we sent out about 17,000 a month. Since then we have quite a number of co-operating agencies who are making a great demand upon us for our literature. I may say we are sending out 100,000 copies a month. I shouldn't be surprised if we would soon be sending out a half million a month.

Q. 24. Do you send out larger quantities at times?

A. Whenever there is any special demand for a large quantity, we try to do our best to fulfill the demand.

Q. 25. Can you give an instance?

A. For instance, the Salvation Army is putting on a

Smokeless Sunday, and it should use, I believe, about one million copies.

Q. 26. Have you any of this printed literature with you?

A. Yes, I have some here illustrative of what we are sending out.

Q. 27. Were these printed by the International Anti-Cigarette League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 28. Did you get these out of the regular supply from which you distribute?

A. Yes, sir. That is a lot illustrating what we are sending out. That is not all.

The collection of material produced by the witness, comprising fourteen pieces bound together in a book, is offered in evidence, as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 9, "Fairfield Illustrative Collection Anti-Cigarette Literature."

Mr. Cavanagh: The above testimony and the exhibits objected to as immaterial and irrelevant to this issue.

(The witness continues his answer.) I might also say, when a few minutes ago I was mentioning some of the ways in which we were reaching the boys, that we also reach the boys through the Rotary Clubs and the Boys' International Clean Life Army.

Q. 29. Do your allied organizations distribute this literature for you?

A. Yes. Well, I wouldn't say for us. They distribute for themselves as well as us. They are quite as much interested in the welfare of the boys as we are.

Q. 30. How else do they co-operate with the League?

A. By exhibiting our moving pictures. By using lecturers. Well, various ways—anything to extend the information which we have obtained with reference to the cigarette and tobacco.

Q. 31. Will you please name some of the organizations that are officially allied with your League?

A. Boys' Club Federation.

Boy Scouts of America.

Boys' Workers Association.

Chicago Boys' Club.

Chicago Federation of Settlements.

Chicago Sunday School Association.

Department of Education, Chicago, through Peter A. Mortensen, the Superintendent of Schools.

Juvenile Protective Association.

Lower North Community Council.

Salvation Army.

Union League Foundation for Boys' Clubs.

National Education Association.

Illinois Federated Parent-Teacher Association.

Y. M. C. A.—Young Men's Christian Association, if you please.

Federated Women's Clubs.

Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Boys' International Clean Life Army.

Rotary Clubs, and a good many others, too numerous to mention.

Q. 32. How are the Rotary Clubs interested in the work of the League?

A. Why, we co-operate with them in the organization of the Boys' International Clean Life Army. I also wish to say they show our moving picture films. They are very much interested in the welfare of the boy. They do all they can to promote the welfare of the boy, of the youth of the country, they distribute our literature, we co-operate in any way that's for the benefit of the boy, to protect them from acquiring the cigarette habit and to promote the best interest of the boy.

Q. 33. Just briefly, what are the Rotary Clubs?

A. The Rotary Clubs are organizations of the cities, villages and towns, not only the United States, but foreign countries, composed of the medium business and professional men, the leaders in their communities, organized for the mutual benefit of the community and one of their objects stands out very prominently. It is the welfare of the boy. They do a great deal for the benefit of the boy.

Q. 34. What is the Boys' Clean Life Army?

A. The Boys' Clean Life Army is part of our organization, the members of which pledge themselves to refrain from the use of cigarettes and tobacco, or intoxicating liquors, and lead a moral life until they are twenty-one years of age. It was organized with the co-operation of the Rotary Clubs.

Q. 35. About how many families does your League reach; that's in the United States?

A. Well, we reach some six hundred thousand (600,000) through the Boy Scouts of America. It is safe to say we reach a million families.

Q. 36. How do you find the public receives your ideas?

A. They are very receptive.

Q. 37. How do you know this?

A. Not only our ideas, but the ideas of a very large percent of the citizens of the United States. We know that by the great number of letters of inquiry which we receive about our work and about the requests we have for the prescription for the cigarette and tobacco cure.

Q. 38. Have you with you any illustrative specimens of these letters of which you have just spoken?

A. I have a very few here.

Q. 39. Were these letters received in the regular course of business of the League?

A. They were.

Q. 40. Did they go over your desk?

A. They did. Went through it.

Q. 41. Do you produce them from the files of the League?

A. Yes.

Q. 42. Are these photostatic copies of this collection of letters?

A. Yes.

The witness produces a collection of letters, and it is stipulated by and between the counsel that photostatic copies of the letters may be received in evidence in lieu and with the same force and effect as the originals. Collection of photostatic copies is produced, offered and introduced in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 10, Fairfield Illustrative Collection of Letters Received by Anti-Cigarette League.

Q. 43. Mr. Fairfield, what did the Anti-Cigarette League do during the late war?

A. Ceased activities.

Q. 44. Why was that?

A. The Government was furnishing the Army and Navy with cigarettes.

Q. 45. When did the League resume its operations?

A. After the war.

Q. 46. Why was that?

A. On account of the reaction we saw coming.

Q. 47. Is that reaction actually taking place?

A. It is.

Q. 48. How do you know this?

A. From quantity of letters we receive in reference to our activities, for information, literature, from the amount of applications we have for the cigarette cure, for the prescription for cigarette cure—a great many of those come from ex-service men who formed the cigarette habit while in the war.

Q. 49. Do you find any opposition to your activities?

A. The only opposition I have ever discovered is from the tobacco interests, who have become alarmed with our activities and are taking action to counteract what we are doing, the excitement that is being created since the war.

Q. 50. Can you give an instance of effort to counteract your activities?

A. The allied tobacco industries was formed, to hold an exposition at the Coliseum in Chicago in September last, to counteract the nation wide agitation against smoking, for their self preservation, and to increase the interest of the people engaged in that industry to protect their interests.

Q. 51. How did you hear of this exposition?

A. Through a letter that was written by them in June last, notifying of the intention to hold this exposition, and over the telephone—a conversation with its manager. We asked about securing space in the Coliseum at the time of this exposition.

Q. 52. Have you this letter with you?

A. I have.

Q. 53. Did this letter come to you in the regular course of your business?

A. It did.

Q. 54. Do you produce it out of the files of the International Anti-Cigarette League?

A. I do.

Q. 55. Is this a photostatic copy?

A. Yes.

Photostatic copy of the letter just produced by the witness is produced, introduced and offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 11, Allied Tobacco Industries Exposition Letter. It is stipulated that the photostatic copy may be offered and introduced with all the force and effect of the original.

By Mr. Cavanagh: The same objection of immateriality and irrelevancy as pertains to the letters heretofore produced by this witness, was made as to this letter and the testimony concerning the same.

Q. 56. Mr. Fairfield, does your League keep in touch with legislation in the various states on the tobacco and cigarette question?

A. Yes.

Q. 57. Has any legislation prohibiting or regulating the use of tobacco in any of the states been passed?

A. Four of the states have laws prohibiting the sale of cigarettes and a great many of them have laws prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors. There is also legislation pending in several states now.

Q. 58. Mr. Fairfield, I show you a package of cigarettes, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you ever seen a package of those cigarettes before?

A. Yes, sir. Many times.

Q. 59. Where have you seen them?

A. I first saw them in the hands of boys. I have seen them on sale and on display at cigar—tobacco stores.

Q. 60. When you first saw them, who did you think was the maker of them?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 61. Why did you think that?

A. The name and label on it.

Q. 61*a*. When you saw them afterwards, whose product did you think they were?

A. I always thought they were the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, until I was advised a few weeks ago by Mr. Hinton.

Q. 62. What did you thing of the Beech-Nut Packing Company for making a cigarette?

A. Well, I always had a very high regard for the Beech-Nut Packing Company. They had advocated purity in products during their entire existence. I presumed everything that they produced was pure until I saw that they were putting out a cigarette. I presumed that they were on account of their name, label on it. And I thought they were degenerating—going down hill. Trying to impose upon the people by claiming that they could produce a pure cigarette, taking advantage of the good name that they had created for a great many years for purity of product. Taking advantage of the people by getting them to accept the cigarette under the guise of purity.

Q. 63. Would you use Beech-Nut products while you were under that impression?

A. Not if I knew it.

Q. 64. How do members of the International Anti-Cigarette League and its sympathizers look upon cigarettes and the makers of cigarettes?

Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to as calling for hearsay.

A. Why, they condemn the cigarette and the manufacturers the same as I do.

Mr. Cavanagh: In so far as this witness' testimony pertains to the history of the anti-cigarette campaign and the documents produced in connection therewith, all this line of testimony is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant, because not pertinent to the issue in this case, and such objection is also applied to any exhibits produced in connection with this line of testimony, and it is stipulated by and between counsel for the parties that such objection may stand as if made to each question pertaining to such line of examination.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 65. Mr. Fairfield, did you ever personally purchase a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 66. Like Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 67. Did you ever smoke any of these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir. I never did, I am sure.

X-Q. 68. You never took the trouble to look at a package of those cigarettes to see whose name was on it as maker, did you?

A. Well, I can readily see the name "Beech-Nut" and the Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 69. Do you see the name P. Lorillard on it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 70. Did you ever hear of P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 71. Large manufacturers, aren't they?

A. I believe they are.

X-Q. 72. As a matter of fact, in connection with your anti-cigarette work, you know that the P. Lorillard Company is one of the largest tobacco manufacturers in the United States?

A. I believe they are. Yes.

X-Q. 73. It is really an enormous concern. You know that from your business?

A. I understand it is.

X-Q. 74. You don't find the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package of cigarettes, do you?

A. Not the "Packing Company." I don't.

X-Q. 75. You find Lorillard's name on there, and not that of Beech-Nut Packing Company; you would presume that was Lorillard's product, would you not?

A. I didn't examine closely. Beech-Nut here in three places. Most prominent, and I always was of the impression that that was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company until Mr. Hinton advised me otherwise.

X-Q. 76. If you see Lorillard's name on a package of cigarettes, wouldn't you think that was the Lorillard tobacco people?

A. I don't know whether I would or not.

X-Q. 77. If you saw Armour's name on a piece of goods, would you think that was Armour's?

A. It depends upon what else I saw upon the package.

X-Q. 78. You mean to say that a manufacturer's name on a package wouldn't mean a thing to you?

A. I didn't say that.

X-Q. 79. Suppose you see the name General Electric Company on a piece of electrical apparatus. Wouldn't that indicate that that was manufactured by General Electric Company?

A. If there was nothing else. Depends upon what else was on a package.

X-Q. 80. If you see two manufacturers' names on the package?

A. I presume I wouldn't know.

X-Q. 81. Right on that point. Do you find the name Beech-Nut Packing Company on that cigarette package?

A. No, but I find their label here and their name more prominent than anything else.

X-Q. 82. Where do you find their name—the Beech-Nut Packing Company—on that package? You said you find their name on it.

A. Beech-Nut and the label.

X-Q. 83. You mean the word "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 84. But you don't find the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on it, do you?

A. I don't find the words "Packing Company."

X-Q. 85. You don't find the words "Beech-Nut Packing Company"?

A. No. I didn't say that was the name of the corporation.

X-Q. 86. You really don't know the name of the corporation?

A. I shouldn't say that. I have always been governed by the word "Beech-Nut." That was their brand.

X-Q. 87. Did you ever hear of the Beech-Nut Packing Company—the food products people—putting out tobacco products?

A. No.

X-Q. 88. Now, as I understand from your direct examination, you approved of the food product goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you not? You said they stood for purity and the like.

A. I said that.

X-Q. 89. So you would have no objection to dealing with the Beech-Nut Packing Company in connection with its food products, would you?

A. Not until I understood that they were putting out cigarettes.

X-Q. 90. Leaving aside the question of putting out cigarettes for a minute, so long as they put out food products, such as bacon, preserves, chewing gum, candy, you had no objection to dealing with them, when you approved of those products, did you?

A. So long as I believed that they were putting out pure products, I had no objection to dealing with them.

X-Q. 91. Well, don't you consider preserves to be just the same as cigarettes or tobacco products?

A. Absolutely not.

X-Q. 92. Do you consider chewing gum to be in the same class as cigarettes or tobacco products?

A. Absolutely not. Now, I don't know anything harmful in gum.

X-Q. 93. Do you know of anything harmful in cigarettes or tobacco products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 94. What?

A. I know the effect they have upon the boy.

X-Q. 95. I understand from some of your literature which you have produced that it is harmful to the human being in the opinion of those preparing that letter, in various ways?

A. It is harmful to them. You will have to consult the people who prepared that letter as to what their opinion is.

X-Q. 96. You don't stand sponsor for this literature you have produced?

A. What do you mean by sponsor?

X-Q. 97. You don't believe in what's set out in that literature?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 98. So that literature represents your opinion as to the use of tobacco?

A. I didn't say that.

X-Q. 99. Now, you don't object to the use of chewing gum, do you?

A. I have never had any objection.

X-Q. 100. But you do object to the use of cigarettes, do you not?

A. I haven't said that I objected to their use.

X-Q. 101. But aren't you one of the officers engaged in the anti-cigarette campaign?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 102. Without meaning at all to be impertinent, you wouldn't engage in an anti-cigarette campaign unless you objected to the use of cigarettes, would you?

A. We are seeking to protect the health and morals of boys.

X-Q. 103. Well, don't you believe that the use of chewing gum and candy is harmful to the health and morals of boys?

A. Not necessarily.

X-Q. 104. Don't you consider candy and chewing gum to be just the same as tobacco products?

A. The same?

X-Q. 105. Yes.

A. I didn't know there was much similarity.

X-Q. 106. You consider them to be entirely different?

A. What's that?

X-Q. 107. You consider them to be different—chewing gum and candy to be different from tobacco?

A. They don't seem to have the evil effects upon children that cigarettes do. I mean, candy and chewing gum don't have the same bad effects that tobacco would have.

X-Q. 108. I understand from your various official positions that you have stated that you do not personally approve of the use of tobacco products, particularly cigarettes, and therefore you are frankly engaged in forwarding an anti-cigarette campaign. You know that the cigarette or the tobacco industry is a segregated or separate industry in itself, isn't it? That is, a food product manufacturer doesn't usually make tobacco products and the tobacco manufacturer doesn't usually deal in food?

A. I haven't made any study of that.

X-Q. 109. Oh! I thought that you had made some study of the tobacco industry. Do you know how cigarettes are made?

A. Not exactly.

X-Q. 110. Do you know how the tobacco is treated to remove the nicotine and other by-products?

A. Not exactly.

X-Q. 111. Do you know how much nicotine remains in cigarette tobacco after it has been through the nicotine extractor?

A. Never analyzed it.

X-Q. 112. As a matter of fact, you didn't know they used a nicotine extractor in making cigarette tobacco?

A. I haven't given the matter much of any study.

X-Q. 113. Have you ever been through one of the big tobacco manufactories, when they are making cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 114. So you don't know how the raw leaves are treated, or the tobacco separated or blended or the nicotine or other by-products extracted?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 115. You are not familiar with the manufacturing process?

A. No.

X-Q. 116. You don't chew tobacco, Mr. Fairfield?

A. Chew? No.

X-Q. 117. You don't smoke cigarettes, do you?

A. Not now.

X-Q. 118. I understood you in your direct examination to say that the Rotary Clubs of this country were engaged in supporting, or rather I might say, forwarding your anti-cigarette campaign; is that correct?

A. That's a fact.

X-Q. 119. Have these Rotary Clubs any central headquarters or central point as an organization, or are they merely individual clubs?

A. They have a general organization.

X-Q. 120. Do you know where that central headquarters is located?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 121. Where?

A. Chicago.

X-Q. 122. Do you know who is in charge there?

A. Secretary?

X-Q. 123. Secretary and president.

A. Chesly Perry is the secretary.

X-Q. 124. Headquarters of these Rotary Clubs is in Chicago?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 125. Now, I understood you to also say that, in your direct examination, the scope and extent of your Anti-Cigarette organization has grown a great deal recently, that is, since the war?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 126. Do you know how much or in what proportion the tobacco and cigarette business has grown since the war?

A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 127. You don't know how the present 1921 or 1922—say—output of tobacco products, especially cigarettes, compares in volume and value in dollars and cents with the output in—say—1914 and 1915?

A. How it compares?

X-Q. 128. You cannot say whether it has increased or decreased?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 129. What do you think?

A. Increased.

X-Q. 130. It has increased? Prior to the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment were you engaged in the anti-liquor campaign?

A. No.

X-Q. 131. Never were in that?

A. No.

X-Q. 132. Simply opposed to the tobacco business?

A. I wouldn't say that. I haven't taken any active part in anti-liquor campaign.

X-Q. 133. But you do take part in the anti-tobacco campaign?

A. I think we would be better off without it. So do you.

X-Q. 134. Now, I cannot say that I do think so. Now, I understood you to testify in your direct examination that certain states had passed laws against the use of cigarettes or tobacco, or at least in a general way placed certain general restrictions on it. You have also testified that you are a lawyer by profession. You don't know of any provision in the Constitution of the United States that prohibits the sale of tobacco and cigarettes, do you, Mr. Fairfield?

A. In the Constitution?

Mr. Cavanagh: Yes.

A. No.

X-Q. 135. You do know that the tobacco manufacturers pay large revenue taxes to the United States on tobacco, cigarettes and the like, don't they?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 136. So far as the United States Government goes, the tobacco and cigarette business is a legitimate business at the present time?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as irrelevant and immaterial, and outside the scope of the direct examination. I don't think we ought to discuss the merits or demerits of the anti-tobacco campaign.

A. Not prohibited by the United States law.

X-Q. 137. Tobacco and cigarettes are sold in the United States under the laws of the United States, as shown by the revenue stamp on the box, are they not?

A. It is apparent that there is no federal statute prohibiting their sale.

X-Q. 138. They are permitted to be sold under certain conditions and upon the payment of certain taxes?

A. Apparently, if they are not prohibited.

X-Q. 139. You never went into a store to buy a pack of these Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes like Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, thinking that they were a package of cigarettes made by Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. I never bought a package of them.

X-Q. 140. As I understand it, to sum up the whole matter, you think that tobacco products like cigarettes are entirely different class of goods from food products, don't you?

A. Tobacco is different from food.

X-Q. 141. Yes. And you wouldn't buy food products or chewing gum or candy, if you called for tobacco, and vice-versa you wouldn't buy tobacco if you called for chewing gum?

A. Not if I were in my right mind. If I wanted a food and I was sane, I wouldn't buy tobacco in its place.

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 142. Mr. Fairfield, up to the time, as you have testified, when you were told by Mr. Hinton that these cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1, were not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, was there any doubt in your mind that they were made by Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, I supposed, of course, that they were made by Beech-Nut Packing Company. Most prominent thing on the package. You have to look closely to see the name of P. Lorillard.

R-D. Q. 143. Do I understand, Mr. Fairfied, that the work of the International Anti-Cigarette League is confined exclusively to combatting the cigarette habit in boys?

A. No.

R-D. Q. 144. I find, for instance, in this illustrative literature of yours, various passages, such as, for instance, "Men in middle life with a fixed tobacco habit of years, after reading our scientific literature are impelled to stop smoking, etc." Is it a fact that you combat the cigarette habit wherever you find it, among adults as well as boys?

A. We combat the tobacco habit—the use of tobacco, in any form, and we send out information, scientific information, which is the result of laboratory investigations, as to the effect of tobacco on the human system. Our moving picture films illustrate the ill effects of tobacco on the vital organs of the human body, and we are endeavoring to educate people of all ages as to the effect of tobacco on their systems.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 145. With this Anti-Cigarette League, are you on a retainer or salary with that League?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 146. Do all the work free, without any compensation whatsoever?

A. Not only devote my time without a penny's compensation, but I contribute money to its support.

R-X Q. 147. So that you are first and last opposed to tobacco and the use of tobacco in all its phases and all its works?

A. I think—I know tobacco is injurious to a human system.

R-X Q. 148. Now, I think, you have said that you thought this cigarette package was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company because of the label. Do you know what the regular label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company looks like?

A. I have seen it a great many times.

R-X Q. 149. Can you look at that cigarette package and tell me if that label is like the Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. It resembles it.

R-X Q. 150. In what respects?

A. When I looked at that I thought, of course, that was a Beech-Nut Packing Company's label.

R-X Q. 151. Because of that Beech-Nut?

A. The whole label on there.

R-X Q. 152. I show you a Beech-Nut Packing Company label. Has that cigarette label got that wide red band, with that word Beech-Nut printed on it?

A. A good deal of writing on there.

R-X Q. 153. Has it that red band on there?

A. It doesn't have the red band just like that there one.

R-X Q. 154. It hasn't a beech-nut in the middle, with two green leaves?

A. This has two beech-nuts.

R-X Q. 155. And no green leaves; is that right?

A. No.

R-X Q. 156. And there are some differences between the labels, to cut this short?

A. There are differences between this thing which you show me and the label on the Beech-Nut cigarettes, which I doubt if a person would notice without close inspection.

R-X Q. 157. And, as I understand it, you never took the trouble to look at or inspect this pack of cigarettes when you saw it in the store?

A. I didn't take the trouble to inspect it closely.

Mr. Cavanagh: That's all.

It is stipulated by and between the parties, that a book marked by the notary, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, as follows: "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 (A to A 11)" and containing thirty-seven sheets, may be offered and received in this case. It is stipulated that this book contains the following subject-matter:

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12-A is a circular letter sent out by Lorillard Company under date of June 22, 1921, to jobbers and distributors; and it is stipulated that this exhibit is a sample of a general circular letter sent out on or about that date to jobbers and dealers distributing the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, subject to correction, if error appear.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12-B is a circular letter from the P. Lorillard Company, sent out under date of August 4, 1921, and it is stipulated that this exhibit is a sample of a general circular letter sent out on or about that date to jobbers and dealers distributing the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, subject to correction if error appear.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12-C; it is stipulated that this is a printed circular generally distributed by the Lorillard Company to jobbers and dealers in the states mentioned therein on or about October 27, 1921. Each of the foregoing three circular letters relates to defendant's Beech-Nut cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1.

Exhibit No. 12 (D and E) are a letter and its envelope, received in ordinary course of business of the plaintiff, and the enclosure therewith, respectively.

Exhibits 12 (F and G) are, respectively, a letter and its envelope, and enclosure, received by Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business.

Exhibits No. 12-H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V and W are letters received by Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business.

Exhibit 12-X is original correspondence with American Grocery Society, Inc., comprising a letter from the Beech-Nut Packing Company and American Grocery Society reply thereto, of June 26, 1920.

Exhibits No. 12-Y, Z, A-1, A-2, A-3, are original letters received in due course of business by Beech-Nut Company.

Exhibit No. 12-A-4 is a letter written to Beech-Nut Packing Company by Engels Company, of New York, and the torn sign attached thereto is the sign referred to in the letter.

Exhibit No. 12-A-5 comprises a letter received in due course of business by Beech-Nut Packing Company, under date of October 15, 1920, the regular office copy of the reply thereto of October 30, 1920, and the original reply to the letter, of November 6, 1920, all transpiring in due course of business.

Exhibit No. 12-A-6, A-7, A-8, A-10 and A-11 are original letters received in due course of business.

It is stipulated by and between the counsel hereto that each of the letters and documents of Plaintiff's Exhibits No. 12-D to 12, A-11 inclusive, was received or dispatched in ordinary course of business, is genuine and authentic and was signed by the person whose name appears thereon—subject to the following:

Defendant is herewith supplied with photographic copies of each of the exhibits herein referred to for investigation thereof, and defendant reserves the right at any time before sixty days in advance of the trial, to challenge the authenticity and genuineness of any of the foregoing exhibits, and plaintiff in that event agrees to produce, where obtainable, the persons who signed the same, and subject them to examination by defendant, if so requested to do, or to prove the signatures by other testimony, failing which to withdraw the exhibit.

Defendant reserves the right to object to the foregoing exhibits on the ground of materiality and relevance.

Plaintiff calls upon defendant to admit the authenticity and genuineness of each of the foregoing exhibits, under the provisions of Equity Rule 58.

OFFIELD, POOLE, HINTON & SCOTT,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.
RICHARD B. CAVANAGH,
Attorney for Defendant.

State of Illinois, County of Cook, ss.

I, Sarah E. Harvey, a Notary Public within and for the County of Cook and State of Illinois, do hereby certify that the foregoing deposition of Frank M. Fairfield was taken on behalf of Beech-Nut Packing Company, in pursuance of notice, before me, at the office of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, 1737 First National Bank Building, in the City of Chicago, in said county on the 13th day of January, 1922; that said witness was by me duly sworn before the commencement of his testimony; that the testimony of said witness was taken by me stenographically and by me transcribed to writing; that the defendant herein was represented by counsel, Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq.; that said testimony was commenced at 2:30 P. M., on the 13th day of January, 1922, and concluded on the same day; that the signature of the witness was waived by consent of counsel; that I am not connected by blood or marriage with either of said parties, nor interested directly or indirectly in the matter in controversy; and that I have received $15.40.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal of office at Chicago, in said county, this 18th day of January, 1922.

SARAH E. HARVEY,
Notary Public.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Depositions taken in behalf of plaintiff, before S. F. Davis, a Notary Public and Court Reporter, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, at the residence of George B. Roach, on South Main street, in the City of Pembroke, Christian County, Kentucky, beginning Monday, January 16th, 1922, at 3 o'clock P. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; and Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

GEORGE B. ROACH, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to questions propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposed as follows:

By Mr. Johnson.

Q. 1. Your name is George B. Roach; your residence South Main street, Pembroke, Kentucky; your age 38 years; and your occupation grocer; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Where is your grocery located?

A. North Main street, Pembroke, Kentucky.

Q. 3. What is the name of your concern?

A. G. B. Roach Grocery.

Q. 4. How long have you been doing business here?

A. About two years.

Q. 5. Have you handled any Beech-Nut products here?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. What ones, principally?

A. Beech-Nut butter, peanut butter, pork and beans, chewing gum.

Q. 7. Had you handled Beech-Nut products prior to your coming to Pembroke?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. How long have you known of Beech-Nut products?

A. About as long as I can remember.

Q. 9. What have they stood for in your mind?

A. Well, a high-grade of quality.

Q. 10. Have you ever engaged in the tobacco business?

A. Yes, sir, I have traveled for a tobacco manufacturing company—the Brite Tobacco Company, of Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Q. 11. When did you first hear of Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. About a year ago.

Q. 12. How was that?

A. I saw some posters in a show window, at Bowling Green.

Q. 13. When you saw these posters, who did you think was putting out this Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 14. Why?

A. Because the name and trade-mark on it resembled the same that were used by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 15. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3—when did you first see a package of this tobacco?

A. About the first of August, 1921.

Q. 16. Who did you think was putting out this tobacco when you saw the package?

A. I thought it was being put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 17. Why?

A. Because the trade-mark and label resembled the same they were using.

Q. 18. Who was using?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 19. Who first showed you a package of this tobacco?

A. A traveling salesman that came into the store—said that he was here representing Beech-Nut tobacco—I don't believe he called it anything else at that time.

Q. 20. When was that?

A. That was along about the first of August—the first package I ever saw he showed it to me.

Q. 21. Did you handle this tobacco at that time?

A. No, I did not.

Q. 22. Did you have a package of it in your hand?

A. He gave me a package and told me to take it and use it and see how I liked it.

Q. 23. Did you buy any from him?

A. No, I did not.

Q. 24. Did he say whom he represented?

A. I don't remember that he did—he told me he was selling Beech-Nut tobacco.

Q. 25. What impression did he make as to who he represented?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

By Mr. Cavanagh: That is objected to on the ground, Mr. Johnson, that no foundation has been laid showing that the witness had any idea who he was representing.

Q. 26. What made you think that?

A. Well, because he said in the conversation that I knew the Beech-Nut trade-mark and knew what it stood for—anything put out under the Beech-Nut trade-mark had to be the highest quality.

Q. 27. What was the effect of his remarks on you?

A. Well, I was convinced that it was put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 28. How long did your conversation last with him, about how long?

A. About fifteen minutes.

Q. 29. When did you learn definitely that this tobacco was made by someone else?

A. Mr. Hamilton, the salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, came here, and I asked him why it was they were working two salesmen for the same company in the same district. He said they wasn't—why? I told him there was a Beech-Nut man here a few days ago selling tobacco, and he said it was a different concern.

Q. 30. Have you seen the Beech-Nut tobacco man again?

A. Yes.

Q. 31. When?

A. About two months later.

Q. 32. What occurred between you and him then?

A. Well, I told him that I understood that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was raising "Cain" about them using their trade-mark, and he said that they had sold the trade-mark to the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and had reserved the right to use the trade-mark on tobacco —he said that they had sued them once on the trade-mark and lost it, and he didn't think that they could gain it this time.

Q. 33. Do you know this tobacco man's name?

A. I have been told it was Bacon. Mr. Hamilton asked me who it was when he first learned of it, and a boy by the name of McCombs was working with me, and he remembered a remark that was made as he was going out the door—"he didn't know whether it was bacon or ham, but he didn't want either one."

Q. 34. Did he introduce himself to anybody in your store?

A. I suppose he did when he came in, is the reason the boy knew his name.

By Mr. Cavanagh: That is all hearsay, and calls for merely an opinion of what somebody else knew.

Q. 35. How many clerks did you have in your store?

A. One at the time.

Q. 36. Didn't he introduce himself to the clerk?

A. He did when he came back the third time—he came there three times.

Q. 37. What did he say his name was then?

A. Bacon.

Q. 38. Did he have any posters or advertising matter with him in your store?

A. Not that I saw.

Q. 39. Did he place any Beech-Nut tobacco signs while he was here in Pembroke?

A. I didn't see him place any, but the same day I saw some placed in Wood's drugstore and a display of tobacco.

Q. 40. Please describe this tobacco salesman.

A. Well, he was about five feet and a half tall, and weighed something like 150 or 60 pounds.

Q. 41. Did you see him the third time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 42. When was that?

A. That was about around November 21st.

Q. 43. What year?

A. 1921—I was out of the store at the time he called, and Mr. Bryan Foster, my clerk, told me that the Beech-Nut tobacco man had just called and said he would be back in a few minutes—Mr. Bacon—but he didn't come back, and I saw him then in a few minutes afterwards get in a Ford car and drive off on the other side of the street.

Q. 44. Was there any mark on the car?

A. I think there was—I think there was a sign of Beech-Nut tobacco on it.

Q. 45. Was this the time he introduced himself to your clerk, Mr. Foster?

A. Yes, sir.

Cross-Examined by Mr. Cavanagh, for Defendant.

X-Q. 1. Mr. Roach, were you ever personally present when this man introduced himself as Mr. Bacon to your clerk?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 2. So you weren't there at all when he said his name was Bacon?

A. Well, he introduced himself to me the first time he came in as Mr. Bacon—that is what I wouldn't swear whether Mr. Bacon or something else now.

X-Q. 3. But you were not present when he introduced himself to your clerk?

A. No, he merely told me Mr. Bacon had called on me while I was out.

X-Q. 4. So all of your answers as to what took place as between this alleged man, Bacon, and the clerk, is based on what the clerk told you, and not on your own personal knowledge—isn't that right?

A. He showed me the package of tobacco he gave him, and I know——

X-Q. 5. Now, in order to save time, when he was talking to the clerk, you weren't there, were you?

A. No, I was out of the store.

X-Q. 6. So, whatever he told the clerk is based on what the clerk told you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. I understand you yourself met a person who showed you or handed you a package of Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 8. Like this package of scrap tobacco (exhibiting package to witness)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 9. He didn't say he represented the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. No, he said he was selling Beech-Nut tobacco.

X-Q. 10. You say you were in the tobacco business at one time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 11. When did you start in the tobacco business, and how long were you in it?

A. Well, I traveled a very short time, so far as that is concerned, a couple of months, during a vacancy I had between moves, from Bowling Green here.

X-Q. 12. About what year was that, or how long ago?

A. That was in 1920.

X-Q. 13. Didn't you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, I couldn't say I ever heard of them.

X-Q. 14. You didn't know that the P. Lorillard Company was one of the largest tobacco concerns in the world?

A. No, sir, I did not.

X-Q. 15. You being in the tobacco business, but for a short while, must have been pretty familiar with some of the brands—did you ever hear of Climax chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 16. Did you ever hear of Egyptian Deity cigarettes?

A. What kind?

X-Q. 17. Egyptian Deity.

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever hear of the Murad cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. Did you ever hear of the Mogul cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 20. You say the first time you ever saw this Beech-Nut tobacco like that Lorillard package of scrap tobacco was about a year ago, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir—no, sir, I said last August.

X-Q. 21. Last August?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. You yourself haven't the slightest idea how long that package of tobacco has been on the market, have you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. Did you sell tobaccos up there at your store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. What kind—what brands did you sell up there?

A. Well, I sold mighty near everything handled in this section of the country.

X-Q. 25. From whom did you buy your supply?

A. I bought a great many direct from the factory, but a good part of it from DeWerthern, at Hopkinsville.

X-Q. 26. Now, I understand that you have handled Beech-Nut Packing Company's food products, haven't you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. You are very familiar with its label, are you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. I show you a label, which is already in this case as Defendant's Exhibit No. —, Beech-Nut Label—does that represent the Beech-Nut Packing Company's Label?

(Witness examines label handed him.)

A. I was thinking they had two beeches—two of the nuts on it.

X-Q. 29. You mean in the middle here, where this nut is on the green leaf?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. You thought that had two nuts?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. So you couldn't say whether that was the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label or not?

A. Well, I have always taken it that everything put up in the Beech-Nut trade-mark belonged to one company—put up under the Beech-Nut label belonged to one company.

X-Q. 32. But outside of that—that doesn't quite answer my question—you don't know whether that is the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label or not, do you?

A. Well, I told you I thought they had the two nuts on it.

X-Q. 33. So you couldn't swear that was the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label, as you remember it?

A. Well, I would swear if a can of goods come out with that label on it—I would swear it was put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 34. I asked you about the label I handed you, if you could identify that as the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label?

A. Well, now, I couldn't swear that was the Beech-Nut label here, if it was cut off the package.

X-Q. 35. Then, I understand your answer to be you couldn't identify that as the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label, you couldn't swear positively that was the label you knew before today?

A. No, I wouldn't swear that was absolutely it.

X-Q. 36. Now, will you look at that label a minute (referring to Beech-Nut Packing Company's label), there is quite a difference between those two labels (referring to label on package of scrap tobacco), is there not?

(Witness examines the two labels.)

A. Yes, when a man takes those and puts them right side by side, there is a difference—I can see a difference, but at an ordinary glance I wouldn't pay any attention to the difference.

X-Q. 37. So you didn't pay any attention to the label at all?

A. No—not in the same colors.

X-Q. 38. On this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco the name "P. Lorillard Company" is on that, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. You don't find the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on that package, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 40. You never saw a food product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up in any package that had those red radiant lines like that sun-burst?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 41. And that package of tobacco hasn't got any red band with the word "Beech-Nut" printed on it, like that wide red band?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 42. And the package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco you have in your hand, that has got two beech-nuts on it, hasn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 43. And in this case, it has got a single beech-nut on a green label, hasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. So there is quite a difference between the label on that package and the label which I have shown you, isn't there?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 45. Now, how long have you been in the grocery business all told?

A. Well, something over two years—two years and a half, I reckon.

X-Q. 46. And during that time what Beech-Nut products have you handled—that is, products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, I have handled pork and beans and peanut butter, Beech-Nut chewing gum, catsup—is all I recall right now.

X-Q. 47. You never bought any tobacco products from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 48. You never bought any scrap tobacco from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 49. Never knew their salesman, Mr. Hamilton, to offer you any tobacco products for sale, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 50. You know that the tobacco business is an entirely different business from the food business, don't you?

A. Well, I can't say that I do.

X-Q. 51. Well, I thought you were in the tobacco business at one time—did Brite sell food?

A. But in the retail line they handle both.

X-Q. 52. I am not talking about the retail line—did Brite manufacture or sell any food products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 53. Did you ever hear of a tobacco manufacturer that did manufacture food products?

A. No, I don't know that I have.

X-Q. 54. And you never heard of a food manufacturer that manufactured tobacco products, did you?

A. Well, if a man knows, but some companies put out things they don't manufacture.

X-Q. 55. But I am asking you, do you know of any food concern that ever manufactured tobacco products?

A. No, I do not.

X-Q. 56. As I understand you, you folks down here in Kentucky are in the tobacco region, are you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. The burley tobacco region?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 58. Now, the tobacco industry down here has a distinct standing in itself—you make a crop of tobacco and strip it and ship it to the tobacco markets, and it is sold to tobacco people the world over?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 59. And it is a distinct industry from anything in the food line, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. Now, if a man came into your store and he wanted to buy a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum and asked you for that, you wouldn't hand him a package of that Beech-Nut scrap tobacco for chewing gum, would you?

A. Why certainly not—if he called for chewing gum, I would give him what he called for.

X-Q. 61. You would think he was crazy if he took tobacco when he called for chewing gum, or if he took chewing gum when he called for tobacco—you would think he was crazy if he did either one, wouldn't you?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 62. And without the intention in any way to be offensive at all—you would think you would be crazy to give a man chewing gum when he wanted tobacco, or tobacco when he wanted chewing gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 63. And that is because chewing gum and tobacco are an entirely distinct character of goods—they have different uses?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 64. They belong to entirely different classes, don't they?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 65. And it is the same way when you compare tobacco with baked beans and jellies and other food products—they are entirely different classes of goods, aren't they?

A. Well, they are used for different purposes.

X-Q. 66. They are different classes of goods—you consider tobacco to be different from food?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 67. Now, when this party that you say was Mr. Bacon came in your store, I understand he left you a package of this Lorillard scrap tobacco, did he not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 68. And you never took the trouble to examine that package or to look at it and see whose product it was?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 69. Didn't pay any particular attention to it at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 70. And you didn't ask him to leave any credentials to show whether he was from the Lorillard Company, or any other company, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 71. He didn't leave any card showing who he represented, did he?

A. I don't remember it, if he did.

X-Q. 72. And for all you know, he might not have been from the P. Lorillard Company, isn't that so?

A. Well, I hardly think he would try to sell a "drop" shipment unless he was representing the company.

X-Q. 73. Well, there is one thing sure, he didn't say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 74. So he made no misrepresentation at all as being from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. Well, he left me under the impression he was.

X-Q. 75. But he didn't say he was?

A. No, he did not.

X-Q. 76. Simply said he was selling Beech-Nut tobaccos, isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 77. And this Lorillard scrap tobacco has the name "Beech-Nut" on it, hasn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 78. So he could say with perfect truthfulness he was selling that "Beech-Nut" scrap tobacco, couldn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 79. You don't handle any Beech-Nut tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you?

A. Recently I have been handling Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 80. Who did you buy them from?

A. DeWerthern, at Hopkinsville.

X-Q. 80*a*. So you didn't buy them from the tobacco manufacturer, but you bought them through a jobber—isn't that right?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 81. You buy those by the carton, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 82. I show you a carton of cigarettes, already in evidence as Defendant's Exhibit ——; is that the kind you buy?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 83. That says, "Lorillard's Beech-Nut Cigarettes," doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 84. And you have opened a package of these cartons, have you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 85. And you have noticed in them certain yellow and white slips like these I show you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 86. This yellow slip which appears in this carton says, "Lorillard's Beech-Nut Perfect Cigarettes," doesn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 87. And on these white slips, which are headed "Please Read," you find "P. Lorillard Company, Manufacturer, New York City," doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 88. There is no Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on these packages?

A. I know their boxes since I have handled them.

X-Q. 89. So you know these cigarettes are products of the P. Lorillard Company, don't you?

A. I do now.

X-Q. 90. And you know they are not products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I know it now, but I didn't.

X-Q. 91. Well, you continued to handle them since you knew they were Lorillard's, haven't you?

A. Well, I knew they were before I started.

X-Q. 92. So you knew that before you first started to handle them?

A. Yes, on account of a conversation that came up between us on the second call.

X-Q. 93. So, when you bought those cigarettes and put them on sale, you didn't buy them on the belief they were products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company—you knew they were Lorillard's?

A. Well, I was perfectly satisfied they wasn't the Packing Company's, but I didn't know whose they were.

X-Q. 94. But the minute you look at the cigarettes, there is plenty of evidence to show they are Lorillard's, isn't there?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 95. I understand that you handle those cigarettes right up to the present time?

A. I have handled them for the last few months.

X-Q. 96. And you have handled them up to the present time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 97. You are still handling the Beech-Nut cigarette, are you?

A. I was up until last Saturday night, when I was unfortunate enough to have a fire which caused me to temporarily close my store. This fire occurred last Saturday night in Pembroke, and practically destroyed the building.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 1. You have already said on direct, Mr. Roach, have you not, that when you first saw the package of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and Beech-Nut tobacco posters, that you thought that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was the maker thereof?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 2. When this tobacco salesman was in your store offering to sell his Beech-Nut tobacco the first time, you have already said he talked to you?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 3. What impression did he give you from his conversation?

A. Well, I just thought he was representing the Beech-Nut Packing Company, from the fact that he said that all goods sold under the Beech-Nut brand had to come up to Beech-Nut reputation, and not knowing Beech-Nut tobacco, I naturally thought it was a Beech-Nut produuct.

R-D. Q. 4. Did you keep a general grocery store, Mr. Roach?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 5. Did you sell tobacco and cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 6. Is that a common thing in the grocery trade?

A. Yes, sir.

Re-Cross Examined by Mr. Cavanagh for Defendant.

R-X Q. 1. Now, Mr. Roach, this man didn't say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. Well, I have answered that.

R-X Q. 2. That he did not?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 3. I am awful sorry I have to make you answer again.

A. That is all right.

R-X Q. 4. And furthermore, you never took the trouble to find out who made this tobacco, did you—you didn't look at it carefully enough, did you—you didn't see Lorillard's name on it, and you didn't see the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it—wasn't enough interested?

A. Well, I didn't look for the name.

R-X Q. 5. That is what I say—you made no investigation as to who made it?

A. No, I did not.

R-X Q. 6. And this salesman didn't sell you any tobacco at the time at all, did he, of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. He offered it for sale, but I didn't buy any.

R-X Q. 7. But he did leave a package with you?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 8. And you could have looked at that package of tobacco that salesman left with you to your heart's content, if you wanted to, couldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 9. And you had the privilege of handing that package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco over to the Beech-Nut Packing Company's agent whenever he called at your store thereafter, if you wished to do so?

A. I didn't have it when he called—I gave it to my father.

R-X Q. 10. So you wasn't enough interested in it to keep it?

A. I don't use it.

Signature waived.

Notary Public, Christian County, Ky.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Depositions taken in behalf of plaintiff, before S. F. Davis, a Notary Public and Court Reporter, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, at the residence of George B. Roach, on South Main street, in the City of Pembroke, Christian County, Kentucky, beginning Tuesday, January 17th, at 1:50 P. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; and Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

BRYAN O. FOSTER, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to questions propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposed as follows:

By Mr. Johnson: Q. 1. Your name is Bryan O. Foster; your residence South Main Street, Pembroke, Kentucky; your age twenty-five years, and your occupation, clerk in grocery store of G. B. Roach Grocery; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Where is the Roach grocery store?

A. It is on North Main.

Q. 3. What town?

A. In Pembroke.

Q. 4. How long have you been working for the G. B. Roach grocery store?

A. The last time since November, 1921, beginning November 21st.

Q. 5. Did you work for them before?

A. I did last fall.

Q. 6. Have you handled Beech-Nut Packing Company's products?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. Will you name some of them you have handled, please?

A. Handled Beech-Nut pork and beans, and peanut butter and chewing gum and mints.

Q. 8. Are you familiar with the Beech-Nut Packing Company's label?

A. Yes, sir, I think so.

Q. 9. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3—did you ever see a package of this tobacco before?

(Witness examines the package handed him by attorney.)

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. When?

A. The first time I remember was along in the summer.

Q. 11. When you saw it, who did you think was putting it out?

A. I thought the Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting it out.

Q. 12. Why did you think that?

A. Well, from the name and label I just supposed they were putting it out.

Q. 13. I show you a package of cigarettes, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1; have you ever seen a package of those cigarettes before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. When?

A. Well, the first time that I remember for sure was along in the fall.

Q. 15. When you saw it, who did you think was putting them out?

A. I thought the Beech-Nut people—Beech-Nut Packing Company was putting them out.

Q. 16. Why did you think that?

A. From the name of the cigarettes and label on them?

Q. 17. How long did you think this tobacco and cigarettes were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Until the 21st day of November—I found out it was a different concern.

Q. 18. How did you happen to learn differently then?

A. Well, the Beech-Nut man—that is the tobacco man come in, and it happened that the Beech-Nut Packing Company's man was here the same day, and I asked Mr. Roach how come two men representing the Beech-Nut people were here the same day, and so he told me.

Q. 19. Did you talk to the Beech-Nut tobacco man when he came in that day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 20. Did he introduce himself to you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 21. What did he say to you at that time?

A. He come in and told me that he was Mr. Bacon, with the Lorillard Tobacco Company, and was handling that Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco.

Q. 22. Then what happened between you?

A. He looked over the stock of cigarettes and things we had, and I told him Mr. Roach wasn't in, and so he said he would be back in a little while before he left town to see him again.

Q. 23. When did Mr. Roach come in?

A. Just as he was leaving.

Q. 24. What did you tell Mr. Roach at that time?

A. I told him there was—as well as I remember, I expressed it in this way: "There is a Beech-Nut tobacco man here," something like that, and told him he had just been in to see him.

Q. 25. Did you see him again?

A. Yes, sir, when he was leaving town, I pointed him out as he was leaving town and told Mr. Roach he wouldn't be back, he was leaving town.

Q. 26. How did he leave?

A. In a Ford roadster.

Cross-Examined by Mr. Cavanagh for Defendant.

X-Q. 1. What was the date you met this Lorillard tobacco man?

A. It was the 21st day of November.

X-Q. 2. About what time?

A. Well, it was in the afternoon, if I am not badly mistaken.

X-Q. 3. That date—the 21st day of November, 1921, was the first time you ever saw that man, wasn't it?

A. Yes—that I know of.

X-Q. 4. And as I understand you, he came into Mr. Roach's store and introduced himself as from the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 5. And that he was selling this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. And the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 7. And you told him that he would have to see Mr. Roach about putting this scrap tobacco and these cigarettes in stock, didn't you?

A. I told him I didn't do the buying—he would have to see Mr. Roach.

X-Q. 8. Yes—then he said he would return a little later?

A. Yes, sir, said he would see him before he left town.

X-Q. 9. And he told you his name was Mr. Bacon?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 10. Now that date was the first time you had ever seen this man, wasn't it?

A. That I know of, yes.

X-Q. 11. The first time he had ever spoken to you and introduced himself?

A. Yes, the first time I had been introduced at all.

X-Q. 12. Have you ever seen that man since the 21st day of November, 1921?

A. Well, no, I don't recall seeing him since.

X-Q. 13. He hasn't been into your store and made any effort to sell you any tobacco since then?

A. Well, I wouldn't say that he hasn't been there since. I know he was there then.

X-Q. 14. But you personally, yourself, have never seen him since that time?

A. No, I don't know of him being there since then.

X-Q. 15. So that fact is taken as understood that that was the only time so far as you know, he was ever in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. And when he was there he said he was from the Lorillard Company and he was selling these tobaccos?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 17. Now, when was it, as near as you can tell, the first time you ever saw a package of tobacco like this Lorillard scrap tobacco?

A. Well, it was in the latter part of the summer, in August, I believe.

X-Q. 18. Where did you see it?

A. At Hopkinsville.

X-Q. 19. You didn't buy any of it, did you?

A. No, it was given to me.

X-Q. 20. Who gave it to you?

A. Some traveling man come in the room I was in—in fact, there was eight or ten men in there—so he handed it out to anybody that chewed at all.

X-Q. 21. Did you chew any of the tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. Pretty good chewing tobacco, isn't it?

A. A little sweet.

X-Q. 23. A little sweet, but good tobacco?

A. Yes, it is good tobacco, if they would leave the sweet off of it.

X-Q. 24. Tobacco chewers all have different tastes, don't they?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. You see Lorillard's name on that package, don't you?

(Witness examines package.)

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Will you look at it and see if you can find the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it any place?

A. No, I don't see the packing company's name on it.

X-Q. 27. So when this tobacco was handed you, you never even looked to see whose name was on it, did you?

A. Well, about all that struck me, I suppose, was that it was Beech-Nut stuff.

X-Q. 28. You didn't pay any attention to who made it—anything of that sort?

A. No, I don't know that I paid any attention as to who made it—I don't know that I did.

X-Q. 29. That didn't make any difference to you at that time at all?

A. Well, not right then I don't suppose it did.

X-Q. 30. Have you sold any of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. When was the first time you saw a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. It was along in the fall.

X-Q. 32. Where did you first see them?

A. Well, I was in Hopkinsville when I first saw them —I was there when they did a right smart Beech-Nut advertising—Beech-Nut cigarette advertising.

X-Q. 33. You didn't buy any of them, did you, that you recall?

A. No, I didn't buy any until after I started to work here—then I smoked some.

X-Q. 34. You notice P. Lorillard Company's name on that cigarette, don't you?

A. I do, yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. And when you said you first thought they were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the food people, you never took the trouble to look at the package and see whose name was on it, did you?

A. Well, before then I had seen them, but I wasn't for sure how the style of the Beech-Nut Manufacturer's name run.

X-Q. 36. You didn't know the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I didn't know for sure at that time.

X-Q. 37. You don't find the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on that package, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 38. But you do find "P. Lorillard Company," on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 39. You have heard of the Lorillard Company, have you not?

A. Well, not until I seen that tobacco, I don't know that I ever have, no, sir.

X-Q. 40. Have you ever sold much tobacco?

A. Well, I reckon a right smart.

X-Q. 41. You have sold these cigarettes (referring to cigarettes made by P. Lorillard Company) at Mr. Roach's store, have you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 42. They come in that kind of a carton I show you—a large carton like this, which has been put in evidence in this case Defendant's Exhibit No. ——?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 43. And that has "Lorillard's Beech-Nut Perfect Cigarettes" on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. You don't find the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. Did you ever hear of or sell the Climax chewing tobacco—Climax plug?

A. Well, I haven't since I have been with him, no, sir.

X-Q. 46. Well, did you ever hear of it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 47. And to shorten this examination, you have heard of the Murad cigarettes, the Moguls, Egyptian Deities?

A. I am not sure about that.

X-Q. 48. You have heard of the Helmars?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. And the concern that makes all those cigarettes must be pretty prominent in the tobacco world, wouldn't you say?

A. Well, I don't hardly know about that.

X-Q. 50. But you know they are wide selling brands of cigarettes, don't you?

A. Well, we haven't the trade for them—they may be in some places; we don't have a trade for that class of cigarettes.

X-Q. 51. Do you use cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 52. You have seen those brands advertised and in cigar stores in Hopkinsville and elsewhere?

A. I have seen them advertised.

X-Q. 53. I understood you to say that you thought that this Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap tobacco was put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company because of the label—are you familiar with the label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Well, I considered that I was.

X-Q. 54. I show you a Beech-Nut Packing Company mint label, which is in this case as Defendant's Exhibit ——, does that look like the Beech-Nut label?

A. Well, at a glance of the eye it does.

X-Q. 55. It has got the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on it, hasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 56. You are familiar with this wide red band of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. This stands out on all their packages, doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 58. And that has a single beech-nut in the middle on the green leaf?

A. Yes, sir—I hadn't noticed it hardly that close.

X-Q. 59. There is quite a difference between those two labels now, isn't there—look at them?

A. Yes, as far as the labels are concerned, get them both together there is quite a difference in them.

X-Q. 60. Now, you never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out any food products, or gum, or candy, in packages having those wide red lines like a sun-burst on it, did you?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company?

X-Q. 61. Yes.

A. No, I don't recall seeing it.

X-Q. 62. That sun-burst, I will call it, is pretty prominent on the package, you can tell it is Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 63. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to sell packages of any of their food products that resembled in shape the package like this tobacco is put up in?

A. You mean in shape?

X-Q. 64. Yes, like this tobacco?

A. No, I never seen any of their packages shaped like that.

X-Q. 65. As a user of tobacco, you could tell that was a tobacco package, couldn't you?

A. Well, I think I could.

X-Q. 66. And you never knew them to put up any packages of stuff that looked like a package of cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 67. You can tell a cigarette package a mile off—it's got an individuality all of its own?

A. Yes, if I wanted to smoke I could.

X-Q. 68. As a matter of common sense a package of cigarettes has a shape and appearance all its own?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 69. And you can readily tell them on the shelf of a store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 70. You never sold any tobacco products that you yourself knew came from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you—the food people?

A. Well, I didn't know they come from them—I thought they did.

X-Q. 71. No, I mean in your own mind and from your own knowledge, that came from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I never sold any tobacco I know now come from there, no sir.

X-Q. 72. You never heard of them putting out tobacco products as a matter of fact, did you?

A. No, I never have.

X-Q. 73. If a man came into your store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you sell him a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, or Beech-Nut candy, or Beech-Nut food products in place of toabcco and cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 74. You would think that man was crazy if he took one for the other, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 75. And that is because they are an entirely different class of goods, aren't they?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 76. Tobacco is tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 77. And it is recognized in the trade and by men of common sense that tobacco isn't the same as chewing gum and food; isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Deposition taken in behalf of plaintiff, before Mary T. Kenney, a Notary Public in and for Bourbon County, Kentucky, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at the Bourbon County Court House, Paris, Kentucky, beginning Friday, January 20th, 1922, at 10:30 o'clock A. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; R. B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

CHARLES P. COOK, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Charles P. Cook; your residence 12th and Cypress street, Paris, Kentucky; your age, 45 years; occupation, grocer; is that correct, Mr. Cook?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Under what name, and where, do you do business?

A. Charles P. Cook & Company, 726 Main street, Paris, Kentucky.

Q. 3. How long have you been in the grocery business?

A. Over twenty-two years.

Q. 4. Have you handled Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. How long?

A. Almost ever since I have been in business.

Q. 6. Please name some of them that you have handled.

A. Chewing gum, mints, breakfast bacon, peanut butter, jellies, macaroni, spaghetti.

Q. 7. What have you found, in your experience, to be the quality of Beech-Nut Packing Company's line of products?

A. It is high class.

Q. 8. How have they sold with you?

A. Good.

Q. 9. What does the Beech-Nut label on a line of goods mean to you?

A. It means quality.

Q. 10. Do you sell tobacco and cigars in your grocery store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. How long have you done this?

A. Ever since I have been in business.

Q. 12. Is it a common thing for grocery stores to sell tobacco?

A. With all of them in this section of the country.

Q. 13. Are you selling Beech-Nut chewing gum in your store at present?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. Where do you expose this gum for sale?

A. In a case on top of the cigar case.

Q. 15. Are any other of the Beech-Nut products displayed for sale near your tobacco?

A. Well, I have got some on the shelf behind it, and in front of it, too.

Q. 16. How close is that to the tobacco?

A. Well, I would say that the jellies are right directly behind it, and peanut butter and breakfast bacon are right opposite the case, only a few feet.

Q. 17. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you ever seen packages of this tobacco before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 18. Do you handle it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 19. When did you first know of it?

A. Why, four or five years ago; first time I ever saw it a salesman came into my place of business, and stated that he was selling Beech-Nut tobacco.

Q. 20. What occurred between you and the tobacco salesman at that time?

A. I told him that I didn't know that the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up tobacco, and he stated that this was a new product, or one of their new products.

Q. 21. What was the effect on you of this conversation?

A. Well, I am not certain that I bought Beech-Nut tobacco at that time, wouldn't say positive, but I think I did. We were perfectly willing to handle it alright enough, because we had been handling other Beech-Nut stuff, and thought the quality would be like all other Beech-Nut stuff.

Q. 22. What makes your memory of your conversation with the Beech-Nut tobacco salesman on the day you have told about, so clear in your mind?

A. Well, Mr. Mattox, who sells Beech-Nut stuff, was in the store at the time, and I told him that I didn't know that the Beech-Nut Packing Company put out tobacco, and he stated himself that he didn't know it either, that it wasn't on his list, he would find out about it.

Q. 23. Would you take this package for a Beech-Nut product?

A. Well, I can't say that. I will say that the Beech-Nut name is what appealed to me. I never paid so much attention to the package as I did to the name that was on it. That's what impressed me.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 24. You say that it was about four or five years ago when this tobacco salesman first came into your store to sell you Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. And was Mr. Mattox, the Beech-Nut Packing Company salesman, in the store at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. So the two salesmen practically met in the store?

A. Well, I don't know that he met the other one there, but Mattox was in the store at the time.

X-Q. 27. And the salesman had sample packages of the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, like this exhibit, there with him, did he not?

A. He had a package; I wouldn't say positively that it was that package, but I never saw one different from that.

X-Q. 28. But it had the red lines on it—as near as you can recollect, it had the same general appearance?

A. Near as I can remember, it was the same package.

X-Q. 29. And at that time this tobacco salesman didn't say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. Not when he introduced himself. He said he was selling Beech-Nut tobacco.

X-Q. 30. Now, you have heard, of course, of P. Lorillard Company, have you not?

A. I hadn't heard of them at that time—until I looked at the package of tobacco.

X-Q. 31. Now, when you looked at the package, you saw the name Lorillard on it?

A. Yes, but not at that time.

X-Q. 32. I mean when you did take the trouble to look at it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. And that indicated to you that it was a Lorillard tobacco product?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 34. Now, I understand that you also handle in your store the various Beech-Nut food products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. And I further believe that your county, or neighborhood here, is more or less interested in the growth of tobacco—this is the tobacco section here in Kentucky, is it not?

A. Yes, sir, center of it.

X-Q. 36. You would never confuse a food product with tobacco, would you?

A. Not likely to.

X-Q. 37. You regard tobacco as an entirely different class of goods from bacon and chewing gum, do you not?

A. We regard them as a different thing, but we carry them both, if that's what you mean.

X-Q. 38. You do regard tobacco products as different from food products, do you not; that is, they have different uses and are different goods?

A. I don't understand exactly how you mean that. We consider tobacco as much a part of our line as we do the groceries.

X-Q. 39. Yes, but the tobacco industry is a distinct line of business in itself?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 40. Just the same as steel or oils or grain are different lines of business—isn't that right?

A. Well, they are distinct lines of business to the men that handle tobacco alone, but with us they are not distinct lines of business.

X-Q. 41. Well, now, for instance, in your stores you sell a great many articles that are in no way related, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 42. You sell brooms?

A. Yes, sir. Mops.

X-Q. 43. Washboards?

A. Washboards.

X-Q. 44. And these brooms, mops, washboards and other articles are in no way connected with food, are they?

A. Except that I sell them in the same store, as a part of my same stock.

X-Q. 45. But that is the only connection with them—a man wouldn't buy a broom to eat on his table for breakfast, would he?

A. Not much.

X-Q. 46. And a man wouldn't buy tobacco to eat for breakfast?

A. No, he wouldn't want it for breakfast; might want it beforehand.

X-Q. 47. If a person came into your store and wanted to buy some Beech-Nut bacon, or a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, you wouldn't hand him, or give him, a package of this Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, would you?

A. Not apt to.

X-Q. 48. And you would think he was crazy if he took it when he wanted chewing gum or bacon, wouldn't you?

A. Of course.

X-Q. 49. You have never bought any tobacco from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, have you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 50. And you never knew them to sell any, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 51. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out a package in its line that looked like this Lorillard scrap tobacco package, did you?

A. No. The package itself didn't have any effect on me at all; just a matter of hearing the name, Beech-Nut Packing Company, in connection with the tobacco.

X-Q. 52. You mean simply the word Beech-Nut?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 53. You never heard of, or saw, a package of the Beech-Nut Packing Company food products having that red sunburst or red radiating lines on it, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 54. And as a merchant engaged in the grocery business and in selling these various products, you can pick out that as a tobacco package, at a glance, wouldn't you?

A. I would now, knowing this package of tobacco.

X-Q. 55. As a matter of fact, if this package was on the shelf, with its red sunburst or radiating lines, and the general appearance of it—that lets you know it is the Beech-Nut tobacco package, doesn't it?

A. Of course.

X-Q. 56. And you can tell it from any other tobacco package, at a glance?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. As I understand it, you are still buying this Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 58. It is quite a good seller for its kind, isn't it?

A. It's about as good a seller—really the only scrap tobacco we have at all.

X-Q. 59. And you have been buying it for a number of years, knowing it is Lorillard tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. And you know the P. Lorillard Company has a good reputation for its manufactured tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 61. So, having known for a number of years past that this was the Lorillard Company's scrap tobacco, you haven't the slightest objection to buying and selling this tobacco, have you?

A. None whatever.

X-Q. 62. You never heard of any tobacco manufacturing concern packaging and selling food products, did you?

A. Not that I know of.

X-Q. 63. And likewise you never heard of a food concern that was in the tobacco manufacturing business?

A. No, sir, only the impression that I got here.

X-Q. 64. Down here in Bourbon County and around this section of Kentucky, the tobacco industry is quite a business, as I understand it—that is, they have tobacco associations, and they have tobacco warehouses, and they have tobacco markets, for buying and selling the crop, and the like, have they not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 65. And these tobacco markets and warehouses, they don't store and sell food products or chewing gum, do they?

A. No, sir.

Notary Public, Bourbon County, Ky.

My commission expires January 13th, 1924.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Depositions taken on behalf of plaintiff before Garland A. Thomasson, a notary public, acting as Special Master by consent of counsel and pursuant to notice, and by agreement of counsel at the Pelton studio, 9½ North West Pack Square, and at Pennell's cigar store, 14 Patton Ave., Asheville, North Carolina, beginning Monday, January 23, 1922, at 10:15 A. M.

Present: Mr. H. McClure Johnson, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Mr. R. B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead and Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

H. W. PELTON, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, and in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Johnson: Q. 1. Your name is H. W. Pelton?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Your residence is 124½ Montford Avenue, Asheville, N. C.?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Your age is forty?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Your occupation professional photographer; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. Under what name do you do business, and where?

A. Pelton Studio, 9½ North West Pack Square.

Q. 6. What town?

A. Asheville, North Carolina.

Q. 7. Do you know the Pennell cigar store at 14 Patton Avenue, Asheville, North Carolina?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. What floor in the building is it?

A. First floor.

Q. 9. Has it a front show window facing the sidewalk?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Did you ever photograph that show window?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. When?

A. Yesterday, January 22.

Q. 12. What is the date?

A. January 22, 1922.

Q. 13. On whose instructions?

A. Mr. Atkinson's of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 14. Did you take the photograph, develop it and print it yourself?

A. I took the photograph, and developed it and had someone else print it.

Q. 15. Someone in your studio?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. Is this photograph, which I show you, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, Pennell's Cigar Store Window Display, the photograph you took of the Pennell cigar store front show window and display therein on January 22, 1922 (handing to witness)?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Johnson: This photograph, marked as I have described, is introduced and offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, Pennell's Cigar Store Window Display.

Q. 17. Does Pennell's name show on the window or front of his store?

A. No, sir, I have not seen it.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 18. What time yesterday did you take this picture?

A. Yesterday morning, somewhere between eleven and twelve.

X-Q. 19. And after you took the picture, what did you do, did you develop the plate right away?

A. Very soon afterwards.

X-Q. 20. Did you touch up the plate in any way at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. Would you say that that photograph is an absolutely accurate representation of that window and the contents of it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. Did you take this from the outside of the store or the inside?

A. The outside.

X-Q. 23. And it was an absolutely bright day when you took it, was it?

A. It was cloudy, but the light was good.

X-Q. 24. It was a good light for taking a photograph as this shows?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. Yes. Look at this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, you see the name P. Lorillard Co. on it (indicating and handing to witness)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. And that is the black against the red here, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. Do you notice the name P. Lorillard Co. on the photographic representation of those packages?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. Does it show on any of those three Beech-Nut cigarettes signs, does it show on the photograph?

A. I don't notice that. I don't see it on there.

X-Q. 29. As a matter of fact, it is absolutely absent on those pictures, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 30. How far is this Pennell cigar store from this building here—how near is it?

A. Yes, one block from here.

X-Q. 31. Did you notice on those Beech-Nut signs in that window, on each of those packages or pictures on the cigarette packages, the words "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31*a*. And then if the signs in the window show on those Beech-Nut panels or pictures the words "P. Lorillard Co." on the package, then you would say that was not an accurate representation of the window, would you not—of the signs in the window?

A. I was asked if it was a representation of the articles in the window.

X-Q. 32. You don't quite understand.

A. I understand what you say, and I know that a black photograph on red will photograph black.

X-Q. 33. But it would show that name on there, would it not?

A. It might not even if they were there. Red and black show black; a black photograph is black—

X-Q. 34. Then you are not certain, are you?

A. It depends on the depth of the red, and the sensitiveness of the photographic plate whether or not the letters would be at all visible or not.

X-Q. 35. But to get back to my question, if the three Beech-Nut signs in the window, which I have marked in pencil for identification as A, B and C, showed on the picture of the Beech-Nut cigarette package the words "P. Lorillard Co.," as you look in the window, then this photograph would not be a true representation, would it?

A. You mean a representation, a true representation of all the colors?

X-Q. 36. Or the words on there?

A. In that particular case it might not be on account of the inability of the plate to photograph black against red.

X-Q. 37. If you looked in that window and saw on the signs the name "P. Lorillard Co.," on the bottom of those packages—cigarette packages of the signs, the same as is on the cigarette package itself—that is the name—then that photograph would not truly show that window and the packages and the reading matter of the signs, would it?

A. It would show the window and the packages.

X-Q. 38. But not the reading matter?

A. But not necessarily the reading matter; no, sir.

By Mr. Cavanagh: The photograph introduced by the plaintiff as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13 is now objected to on the ground that it does not accurately show the signs in the window, nor does it reproduce accurately the pictures or signs on the Beech-Nut cigarette.

And the deposition of this witness, in connection with this photograph is also objected to on the same grounds.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 39. Is this photograph, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, which you took of the Pennell cigar store window, in colors?

A. No, sir.

R-D. Q. 40. Do colors necessarily show in photographic prints, ordinary photographs?

A. Prints are shown in different degrees of grays and whites, different colors will photograph with different intensities from white to black.

R-D. Q. 41. Is this photograph a correct photographic representation of this show window and the display therein, when taken with the usual photographic materials?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Cavanagh: Question objected to on the ground that the witness has testified that the name "P. Lorillard Co." does not show on the packages. Counsel for the P. Lorillard & Company understands that after this deposition has been taken an adjournment will be taken to the cigar store where the window in question is located and, therefore, counsel insists that an adjournment be taken over to the cigar store to determine this matter at once.

Adjournment thereupon taken to said Pennell's cigar store, 14 Patton Avenue, Asheville, N. C.

By Mr. Cavanagh: An adjournment was taken to the Pennell cigar store. The witness examined the show window of which Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, introduced this morning, was supposed to be a photograph. And the cross-examination of the witness Mr. H. W. Pelton by Mr. Cavanagh continued:

R-X Q. 42. Mr. Pelton, in my presence, you have just sitiveness of the photographic plate whether or not the letters would be at all visible or not.

X-Q. 35. But to get back to my question, if the three Beech-Nut signs in the window, which I have marked in pencil for identification as A, B and C, showed on the picture of the Beech-Nut cigarette package the words "P. Lorillard Co.," as you look in the window, then this photograph would not be a true representation, would it?

A. You mean a representation, a true representation of all the colors?

X-Q. 36. Or the words on there?

A. In that particular case it might not be on account of the inability of the plate to photograph black against red.

X-Q. 37. If you looked in that window and saw on the signs the name "P. Lorillard Co.," on the bottom of those packages—cigarette packages of the signs, the same as is on the cigarette package itself—that is the name—then that photograph would not truly show that window and the packages and the reading matter of the signs, would it?

A. It would show the window and the packages.

X-Q. 38. But not the reading matter?

A. But not necessarily the reading matter; no, sir.

By Mr. Cavanagh: The photograph introduced by the plaintiff as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13 is now objected to on the ground that it does not accurately show the signs in the window, nor does it reproduce accurately the pictures or signs on the Beech-Nut cigarette.

And the deposition of this witness, in connection with this photograph is also objected to on the same grounds.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 39. Is this photograph, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, which you took of the Pennell cigar store window, in colors?

A. No, sir.

R-D. Q. 40. Do colors necessarily show in photographic prints, ordinary photographs?

A. Prints are shown in different degrees of grays and whites, different colors will photograph with different intensities from white to black.

R-D. Q. 41. Is this photograph a correct photographic representation of this show window and the display therein, when taken with the usual photographic materials?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Cavanagh: Question objected to on the ground that the witness has testified that the name "P. Lorillard Co." does not show on the packages. Counsel for the P. Lorillard & Company understands that after this deposition has been taken an adjournment will be taken to the cigar store where the window in question is located and, therefore, counsel insists that an adjournment be taken over to the cigar store to determine this matter at once.

Adjournment thereupon taken to said Pennell's cigar store, 14 Patton Avenue, Asheville, N. C.

By Mr. Cavanagh: An adjournment was taken to the Pennell cigar store. The witness examined the show window of which Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, introduced this morning, was supposed to be a photograph. And the cross-examination of the witness Mr. H. W. Pelton by Mr. Cavanagh continued:

R-X Q. 42. Mr. Pelton, in my presence, you have just examined or looked at the show window of the Pennell Cigar Store, and particularly the three Beech-Nut panels or signs. During this examination you noticed on each of the pictures or representations of the packages of cigarettes the words "P. Lorillard & Co." shown prominently on the package, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 43. And those words "P. Lorillard Co." do not appear upon the photograph of the packages which has been introduced in evidence as Exhibit 13 of plaintiff. Those words "P. Lorillard Co." do not show on this photograph?

A. Not so that we could see it.

R-X Q. 44. They do not show there at all, do they?

A. They do not show.

R-X Q. 45. So that so far as those particular Beech-Nut signs go this photograph is not a true representation of what you can see in the window when you stand on the sidewalk, is it?

A. This photograph is a representation—as far as you can get it.

R-X Q. 46. But it doesn't show the words "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. No, sir, it doesn't.

R-X Q. 47. So it is not really a true representation, is it?

A. As far as we can get it photographically, it is.

R-X Q. 48. Do you mean to say that when a picture of any object shows printing on it, and you take a photograph in which that printing is entirely absent, to the eye, that that is an accurate photograph?

A. I cannot answer that question by "yes" or "no." I would have to put in a few qualifying words, there are different colors, different degrees of intensity of lights and shades. A photograph reproduces in monotone, and different degrees of color.

R-X Q. 49. Well, to cut this whole matter short, the signs in the window show the name "P. Lorillard Co." prominently on these pictures of the package?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 50. And they are not shown in the photograph?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: The objection to the reception of the photograph in evidence because it is not an accurate representation and as not accurately showing the Beech-Nut cigarette signs in the window is repeated.

Redirect Examination Continued by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 51. Is there any question at all in your mind that this is not a correct photographic reproduction of that window and the display in it?

A. I consider it a correct photographic representation, with the ordinary photographic materials.

R-D. Q. 52. In order to bring out the colors of black and red, would you have to use other than the usual photographic materials?

A. Yes, sir. A red light is used in the dark room because plates are not sensitive to red. The ordinary photographic plate not being sensitive to the deeper shades of red and not sensitive to black, photographs of both are practically the same degree of intensity of monotone, so while the letters may be there, we cannot see them. So of the white clouds and the sky. The plates are sensitive to blue, very sensitive. Very sensitive to white. So if we get a picture on a blue background the whole thing will appear white. The clouds have been photographed on the blue sky, but we cannot see any differentiation between the two.

By Mr. Cavanagh: Further cross-examination.

R-X Q. 53. You could take a photograph of that window to show the words "P. Lorillard Co." and they would show up on that photograph the same as they do show in the window, couldn't you?

A. With the same materials to use?

R-X Q. 54. No, but you could take a photograph?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 55. Will you do that for me?

A. I cannot do it on short notice.

R-X Q. 56. Will you take such photographs for me?

A. I would be glad to.

R-X Q. 57. They can be taken all right; it can be taken?

A. Yes, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

W. C. PENNELL, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposed as follows:

By Mr. Johnson: Q. 1. Your name is W. C. Pennell?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Residence is 304 Hillside Street, Asheville, North Carolina?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. Your age is forty years?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. Your occupation a retail tobacco dealer and news agent, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. Under what name do you do business, and where?

A. Pennell's Cigar Store, 14 Patton Avenue, Asheville, North Carolina.

Q. 6. How long have you been in that business?

A. About thirty months.

Q. 7. Do you handle any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's products, and name some of them that you handle?

A. Mints, gums, penny bars, caramels.

Q. 8. How long have you handled Beech-Nut products, Mr. Pennell?

A. Ever since I have been in business.

Q. 9. How have they sold with you?

A. Pretty well.

Q. 10. What does the Beech-Nut Packing Co. label stand for with you?

A. Well, nothing more than any other line of merchandise as far as that goes. It is merchandise that we have a demand for.

Q. 11. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1; have you ever seen packages of these cigarettes before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 12. Do you sell them in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 13. How long have you handled them?

A. The best of my recollection it is about four or five months.

Q. 14. On what floor of the building is your store?

A. First floor.

Q. 15. Does your front store window face the sidewalk?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. For what purpose do you use this show window?

A. Display purposes.

Q. 17. Are you displaying Beech-Nut products in your window at the present time?

A. No, sir. I am displaying Beech-Nut advertising matter, but there is no Beech-Nut products in there.

Q. 18. Have you a photograph of the display now in your window?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 19. Who took this photograph?

A. Mr. Pelton.

Q. 20. What is his business?

A. Photographer.

Q. 21. Where?

A. Pack Square, Asheville, North Carolina.

Q. 22. When did Mr. Pelton take it?

A. The first one was made Saturday afternoon, and the other one yesterday afternoon, or yesterday sometime. I don't know whether it was in the afternoon or not.

Q. 23. On whose instructions did he take this picture?

A. Why, Mr. Atkinson's I presume.

Q. 24. Is this photograph, already in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 13, Pennell's Cigar Store Window Display—how long has this display, shown in this picture, been in that window?

A. Four or five days.

Q. 25. Who put it in?

A. I did.

Q. 26. Were the Beech-Nut hard candies and gum advertised in there longer than that?

A. They were in there previous to that.

Q. 27. About how long have you had the Beech-Nut Company's ads. in there?

A. About ten days.

Q. 28. Are these the Beech-Nut cigarette posters here in the center at the back (indicating)?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 29. Who put them in there?

A. I did.

Q. 30. How did you happen to do it?

A. Simply to make a back ground to keep people out of the window.

Q. 31. When did you put them in there with reference to the time that the Beech-Nut Packing Company's display was put in there?

A. That was a day or two afterwards.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. You also show in your window besides these Beech-Nut cigarette signs and the Beech-Nut mints, you also display other articles and products of other concerns?

A. Strollers, Chesterfields, Fatima cigarettes.

X-Q. 2. Shaving cream?

A. Shaving cream, pipes, cigarette holders, magazines.

X-Q. 3. In other words, this is your general display window, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 4. And it faces one of the principal streets in the city?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 5. You use that window to display any goods that you might handle?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 6. You have heard of the P. Lorillard Company, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 7. You know that it is a large tobacco company, do you not?

A. Well, it is supposed to be.

X-Q. 8. Well, I know that you know the various brands of good cigarettes, such as the Murads, and also the Climax tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 9. And the Union Leader, and other well known brands of tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 10. And the words "P. Lorillard Company" appear on this cigarette package, does it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 11. And do you handle P. Lorillard scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 12. I wish to show you a package of this tobacco, which is in evidence in this case as the Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3; is it a fac-similie representation of the scrap tobacco (handing to witness)?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 13. That has the name "Lorillard's" on it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 14. And that is a P. Lorillard Company product?

A. It is supposed to be.

X-Q. 15. So far as you know, it is the P. Lorillard Company product?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. How long have you been handling that tobacco?

A. Ever since I have been in business.

X-Q. 17. And that is a good selling tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

Objection by Mr. Johnson to these questions in regard to P. Lorillard Company's scrap tobacco as being subject-matter outside the direct examination.

X-Q. 18. Now, in connection with this photograph. Would you mind stepping out to the window with me just a second. You have kindly stepped out in front to the street, and in front of your show window, and have looked at the three Beech-Nut cigarette panels appearing thereon, to which I directed your attention, and you have also compared the same while standing at the window, with this photograph?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 19. This photograph doesn't represent, truly represent those cigarette panels, does it?

A. No, it doesn't all show.

X-Q. 20. What is omitted there?

A. Well, the bottom of this panel, the letters that are there are not shown.

X-Q. 21. That is, the name P. Lorillard Co. doesn't show?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 22. But it does appear on the signs in the window?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. And the letters on those signs are rather large, are they not?

A. Fairly so.

X-Q. 24. You can see them standing in front of the window?

A. You can see them from the street.

X-Q. 25. So that this picture is not a true representation?

A. Well, it doesn't show it all.

X-Q. 26. I understand that in addition to tobacco you sell chewing gum, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. If a customer comes in your store and wants to buy a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, you wouldn't hand him a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 28. You would think he was crazy if he took it, wouldn't you?

A. Well, I wouldn't say that. If he says he wants a package of Beech-Nut. I say, what?

X-Q. 29. Suppose he asks you for Beech-Nut gum?

A. Suppose he asks me for Beech-Nut gum——

X-Q. 30. You wouldn't hand him Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir, I would not, certainly.

X-Q. 31. Tobacco is an entirely different product from gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 32. An entirely different class of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 33. And a man wouldn't go around swallowing a package of cigarettes for breakfast?

A. I don't know about that.

X-Q. 34. You wouldn't buy them and sell them——

A. Some men do lots of things.

X-Q. 35. You wouldn't do it, would you?

A. No, sir, I would not.

X-Q. 36. You never knew of the Beech-Nut Company selling any tobacco products at all, did you?

A. No, sir, not to my knowledge.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 37. Are the Beech-Nut cigarette posters in the window, to which Mr. Cavanagh has called your attention, are they in colors?

A. I don't remember.

R-D. Q. 38. Are there colors on them?

A. I don't remember about that. I never paid enough attention to say whether they were or were not.

R-D. Q. 39. Step out and look at them again. Since you gave your last answer have you looked at the posters in the window?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 40. Are the Beech-Nut cigarette posters in colors?

A. About five colors on it.

R-D. Q. 41. Are the names P. Lorillard Company, to which Mr. Cavanagh has called your attention, in color?

A. Black, I think. I don't remember just which it is.

R-D. Q. 42. Black on what?

A. On the posters. Black on red.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 43. How long do you intend to let that exhibit remain?

A. Well, it was my intention to change it today, sir.

R-X Q. 44. So I understand, then, that you intend to redress your window today?

A. Yes, sir.

Re-Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 45. In the ordinary course of business, how often do you change your window display?

A. Well, average about every four days.

R-D. Q. 46. If you change it in the near future, it will be in the regular ordinary course of your habit, wouldn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 47. Has your store front or the show window of which this is a photograph, your name on it anywhere?

A. No, sir, it has not.

R-D. Q. 48. In regard to these Beech-Nut posters—cigarette posters—at the back of this window display, where did you get those in order to put them in the window?

A. My recollection is I got them down at Barbee's and Clark's. I get all those posters and things down there.

R-D. Q. 49. With reference to the time that you were arranging the display which is in that window, and as shown in that photograph, when did you get the posters, the Beech-Nut cigarette posters?

A. Why, the Beech-Nut posters were brought in here by Mr. Hawkins. I had some Chesterfield cards sitting up there, and they were dirty, and I wanted to take them out.

R-D. Q. 50. Did you go down and get these Beech-Nut cigarette posters at that time, after you had rigged up the rest of the window?

A. Yes, sir.

Re-Re-Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 51. How long have you been buying and selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I have been buying and selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes before they were ever put on the market here. I bought them from dealers out of town.

R-X Q. 52. And you are still selling them?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 53. And you know they are Lorillard's cigarettes?

A. Sure. Yes, sir, I knew it all the time.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company, Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Depositions taken in behalf of plaintiff, before W. M. Walters, a Notary Public, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, at the W. T. Hill grocery store, 10 Mason street, West Greenville, S. C., beginning Tuesday, January 24th, 1922, at 2:25 o'clock P. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, Esq., of Messrs. Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

WILLIAM T. HILL, a witness produced on behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Johnson.

Q. 1. Your name is William T. Hill?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Your residence is 8 Traction Street, West Greenville?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. Your age is 59 years?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. Your occupation is proprietor of grocery store and meat market?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. Under what name do you do business, and where?

A. W. T. Hill, Mason street, No. 10, West Greenville, S. C.

Q. 6. How long have you been in the grocery business?

A. About twenty-five years.

Q. 7. How long where you are now?

A. A year and a half.

Q. 8. Have you handled Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. Will you name some, please, which you have handled?

A. Well, I handle the Beech-Nut chewing gum, Beech-Nut peanut butter, and some other things that I handle, such as pork and beans and some other things I might not mention just now, but I have handled all of the goods pretty well.

Q. 10. How have they sold for you?

A. Fine; been good sale.

Q. 11. What has been your experience with people wanting them?

A. They come in to buy especially gum and that peanut butter, and if I don't have it they would go somewhere else, and said that's what they wanted, and so they go somewhere else; I reckon they want it.

Q. 12. What does the Beech-Nut label stand for to you?

A. Quality.

Q. 13. Do you sell tobacco and cigarettes in your store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. Alongside of your groceries?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 15. Is it a common thing in your part of the country for tobacco and cigarettes to be sold alongside of groceries?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1; and a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. When did you first hear of this tobacco and these cigarettes?

A. Why, a special man came around here sometime last fall, I think about the last or first of November, or first of September, and he offered that Beech-Nut tobacco for sale.

Q. 17. What month was that?

A. First of November, as near as I can recollect.

Q. 18. What did you say to him?

A. Well, I just have to commence sort of in my own way. You know we have men to come in here every day to sell something. As nigh as I recollect, I was by myself when he came in here. He asked me about the tobacco, and I had never heard tell of it. I told him I would not buy none now, but probably later on. I talked on and explained to him I didn't like buying new things. He went on then to ask me about how the Beech-Nut stuff sold, such as peanut butter and gum, and so on, and I told him it was a fine seller. "Well," he said, "this tobacco will make you just such a seller as Beech-Nut." I turned around to him and said, "The Beech-Nut Company putting out tobacco?" He talked on and I don't know I got any direct answer. Don't think I did.

Q. 19. What was the effect on you of what he did and said at that time?

A. Well, I just put it up that they had put out tobacco.

Q. 20. Who did you think put it out?

A. The Beech-Nut Company, that's who I thought.

Q. 21. When did you find out it was not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Later on someone came and asked me about the man coming here trying to sell Beech-Nut tobacco and that was the first I knew of it. I reckon it was around the latter part or the first of December they come in. That was the first I heard anything about it being wrong.

Q. 22. Are you familiar with the Beech-Nut Packing Company labels?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 23. When you look at the Beech-Nut Packing Company labels, do they look like that?

A. Yes, sir, very much.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Did this gentleman that tried to sell you tobacco tell you what concern he represented?

A. No.

X-Q. 2. He didn't say he represented the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir, I don't think he did.

X-Q. 3. And he didn't say that he was selling the tobacco for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir, I don't think so.

X-Q. 4. Did you buy any tobacco from him?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 5. Have you ever had in stock or bought or sold tobacco like this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 6. Have you ever had in stock or bought or sold tobacco like this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 7. So you have never had occasion to buy any of this tobacco or these cigarettes, or kept them in stock?

A. No, sir; I had a chance to buy them, though.

X-Q. 8. So that you have never bought any of this tobacco or any of these Beech-Nut cigarettes under the impression of getting them from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir, never bought any at all.

X-Q. 9. Now, this party that came in here said this tobacco would make as good a seller as the Beech-Nut line of goods; food products and chewing gum?

A. That's right.

X-Q. 10. Now, if I were to tell you that in 1919 the manufacturer of this scrap tobacco sold fourteen millions of dollars worth of it, or over two millions of dollars over the whole business of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, you would say I told the truth in saying it was a good seller?

A. Yes, sir, I believe I would.

X-Q. 11. Now, you notice the name "Lorillard" is on there, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 12. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company?

A. I don't know, I think——

X-Q. 13. You notice the name of the P. Lorillard Company on the cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 14. You don't find the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company anywhere on these packages?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 15. But you do find it on the peanut butter and other products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. Now, you speak of the label of the packages looking like the label of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on the food products. I am referring to the tobacco and cigarette labels and food labels. Did you ever see a package of any goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company you sold that had those red, radiating lines, like a sunbeam?

A. No, sir, I never did.

X-Q. 17. You never saw anything the Beech-Nut Packing Company put out like these red lines, did you?

A. Well, I never saw anything put out by that company with those red lines.

X-Q. 18. You never saw any package of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that looked like scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. Now, a cigarette package has an appearance or individuality all of its own, doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 20. You can tell cigarette packages as far as you can see?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 21. You never knew anything put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company like these cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 22. As I understand, in keeping this store or establishment here, you sell fresh meats, canned goods, tobacco, food products, general merchandise line, brooms, and the like; and you also sell candies and chewing gum, so naturally you are an experienced man in your grocery line?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. Now, if a man came into this store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut Chewing gum, would you hand him out a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for chewing gum?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. Neither would you hand him a package of this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco when he wanted chewing gum or peanut butter, would you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 25. So you think a man who would take cigarettes or tobacco when he wanted chewing gum or peanut butter would be crazy?

A. Why yes, we have a Scripture like that; and I would think that I was crazy, too.

X-Q. 26. That's because they are entirely different classes of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. They are known in your business as entirely different commodities?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. No man who's got one ounce of wits left would ever take food products for tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company, Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Deposition taken in behalf of plaintiff, before W. M. Walters, a notary public, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, at the Imperial Hotel, West Washington Street, Greenville, S. C., Tuesday, January 24th, 1922.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, Esq., of Messrs. Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

WYATT P. JENNINGS, a witness produced on behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Johnson.

Q. 1. Your name is Wyatt P. Jennings?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Your residence is No. 333 Richardson Street, Greenville, S. C.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. Your age is twenty-two years next May?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. Your occupation is traveling salesman?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. By whom are you employed?

A. By the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 6. How long have you been employed by them?

A. Two years the first of next May.

Q. 7. In what capacity?

A. Salesman.

Q. 8. What do you sell for them?

A. Full line of Beech-Nut Packing Co. products.

Q. 9. What is your territory?

A. Fourteen counties in what is known as the "Piedmont" section of South Carolina.

Q. 10. To what class of trade do you sell Beech-Nut Packing Co. products?

A. General stores, cigar stores in large cities, and a great many of the general stores and smaller stores.

Q. 11. Are those retail stores?

A. Yes, sir; retail stores.

Q. 12. Is it common in your territory for the general stores and grocery stores to handle tobacco and cigarettes alongside of the groceries?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 13. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1; and a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3. Have you ever seen packages of these cigarettes and tobacco before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. Have you ever seen them displayed for sale alongside the Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods or in the same room?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 15. Have you seen this in a good many instances?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. When did you first see these Beech-Nut cigarettes offered for sale in this territory?

A. Along about the first of October, 1921.

Q. 17. Have you since then seen them on sale generally through your territory?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 18. Have you seen them displayed in windows of stores and the like?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 19. Have you seen advertising and posters of these cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 20. Have you, in the course of your traveling about from place to place for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, heard remarks, comments or inquiries about these cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 21. Please state the nature of these remarks, comments or inquiries.

A. I walk into a man's store and the first thing they say is: "How long have you been putting them out—the Beech-Nut cigarette?" They ask you how they are selling; want to know if they are as good as the other products, gum and candies. Causes lots of confusion. Good many around; they ask if it is as good as other products and say that if it is as good as others, it is good.

Q. 22. Can you give a conservative estimate as to the number of times you have heard inquiries, comments or remarks of that nature since you first heard of these cigarettes?

A. Five hundred times.

Q. 23. Is that a conservative estimate?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 24. Can you describe any instances of these inquiries such as you have just mentioned?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 25. Please give several such instances; only cases where you remember the name of the speaker, the place, and what was said.

A. Todd Drug Company, Spartanburg, S. C.; Dr. Todd, proprietor. I was calling on Dr. Todd one morning along in November, somewhere in November. The question of Beech-Nut cigarette was brought up; he wanted to know how it was selling; said something about the label looking so much alike; lots of people thought it was the same thing as the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Said if it was as good as other products, it would sell good. He was under the impression himself that it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I corrected him and told him it was made by other people.

Q. 26. Can you describe another instance?

A. Webb-Cason Drug Store, Anderson, S. C.; Dr. Cason is buyer. One morning in October he mentioned something about the Beech-Nut cigarette; had noticed where it was put out; it looked like it was making a wonderful seller; had lots of calls for it, and with the quality and merit of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's other products, he said that the Beech-Nut cigarette would sell good. I corrected him and told him it was made by other people; that we did not put it out.

Q. 27. Can you name another instance?

A. Sprott Cigar Store, Spartanburg, S. C.; Mr. Sprott, proprietor. Walked in one morning in November. Mr. Sprott, the first thing he asked me: "Jennings, I want to buy some Beech-Nut cigarettes; lots of people have called for them and I want to know if it is as good as the gum and candies, as I have lots of calls for them. I want to know where I can get them." He said he thought they would go good. I corrected him and told him that this cigarette was not made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 28. Can you name another instance?

A. J. W. Hill, West Greenville, S. C., Grocery. In October, Mr. Hill said—he mentioned the Beech-Nut cigarette. He said he wanted to handle some of them if he was sure the quality was as good in the cigarette as it was in the Beech-Nut gum and other products, it would make him a wonderful seller. I corrected him that we did not put it out.

Q. 29. Do you have similar inquiries, remarks and comments in regard to the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Not so much as the cigarette.

Q. 30. Have you experienced some such instances?

A. Not the same cases the tobacco as the Beech-Nut cigarette.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Did one person ever ask you if the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I can't remember all of them now; several cases that they have asked.

X-Q. 2. Just give me the names of the people.

A. Waldrop & Turner, Greenville, S. C.

X-Q. 3. What's their address?

A. Coffee street.

X-Q. 4. What line of business?

A. Grocery.

X-Q. 5. Do they handle the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 6. Do you know how long they have been handling it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 7. When did they ask you?

A. Several months ago.

X-Q. 8. The latter part of 1921?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 9. I understand you to say that you are a salesman for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 10. How long have you had the South Carolina territory?

A. Two years this coming May.

X-Q. 11. Ever since you have been in this territory you have seen this Beech-Nut scrap tobacco around?

A. I don't know; I don't remember that far back.

X-Q. 12. But you do remember you saw it for many months before that party made that inquiry?

A. I cannot say that.

X-Q. 13. This Beech-Nut tobacco is a large seller in tobacco stores and grocery stores. Do you mean to say you have been calling around on the trade during those two years and did not see that?

A. I do say I have seen the tobacco, but this has been about a year.

X-Q. 14. So you have seen it about a year on the market?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 15. Now, you mentioned in your direct examination the names of several people that asked you about the cigarettes and whether they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company. You do not know of your own knowledge whether these people ever took the trouble to examine those cigarettes and see whose name was on there?

A. I cannot answer that. I was going by what they say.

X-Q. 16. You don't know whether they ever took the trouble?

A. They have gone to the trouble.

X-Q. 17. You know they have looked on the package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. The Beech-Nut Packing Company's name does not appear on that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. The name Lorillard does appear on that scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 20. Did you ever sell any tobacco products for the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. Did you ever know of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco products, such as cigarettes and scrap tobacco?

A. No, I have not.

X-Q. 22. You receive, in the course of your business you receive lists containing the various items of goods the Beech-Nut Packing Company put out. That is, to make myself clear, whenever the Beech-Nut Packing Company puts out a new product, you are notified of that in some way, aren't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. And it's added to your list?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. You have practically a complete list, at some time or other, of all food products they handle, don't you?

A. But they are not all food products.

X-Q. 25. What is not a food product?

A. Gum.

X-Q. 26. Gum comes under the Pure Food Law, doesn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. And the Pure Food Law covers food products?

A. Yes, sir. But I would not call it a food product.

X-Q. 28. As a matter of fact, you don't know whether gum is a food product or not?

A. I would say, some people would not say so.

X-Q. 29. Would you call it a confection?

A. I would.

X-Q. 30. There is one thing certain; gum isn't tobacco.

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 31. They are distinct classes of goods?

A. Sure, they are different.

X-Q. 32. If you wanted to buy peanut butter or Beech-Nut gum you could not be confused in accepting scrap tobacco for it?

A. Well, in a case like that, at some time any man will call for a package of Beech-Nut and the merchant will throw out Beech-Nut tobacco.

X-Q. 33. If you asked the man for Beech-Nut chewing gum, could you be deceived into taking tobacco?

A. No, sir. If I called for it, I would want it.

X-Q. 34. You would know the difference?

A. Yes, sir. I know the difference between tobacco and gum.

X-Q. 35. You would know the difference right away, and would not be confused for a minute on it?

A. I would look at the name.

X-Q. 36. I am speaking of the two kinds of goods; you would not be confused a minute?

A. If I called for a certain piece of goods they are going to give it to me.

X-Q. 37. If they did offer tobacco and you wanted chewing gum, you would not take it?

A. I would study for a minute; I would be under the same impression.

X-Q. 38. I am not asking you about impressions. If you went in and wanted to buy a 5-cent package of Beech-Nut chewing gum and asked for gum, and he handed you either a package of cigarettes or Lorillard's scrap tobacco, you would not take either one of these for the goods you wanted—the gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. Now, you are around in the grocery trade, are you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 40. You notice the Star soap?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 41. You know there is a Star ham?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 42. You know there is a Star chewing tobacco?

A. I have heard of that. My idea is not to take up tobacco, because I never come in contact.

X-Q. 43. So you never had any interest in the tobacco line?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 44. So you are not at all familiar with the tobacco line?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 45. You don't know whether there is a Star tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 46. You have heard of Liggett-Myers Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 47. You have never heard of their famous Star chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 48. You have heard of the Star ham and Star soap?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. It comes by the name of "Armour's Star Ham"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 50. It's got "Armour's" on there, same as Lorillard's Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 51. You are pretty familiar with the Beech-Nut Packing Company's forms and shapes and dress of packages?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 52. Did you ever know of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out a package resembling this scrap tobacco?

A. Looks very much like the label.

X-Q. 53. In other words, you have never known of the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put up a package of goods in its general shape resembling this package of Beech Nut scrap tobacco, and had red, radiating lines on it?

A. I have never noticed it very closely.

X-Q. 54. Did you ever know of the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put up anything like that at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 55. You never noticed that the Beech-Nut Packing Company put up anything in a package that had that red sunburst on it, did you?

A. No, I have not.

X-Q. 56. You can tell a cigarette package, so far as its shape and appearance goes, as far as you can see it, can't you?

A. Sure, you can tell it.

X-Q. 57. It's got an individuality and shape all of its own, hasn't it?

A. It's got a shape.

X-Q. 58. In other words, whether it is Beech-Nut cigarette, or whether it is Chesterfield cigarette, or Lucky Strike, or any other cigarette, you can tell them when you see them on the shelves; you can tell they are cigarettes?

A. Sure you can.

X-Q. 59. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out any package in the form or shape of a cigarette package?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 60. Never heard of them doing that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 61. Now, when you told these parties, about whom you spoke—that if the Beech-Nut Packing Company did not put out these cigarettes and scrap tobacco, you said that you did not put it out, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 62. Who did you tell them put it out?

A. I didn't tell who put it out, but told them the Beech-Nut Packing Company didn't.

X-Q. 63. Do you know whether any of these men you spoke of bought any of it?

A. Sure, they were handling the stuff.

X-Q. 64. You were the regular salesman calling there in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 65. You never knew of any Lorillard men selling food products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 66. Do you know who the Lorillard agent is in this district?

A. I met Mr. Dorr.

X-Q. 67. But you never ran into one of the Lorillard agents selling Beech-Nut tobacco in the stores; or cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 68. You never knew of any tobacco concern that manufactured food products, did you?

A. No, I haven't.

X-Q. 69. You never knew of a food packing concern that manufactured tobacco, did you?

A. No.

DEPOSITION OF ROBERT L. BOWEN.

Deposition taken in behalf of plaintiff before J. W. Mansfield, Notary Public and Court Reporter for the Court of General Sessions, Seventh District of South Carolina, until his recent resignation to devote all of his time to the practice of law, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, at the residence of R. L. Bowen, No. 302 South Liberty Street, Spartanburg, South Carolina, beginning January 25th, 1922, at 11:40 o'clock A. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, attorneys for P. Lorillard & Company.

ROBERT L. BOWEN, a witness produced in behalf of plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn by me, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. Johnson.

Q. 1. Your name is R. L. Bowen; your residence No. 302 South Liberty Street, Spartanburg, South Carolina; your age, 56 years; your occupation, grocer; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. Under what name were you doing business last fall, and where?

A. R. L. Bowen and Company, 325 South Liberty Street, Spartanburg, S. C. I am now out of business and expect to resume as soon as building is completed now being erected for that purpose.

Q. 3. How long did you engage in the grocery business at 325 South Liberty Street?

A. About two years.

Q. 4. Have you ever handled Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. How long?

A. Two years.

Q. 6. Did you handle them before you went into business here?

A. Handled them before—a year or so before.

Q. 7. Please name some of the Beech-Nut Packing Company products that you have handled.

A. Beech-Nut peanut butter, Beech-Nut catsup, Beech-Nut jelly, Beech-Nut chewing gum, Beech-Nut candy.

Q. 8. How have they sold for you?

A. Fine.

Q. 9. What does the Beech-Nut label stand for to you?

A. Quality.

Q. 10. How strong is the demand for Beech-Nut Packing Company products from your customers?

A. It is good. If we have not got it, they will go somewhere else and buy it. We can't substitute for it.

Q. 11. Did you keep a general grocery store up to the time you sold out?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 12. As a part of your general grocery store business, did you keep tobacco and cigarettes?

743

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 13. Did you keep tobacco and cigarettes for sale alongside your groceries?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. Is it a common thing in your part of the country for grocery stores to handle tobacco and cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 15. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1; have you ever seen a package of these cigarettes before?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. When did you ever see any of them?

A. The first part of November, 1921.

Q. 17. When you first saw them, who did you think put them out?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 18. What made you think so?

A. Well, a man came in and held it up just like you, only not so far, not that far away, and I saw Beech-Nut on it and the style of their label.

Q. 19. What was the occasion when you first saw the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I was in the store and a gentleman came in—I was busy at the time, and he walked around. He kept waiting and finally I got a chance to speak to him. He said, "I see you handle Beech-Nut peanut butter, and I want to sell you some Beech-Nut cigarettes."

Q. 20. Then, what occurred between you and him?

A. He tried to sell me some, and I told him that I did not want to put in a new line, I was handling Chesterfields. He could not sell me, and he started to pack up and go away, and I said, "It's funny that the Beech-Nut Packing Company is putting up cigarettes." He said, "Yes," and went on out the door.

Q. 21. Did he have any Beech-Nut cigarettes with him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 22. What effect did he have on you? What impression did he leave?

A. He left the impression that the cigarettes were put up by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 23. How long did you think that?

A. Until the last of November.

Q. 24. What happened at that time?

A. Mr. Jennings and Mr. Atkinson come in and told me different.

Q. 25. Who are they?

A. They were Beech-Nut Packing Company representatives.

Q. 26. Are you familiar with Beech-Nut Packing Company labels?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 27. Would you take this label on Beech-Nut cigarettes for one of their labels?

A. Yes, sir.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 1. Mr. Bowen, how long have you been in the grocery business, all told?

A. In this town?

X-Q. 2. Any place.

A. Something like nine years—more than that—ten or eleven years.

X-Q. 3. How long have you been selling tobacco—all during that time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 4. You have heard of P. Lorillard & Company, the tobacco people, of course?

A. Yes, sir, I have heard of them.

X-Q. 5. You have sold their chewing tobacco in your stores?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 6. Did you ever sell any chewing tobacco like this Beech-Nut scrap (showing witness package of same)?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 7. I understood that at the time this party tried to sell you some Beech-Nut cigarettes you were engaged in the general grocery business here in Spartanburg?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 8. In that general grocery store I suppose you sold not only canned goods and tobacco, but a great many miscellaneous articles, like brooms and potatoes and meats and one thing another, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 9. A grocery store is liable to have in it for sale a great many goods not related, that is, a broom is not food, is it?

A. People don't eat brooms.

X-Q. 10. So you sell a great many articles not related to each other?

A. A few—a broom is one.

X-Q. 11. Tobacco is not a food product, is it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 12. Like a broom, that is not related to food, is it?

A. No, sir, I would not think so.

X-Q. 13. Now, then, this party who came into your store, he did not say he represented the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. I don't know that he said it—just offered the Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 14. When was that?

A. That was last November—first of last November.

X-Q. 15. Did he say what his name was?

A. If he did, I don't remember it—I could not say.

X-Q. 16. You don't know whether he represented the Beech-Nut Packing Company or P. Lorillard & Company, for that matter, do you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 17. He showed you a package of the Beech-Nut cigarettes, did he not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. Did you really take the trouble to look at it?

A. Yes, sir. I don't think I took it in my hand, though.

X-Q. 19. The name "P. Lorillard Co." is on that package, if you look at it closely. If you take that package and take the trouble to look at it, you will see that the name is on it.

A. Yes, sir, it is on it.

X-Q. 20. You did not see and you don't see the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on it?

A. No, sir, but one just glancing at it would think it was Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 21. But if you look at it, you see the name "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. I am looking at it now.

X-Q. 22. And you see the name "P. Lorillard Co." through the paper there?

A. I see something black. You can't read it that distance.

X-Q. 23. From whom had you been in the practice of buying Beech-Nut goods?

A. Mr. Jennings.

X-Q. 24. Is he here?

A. Sitting here in this room.

X-Q. 25. How long have you been buying goods from Mr. Jennings?

A. Something like two years.

X-Q. 26. You always bought your Beech-Nut goods from Mr. Jennings?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. You would naturally think it strange that another party should come in to sell you Beech-Nut goods?

A. Not necessarily.

X-Q. 28. The party who came in to sell you the cigarettes did not say he was the Beech-Nut Packing Company's representative?

A. He offered me Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 29. He did not say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I don't think he said he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company. He said he saw I was handling Beech-Nut peanut butter, and he wanted to sell me some Beech-Nut cigarettes. He did not say he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company—he made me think, though, that he was selling me cigarettes put up by them.

X-Q. 30. You did not buy any, did you?

A. I did not buy any from him, but he went off leaving me under that impression.

X-Q. 31. What else did this man have with him besides the cigarettes?

A. He did not show me anything else—when he went out of the store, I just made the remark that it was funny the Beech-Nut people were making cigarettes. He just said, "Yes." He did not explain to me they were made by a different concern. He left the impression on my mind that the Beech-Nut Packing Company were making the cigarettes. He wanted to sell me

Beech-Nut cigarettes, and speaking about the Beech-Nut butter made me think they were made by them.

X-Q. 32. He did not say the Beech-Nut Packing Company were making them?

A. I don't remember what he said about it, but he left the impression on me that the Beech-Nut Packing Company were making the cigarettes.

X-Q. 33. You say he did not show you any credentials or leave any card?

A. No, sir, he did not.

X-Q. 34. Have you ever seen him since?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 35. Could you describe his appearance?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 36. You don't know what company he was from at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 37. I understood you to say you were familiar with the Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. Will you describe that label to me, please?

A. It is oval.

X-Q. 39. What kind of oval is it?

A. Oblong.

X-Q. 40. What color?

A. Different colors.

X-Q. 41. You say they have an oval label in different colors?

A. I think most of them are red.

X-Q. 42. Has their label got a picture of a beech-nut on it?

A. I don't remember.

X-Q. 43. Has that red band got any printing on it, do you know?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 44. I show you a specimen label of mints, is that Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. Yes, sir. They are different sizes, you understand.

X-Q. 45. This package of cigarettes has not any label like—it is not the oval of the Beech-Nut brand?

A. It is not a red oval just like them.

X-Q. 46. The oval of the Beech-Nut cigarettes which I am showing you has not any printing on it like that on the Beech-Nut mint?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 47. In this Beech-Nut cigarette label you have two crossed beech-nuts in gold and red, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 48. In that Beech-Nut mint label you have a single beech-nut on three green leaves in the center of it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. So those labels are not alike?

A. They are not just alike—they are similar.

X-Q. 50. In handling groceries you have sold lots of goods on which the label was oval, like Armour's Veribest, and other goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 51. An oval label is a very common thing on canned goods and other goods, is it not?

A. Yes, sir, it is very common.

X-Q. 52. You never knew of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's putting out any cigarettes, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 53. You never knew of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's putting out a package of the same shape and general appearance of this cigarette package, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 54. A cigarette package has an appearance and individuality all its own, has it not?

A. Lots of other packages like it.

X-Q. 55. What is packed like it?

A. I have seen salts put up very much like it.

X-Q. 56. In a loose cup-wrapper like this?

A. You take little raisins, they are put up that way.

X-Q. 57. You would not say a package of raisins looked like this package of cigarettes with the package a different color and different shape and different size —you would not take a package of raisins for a package of cigarettes, would you, wnen you looked at the size of it and the squareness of it?

A. Probably not.

X-Q. 58. If a man came into your store and wanted to buy and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would you hand him a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum in the place of the cigarettes?

A. No, sir, I would not.

X-Q. 59. That is, a package of cigarettes and a package of chewing gum are different articles?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. You call it a different class of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Deposition taken on behalf of the plaintiff, before A. D. McFaddin, a Notary Public for the State of South Carolina, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel at the Capital Cash and Carry Grocery, 827 Main street, Columbia, S. C., beginning Friday, January 27, 1922, at 10:20 o'clock A. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, Esq., of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; R. B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard & Company.

JEFFERSON D. HAYDEN, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows:

By Mr. Johnson: Q. 1. Your name is Jefferson D. Hayden?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 2. You reside at 2017 Sumter street, Columbia, S. C.; your age is 31 years; and your occupation is that of grocer; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. Under what name do you do business?

A. Capital Cash and Carry Grocery, 827 Main street.

Q. 4. In what town?

A. Columbia, S. C.

Q. 5. How long have you been doing business there?

A. Since July, 1921.

Q. 6. Have you handled Beech-Nut Packing Company's products?

A. I have.

Q. 7. How long have you handled them?

A. Since I first opened up.

Q. 8. Please name some of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's products that you have handled.

A. Beech-Nut gum, pork and beans, Beech-Nut peanut butter. Those are three that I have handled.

Q. 9. How have they sold for you?

A. One hundred per cent.

Q. 10. What does Beech-Nut Company's label mean to you?

A. It means a great deal—that is, in the line of groceries—quality.

Q. 11. Quality?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 12. Do you keep a general line of groceries?

A. I do.

Q. 13. Do you sell tobacco and cigarettes along with your groceries?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. Is that common in your part of the country, to sell tobacco and cigarettes along side of groceries in the same store?

A. It is.

Q. 15. I show you a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, and a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, already in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. Have you this tobacco and these cigarettes on your shelves for sale?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. Do you display them in the display section of your store, along with the other tobacco and cigarettes that you handle?

A. I do.

Q. 17. Whereabouts in your store with reference to the tobacco and cigarette section do you display for sale the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. In the same section, on the bottom shelf, just below the tobacco.

Q. 18. How many shelves is that from the tobacco?

A. One shelf below.

Q. 19. Where do you display for sale some of your other Beech-Nut products?

A. On the same shelf, but about two sections, I should say, to the west on the same shelf—two sections over.

Q. 20. About how many feet?

A. About 8 feet, maybe only 6 or 7 feet.

Q. 21. What is it that you keep there?

A. Beech-Nut peanut butter.

Q. 22. Did you make a practice of keeping Beech-Nut peanut butter in this place?

A. Ever since I opened up—on the same shelf.

Q. 23. When was the first time you ever saw a package of this Beech-Nut tobacco—scrap tobacco?

A. October 18, 1921, when a salesman came in to see me and sold me, and sold me.

Q. 24. When you first saw the package who did you think was putting it out?

A. The Beech-Nut people.

Q. 25. What Beech-Nut people?

A. The same people who were putting out the other Beech-Nut products.

Q. 26. Why did you think that?

A. From the appearance of the package, all looked the same, the label and the name Beech-Nut.

Q. 27. Who was the man who come into your store, the salesman, that day, October 18, 1921?

A. E. L. Larson.

Q. 28. What took place between you and Mr. Larson when he came into your store, October 18, 1921?

A. He came in and introduced himself as Mr. Larson, selling Beech-Nut tobacco, and from the appearance of the package it looked the same as the other Beech-Nut products, and he told me the Beech-Nut was a good seller, and I told him I had been selling the other products all along, and I thought it would be a good seller, and I would try a small quantity of it, and he said, "Well, who would you like for it to come through," and I told him it did not make any difference to me—Byrd-Johnson would do. They were jobbers. I told him he could send me a small quantity. He said he would put in a dozen, and I told him all right. He had a little case with him full of tobacco, full of these packages, and he says, I can leave these packages with you. I told him all right. So I took an order for a dozen packages, and in the meantime I asked him how much it would amount to. He said less than a dollar, so I took an order for a dozen and paid him. He said it would amount to 96 cents, with 2 per cent. discount. I said, "Well, you can just mark the bill paid." In the meantime he gave me this receipt here, marked 1 doz. packages, 10-cent size, which amount to 96 cents, 2 per cent. discount comes to 94 cents, paid to E. L. Larson. I gave him the cash over the counter for it.

Q. 29. What was the effect on you of what Mr. Larson did and said at that time?

A. He left me under the impression that it was the same house that sold the other Beech-Nut products, and that it was a good seller, that it would sell as the other products had been selling, and I understood the tobacco would be good, too.

Q. 30. Who did you think was putting it out as a result of what he said?

A. The same people who were putting out the other Beech-Nut products.

Q. 31. How long did the conversation with Mr. Larson last?

A. Very short. I suppose fifteen or twenty minutes. He was not in there very long, a very short time.

Q. 32. You say he gave you this receipt for your order and your money?

A. He did.

Receipt signed E. L. Larson, identified by this witness, offered in evidence, and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 14.

Q. 33. Please look at this receipt and read the printed name at the top.

A. "P. Lorillard." A part of it is scratched out.

Q. 34. Torn out?

A. Yes, sir. "P. Lorillard" is all I see, looks like "Incorporated" on the end.

Q. 35. Torn out?

A. Torn out (resuming the reading), "119 West 40th Street, New York."

Q. 36. What is the date on it?

A. "October 18, 1921."

Q. 37. Is there any jobber named?

A. Byrd-Johnson.

Q. 38. What address?

A. "Columbia, S. C."

Q. 39. Any shipping instructions?

A. Under name, "Cash and Carry Groceries, shipping point 827 Main. quantity 1 doz., brand Beech-Nut. size, ten cents, price, 96" cents, discount 2 cents, net, "94" cents. Marked "Paid" by "E. L. Larson."

Q. 40. Is that his signature?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 41. Is there any other indication of the salesman on that order blank?

A. "Order taken by Salesman E. L. Larson," stamped with rubber stamp, I suppose it is.

Q. 42. Did you know what P. Lorillard Company was, whose name was at the top?

A. I did not.

Q. 43. Did that mean anything to you?

A. No, sir.

Q. 44. You did not notice it at the time?

A. I did not.

Q. 45. Was shipment made through the jobbers?

A. No, sir.

Q. 46. How was it delivered to you?

A. Over the counter.

Q. 47. Did you buy that dozen packages of tobacco—of Beech-Nut scrap, believing that you were dealing with the same people that were putting out Beech-Nut butter?

A. I did.

Q. 48. Did you sell any of it to your customers thinking it was put up by the same company that put up Beech-Nut butter?

A. I did.

Q. 49. Can you tell us what you said to some of them?

A. I says, I have a new Beech-Nut product on the market, and it should be a good seller, that it was Beech-Nut, and it ought to be all right. Beech-Nut products were good sellers, and it should be a good product if it were as good as the others were.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 50. What is your name?

A. Jefferson D. Hayden.

X-Q. 51. Mr. Hayden, you were speaking in your direct examination of having your Beech-Nut chewing gum and other Beech-Nut products near the tobacco shelves.

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 52. I notice that you sell brooms in this store, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 53. And your brooms are up against your sweet potatoes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 54. And you have got a bunch of bannanas up against your meat and milk chest?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 55. It is simply a question of convenient arrangement?

A. Yes, sir, just like an ordinary line.

X-Q. 56. I notice you have quite a nice stock tobacco products on sale here. I see you sell Climax plug tobacco.

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. How long have you been selling Cimax plug?

A. I suppose ever since I opened up. I buy in small quantities, a box at a time.

X-Q. 58. How long have you been selling it—in years?

A. I have not been opened up only since July.

X-Q. 59. And you have been selling Climax since July?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 60. I notice you also have Old Virginia cheroots for sale.

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 61. How long have you been selling Old Virginia cheroots?

A. Ever since we opened up.

X-Q. 62. Did you or not ever hear about Lorillard?

A. What name is that?

X-Q. 63. Whose name is on Old Virgina cheroots?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 64. What name on the scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 65. What name on the Climax chewing tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 66. I notice you also sell Beech-Nut cigarettes.

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 67. Whose name is on that Beech-Nut package (showing package)?

A. Lorillard Company, looks like.

X-Q. 68. P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 69. And this little yellow tag or slip that is over the carton of cigarettes, whose name appears on that?

A. Lorillard.

X-Q. 70. So all of those products are Lorillard products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 71. You don't find the name of Beech-Nut Packing Company on any of this tobacco, do you?

A. No, sir, I don't see it.

X-Q. 72. And this receipt you have produced in evidence, that receipt bears, or did bear, but torn, the name P. Lorillard Company, 119 West 40th street, New York, did it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 73. That receipt you say was given by a salesman, Mr. Larson?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 74. And since you received that first dozen packages of Lorillard scrap tobacco you have continued to sell that tobacco?

A. I am selling it now, yes, sir.

X-Q. 75. It is a good selling scrap tobacco, too?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 76. So you have taken repeated orders for that tobacco right straight along?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 77. You haven't the slightest objection to selling that tobacco, whether it was made by Lorillard or anybody else, as long as it sells?

A. I have no objection to selling it, no.

X-Q. 78. From whom had you been in the habit of buying your Beech-Nut products?

A. Food products from Thomas & Howard.

X-Q. 79. Does a Beech-Nut Packing Co. salesman ever call in here?

A. He has been in occasionally.

X-Q. 80. Have you given him orders?

A. I don't know. I think I gave him an order on one occasion, may be a couple of occasions, for some beans, and may be a couple of packages of chewing gum. I sell more chewing gum than anything else. I bought chewing gum from Thomas & Howard.

X-Q. 81. From the jobbers?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 82. You knew the Beech-Nut Packing Company's salesman that used to come in here on his regular route?

A. Just like all the rest who come in regularly.

X-Q. 83. That was not Mr. Larson?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 84. Larson was a tobacco man?

A. So he said.

X-Q. 85. When he came in here Larson did not tell you that the tobacco was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did he?

A. He did not tell me who made it.

X-Q. 86. But he gave you a receipt of P. Lorillard Company?

A. That is the receipt he gave me.

X-Q. 87. That receipt has no connection whatever with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. It has not, so far as the name on it.

X-Q. 88. As an ordinary careful man, familiar with business, as you are, when that receipt was given to you, if you looked at it you would have seen P. Lorillard, and known it was a P. Lorillard receipt, would you not?

A. If I had observed it carefully.

X-Q. 89. If you had looked at it?

A. I did not look at it. If I had I would not have known whether it was the manufacturer or the jobber.

X-Q. 90. But you would have known that it was a receipt of P. Lorillard Company?

A. I would have known that it was headed P. Lorillard Company, but I would not know him from anybody else. He did not explain whether he was the manufacturer or jobber when I bought this.

X-Q. 91. But he handled the receipt of P. Lorillard Company?

A. That is a receipt of P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 92. You say you never heard of P. Lorillard Company before you went into business?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 93. Do you use tobacco?

A. No, sir, in no way, shape or form.

X-Q. 94. You would not have occasion to become acquainted with the merits of the tobacco yourself?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 95. Likewise the merits of any other tobacco, whether it is Climax, Old Virginia cheroots—individually you paid no attention to that?

A. Looked like all other Beech-Nut products to me. I did not notice the name. If I had I would not have known whether it was the jobber or anybody else.

X-Q. 96. You don't know anything about the tobacco business?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 97. You did not know that P. Lorillard was one of the largest tobacco concerns in the world?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 98. You never purchased any goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, either food products or chewing gum, that was marked or dressed like this package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, with the sunburst and red radiating lines?

A. I never paid any particular attention to the lines. All I went by was the name. That was all I went by. I did not notice the fixings on the packages. A variety of goods ordinarily have different packages.

X-Q. 99. I show you a Beech-Nut bean and bacon label, which is in evidence in this case as Defendant's Cross-Exhibit 8. That is an original Beech-Nut Packing Company's label?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 100. With a wide red band, and the printing on the band like other Beech-Nut goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 101. There is no such red band arrangement on that cigarette (exhibiting same)?

A. I would not observe the package so closely. I just go by the name Beech-Nut. That is what I go by.

X-Q. 102. As a matter of fact, I notice you have in your store here some display of Lorillard's Beech-Nut cartons?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 102. And it is quite a large and attractive display?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 103. For example, I notice over your tobacco counter you have these cartons piled up in a pyramid-like form, and these cartons are each about a foot high, a foot to a foot and a half, and that stack of cartons is probably in the neighborhood of 8 feet high, is it not?

A. Yes, I suppose seven and a half or so.

X-Q. 104. In other words, your Beech-Nut scrap tobacco display runs from the top of your shelf to the ceiling, does it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 105. And you also have these Lorillard cartons displayed on top of your refrigerator?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 106. One of the things that would strike you, or an ordinary observer in that whole display is that red sunburst?

A. Ordinarily, but I would not pay particular attention to that—just the name.

X-Q. 107. Look at these red and white lines.

A. It is labelled all right.

X-Q. 108. You never saw the Beech-Nut Packing Company's name on Lorillard tobacco, did you?

A. I did not see whether it was Lorillard or not. This young man came in, and I thought it was a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 109. You never bought any tobacco from the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I never have bought anything but some beans, peanut butter and chewing gum, and the tobacco was from Lorillard, I offered for sale as a Beech-Nut product.

X-Q. 110. And the tobacco, you did not take the trouble to see who made it?

A. No.

X-Q. 111. If a man came into your store, and he said, I want a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, would you hand him a package of this tobacco or cigarettes in place of the chewing gum he asked for?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 112. You would think he was crazy if he had asked for tobacco if he wanted chewing gum?

A. I would not know.

X-Q. 113. If he had come in and asked for Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. He would be liable to ask for one or the other.

X-Q. 114. Suppose he had asked for gum?

A. I would hand him gum.

X-Q. 115. If you went into a store yourself and said, I want a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, and that is what you did want, and they tried to make you accept a package of tobacco or cigarettes, in the place of chewing gum, what would you do?

A. I would object.

X-Q. 116. You would not be confused into taking gum for tobacco?

A. No, I would want gum.

X-Q. 117. They are entirely different kinds of goods?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 118. Different class of goods altogether?

A. Yes, sir.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 119. To go back to your conversation at the time Mr. Larson went into your store—what was the impression made on you as a result of his conversation and his conduct at the time he was in your store?

A. He left me under the impression that he was putting out a Beech-Nut product made by the Beech-Nut people, and, as I say, these Beech-Nut products were selling fine, and I was under the impression the tobacco would go the same way, and I told him I would try a small quantity of it. I would not keep much on hand, therefore, I took a dozen packages. I was not able to carry any larger stock, as you notice. I carry a very small stock of any kind of goods.

R-D. Q. 120. And whose product did you think this tobacco was at the time that you made that first purchase from Mr. Larson?

A. I thought it was the Beech-Nut Packing Company's product. I thought it was put out by the Beech-Nut people.

Re-Recross Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 121. You did not ask the man if the Beech-Nut Packing Company put it out?

A. I did not have to ask. I went by the name.

R-X Q. 122. The word Beech-Nut, and nothing else?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 123. That is all that you paid any attention to?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 124. You did not pay any attention to the name on the package—Lorillard?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 125. Nothing else whatever?

A. Just the name is all that I noticed about.

Re-Redirect Examination by Mr. Johnson.

R-D. Q. 126. When you say, only the name you noticed on the package, did you notice the label?

A. The name and the label, yes.

Objected to as leading.

Received subject to objection.

Re-Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 127. This is not a Beech-Nut label is it?

A. It looks like it.

R-X Q. 128. The Beech-Nut and the palm leaf, do they look alike (indicating and pointing)?

A. Since those fine points have been pointed out, they do not look alike.

R-X Q. 129. Here is a Lorillard package of tobacco with the wide red lines—that is not a Beech-Nut Packing Company label?

A. No, it is not, but in general appearance they look alike.

R-X Q. 130. This has a single Beech-Nut with three green leaves in the center?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 131. And the other has two red beech-nuts on the back?

A. Yes, sir. If you point them out, if you observe very closely, you can tell the difference.

R-X Q. 132. As a matter of fact, you would not say they were alike, would you?

A. They look alike.

R-X Q. 133. Do you mean to tell me that that one (indicating) is like the one with the red band with the printing on it?

A. Look like Beech-Nut.

R-X Q. 134. The word Beech-Nut is what confuses you?

A. As to appearance, they look all the same to me.

R-X Q. 135. The word Beech-Nut?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 136. Would say that this Beech-Nut package (indicating) looks like that tobacco package?

A. I never noticed that closely.

R-X Q. 137. Any red radiating lines?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 138. You never paid any attention to that at all?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 139. As a matter of fact, to close up this whole thing, is it not a fact, as you said, it was just the word "Beech-Nut" that you were thinking about?

A. It was Beech-Nut products made by the Beech-Nut people.

R-X Q. 140. That word "Beech-Nut" is what struck you?

A. It is the name.

R-X Q. 141. Just the name Beech-Nut?

A. I was under the impression that it was made by the Beech-Nut people.

R-X Q. 142. And you thought it was all right because of the name Beech-Nut?

A. Sure.

R-X Q. 143. As a matter of fact, that was the only thing you noticed; you did not pay any attention to anything else?

A. Only the name.

Deposition of this witness closed.

The signing of the testimony by this witness expressly waived.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company, Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Deposition taken on behalf of the plaintiff before A. D. McFaddin, a notary public for the State of South Carolina, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel at the office of said A. D. McFaddin, Clark Law Building, Washington Street, Columbia, S. C., beginning Friday, January 27, 1922, at 12:30 o'clock P. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson, Esq., of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for the Beech-Nut Packing Company; R. B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh, Whitehead & Hyde, for P. Lorillard Company.

RICHARDSON S. MARKS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and agreement of counsel, being first duly sworn, in response to questions propounded by Mr. Johnson, deposes as follows, to-wit:

By Mr. Johnson: Q. 1. Your name is?
A. Richardson S. Marks.
Q. 2. Your residence?
A. 2734 Wheat Street, Columbia, S. C.
Q. 3. Your age?
A. In my 64th year.
Q. 4. Your occupation?
A. A printer and newspaper editor.
Q. 5. What is your business connection and where?
A. At present I have no regular business. I am a printer and Tyler for the different Masonic bodies in the city.

Q. 6. What is your business connection in the printing business?

A. I am with the DuPre Printing Company, 1316 Main Street, and have been for about 20 years. On account of labor troubles here we are out.

Q. 7. What newspaper were you connected with?

A. The old Columbia Register.

Q. 8. In what city?

A. Columbia, S. C., for ten years or more. Telephone editor in the office was one of my specialties.

Q. 9. Do you hold office in any societies?

A. I am Tyler for all the Masonic bodies that meet up town, all the Masonic bodies that meet in the city, and a life member of one of them.

Q. 10. Anything else?

A. I have been secretary in Columbia of the typographical union for several years and a member of the volunteer fire department association. The old companies went out of existence, but I was a member until relieved by the city.

Q. 11. Any other societies?

A. Nothing, except that I have been a Pythian for 43 years.

Q. 12. What other connections?

A. I was one of the founders of Arsenal Hill Presbyterian Church.

Q. 13. Do you hold any position with the Shriners?

A. I am Outside Guardian for the Shriners, and have been for fifteen or twenty years. I know nearly every Shriner in the state.

Q. 13*a*. What is the name of the temple here?

A. Omar.

Q. 14. Do you know the products put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, for I have used a good many.

Q. 15. How long?

A. Ever since they came on the market in Columbia as far as I remember, off and on.

Q. 16. About how many years?

A. I don't know, maybe, about ten years, as far as I can remember, and I bought Beech-Nut products on their reputation.

Q. 17. Please name some of the Beech-Nut products you have used.

A. Sliced bacon, pork and beans, their marmalades, and other things that I have bought. I don't remember, household goods ordered by my wife, and I have bought them myself.

Q. 18. What have you thought of them?

A. I bought them on their reputation and warranty for purity, and I have always found them satisfactory.

Q. 19. What does the Beech-Nut Packing Company label mean to you?

A. I considered when I bought anything made by them that it was pure and not adulterated. That is the reason I bought them on account of their reputation for purity.

Q. 20. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes now in evidence in this case as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1. When did you first see or notice any of those cigarettes?

A. Coming into the city from Shandon I noticed the city placarded with Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 21. About when was that?

A. I don't know. Last fall some time. I could not remember just when; and I simply got disgusted as soon as I saw that this concern that I had a great respect for was manufacturing cigarettes.

Q. 22. Where did you see this?

A. On the boards and in show windows.

Q. 23. When you saw them, who did you think was putting them out?

A. The manufacturers of food products.

Q. 24. What company was that?

A. The Beech-Nut Produce Company, or whatever they call themselves. I thought they were manufactured by the same company, whatever company handles them.

Q. 25. Manufactured you thought by the Beech-Nut Packing Company? What made you think that?

A. The name and the label.

Q. 26. What was the effect on you of seeing that cigarettes were being put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I was under the impression that the cigarettes were being put out by the company designated and meeting Mr. Thornton, I knew he was the representative of the Beech-Nut Company, I told him I was very much surprised and disgusted at the Beech-Nut people for manufacturing and putting out something that would ruin people.

Q. 27. That would ruin people?

A. That is what I told him, and I had made up my mind and told my wife I was going to cut it out, as she is as opposed to cigarettes as I am, until Mr. Thornton told me the house he represented were not the manufacturers of that product, and that they were not dealing at all in tobacco.

Q. 28. What did you mean by cutting it out?

A. Not going to buy any more of the stuff, to put a boycott on it. I was disgusted at a concern like that putting cigarettes on the market.

Q. 29. You mean Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 30. What would you say is your attitude towards those who put out cigarettes?

A. I think they are a menace to the man that uses them, and I have no use for anything like that, which ruins young men and boys. That is my impression about them. Whatever induces boys to smoke, whatever leads them to that habit that is injurious to them I am opposed to.

Q. 31. What is your attitude towards those who put out cigarettes?

A. I will not buy their products; I do not smoke cigarettes, and I will not buy from any one who manufactures cigarettes.

Q. 32. Are there many people of your acquaintance in Columbia that have the same attitude towards the products of those who put out cigarettes?

Mr. Cavanagh: I object. That is hearsay.

Witness: It is not hearsay, because I have asked them. I have spoken to others who are of the same opinion, that they had no use for them.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 33. Did you ever buy any of those Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, but I bought chewing tobacco.

X-Q. 34. You have never examined the tobacco or the cigarettes?

A. Never have. I have seen them.

X-Q. 35. How often do you buy chewing tobacco?

A. I have bought it for my son, and he asked me for Beech-Nut chewing tobacco.

X-Q. 36. You have bought it for quite a number of years?

A. No, only three or four times when he was sick, and he would get people who waited on him to buy it for him.

X-Q. 37. You did not buy it for yourself?

A. No, if I used tobacco I would have thought the Beech-Nut people manufactured it.

X-Q. 38. But you would have looked at the package to see who made it, to see what was in the package?

A. If I was using Beech-Nut tobacco I would ask for Beech-Nut because I go by the word Beech-Nut, and thinking it was a guaranty of purity.

X-Q. 39. You would not have taken the trouble to read what was on it?

A. I saw Beech-Nut, and I go by the word Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 40. The name on it?

A. Yes. I went by the word Beech-Nut and the red label. I like to use it on the table because it is pure. I used Beech-Nut products in the eating line, and when I saw they were manufacturing cigarettes—I assumed they were making them until I was informed by Mr. Thornton that they had nothing to do with it. My son told me to get Beech-Nut because he thought it was pure.

Mr. Cavanagh: That part as to what his son thought is objected to.

Witness: I would have bought it on the strength of its purity if I was using it.

X-Q. 41. But you have bought the tobacco products?

A. No, I have no use for it.

X-Q. 42. You have never looked at the package?

A. I see the leaf and the palmetto.

X-Q. 43. You have noticed P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, I have no use for them.

X-Q. 44. You did not look at them close enough to see?

A. I did not.

X-Q. 45. You did not read anything on the package?

A. I saw Beech-Nut, and the shape.

X-Q. 46. That is all you noticed?

A. Yes, and I thought from the package it was manufactured by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 47. You consider cigarettes in a different class from food products?

A. I certainly do.

X-Q. 48. You think they are in an entirely different class?

A. I do. I think one will kill, and the other will not.

X-Q. 49. If you went into a store and asked a man for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, if he handed you a package of Beech-Nut tobacco, would you be confused or deceived into taking the tobacco and those cigarettes in place of the chewing gum that you had asked for?

A. I would know the difference.

X-Q. 50. You would know by the difference?

A. I mean by the difference in the package. I don't know what you are driving at. If I wanted a package of Beech-Nut gum and he wanted to give me cigarettes would I know it was manufactured by the man that manufactured Beech-Nut products?

X-Q. 51. You did not get my question, and I would like for you to pay attention to me. If you went into a store and asked a man for a package of Beech-Nut gum, if he handed you a package of cigarettes, would you be confused into taking the cigarettes when you wanted gum?

A. Certainly not. A man of common sense would not. If I went for cigarettes I would not take gum.

X-Q. 52. You would not take gum?

A. No, I would not.

X-Q. 63. You would know the difference in the class of goods?

A. I would know one was tobacco. I would know that one was harmful and the other was not.

X-Q. 54. One was tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 55. And the other a food product?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 56. And there would be no confusion, the gum being a food product?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 57. You never knew of this Beech-Nut Packing Company selling tobacco, did you?

A. As far as my knowledge goes I did not until I saw their sign, and I presumed they were and I told Mr. Thornton about it.

X-Q. 58. Then he immediately told you his concern did not make tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 59. As I understand from your deposition, you are absolutely opposed to the use of cigarettes and do not use them yourself, and you say the manufacture of them and the using of them is not right?

A. Yes, sir, but that would not bias my opinion on any question.

X-Q. 60. It is merely a fact that you do not use them?

A. No.

X-Q. 61. You are opposed to the use of cigarettes?

A. Yes, I am.

X-Q. 62. If a concern was putting out cigarettes and food products at the same time you would not buy food products from that concern?

A. I would not, because cigarettes are a menace to the community, to the boys that are coming up.

X-Q. 63. You think they are in a different class from food products?

A. Certainly. One kills and the other will not. Cigarettes or tobacco will kill some people, while food products, if eaten in moderation, will not. A man can't smoke in moderation, seems like. He will smoke more and more and more.

X-Q. 64. I further understand from your testimony that when you saw these Beech-Nut cigarette signs as you were coming to the city instead of speaking to any one about it you stopped purchasing Beech-Nut products, food products, and without regard to whether they were doing it or not?

A. I made up my mind to stop right off.

X-Q. 65. You made up your mind and acted immediately and boycotted the Beech-Nut men?

A. No, I met him in a store and said, I am disgusted with your house, you are putting out something that is killing people. He said we had nothing to do with that, and I told him I had made up my mind to cut it out. If I had not seen him I would not have bought anything that had Beech-Nut on it.

X-Q. 66. Would you not have taken the trouble to inquire before you cut out the company?

A. No, I would not have taken the trouble because I had no doubt it was nobody but the Beech-Nut people.

X-Q. 67. Did you ever hear of Star hams?

A. Yes, I use them.

X-Q. 68. You have heard of Star soap?

A. Yes, and I don't use it.

X-Q. 69. You have heard of Star chewing tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 70. You have heard of Star soap?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 71. You would not immediately quit a man who had been in the habit of selling you Star soap because you heard he was selling Star hams, and you were opposed to the use of hams, you would not deprive him of any sales by withdrawing your trade without making any inquiry about the matter?

A. No, I don't think I would.

X-Q. 72. You would not deprive him of his sales to you without first asking him about it just as you did Mr. Thornton?

A. I did not think I had any occasion to do anything like that.

X-Q. 73. But you did, as a matter of fact, tell him?

A. If I thought it was injurious, and I was opposed to it, I thought it was right to tell him.

X-Q. 74. In this very case you did make inquiry?

A. I did not make inquiry. I just twitted him about it. If I had not known Thornton I would have gone on without telling any one.

X-Q. 75. If you had gone on and cut out Beech-Nut without taking the trouble to find out——

A. It did not take any trouble because I had confidence in the word Beech-Nut.

Beech-Nut Packing Company,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity, No. 3056.

Deposition taken on behalf of plaintiff, before Edna R. Greer, Notary Public, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, beginning February 9, 1922, at 11:30 A. M.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, on behalf of plaintiff; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh & Whitehead, on behalf of defendant.

FRANCIS E. BARBOUR, a witness produced on behalf of plaintiff, is resident more than one hundred miles from place of trial. His deposition is taken in New York, by agreement of counsel, and is to be considered as being taken as part of, and with, the Canajoharie depositions, witness being temporarily in New York City. Witness being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Francis E. Barbour; you are 51 years of age; you reside in Canajoharie, N. Y., and you are vice-president of the Beech-Nut Packing Company; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. 2. How long have you been connected with the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff in this case, and in what capacity?

A. Since January 1, 1910, in the capacity of secretary and latterly vice-president, covering general charge of the management and sales and advertising.

Q. 3. Mr. Barbour, what is the so-called "Beech-Nut policy"?

A. With your permission I will read what we have published in many magazines, newspapers and otherwise as the Beech-Nut policy, and which is as follows:

> "There are discriminating people in every community who want to purchase the best. These are our friends. They have made our business—our reputation. It is on account of them that we have determined never to offer for sale any article under the Beech-Nut label until we are satisfied that it is better than any similar article."

We have published that for several years as our policy advertisement. I might amplify that by saying that our policy is to purchase the very best raw materials available; to manufacture them in clean, wholesome, sunny, bright surroundings, by intelligent help, well paid, who realize what they are making and to distribute our products through our regular channels in a way which will satisfy them and remunerate them for so doing and reach the consuming trade with goods which will give them confidence and satisfaction, for we do not consider our job done until we have satisfied the consuming trade.

Q. 4. Can you state off-hand, the number of products which the Beech-Nut Packing Company has offered to the public?

A. I have not counted them up, but I am satisfied over sixty.

Q. 5. What, if any, particular point have you, and do you emphasize in your sales effort to the trade and public?

A. In our sales and advertising, which is a part of our sales, we emphasize high quality and character of all our products—all the products bearing Beech-Nut name (of which there are a large number, and which we continue to add to from time to time), and we expect that our reputation of the past will help make an easy market for us in the future with whatever new lines we may bring out from time to time.

Q. 6. Can you give me a concrete illustration of what you mean by emphasizing and selling on the Beech-Nut reputation?

A. We have sold, for so many years, on our reputation; in selling the trade not only the individual articles which we make, but also the name of Beech-Nut, its reputation for character and flavor, that when we bring out any new article, the consuming public, retailers and jobbers, are willing to accept any new article we bring out under the name "Beech-Nut" and give us an opportunity to demonstrate to them that it is going to satisfy them—that is, the jobbing trade. They are mighty good to us; when we bring out a new product, they give our boys an order. After they have once tried it, we have got to make it good enough so they will continue to buy it.

Q. 7. How does this general sales effort and general sales policy, which you have described, affect the requirement that Beech-Nut goods be always up to the Beech-Nut standard of quality?

A. Well, we have spent over twenty-five years in building up the present good-will and reputation for character and high quality that it is absolutely obligatory that we make everything we bring out of a high character which will compare favorably with what people have enjoyed in the past, so that when they take any new article we bring out they will feel full assurance that it will match up in character and quality with what has given them satisfaction, under the Beech-Nut name in the past.

Q. 8. What would be the affect on your reputation in business if the Beech-Nut Packing Company should come out—for instance, with some new product and the purchasers buying that product should be completely disappointed in the product?

A. Why, we would jeopardize out entire line if we continued to market anything that would not fulfill what the public are entitled to expect under the Beech-Nut name.

Q. 9. Can you state any illustrative instance which would indicate the degree of care exercised by the Beech-Nut Packing Company to make sure that the products it offers do in fact come up to the Beech-Nut standard of quality?

A. Why, we have a case right now. We have been six or seven years in developing a salted peanut, and we have not mastered the production of salted peanuts to our satisfaction yet. There are a number of salted peanuts on the market, put out under some very well known brands, which have been well advertised and highly exploited, and which are enjoying a very large trade, as we understand it, but none of them, in our estimation, are good enough to bear the Beech-Nut trade-mark. We have not been able to produce a salted peanut yet that would not become rancid in a short time or deteriorate to such an extent that we would not want to put it out under our brand.

Q. 10. Has your company, in the past, come out with new products which are quite different from products which it had previously made? In answering, will you give any particular illustrations of this which occur to you?

A. Up until 1912 we had confined ourselves pretty well to food products. That year we brought out Beech-Nut chewing gum, which met with instant reception, and has enjoyed an increasingly large sale all the time. That is somewhat different from our food line, and in 1919 we brought out beverages—ginger ale, sarsaparilla and root beer, which is merchandise of the same trade, but not a food product, possibly.

Q. 11. What was the reception of Beech-Nut ginger ale by the trade and public?

A. Sold from the start.

Q. 12. And to what do you attribute this popular reception of Beech-Nut ginger ale?

A. To the name "Beech-Nut," its trade-name and the name that is associated with it.

Q. 13. Do you intend and expect to continue to bring out new products from time to time?

A. We do. It is fair for us to presume that we will follow the precedent of the past and intend, from time to time, to bring out new lines as we feel we find something which enjoys a good distribution and represents a profit to us, if manufactured and distributed right. I think we will continue to enlarge our line. I have every reason to believe it.

Q. 14. Has your sales effort and sales policy been intended and designed to prepare the public to accept new products from time to time?

A. I feel so. I think the precedent of the past leads the trade and public to expect new things under the Beech-Nut label at any time. We have sold the name Beech-Nut flavor and quality and advertise it to build up a good-will surrounding the name Beech-Nut, so that whenever the public or anyone else finds "Beech-Nut" on anything, they are entitled to believe it is made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and up to the quality we have always endeavored to maintain.

Q. 15. Would it be within the natural and ordinary expansion of your business to add cigarettes to your line?

A. Well, in one way it would. We are now calling on the tobacco trade, the grocery trade, the drug trade—all of which handle cigarettes and tobaccos, and from that standpoint it would be most consistent for us to handle cigarettes. We could merchandise them without any added expense as far as our salesmen are concerned in salaries and traveling expenses. On the other hand, there are a great many people who are buying Beech-Nut products, and women buying most of them, who are opposed to tobacco in any form, which might make us feel we might not want to handle tobacco or cigarettes.

Q. 16. What, if any, importance do you attach to the fact that the trade-mark "Beech-Nut" is the same as the distinctive part of the name of your company?

A. We think it is a very happy thing that the name Beech-Nut is the same for the company as it is for the products. It would be very difficult for us to so closely ally Beech-Nut products with a company of another name than it would to ally them with a company bearing the same trade-name. Moreover, we rather feel that we get the personality of the Beech-Nut people into the goods more closely allied by having the company and name tied up together than we could otherwise get, and if we can maintain quality and character among our personnel that we do among our products, it strengthens the whole situation.

Q. 17. You may state, if you know, what the expression "Beech-Nut quality" means at the present time.

A. It means high standard of all the products which are brought out and merchandised by us—the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 18. To what extent, if at all, has that expression been popularized among the public by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. The general tone of our advertising is quality, and we have used slogans which support that—if I may use that term—such as "You can't mistake the flavor," which implies that the flavor is delightful, delicious and of high quality.

Q. 19. You have mentioned the slogan, "You can't mistake the flavor." To what extent have you displayed that to the public?

A. Oh, we have used it for years in our magazine advertising and window displays, store signs, billboards—general publicity.

Q. 20. Has that been your main slogan, or one of your main slogans?

A. It has. We have used that, I think, more than any other, and it has been for several years—a number of years; just how long I do not remember. The advertising will support that.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 21. Mr. Barbour, I understand that you have been with the Beech-Nut Packing Company since 1910?

A. January 1, 1910.

X-Q. 22. And you have been there in the capacity of general manager and in charge of salesmen and advertising?

A. I have had general supervision. I have been what you might call assistant general manager until Mr. Lipe's departure from the company, over a year ago, and up to that time assistant general manager, and with general supervision of sales and advertising.

X-Q. 23. In other words, you are one of the principal officials of the company, and familiar with its business and development?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. When you went with the Beech-Nut Packing Company in 1910, what goods was it selling; what articles or products was it putting on the market?

A. Bacon, beef, peanut butter, jams, jellies, preserves, catsup, chili sauce, vinegar; we have added several since that. I think that was all, as I remember now.

X-Q. 25. They were putting out these products in 1910?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 26. Now, I understand you have added certain products since that time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. Can you name what products you have added year by year?

A. We have added chewing gum, compressed tablets, known as mints, ginger ale, caramels; we are just starting to put out marshmallows now.

X-Q. 28. Was the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out chili sauce when you went with them in 1910?

A. Putting out catsup. I do not think we made chili sauce until we opened our Rochester factory. We were making catsup—that I know.

X-Q. 29. How many people are employed in the Beech-Nut plant or factories?

A. At the present time?

X-Q. 30. Yes.

A. Rounding a thousand.

X-Q. 31. As I understand it, you say in about 1912 you put out chewing gum, and you also stated that it became very popular. Can you give me figures, or if you have not them available at this time, will you give me the figures, showing the yearly sales in dollars and cents of this Beech-Nut gum since 1912?

A. We can do that.

X-Q. 32. I understand you have advertised this Beech-Nut chewing gum quite widely. Is that so?

A. Have advertised it very little, except by sampling.

X-Q. 33. Do you keep any separate account of the amount of money you spend in advertising chewing gum?

A. No. All our advertising is blocked and is pro-ted on the basis of sales.

X-Q. 34. Will you explain to me just what you mean that, Mr. Barbour?

A. We, we feel that all our products, for instance, get e same benefit from any advertising which the Beech-ut Packing Company does, because we advertise the eech-Nut Packing Company and our label. Now, if we dvertise an article—like Beech-Nut peanut butter, we ill say—in one of the women's magazines, like the La-es' Home Journal, of full page and display showing ereon Beech-Nut label, talk quality, embrace our slo-an, enumerate the other products at the foot of the page, e entire line benefits, although the main "ad" is for eanut butter. Now, when it comes to accounting for the oney spent for that "ad" the month that it appears, the st of that "ad" is pro-rated against our sales of all our roducts for that month.

X-Q. 35. So that you have not any figures, or you do ot keep any accounts which would show what the yearly xpenditures you make of advertising chewing gum, do ou?

A. No.

X-Q. 36. And likewise, I presume, that you have no ac-unts or statements, yearly or otherwise, which would ow the extent of advertising of chewing gum—say, in a rtain state, have you?

A. We can tell the amount of money expended in sam-ing, which is direct advertising of chewing gum in any ate, but not magazine advertising, for instance; we can llboard advertising, of which we have done a little.

X-Q. 37. Now, I understand your figures would show, state, for certain products, such as chewing gum, nount of advertising in dollars and cents that you have ne of sampling and billboard advertising?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. I further understand that these records would be found at the home office, at Canajoharie, N. Y.?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 39. And I ask you if the opportunity affords in the future, and if it is so deemed necessary, will you produce these figures for me?

A. Will be glad to.

X-Q. 40. Showing advertising in dollars and cents of advertising of various products in various states?

A. Yes, sir, subject to advice of counsel.

X-Q. 41. I understand that about 1919 you brought out beverages, such as ginger ale, sarsaparilla and root beer, and, of course, you continued to put Beech-Nut chewing gum on the market since 1912?

A. Continuously.

X-Q. 42. And both beverages and chewing gum are sold under the Beech-Nut label, are not they?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 43. And that is the label with the red band?

A. Oval red band and the name "Beech-Nut," hyphenated, and representation of the Beech-Nut, regular registered trade-mark and the oval band.

X-Q. 44. Mr. Barbour, does not chewing gum come under the pure food laws?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 45. And beverages likewise, such as ginger ale, root beer and sarsaparilla—they come under the pure food laws?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 46. In your direct examination, you gave some testimony relative to the addition of tobacco products, such as cigarettes to the Beech-Nut line, did you not?

A. I did.

X-Q. 47. Did the Beech-Nut Packing Company ever hold itself out as a manufacturer of tobacco products to the public at large?

A. No.

X-Q. 48. Did you ever know a concern that was manufacturing package or food products that was engaged in the manufacture of tobacco?

A. I do not know of any—cannot think of any at this time.

X-Q. 49. Has your concern ever put any cigarettes on the market?

A. A few, in an experimental way only.

X-Q. 50. And when was that?

A. In 1919.

X-Q. 51. Can you give me the amount of these cigarettes and value of them that you put out?

A. I cannot. I know it was very small.

X-Q. 52. I call your attention to the record of the Beech-Nut Packing Company in United States Patent Office Trade-Mark Opposition 2805, P. Lorillard Co. vs. Beech-Nut Packing Co., involving trade-mark "Beech-Nut" for cigarettes, on pages 43 and 44 in the deposition of W. C. Arkell, a witness for the Beech-Nut Packing Company, reference is made to certain cigarettes supplied on invoice from the American Tobacco Co. to Beech-Nut Packing Co., and which cigarettes were shipped to B. Arkell, James R. Offield and a New Jersey Tobacco company. The amount of these as stated in record is 2060, with a total net cash value of $11.85. Do you know is this the order or the amount of cigarettes that your company put out that is referred to there?

A. As far as I know, it is.

X-Q. 53. In other words, as far as you know, that shipment of $11.85 worth of cigarettes was and has been the total effort of the Beech-Nut Packing Company in the tobacco field?

A. The total sales, as far as I know.

X-Q. 54. You have never ordered or installed any tobacco or cigarette making machinery at any plant of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, have you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 55. You have never purchased any stock of tobacco to be manufactured into cigarettes or other tobacco products?

A. We have purchased only very small lots of tobacco for experimental purposes only.

X-Q. 56. About how much tobacco did you purchase for experimental purposes?

A. I do not imagine more than $50 worth at the outside.

X-Q. 57. Did you ever hire for your plant any expert blender or party familiar with the manufacture of tobacco products?

A. In an experimental way we had the services of a man who was recommended to us as one who had examined many tobaccos and blended them and were familiar with them.

X-Q. 58. Is he still with you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 59. And even at that time you did not get any machinery or equipment for going into the tobacco business?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 60. Mr. Barbour, I call attention to a letter on the letterhead of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and it is dated 6-11-1915. Was that letter signed by you?

Mr. Hinton: That is objected to as outside the line of direct examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: In order to save any extended statement on record, I will simply say that in this particular letter I intended to call Mr. Barbour's attention to a particular statement which he made, and which is in direct line with this examination.

X-Q. 61. In this letter of June 11, 1915, which you have identified, you make the statement, "While we have never as yet manufactured tobacco, the taking on of such manufacture in the future is by no means impossible or improbable." You made that statement, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 62. Since 1915 your concern itself has not manufactured or marketed any tobacco products in that seven years' period, has it?

A. We marketed this small lot in 1919.

X-Q. 63. I mean beside that small lot?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 64. And that small lot was made practically four years after the writing of this letter, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 65. I also call your attention to a letter dated July 18, 1915. Is that your signature?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: Objection is repeated. This matter is outside the line of direct examination, and it is stipulated that objection may apply to further testimony of this character, without repetition.

Mr. Cavanagh: This witness has testified as to the probability and liability of the Beech-Nut Packing Company going into the tobacco and cigarette business. This correspondence is directly in line with the subject-matter of witness' testimony.

X-Q. 66. I show you letter of 7-2-15 or July 2, 1915. Is that your signature, Mr. Barbour? You wrote that at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 67. I also call your attention to a letter of 7-26-15 or July 26, 1915. Is that your signature?

A. It is.

X-Q. 68. Did you write that letter at that time?

A. I did.

X-Q. 69. I also call your attention to letter dated August 7, 1919, and signature thereto. Did you write that at that time, Mr. Barbour?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 70. I also call your attention to letter dated 8-28-19, or August 28, 1919, and another letter dated October 8, 1919. Is that your signature to those letters?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 71. And you wrote these letters at that time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 72. These letters were all sent to the Lorillard Company?

A. They were sent to whoever they were addressed to. I did not look at them.

X-Q. 73. I think they were.

Mr. Hinton: Further objection is made to the testimony above and introduction of correspondence on the ground that it is incomplete.

X-Q. 74. Then, as early as 1915, or as early as June 11, 1915, when you wrote the letter of that date, you knew the P. Lorillard Company was putting out a Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, did you not?

Mr. Hinton: This is entirely outside the line of direct examination. Counsel is warned that in pursuing this line he is making the witness his own.

X-Q. 75. What is your answer to that?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 76. As early as 1915 you were referring orders for Beech-Nut tobacco which came to the Beech-Nut Packing Company, to P. Lorillard Company for filling, weren't you?

A. We did. Misdirected mail we naturally forwarded them.

X-Q. 77. You also wrote to your customers who sent in these letters or people who sent these letters and told them Lorillard was making that tobacco, did you not?

A. In many instances.

X-Q. 78. Now you have spoken of the value of your Beech-Nut trade-mark and how it stands with the public as identifying your goods or goods of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and you have also stated, as the correspondence to which I have directed attention shows, that you knew as early as 1915 that P. Lorillard Company was putting tobacco on the market under the name of Beech-Nut. You took no legal action in 1915 to stop the Lorillard Company from putting out this tobacco?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Hinton: Objection and warning repeated.

X-Q. 79. And no action was taken until the filing of this present suit?

A. Legal action you say?

X-Q. 80. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: The letters identified by witness as bearing his signature are at this time marked for identification, it being understood between the parties that the complete correspondence between the parties to the suit will be introduced at a later date. It is stipulated by and between the parties that any further material produced by this witness from the records at Canajoharie may be introduced as part of this deposition and that this witness will be produced for further cross-examination with respect to such additional material at the request of counsel for defendant.

Redirect Examination, Without Waiver of Objections, by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 1. Mr. Barbour, could you undertake to give from memory a complete list of all of the products put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in various years you were with them?

A. No, sir.

R-D. Q. 2. Do you remember, and can you say how much chewing gum was sold by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in the year 1921?

A. Over ten million boxes.

R-D. Q. 3. And how many packages in a box?

A. Twenty packages.

R-D. Q. 4. How many sticks in a package?

A. Five sticks.

R-D. Q. 5. Are these sticks individually wrapped?

A. They are.

R-D. Q. 6. And do they bear on each stick the Beech-Nut trade-mark?

A. They do.

R-D. Q. 7. You have referred to the sampling of chewing gum, for instance. Will you please explain that phrase?

A. We give out to the consuming public, through our salesmen, or through people specially employed for that purpose, free samples of chewing gum, consisting of single sticks, wrapped with the regular wrapper but having in addition thereon, "free samples."

R-D. Q. 8. State if you know whether you have distributed signs and placards advertising Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. We have.

R-D. Q. 9. Were these for display in retail stores?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 10. Do you know to what extent you have done that? In other words, whether it was a good deal, very little, or what?

A. Many thousand signs. Advertising is such a broad thing it is hard to say whether it is little or large, but many thousand.

R-D. Q. 11. And would it be necessary for you to have cigarette making machinery at your plant in order to merchandise Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. We could get cigarettes made for us by a regular manufacturer, under our label, we to do the distributing.

R-D. Q. 12. Who conducted the negotiations, if there were negotiations, with the Lorillard Company, prior to the beginning of the Patent Office action, which was begun in 1919? I mean who conducted those negotiations on behalf of your company?

A. I wrote the correspondence.

R-D. Q. 13. Do you know whether Mr. Arkell had anything to do with that?

A. He was consulted.

R-D. Q. 14. Were you present at the conference between the officials of the Lorillard Company and the Beech-Nut Packing Company in the summer of 1919?

A. No, sir.

R-D. Q. 15. Do you know whether there was further correspondence between Mr. Arkell and the Lorillard Company?

A. I believe there was. My recollection is there was.

R-D. Q. 16. What was the condition of affairs at the Beech-Nut Packing Company plant during the war? Were you short handed or not?

A. We were disturbed like everybody else, and were short handed and had difficulty in getting all the help we wanted. Business was difficult in every way—manufacturing and merchandizing.

R-D. Q. 17. Do you consider that the war period was a suitable time within which to undertake litigation?

A. I think it would be a very bad time. Everybody's time was taken up with production matters more than with legal matters at that time.

Redirect examination closed.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 1. You brought out new products, though, during the war, did you not?

A. Oh, I am not quite sure on my dates. I am free to say we brought out new flavors of similar products we were making.

R-X Q. 2. What is Jaffee? Did not you bring that out in 1917?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 3. Is not it a substitute for coffee?

A. It is a meal-time drink. Yes, that is a product which has been on the market for many years.

R-X Q. 4. Oh, you were bringing it out before 1917?

A. No.

I, Edna R. Greer, notary public, in and for said county and state, acting as Special Examiner, by consent of counsel, do hereby certify that the foregoing deposition of Francis E. Barbour was taken in behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, this deposition being taken by agreement of counsel in New York to suit the convenience of the parties but is to be considered as taken with the Canajoharie depositions; that the deposition was taken at 120 Broadway, February 9, 1922, beginning at 11 A. M., and ending the same day; that the witness was by me duly sworn; that the testimony of said witness was taken down and reduced to typewriting under my supervision, and that the signature of witness was waived by agreement of counsel; that I am not related by blood or marriage to either of the parties hereto, or interested directly or indirectly in the subject-matter involved.

EDNA R. GREER,
Notary Public.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken in behalf of the plaintiff pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel by and before Fred M. Geortner, a notary public in and for the County of Montgomery, State of New York, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel beginning February 10, 1922, at 11 A. M., ending February 11, 1922, at noon.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh, of Meyers, Cavanagh & Whitehead, for P. Lorillard Co.

It is stipulated that if Stanton Van Wie were called he would testify that he is the advertising manager of the Beech-Nut Packing Company and that the photograph marked by the notary public, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 15, actually represents a collection of the line of products being manufactured and sold by the Beech-Nut Packing Co., February, 1922. These products being collected by the witness and the photograph taken under his supervision and compared with the original by him.

It is further stipulated that carton marked by notary public, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 16, is an illustrative portion of the cardboard cartons used by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. to ship products.

It is further stipulated that carton marked by notary public, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 17, is a cigarette carton heretofore distributed by the defendant.

It is further stipulated that the Imperial Packing

Co. was incorporated February 10, 1891. That the Beech-Nut Packing Co., plaintiff, the successor of the Imperial Packing Co., was incorporated December 29, 1899. Production of certified copies of certificates of incorporation is hereby waived.

It is further stipulated that the publication, Bon Jour, marked by the notary public, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 18, was published on or about the date appearing therein, viz., Dec. 4th and 5th, 1891, at Canajoharie, N. Y., and is authentic.

By Mr. Hinton: Plaintiff's Exhibits 15, 16, 17 and 18 are offered in evidence.

MRS. EDITH B. KEARNS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Edith B. Kearns. You are of legal age and an assistant to the advertising manager of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the plaintiff in this case. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been in the advertising department of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. I have been employed in the advertising department of the Beech-Nut Packing Company for eight years. During that time I have had charge of the official records of the advertising department covering publications, magazines, distribution of dealers' advertising.

Q. 3. Can you produce specimen of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.'s advertisements showing the various kinds of advertising, display cards, publications, booklets, etc.?

A. I can produce six books showing samples of our advertising material.

Book No. 1 shows advertising cards for dealers' displays.

Book No. 2, reproduction of paintings in panel form for dealers' display.

Book No. 3, miscellaneous—counter cards, window displays, etc., for the retail dealers' stores.

Book No. 4, small counter cutouts, shelf trims, etc.

Book No. 5, collection of booklets, inserts, folders, etc.

Book No. 6, portfolio of Beech-Nut advertisements appearing in various publications.

Q. 4. I notice that this book No. 6 begins with the year 1916 showing portfolio of advertising beginning January of that year. Does that mean that you were doing no publication advertising prior to January, 1916?

A. It does not. We did an enormous amount of advertising prior to 1916. I have in the office here books showing clippings of ads from all magazines in which we have advertised. The books, however, are so large to handle that I have had them photographed as I was unable to bring the books in the evidence.

Q. 5. This photograph which you have produced shows a number of large scrap books containing what apparently are clippings pasted in these scrap books. Do I understand that each clipping in every one of these scrap books represents an actual advertisement that has been run in some paper or publication?

A. The clippings included in the scrap book were actually taken from magazines.

Mr. Hinton: The photograph produced in evidence by the witness is offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 19.

Q. 6. I notice that one of the scrap books in this photograph is marked 1911. Did the Beech-Nut Packing Company according to your best information advertise in newspapers, magazines and other publications prior to 1911?

A. I understand that it did advertise in newspapers, magazines and other publications prior to 1911, but I have not the clippings to show.

Q. 7. In order to avoid a very lengthy discussion with respect to these various publications or advertising material, I will ask you, did you prepare from the official records of the company a tabulated list showing the number of the various signs and booklets in these books which were distributed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. I have prepared a tabulated form for each one of these books showing the date each piece was distributed and the number of pieces distributed.

Q. 8. Where did you get this information?

A. From the official records of the company which have been in my charge for over four years.

Mr. Hinton: Please produce that book. Book produced by witness is offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 20.

Q. 9. Do I understand that you are willing to repeat as part of your testimony, the statements as to the time of distribution, quantity distributed, etc., given in this book?

A. I am willing to repeat the statements made in that book. They were made from the official records and they are correct to the best of my knowledge.

Q. 10. Can you tell me how many pieces of advertising cards included in books Nos. 1-4 have been distributed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. to be displayed before the public?

A. The advertising pieces shown in books Nos. 1-4 are approximately 2000, or to be exact, 1,990,700.

Q. 11. 2,000?

A. 2,000,000. To be exact 1,990,700.

Q. 12. Do these books Nos. 1-4 include all the display material of this character which has been distributed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. It does not. It would be impossible to put in book form all the advertising actually done because we have not the space to show it.

Q. 13. If you included the advertising display material of all kinds illustrated in the books Nos. 1-4 and included that which you have just referred to, how many pieces would you estimate have been distributed?

A. As a conservative figure I would say probably 2,500,000.

Q. 14. Does this estimate include the distribution of booklets included in book No. 5 which you have produced?

A. No, it does not. It includes only dealer advertising in books Nos. 1-4.

Q. 15. It does not include any publication advertising or billboard advertising?

A. It does not.

Q. 16. Now take the billboard advertising. Has the Beech-Nut Packing Co. according to your records and information done extensive billboard advertising?

A. It has done billboard advertising in the form of painted signs, lithographed signs pasted on billboards, which cover approximately the United States.

Q. 17. For instance, how many billboard advertisements is the Beech-Nut Packing Co. running now?

A. You refer to both the painted and lithographed?

Q. 18. Yes.

A. I would say 2500.

Q. 19. Where are these for the most part located?

A. They are distributed along the main thoroughfares and railroads.

Q. 20. What appears on these billboards—is it the name Beech-Nut or the Beech-Nut label?

A. Generally the name Beech-Nut.

Q. 21. Do the billboards advertise single product or a variety of products?

A. A variety of products.

Q. 22. Returning now to the particular style of card illustrated in book No. 1, which you have produced, how are these displayed by the dealer?

A. They are displayed in card frames which are furnished free of charge to them for display purposes.

Q. 23. Have you any idea how long they will remain in the stores?

A. Our salesmen never collect them up. I would say for years.

Q. 24. What has been the chief advertising slogan of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. You Can't Mistake the Flavor.

Q. 25. Has this been displayed on billboards and other display matter?

A. It has. It shows on the advertising matter on the front page of book No. 3.

Q. 26. Will you state to the best of your knowledge and information and from the best information that you can get from your records, how many times the phrase, "You Can't Mistake the Flavor" has been displayed to the public in connection with the Beech-Nut Packing Co.'s products exclusive of publication advertising?

A. I would say 250,000 times exclusive of publication and magazine advertising.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 27. Will you please tell me just what your duties are in the advertising department?

A. My duties in the advertising department are taking charge of the official records of the advertising department covering advertising in publications, distribution of dealers' advertising, etc.

X-Q. 28. Do you have complete charge of the advertising records?

A. I do have complete charge of the advertising records of the company.

X-Q. 29. Under whose direction were these books shown prepared?

A. I supervised the preparation of the books.

X-Q. 30. You put in these books a specimen of all the advertising of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Specimen—yes, but not a sample of each advertising piece which we have.

X-Q. 31. I understand that. To make myself clear—these books contain at least one specimen or one advertisement of each of the products manufactured by the Beech-Nut Packing Co., do they not?

A. To the best of my knowledge.

X-Q. 32. As I understand it, the Beech-Nut Packing Co. makes about seven or eight dozen different kinds of products. Is each one of those products represented in these books?

A. I believe they are.

X-Q. 33. Each illustration shows Beech-Nut label with the red band?

A. Some only show the word Beech-Nut. For instance, where the book is open now only shows Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 34. So the red band Beech-Nut label is not always featured in the advertising?

A. It is not.

X-Q. 35. As I understand it, the Beech-Nut Packing Co. also packs and markets some other brands like the Mohawk and Erie, does it not?

A. I believe so.

X-Q. 36. Do these books show any specimen of the Mohawk and Erie advertising?

A. They advertise only Beech-Nut products.

X-Q. 37. Are not the Mohawk and Erie products of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. I believe they are recognized as such.

X-Q. 38. Can you produce for me specimen of labels as used on the Mohawk and Erie products?

A. I have no records covering the labels—only advertising.

X-Q. 39. So far as you know the Beech-Nut Packing Co. does not advertise the Mohawk or the Erie brand?

A. I have in my records advertising only covering Beech-Nut products.

X-Q. 40. You mean Beech-Nut products bearing that particular label?

A. Beech-Nut products mean to me only those with Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 41. At the same time if the Beech-Nut Packing Co. packs a Mohawk brand that would be a Beech-Nut product, would it not?

A. The marketing and packing of products is not under my supervision.

X-Q. 42. You draw a distinction between this red band and the Mohawk and Erie brands?

A. I have no Mohawk and Erie brand labels.

X-Q. 43. You produced here in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 20, history or statement of the Beech-Nut advertising material, which appears to start with book No. 1, page 1, and concludes with book No. 6.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 44. Now turning, for example, to page No. 1 of this Exhibit No. 20, I find that it refers to the sliced bacon card issued in 1909 and bears the statement "Quantity distributed 5000 in all states east of the Mississippi." Is there anything in your records to show in what specific states these cards were distributed?

A. There is not, only the fact that our salesmen covered the entire United States and this material was placed in their hands—not the entire 5000 because some of them were posted in the street railways.

X-Q. 45. So you have no means of telling me how many cards were distributed in each state?

A. No, I have no means of telling you how many cards were distributed in each state.

X-Q. 46. To save a long drawn out examination, you have no way of telling from your records, have you, so far as concerns the advertising in these books, you have produced, as to how many you have distributed in each state?

A. I have no means of knowing how many were distributed in each state.

X-Q. 47. You have no means of telling the value of advertising in each state?

A. I have no means of telling the value of advertising in each state.

X-Q. 48. So far as the records go, you may have distributed four thousand cards in one state and may be two thousand in another?

A. That I cannot say.

X-Q. 49. You cannot tell anything about the amount distributed in these states?

A. Not by states.

X-Q. 50. Have you any records to show the value in dollars and cents of the amount of advertising in each state?

A. I have no records showing the value in dollars and cents of the amount of advertising in each state. I have no record of material distributed by states.

X-Q. 51. There is no way of telling whether you spent $5000 in a certain state or 5 cents?

A. There is no way.

X-Q. 52. I notice in these portfolio or books that you produced in evidence, in fact, I think in several, a number of advertisements relating to chewing gum. I want to ask you how long you have been with the Beech-Nut Packing Co.

A. Eight years.

X-Q. 53. That would bring us back to 1914?

A. 1914.

X-Q. 54. Now, since you have been connected with the company, have you any records to show the amount in dollars and cents of the advertising matter of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I have only the records which you have before you of the quantity of material distributed on that particular product.

X-Q. 55. So far as chewing gum is concerned, I presume that same condition exists in regard to this book, "Exhibit No. 20"; that is, it does not show the quantity of advertising matter relative to Beech-Nut chewing gum which has been distributed in the different or separate states?

A. I have no record of advertising distributed by separate states.

X-Q. 56. It is simply a lump statement of advertising?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 57. There is no way of knowing what each state gets and if one state gets more than another?

A. My records are not kept by states.

X-Q. 58. Do you have anything to do with the records showing the amount in dollars and cents expended in various products of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. I have only to do with the material distributed. I have nothing to do with the financial end of the business.

X-Q. 59. Or whether the records show they expended $1000 or $1,000,000?

A. I would know nothing about it.

X-Q. 60. You spoke of a slogan that the Beech-Nut Packing Co. was using.

A. You Can't Mistake the Flavor.

X-Q. 61. That is the slogan that appears on the first page of book No. 3?

A. That is the slogan the Beech-Nut Packing Co. has used on some advertising material.

X-Q. 62. The Beech-Nut Packing Co. has also used another slogan—"Foods of Finest Flavor"?

A. I believe so.

X-Q. 63. I call your attention to certain pages which I have taken from the Ladies' Home Journal, issues of November, 1920, January, 1921, March, 1921 and May, 1921. Those four pages represent Beech-Nut Packing Company's advertisements, do they not?

A. They do.

X-Q. 64. Each of these pages bears the slogan, "Beech-Nut Foods of Finest Flavor," do they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 65. Will you look at these advertisements and see if you can find the slogan, "You Can't Mistake the Flavor"?

A. The slogan, "You Can't Mistake the Flavor" appears on the advertisements shown here.

The four sheets from Ladies' Home Journal above referred to as taken from issues of November, 1920, January, 1921, March, 1921 and May, 1921, are offered in evidence. Notary is requested to mark the same "Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 15."

X-Q. 66. I call your attention to the book No. 6. It is entitled "Beech-Nut Packing Co. Portfolio Book No. 6." I notice that this book starts in 1916 and ends 1921. For instance, turning to first page, which has another pamphlet or books attached thereto, how do you fix the date that these were published in 1916?

A. They were made from ads appearing in the magazines, which advertising is handled by our agency in New York.

X-Q. 67. What I mean there are no dates or anything to show that they were published in 1916.

A. I have checked these books with the books showing the clippings of advertisements taken from various publications.

X-Q. 68. These pencil dates in 1916 were placed here by you?

A. I placed them there as I checked them.

X-Q. 69. So to the best of your knowledge and belief they were published in 1916?

A. To my best knowledge and belief they were published in 1916.

X-Q. 70. Same applies to other years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 71. I notice on the cover sheet of this portfolio book No. 6 a statement showing the Beech-Nut policy. It starts, "There are discriminating people in every community who want the best." Do you know how you use it?

A. That is a copy we use in our advertising copy. If you go through these you will find it appears in these publications.

X-Q. 72. Not being familiar with the book, will you point it out to me?

A. That is simply an advertisement on the front of the book in getting up the book. (The same was pointed out.)

Cross-examination closed.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 73. Did you make any effort to compare the price lists of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. and other information showing what each and every product in the various years has been with these books in order to make absolutely sure that there would be an advertisement of each and every Beech-Nut product somewhere in these books?

A. I did not.

R-D. Q. 74. You then did not try to find out whether every Beech-Nut product that was ever put out was advertised in these books?

A. I did not.

By Mr. Hinton: These books produced by witness are offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 21-26 and are so marked by the notary.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 75. So far as the illustration of the ads of the Beech-Nut Packing Co., these books may or may not be complete.

A. I have no way of telling whether these books advertise all the Beech-Nut products or not.

Recross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

MRS. EDITH B. KEARNS.

JOHN S. ELLITHORP, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is John S. Ellithorp. You are fifty-seven years of age; you are the treasurer of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been with the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Since 1904.

Q. 3. In what capacity?

A. As manager of the peanut butter and conserve department, as treasurer and at one time I had construction of buildings under my charge.

Q. 4. Mr. F. E. Barbour in a deposition given yesterday referred to you as a person in charge of work on salted peanuts. Will you tell us when the Beech-Nut Packing Co. first began to try to develop salted peanuts?

A. As near as I can remember about five years ago. All the salted peanuts that we were able to buy on the market were very poor and we thought we could improve that condition. The peanuts (salted peanuts) sold right here in town made by prominent manufacturers were very poor. We thought we could make them better so that they would be suitable to go out under the Beech-Nut brand. We did a lot of work on them. I did a lot of work myself and Roy Davis did a lot. We had three or four different people working on them, but we have never been able to put out the quality that we wanted to put out under Beech-Nut brand. We are still working on it. In our laboratory here Mr. Mastin has a dozen experiments on the way. None of those are successful so far. I opened a box a few days ago. They were not fit to eat. We have used different kinds of oil, conut, etc., and went so far as to use mineral oil and once in a while we thought we had a satisfactory product. I remember at one time we had twenty different experiments under way. We used different temperatures—360 degrees, 320 degrees and so down, but we never got a first class product.

Q. 5. Have you any memo. or notes in your possession showing the dates of the various experiments?

A. Yes, I have some of them—not all of them, but I think I can dig up some more, at least for the last series two or three years ago. I think Roy Davis may have some—I have not all of them.

Q. 6. I simply want to get the earliest recorded date of the work on salted peanuts.

A. I can give you that all right by looking it up.

Q. 7. Will you please do so before the close of this session?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Had you in your employ people who were familiar with peanuts and had worked in peanuts before you began this experiment?

A. I think all our men are experienced. We have men who know how to roast, how to cook and who know how to see that the work is done right. I think probably our men know as much about that condition as anybody. I, myself, have bought all the peanuts that we ever bought and I am thoroughly familiar with the quality, whether they come from Asia, come from Africa or Texas. I have made trips to Texas to look over the business there.

Q. 9. How long have you manufactured peanut butter?

A. Ever since 1905.

Q. 10. Is that one of your leading products?

A. Yes, because we make it good it is popular.

Q. 11. Did you feel when you tried these experiments and have you since felt that it would be profitable to your company to put out salted peanuts?

A. Absolutely. We are in a fine condition to buy peanuts.

Q. 12. Why did you not put out salted peanuts as good, for instance, as those which are now being sold on the market?

A. Because we did not want to put out anything under the Beech-Nut brand that is not first class, because if we put out, for instance, salted peanuts that were not first class, not as good as the Beech-Nut peanut butter, it would hurt the other products. Unfortunately, we have put out some lines of goods which were not as good as a Beech-Nut product should be. We have always called them in. We had one experience that cost us $32,000. We put out a lot of prunes packed in San Jose, Cal. which were not satisfactory and we had to call them in, which we did do. There are some other things which we have started but fell down horribly.

Q. 13. Whenever you have found any product put out under the Beech-Nut label that was not satisfactory, what have you done?

A. We have always taken them off the market and we are glad to do it.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 14. Did I understand you to say that you had charge of the construction department here?

A. Yes, at one time.

X-Q. 15. When you come here in 1904, what buildings did they have here?

A. They had only the brick buildings and wooden buildings—no concrete buildings.

X-Q. 16. How many people did they employ in those days?

A. I was the seventh in the office.

X-Q. 17. How many in the plant?

A. I do not know.

X-Q. 18. You can tell by the books, can't you? I mean approximately.

A. Probably one hundred. That is a guess. I was the seventh in the office. Now there are a hundred in the office.

X-Q. 19. Was peanut butter the only product of which you had charge?

A. No, the conserves. All the conserves, jams, jellies, marmalades, etc.

X-Q. 20. Never manufactured tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. Never had anyone under your charge expert in the manufacture of tobacco products?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. Never put any machinery in this factory for the manufacture of tobacco products?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. Did you ever have charge of any products that were put out under Erie or Mohawk brands?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 24. Do you know the Beech-Nut Packing Co. has such brands?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 25. Would you mind telling me just what those brands are?

A. I do not know as much about this as some of the rest of the people. The fact is, as I understand it in buying meats, I will take for instance beef—I understand it is desirable to buy sets. In buying sets, all the meat is not first quality, therefore all that meat is put in another brand. This is as I understand it, but I am not sure about it.

Mr. Hinton: This is objected to as outside the line of direct examination and it is stipulated that this objection may apply without repetition to similar questions.

X-Q. 26. In this salted peanut experiment—there are salted peanuts on the market that are fairly satisfactory?

A. That are fairly satisfactory, yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. Your experiments have not been able to bring your product to that point?

A. We have made salted peanuts just as good as any on the market, in my judgment.

X-Q. 28. What seems to be the trouble?

A. They are not good enough for us to sell.

X-Q. 29. What do you mean? To sell under the Beech-Nut label?

A. To sell under the Beech-Nut label.

X-Q. 30. Although they might be sold under some other brand?

A. Yes.

Cross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

JOHN S. ELLITHORP.

STANTON VAN WIE, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Stanton Van Wie. You are twenty-seven years of age. You are resident advertising manager of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. Is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Is your advertising handled by a New York agency?

A. By New York agency.

Q. 3. How long have you been in your present position?

A. Since August, 1920.

Q. 4. What were you doing before that?

A. In the sales department of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 5. How long have you been with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Barring my time in the army I have been steadily with them since April, 1917.

Q. 6. Would you tell me what the advertising appropriation was for the year 1920?

A. For the year 1920? I have not the figures right here—not for 1920. I imagine it was around $500,000.

Q. 7. For the year 1921?

A. Approximately $550,000.

Q. 8. Do you expect to spend more or less in 1922?

A. More.

Q. 9. Are those figures a fairly close approximation to the actual advertising expenditures?

A. Yes.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 10. I understand that you have had charge of the advertising department since 1920?

A. Yes, August, 1920.

X-Q. 11. You say for the year 1920 you spent about $500,000 in advertising?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. Just what was the character of that advertising?

A. It was magazine, newspaper, billboards, outside signs, subway posters, dealers' display material, moving picture slides, illustrations for dealers' displays, and trade papers of course.

X-Q. 13. The advertising expenditures for 1921 you say amounted to about $550,000?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. I think you mentioned appropriation but I believe you meant expenditure?

A. That includes everything—departmental expense, overhead, light, etc.; that is, all expenses of this advertising department.

X-Q. 15. So the sums you have given for the years 1920-1921, $500,000 and $550,000 include all overhead expenses?

A. Yes, as far as this advertising department is concerned.

X-Q. 16. It also includes the expenses of distributing the advertising material, maintaining publication advertising, etc., does it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. The Beech-Nut Packing Co. puts out a large number of products, does it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. Would your figures show or can you tell me the exact amount spent in dollars and cents for advertising each product or item marketed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 19. Your records of figures would not show any such statement of appropriation for each specific line?

A. No, it would be impossible.

X-Q. 20. Likewise could you tell me or would your records show the amount in dollars and cents expended in advertising in each of the various states of the United States?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 21. Then you have no records which would indicate, for example, what amount was spent in advertising Beech-Nut products in New York State or Illinois?

A. No, sir. If I might give an example, we advertise in New York City theatre programs, New York City being a metropolitan center, is visited by people from all over the United States. We feel from an advertising standpoint that the theater has an influence in the sale of the products all over the United States even though a product is advertised in New York City alone.

X-Q. 22. So far as your records show, you could not give by states the amount of advertising done in any particular state?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. Take, for example, chewing gum. Have you any figures which would show in dollars and cents the amount of advertising that you did in the year 1920 over 1921?

A. In dollars and cents on chewing gum during 1920 over 1921? No, sir.

X-Q. 24. No way to tell the United States as a whole?

A. No way, because there is no way to prorate that advertising to apply to Beech-Nut chewing gum specifically.

X-Q. 25. The advertising account simply goes to the whole business?

A. It cannot help but be that way. When we advertise Beech-Nut it affects more or less every product on the list.

X-Q. 26. For example, you do not have one man in charge of what might be called advertising gum?

A. You refer to advertising sales? No, sir.

X-Q. 27. It all comes under general advertising head?

A. Yes, as far as advertising is concerned.

X-Q. 28. So these figures you have given for the years 1920-1921, $500,000 and $550,000 would not represent the amount actually handed over to newspapers or magazine people or to the advertising men who actually put these goods out?

A. It would include all kinds of advertising.

X-Q. 29. And all your overhead expense at Canajoharie?

A. Yes, but that is very slight when compared to the whole.

X-Q. 30. How many employees have you in your department here under your supervision?

A. Eleven or twelve I believe.

X-Q. 31. That includes the clerical help?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 32. You say that your advertising, so far as outside advertising, is handled by an advertising agency in New York?

A. As far as magazine, newspaper advertising, etc. are concerned.

X-Q. 33. What concern?

A. H. K. McCann Co.

X-Q. 34. What is their address?

A. 61 Broadway, New York City.

X-Q. 35. I understand it is the practice of your company in putting out advertisements to include a list of all the products.

A. In a majority of ads.

X-Q. 36. For example, call your attention to certain sheets from the Ladies' Home Journal which were introduced in evidence and marked as "Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 15." I note that on these pages you have a list of products running from bacon at the top to chewing gum on the bottom, that is, you mean various items collected in one advertisement, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 37. Although as shown by these sheets from the Ladies' Home Journal certain items in a particular advertisement might be emphasized. For example, November, 1920, issue features Beech-Nut sliced bacon. That advertisement also embraces other products of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. That is the practice you usually follow, is it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. To sum up, there is no way of telling from your records as to precisely what amount is spent in advertising on any one particular article?

A. No way of really telling.

X-Q. 39. Is your publication advertising of local or national character?

A. National.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 40. You have been asked about the advertising of the Beech-Nut chewing gum. You have referred to publication advertising and also to certain display material such as included in these illustrative books, Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 21-26. Is there any other display material that has been more widely distributed advertising Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. There is a display box in which the gum is shipped.

R-D. Q. 41. Can you produce one of these display boxes?

A. I can and do.

R-D. Q. 42. Is this the display box in which the gum is always shipped to the dealers?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 43. This box has a cover containing a picture of Beech-Nut label. Within the cover hinged to the box is a flap containing on one side a Beech-Nut label in gold and red and blue and a gold border. On the other side there is a gold border and small placard. How is that flap intended to be displayed or used?

A. It is supposed to stand upright, to be seen by the customer.

R-D. Q. 44. Is that the only advantage?

A. It is to the dealer's advantage to be displayed that way.

R-D. Q. 45. How many of these boxes were distributed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. to dealers last year?

A. My understanding is that there were ten million distributed in the year 1921.

That is all.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 46. You say there were ten million of these boxes of chewing gum distributed in 1921?

A. That is my understanding.

R-X Q. 47. What is the value in dollars and cents?

A. I do not know. That does not come under the advertising department.

R-X Q. 48. How do you know ten thousand were distributed?

A. From the sales records.

R-X Q. 49. It is merely hearsay?

A. A stock record sheet comes to my hands showing the number of boxes distributed and in that way I know how many boxes are distributed.

R-X Q. 50. There is no way of telling the value of the gum distributed?

A. I have no way of telling.

R-X Q. 51. You say that the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. are nationally advertised?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 52. What do you mean, throughout the United States?

A. Throughout the United States.

R-X Q. 53. That is all the products of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 54. Since you have been in charge of the advertising department, have you nationally advertised tobacco?

A. Not to my knowledge.

R-X Q. 55. You have never nationally advertised Beech-Nut tobacco products?

A. Not to my knowledge.

STANTON VAN WIE.

By Mr. Hinton: The gum display box produced by the witness is offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 27.

MARSHALL DAVIS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Marshall Davis. You are forty-five years old. You reside in Canajoharie, N. Y., and are foreman of the meat department of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been with the Beech-Nut Packing Company or its predecessor, the Imperial Packing Company?

A. I have been with them since 1891. I was here when the company was incorporated.

Q. 3. Under what name did the Imperial Packing Co. sell its products.

A. Beech-Nut.

Q. 4. When did they begin to do that?

A. Right off the reel.

Q. 5. Mr. Davis, could you describe the very earliest labels that were used by the Imperial Packing Co.?

A. I think I could.

Q. 6. Can you tell just what some of them were?

A. One of them was a ham label, another was a lard label and another was a cap label. The jar had the Beech-Nut design blown in.

Q. 7. Those were the earliest that you think of?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. If you were to be shown the early labels, could you identify them?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: Board is shown on which appear labels.

Q. 9. I show you a board entitled "Illustrative Collection—Beech-Nut Labels Displayed to the Public, 1891-1921, which is marked for identification "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 28." Please look at the labels or reproduction of labels which appear on this board in the upper left-hand region thereof and point out which ones you remember having been used.

A. I remember all of them. The first column to the left is a ham label, the second is a cap label which we put on the top of the jars. I remember the Fard Dates label, that is the billhead we used. The remaining labels under 1900-1905 column I remember. The beef labels in blue and one in yellow—I remember them all.

Q. 10. What about the labels in the second row under 1895-1900?

A. That is one of the cap labels we put on top of the jars.

Q. 11. Do you remember this label?

A. Yes, I used to put them on.

Q. 12. You are familiar with the remaining labels on the board?

A. Yes, all of them.

Q. 13. Will you look them over and see if there are any that you do not remember?

A. I know them all.

Q. 14. I understand you recognize all those labels?

A. I remember all of them.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 15. I now call your attention to the ham label under the column 1891-1895 bearing the label of the Imperial Packing Co. That label does not show any oval on it, does it?

A. No, but the oval label has always been used by the company.

X-Q. 16. So far as the labels of the Imperial Packing Company are concerned, I understand that you have shown on this board just exactly three of them, two under column of 1891-1895 and one under 1895-1900. Those are all the Imperial Packing Company's labels, are they not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. They do not show the red oval label?

A. They do not show on those labels but we have always shown the oval.

X-Q. 18. How long was the Imperial Packing Co. in existence?

A. I could not tell you. I remember that it was incorporated in 1891, but we were in business two or three years ahead of that. I was with the company.

X-Q. 19. What goods were they engaged in making?

A. Beech-Nut hams, bacon and lard.

X-Q. 20. They were making food products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. As shown by this column "1900-1905," the Beech-Nut Packing Co. had come into existence. It put out dates, sliced bacon, peanut butter, sliced beef; is that right?

A. Yes. I could not give the exact date before that. We started with bacon in glass, then beef and so on.

X-Q. 22. Those were all food products during that year?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. Could you say whether or not this represented all the lines or brands on different goods that were put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. or its predecessor, the Imperial Packing Co.?

A. Yes, I could say that all these labels represent the goods but I could not say when these were put out.

X-Q. 24. You never knew the Beech-Nut Packing Co. put out cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. You never knew them to put out cigarette products?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. When you first came with the Imperial Packing Co., how many men did they employ?

A. I was the first one. We cured our hams in a cellar and took them back of the barn and smoked them in a barrel. Then we had a smoke house a story and a half high. Before the fire we had moved into the Soles building. There was a clam stand down stairs—they sold booze, cider and had a bar. We had one room upstairs and started with three men. I was a boy cleaning out the office, carrying out the waste paper, etc., and going to school. From that time on it has grown to where it is now.

X-Q. 27. When the Imperial Packing Co. put out hams under the name Beech-Nut, did they not have some sort of a circular brand that was put on with a branding iron?

A. They always had a branding iron.

X-Q. 28. That was a circular brand?

A. I cannot recall that. I remember we used to brand the hams. We first heated the branding iron on a coal stove and then we used a gas or oil stove, I do not remember if it was circular but it always had Beech-Nut on it.

X-Q. 29. You could not recall if it was circular or not?

A. No.

Examination closed.

MARSHALL DAVIS.

WEBSTER DAVIS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Webster Davis. Your age is thirty-seven. You are foreman of the ginger ale plant of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.

A. That is correct.

Q. 2. When did you come with the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. In 1896.

Q. 3. What name was this company or its predecessor, the Imperial Packing Company, then using on its goods?

A. They were using Beech-Nut.

Q. 4. Can you describe some of the early labels used by the company or its predecessor up to 1896?

A. I can.

Q. 5. Kindly name some of the labels.

A. We had a ham label with Beech-Nut on it. We had a Beech-Nut lard label, about 3½" x 9"; we also had a label which went on the strip of bacon. We had a jar with the emblem beechnut blown in the glass.

Q. 6. Would you recognize these early labels that were used in 1896 or prior thereto if you saw them?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. I now show you a collection of labels and ask you how many of these labels you can definitely identify and know we used. I direct your attention to the upper column "Illustrative Collection—Beech-Nut Labels Displayed to the Public, 1891-1921," and ask you how many, if any, of those in the first three vertical columns you can identify and remember.

A. I can remember the top label in the first vertical column, "Sweet Beech-Nut Ham," Imperial Packing Co. Also the lard label with the beechnut emblem in the corner.

Q. 8. You remember the cap label that went on the top of the jar?

A. I do, I handled them. I have also put the label on the Beech-Nut bacon jar. That is the second one in the third column. I also remember the label Fard Dates and the trade-mark blown in the glass. I recognize the Beech-Nut sliced beef labels—I remember all of them.

Q. 9. Have you an old jar which you know was used in those early days?

A. I have.

Q. 10. The old glass jar you have produced has a device blown in the side, has it not?

A. Yes. This jar had a beechnut blown in the glass. The jar had a recess or circle where the label was put on. It was hard job to get the labels right in the center of the recess.

Q. 11. Do you remember a fire the Beech-Nut Packing Co. had?

A. I certainly do.

Q. 12. What was burned?

A. The smokehouse.

Q. 13. When was this fire?

A. I do not remember.

Q. 14. Was the whole plant destroyed?

A. The whole plant was not destroyed. The office was not destroyed.

Q. 15. Was this fire prior to 1900?

A. It was prior to 1900. There is also a label which we used on Mollie's Jam. I think it was in blue and had an oval label.

Q. 16. Have you been able to find some of those labels?

A. I could not find one. I threw some labels away.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 17. You say you came with the Imperial Packing Co. in 1896?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. How many people were working here then?

A. I think eight or nine. We branded our hams before they were smoked. Now we brand them after we smoke them.

X-Q. 19. How many hams did you brand?

A. I should judge eight or nine hundred or one thousand a day. Business was very small. We worked half time and sawed wood in the winter time.

X-Q. 20. Was the business local, just around here?

A. No, we shipped to New York and that section, New York State.

X-Q. 21. How many fires did they have here to your recollection?

A. Only one fire to my recollection.

X-Q. 22. You have been here from 1896 up to the present time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. The only thing destroyed in that fire was part of the smokehouse and the ice house?

A. Yes. The greatest damage was to the smokehouse.

X-Q. 24. How large was the smokehouse?

A. About forty feet long and I should judge fourteen feet wide. We had five houses, three stories high. We had a place for the fire and the other buildings we used for making the goods.

X-Q. 25. It was a wooden building?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Sort of a shed?

A. It was an old building.

X-Q. 27. That was the only fire you ever had around here?

A. That is the only fire.

X-Q. 28. You have been here since 1896?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. You say you are familiar with all these labels?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. You are familiar with all the labels the Beech-Nut Packing Co. has put out?

A. I am.

X-Q. 31. Have you ever known of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. putting out tobacco?

A. No, sir.

Cross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

WEBSTER DAVIS.

COLONEL DAVIS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Colonel Davis. You are forty-seven years old and you reside at Canajoharie, N. Y.; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. Are you connected with the Beech-Nut Packing Co., and if so, how long have you been connected with it?

A. Thirty years.

Q. 3. When did you come with the Beech-Nut Packing Co. or its predecessor, the Imperial Packing Co.?

A. In 1891.

Q. 4. What name did the Imperial Packing Co., the predecessor of the Beech-Nut Packing Co., put on its goods in those days?

A. Beech-Nut.

Q. 5. Would you be able to recognize the old labels used by the Imperial Packing Co. if they were shown to you now?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Do you remember a fire at the plant of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. What was destroyed?

A. Practically everything that we owned.

Q. 8. Your brother, Webster Davis, appeared to think that nothing much, except the smokehouse, was destroyed.

A. Practically everything was destroyed except the engine room.

Q. 9. In what building was the office and the smokehouse?

A. It was all together in one building, the smokehouse and office and the ice house with the exception of the engine room which was on the other side.

Q. 10. I show you a board marked for identification "Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 28" and direct your attention to the labels illustrated or displayed in the upper left-hand region of this board. Will you please state how many labels you recognize and know to be used by the company?

A. I recognize the ham and lard and the cap label which was put on the top of the jars. I recognize all the others. Beech-Nut trade-mark was blown in the glass jar. The rest of the labels I remember.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 11. You came with the Imperial Packing Co. in 1891?

A. 1891.

X-Q. 12. You have been with the Imperial Packing Co. or its successors, the Beech-Nut Packing Co., up to the present date?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. What do you do around here?

A. General superintendent of the plant.

X-Q. 14. You spoke of a fire. When was it?

A. The fire was in February, 1903. I am sure it was in February.

X-Q. 15. How many buildings was this plant composed of at that time?

A. It was composed of one building. The office, and as I remember it, we had ten smokehouses, we did our manufacturing in that building. We also had an ice house. The only thing that did not burn was the engine room and that was away from the main building couple hundred feet.

X-Q. 16. The concern in 1903 was known as the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. How many men were employed here at the time of that fire?

A. That is a pretty hard thing to say. I could not answer that.

X-Q. 18. Approximately?

A. I could not say—I do not remember.

X-Q. 19. Were the buildings that were destroyed wooden buildings?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. Something like sheds?

A. They were all old buildings that the company had bought from other people, with the exception of the smokehouses which we built ourselves. They were all wooden buildings.

X-Q. 21. Was the office in the wooden building?

A. Yes. The smokehouses were directly back. They were all connected.

X-Q. 22. It was a very small plant in 1903?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. In those years their main products were such food products as ham, lard, sliced bacon and dates?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. From 1891 to about the time of that fire the main building was used in curing the hams and bacon?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. The hams were branded with an iron brand, it was a circular brand with Beech-Nut in the middle?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Are you familiar with the labels that are shown on this chart?

A. Yes, I remember them all.

X-Q. 27. As superintendent you are familiar with the products as put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. You never knew that the Beech-Nut Packing Co. put out any Beech-Nut cigarettes under any label?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 29. You never knew that they put out tobacco products in those thirty years, always thought they put out food products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. That glass jar that has been brought in the case, what was that glass jar used for?

A. We used that for bacon and beef.

X-Q. 31. It was never used by the Imperial Packing Co.?

A. I am not sure about that, but I think it was—1899.

X-Q. 32. Still this design which was blown in this jar is supposed to be represented by the design in the third column of this chart under the figures or years "1900-1905"; is not that right?

A. That is the way it reads, but I think it was used before that.

X-Q. 33. The Imperial Packing Co. had gone out of existence by 1900 (1899 I think it was), so either that chart is wrong or your recollection as to the date it was used is wrong.

A. I do not remember it offhand.

X-Q. 34. Then the chart must be wrong right there. If the chart is wrong in one particular label, the chart might be wrong in more instances.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 35. We have one example of its being wrong?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. As a matter of fact it would be pretty hard to use any procedure to know just what years the labels were used?

A. It would.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 37. This jar about which you have testified contains a device similar to the device shown in the third column of the exhibit board. I show you another jar marked "Patented Oct. 23rd, 1900," and containing a similar device blown in the glass; this jar being an open mouth or square neck jar, similar to the jar shown on the billhead, third column. Do you recognize this jar?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 38. One of these two jars, both of which contain the same device in the glass, has a restricted neck and the other a wide neck. Which of these two jars was used first?

A. The restricted neck jar was used first.

R-D. Q. 39. What appears on the bottom of the jar which you said was used in 1900?

A. Patented July 11, 1893, I. P. Co.

R-D. Q. 40. What does "IPCo." stand for?

A. Imperial Packing Co.

R-D. Q. 41. This jar so marked was used before the jar with the wide mouth?

A. Quite a while.

R-D. Q. 42. Do you know when this old restricted neck jar was found?

A. I do not know.

R-D. Q. 43. Do you know if it was before or after this exhibit board was made?

A. I do not know.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 44. As a matter of fact between the jars and the board we are all balled up.

A. Yes.

Reredirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 45. I do not see how we are so balled up. Is there any vagueness in your mind as to which of these two jars was used first?

A. I could take the stand that the restricted jar was used first.

R-D. Q. 46. That jar has "I. P. Co." on the bottom and the jar with the open mouth was used after that?

A. It was used after the restricted neck jar. This jar with the restricted neck was hard to pack and that is the reason they discontinued using it, and changed to the straight-sided jar.

By Mr. Hinton: The jar with the restricted neck is produced and offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 29 (Imperial Packing Co.'s jar).

The open neck jar of 1900 is offered in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 30.

Deposition closed.

COLONEL DAVIS.

CHRISTINA CARSWELL, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Christina Carswell. You are of legal age. You reside at Canajoharie, N. Y. You are employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. What are your duties here?

A. Statistical manager.

Q. 3. Have you charge of the sales records and other records of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. Have you from the official sales records of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. compiled figures showing the number of Beech-Nut labels upon goods sold by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. which have been purchased by the public?

A. I have.

Q. 5. For what years?

A. From 1903 to 1921, inclusive.

Q. 6. Can you and will you produce a table showing total number of labels purchased on and with goods by the public for each year beginning 1903 and ending 1921?

A. I can and do.

The table produced by the witness is incorporated herein in the record.

TOTAL NUMBER OF BEECH-NUT LABELS BEFORE THE PUBLIC FROM 1903 TO 1921, INCLUSIVE, SHOWING THE TOTAL NUMBER AT THE END OF EACH YEAR STARTING 1903.

Year.	Number of Labels.
Ending 1903	1,837,891
" 1904	5,346,563
" 1905	10,964,830
" 1906	18,778,191
" 1907	25,742,398
" 1908	32,662,653
" 1909	41,987,617
" 1910	54,550,452
" 1911	87,010,061
" 1912	203,878,036
" 1913	581,711,537
" 1914	1,222,559,117
" 1915	2,026,989,344
" 1916	2,938,869,631
" 1917	3,877,934,085
" 1918	4,331,084,050
" 1919	5,326,808,020
" 1920	6,089,691,968
" 1921	7,421,562,658

Q. 7. Were the figures in this table taken from the official records of the Beech-Nut Packing Co., used in its regular course of business?

A. They were except one year.

Q. 8. What year was that?

A. Half of the year 1910 and 1911.

Q. 9. Why did you not take those figures from the official records?

A. Because we cannot find the actual sales records for that period on all the products—we can for the jar goods but not the bulk goods.

Q. 10. What did you do for the figures for that time?

A. For the latter half of 1910 I simply doubled the first half of 1910, which is a very conservative record as our sales were increasing right along. For 1911 I took the latter two months and quadrupled these, which is a very conservative record, much lower than the actual sales were.

Q. 11. Can you and will you, if requested by the opposing counsel, produce and explain to him any and all the official records from which those figures were derived?

A. I can.

Q. 12. How much of a job would it be to collect and handle all the books that these figures were taken from?

A. It would be some job. It takes a big truck to lug them around.

Q. 13. Does this tabulation of the number of labels include any except the Beech-Nut labels?

A. It does not.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 14. I notice that this list or table which you compiled is entitled "Total Number of Beech-Nut Labels Before the Public from 1903 to 1921, Inclusive, Showing the Total Number at the End of Each Year Starting 1903." Just what do you mean, "Total Number of Beech-Nut Labels Before the Public"?

A. They are actual sales.

X-Q. 15. Do these figures which you term "Before the Public" include goods on the shelves of merchants, goods returned, samples and things of that sort?

A. They include samples and, of course, naturally would include goods on the shelves.

X-Q. 16. And would include returned goods which have been sent out and returned?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. So far as the purchasing public is concerned, there is no way of telling what goods reach the public or the number of goods returned in any particular year?

A. Returned goods are infinitesimal.

X-Q. 18. That does not answer my question. I asked if there is any way of telling what goods reach the public or the amount returned for any particular year.

A. Goods on the shelves are before the public. There is no way of telling about returned goods.

X-Q. 19. Can you tell from this table that you have given or from your knowledge that there was actually sold in 1921 seven billion?

A. That is accumulative total.

X-Q. 20. Then as I understand this table—I have probably a misconception of it—the figures, for instance, opposite 1921 which reads, 7,421,562,658, that includes all the labels that were put on Beech-Nut goods not for the year 1921 alone but for all the years since 1903 or for a period of nineteen years; is that right?

A. Not the labels which were put on Beech-Nut goods but the labels which were put on Beech-Nut goods and actually sold.

X-Q. 21. But it includes the whole period of nineteen years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Then you have no table showing the number of items or goods sold in each year?

A. Yes, I can give you that.

X-Q. 23. I understand that you are in charge of the sales records of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. Can you give me from your sales records the value in dollars and cents all the goods sold and delivered by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. under the Beech-Nut label since 1903?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. For each year?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Will you compile such a list?

A. I will.

X-Q. 27. Can you give me the value in dollars and cents for each year of each particular item sold; for example, the amount of chewing gum sold in the year 1921 and its value in dollars and cents?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: We have no objection to supplying counsel with any relative information, but as to whether or not we want to give him a complete tabulation of statistical sales of every item that the Beech-Nut Packing Co. has put out in dollars and cents since the beginning is a matter which must receive very careful consideration. Of course, this information would be of the utmost use to a competitor. While not refusing the information at the present time, we must not be understood as promising to do this without further consideration.

Mr. Cavanagh: The counsel for P. Lorillard Co. is very glad that Mr. Hinton makes this statement. We have heard so much about this case, about the wonderful business in chewing gum and what not that this plaintiff has been doing and of the terrible damage that has been inflicted upon it by the Lorillard Co. in its tobacco business—this has particular relation to chewing gum, the counsel now insists that matters have come to a show down and that this plaintiff is called upon to produce an accurate, verified and sworn tables showing not only the total value of the business done in dollars and cents and paid to the Beech-Nut Packing Co. for each year since its inception, but counsel wants to know and demands the information as to the total value of the business done in each item for each state of the United States, if this information is on the books. The counsel also desires to have furnished a statement of the selling price of each package commodity put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.; that is, the market price at which it goes to the dealer or jobber in order that we may arrive at some conclusion as to the value of the business which the Beech-Nut Packing Co. alleges is being injured by the sale of tobacco by this defendant.

Mr. Hinton: This is a most extraordinary demand. If I understand it, we are to spend, undoubtedly, several weeks in order to supply counsel with not only the figures including the total business of the Beech-Nut Packing Co., but the figures showing for each year the sales of every particular product the Beech-Nut Packing Co. made. And not only that, the sales of each particular product from the inception of the business in every one of the forty-eight states in the Union. If counsel regards this as part of his case, there are proper ways to get the information, but I certainly will not put into my case any such elaborate detail figures, even assuming that it would be possible in the face of the testimony given yesterday to compile the sales by states from the inception of the business. Obviously, this is a task that would take weeks and weeks in tabulating. As to the volume of chewing gum business, we would be very glad to give counsel the sales of chewing gum during each year if he wants it.

Mr. Cavanagh: Counsel for the defendant has called for certain data and now insists upon the production of same in connection with the examination of this witness. If it cannot be supplied under a period of certain weeks' time, the counsel is willing to wait for the preparation of this data. The plaintiff should have thought of the trouble it would cause when he filed this suit. As this information is important in view of the claims made by the plaintiff and in view of the isolated tables and figures which are produced, the counsel must insist upon this being supplied.

Mr. Hinton: We will get nowhere in arguing this matter here. Of course, it can always be referred to the court for instructions.

Mr. Cavanagh: The counsel for the defendant has asked for certain data. He intends to see that this request to furnish the data is complied with.

Mr. Hinton: I will supply the chewing gum figures if you want them. I will supply the figures relative to the annual business of the company. I have no intention whatsoever of supplying the sales of each particular item, which are approximately one hundred items, for a period of nineteen or twenty years, subdividing the sales of these items into particular states unless instructed to do so by the court. This is entirely irrelevant. If you need this as part of your case and it is proper to get it, you can always get it.

Mr. Cavanagh: In view of the attitude assumed by the counsel for the plaintiff any and all testimony given in this case relative to the alleged sales or extent of sales, or extent of business done by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. since its early inception, and particularly all tables and other statistical data relative thereto is now objected to as being incomplete, as not accurately showing the true state of affairs, and at the proper time motion will be made to the court to strike from the records all testimony and all data, statistical and otherwise, relative to the question of alleged extent of business done by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.

Mr. Hinton: The witness is instructed to supply Mr. Cavanagh with the chewing gum sales and the annual business of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. in dollars and cents, if she can ascertain the figures, to be produced at a later session.

Counsel for the parties had a conference about further figures to be supplied by plaintiff in effort to reach agreement.

X-Q. 28. Do I understand that this list "Total Number of Labels Before the Public," includes simply the Beech-Nut labels with the red band, like the one shown on this chewing gum box?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. You have charge of the statistical records of the company, have you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. Do you keep records of the labeled goods like the Holly brand, a label I show you here, and the Erie brand like the label I also show you? Are the records kept separately?

A. Entirely separate.

X-Q. 31. What other brands do you keep records of? Have you a Mohawk brand?

A. Holly and Erie.

X-Q. 32. Are there any other brands that you have outside of Holly and Erie and Mohawk?

A. We have Holly and Erie. We do not have a Mohawk brand now. That is an old brand.

X-Q. 33. Those are the only other brands that you are using?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Have you compiled any table showing the yearly sales of the Erie and Holly brands?

A. I have not.

X-Q. 35. Will you compile for me such a table?

A. I can if it is necessary.

X-Q. 36. I mean the yearly business in dollars and cents done in those two brands.

A. If it is necessary I can do it.

By Mr. Cavanagh: Counsel for the defendant offers in evidence three labels—the Erie brand which was fastened on one sheet and marked as single exhibit, Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 16, Plaintiff's Erie Brand Label. Likewise the Holly brand label was now offered in evidence and marked Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 17, Plaintiff's Holly Brand Label.

Further examination of this witness is suspended pending reaching a conclusion as to the data to be furnished by the witness to defendant.

By Mr. Hinton: Witness will be produced again for examination by defendant in the event that it is necessary to have such an examination in connection with any further figures to be supplied the defendant by the witness.

Cross-examination closed.

Deposition closed.

CHRISTINA CARSWELL.

EARL A. NELLIS, a witness produced on behalf of the plaintiff, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, first being duly sworn, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Mr. Hinton, deposes as follows:

Q. 1. Your name is Earl A. Nellis. Your age is forty-three. You are manager of sales for the Beech-Nut Packing Co., plaintiff in this case; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. 2. How long have you been with the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Since 1906.

Q. 3. Has the Beech-Nut Packing Co. since that time extended its line to include new products?

A. Yes, a number of new products.

Q. 4. Have these new products been similar to or different to the products already produced?

A. In many instances quite different.

Q. 5. Will you give me an illustration?

A. Beech-Nut gum I think would be the most pronounced one.

Q. 6. Under what label have all these various goods been put out—I refer to first quality goods?

A. Beech-Nut in every instance.

Q. 7. Is that the regular Beech-Nut label such as appears on its chewing gum box?

A. Yes, the regular oval label.

Q. 8. Are you sufficiently familiar with the labels used by the Beech-Nut Packing Co., since your connection with the company, to identify without question every label which has been used by them if you were shown those labels?

A. Yes, since I have been with the company.

Q. 9. Have you examined the exhibit board marked "Beech-Nut Labels Displayed to the Public, 1891-1921" being Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 28? If so, will you state whether or not you recognize each and every one on that board?

A. I recognize them all since I have been connected with the company.

Q. 10. Are there any on the board that have been used since 1906 that you have any doubt about?

A. No.

Q. 11. With reference to the labels on the board indicated to have been used prior to 1906, did you ever see any of those labels and marks?

A. I have seen some of them on returned goods.

Q. 12. Which ones have you seen?

A. The one that would be called the "squat" jar and the label that went on top of the jar. I remember them all except the two on the extreme left—the lard and the one just above it.

Q. 13. Has each and every item which the Beech-Nut Packing Co. has manufactured been included in the regular sales or on the price lists of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. In practically every instance. Now and then experimental products would not be put on the price lists.

Q. 14. Did you ever carry your chocolate bars on your price lists?

A. No.

Q. 15. Did you ever carry your extract on your price lists?

A. No.

Q. 16. How about your canned tomatoes in big cans?

A. No. Sold on restricted territory.

Q. 17. Then it is not always true that the articles that you manufacture and pack are included in your price lists?

A. No, sir.

Q. 18. Since you have been with the Beech-Nut Packing Co., in what territory have the goods been sold?

A. Throughout the world. All over the United States—practically every country in the world.

Q. 19. How many salesmen have you now regularly employed?

A. I could not give you exact number, but I would say 225.

Q. 20. Have you sales offices outside of Canajoharie?

A. Yes, in a few places.

Q. 21. Have you a sales office in New York?

A. Yes.

Q. 22. Have you a sales office in Chicago, Ills.?

A. Yes.

Q. 23. In Boston?

A. Yes.

Q. 24 Other cities?

A. Some of the other cities.

Q. 25. How was Beech-Nut chewing gum received when it first came out?

A. Very favorably.

Q. 26. You know how many boxes of chewing gum were sold last year?

A. Better than ten million boxes in 1921 or as I like to put it better than a billion sticks.

Q. 27. Why do you refer to the individual sticks?

A. Each stick is a complete package. It has its wrapper and label. The label to my mind has a great deal of advertising value—you can see them on the streets almost anywhere you walk.

Q. 28. Can you state how many boxes of Beech-Nut chewing gum were sold since you came out with chewing gum?

A. It is better than fifty million boxes.

Q. 29. Can you identify what you mean by box?

A. It is the container holding twenty of the 5-stick packages.

Q. 30. Is it this box—Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 27?

A. Yes.

Q. 31. What does the retailer do with this box when he gets it?

A. It is displayed. The flap is gotten up for that purpose.

Q. 32. What was the going price for chewing gum at the time you came out with this product?

A. My memory is the price was 60 cents. We came out with 70 cent price. I remember when we came out with the 10 cent advance over the popular prices a number of our salesmen said it could not be done, that we would not make a success of it because of the higher prices.

Q. 33. What has been the situation on your chewing gum for the past few years—has there been a demand for it?

A. Yes. Time and time again we have instructed our salesmen to discontinue accepting or soliciting orders for chewing gum. We confined ourselves to mail orders and the mail orders we prorated them as to production.

Q. 34. You have cited Beech-Nut gum as an example of your company making products quite different than food products. Can you give me another example?

A. Ginger ale is entirely foreign.

Q. 35. When did you come out with beverages?

A. 1919.

Q. 36. That was your first beverage?

A. Yes.

Q. 37. What happened in connection with the sale of Beech-Nut ginger ale?

A. It was very favorably received. We had to put on a night shift and then we could not keep up with the demand. I recall we had a remarkable demonstration in Boston, Cliquot's home town (Cliquot is made just outside the city, I believe). We sold forty cars.

Q. 38. Was that the first year?

A. That was the first year.

Q. 39. To what do you attribute the favorable reception of gum and beverages?

A. It is unquestionably the Beech-Nut name and the reputation the other products have established. Beech-Nut label does the trick with introductory orders.

Direct examination closed.

Cross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 40. When was the last time you reduced the price on chewing gum?

A. The first of the year I believe it was.

X-Q. 41. 1922?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 42. You had cut the price of it in the market before last summer, had you not?

A. We had a reduction prior to that, but I cannot give you the date.

X-Q. 43. So although not being able to keep up with the demand for chewing gum and only taking mail orders and telling your salesmen not to solicit orders, you cut the price at different times?

A. The price was cut at the time we believed that our production was coming up to a point where we could take more business through the night shift, etc.

X-Q. 44. The question of what Wrigley or what the other concerns sell their goods for does not make any difference?

A. We try to make our own prices.

X-Q. 45. So you do not compete with the other chewing gum manufacturers?

A. We have to compete to a more or less extent but we have tried to sell Beech-Nut products on their own base.

X-Q. 46. I understand that you are the sales manager of the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. Manager of sales, yes.

X-Q. 47. Without reference to any records but a general estimate, what does the business of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. amount to in the year?

A. I do not know if the management would care to have me give that information. It must come from some of the officials of the company.

X-Q. 48. You say you have about 225 salesmen?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. Do you know how many people are employed by the Beech-Nut Packing Co.?

A. No.

X-Q. 50. You were speaking of the various products and brands of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. sold under your direction. I show you Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 16, Erie Brand Label and Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 17, Holly Brand Label. You sell those goods under those brands, do you not?

A. We have sold under both brands. We are not selling Holly we have discontinued that brand.

X-Q. 51. I think you mean Mohawk.

A. You are right, Mohawk.

X-Q. 52. Will you tell me just what these brands represent in the line of your goods, that is seconds?

A. The Erie brand represents a by-product as the result of manufacturing of the better grades. The Holly brand beef represents a second cut of beef; in other words, the Beech-Nut brand is held to be the very best of product.

X-Q. 53. These two brands which are sold by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. represent a cheaper grade of material or beef than Beech-Nut brand?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. You said Beech-Nut Packing Co. from time to time brought out different products under the Beech-Nut first grade or red band label. Those products brought out under that label are food products, are they not?

A. Yes and no. We are putting out some tooth paste now and that would not come under the head of food products.

X-Q. 55. When did you start to put out tooth paste; it must have been very, very recently, was it not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 56. The labels on that board downstairs you referred to, those were all food products, are they not, so that the business of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. is really the packing and marketing of food products?

A. For the most part.

X-Q. 57. In your sales department you never sold any Beech-Nut cigarettes under the Beech-Nut label?

A. I could not say as to that.

X-Q. 58. You never heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. putting out Beech-Nut tobacco products?

A. I remember it was considered at one time. I could not say if it was Beech-Nut cigarettes or not.

X-Q. 59. You never gave your salesmen instructions to sell Beech-Nut tobacco products?

A. In general, no.

X-Q. 60. You have never known the Beech-Nut Packing Co. to put out on the market Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Possibly there has been some put out in a very limited way. I am not sure about that one way or the other.

X-Q. 61. As far as the record in this case goes we have been only able to find, and I think it is admitted that a few orders, that one order of $11.85 of cigarettes was sold and your department today is not making any attempt to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes under Beech-Nut label. Tobacco products are an entirely different kind of products from food products, are they not?

A. You cannot eat them.

X-Q. 62. You do not know of a man being in the food packing line and being in the tobacco line?

A. I do not know as to that. I never gave it a thought.

X-Q. 63. As a matter of fact you never really knew of anyone manufacturing food products and tobacco at the same time?

A. I do not recall any just now.

X-Q. 64. You cannot eat tobacco. You cannot smoke chewing gum either, can you?

A. I never heard of anyone smoking it.

X-Q. 65. You would not put a wad of gum in a pipe and smoke it, would you?

A. No.

X-Q. 66. These Holly and Erie brands are sold under your supervision?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 67. They are sold to the grocer just the same as the other Beech-Nut products are?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 68. They are sold in the open market?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 69. So if you wanted some Erie brand or the Holly brand you could probably buy it in the open market?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 70. Your gum and ginger ale have come under the Pure Food Act, do they not?

A. Under pure food regulation, yes.

X-Q. 71. You manufacture them in conformity with those regulations?

A. Yes.

Redirect Examination by Mr. Hinton.

R-D. Q. 72. Do you eat chewing gum?

A. I chew it.

R-D. Q. 73. Could it be said to be a food product?

A. No.

Recross-Examination by Mr. Cavanagh.

R-X Q. 74. Do you swallow the saliva with the sugar that is mixed with the gum?

A. When you chew it.

R-X Q. 75. Chewing gum is good for digestion?

A. That is the old theory. It is supposed to be in some instances.

R-X Q. 76. Some people consider it so?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 77. Chewing gum is used by children and other people that you would not give tobacco to?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 78. It is in the nature of a confection?

A. It comes under that head.

R-X Q. 79. You certainly would not take chewing tobacco for chewing gum?

A. If I wanted to chew one I would not take the other, no.

R-X Q. 80. You would not take a package of chewing gum for a package of tobacco?

A. No, but people might who used both. They might take one or the other.

R-X Q. 81. Do you mean to say that people in normal possession of their wits if they went into a store and asked for a package of chewing gum and the dealer handed them a package of cigarettes that they would take the cigarettes when they wanted chewing gum?

A. If that party were a user of both cigarettes and gum he might purchase the cigarettes if he could not get the gum. He might buy the cigarettes on the strength of the label.

R-X Q. 82. Suppose he went into a store and wanted a package of chewing gum, do you think that a normal man could be deceived into buying a package of cigarettes?

A. If he did not want anything but gum he would insist.

R-X Q. 83. Do you think he was normal if he took the cigarettes?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 84. If you had a little girl eight years old and gave her a nickel to buy a package of gum. She went into a store and asked for a package of gum and she came back with a package of cigarettes, would you not feel like taking hold of that man's hair for deceiving her?

A. I suppose so.

EARL A. NELLIS.

Stipulated by and between the parties through their respective counsel that Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 28, being the board marked "Beech-Nut Labels Displayed Before the Public, 1891-1921," and which is hereby offered in evidence, is displayed thereon the various labels used by the Imperial Packing Co. and the Beech-Nut Packing Co., its successors, arranged chronologically in accordance with the years in which the various products were put out as indicated by the sales records, orders for labels, memoranda and other official records of the company, subject to this exception, that the said board does not show certain other brands which have been put upon the market by the Beech-Nut Packing Co. or its predecessor, the Imperial Packing Co., such, for example, as Erie brand, exemplified by Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 16, and Holly brand as exemplified by Defendant's Cross-Exhibit No. 17, and Mohawk brand of which there is no label in evidence at this time. Subject to this exception the board may be received in evidence as containing a display of labels used by the Beech-Nut Packing Co., subject to correction of errors if any appear.

It is stipulated that Julia Hilke, if called, would testify as follows:

"I am of legal age and a resident of Canajoharie,

N. Y. In 1891 I worked for the Imperial Packing Co., the predecessor of the Beech-Nut Packing Co. I left the Imperial Packing Co. in 1891 when my nephew, John Hilke, was born (this being in 1891), in order to help take care of him as a baby. During the time I was working for the Imperial Packing Co. I took home with me a box which I now produce. This box has been in my possession ever since."

The box is now produced in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 31.

It is stipulated that owing to shortness of time remaining for plaintiff to close its prima facie depositions, the plaintiff shall, notwithstanding the expiration of that time, have reasonable time in which to have original depositions properly gathered up, executed and filed in court.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} Equity No. 3056.

Stipulation.

It is stipulated by and between the parties hereto, through their respective counsel, that the collection of papers which bear the signature of counsel for both parties hereto and which are marked respectively:

"Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-12"
"Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-13"
"Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-14"
"Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-15"
"Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-16"
"Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-17"

may be offered and received in evidence in this case and may be added to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 (A to A-11) already in evidence by stipulation in this case, so that Exhibit will now be Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 (A to A-17) being a book containing forty-three sheets.

It is stipulated that these papers consist of the following subject-matter:

Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 12 A-12 and 12 A-13 are original letters received by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-14 is an envelope with a photostatic copy of the check that came inclosed in it, received by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business through the mail, and it is stipulated that this is a correct photostatic copy of the check that came in this envelope, and that this envelope containing said check was delivered to and received by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-15 is an original letter received by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12 A-16 and 12 A-17 are respectively, an original letter and an inclosure therein received by the Beech-Nut Packing Company in due course of business.

It is stipulated that each of the letters and documents of plaintiff's exhibits, No. 12 A-12, 12 A-13, 12 A-15, 12 A-16, and 12 A-17, was received in the ordinary and due course of business, is genuine and authentic, and was signed by the person whose name appears thereon, subject to the following:

Defendant is herewith supplied with photographic copies of each of the exhibits herein referred to for investigation thereof, and defendant reserves the right at any time before sixty days, in advance of the trial, to challenge the authenticity and genuineness of any of the foregoing exhibits, and plaintiff in that event agrees to produce where obtainable the persons who signed the same, and subject them to examination by defendant, if so requested to do, or to prove the signatures by other testimony, failing which to withdraw the exhibit.

Defendant reserves the right to object to the foregoing exhibits on the ground of materiality and relevance.

Plaintiff calls upon defendant to admit the authenticity and genuineness of each of the foregoing exhibits, under the provisions of Equity Rule 58.

Plaintiff further stipulates that in said "Table of Sales Statistics" in the column bearing the caption, "Total Sales," appear true and accurate figures in dollars and cents of the total sales of all goods sold and delivered by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, yearly, from 1903 to 1921 (inclusive). The remaining three columns of the chart, bearing the captions, "Reg. Line," "Gum" and "Comp. Tab. Misc. Conf. Bev.," indicate how the total figures or amounts shown in the "Total Sales" column are divided amongst various items of plaintiff's sales business. For example, in the year of 1921 the total sales were $12,109,573.68, this sum or amount being made up or composed of $4,618,-207.28, sales in Regular Line; $6,281,945.41, sales in Gum; and $1,209,420.99, sales in Compound Tablets, Miscellaneous Confectionery and Beverages, etc. It is further stipulated that the figures or sums herein given also include goods which have been returned by dealers in course of business. This item (returned goods) amounted to .0043 of the total in the year 1920, and was the highest it has ever been in that year.

Plaintiff, upon request of defendant, explains the falling off in total business in 1918, and of the gum business 1918-1919, as follows:

The reasons for the falling off in sales of gum 1918-1919 (which caused the falling off in the total sales in 1918, shown by the figures) were as follows:

1. Plaintiff was unable to secure prime chicle in these years in sufficient quantities to meet the demand for its gum.

2. Plaintiff was restricted by the Government in the quantity of sugar it could obtain.

During the greater portion of 1918-1919, plaintiff was allotting gum shipments on the basis of one-half to one-third of the amount ordered and turning away a large amount of business in gum, etc. Gum production did not meet the demand until well along in 1921.

It is further stipulated by the parties that the furnishing of this "Table of Sales Statistics" by the plaintiff to the defendant may be considered as a compliance with the requests of defendant's counsel for data along this line made during the examination of Christina Carswell, statistical manager of plaintiff, and the production of said Christina Carswell and the witness Francis E. Barbour for further examination as to statistics of the business of the plaintiff is waived.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Answer.

(Filed August 13, 1921.)

The answer of P. Lorillard Company, Defendant, to the Bill of Complaint of Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff.

1. This defendant admits the incorporation of the parties hereto as alleged in Paragraph 1 of the bill of complaint.

2. This defendant does not know and is not informed save by said bill of complaint whether or not, as alleged in Paragraph 2 of said bill of complaint, the plaintiff's alleged predecessor, Imperial Packing Company, inaugurated its business prior to 1892, or thereabouts, and adopted and used the alleged trade mark "BEECH-NUT" and a trade mark or distinctive badge, comprising the collocation of the alleged trade mark "BEECH-NUT" with other distinctive and conspicuous features; described in said Paragraph 2 of the bill of complaint, and alleged to be presented by the specimen labels attached to said bill as Exhibit No. 1, and leaves plaintiff to strict proof thereof.

3. This defendant, while admitting that the word "BEECH-NUT" was adopted as part of the corporate name of the plaintiff, in the year of 1899 or thereabouts, and while further admitting, on information and belief, that the said plaintiff is a successor in business of the Imperial Packing Company, a New York corporation, denies each and every other allegation contained in Paragraph 3 of the bill of complaint, and particularly that the trade and 7 public have recognized and accepted the label, Exhibit No. 1, as not only the trade mark by which the desired manufacturer of this or that goods may be identified, but also and more particularly as the distinctive autograph or personal signature of the plaintiff.

4. This defendant admits, on information and belief, the allegations contained in Paragraph 4 of the bill of complaint as to the plaintiff being the successor in business of the Imperial Packing Company.

5. This defendant is not informed, and does not know, save by said bill of complaint, whether or not, as alleged in Paragraph 5 of said bill of complaint, that the Im- 8 perial Packing Company, shortly after 1891 began a rapid extension of the items of its manufacture; that the plaintiff from the time of its acquisition of its business has persistently and rapidly continued the alleged extension; that the business of the plaintiff has increased with great rapidity; that plaintiff's alleged trade mark, trade name and distinctive badge and autograph were familiar to and highly regarded by the public and on sale largely, in stores dealing in packaged consumable products such as general stores, grocery stores, drug stores, tobacco stores, news stands and the like; that plaintiff's business aggregated many million dollars every year, and 9 comprehended a very large number of packaged products of widely varying character, including those enumerated in Paragraph 5 of the bill of complaint; that plaintiff has since added many new products to its line, and has always expected and now expects and intends, in the rapid expansion of its business, to continue so to do, all without reference to specific similarity or differences between various items alleged to be included in plaintiff's line, and leaves plaintiff to strict proof thereof. This defendant further denies that plaintiff's goods and those of its predecessor have always been identified by the alleged 10 trade mark, trade name, badge and autograph shown by Exhibit No. 1 of the bill of complaint.

6. This defendant does not know and is not informed save by Paragraph 6 of the bill of complaint, whether or not plaintiff's business has for many years heretofore been in a large measure dependent upon the standing in the mind of the public of the alleged trade mark "BEECH-NUT" and the alleged trade name, badge and autograph shown by Exhibit No. 1 of the bill of complaint; or whether or not the plaintiff has expended more than two millions of dollars in advertising, or whether or not said advertising has been of the character set forth in said
11 Paragraph 6 of the bill of complaint, or whether or not such advertising has always featured the alleged trade mark or trade name "BEECH-NUT" and the alleged badge or autograph shown by Exhibit No. 1, and leaves plaintiff to strict proof thereof; and further answering said Paragraph 6 of the bill of complaint, this defendant denies that the alleged mark or symbol, illustrated by Exhibit No. 1, aforesaid, except for variations in size, name of particular product and other immaterial variations, has been displayed conspicuously by plaintiff without exception upon all of the widely varying kind of packaged consumable goods plaintiff has from time to time put upon 12 the market; and further denies that such goods of the plaintiff, as are alleged to be marked with the symbol or mark illustrated by the said Exhibit No. 1 have any particular high standard of excellence, or any standard defined or indicated by said symbol or mark.

7. This defendant denies each and every allegation contained in Paragraph 7 of the bill of complaint, and particularly that plaintiff's alleged trade mark or symbol (Exhibit 1) enjoys any particular high regard with the trade and public of the United States, or that plaintiff's products so marked enjoy any particular regard or superior standing with the public, in comparison with the goods or products of others engaged in handling or marketing the same line of commodities as this plaintiff. 13

8. This defendant admits the registration in the United States Patent Office, by the plaintiff, of the alleged trade mark No. 89,613, registered December 31, 1912, but denies that said trade mark was registered in due form of law, and denies each and every other allegation contained in Paragraph 8 of the said bill of complaint.

9. This defendant, in answer to Paragraph 9 of the bill of complaint denies that it has, within the District of New Jersey, or anywhere else, infringed upon plaintiff's alleged trade mark, appropriated plaintiff's alleged trade name or forged plaintiff's alleged autograph; or 14 been guilty of unfair competition in trade against the plaintiff, in connection with this or any other matter; and the defendant denies that it has infringed, at any time in the past, or is now infringing or intends in the future, within the District of New Jersey, or anywhere else, to infringe upon any rights of the plaintiff, trade mark or otherwise, or to compete unfairly in business with said plaintiff. And defendant further denies that it has ever contrived to injure, or intends to injure the plaintiff or has contrived to cramp, or intends to cramp the legitimate expansion of plaintiff's business, or has contrived to divert or intends to divert from the plaintiff 15 any profits, gains and advantages which should legitimately accrue to the plaintiff, or that it has damaged or intends to damage plaintiff in any manner whatsoever, and therefore this defendant specifically and particularly denies each and every allegation of Paragraph 9 of the bill of complaint.

10. This defendant, answering Paragraph 10 of the bill of complaint, admits that it has made and sold and is selling within the District of New Jersey and elsewhere throughout the United States a product known as "BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO", as it had and has the good and perfect right to do; but this defendant denies that its

"BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO" is a cheap or inferior tobacco, but on the contrary avers and maintains that its product is and was of a superior nature and in great demand by the tobacco-using public, and that its superiority and reputation is and was such that the sale of this brand of tobacco of the defendant has amounted and amounts to many millions of pounds per annum with a valuation running into millions of dollars, and defendant further maintains, upon information and belief, that particularly within recent years it business in dollars and cents in this brand of "BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO" has exceeded and now exceeds by millions of dollars, the total business of the plaintiff, Beech-Nut Packing Company. and defendant further answering said Paragraph 10 of the bill of complaint admits that it uses and has used upon its "BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO" a label, a specimen of which is affixed to the bill of complaint as Exhibit No. 2, but denies that said label in any manner simulates or imitates the label Exhibit No. 1 of the plaintiff, or any other label of plaintiff, or that confusion has been or will be created in the trade and the public; or that the trade and public have generally believed that defendant's BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO is an extension of plaintiff's line and a product made by the plaintiff. And defendant further answering said Paragraph 10 of the bill of complaint denies that in putting up and selling or marketing its BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO under the label or dress shown by Exhibit No. 2 of the bill of complaint, it has been or is guilty of trade mark infringement or of unfair competition in trade against the plaintiff, or has promoted or caused or is promoting or causing confusion in the trade, or has realized or is realizing any illegitimate profits to the loss, damage and injury of the plaintiff; and defendant denies that in its sales effort with respect to its BEECH-NUT SCRAP TOBACCO it has infringed upon or is infringing any trade mark rights of the plaintiff, or indulged or is indulging in unfair competition against the plaintiff, either within the District of New Jersey, or anyhere else. 19

10a. On the contrary defendant avers and maintains that ever since the winter of 1896-1897, or prior thereto, the word "BEECH-NUT" has been used as a trade mark for Tobacco Products, and particularly scrap tobacco usable for both smoking and chewing, exclusively by this defendant and its predecessors in business, to wit: the Harry Weissinger Tobacco Company; the Continental Tobacco Company and the Luhrman & Wilbern Tobacco Company, and that defendant's title to said trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco was derived through due and proper assignments, from said predecessors, as from said assignments here in Court ready to be produced will more fully and at large appear; that said trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for said tobacco products has never been abandoned, either by applicant or its predecessors, or any of them, that defendant's exclusive right to and ownership of the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco is and has been recognized by the trade, and by the public in general; that defendant's business since its inception and establishment, about the year of 1760 is and always has been directed to the manufacture and sale of tobacco products; and that defendant is not, and never has been engaged in selling goods, commodities or products of the same class as those which have heretofore been put up and sold in the open market by plaintiff; and that the containers in which defendant's Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco is and has been packaged and sold bear and have borne the word "Lorillard's" or some similar expression, prominently printed or displayed thereon, thereby indicating to the trade and public the true origin and source of such tobacco product. And defendant further avers and maintains that its success in the sale of its tobacco products under defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for such tobacco products is and has been in no way, shape, form or manner due to any alleged rights or rep- 20 21

22 utation of the plaintiff, or plaintiff's products, or to any efforts which have been made by the plaintiff in the marketing of its products, but is and has been due to defendant's high reputation with the trade and the tobacco-using public, the superiority of defendant's products, and the scope and strength of defendant's manufacturing and selling organization and the efforts exerted in their respective field by the various departments of defendant's organization.

11. Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in Paragraph 11 of the bill of complaint, and particularly that the plaintiff has been or will be damaged
23 by any act or acts of this defendant in or arising out of the manufacture and marketing of its, defendant's tobacco products, under defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for such tobacco products.

12. This defendant, answering paragraph 12 of the bill of complaint admits that it is now advertising, and has heretofore advertised its Beech-Nut tobacco products or brands, just as it advertises its numerous other brands, but denies that this advertising has been and is likely to be generally or in any degree whatsoever attributed to plaintiff; or that defendant's advertising forces upon the attention of the public what purports to be the fact that
24 plaintiff is manufacturing cheap chewing tobacco, or any tobacco; or that defendant's advertising is or ever has been likely to counteract and destroy the good will and reputation of the plaintiff; and defendant therefore denies each and every allegation in said Paragraph 12 of the bill of complaint.

13. Defendant denies each and every allegation of Paragraph 13 of the bill of complaint, and particularly that it intends or threatens to place upon the market cigarettes under the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" and packaged in containers such as shown in Exhibit No. 3, of the bill of complaint, although defendant avers and maintains that it has the good and perfect right to place upon the market cigarettes packaged in containers like said 25

Exhibit No. 3 should it see fit to do so; and further denies that said container shown by said Exhibit No. 3 is or contains a simulation or imitation of any package, label, or other alleged property of this plaintiff, and denies that any acts of this defendant in connection with the cigarette package shown by Exhibit No. 3 of the bill of complaint would constitute threatened trade mark infringement or threatened unfair competition in trade toward the plaintiff.

14. This defendant denies each and every allegation of Paragraph 14 of the bill of complaint, and particularly that plaintiff has any exclusive right to the word "Quality" as associated with packaged commodities or products, and especially with tobacco products, or to the words or term "BEECH-NUT QUALITY," and denies that the public recognizes or has ever recognized any such alleged right or rights of the plaintiff, or such alleged right or rights in connection with plaintiff's goods. 26 of the bill of complaint, and that said cigarette wrappers had appearing there on the inscription "Cigarettes of BEECH-NUT Quality have never before been offered to the public", and that this fact was known to plaintiff at the time or shortly after such wrappers were received by the defendant, but defendant avers that defendant has never sold on the market, cigarettes packaged in containers like that illustrated by Exhibit No. 3 of the bill, nor does it intend to do so, but on the contrary has discarded the wrapper or container like Exhibit 3, of its own volition, and has adopted and used for its Beech-Nut cigarettes the container or wrapper illustrated by Exhibit No. 5 of the bill of complaint. Defendant further avers and maintains that the use of a cigarette package, wrapper or container, like Exhibit No. 3 would in no way or manner invade or infringe upon any right of this plaintiff.

15. Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in Paragraph 15 of the bill of complaint, so far as relate to any alleged effort on the part of this defendant to convert to its own uses the alleged good will and reputation of the plaintiff, and so far as concerns any effort to promote the belief, on the part of the public, that defendant's cigarettes are merely an addition to plaintiff's line of goods which have appeared before the public, and so far as concerns defendant being guilty of threatened unfair competition in trade with the plaintiff and of illegitimately preparing to appropriate the good will of plaintiff's business to promote the sale of its, defendant's goods. Defendant further answering Paragraph 15 of the bill of complaint admits that a number of years ago, to wit: about 1916, it ordered and received a large number of cigarette wrappers, like Exhibit No. 3 27

16. Defendant, answering Paragraph 16 of the bill of complaint, admits that it has sold and offered for sale and is now selling and offering for sale in commerce among the several States large quantities of cigarettes put up in containers or packages as exhibited in Exhibit No. 5 of the bill of complaint, and has advertised said cigarettes extensively, but denies that it has done so, or is doing so, for the purpose of promoting confusion in the trade or of converting to its own uses any good will of the plaintiff; denies that its wrappers or packages or containers as shown by said Exhibit No. 5 are an imitation of plaintiff's alleged trade mark, trade name or so-called autograph; denies that its advertising is or ever has been of a misleading character; denies that said cigarettes have been or will be purchased by persons of the purchasing public or of ordinary intelligence, in the belief that such cigarettes were of plaintiff's manufacture; and denies that any acts and doings of the defendant in connection with its manufacture and marketing of its BEECH-NUT cigarettes constitute or ever has constituted trade mark or trade name infringement or un- 31 fair competition in trade, against plaintiff, or worked, or is working any injury whatsoever to the plaintiff.

17. Defendant, answering Paragraph 17 of the bill of complaint, denies that packaged tobacco and cigarettes are both within legitimate fields of expansion of plaintiff's business, but on the contrary avers and maintains that defendant is the owner of, and has the exclusive right to market tobacco products, such as packaged tobacco and cigarettes under the trade mark "BEECH-NUT", and that the plaintiff has no right whatsoever to the name "BEECH-NUT" as a trade mark for tobacco products, and that any purpose and intent or effort on 32 the part of plaintiff to expand its business and to appear upon the market with a tobacco product, under the trade mark "BEECH-NUT", is, and would constitute an infringement of defendant's rights in the premises. Defendant therefore denies each and every allegation of Paragraph 17 of said bill of complaint.

18. Defendant, answering Paragraph 18 of the bill of complaint, denies that by its acts and doings it has gained large profits, or any profits, due, in whole or in part to any invasion, conversion or exploitation of plaintiff's alleged good will, or to any infringement or use of any of plaintiff's alleged trade marks, trade names or 33 autographs; and denies that defendant has been or is guilty of any unfair competition, and denies that it has made any profits which belong to the plaintiff, or that any damage whatsoever has been done to plaintiff in any manner whatsoever by reason of any act or acts of this defendant in connection with the manufacturing and marketing of its Beech-Nut tobacco products, or in any other connection or relation whatsoever.

19. This defendant further answering says, that this plaintiff, by reason of acquiescence, laches and estoppel in the premises is not entitled to the relief prayed for in its bill of complaint, or to any relief whatsoever against this defendant, and in support hereof defendant says, on information and belief, that for a number of years past, to wit: since about 1897, this plaintiff has been well aware, and has had full knowledge of the fact that the defendant, and its predecessors, was and were manufacturing and selling scrap tobacco under its, the defendant's and its predecessors, trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products, and that defendant put up tobacco products in packages bearing the label such as is exemplified by Exhibit No. 2 of the bill of complaint; that the plaintiff, has not only throughout the years, ever since 1897, by its acts, acquiesced in defendant's rights in the premises, but has recognized and acknowledged defendant's right as to the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products by informing defendant of infringing acts of other parties in using the word "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products and that such acts infringed the exclusive rights of defendant, and has suggested and requested that this defendant take such steps as might be deemed necessary or advisable to terminate such infringement by such other parties in connection with the use of the defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products; and this defendant further says that it has, at divers times, with the full knowledge of the plaintiff taken action which has resulted in the cessation of infringement by other parties of the defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products. Furthermore, in connection with plaintiff's acquiescence, laches and estoppel in the premises, this defendant further says that at, or about the time defendant was contemplating putting its BEECH-NUT cigarette upon the market, and had ordered and received cigarette wrappers bearing the label such as is shown by Exhibit No. 3 with the bill of complaint, this plaintiff, obtained possession of one or more of defendant's cigarette wrappers like said Exhibit No. 3, and took exception to certain detail features of such cigarette wrapper, such as the expression "Cigarettes of BEECH-NUT Quality have never before been offered to the public", and this plaintiff, in writing, under date of August 7th, 1919, of its, plaintiff's own volition, made the following proposal or suggestion to defendant as acceptible to plaintiff, to wit: 37

> "In view of the splendid success of your Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco, would it not be worth while to simulate your Beech-Nut scrap tobacco package in a wrapping for your cigarettes; in other words, use for your cigarettes a form of label which will immediately apprise the prospective purchaser that the cigarettes are made by the same company making the popular Beech-Nut tobacco, and tie up the advantage and publicity you have already gained through the merchandising of that product." 38

That defendant, relying upon plaintiff's acquiescence in defendant's said right to "BEECH-NUT" as a trademark for tobacco products and upon plaintiff's laches in asserting and enforcing its now alleged rights, went to great trouble and expense and invested and expended large sums of money in and about said trade mark for tobacco products and for the purpose of advertising the same and identifying it with defendant's tobacco products and the high quality thereof, and creating an organization for the sale of the same, and that defendant upon the faith of plaintiff's said acquiescence and laches has thus built up a high reputation for the tobacco products sold under its said trade mark and created a large demand therefor, and established a valuable organization for the sale thereof, all of which it would be deprived of at great loss and injury if the prayers of the bill of complaint should be granted. 39

Defendant, therefore, says that this plaintiff by reason of the foregoing, and divers other acts in the premises is estopped, by its acquiescence in defendant's doings and its laches in asserting or enforcing its now alleged rights, and defendant's reliance upon said acquiescence and laches, from receiving, and is not entitled to, the relief prayed for in said bill of complaint, or any relief whatsoever in the premises against this defendant.

WHEREFORE, this defendant, P. Lorillard Company, having fully answered to the bill of complaint, denies that the plaintiff is entitled to the relief or any part thereof demanded, or to any relief whatsoever, and prays to be hence dismissed with its reasonable charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

AND THIS DEFENDANT AS COUNTERCLAIM AGAINST THIS PLAINTIFF SHOWS UNTO THIS HONORABLE COURT:

20. That defendant is, as hereinbefore set forth in this answer the owner of the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products of all kinds, including cigarettes, and that for many years prior to the acts of plaintiff hereinafter complained of, this defendant, and its predecessors in business, had, and has manufactured and marketed tobacco products under the trade mark "BEECH-NUT", in vast quantities, and of a value running into millions of dollars, and that the value of the subject matter, defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT", in controversy, is in excess of five thousand dollars. That the trade and the public in general, and particularly the tobacco trade, and the tobacco-using public, recognized the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products to be that of the defendant. That by reason of the long experience and great care of defendant in its tobacco business, and the superior quality and character of its tobacco products, and particularly its tobacco products sold under its trade mark "BEECH-NUT", such Beech-Nut tobacco products of the defendant have become widely known in the community and throughout the various States of the United States and have commanded and still command an extensive sale throughout the various States of the United States, and have been a source of great profit to this defendant. 43

This defendant states that, notwithstanding the long and quiet use and enjoyment by the defendant and its predecessors of the said trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products, the plaintiff, well knowing the premises, and with the preconceived intention to injure the defendant and with the purpose to defraud it, and with the purpose to deprive this defendant of the benefits and profits resulting from the great reputation acquired by its Beech-Nut tobacco products and with the intent to acquire for itself the benefits and profits of defendant's reputation, and with the intent to assist others to palm off on the public tobacco products, particularly cigarettes, under the name "BEECH-NUT", not manufactured or sold by the defendant, and in willful disregard of defendant's rights in the premises, has recently, but prior to the filing of the bill of complaint, and this answer, to wit: since about June or July, 1919, manufactured or caused to be manufactured, and has endeavored to sell, within the District of New Jersey, and elsewhere in the United States, and now threatens to sell, as defendant is informed and believes, within the District of New Jersey, and elsewhere, an inferior grade of cigarettes under the trade mark "BEECH-NUT", with the intent to deceive and defraud the public, to injure the reputation of defendant, particularly in connection with its Beech-Nut tobacco products, such as scrap tobacco and cigarettes, and to reap and receive for its, plaintiff's own benefit the profits and gains lawfully due defendant, all of which unlawful acts of the plaintiff are an infringement, and threatened infringement of defendant's rights in the premises, and particularly defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" as applied to tobacco products. 44 45

21. Defendant further says, on information and belief, that in pursuannce of its unlawful policy of infringement,

46 and of threatened infringement of defendant's rights in the premises, this plaintiff with full knowledge of the fact that defendant had for many years manufactured and marketed tobacco products under defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT", the said plaintiff, in or about June or July, 1919, manufactured and shipped, or caused to be manufactured and shipped an inferior grade of cigarettes packaged in ordinary, cheap white boxes having the word "BEECH-NUT" printed in black letters on the face thereof, and also bearing in plain black letters the name of plaintiff, and that the cigarettes so packaged were shipped into the District of New Jersey, and at-
47 tempted to be sold therein; that these cigarettes packaged as aforesaid did not bear plaintiff's alleged label, or a substantial likeness thereof, (Exhibit No. 1, of the bill of complaint) but such cigarettes packaged as aforesaid presented such a cheap, unattractive appearance, that, if permitted to be sold would and will operate to the injury and damage of defendant's reputation, particularly with relation to its Beech-Nut tobacco products.

That in further pursuance of its unlawful policy aforesaid this plaintilff, with full knowledge of defendant's prior adoption and use of the word "BEECH-NUT" as a trade mark for tobacco products, and its exclusive right 48 thereto, and, as defendant now states on information and belief, for the purpose of injuring and harrassing the defendant in its business of manufacturing and selling Beech-Nut tobacco products, this plaintiff filed in the United States Patent Office, on or about June 25th, 1919, an application for the registration of the trade mark "BEECH-NUT", for Cigarettes, in the Class of Tobacco Products; that said defendant, in order to preserve its rights in the premises, and to prevent the registration of said trade mark by the plaintiff, filed opposition proceedings in the United States Patent Office against plaintiff's application for registration of this trade mark for tobacco products; that thereafter plaintiff filed an answer to defendant's notice of opposition in the United States Patent Office; testimony was taken by the parties, all as will appear from the record of this trade mark opposition in the United States Patent Office, entitled—P. Lorillard Company v. Beech-Nut Packing Company, No. 2805. 49

22. Defendant further says that the foregoing acts, threats and intention of the plaintiff in disregard and defiance of defendant rights in the premises have the effect to and will encourage and induce others to interfere with defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco products and to disregard defendant's rights therein, and will furthermore result in irreparable damage, injury and loss to defendant. 50

AND, forasmuch as the defendant can have no adequate relief except in this Court, it is prayed that your Honor grant to the defendant a writ of injunction, as well provisional as permanent, issuing out of and under the seal of this Honorable Court, commanding, enjoining and restraining the said plaintiff, its officers, servants, agents, attorneys and workmen, and each and every of them, from infringing upon or theatening to infringe upon, and from making or selling, or causing to be made or sold tobacco products, in violation of defendant's trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for such products. 51

Amendment to Answer.

And now comes P. Lorillard Company, the defendant in the above-entitled cause and amends its answer to plaintiff's Bill of Complaint by inserting the following paragraph after Paragraph 19 of the original answer, and just before defendant's Prayer beginning with the words, "WHEREFORE, this defendant, P. Lorillard Company,":

19a. Defendant further says that in the trade mark opposition proceedings in the United States Patent Office, entitled P. Lorillard Company vs. Beech-Nut Packing Company, No. 2805, and wherein the present defendant, P. Lorillard Company opposed the registration of the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for tobacco, by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the plaintiff herein, and which opposition proceedings are more fully referred to and set forth in Paragraph 21 of the Counterclaim of the original answer, and following the taking and filing of testimony with exhibits on the part of both parties to said Patent Office Opposition proceedings, and in due course, a final hearing was had in said Opposition proceedings before the Honorable Examiner of Trade Mark

58 Interferences in the United States Patent Office, upon full pleadings and proofs and presentation by complete oral arguments by Counsel for both parties, and that thereafter, to wit, on or about the 8th day of October, 1921, the said Honorable Examiner of Trade Mark Interferences rendered his decision in a lengthy written opinion, sustaining the opposition of P. Lorillard Company to the registration of the word "BEECH-NUT" as a trade mark for Tobacco Products by Beech-Nut Packing Company, and holding that inasmuch as Tobacco Products were goods of different descriptive properties from food products and chewing gum, and as P. Lorillard
59 Company, the present defendant, had adopted and used said trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for Tobacco Products prior to any adoption and use of said trade mark for Tobacco Products by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the present plaintiff, the said Beech-Nut Packing Company was not entitled to said trade mark for Tobacco Products.

That thereafter, in said Patent Office Opposition proceedings, an appeal was taken by Applicant, the present plaintiff, Beech-Nut Packing Company, from this adverse decision of the Honorable Examiner of Trade Mark Interferences, to the Honorable Commissioner of Pat-60 ents, and full hearing was had upon the complete appeal record, and briefs were filed, and lengthy oral argument had by Counsel for both parties, and that thereafter, in due course, to wit, on or about the 18th day of January, 1922, the Honorable Commissioner of Patents rendered his decision affirming the decision of the Honorable Examiner of Trade Mark Interferences, and holding that the Applicant, the present plaintiff, Beech-Nut Packing Company, was not entitled to the registration of the trade mark "BEECH-NUT" for Tobacco Products.

That following this decision of the Honorable Commissioner of Patents, affirming the decision of the Honorable Examiner of Trade Mark Interferences, the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the Applicant and present plaintiff, failed to avail itself of its right of appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, and failed to so appeal, and that the adjudication of the Patent Office became final as between the parties as to the subject matter involved, and the failure on the part of the present plaintiff to appeal said Opposition proceedings as aforesaid, is, and does constitute, an acknowledgment of such final adjudication, and plaintiff is estopped in this and any other similar proceedings from claiming and from obtaining any relief whatsoever against this defendant, P. Lorillard Company, in the premises. 61 62

Order appertioning times for taking depositions and omitting case from calendar until completion of depositions. 74

On the joint motion of Sebastian Hinton, Esq., Counsel for Plaintiff, and Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., Counsel for defendant, and upon consideration of the joint affidavit of the said Sebasian Hinton, Esq. and Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., it is ordered as follows:

1. That the plaintiff herein have until February 15, 1922 wherein to complete the taking of prima facie depositions in its behalf, unless this time be further extended by stipulation or order of Court;

2. That the defendant herein have ninety (90) days after the completion of plaintiff's prima facie depositions, wherein to take depositions in its, defendant's behalf, unless this time be further extended by stipulation or order of Court;

3. That the plaintiff have twenty (20) days after the completion of the taking of defendant's depositions, for the taking of such rebuttal depositions, as it, the plaintiff, may desire, unless this time be further extended by stipulation or order of Court;

Joint affidavit of Sebastian Hinton, Esq., of Counsel for plaintiff and Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Counsel for defendant. 80

State of New York, }
County of New York, } ss.:

SEBASTIAN HINTON and RICHARD B. CAVANAGH, both being duly sworn, depose and say, that they are respectively of counsel for plaintiff and defendant in this case.

DEPONENTS both further say that the Answer in this case was filed on or about August 13, 1921;

That the case is a large and important trade mark case and is such as to necessitate the taking of numerous depositions throughout the United States.

Plaintiff beginning August 16, 1921, has taken by deposition the testimony of considerably more than one hundred (100) witnesses in various towns and cities in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Illinois, Wisconsin and Ohio. The character of the case, however, is such that in spite of the numerous depositions taken, and the diligence exercised by the plaintiff, the said plaintiff has not as yet been able to complete the taking of all prima facie depositions at the date of the making of this joint affidavit and deems it advisable to take other depositions at such remote places as Oklahoma, South Carolina, etc.

82 Upon the completion of the taking of plaintiff's prima facie depositions, defendant desires and intends to take numerous depositions in support of its case, said depositions being of witnesses residing more than one hundred (100) miles from place of trial, or in various parts of the country, and as necessary in the taking of such depositions it is expected it will consume several months, but the taking of the depositions on the part of the defendant, and the completion of defendant's prima facie depositions will be speeded to the utmost under the circumstances.

Affiants, counsel for both parties, appreciating the im-
83 portance of the case and the enormous amount of work necessarily involved in the taking of the depositions, have, therefore, respectfully joined in the accompanying motion relative to times for taking depositions, and for omitting the case from the January, 1922 term of this Court.

Stipulation re depositions.

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the parties to the above-entitled cause, as follows:

(1) That the defendant herein, P. Lorillard Company, shall have to and including August 22nd, 1923, wherein to complete the taking of depositions, de bene esse, or under the Statutes, in its behalf, unless this time be further extended by stipulation or order obtained from the Court.

(2) That after the completion of the time set for the taking of defendant's depositions as above set forth, plaintiff shall have to and including September 1st, 1923, within which to notify defendant of plaintiff's purpose to take rebuttal depositions, de bene esse, or under the Statutes, that is, out of Court, and should plaintiff desire to take such rebuttal depositions it shall have a reasonable time within which to do so, to be agreed between the parties. In case plaintiff elects not to take rebuttal depositions, or in case plaintiff completes the taking of such rebuttal depositions by September 15, 1923, the cause may be

The remaining three columns of the chart, bearing the captions, "Reg. Line", "Gum" and "Comp. Tab. Misc. Conf. Bev.", indicate how the total figures or amounts shown in the "Total Sales" column are divided amongst various items of Plaintiff's sales business. For example, in the year of 1921 the total sales were $12,109,573.68, this sum or amount being made up or composed of $4,618,207.28, sales in Regular Line;

100 $6,281,945.41, sales in Gum; and $1,209,420.99, sales in Compound Tablets, Miscellaneous Confectionery and Beverages, etc. It is further stipulated that the figures or sums herein given also include goods which have been returned by dealers in course of business. This item (returned goods) amounted to .0043 of the total in the year 1920 and was the highest it has ever been in that year.

Plaintiff, upon request of Defendant, explains the falling off in total business in 1918, and of the Gum business 1918-1919 as follows:

The reasons for the falling off in sales of Gum 1918-
101 1919 (which caused the falling off in the total sales in 1918, shown by the figures) were as follows:

1. Plaintiff was unable to secure prime chicle in these years in sufficient quantities to meet the demand for its gum.

2. Plaintiff was restricted by the Government in the quantity of sugar it could obtain.

During the greater portion of 1918-1919 Plaintiff was allotting gum shipments on the basis of one-half to one-third of the amount ordered and turning away a large amount of business in gum, etc. Gum 102 production did not meet the demand until well along in 1921.

It is further stipulated by the parties that the furnishing of this "Table of Sales Statistics" by the Plaintiff to the Defendant may be considered as a compliance with requests of Defendant's counsel for data along this line made during the examination of Christina Carswell, statistical manager of Plaintiff, and the production of said Christina Carswell and the witness Francis E. Barbour for further examination as to statistics of the business of the Plain- 103 tiff is waived.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES,

DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company
In Equity No. 3056.

DEPOSITIONS taken in behalf of P. Lorillard Co., defendant, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before Daniel T. O'Connell, a notary public within and 107 for the County of Suffolk, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, acting as special examiner by consent of counsel, at the office of said Daniel T. O'Connell, Room 401, Exchange Building, 53 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts; also at Lynn, Salem and Lawrence, Massachusetts, beginning the 8th day of August, A. D., 1922, at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Present:

SEBASTIAN HINTON, of OFFIELD, POOLE, SCOTT & HINTON,
Counsel for the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

108 RICHARD B. CAVANAGH, of MEYERS, CAVANAGH & WHITEHEAD;
Counsel for P. Lorillard Co.

FERDINAND BIERINGER, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) What is your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Ferdinand Bieringer.

Q. 2. Age; how old are you? 109

A. I am 40.

Q. 3. Residence?

A. Brighton, 1697 Commonwealth Avenue.

Q. 4. And Occupation?

A. Tobacconist and cigar maker,—well, cigar maker to start with, and tobacconist afterwards.

Q. 5. How long have you been in the cigar business?

A. Ever since I was in this country; that is, about 25 years.

Q. 6. Where is your present place of business located?

A. 123-125 Court Street, but I am also with Bieringer-Hanauer Company, and some other companies. That is 110 a big concern, Bieringer-Hanauer Company.

Q. 7. Is this store on Court Street located in the business or residential section of the city?

A. Business section.

Q. 8. What kind of goods do you handle in that store?

A. Well, we carry a general line of everything; American Tobacco Company's goods; Lorillard tobaccos,—everything that people demand.

Q. 9. Do you sell anything else besides tobacco products?

A. Well, we sell, gum, a little gum; that is about everything in the candy line,—that is gum is about the 111 only thing we handle.

Q. 10. What Lorillard brands or products do you sell?

A. We carry about the general line that sells in New England. Of course they make a good many different brands that sell elsewhere, but we sell New England demands.

Q. 11. Will you name some of the brands of P. Lorillard Company tobacco that you sell?

A. Mechanic's Delight; Planet; Neptune; Good Smoke; Union Leader; Stag; Just Suits in all forms; Sensation Tobacco.

112 Q. 12. What cigarette brands of Lorillard's do you carry?

A. We carry Moguls; Murads; Egyptian Dieties; Helmars; Turkish Trophies, and Beech-Nut cigarettes, naturally.

Q. 13. Do you also carry Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. We do; yes; in a package like that one there (referring to a package of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco.)

Q. 14. What chewing gum brands do you carry?

A. Juicy Fruit; Wrigley's Spearmint, and Double Mint; and Beech-Nut,—that is about all we carry.

Q. 15. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut cigar-
113 ette and the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco,—that is, who is the manufacturer?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 16. And who, if you know, is the manufacturer of the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 17. State whether or not you were ever confused or under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette, such as the package I show you, or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, a package of which I also show you, and both of which are in this case as exhibits, were ever made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company,—were you ever con-114 fused as to who manufactured them?

A. I never was confused in my handling it. It is a different package, different altogether, entirely different. The Beech-Nut Packing Company and the name Lorillard is not confusing.

Q. 18. What manufacturer's name is on that package of cigarettes?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 19. What manufacturer's name appears on the Scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 20. I show you a box of Beech-Nut Chewing Gum.

Whose name appears on that package as the manufac- 115
turer?

A. Well, it is Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 21. Do you handle any other products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, that is all.

Q. 22. How long have you been buying and selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes.

A. Well, it must be, I should think about two years ago, two years or two years and a half. The cigarettes, you mean?

Q. 23. Yes.

A. Two years and a half,—since they were out. I 116 don't know exactly the time they were first out, but I was one of the first ones to have them.

Q. 24. How long have you been handling this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Oh, I handled that for a long time, I couldn't tell you; I guess it is 5 years. I handled Beech-Nut a long time, years ago, I couldn't exactly tell you.

Q. 25. Did you ever buy any Beech-Nut cigarette or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco believing they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 26. Did you ever sell any Beech-Nut cigarettes or 117
Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco as the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as indefinite and as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

A. No.

Q. 27. State whether or not you ever heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco products?

A. No.

118 Q. 28. State whether or not you ever knew or heard of the Lorillard Company putting out any chewing gum, or food products?

A. I never knew or heard of it.

Q. 29. State whether or not you ever heard any comment, or inquiries from customers or other people which would indicate that they thought the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the manufacturers of the chewing gum, were also the manufacturers of the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a mere con-
119 clusion of the witness.

A. No; they simply asked for what they wanted, and they didn't care who it is made by.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as a mere opinion of the witness without the slightest foundation.

Q. 30. Then I understand your answer to be that you never had anybody ask about it?

A. No.

Q. 31. State whether or not you ever had any cus-
120 tomer, in making a purchase, ask you for Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 32. State whether or not you ever had any conversation with any representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company in connection with the present case, and, if so, state it in your own words?

A. There was a man there about a year ago,—of course he didn't give me his name,—and he was inquiring about how the Beech-Nut cigarettes were selling, and afterwards he told me that he was interested in the Beech-Nut gum, and asked me if I thought that the Beech-

Nut gum is made by them that put out the Beech-Nut 121 cigarette. I told him by all means no, and also I should think if the cigarette is out, it ought to help the sale of Beech-Nut gum, and that that company should pay P. Lorillard so much for using it on the cigarette. That is what I told that man, so he was not there very long, and he walked out.

Q. 33. How long ago was this?

A. That was about a year ago, I can't remember the exact time, but it was about a year ago.

Q. 34. Where did this talk take place?

A. 123-125 Court Street.

Q. 35. What is the reputation of the P. Lorillard Co. 122 in the tobacco business, if you know?

A. Well, the best cigarette manufacturers,—they make the best cigarettes and tobacco; they are the oldest concern, and they have no other than the best cigarette and tobacco manufactured all over the country.

Q. 36. State whether or not you ever saw, bought or sold a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes which did not have the name "P. Lorillard Co." on it?

A. The package is always the same; they make it just the same as they ever did with "P. Lorillard Co." on it.

Q. 37. And it is just the same as the package with "P. Lorillard Co." on it in your hand? 123

A. Yes; and they advertise in the paper always P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 38. State whether or not you ever bought or sold or saw a package of the Lorillard Company that did not have on the package, "P. Lorillard Co."

A. It is the same upon this here now. There was never any change.

Q. 39. State whether or not you would have any difficulty in distinguishing the appearance of the packages, or wrappers, of the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut tobacco from Beech-Nut chewing gum box and package?

124 A. No. I can't see how anybody can make a mistake. Of course it is a different sort of package and label, a different sign. If a man comes in and asks for a package of gum, he wants gum, and he won't go out of the store until he gets the gum; and if he wants cigarettes, he won't go out until he gets the cigarettes. So I don't think there is any confusion there.

Q. 40. What would be your opinion of a customer that came into your store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, and took a package of cigarettes, or a package of Scrap tobacco in place of the gum?

A. I don't see how he could do that. If he wants gum,
125 he wants gum. It has no relation, one with the other. I don't see how a man could make such a mistake. If I go into a store and I want a certain thing, I am going to buy just what I want. Of course there is a difference in them, one is confectionery and the other is tobacco.

Q. 41. In what manner, if you know, does the P. Lorillard Co. advertise its Beech-Nut cigarettes and Scrap tobacco, and to what extent?

A. Well, they advertise mostly in magazines and newspapers; the Beech-Nut cigarettes are advertised in newspapers mostly, and also in some magazines.

Q. 42. Have you seen such advertisements of P. Lor-
126 illard Co. of such products?

A. Yes; they have their name on every package that they put out.

Q. 43. Do you have any difficulty in reading the name "P. Lorillard Co." through the glazed tissue paper on the cigarettes,—the cigarette packages?

A. No. It is a thin paper put on to keep out the air; it is silk paper and you can see the name,—you can see the name P. Lorillard Co. and also on here (indicating Scrap tobacco package.)

Q. 44. Would you have any difficulty in reading the name on the package through a window glass from the street?

A. No; I could see it plainly. 127

Q. 45. State whether or not you ever handled or sold any product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the gum manufacturers, which resembled in color and appearance this package of Lorillard cigarettes or this package of Lorillard Scrap tobacco?

A. No; the only thing I handle is the gum.

Q. 46. Can you state whether or not it is common practice in business to mark goods with the word "Quality", or similar expressions, indicating quality?

A. Yes, they sometimes put on "Quality" "Blend," etc.

Q. 47. Referring to this exhibit package of Beech- 128
Nut cigarettes of P. Lorillard Co., where the words "Perfect Quality" appear upon the panel on one side, whose name is used in conjunction with that expression?

A. P. Lorillard Co. They do that to tell you who it is made by, and things like that; it is a natural way of advertising and telling what is inside.

Q. 48. State whether or not you regard tobacco products, such as cigarettes or Scrap tobacco, to be of the same, or of a different class of goods from confectionery, food products and beverages?

A. There is a difference, yes.

Q. 49. Do you regard them as a different class of mer- 129 chandise?

A. A different class of merchandise altogether. One has nothing to do with the other.

Q. 50. How long have you known of the P. Lorillard Co., the tobacco manufacturers?

A. Myself, 25 years.

Q. 51. What class of customers do you handle, and about how many a day in your store?

A. The middle class, and, well, we handle on an average about 600 or 700 customers a day.

Q. 52. And, as I understand your testimony, you never had any of these customers or any of your cus-

130 tomers make any comments or remarks which would lead you to believe that they thought the Beech-Nut cigarette or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like these exhibit packages, were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. No.

Q. 53. When you had this conversation with the man who said he was from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, state whether or not he asked you if there would be any confusion, or you had any customers that were confused in regard to it?

A. He didn't ask me any more questions after I told 131 him that he should pay Lorillard Company a certain sum for using their names on the cigarette, so he walked out.

Q. 54. Why did you tell him that?

A. Because I thought it was a good thing for them; it is a good thing for the Beech-Nut Packing Company for someone else to use the same thing on cigarettes; it advertises the brand and makes their product sell so much quicker. Of course one has nothing to do with the other. That is the way I figure it out, and of course that is my belief. Of course Lorillard Company, they could make it any brand; if they would use some name
132 other than Beech-Nut, they would get along just the same, they would sell that brand just the same, because their tobacco is known, and they could sell it under any brand.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Bieringer, you have a store at 125 Court Street, Boston?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 2. And you are also in the Bieringer-Hanauer Co.? 133

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 3. What does Bieringer-Hanauer do?

A. They are manufacturers' agents; they are selling agents.

X-Q. 4. Of tobacco products.

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 5. Do they put any private brand on tobacco and cigars?

A. Private brands, no; sometimes we do, but as a rule they are general brands.

X-Q. 6. Do you have them manufactured by tobacco manufacturers? 134

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 7. And supplied to you with their label on them?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 8. Now, you sell the Beech-Nut gum?

A. We do.

X-Q. 9. You don't sell much of that?

A. Well, we sell fair, not much, not so much as other gum.

X-Q. 10. Did you ever make a display in your window of Beech-Nut gum?

A. We did.

X-Q. 11. Did you ever make a display in your window of Beech-Nut cigarettes? 135

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 12. And Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 13. When was that?

A. At the beginning. when the Beech-Nut cigarette came out, It was my idea; I made a display in the window, and put in everything in the brand of Beech-Nut; I put it in the window just to make a display, that is all; it was an idea of my own. If I had had more brands, I would have put in more; I made a regular Beech-Nut 136 display. I never believe in putting only one item in the window, I always like to put in many different items, because it brings me business. The more items you have in a window, the more business you get. This is my own idea.

X-Q. 15. Then you subsequently took the Beech-Nut gum out of the window, did you not?

A. No; I didn't take it out of the window; I left it in there.

X-Q. 16. Didn't you shortly after you put that display of Beech-Nut gum, and Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco in your window, remove the gum?

137 A. Well, sometimes we take out the tobacco; we might have taken it out, because sometimes we are short of gum and we take it out of the window, but for no other reason.

X-Q. 17. I am asking for the fact?

A. I don't remember taking any of the stuff out of the window.

X-Q. 18. Of course that was about a year ago, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. I wish you would study that over in your mind for a minute and see if you can't remember whether 138 a Lorillard man came around to your place of business and asked you to take that gum out of the window?

A. He might have, I wouldn't say. He might have come in and the clerk might have taken it out.

X-Q. 20. Wait a minute. Will you try and think of it.

A. I left the cigarettes and the gum in there, I think, until I cleaned out the window again.

X-Q. 21. That is your present recollection of it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 22. Did you tell me last spring, Mr. Bieringer,—do you remember meeting me last spring?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. Did you tell me then that you had the gum and the cigarettes and the scrap tobacco in the window? 139

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q.24. And that you took the gum out; do you remember that now?

A. It might be, I am not sure.

X-Q. 25. And do you remember that you told me that the Lorillard man came around and told you that there was going to be some trouble?

A. Well, that might be; I suppose I got some letter from them, probably telling one of the clerks to take it out.

X-Q. 26. Weren't you told that while that trouble was going on you better take the gum out? 140

A. They might have, I am not sure.

X-Q. 27. Now, Mr. Bieringer, you say you put this Beech-Nut set of brands in the window together,—

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. —in order to make a regular Beech-Nut display?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. And if you had had any other Beech-Nut products, for instance, the mint and hard candies, you would have put them all in there, all in one window, in one of your windows?

A. All in one of the windows. 141

X-Q. 30. In other words you would feature the Beech-Nut line. Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and Beech-Nut gum, and the purpose and idea you had in mind doing that was something like this,—

Mr. Cavanagh: Ask him what the purpose was, and don't dictate to him.

Mr. Hinton: I am entitled to ask leading questions.

Mr. Cavanagh: But you are not entitled to dictate to the witness.

Mr. Hinton: This interference with the cross examination is strenuously objected to.

142 X-Q. 31. Will you explain to me, Mr. Bieringer, what your real idea was in putting that line of Beech-Nut stuff in the window?

A. It was just an idea of my own, to make a Beech-Nut display. I don't know anything about the insides of the concern. I just put it in on my own idea, that is all. In fact, I made that window display on my own ideas; I was not asked to do it, I just done it myself.

X-Q. 32. Yes, but why did you have all the Beech-Nut stuff in the window?

A. Just the idea to have a Beech-Nut display. If I had had more Beech-Nut brands, I would have put them
143 in. The more you put in of the different kinds, the more business you get. Some people don't smoke cigarettes, some people chew tobacco, and some chew gum, and if they saw it all in the window they would come in and buy it, whatever they wanted.

X-Q. 34. Is that the idea?

A. If he wants gum he buys gum, and if he wants cigarettes he buys cigarettes.

X-Q. 35. Yes, I appreciate that perfectly, but if a man had established a liking for Beech-Nut gum and then he wanted cigarettes, and he saw them displayed in that way in your window, he would be apt to give the cigarettes a 144 trial, would he not?

A. Not always. Every man may possibly like, not the cigarette, but a different cigarette, and they are not going to buy what they don't want. Not everybody buys Beech-Nut cigarettes. Lots buy other cigarettes. But a person looks in the window and perhaps he buys Beech-Nut cigarettes, and perhaps he buys some other brand.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as evasive and argumentative.

X-Q. 36. Mr. Bieringer, now you have testified in your direct examination twice that you told a Beech-Nut representative that the Beech-Nut Company ought to pay the Lorillard Company for putting its name on the cigarettes. 145

A. I really believe so, because the Beech-Nut gum is benefiting by it.

X-Q. 37. The Beech-Nut gum is benefiting by having the cigarettes on the market?

A. By having that Beech-Nut name, yes.

X-Q. 38. You have found that they are sufficiently connected together so that the advertising of one helps the advertising of the other?

A. It is my belief that so long as it is a good article, a good merchandise,—and P. Lorillard Co. only puts out good merchandise, and it is no disgrace to the Beech-Nut gum, you see, because it is a very good thing, and the more brands of different kinds of merchandise, the better. Of course I don't figure candy and gum the same, it is a different merchandise, so you see I think it helps the Beech-Nut goods; tobacco, it is different goods. Gum is gum and candy is candy, and cigarettes are cigarettes, and then goods all together help each other. 146

X-Q. 39. Going back to the point on which we were talking, I understand that you find that the advertising and sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes reacts on the gum, helps the gum?

A. It helps the gum; yes. 147

X-Q. 40. They are sufficiently connected together so one has an effect on the other?

A. That is, having that name in your mind all the time, "Beech-Nut" the more you see that in your mind, the more popular it gets, and it is very easy to think of it; and Lorillard makes good merchandise, as everybody knows. Lorillard stands for quality all the time,—your money back, if you want it. They always stand by their goods that they put out.

X-Q. 41. And because the cigarettes are good merchandise, as you say, it helps the gum?

148 A. Yes; if it was poor merchandise I would say different, I would say it spoils their name of Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 42. And hurts the sale of the gum?

A. It might hurt the sale, probably, but when they put out good merchandise, it helps.

X-Q. 43. Yes, I think I understand your meaning, Mr. Bieringer. Now, that was somewhat the theory that you had in mind, Mr. Bieringer, when you made this display window of Beech-Nut items, when you put the different Beech-Nut items in the window, that they helped each other?

A. Yes, that they helped each other. Of course any-149 thing I put in the window, it sells. I never take one item and make a display of it, because it is expensive for the store. Everybody smokes cigarettes, and if a man smokes cigarettes, of course I want him to smoke cigars, and when something is put in the window to interest everybody who goes by, they are very apt to step in and buy something.

X-Q. 44. And it is a very nice and effective thing to do, to put all those items bearing that name of "Beech-Nut" in together, as you have said?

A. Well, it was my idea exclusively, nobody elses.

X-Q. 45. Now, after talking with me for a few minutes
150 about this, Mr. Bieringer, and having recollected the situation enough at least to know that it was your idea exclusively, I wish you would try to remember again whether you did not take that Beech-Nut gum out of the window because you were told by a Lorillard man that there was some trouble brewing, and until that was over you had better take the gum out of the window?

A. It might have been; it might have been one of my clerks took it out, but, as a rule I don't take out anything out of the window until we clean the window out. I think I left it in there for a week or more. But if they had asked me, I had just as soon do it. Nobody is looking for any trouble. We are putting gum right along in the window; we are always putting gum in the window. 151

X-Q. 46. Now, Mr. Bieringer, I wish you would try to remember back, as well as you can, to last spring when this was going on that we have just been talking about, and you had this display in the window, are you sure that while that display was in the window you didn't have any comments or hear any remarks about it from your customers?

A. No, not a single word.

X-Q. 47. You don't remember any at the present time?

A. No; that is positive, not a single thing, that is sure. They don't seem to care, they don't ask any questions; 152 if a man wants cigarettes he buys cigarettes, and if he wants gum, he don't care who it is made by, so long as it is good merchandise, and he buys it.

X-Q. 48. They don't come in and stand and have any talk with you about it at any time?

A. No, the customer don't care to know about it; all he knows, if it is good goods, he buys it; they never care who makes it.

Mr. Hinton: The part of the answer stating that the public does not care about who makes it is objected to as volunteered and as the mere opinion of the witness. 153

Mr. Cavanagh: In this connection it appears that Mr. Hinton is exceedingly desirous to have the witness' opinion on any subject which he thinks might be of benefit to himself.

X-Q. 49. Now, you said in your direct examination, Mr. Bieringer, that the Lorillard Company's tobacco is known, and that you are selling their tobacco. You mean you are selling it to the retail customer, or to the dealer?

A. To the people,—they can sell to the dealer or to 154 the consumer. Any amount they put out, they can sell it always successfully, any brand they put out.

X-Q. 50. Well, you think the customer does not care, then, who makes the stuff that he buys?

A. Well, they don't care so long as it is a good article. P. Lorillard Co. they always make good goods. You see that is half the battle,—that is the battle. It is the merchandise. You can't go to work and put out a brand, and if it is not good goods, it won't sell.

X-Q. 51. And it doesn't make any difference to the customer who makes it?

A. No; so the question is, is it going to sell? And 155 Lorillard makes good goods all the time.

X-Q. 52. And Beech-Nut brand on the cigarettes is not a help in the sale of them, so long as Lorillard puts them out?

A. They could go to work and pick out another brand than "Beech-Nut" because it might sell better. It is the merchandise, the tobacco that is in it. It is not the name of the cigarette that is selling the goods. It is the quality that sells the goods, it is not the name.

X-Q. 53. The name does not make any difference?

A. No difference. If you turn out Beech-Nut cigarettes in poor quality, you can't sell your brand,—you 156 can kill your brand over night, just one lot of poor goods, just one little lot, that spoils the whole lot, and it will take ten years to get it back again on the market.

X-Q. 54. In other words, if the name "Beech-Nut" stands for quality goods in the minds of the public, and the consumer should buy just one or two items with that name on that he didn't like it would hurt the business very much?

A. Well, the Beech-Nut, if it is very poor quality goods, it is not very good for the goods.

X-Q. 55. It would hurt the whole thing, the gum business and all the other business?

A. Yes; but Lorillard always produces the best, whatever they have. The name "P. Lorillard Co." means 157 guaranteed good quality at all times or your money back, if you want it. If I go to work and have cigarettes and they are not in good condition, they are glad to take the goods back and give me what I want. They don't want to have any customer getting old stuff, so their goods is always of the right kind. The same thing would happen with gum also. When gum gets old, gets stale, it is no good. Beech-Nut gum, when it gets old—I never tried it—but when it gets old it is never any good either.

X-Q. 56. Well now, Mr. Bieringer, just one more question: When you put that display in the window that you 158 told us about this morning, was that when you first got the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes; that was my own idea.

X-Q. 57. And that is why you put it in the window?

A. That was my own idea, because I liked to do business with Lorillard, because they are fair in their methods; whatever they promise you, they do, and that is what all concerns will not do. I would do more for them than anybody else, because they are more fair than any other concern, and that is why I do all I can for them at all times, because they are fair in every way.

X-Q. 58. You are a great admirer of Lorillard Com- 159
pany?

A. I am, because they are very fair and square,—that is the reason. Also The American Tobacco Company is very fair but Lorillard is really the best of all concerns.

X-Q. 59. Are you acquainted with Mr. Belt, Vice President of the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes; they all come over here to see us.

X-Q. 60. Do you remember whether he came to see you last year?

A. Yes; they all come right along, all the representatives of the different companies; it is not only Lorillard, 160 but the other concerns in the same way. They want to know what is going on, especially when they put out a new piece of goods.

X-Q. 61. He is a good friend of yours?

A. No, not any more than anyone else, but I like their style of doing business, because they are doing business in a business way.

X-Q. 62. And you would not want to do anything or say anything to hurt the Lorillard Company?

A. No, but if they would do what is not right, I would just as well tell them to go to the dickens as anybody else. If anyone is fair, I am fair with them. But they 161 are always very fair.

X-Q. 63. When you made this display of this Beech-Nut gum and Beech-Nut cigarette and Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco when you first got the Beech-Nut cigarettes, did you find that cigarette sold in your store pretty well?

A. Well, they sold pretty fair, pretty well. I will tell you why they sold pretty good. They sold pretty good at that time because the Camel cigarettes, and all the other cigarettes were 18 and 20 cents a package, and Beech-Nuts were one of the first ones to come out with a price of 15 cents, and of course there was bound to be a fair marginal profit for the retailer, and of 162 course on account of that we pushed them. It was the man behind the counter that pushed the cigarettes, because there was a fair marginal profit in them. That is the reason they sold very good at that time.

Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as not responsive.

X-Q. 64. Well, there were 15 cent brands of cigarettes on the market at that time, weren't there?

A. Yes, there might have been, but they were made by small concerns; and then the friends of Lorillard

—Lorillard has a lot of friends in the business, and 163
they would do a great deal for Lorillard, while with the smaller companies they won't do it. All the brands, no matter what brand they put out, they will put themselves out of the way, and push them for the Lorillard Company because of course, they are always fair in their method of doing business.

X-Q. 65. And the Beech-Nut cigarette then went quite well from the very beginning?

A. They went very well at that time, because on account of the price, that had a great deal to do with it, the new price of 15 cents. Of course since that time the price on other cigarettes has come down and of 164 course the Beech-Nut cigarettes don't sell so well now.

X-Q. 66. They weren't any better than other 15 cent brands on the market, were they?

A. Well, they advertised them, their jobber pushed them all he could; the retailer did all he could, because he made a fair legitimate profit. They would have pushed it just the same if it had been a different name.

Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as argumentative and not responsive, and volunteered.

165

X-Q. 67. Did they go better than "111"?

A. Well, "111," they didn't work it quite as well; the American Tobacco Company didn't have as many friends as the Lorillard Company, and of course it wouldn't sell quite as well. It means the more friendship you have in the business, the better it goes.

X-Q. 68. The "111" were put out by the American Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 69. And that is a 15 cent cigarette?

A. "111" sell for 10 cents,—I think at that time it

930

166 sold for 15 cents, but they have changed the package since then, and it sells for 10 cents.

X-Q. 70. And the American Tobacco Company is a very large concern?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 71. So far as you know, it is about as large as P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes, but probably at that time I would not do as much with them—I didn't buy the goods direct, but of course that is understood—

X-Q. 72. But you found the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes went better than "111"?

167 A. Yes, because I made a display. If I didn't make a display in my window on my own account, if there didn't anything appear in the window, I don't think they would have sold so well. If I go and put Beech-Nut gum into the window, and I put in the whole window Beech-Nut gum, I am going to sell a lot of Beech-Nut gum; if it is a good article it will repeat, and if it is not, it won't repeat,—I will sell it once and never again. I can sell anything I put in the window, in a busy section of the city where I am, because the people go by and see it, and they come in and buy. If I didn't put any cigarettes in the window I would not have sold
168 so many. It was my own effort; it was my own work which helped it. It also helped the Beech-Nut gum. When I had Beech-Nut gum in the window I sold more Beech-Nut gum, because I had it in the window, it helped the Beech-Nut gum along as well.

X-Q. 73. Mr. Bieringer, just one more question: Do you know whether Scrap chewing tobacco sells well or poorly in this territory?

A. Scrap tobacco is not a big seller in this market; it sells more out West; it sells big out West, but we never sell a big amount of Scrap tobacco. Everybody keeps it, but I don't call it a fast seller. Cut Plug is the best seller in this part of the country. If I put Scrap tobacco in the window, Beech-Nut Scrap, it will sell, because there are a lot of the people who come from out West, and if they don't see it, they will buy something else, but if you put it in the window, where they can see it, it sells. I manage to put Scrap tobacco in the window always, because people from out West see it in the window and they feel at home. You can sell anything you put in the window,—the window is a great salesman. 169

X-Q. 74. And you mean it doesn't make any difference what the name is, if you put it in the window. it will sell? 170

A. As I said before, if you make your Beech-Nut gum poor, and only one lot, it will spoil it. If you make your Beech-Nut cigarettes poor, they won't sell. It is not the name. Of course, it is a good idea for a manufacturer to advertise, but that don't make the goods at all. If the goods are not good the merchandise will be killed.

X-Q. 75. Well, I suppose if you got an attractive name, you might sell the first package, or some of it, but if it was not good the customer would not buy any more of it?

A. He would not come back again. Those brands never live; they live only a short time. You see the Beech-Nut cigarette is a pretty fair seller. If it was not a good cigarette it would not sell at all, it would be dead and buried by this time; nobody would know about it no more. Poor brands, they come on the market, and they go out just as fast as they come in, if they are not good merchandise. Lorillard has been always successful in their brands; when they put out a brand and advertise you can know it is going to go. 171

X-Q. 76. Always good?

A. Always good; every brand they make is.

172 X-Q. 77. Now, your answer suggested one more thought to me. Would you consider the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarette to be their highest quality that they make?

A. It is as good as many of their other brands, as the Camel cigarette, which costs more.

X-Q. 78. Is it as good as the Egyptian Dieties?

A. I would not say that, because I never made any cigarette; but the Egyptian Dieties is a different brand, it is a Turkish tobacco, and makes a better cigarette than the other tobacco, I suppose. I would not say that is so, but I suppose it is a different tobacco, and 173 it has a market. But Beech-Nut is just like Camels, Camels is higher price, but the Beech-Nuts are just as good.

X-Q. 79. But so far as quality goes, it is higher quality, is it not?

A. I can't give you a correct answer on that; I can't tell you. I can tell you about cigars, but cigarettes, I can't tell you. The only way is to open the package by a manufacturer and he can tell you what is in the cigarette itself. I don't know.

X-Q. 80. Then you consider the Beech-Nut cigarettes the highest grade they make?

174 A. Yes.

X-Q. 81. And Beech-Nut cigarettes—

A. (Witness interrupting): Of course there is more money made on high-grade cigarettes; they spend more in advertising them, and their profit is bigger; no matter what it is, on the other grade there isn't so much profit in it. I suppose there is a bigger demand. The high priced cigarettes, you don't sell so many of them as you do of the middle priced cigarettes, because there are more poor people than rich people. A brand like Camel is a much better brand, I would say, than a brand like the Dieties, because there are more people who would smoke them; there are more middle people, 175

you know. Everybody can't afford to pay a quarter for a package of cigarettes, when they would pay 15 cents. (The witness, when answering this question, was handling a package of Egyptian Dieties).

X-Q. 82. Now, you consider the Pall Mall and the Egyptian Diety to represent a class of cigarettes sold to—

A. To the higher class people.

X-Q. 83. Sold to what?

A. To the better class of people.

X-Q. 84. At a higher price?

A. At a higher price. 176

X-Q. 85. Representing to-day probably a higher quality of goods?

A. Supposed to be. When you pay a higher price for anything you are supposed to get a better merchandise, but it may not be.

X-Q. 86. And the Beech-Nut cigarette would be a second grade?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination. 177

R-D Q. 55. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) In your last answer, will you state whether or not the Beech-Nut is second grade in price, or whether it has a standing in its line?

A. As I said before, I don't know what is in the cigarette, what it is made of, only it is a second grade price,—I would make it better that way, it is a second price.

R-D Q. 56. Will you state whether or not at the price at which it sells you would consider that it is a cigarette of quality?

178 A. It is a very good cigarette in quality at the price, as good as any, and better than most of them.

R-D Q. 57. Will you state whether or not you have ever tried to sell any Beech-Nut cigarettes, or ever did sell any Beech-Nut cigarettes on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company or the Beech-Nut gum?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

Mr. Cavanagh: Mr. Cavanagh is calling for a fact, and not any conclusion.

179 A. No, never.

R-D Q. 58. In your experience is it necessary to sell any Lorillard produce on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

R-D Q. 59. Now, in your cross-examination you were referring to some window, and the fact that you had a display of both Beech-Nut gum and Beech-Nut cigarettes in the window?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 60. Will you state whether or not any Lorillard man told you to decorate that window in that way?

180 A. No, nobody told me anything about making that display. It was my own idea. If I had expected any trouble from it, I would not have done it, because I didn't have nothing in my mind at all, just made a Beech-Nut window exclusively.

R-D Q. 61. Now, in your cross-examination, probably as a tobacco man, you have been asked considerably about our opinion as to one kind of goods helping the other. Will you state from your experience if the Beech-Nut gum was a poor quality so that the customer did not want it, but the Beech-Nut cigarette was of a good quality and in demand, would the fact that the gum was of a poor quality interfere with the sale of 181 the cigarette?

A. If the gum was of a poor quality it would spoil the sale of the cigarette, you mean?

R-D Q. 62. Yes.

A. Well, if it was a poor quailty it might spoil the name in a way,—it might do that.

R-D Q. 63. I am speaking now of Lorillard's Beech-Nut cigarette.

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 64. Whose reputation does that sell on, so far as you know?

A. It sells on the reputation of P. Lorillard Co. 182

Mr. Hinton: Objected as attempting to make the witness change his answer.

R-D Q. 64. Would you say from your experience whether or not the reputation of a tobacco manufacturer would depend upon the reputation of a bacon manufacturer, or of a chewing gum manufacturer?

A. No, it would not.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as a hypothetical question containing an assumption of facts which are 183 not sufficiently complete, and as calling for the opinion of the witness.

R-D. Q. 65. Will you state whether or not you ever had any customer order from you cigarettes in the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

R-D Q. 66. And will you state whether or not you ever sold a Beech-Nut cigarette as the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

184 Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 88. (By Mr. Hinton.) In your last answer you mean you never told any customer that the cigarettes were the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No. In fact, they didn't ask me. The customers don't ask who they were made by. They want the goods, the merchandise all the time, and you can ask customers, and I don't think they are able to tell you who they are made by.

185 Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as not responsive, and volunteered, and as a conclusion of the witness.

That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

HASKELL SHARF, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

186

Q. 1. (By Mr. Cavanagh) What is your name, age, residence, and occupation?

A. Haskell Sharf.

Q. 2. Your age?

A. 38.

Q. 3. Your residence?

A. 183 Walnut Street, Chelsea.

Q. 4. And your occupation?

A. Manager cigar store.

Q. 5. Where is this cigar store located?

A. It is 253 Atlantic avenue.

Q. 6. Boston? 187

A. Boston, yes.

Q. 7. What kind of goods do you sell in this store?

A. We sell all the popular brands.

Q. 8. Of what?

A. Of cigarettes and tobacco and cigars.

Q. 9. Do you sell any confections?

A. Yes; confections.

Q. 10. What kind?

A. Candy, chewing gum, tonic, besides cigars, cigarettes and tobacco.

Q. 11. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Co., tobacco manufacturers? 188

A. Oh, sure, since I went in business.

Q. 12. How long have you known of them?

A. I have known them for over six years,—since I have been in that place.

Q. 13. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like these two packages I show you and which are exhibits in this case?

A. Yes, sir, I sell them.

Q. 14. Do you sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum like this package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. Who, if you know, is the manufacturer of Beech-Nut cigarettes and Scrap tobacco? 189

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 17. Who, if you know, is the manufacturer of the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Well, I never knew; I used to buy it direct from the candy man, see; I never interested myself to know who was making it. Of course I knew it was not P. Lorillard Co.,—it was a name which was strange. I don't sell much of that Beech-Nut gum, and I was not buying much of it, so it didn't interest me,—I used to get it from the candy man.

190 Q. 18. You recognize the package of Beech-Nut chewing gum when you see it, don't you?

A. Oh, sure.

Q. 19. State whether or not you were ever confused or deceived into believing that P. Lorillard Co., the tobacco manufacturers, were also manufacturers of the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. No, sir, of course not. I always know that, that they were different manufacturers from the cigarette; that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 20. Whose name appears on the packages of Beech-
191 Nut cigarettes?

A. P. Lorillard Co. with a revenue stamp on it, which the Beech-Nut gum has not got.

Q. 21. State whether or not you ever heard any comment or inquiries or remarks from customers which would lead you to believe that they thought that the manufacturer of the Beech-Nut chewing gum was also the manufacturer of the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. I never heard anybody come in and put up the question, or ask if they were made by the same people. They see the Beech-Nut cigarette advertised before they 192 come to get it, see the name on it, P. Lorillard Co., that make all the B. L. tobacco, and all the Scrap tobacco, and that sort of thing, and they know just as well as I did who was making it, because they always saw it advertised on the posters in the window, see,—Beech-Nut cigarettes, made by P. Lorillard, so you see they saw it before they came into the place. Their question was answered in the window on the posters.

Mr. Hinton: All of the answer after the first sentence objected to as a mere opinion and conclusion of the witness offered without the slightest foundation.

Q. 22. As I understand you, the name P. Lorillard Co. 193 appeared on the advertisement and on the packages themselves?

A. Yes; on the package, yes.

Q. 23. Did you ever buy or sell a package of Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarettes, or a package of the Lorillard Scrap tobacco under the impression or representation that it was a product of the Beech-Nut gum people?

A. No, sir.

Q. 24. State whether or not you ever heard any customer ask in your store or elsewhere for a package of cigarettes, Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, made by the same people that make the gum? 194

A. I have not heard it, no.

Q. 25. Do you have any difficulty in reading the name "P. Lorillard Co." through this glazed paper wrapper?

A. No; I could see it very plain, because we handle so many of them we know exactly who makes them. It would never enter my mind that that was made by any other concern than P. Lorillard.

Q. 26. State whether or not it is the practice in the tobacco business to wrap cigarette packages in transparent paper?

A. Yes, most all of them in the last three years.

Q. 27. State whether or not you ever knew the manu- 195
facturer of the gum to put out any tobacco products?

A. No.

Q. 28. Did you ever know or hear of P. Lorillard Co. putting out food products, or chewing gum?

A. No.

Q. 29. State whether or not you regard tobacco as the same or a different class of goods from confections, chewing gum, beverages and food products?

A. I consider it is a different product, sure.

Q. 30. Would you ever confuse a package of this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, or a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes of the Lorillard Company with a package 196 or box of the Beech-Nut chewing gum, such as is before you here?

A. No, sir.

Q. 31. Why not; what is the reason for your answer?

A. Well, they always come in and ask for Beech-Nut cigarettes, see? if he wants gum he says, "Beech-Nut gum", or "Beech-Nut cigarettes", if he wants them.

Q. 32. A man, if he came into your place and wanted a package of chewing gum, and took a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes or a package of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco in place thereof, what would your opinion of him be?

A. You mean—

197 Q. 33. If a man came in and wanted a package of chewing gum, and he walked out with cigarettes, or a package of the Scrap tobacco, what would you think of him?

A. Well, I would consider him as not being awake, or being crazy. If he wanted cigarettes he would not accept gum, or if he wanted gum he would not accept Beech-Nut cigarettes,—that is out of the question.

Q. 34. State whether or not you have any difficulty in distinguishing the appearance of the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco package and the Beech-Nut cigarette package from the gum package?

198 A. Well, there is a difference in appearance, and that trade-mark,—they have the "Beech-Nut Cigarette", and "Beech-Nut Scrap" different from the Beech-Nut gum,—you can easily see the difference.

Q. 35. You can readily discern the difference in the appearance of the packages?

A. Oh, sure.

Q. 36. Did you ever know of the Beech-Nut gum manufacturers putting out a package of goods resembling in appearance this package of Scrap tobacco of Lorillard's?

A. No.

Q. 37. Did you ever hear or know of them putting out a package of goods resembling the Scrap tobacco package? 199

A. No.

Q. 38. What is the reputation of the P. Lorillard Co. in the tobacco business, so far as you know?

A. Well, the majority claim it is a high grade tobacco that they are putting out. They established their name by that; that is what makes them sell their brands, it has been so many years in the market. In order to work up a name, I suppose they had to put in high grade tobacco.

Q. 39. State whether or not any representative of P. Lorillard Co., or any jobber or wholesaler, from whom you purchase the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco ever represented to you that these were products of the same people who made the gum? 200

A. No; never did.

Q. 40. State whether or not in your experience it is the practice in the trade to use the word "Quality" or some similar expression to indicate a high grade of goods?

A. The word "Quality" is used.

Q. 41. On this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, I call your attention to the words "Perfect Quality". Whose name appears in conjunction with that statement?

A. P. Lorillard Co. 201

Q. 42. What class of customers do you handle in your store?

A. Well, different kinds; we have a good many of the laboring class.

Q. 43. About how many a day, approximately?

A. Well, about 200 or 300 customers.

Q. 44. Two or three hundred?

A. Yes.

Q. 45. Did you ever know of any of these customers being confused, or under the impression that the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, or the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut gum people?

202 Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a mere conclusion and opinion of the witness and answer based on hearsay.

A. No; never have.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton) How many people work in the cigar store that you are manager of, Mr. Sharf?

A. I am there alone.

203 X-Q. 2. You are there alone?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 3. You manage it yourself, then?

A. Yes; I manage it myself.

X-Q. 4. Now, do you ever have people come in your store and ask for just "Beech-Nut" without specifying whether they want the gum or cigarettes?

A. No,—no.

X-Q. 5. You don't remember that?

A. I don't remember that, no.

X-Q. 6. When you put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you remember how you came to put them in? In 204 other words, did a Lorillard man or a jobber, come around to you and tell you that they were coming out with this brand of cigarettes?

A. Yes; I had the Lorillard man around telling me,—taking my orders.

X-Q. 7. Telling you you ought to take them,—ought to carry them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 8. And you knew they were a Lorillard product before you ever put them in?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 9. Now, you say you don't remember having heard any customer make any comments, remarks or in- 205 quiries about these Beech-Nut cigarettes, and who they were made by?

A. No; I have not had that.

X-Q. 10. You don't remember any such remarks or inquiries?

A. I don't remember any, no.

X-Q. 11. Were you trying at the time, we will say a year ago, to remember,—or were you asked to make a note of, or remember any such remarks that you might hear?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. You never paid any particular attention to 206 that; you would not pay any particular attention to that, would you?

A. No, it never came to my mind.

X-Q. 13. I suppose waiting on a great many people every day, you hear a lot of things that you don't remember?

A. Yes; don't remember, sure.

X-Q. 14. And you might have heard such remarks and forgotten them, of course?

A. I might have, but I don't remember any.

X-Q. 15. You don't think you did?

A. I don't think I did; no. 207

X-Q. 16. In the ordinary case a man who is buying Camel cigarettes, for instance, comes in and says, "Give me a package of Camels" and puts down his money and takes the goods and walks out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. And he don't discuss with you who made them?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. And you can't tell by looking at his face when he walks in, or by looking at the back of his head when he walks out, what he thinks about that?

A. No.

208 X-Q. 19. And nobody ever told you about these Beech-Nut cigarettes, who they were made by,—none of your customers ever said anything like that to you?

A. Well, most of them knew, I suppose.

X-Q. 20. Did they tell you?

A. Well, some of them that come in, yes, I suppose they know, because most of them that use regularly tobacco, some of them knows just exactly who makes them.

X-Q. 21. Do they tell you that?

A. Sometimes they do.

X-Q. 22. How many have you had tell you that?

A. Oh, very few.

209 X-Q. 23. Well, how many?

A. I couldn't tell you exactly, just a few.

X-Q. 24. Five?

A. Five, probably, something like that.

X-Q. 25. Then five people told you they knew who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, there is no question but certain of them do; they seem to know that they are made by P. Lorillard. Sometimes they come in and ask, Is it the very same—are these Beech-Nuts, naming not only the signatures but the brand, the very same made by, as the others,—he says the name, Beech-Nut cigarettes.

210 X-Q. 26. Some of them name the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes; it seems to me they know who made them.

X-Q. 27. Well, I want to know what they said?

A. Well, the question is whether they were made by P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 28. They said so?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 29. They said the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. About five people would come into your store, and they said that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made 211

by P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I couldn't say four or five, but some.

X-Q. 31. They came in and said that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I can't say exactly whether it is so or not, but I think I heard it.

X-Q. 32. Who started the conversation, did they start the conversation?

A. Did they start it? Yes.

X-Q. 33. They would come up and say, "Beech-Nut cigarettes are made by P. Lorillard Co.," and walk out,—perhaps buy a package and walk out?

A. Yes. 212

X-Q. 34. Is that the way it happened?

A. Well, it happened this way: We have packages, like the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, made by P. Lorillard, and these Beech-Nut cigarettes came out later, and they would say, "We know they are making the cigarettes, too, the same company that makes the scrap tobacco."

X-Q. 35. They would start the conversation in that way?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 36. That is, you would be standing there and a man would come in and say, "I know the cigarettes are 213 made by P. Lorillard Co.?"

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 37. How about the Camel cigarettes, would people come into your store and say, "I know the Camel cigarettes are made by the Reynolds Company?"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. They would come in and tell you that?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 39. How about the Fatima cigarettes, do they come in and tell you that they know the Fatima cigarettes are made by Liggett & Meyers?

A. I haven't had them.

214 X-Q. 40. It has been just the Beech-Nuts and Camels where they have done that?

A. Just the Beech-Nuts and Camels. Perhaps the same thing happened with the Fatimas, I can't say that.

X-Q. 41. You didn't start the conversation at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 42. You never had them ask you who makes these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 43. Or any of them?

A. No.

X-Q. 44. But you have had them tell you who made 215 them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 45. Did you ask them?

A. No; of course I knew who were making them, so there was no reason for me to ask them.

X-Q. 46. So your statement with respect to what everybody knows, or what the customers know, is based upon about five people, as you say, walking into your store and saying that the Beech-Nut cigarettes are made by P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes, and it seems to me—it is foolish probably—that they know the Beech-Nut cigarette is made by P.
216 Lorillard ; it may be just because I was handling them and was used to it.

X-Q. 47. Probably because you knew yourself?

A. I knew myself, but it seemed to me that they all came in and knew they were made by P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 48. Now, there are two ways in which you could get that impression, one is by being a mind reader, the other is by having a customer tell you. Now, you say that there weren't more than five persons came and told you voluntarily who made them, and the rest didn't say anything.

A. The conversation was not to me, it was just talking between themselves, having a conversation.

X-Q. 49. An argument? 217

A. Well, no, no argument; they just happened to talk that P. Lorillard is making this brand, and this brand, because there are a lot of other brands. Sometimes they figured how many brands they controlled, and all that, of cigarettes; they figured Murads and Moguls, and all that, and they named the Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 50. You had customers say that they made the Murads and Moguls?

A. Murads, Moguls, Trophies and Egyptian Dieties, and so forth.

X-Q. 51. Your customers know that the Murads, and so forth, are made by P. Lorillard? 218

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. They know that the Camels are made by Reynolds?

A. Some of them, I suppose. Of course I know myself, but I don't think all the customers know the various brands, but they know about these Beech-Nuts.

X-Q. 53. And they know that the Fatimas are made by Liggett & Meyers,—do you think all your customers know that?

A. I wouldn't say all, but most of them, because the regular smoker notices the package, and it says on the package where it is made,—who makes it. 219

X-Q. 54. They never told you that,—that is a guess on your part, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. And all this about what they told you is just guess-work, isn't it, on your part?

A. Yes, I suppose they know.

X-Q. 56. Not more than five people, you say, ever mentioned it to you?

A. Yes; but I could hear the conversation, saying the brands which were made by P. Lorillard, also naming the Beech-Nut cigarette.

220 X-Q. 57. They began by reciting the list of brands made by the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 58. A certain percentage of your customers did, but you don't know how many?

A. I don't know how many; I never thought it would come up, so I didn't keep tabs.

X-Q. 59. It is just an opinion on your part?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. Now, Mr. Sharf, what is printed on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel?

221 A. Well, the most that you see is the Camel itself.

X-Q. 61. Yes, but what is printed under the picture of the camel, do you know?

A. Under the picture?

X-Q. 62. Yes?

A. Why, the name, I guess.

X-Q. 63. What name?

A. Reynolds, I think.

X-Q. 64. Well, that is just a guess, isn't it; you don't know that it is?

A. I don't know, that is so, but the camel,—the camel is what attracts,—the picture of the camel attracts.

222 X-Q. 65. Oh, that is the way you identify the package?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 66. Now, how about the Lucky Strike cigarettes? What is printed on the package of Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel?

A. Underneath, then it is the name,—of course it is the name.

X-Q. 67. What name?

A. American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 68. That is printed right on the package of Lucky Strike cigarettes, near the bottom?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 69. You have seen it there? 223

A. I think so; I can't say, but I think so.

X-Q. 70. I show you a package of Camel cigarettes and you observe that the name "Reynolds" is not printed underneath the picture of the camel?

A. No; it is on the other side.

X-Q. 71. Perhaps you will take my word for it that the name American Tobacco Company is not printed underneath the red panel on the Lucky Strike package.

A. Perhaps not.

X-Q. 72. Now, how many cigarettes, Camel cigarettes, do you handle in the course of a week,—just a rough guess? 224

A. About 8,000 or 10,000.

X-Q. 73. And how about the Lucky Strikes?

A. About the same.

X-Q. 74. And in spite of the fact that you hand out, if you do hand out, this large number of Lucky Strike and Camel cigarettes, you never happened to notice what was printed on the front of the package, did you?

A. Well, I did, but not on all, of course. I did of course, but I would not remember; but I always notice it when I pick up a package, I always notice it quickly.

X-Q. 75. You notice it every time you pick up a package? 225

A. Yes.

X-Q. 76. And you notice it 8,000 times a week, or more.

A. Oh, sure.

X-Q. 77. But you don't remember it?

A. No.

X-Q. 78. Now, if you never noticed what is printed on the front of a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel in spite of the fact that you hand out so many packages, would you expect your customers to notice and remember what is printed on 226 the front of that package underneath the picture of the camel so that they could tell you?

A. Well, I suppose some of them would and some of them would not.

X-Q. 79. Well, very few though?

A. Very few,—I suppose a few do.

X-Q. 80. Would you expect your customers, all of them, to notice this name, "P. Lorillard Co." on this package?

A. Well, I do. It is right on the front there. I should expect them to. I don't know whether they do or not, but it is right on the front there.

227 X-Q. 81. You never heard any of them say they had seen it there?

A. Well, it never came out, such conversation as that.

X-Q. 82. Yes; it is an opinion of yours?

A. Yes, an opinion, because it is right there on the front of the package.

X-Q. 83. But they would not see what is on the front of the Camel cigarette?

A. Well, they always advertise them; they should know, because they have been putting out posters and advertisements of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 84. Do they advertise the Camels?

228 A. The Camels they advertise, they do that with Camels too.

X-Q. 85. Do they do that with the Chesterfields?

A. Yes; I always noticed on the Beech-Nut cigarettes, just on the front of the package, "P. Lorillard Co."

X-Q. 86. Now, what is the striking feature as you think of it now, of the Fatima cigarette; how would you identify a package of Fatima cigarettes, by the picture of a girl on the front?

A. By the picture, no, sir; by the name that is on top of the picture.

X-Q. 87. And Lucky Strike has that red panel on the front? 229

A. Yes.

X-Q. 88. That is what takes your eye?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 89. And the Camels is the picture of a camel?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 90. That central device is the conspicuous feature of the package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 91. In other words, you could give me a pretty good picture of the central panel on the Lucky Strike?

A. Yes. 230

X-Q. 92. And the picture of the Camel on the Camel cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 93. And the picture of the girl on the Fatima cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 94. And the sloping name on the Chesterfields?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 95. That is what takes your eye and that is what you spot the package by?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all. 231

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 46. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) I just want to ask you one question: Who makes the Lucky Strike cigarette?

A. American Tobacco Company.

R-D Q. 47. And who makes the Camel cigarette?

A. Reynolds.

R-D Q. 48. And who makes the Fatimas?

A. The Fatimas let me see,—it is on my tongue, but I can't just say.

232 R-D Q. 49. You can't recall who makes the Fatima?
A. I can't remember exactly, I can't recall that.
R-D Q. 50. Who makes the Murad?
A. P. Lorillard.
R-D Q. 51. Who makes the Mogul?
A. P. Lorillard.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 96. (By Mr. Hinton.) Does the Fatima sell more or less than the Beech-Nut cigarette, in your store?
233 A. Well, they sell a little less. It is a higher priced cigarette, you see.
R-X Q. 97. Which one do you sell the most of, the Fatima or the Beech-Nut?
A. The Beech-Nut.
R-D Q. 98. Much more?
A. Well, quite a little.
R-D Q. 99. But you sell an awful lot of Fatimas?
A. Well, we sell quite a few, but not as many.
R-D Q. 100. It is one of your leading brands?
A. Well, as against the Fatimas, of course the Beech-
234 Nut, but the Camels is the leading one.
R-D Q. 101. The Fatimas would be among the first five you sell?
A. Yes, sir; it is among the leading brands.
R-D Q. 102. And you don't remember who makes the Fatimas?
A. I do remember, it is on my tongue, the name, of course, but I can't say.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

235

ELEAZER LEBEWOHL, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence, and occupation?

A. My name is Eleazer Lebewohl.

Q. 2. Age?

A. 50.

Q. 3. Your resiidence?

A. 28 Brainerd Road, Allston.

236

Q. 4. And your occupation?

A. Cigars, tobacco and men's furnishings.

Q. 5. Where is your store located?

A. 69—71 Causeway Street, Boston.

Q. 6. Are you the owner of this store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 7. How long have you been in the cigar and men's furnishings business?

A. Well, I am 30 years in cigars and tobacco, and about 18 in men's furnishings.

Q. 8. Do you sell any other kinds of goods in the store besides tobacco products and men's furnishings?

237

A. Oh, yes; we sell candy and gum.

Q. 9. Is this store located in a business or residential section?

A. In a business section, right near the North Station.

Q. 10. About how many customers do you serve, in a general way?

A. Why, I would imagine about 800 a day.

Q. 11. Do you handle cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. What brands do you handle?

238 A. Oh, we handle most all of the popular brands of cigarettes.

Q. 13. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Oh, yes; done business with them since I have been in business.

Q. 14. How long is that?

A. 30 years.

Q. 15. What is the reputation of P. Lorillard Company in tobacco?

A. One of the leaders and one of the oldest in the world, I always understood.

Q. 16. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut
239 cigarette, like this exhibit package and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco like this exhibit package?

A. P. Lorillard Co. Their name is right on there.

Q. 17. Were you ever under the impression that those were made by any other concern than P. Lorillard Co.?

A. No; never.

Q. 18. What kind of gums do you handle?

A. We handle Wrigley's—well, Spearmint, of course, and Beech-Nut, and Pepsin. That is about the only thing.

Q. 19. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut gum, like the package which I show you?

A. Why, I imagine the gum company, the Beech-Nut 240 Gum Company. Of course I buy them of a jobber, but I always supposed the Beech-Nut Gum people made it.

Q. 20. Did you ever buy any Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut chewing tobacco direct from the manufacturer?

A. No.

Q. 21. You buy them through a jobber?

A. Through a jobber; yes.

Q. 22. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like these two exhibit packages, were made by the same people that made the chewing gum?

A. Oh, no; not for a moment, no. They are entirely 241 different products.

Q. 23. Did you ever know of any person, or hear any inquiry from any customer which would lead you to believe that such person or customer thought that the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco were made by the people who made the Beech-Nut gum?

A. I never had it come up since I was selling it. If they come in for Beech-Nut gum, they say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut gum", and if they come in for Beech-Nut cigarettes, they say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes".

Q. 24. Did you ever know the manufacturers of 242
Beech-Nut chewing gum to put out any tobacco products such as Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 25. Did you ever know or hear of P. Lorillard Co. manufacturing confections, or gum?

A. No; only tobacco.

Q. 26. State whether or not you have ever seen a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes which did not have the name "P. Lorillard Co." on it?

A. Always like that, to my knowledge.

(Witness refers to exhibit package of Lorillard 243
Beech-Nut cigarettes.)

Q. 27. And likewise state whether or not you ever saw a package of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco which did not bear the word "Lorillard" on it?

A. Never.

Q. 28. To what extent, if you know, does the P. Lorillard Co. advertise its tobacco and cigarettes in this Boston neighborhood?

A. Well, I know that every brand they put out, they advertise it very extensively, but the extent of the 244 advertising I cannot state. I know that their brands are well advertised, and that there is a demand for them, created by their advertising.

Q. 29. State whether or not in your opinion the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes of Lorillard are sold on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a mere opinion of the witness.

A. No; Lorillard's reputation only.

245 Q. 30. Would you have any difficulty in reading the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the cigarette package, or the name "Lorillard" on the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco package?

A. No; it is right on the face of the package,—right on the face,—you can't help seeing it. It is just the same as the other products that they advertise.

Q. 31. Would you have any trouble in reading that name through the glazed paper?

A. No.

Q. 32. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing the general appearance of the Beech-Nut cigarette

246 package and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco package from the gum package?

A. No; the appearance and everything is entirely different,—the size and general appearance.

Q. 33. Did you ever buy or sell the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, or the Beech-Nut cigarettes as the product of the Beech-Nut gum people?

A. No.

Q. 34. There was never any confusion in your mind about it?

A. No, none whatever.

Q. 35. State whether or not you regard tobacco and cigarettes as being of the same or a different class of goods from the chewing gum? 247

A. Entirely different.

Q. 36. And if a customer wanted to purchase some Beech-Nut chewing gum and went away with a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes or a package of Beech-Nut Srap tobacco in place of it, what would be your opinion of him?

A. Demented.

Q. 37. State whether or not you ever had any jobber represent to you, or sell to you Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco as the product of the Beech-Nut gum people? 248

A. Never.

Q. 38. Whose product did they sell it to you as?

A. Lorillard's.

Q. 39. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes of Lorillard?

A. Why, since they have been out; just as soon as they came out with their cigarette we put them right in. I can't tell you the exact period, but from the time they started advertising them, we put them right in, just as with all their products; when they come out we put them right in, because we know there is a sale created by advertising. 249

Q. 40. So far as your knowledge is concerned, is it customary to wrap packages of cigarettes in transparent paper like this Beech-Nut cigarette package?

A. Yes, quite a number are wrapped in that way.

Q. 41. State whether or not, so far as you know, it is the trade practice to use the word "Quality" in connection with high grade goods?

A. Always.

Q. 42. Whose name appears in conjunction with the words "Perfect Quality," on this cigarette package?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all.

250 Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Lebewohl, you run a men's furnishing store and sell cigars and tobacco as a side line?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. Do I understand by "men's furnishings" clothing and haberdashery?

A. Well, haberdashery, no clothing, unless you call khaki pants clothing.

X-Q. 3. That store is located in a suburb of Boston?

A. Not a suburb; it is on one of the main streets,
251 the street where the North Station is located, Causeway Street.

X-Q. 4. How many clerks have you in your store?

A. At the present time we have two.

X-Q. 5. Including yourself?

A. Yes, sir; three in all.

X-Q. 6. Do you relieve each other?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. So that there are always two down there?

A. Oh, yes, always two on duty.

X-Q. 8. Do you sell confectionery of any kind?

A. Confectionery and gum.

252 X-Q. 9. And tobacco and cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. Now, I wish you would try to remember when you put in these Beech-Nut cigarettes. Did a jobber or some Lorillard agent come to you and get you to stock these goods?

A, The Lorillard agent.

X-Q. 11. And he came around and told you that they were going to put out these goods, and that you should put them in?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 12. And you knew he was a Lorillard man?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. And of course you knew before you saw the goods that they were a Lorillard product? 253

A. Yes; they would come in and say they were from the Lorillard people; they always do, no matter what they sell.

X-Q. 14. Now, you testified that people come and ask for Beech-Nut gum. Of course they won't take cigarettes if they want gum, and vice-versa; that is true, isn't it?

A. That is correct.

X-Q. 15. Did you ever have anybody come in your store, that you can remember, and just ask for "Beech-Nut", — "Give me a package of Beech-Nut"? 254

A. Well, I will tell you: When they ask for "Beech-Nut' we usually know that they mean Beech-Nut tobacco, because if they want Beech-Nut gum they generally say, "Beech-Nut gum", but if they say "Beech-Nut" we know that they want a package of Beech-Nut tobacco.

X-Q. 16. Do you have your gum and cigarettes on the same counter?

A. Oh, no; we have a candy stand at the side of the counter, and our cigarettes are on little shelves.

X-Q. 17. If a man walked up to the candy side, the candy counter, and asked for Beech-Nut gum, he would help himself to it? 255

A. Help himself; it is right in sight there.

X-Q. 18. How long have you handled tobacco products?

A. Oh, 30 years,—that is, not in this particular store, but in the store next door. You see they combined the two and we had to get out two years ago.

X-Q. 19. Can you tell me, offhand, what is printed on a package of Fatima cigarettes underneath the picture of the girl?

A. That I can't say.

X-Q. 20. How about Camel cigarettes, do you know

256 what is printed on front of a Camel cigarette package under the picture of a camel?

A. No, I can't say. I have so many different articles, you know, that those things don't fasten to my memory, to tell you truthfully, but I can pick out any particular cigarette that you might call for, but to tell you what was printed on the package, I couldn't do it. My memory is not good enough to do it.

X-Q. 21. And yet you have no difficulty in picking out a package of Camel cigarettes?

A. No; the style of the package is so different, it is easy to pick it out.

257 X-Q. 22. You mean the picture of the camel makes it easy?

A. Yes, and it has a different color from other cigarettes; they all differ somewhat.

X-Q. 23. Could you remember and picture a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in your mind as to what is on the front of the package?

A, Certainly I can't, what is on the front; but the whole package itself, it is different. That is not any comparison with a package of gum. I suppose you refer to that.

X-Q. 24. No, I was not referring to that.

258 A. But I supposed that was what you referred to by the cigarettes, on account of a package of gum.

X-Q. 25. Now, you testified that you didn't remember that anybody ever came in and asked you whether the Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, were made by the gum people?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Did you pay any particular attention a year ago to remember that, or did you try to make a note to remember if anybody would ask you that question?

A. Why, I didn't; but I knew that the Beech-Nut gum people made food products, see? And therefore if anything of that kind — if they had asked anything of that kind it would impress it on my mind, because I have 259 bought Beech-Nut bacon and I knew they had other products. To my mind I never knew of anybody to ask that.

X-Q. 27. You don't remember that?

A. I don't remember it; if they had, it would have struck me—it would have called my attention to the fact that two big houses like these would have the same name on their products, and I think I would remember that.

X-Q. 28. Did it impress you as strange at the time that two big houses like the Beech-Nut Packing Company and the Lorillard Company should use the same 260 kind of a label on their goods?

A. No, because I had the idea that the one was a manufacturer of food products, and the other tobacco products, something entirely different; because the Beech-Nut Packing Company I knew made, as I have said, bacon, and other food products, so I didn't get the idea that they were manufacturing the cigarettes.

X-Q. 29. If a man came into your store to buy Camel cigarettes, he walks up and asks for Camel cigarettes and puts down his money and walks out again?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. And unless he happened to tell you, you 261 would not know who he thought made that porduct?

A. No; they never ask.

X-Q. 31. Not being a mind reader you can't tell what they have in their mind, and you can't tell why he is buying the product, or asking for it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 32. Do you buy your Beech-Nut gum from a tobacco jobber sometimes?

A. No; I buy it from a confectioner.

X-Q. 33. And your tobacco from another man, usually?

262 A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. When you speak about the reputation of the Lorillard Company, you mean its reputation in the tobacco trade?

A. As being an old, reliable, concern, and handling their merchandise for so many years it impresses it on your mind.

X-Q. 35. You naturally would deal with them on that account?

A. Yes; and the merchandise being so extensively advertised too, you know.

X-Q. 36. What are the leading Lorillard brands of 263 cigarettes which you have found to be the best sellers?

A. You mean any cigarettes?

X-Q. 37. Yes.

A. Well, I will tell you: In buying tobacco, I have in mind buying the tobacco, see, and my attention is so much occupied with all the other little details that I cannot tell you right off what they are,—you know, to be truthful to you.

X-Q. 38. Yes.

A. You see with the work on both sides of the store,—we work on both sides of the store, and if I am called on the tobacco side, I jump over to the 264 tobacco counter, and I know what the Camel cigarettes are, in the tobacco line; and if I want tobacco, I have my man make out a list, what he knows he wants, and he telephones for it. He handles the tobacco more than I do, in the purchase, but in the selling, he don't. If you were to ask me the different makers a few years ago, I could have told you, but I have had misfortune, and it has rather dulled my memory, to be frank with you, and I can't tell you for that reason.

X-Q. 39. Do you know who makes the Mogul cigarettes?

A. I couldn't tell.

X-Q. 40. Do you know who makes the Murad cigarette? 265

A. I couldn't tell.

X-Q. 41. Do you know who makes the Egyptian Dieties?

A. S. Anargyros.

X-Q. 42. That is a well-known tobacco manufacturer, isn't it?

A. No, not to the extent of Lorillard.

X-Q. 43. It is not?

A. No; the Lorillard products have advertised so much, they have been advertised so much, and we have used so much of their goods that it is impressed on my 266 mind; but if you ask me the tobacco manufacturer of the different cigarettes, I tell you frankly that I have had misfortunes, and that is the reason I can't. In previous years I had charge of the tobacco, before I opened up this store, and at that time I could tell you every little detail.

X-Q. 44. Who makes Polar Bear Chewing Tobacco, do you know?

A. Oh, we sell so little of that, that I would not remember.

X-Q 45. How about Honest Scrap?

A. We don't sell that. 267

X-Q. 46. Now, I wish you would name some Lorillard brands to me?

A. Well, Mail Pouch,—I don't know whether that is or not.

X-Q. 47. How about Sweet Maple?

A. We don't carry that. In plug tobacco, there is not the sale there used to be.

X-Q. 48. How about cigarettes, can you name some of the Lorillard brands of cigarettes?

A. I cannot.

X-Q. 49. You say that the Lorillard products have been so extensively advertised that it has created a great 268 demand for them, but you can't name a single brand of Lorillard cigarettes?

A. That doesn't make any difference, because they come in and ask for their brand, and it may be that I can't remember who makes the cigarettes, but it sells just the same, and I give them the brand they ask for.

X-Q. 50. That is all you are interested in, making a sale of them?

A. Yes. The fact that I can't remember, I have explained that my memory in the last few years, through misfortune is such that I cannot remember easily: and besides that I have so many details,—I do all the buy-269 ing of the furnishings, and my store is quite a large store, and I do more than one man ought to do. The furnishing line, I handle that exclusively myself, and I can tell you everything about the furnishing line.

X-Q. 51. You have on the table in front of you, and have had since you were testifying, a package of Murad cigarettes and a package of Egyptian Dieties?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. Will you examine those packages and tell me who makes the cigarettes [referring to a package of Murad]?

A. Anargyros.

270 X-Q. 53. How about the Egyptian Dieties?

A. It is the same. It has "P. Lorillard Co." underneath, but it is in small letters.

X-Q. 54. You would not immediately notice it?

A. Yes, that is so, but that is because I am not so familiar with handling the merchandise as my clerk is, as I explained to you.

X-Q. 55. Now, you are not able to say who makes these various brands of cigarettes, but what are some of the leading brands of cigarettes with you?

A. Well, the best seller we have is Camels, Lucky Strike, Perfection, Sweet Caporal, and then other similar brands; Beech-Nut goes fairly well. 271

X-Q. 56. Who makes the Camels?

A. There you have got me again, I can't tell you.

X-Q. 57. Who makes the Lucky Strike?

A. I can't tell you that.

X-Q. 58. Who makes the Fatima?

A. I couldn't tell you, sir.

X-Q. 59. Who makes the Chesterfield?

A. The American Tobacco Products,—I think that is the American Tobacco Company,—I think so.

X-Q. 60. As a matter of fact, it is Liggett & Meyers that makes the Chesterfield?

A. Yes, well, perhaps so. 272

X-Q. 61. And the Lucky Strike, the American Tobacco Company; the Camels are made by R. J. Reynolds & Company?

A. Well, of course I don't know, and I said just as I thought.

X-Q. 62. Now, of all the brands of cigarettes and tobacco that have been mentioned this morning, the only one with respect to which you are able to state the name of the manufacturer is the Beech-Nut. Why was that?

A. What; why was it?

X-Q. 63. Yes. 273

A. Why, simply my attention was called to the fact of whether I saw any difference between the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the gum.

X-Q. 64. Was this by someone who wanted you to testify in this case?

A. No, it was not by him.

X-Q. 65. Who called your attention to that fact?

A. One of the salesmen in my store.

X-Q. 66. Did that cause you to look into the matter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 67. That is what caused you to look into it?

A. Yes.

274 X-Q. 68. And you found that Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Lorillard Company, and that the gum was made by another company?

A. Well, I knew that without looking into it; I knew it was made by separate companies. The only thing I noticed about the Beech-Nut was the manufacturer, because, as I told you, I don't remember the manufacturers of the different products. I know we handle them. If I want cigarettes, to buy them, I say, "Ten thousand Camels." I don't care who manufactures them. That is a secondary consideration with me. We don't have to look at the manufacturers, it is 275 the reputation that sells the cigarettes.

X-Q. 69. By advertising it, you mean?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 70. By advertising the brand you make them popular?

A. Yes; if they have merit. If they don't they die. If the brand is well known and liked, they sell.

X-Q. 71. If the brand is well known?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

276 R-D Q. 43. (By Mr. Cavanagh): Will you state whether or not you ever sold Beech-Nut cigarettes on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, I have not.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness, and as indefinite.

Mr. Cavanagh: The question simply calls for a statement of fact.

R-D Q. 44. Will you state whether or not you ever confused a tobacco manufacturer with a food product manufacturer,—whether you would ever confuse them?

A. I would not. 277

R-D Q. 45 State whether or not you would expect them to put out the same class of goods?

A. I would not.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 72. (By Mr. Hinton): Do you know anything about Austin Nichols?

A. Austin Nichols?

R-X Q. 73. Yes.

A. I do not. 278

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

L. G. CAUTO, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence and occupation? Just the name first. 279

A. L. G. Cauto.

Q. 2. Age?

A. Age, 31.

Q. 3. Residence?

A. 23 Hancock Street, West Somerville.

Q. 4. Occupation?

A. Cigar salesman.

Q. 5. For what concern are you a salesman?

A. L. K. Liggett & Company.

280 Q. 6. Where is your place of business located?

A. 128 Tremont Street.

Q. 7. Is this in a business section or a residential section?

A. It is one of the busiest sections we have, centrally located.

Q. 8. How many customers a day, approximately, do you serve?

A. Over a thousand.

Q. 9. Have you ever sold the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Oh, yes, thousands of them.

Q. 10. And have you ever sold Beech-Nut Scrap To-

281 bacco?

A. No; never put it in.

Q. 11. Whose product, if you know, is the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 12. How long have you known that to be their product?

A. Ever since it came out.

Q. 13. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. We do, in our department.

Q. 14. Who makes the Beech-Nut chewing gum, if you know?

282 A. I think it is made by the Beech-Nut Products Company, Poughkeepsie, New York, if I am not mistaken.

Q. 15. I show you a package of Beech-Nut gum, or a box of it. Is that the Beech-Nut gum to which you refer?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. Please read the label and tell me who it is made by, and the address?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company, Canajoharie, New York.

Q. 17. Were you ever under the impression that the

Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 283

A. Oh, no, never.

Q. 18. State whether or not in your experience in Liggett's in selling Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut chewing gum you ever heard any comments or remarks which would lead you to believe that a customer or customers thought that the cigarette was made by the same people that made the gum?

A. When the cigarette first came out there was a natural belief, among some of the customers that they were made by the same people that made the gum, but I righted them on it, and put them on the right track. 284

Q. 19. How many customers would you say had that belief at first?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

A. I should say very few. That is a natural thing when a product of that kind comes out. There were a number of customers that came in expecting they were made by the same people, and they would say, "Let me have a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. Are they made by the same people that make the gum?" And I said, "No, not the same people that make the gum." Those people who said that, I corrected them. 285

Q. 20. Tell me just about how many customers asked you that, in a general way?

A. Well, about, at least 25; that is, among over a thousand customers that we had in a day.

Q. 21. How long ago was that?

A. Oh, that was when they first came out. I haven't heard any comments or remarks since that time, when they first came out. As I say, a few customers would ask about it, perhaps 25 or 30.

286 Q. 22. And that is in one of the busiest stores in Boston?

A. Yes, sir. That thousand customers is putting it low. We sometimes have more than that, but I didn't want to exaggerate it.

Q. 23. As I understand, you haven't had any such inquiries or remarks for some time?

A. No; and just about the time I had those inquiries I was interviewed by the Beech-Nut people.

Q. 24. You mean the Beech-Nut gum people?

A. The Beech-Nut gum people at that time.

Q. 25. How long ago was that?

287 A. That was when the Beech-Nut cigarette had just come out, say within just about a month or so that the Beech-Nut cigarette had been on the market, and they interviewed me with their lawyer.

Mr. Hinton: All questions about the alleged conversation referred to by the witness is objected to as entirely irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial, and as being hearsay.

Q. 26. Will you tell me just what occurred at that conversation?

288 A. They came in and asked me, "Do you think the gum is made by the same people as make the cigarette?" And I said, "Of course not. I sell a lot of your gum, but so far as P. Lorillard is concerned, they wouldn't interfere with your label, because that is a different product." I remember that day I said, "A few of our customers thought they were made by your people, but I corrected them." They told me, "You are the first one who has answered us in that way," and asked me if I would give it in a statement at the Touraine. "That is the truth," I said, "but so far as backing the gum against P. Lorillard Company, I am not in it for that. I believe the gum is one thing and the tobacco another, different product." That is what transpired at that 289 time, and they never called me up again.

Q. 27. You mean they never called you as a witness?

A. No. They said the testimony was good, but never came near me.

Q. 28. As I understand, you were not yourself ever confused into believing that the cigarette was made by the same people who made the gum?

A. Certainly not, because I order the different products for that department, and I have had charge of the department going on 9 years,—I have been there 11 years,—and when the product came out I picked up a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and I naturally saw 290 the Beech-Nut brand on the package, and I said to myself, that must be somebody besides P. Lorillard who is manufacturing them, but when I saw the name "P. Lorillard Co.", I saw who it was. I ordered them from the New York Department of L. K. Liggett & Company.

Q. 29. Did you ever see a package that didn't have the name "P. Lorillard Co." on it?

A. Oh, no. I saw them when they first came out, with no wrapper,—just like that (indicating a package without the glazed paper.)

Q. 30. When you say without a wrapper, what do you mean? 291

A. Without the glazed paper, when they came out first,—it is so far back now on that point I don't remember.

Q. 31. Can you state whether it is customary to wrap cigarette packages in this glazed paper?

A. Yes; because it keeps them dry, and they retain their flavor.

Q. 32. You have no difficulty in reading the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the cigarette package, whether covered with the glazed paper or not?

A. I would on this end here, but not on this end here.

292 This end here it is very plain; on the back it is very plain, more so than on the front.

Q. 33. But you can read the name?

A. Oh, yes, on the back; I would have difficulty on the front there.

Q. 34. What brand of the P. Lorillard Company do you handle in your store?

A. Let's see, Egyptian Deities,—we carry practically all the brands, all the fast sellers, and the Murads, we carry those, and Moguls, I think.

Q. 35. Did you ever know of the P. Lorillard Co., tobacco manufacturers, making or selling chewing gum, 293 food products or beverages?

A. Never.

Q. 36. And did you ever know of the Beech-Nut gum people, — the Beech-Nut Packing Company, to manufacture and sell tobacco products?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. 37. State whether or not you have ever purchased or sold Beech-Nut cigarettes as the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company,—the gum people?

A. No, never.

Q. 38. Whose product did you sell them as?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

294 Q. 39. State whether or not you ever knew of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the gum people, to put out a package of goods like this Scrap tobacco which I show you, in appearance, style and the like?

A. No, I did not,—not in appearance or style.

Q. 40. Would you have any trouble in distinguishing a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes from a package of Beech-Nut gum?

A. No, I would not.

Q. 41. And if a customer came into your store and wanted a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, and went away with a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for the gum, what would you think of him?

A. I would think it was ridiculous, that he didn't know what he wanted; or if a man wanted "Beech-Nut" I think it would be a mistake of the salesman in not asking him what he wanted, whether he wanted gum or cigarettes. 295

Q. 42. You would not confuse the two?

A. If a customer came in and said, "Beech-Nut", I would say, "Beech-Nut cigarettes" because we are handling cigarettes; but if he wanted the gum, we have it in jars, and he can pick it right out of the jar.

Q. 43. As I understand, you regard them as a different class of goods?

296

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading.

A. Absolutely.

Q. 44. What is the reputation of P. Lorillard Co. in the tobacco business, so far as you know?

A. They are one of the largest concerns in the world, in the tobacco business,—in fact without a question I think the largest to my knowledge.

Q. 45. To what do you attribute the sales of the Beech-Nut cigarette in your store?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a mere opinion of the witness. 297

A. To P. Lorillard's advertising, and the detail work they do on their items and products.

Q. 46. What kind of detail do you mean?

A. Advertising, posters on the windows, etc.,—missionary work, and sampling.

Q. 47. Would you attribute the sale of the Lorillard Beech-Nut cigarette in any manner to the fact that the Beech-Nut gum people are making gum?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for an opinion and conclusion of the witness.

298 A. No.

Q. 48 You regard them as entirely different lines of business?

A. I do; yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all, Mr. Cauto.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton): Mr. Cauto, you are employed by the Liggett Company, and they run a great big drug store there on Tromont Street, isn't it?

299 X-Q. 2. And you are in charge of the tobacco counter?

A. I am.

X-Q. 3. You do the buying?

A. I do, in my department.

X-Q. 4. Yes; and you have sold the Beech-Nut cigarette we are talking about?

A. I have.

X-Q. 5. Do you sell gum on the same counter, is it displayed on the same counter with the cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

300 X-Q. 6. And you never sold Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 7. Don't know anything about that?

A. No.

X-Q. 8. Now, I wish you would think back, if you will, please, to a year or so ago, when you first put in Beech-Nut cigarettes, and tell me, if you can remember, whether a Lorillard agent or a jobber came around to you first and got you to take this stuff, or how you came to put them in?

A. Well, how I came to put them in, they were put on the list at our New York office; they went into the

New York people, and we ordered from there. That 301 is our rule. We order from our New York depot the cigarette, if the Liggett Company has condescended to put them in.

X-Q. 9. Did they give you some kind of authority to order so many of those cigarettes?

A. Yes; their merchandise is all standardized, and as soon as they are on the standard list, we can order them.

X-Q. 10. You knew who manufactured them, before you put them in, did you not?

A. Yes; that they were a Lorillard product.

X-Q. 11. Yes, you knew that before you ordered 302 them, or put them in?

A. Certainly.

X-Q. 12. I just want to get the facts. I am going to make this as short as possible. You saw when you first picked up a package of the cigarettes,—you saw the Beech-Nut brand on it, and you thought they were not made by the Lorillard Company?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: No, where did he say that?

Mr. Hinton: Read "Q. 28."

303

X-Q. 13. I am reading your answer to Q. 28 on the direct examination. The question is:

"Q. 28. As I understand, you were not yourself ever confused into believing that the cigarette was made by the same people who made the gum?

A. Certainly not, because I order the different products for the department, and I have had charge of the department going on 9 years,—I have been there 11 years,—and when the product came out I picked up a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and I naturally saw the Beech-Nut brand on the pack-

304 age, and I said to myself, that must be somebody besides P. Lorillard who is manufacturing them, but when I saw the name, "P. Lorillard," I saw who it was. I ordered them from the New York Department of L. K. Liggett & Company."

A. That is right. When a cigarette is new, I naturally looked to see who made it. That is proper.

X-Q. 14. And when you looked you saw what?

A. I saw "P. Lorillard Co." printed plainly on the front of the package, and on the carton.

X-Q. 15. Will you tell me during that moment, when 305 you picked up the package of cigarettes and saw the Beech-Nut brand, and were in doubt about it,—who did you think might be the manufacturer?

A. Some cigarette company, because I knew that the gum people manufactured gum, and right away I used my head and said that they were not made by the gum people, but some cigarette people.

X-Q. 16. What suggested the gum people to you?

A. Because they carry gum, the Beech-Nut gum on the counter.

X-Q. 17. When you looked at the package of cigarettes, what did you think of, what gum company?

306 A. When the cigarettes were put in, I had them on the counter and, why, I thought of the Beech-Nut people. I had about 25 customers question that, and that was a natural question; not that they cared who made it, but they said this, "Made by the people who make the gum?" And I corrected them. I said, "The gum is made by the gum company, in Canajoharie, and Brooklyn, New York," and that is all. That adjusted the matter, when I told them that the gum and cigarettes were two different products.

X-Q. 18. And you always put them straight on that?

A. I put them straight, yes, because I wanted them to be straight about it, being in the business, and I wanted to be straight, because it is instant dismissal for misrepresenting any of the goods. 307

X-Q. 19. Yes; but they are not all as strict as you people are in regard to that, are they?

A. No, I don't believe they are.

X-Q. 20. Now, every time anybody made any remark of that kind, you straightened them out?

A. I did.

X-Q. 21. Always?

A. Always.

X-Q. 22. And you say you can remember about 25 instances of that kind? 308

A. Of that kind, since they came out. Since then nobody has bothered about it. They come in and say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut gum," or "Give me a package of "Beech-Nut cigarettes." I guess they know it is made by an entirely different company now.

Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as a mere opinion of the witness, and without the slightest foundation.

X-Q. 23. Now, you haven't had any further discussion with your customers about this thing, have you? 309

A. No, I have not.

X-Q. 24. Except those 25 instances that you remember?

A. Yes, just those 25.

X-Q. 25. If a man comes into your store and wants Camel cigarettes, he puts down the money and takes the goods and walks out, usually, doesn't he?

A. He does.

X-Q. 26. If you know him, he might stop and talk to you, but the ordinary customer would walk out after he got the cigarettes?

A. That is true.

310 X-Q. 27. And you can't tell by his face when he comes in, or the back of his head when he goes out, what he thinks about who makes the stuff?

A. No.

X-Q. 28. And the only possible way you could tell what he thinks is by what he might tell you?

A. That is it.

X-Q. 29. And it is very rare that he says anything about it?

A. Very rare. Outside of, as I say, when the product is new, the product when it comes out, the customer will naturally say, "Who makes it?" It is just 311 the same with the Black & White cigar, or the Black and White Whiskey, or Battle Axe tobacco, or any new product made. We know that Scrap tobacco is manufactured by Lorillard Co.,—we don't handle it,—but I worked for Lorillard—that is, I worked for the American Tobacco Company before I worked for Liggett, and I know they had the Scrap tobacco on the market—

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as argumentative and not responsive, and volunteered.

X-Q. 30. You used to work for the Lorillard Com-
312 pany?

A. The American Tobacco Company before they divided.

X-Q. 31. How long have you been with Liggett now?

A. About 11 years.

X-Q. 32. Here in Boston?

A. Yes, sir; always in one store.

X-Q. 33. In one store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Have you a high regard for the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, I have.

X-Q. 35. Your relations with the Lorillard Company have been such as to make you very friendly with them? 313

A. Not particularly. Everybody we do business with, we are friendly with,—we don't show any partiality.

X-Q. 36. Now, Mr. Cauto, you testified, I think, that if a person wanted a package of gum you would not hand him a package of cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 37. Did ever anybody come into your store, that you can remember and ask just for "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. Is that a common occurrence? 314

A. Not common, no,—one case in a thousand where they just say, "Beech-Nut."

X-Q. 39. What do you do in that case?

A. Give them a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, because I run the cigarette business.

X-Q. 40. You don't ask them what they want?

A. No, I give them the cigarettes, and if they have have objection to it they say, "I don't want that, I want the gum." But those are rare instances. I would say rare instances, one in a thousand, probably. When a man comes in he usually knows what he wants, and he will say, "Beech-Nut gum" or, "Beech-Nut cigar- 315 ettes."

X-Q. 41. Now, you testified as to a certain conversation you had with two people representing the Beech-Nut Packing Company in which you told them that some of your customers had thought the cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut people, and you related that conversation. How long ago was that conversation, Mr. Cauto?

A. That was,—well, it was a few months after the cigarettes came out,—when the cigarettes were new on the market.

316 X-Q. 42. How many Beech-Nut people came in to see you, do you remember?

A. Two people came in to see me from the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 43. And would you recognise those people if you saw them?

A. I think I would; I am not positive that I would.

X-Q. 44. You don't know what they look like?

A. No; I knew they were from the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

X-Q. 45. They said they were?

A. Yes.

317 X-Q. 46. Now, you are sure that you would recognize those people if you saw them?

A. I am not positive, because I only saw them once.

X-Q. 47. Are you absolutely sure that you would remember the entire conversation, word for word?

A. Oh, yes, I remember the conversation.

X-Q. 48. Every bit of the conversation?

A. I remember all the conversation, yes.

X-Q. 49. After a year has elapsed you remember all the conversation?

A. Yes, I remember practically just everything I said. In fact they told me that I was one of the few 318 that spoke the truth; that I wanted to deal fair with both sides and didn't want to show any partiality between them. I showed no partiality; I told them the truth, just as the facts were. They asked me if people asked if the cigarette was made by them, and I said, "Yes, they did; that there was a few people, a lot—(by a lot I meant 25 or 30 people)—although they didn't ask me how many,—"that thought the gum was made by the Packing Company people, and I told them that was not right." As I said before, if I misrepresented the gum, as made by the Beech-Nut people, they might buy more, or cigarettes, under that misrepresentation. I wanted to lead them on the right track and make them understand that the cigarette was made by the Lorillard Company. 319

Mr. Hinton (To the stenographer): Will you read the last answer of the witness?

(The last anwser is read.)

X-Q. 50. Did you mean gum in that answer which you have just made?

A. Cigarette, that the cigarette was made by the Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 51. But you said if you misled them as to the gum, as made by the Beech-Nut people, they might buy more of them,—what did you mean? 320

A. My idea is that they would buy more of the cigarettes. My idea was to be very careful not to misrepresent the product to the customers, because the Beech-Nut gum people, we do a lot of business with them just the same as we do with the Lorillard Company, and I wanted to play fair with both. But I don't think the gum helps the cigarette; on the other hand, the detail work of the Lorillard Company, the detail work they are doing on their proudct helps sell the cigarettes. 321

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as not responsive.

Mr. Cavanagh: Mr. Hinton must take the answer as he finds it. It appears to be responsive to the question.

X-Q. 52. How many people make purchases at your counter every day?

A. Over a thousand.

X-Q. 53. And you said that with respect to the ordinary customer who buys the goods he takes it and 322 walks out,—you don't know what he thinks as to who makes the product?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 54. You have no way of knowing at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 55. And any idea what you might think he thought would be your opinion?

A. That is all.

X-Q. 56. And you have been in the tobacco business a great many years, have you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 57. Could you describe those two people who 323 came in and talked to you?

A. Well, when they came in to me and I gave them what I thought—

X-Q. 58. Will you please answer the question. Can yeou describe the people,—can you describe them?

A. No, I can't describe them. They were strangers to me,—I can't describe them other than I know they were from the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the Beech-Nut gum people. I think one was a lawyer, I am not sure.

X-Q. 59. You don't know what he looks like?

A. No.

324

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 49. (By Mr. Cavanagh): Will you state whether or not in your experience you ever sold a tobacco product, such as cigarettes, on the reputation of a food product manufacturer, or gum manufacturer?

A. Oh, no.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination. 325

R-X Q. 60. (By Mr. Hinton): I understand you to mean that you never told anybody that any product was made by someone who did not make it?

A. That is it.

R-X 61. You would not misrepresent it?

A. No.

R-X Q. 62. Even if you could sell more of it?

A. No, I would not.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination. 326

R-D Q. 50. (By Mr. Cavanagh): Will you state whether or not you would try to sell, for example hats upon the reputation of a manufacturer of machinery, if you were in that line of business?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

327

HARRY KLEIN, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Harry Klein; 64 Allen Street, Boston, Mass.; age 28; at present cigar department manager for L. K. Liggett & Company, store 311, 375 Washington Street, Boston.

328 Q. 2. How long have you been with L. K. Liggett in this capacity?

A. In this particular store, for the last two years.

Q. 3. Before that where were you?

A. Before that I was for 11 months in the leather business in New Hampshire, and previous to that I was also employed by the L. K. Liggett Company, and also by Schulte & Company, New York.

Q. 4. They are cigar manufacturers and tobacconists?

A. Yes, sir; tobacconists.

Q. 5. As I understand it, you have for the last three 329 years been located at the Liggett address you have given?

A. It is about three years. Pardon me, before I went to this store they closed the store that they had on Summer Street, I was department manager there, and I had to wait four weeks until they got a place, and then I went up here. Why I remember it is because of my vacation. When you are with them about a year you get one week's vacation, and when you are with them over a year, and up to two years and more, you get two week's vacation.

Q. 6. In this Liggett store where you are now, what 330 kinds of goods do you sell, under your supervision?

A. Why, do you mean all kinds of goods? Tobacco, cigarettes, and razor blades and smokers' articles.

Q. 7. Do you sell any confections, chewing gum or the like?

A. No; I don't carry it on my counter. Some counters do, in the chain of stores.

Q. 8. Is this Liggett's store located in a business section or residential section?

A. Business section.

Q. 9. Approximately, how many customers do you serve a day there?

A. 500,—that is a general average. Saturdays it runs to 800. 331

Q. 10 I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which are in this case as an exhibit. Did you ever sell any cigarettes like that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. I also show you a package of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, which is also an exhibit in this case. Do you sell that?

A. No, sir; but I have seen it and lived with a man who chewed it up in New Hampshire. I know that they make it.

Q. 12. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco? 332

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 13. Do you know, of the Beech-Nut Packing Company or have you ever heard of them?

A. Yes, sir; I have heard of them. How I came to hear of them, when the candy clerk is out you have to go and wait on customers at that counter, and sell them gum; they ask for Beech-Nut gum, or Beech-Nut Mint, or cloves, which are all carried in the candy department.

Q. 14. Were you ever confused or under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people, or put out by the same people as put out the gum? 333

A. No, I was not. How I came to know it at first, we got a letter from the New York Office, what we call a circular letter, and it told us, or gave us authority to issue merchandise orders to representatives of P. Lorillard Co. for the purchase of cigarettes, Beech-Nut cigarettes, which was to back up an advertising campaign which was being held in our territory.

Q. 15. Who was conducting this advertising campaign, and what was being advertised?

334 A. P. Lorillard Co., to my knowledge, was conducting the campaign and they were advertising Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 16. How long ago is that, about?

A. Well, it seems to me that it was about, pretty near a year ago.

Q. 17. As I understand it, you sell goods yourself across the counter, do you not, on certain occasions?

A. Always; I have charge of the cigar department there, that is my business.

Q. 18. Did you ever have any persons make any comments or remarks which would lead you to believe that 335 they thought the Beech-Nut Packing Company, who make the Beech-Nut gum, were also manufacturers of the cigarette?

A. Not in the store.

Q. 19. You never had any customers who thought that?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as entirely incompetent, leading and as calling for an opinion and conclusion of the witness.

A. Not one customer in the store.

336 Q. 20. Would you yourself be led into confusing a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, or a package of this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco with a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. No, because they are in different packings or cartons. When you pick up a carton of these cigarettes, or the Scrap tobacco, it is in an entirely different carton, or box from what the Beech-Nut gum would come in, or any kind of gum, for that matter, that I have ever seen.

Q. 21. How would the comparative appearance of the cigarette package and the Scrap tobacco package strike you in connection with the gum package?

A. It would not strike me as very similar, because 337 one is red when you first glance at it, if you are not looking at anything central, and the other, it seems yellow, on the gum package particularly; but if you are handling the candy, the cloves they are brownish like, and the mint green. They don't seem to have any staple color for any of the Beech-Nut products.

Q. 22. You have never seen any package of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that resembles the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes

A. No.

Q. 23. And you have never seen any package of the Beech-Nut Packing Company that resembles the pack- 338 age of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. No; we have never put the tobacco in the store.

Q. 24. Have you ever seen a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes that didn't have the name of "P. Lorillard Co." on them, as shown on the sample package which I show you?

A. No.

Q. 25. Have you ever seen a package of Scrap tobacco that did not have the name, "Lorillard" on it?

A. No, I never have because I never handled it.

Q. 26. You note the name "Lorillard" on that pack- 339 age?

A. Yes, sir; when I picked it up. We don't carry it.

Q. 27. And "P. Lorillard Co." on the cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 28. What would that indicate to you as to the source of manufacture?

A. That P. Lorillard Co. was manufacturing both.

Q. 29. Did you ever hear of the Beech-Nut Packing Company making any cigarettes, or any tobacco product?

A. No; I never heard of them making any tobacco product. I understand that they put up such things as ham, in glass, and different products of that kind.

340 Q. 30. Food products, you mean?

A. Yes, food products.

Q. 31. Did you ever hear of the Lorillard Company putting out food products, or chewing gum?

A. No; all my time in the tobacco business I knew they were tobacco manufacturers, that they manufactured cigarettes and smoking tobacco and chewing tobacco.

Q. 32. State whether or not any customers ever asked you for any cigarette made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Why, no, I never had anybody ask me for any 341 cigarettes in particular.

Q. 33. What would be your opinion of a person who came into your store and wanted to buy a package of Beech-Nut gum, and walked out with a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in the place of the gum?

A. Why, I would either think a man was one who ought to have been sent for observation, or taken under observation by somebody, or that he ought to have his eyes tested. So far as that is concerned, he would be a good fellow to do business with, because if he gave you a ten dollar bill, you could give him 50 cents in change, and he would probably walk out with it. There 342 is never a person I have known—and I say I wait on 500 customers every day,—with the exception that I am out now and not waiting on them—who has asked me, or who has become confused between the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut chewing gum. When a man comes in and says, "Beech-Nut gum" or "Spearmint", I say, "On the candy counter," and if I look down there and the girl is not there, it is my work to go and get the nickel, or whatever money he wants to leave.

Q. 34. In your experience in the tobacco business, what is the reputation of P. Lorillard Co. as tobacco manufacturers?

A. It is now and has been of the highest; and in 343 fact the men I have come in contact with, and I have come in contact with quite a few, have always represented what was advertised, and they never misrepresented any article; and if there was anything faulty with their product they were willing to make it good.

Q. 35. State whether or not you ever heard the Lorillard man, or any jobber, or dealer in these cigarettes represent them to be a part of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's product?

A. I never heard anyone state that.

Q. 36. Previous to your being called as a witness in this case, did anyone ever approach you relative to mak- 344 ing a statement in connection with this litigation?

Mr. Hinton: Question objected to as entirely incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; surely conversations between the witness and alleged Beech-Nut people are not admissible in this case.

A. Yes, sir; somebody, I don't remember who they were, two gentlemen who represented the Beech-Nut Packing Company, they came in and asked me about it. I didn't have to say anything,—in fact they did all the talking, and I kept quiet; they asked me if I would 345 swear to something and I said I would not.

Q. 37. In a general way, what did they want you to testify to?

Mr. Hinton: Question objected to as entirely incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant; surely conversations between the witness and alleged Beech-Nut people are not admissible in this case.

A. They wanted me to testify that people were becoming confused between the two products, the Beech-Nut gum and the Beech-Nut cigarettes, and I knew my 346 own mind was clear about that, and I could not say it. As I stated before, we would say a man was crazy if he came in for a 5 cent package of Beech-Nut gum, which is a 5 cent article, if he was given a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, we would say, "Hold on, that is 15 cents." Anybody could see he was wrong if he accepted it, but if he kept on running to get out we would be out 10 cents. So I couldn't see my way clear to swear to an affidavit, or something I didn't believe.

Mr. Hinton: Answer objected to as entirely incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial and as referring 347 to a conversation between witness and other parties entirely inadmissible here, and as based on hearsay.

Q. 38. So you refused to testify for them?

A. I didn't refuse, or say I would. I kept quiet. You know how it is; sometimes you don't say yes and you don't say no.

Q. 39. Just what question did this Beech-Nut Packing Company man ask in connection with the cigarettes?

Mr. Hinton: Objection repeated.

A. He asked me if anybody became confused, or if 348 they thought that the Beech-Nut Packing Company was making the cigarette.

Q. 40. What answer did you give him?

Mr. Hinton: Objection repeated.

A. I told him I couldn't see how that could be possible.

Q. 41. How long ago was this,—a little over a year ago?

A. I wouldn't say over a year ago; it was a month or two after the Beech-Nut cigarette had been advertised.

Q. 42. To what extent, to your knowledge, have the Beech-Nut cigarettes been advertised around here? 349

A. In the newspapers, sampling by the salesmen, and we also had authority to keep a poster on the window while the entire campaign was in progress in Boston, which lasted a little over a month, I believe.

Q. 43. So far as your experience goes, could you state whether or not Beech-Nut cigarettes were ever sold on the reputation of the Beech-Nut gum?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for the mere opinion of the witness.

A. No, sir; I don't think they ever were. 350

Q. 44. Would you think that the Lorillard Company, as a tobacco concern, and from your experience in the business, would have to sell their goods on the reputation of any food or gum concern?

Mr. Hinton: Same objection.

A. No, sir.

Q. 45. I call your attention to one of the packages of P. Lorillard Co. Beech-Nut cigarettes which is covered with tissue paper. Do you have any trouble in reading that name, "P. Lorillard Co." through that paper? 351

A. No.

Q. 46. Can you state whether or not, of your own knowledge, it is customary in the cigarette business to cover the packages with transparent paper?

A. Yes; they always cover them so that the cigarettes will be in proper condition when they reach the customer. I think it is a good custom to do so. Egyptian Deities or Murads,—in fact all of the high grade cigarettes, the Turkish cigarettes, are covered with wax paper to preserve the flavor in them.

Q. 47. Would you regard tobacco products, such as 352 cigarettes and Scrap tobaccos, the same or a different class of goods from food products, chewing gum, and the like?

A. I would regard it as a different class of goods entirely.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Cross-Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You don't carry Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco in your store, do you, Mr. Klein?

A. No, we don't.

353 X-Q. 2. Now, you have been with the Liggett Company for about two years?

A. Where I am at the present time.

X-Q. 3. And how long altogether?

A. Well, on and off, about six years.

X-Q. 4. And prior to that were you with the Schulte Company?

A. For six months.

X-Q. 5. What were you doing before that?

A. I was with the Liggett Company.

X-Q. 6. Always in the tobacco department?

A. With the exception of once I was in the leather 354 business for 11 months.

X-Q. 7. When was that?

A. That was right after I left Schulte, and up to the time I came back.

X-Q. 8. Schulte ran that big bunch of chain stores in New York, and different places?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 9. Tobacco stores only?

A. That is all they ran, was tobacco stores and smokers' articles.

X-Q. 10. Now, before you put in these Beech-Nut cigarettes, I understand you got some kind of an advance notice from headquarters that they were coming out? 355

A. We did.

X-Q. 11. With authorization that you order those cigarettes?

A. To back up their advertising campaign. That is, so far as I can remember the letter read in that way, authorizing us to issue merchandise orders.

X-Q. 12. You haven't any recollection what the letter stated, but it was to that general effect?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. You knew the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the Lorillard Company? 356

A. Yes, sir, because it said if representatives of the Lorillard Company, if they came, to issue orders to them.

X-Q. 14. And you had not up to that time seen the cigarettes, but you knew in advance who made them?

A. No, I hadn't seen them, but I knew in advance that it was coming.

X-Q. 15. And who made it?

A. Yes, P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 16. And you can't remember that you ever had any of your customers make any inquiries about the manufacturer of the cigarettes?

A. No. 357

X-Q. 17. They just came in and asked for Beech Nut cigarettes, and walked out with the goods?

A. That is all.

X-Q. 18. The same as they do with Camel cigarettes?

A. Yes, that is all they done was to ask for Beech-Nut. When they first came out they were 15 cents, and when they were reduced to two for a quarter, why, of course their sales increased.

X-Q. 19. Did they ever come in and ask for just "Beech-Nuts"?

A. Yes, occasionally a man would come in and say "Beech-Nut," and lay down 15 cents.

358 X-Q. 20. Do you carry Beech-Nut gum on your counter?

A. Not on my counter.

X-Q. 21. So if he comes to your counter, you know he wants cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. And you don't carry scrap tobacco in the store?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 23. Now, in answer to one of the questions, Q. 21 when you were asked about the comparison between the gum package and the scrap tobacco package and the 359 cigarette, you said:

> "It would not strike me as very similar, because one is red when you first look at it, if you are not looking at anything central, and the other it seems yellow, on the gum package particularly; but if you are handling the candy, the cloves they are brownish like, and the mint green. They don't seem to have any special color for any of the Beech-Nut products.

What did you mean by that expression "if you are not looking at anything central?"

360 A. What I meant by that was this: This package of Beech-Nut tobacco, that has got red on it; although the Beech-Nut cigarettes have red on them. That is their main color, you see. While on the Beech-Nut gum, if you pick it up, it is yellow, which is true, and if you pick up a package of cloves, that is another color, and also the mints. The lime tablets are also green. I spoke of eye sight, when I had to go from the tobacco counter to wait on someone at the candy counter—

X-Q. 24. All I am concerned is the expression "if you are not looking at anything central". What did you mean by that expression in your answer?

A. Why, from what the gentleman here asked me— 361
he asked me if I would get confused, and I said not at all, nothing would confuse me, because there was no similarity that I could see.

X-Q. 25. What did you mean by the expression "if you are not looking at anything central", in your answer?

A. Well, before a customer came in you might be looking at anything at all, and when he comes in your attention is on him, to get just what he wants as quick as you can get it to him. I don't remember that I used the word "central." Did I?

Mr. Cavanagh: I don't remember. It is in the 362
answer.

X-Q. 26. You were talking about these packages and you were asked (Q. 21) "How would the comparative appearance of the cigarette package and the scrap tobacco package strike you in connection with the gum package?" And you said, "It would not strike me as very similar, because one is red when you first glance at it, if you are not looking at anything central," all I want to get at is what you mean by "if you are not looking at anything central?"

A. Well, as I said a moment ago, just before some- 363
one might come in you would have nothing on your mind, and when the man comes in and says, "Beech-Nut cigarettes," or he might ask for Murads, or Dieties, and then your mind is concentrated on what he is asking for, and you look for it.

X-Q. 27. Didn't you have reference to the background on the package—

Mr. Cavanagh: Objected to. The witness is just answering the question, what he had reference to.

364 X-Q. 27. (Continued) —and the cigarette package is red and white, and the Beech-Nut gum might be yellow, and different colors on other products, isn't that it?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. That is what you had in mind?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. As distinct from the central devices?

Mr. Cavanagh: The witness made no reference to central devices on packages; he explained what he meant by the expression, "if you were not looking at anything central".

365 Mr. Hinton: I object to this constant interference with the cross-examination.

Mr. Cavanagh: This is not interference with the cross-examination, but, as a matter of law of evidence the witness has already answered the question as to what he meant by the word "central," that his mind was not concentrated until the customer came to him.

Mr. Hinton: The record speaks for itself. Now, continuing the testimony, if I may.

X-Q. 30. You said that you had in mind the back-
366 ground of the package of the cigarette, which is red, and the scrap tobacco, which is red and white, while on the Beech-Nut Packing Company products, you mentioned that it might be yellow or any other color?

A. Yellow, and the different colors I have mentioned on the different products.

X-Q. 31. You are talking about the background as distinguished from the central device on the package?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: The witness has already answered what he meant by the word "central," and that he was not speaking about any central figure on the 367 package itself.

Mr. Hinton: The interference of Mr. Cavanagh is entirely improper.

X-Q. 32. Now, in the ordinary course, Mr. Klein, if a man comes into your store and wants a package of Camel cigarettes, he asks for Camels, and puts his money on the counter and walks out and he doesn't tell you anything about what he thinks about who makes the Camels; is that the fact?

A. Why, that is true.

X-Q. 33. And the same thing with the Fatima cigarette, or the Lucky Strike, or anything else? 368

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. They come in and ask for what they want, and put their money down, and then walk out?

A. Why, that is the general course.

X-Q. 35. And you can't tell by looking at a customer's face when he walks in the store or the back of his head when he walks out what he thinks about who makes the product he is buying?

A. Why, not unless he tells you what he thinks.

X-Q. 36. Perhaps you don't understand. A customer comes in, and wants Camel cigarettes, and asks for 369
Camel cigarettes. You can't tell by looking at his face when he walks up to you, or at the back of his head when he walks away, anything about what his idea is as to who makes the Camel cigarettes,—do you understand that?

A. You want to know if when a man comes in and says, "Give me Camel cigarettes", what he is thinking about, with reference to who makes Camel cigarettes?

X-Q. 37. Yes.

A. The only thing I could tell you, if he likes Camel cigarettes that is why he is buying them.

370 X-Q. 38. And except that you have been told by some customer, you would not know who he thought made any product that he was buying?

A. Why, he wouldn't know unless he looked at the package, because practically every manufacturer puts his name right on the package. It would not be necessary for him to ask the clerk whom he was buying it from.

X-Q. 39. Do you know what is written on a package of Camel cigarettes under the picture of the camel?

A. R. J. Reynolds.

X-Q. 40. And that is on the front of the package?

A. What do you mean, where it is on the package?

371 X-Q. 41. On the front of a package of Camel cigarettes, underneath the picture of the camel, do you know what is written there?

A. Well, there is camel in the middle, isn't there? Where do you mean on the package?

X-Q. 42. Below the picture of the camel?

A. R. J. Reynolds.

X-Q. 43. And what is written on a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel containing "Lucky Strike"?

A. American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 44. That is on the front, on the bottom of the 372 package?

A. It is.

X-Q. 45. I show you a package of Camel cigarettes, and you see that you are wrong in your answer to that question; you see that the name of "R. J. Reynolds" does not appear under the picture of the camel, do you not?

A. Well, I was of the opinion that it was. Let me see the package a minute. (Witness examines package of Camel cigarettes).

X-Q. 46. Now, thinking again about a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes, you are not at all sure now that the name "American Tobacco Co." appears under the red panel with the name, are you? 373

A. I will bet you a straw hat that the name, "American Tobacco Co." is on the package.

X-Q. 47. It is somewhere, but about the position, near the bottom, you can't say with certainty that the name "American Tobacco Co." is there, can you?

A. No.

X-Q. 48. As a matter of fact, it is not, if you will take my word for it. Now the reason you thought the name "American Tobacco Co." was on the Lucky Strike package, and the name "R. J. Reynolds" was on the Camel cigarette package, was because you knew 374 that those concerns were making those products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. That is the reason you would expect to find it, that you know that those concerns were manufacturing those cigarettes, and that you would find the name on the package somewhere?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 50. Now, you have said that two people from the Beech-Nut Packing Company came to see you. How long ago was that?

A. Oh, well,—it must have been a little over a year ago, or more, I believe. 375

X-Q. 51. And you didn't say much to them one way or the other about it?

A. I didn't, no.

X-Q. 52. You didn't commit yourself?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 53. And you told them that you hadn't heard any remarks or comments from your customers about the question of who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I told them that no customers I had had, had asked me anything,—about who the different manufacturers were,—whether the Beech-Nut Company was making the cigarette.

376 X-Q. 54. That was the extent of the information that you gave them at that time?

A. Yes, that is right.

X-Q. 55. Did you previously tell a man who came into your store that you thought the Beech-Nut cigarettes were selling at the beginning because they had the name "Beech-Nut" on them?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 56. You don't remember that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 57. With respect to this visit of these two people you are talking about now, you merely said that 377 you hadn't had any cases of comments or remarks or inquiries from your customers?

A. That is just what I told them.

X-Q. 58. And did you tell them that nobody would take a package of gum in the place of a package of cigarettes?

A. They didn't ask me that question, so I had no occasion to tell them.

X-Q. 59. You say here, when you were asked what these people wanted you to testify,—in answer to question 37 in your direct examination:

378 "They wanted me to testify that people were becoming confused between the two products, the Beech-Nut gum and the Beech-Nut cigarettes, and I know my own mind was clear about that, and I could not say it. As I stated before we would say a man was crazy if he came in for a 5 cent package of Beech-Nut gum, which is a 5 cent article, if he was given a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, we would say, "Hold on, that is 15 cents." Anybody could see he was wrong if he accepted it, but if he kept on running to get out we would be out 10 cents. So I couldn't see my way clear to swear to an affidavit, or something I didn't believe."

Now, in that part of your direct examination you were talking about confusing a package of cigarettes with a package of gum? 379

A. Why, yes.

X-Q. 60. And then you also said in that answer that the people who came in wanted you to testify, "that people were becoming confused between the two products." But you have just said that they did not ask you that question.

A. They did want me to testify.

X-Q. 61. They did, or did not?

A. They asked me if I would swear to something, and I said no. 380

X-Q. 62. What was it they wanted you to swear to?

A. That people were becoming confused between the two packages.

X-Q. 63. You just said two or three minutes ago you didn't say so.

A. What didn't I say?

Mr. Hinton (To the stenographer.) Will you turn back and read his testimony on that.

(The last seven questions and answers are read by the stenographer.)

381

X-Q. 64. In other words, if I understand this record which we have just had read to us, you say in your direct testimony that they wanted you to testify to a confusion between the two packages, and now, as well as you can recollect, you say that they did not ask you that particular question.

A. I said they did.

X-Q. 65. Didn't you just say they did not?

Mr. Cavanagh: He didn't say any such thing. You must read the record straight. Now, I will 382 ask the stenographer to go back and read the testimony again.

(The testimony is again read.)

The Witness: They did ask me.

X-Q. 66. They did ask you that question?

A. Why, sure, they asked me that question. Now, let me say something: When two men are talking to you and you are at the counter and they are talking to you, you can surmise from their talk to you just what they have in mind. If you say to me from their remarks, did they want you to testify, my answer is yes.

383 X-Q. 67. You don't remember the language that they used? A. No, I don't.

X-Q. 68. You could not positively remember very definitely after a year what they said?

A. No, I can't remember definitely, but I am telling you that that is what they were really after.

X-Q. 69. That is what you thought they were after?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 70. That is what you made up your mind they were after, but you can't quote their words?

A. No, I can't quote their words, but that is what I made up my mind they were after.

384 X-Q. 71. That is what you understood they were after?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: In view of the statement of the witness, the objection to question 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, in the direct examination, is emphatically repeated.

X-Q. 72. Now, going back to the time when the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came out, and you put them in, Mr. Klein, did they go pretty well from the beginning, do you remember?

A. Why, for a new brand they took hold fairly well.

X-Q. 73. Did you make any special effort to push them? 385

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 74. Did you ever tell anybody that the word "Beech-Nut" was a good name and would sell the cigarette, that you remember?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 75. You don't remember having said that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 76. Did you make any special effort at the time the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came out to make a note of, or remember any conversation that you may have heard over the counter about them? 386

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 77. You didn't try to remember anything that may have been said?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 78. Waiting on hundreds of customers a day, you could not possibly remember any incidental conversation that may have occurred a year ago?

A. Why, I could remember it if it was something which would be out of the ordinary routine.

X-Q. 79. But I mean the ordinary discussion with customers?

A. No. 387

X-Q. 80. You would not remember it, and there was no reason why you should make a note of it?

A. No.

X-Q. 81. And there may have been some remarks at that time that you have forgotten; it is possible, isn't it?

A. No, I don't think there were any remarks with reference to Beech-Nut gum or Beech-Nut cigarettes that I would forget so easily, because I don't handle the gum on my counter.

X-Q. 82. But you don't just happen to remember any such remarks?

388

A. No; I never had a customer get confused on my counter between the two products.

X-Q. 83. They knew the difference between the gum and cigarettes?

A. They did, those I waited on.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Redirect Examination.

R-D Q. 48. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Will you state whether or not if customers have come to your counter 389 and made inquiries as to whether the cigarette was made by the same people as made the gum that you would have remembered the fact of such inquiries?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 49. In your cross-examination you were asked about some central figures on the scrap tobacco and cigarette package and the gum package. Will you state whether or not you can distinguish between the 390 central figures on the scrap tobacco and cigarette packages, and the central figure on the gum package?

A. You mean those two (indicating a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum)?

R-D. Q. 50. Yes.

A. Why, yes.

R-D Q. 51. You had no difficulty in that respect?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as grossly leading.

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross examination. 391

R-X. Q. 84. (By Mr. Hinton.) All three of those central devices are oval, are they not,—oval like an egg?

A. Yes.

R-X. Q. 85. And all three have the name, "Beech-Nut" around the top part of the oval, generally?

A. Well, one has "Beech-Nut" and the other has "Beech-Nut Brand" for the first letters over it.

R-X. Q. 86. How about the inside of the line of the oval, the Beech-Nut?

A. That also has Beech-Nut underneath

R-X. Q. 87. Do you see any similarity between those 392 central devices?

A. No, sir, I do not.

R-X. Q. 88. Absolutely conspicuously different?

A. They are, sir.

R-X. Q. 89. Nothing alike about them at all?

A. Not that I can see.

R-X. Q. 90. No similarity at all?

A. No, sir.

R-X. Q. 91. Just as different as the Camel is from the Lucky Strike?

A. Yes.

393

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 52. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Taking those central devices as a whole, in the comparison of the cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco with the Beech-Nut Packing Company's mark, would you have any difficulty in distinguishing those two, one from the other?

A. What is that?

R-. Q. 53. Would you have any difficulty in distin-

394 guishing that central device from that central device (referring to a package of cigarettes, a package of scrap tobacco, and a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?)

A. No, I would not.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

395 Room 401, 53 State Street, Boston, Mass.,

August 9, 1922.

The taking of testimony resumed at 10.30 A. M. Present, as before.

BENJAMIN HURVITZ, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and 396 occupation?

A. My name is Benjamin Hurvitz; my age is 29; residence 29 Calder Street, Dorchester, Mass.; occupation, in the tobacco business now. If you want my profession why, that is different. I don't know how long I will be in it.

Q. 2. Are you in business for yourself,

A. No, I represent Mr. Solomon Hurvitz; that is, I am his manager.

Q. 3. Is he a relative of yours?

A. My brother.

Q. 4. How long have you been in the tobacco business?

A. Oh, this is counting. Well, steadily, I have been 397 in it for the last four years, but on and off,—that is, with my father,—and previously I have seen the tobacco business, and been in it to some extent, for 20 years.

Q. 5. Where is the store located where you work?

A. 42—44 Salem Street, Boston.

Q. 6. Is this in a business section or a residential section?

A. It is business; there are a few residences, but they are practically gone; it is in the market section,—in fact it is in the tobacco section there.

Q. 7. How many customers a day do you serve down there?

398

A. Oh, during week days we serve about a thousand, or eleven hundred, and Saturday we serve, Oh, as high as twenty-two or twenty-three hundred. That is, upon an average, about fifteen hundred customers.

Q. 8. What kind of goods do you sell besides tobacco?

A. We sell strictly tobacco,—we handle practically no pipes,—and of course we sell gum. Gum is our only—well, gum, and at the present time there are life savers, that stuff—it is our only side issue.

Q. 9. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, like these packages which I show you?

A. We sell them both.

399

Q. 10. Do you sell the Beech-Nut gum, like this box, in packages like these, which I show you?

A. Yes, sir; we sell that too.

Q. 11. Whose product, if you know, are the Beech-Nut-cigarettes and the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. The cigarettes and scrap tobacco are products of P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 12. Whose product is the chewing gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing people, with that queer name, the city they belong to.

400 Q. 13. How long have you known the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Oh, ever since I have known the tobacco business; that is, nearly 20 years, since the days of my memory of it, I guess.

Q. 14. So far as you know, what is the reputation of P. Lorillard Co. in the tobacco business?

A. I wish I possessed the same—an admirable one.

Q. 15. Were you ever under the impression that either the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like the packages you have examined, were put out by the same people that put out the Beech-Nut chewing 401 gum?

A. Never; never was under that impression.

Q. 16. State whether or not you ever had any inquiries or heard any comments from customers or others that would lead you to believe that they were under such an impression?

A. Well, really, in the handling of cigarettes and gum,—or cigarettes, rather, from the time of its inception, and the gum at pretty nearly the same time,- and of course that is almost a year and a half now; and the inquiries whether Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut gum were made by the same company haven't been 402 over two or three,—they have been by retail consumers only.

Q. 17. And what did you tell the retail consumers when they asked this question?

A. Well, the way we put it to the retail consumer, wanting to make the sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes, to make our allotment, we emphatically told them that they were made by the people who made the Helmars, Trophies, Moguls, Murads, and so forth, which were made by the Lorillard Company.

Q. 18. These are well-known brands of cigarettes, are they that you have mentioned?

A. Yes; these are well-known brands. 403

Q. 19. State whether or not you have sold either the Beech-Nut cigarette, or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, as the product of the same people who make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Never sold them as made by the same company. The cigarettes and tobacco are made by an entirely different company.

Q. 20. And you regard tobacco as entirely different from gum and food products?

A. Always. In fact gum has only been handled by us for the last year and a half.

Q. 21. State whether or not you ever saw a package 404 of Beech-Nut cigarettes that did not bear the name of "P. Lorillard Co." on it?

A. No; they all bear the name "P. Lorillard Co."

Q. 22. And did you ever see a package of Scrap tobacco that did not bear the name "Lorillard's" on it?

A. The same answer applies to the tobacco.

Q. 23. Did you ever know the Beech-Nut Packing Company to put out any tobacco products?

A. No; if they had put out tobacco products we would have been interested to buy their product.

Mr. Hinton: What is that? 405

The Witness: If we did know they put out tobacco products we would buy their tobacco products direct. But, so far as I know, they don't put it out.

Q. 24. Did you ever know the P. Lorillard Co. to put out any food products?

A. No.

Q. 25. Or gum?

A. No; They never put out gum.

Q. 26. So far as you know, to what extent has the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco of P. Lorillard Co. been advertised in this Boston section?

406 A. Oh, they have been very greatly advertised. In fact they have been advertised so as to enable us to sell them in considerable quantities.

Q. 27. Did you ever have any customer come into your store and want to buy some Beech-Nut gum, and did you sell him some Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, or Beech-Nut cigarettes, in the place of the gum?

A. Why, the only way we do it at the store, when a man said "Beech-Nut" if he wanted cigarettes, he would say Beech-Nut cigarettes; and if he said "Beech-Nut" we would always take it for granted that he meant cigarettes. If he specified gum, we would give him gum.

407 We gave him what he asked for.

Q. 28. But you did not confuse the two?

A. Not in the wholesale trade, but in the retail trade, there is a "fire back", you know. They ask for gum—for instance they want Beech-Nut gum and they ask for "Beech-Nut", sometimes, without really specifying. But the confusion is really negligible; we have really no trouble about that.

Q. 29. What I meant is this: If a person came to your store and wanted to buy a box of Beech-Nut chewing gum, and asked you for that article—

A. (Interrupting) He would positively get it.

408 Q. 30. You would not give him Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Positively not.

Q. 31. Or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 32. Can you state from your experience whether or not it is the practice to wrap a package of cigarettes in transparent paper, like this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes before you?

A. The practiice, well it is not universal, but it is becoming universal, on what we call the cup or oval packages.

Q. 33. Then you know that it is the practice to wrap certain packages of cigarettes with glazed tissue paper?

A. It is the practice, positively; to what extent,— 409
I am just merely qualifying,— to what extent, I can't say, that is all.

Q. 34. Do you have any difficulty in reading the name "P. Lorillard Co." on this package of cigarettes which I show you?

A. No, not at all; there is no difficulty in reading it.

Q. 35. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing between a package of cigarettes, or a package of scrap tobacco, and a package of gum, or a box?

A. No; the real background colors on both of them are almost entirely opposite, one is red and the other is yellow, or light brown. 410

Q. 36. You are referrrirng to the Beech-Nut gum, or the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. The Beech-Nut gum has a yellow background, and the Beech-Nut cigarettes a red background.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is about all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) How many people wait on the counter in the store in which you are employed, Mr Hurvitz? 411

A. Well, those steadily employed there,—three of us,

X-Q. 2. Three of you who are working at the same time, or do you relieve each other?

A. Yes, we are in at the same time, because our store is kept on practically regular hours.

X-Q. 3. That means that you always have three clerks working there?

A. No; of course in the evening one is let off.

X-Q. 4. And there are two there then?

A. There are two right straight through the day time.

412 X-Q. 5. And on week days you wait on about a thousand customers?

A. A thousand customers week days; that includes wholesale and retail.

X-Q. 6. That is, you are expected to make about 500 sales a day yourself?

A. Yes, sir; about 400 or 500. Of course Saturdays we have a bigger trade. I am taking only the week day trade now.

X-Q. 7. What would be the Saturday trade?

A. The Saturday trade is from twenty-two to twenty-three hundred.

413 X-Q. 8. So that Saturdays you would wait on seven or eight or nine hundred?

A. We have extra help on Saturdays.

X-Q. 9. Yes. This is a pretty busy place.

A. We have two extra helpers on Saturdays.

X-Q. 10. Now, when you say that you have had only about two or three inquiries in respect to the question of whether or not the Beech-Nut people make the Beech-Nut cigarettes, of course you mean that you can remember?

A. Oh, yes I meant—I can't account for a year and a half, but, as I say, it was only at the beginning that 414 we had two or three calls, and after that there was no question at all.

X-Q. 11. That is, so far as you can remember there was not?

A. That is as far as I can remember. You know that it is impossible to remember, because we are handling such a large number of customers a day, and it is a difficult thing to remember specifically.

X-Q. 12. You don't make it a practice, and there is no reason why you should have paid any particular attention to that when the cigarette first came out?

A. No; there was no need of it.

X-Q. 13. Now, I suppose in the ordinary practice a customer walks into your store and asks for what he wants, and puts down his money, and takes the goods and walks out, and there is very little conversation between you and the customer? 415

A. There is very little, except perhaps at the time when we desire to push cigarettes, we desire to give a display, and we specialize sometimes for the company. That is, we give a favor for a favor, because it is the practice to do so; but in the ordinary run of business we give the customer what he asks for.

X-Q. 14. If a man comes into your store and asks for Camel cigarettes, you would naturally give him Camel cigarettes, and he walks out, and if he talks at all, it would be about base ball, or about some of the topics of the day, and not about who makes Camel cigarettes? 416

A. Yes, the business man would, but if he is a friend or some relative, or some family relation, we would probably talk about something else.

X-Q. 15. It would not be an ordinary incident if you discussed with a man who made the Camel cigarettes, or anything of the kind, would it?

A. No, it is not.

X-Q. 16. By the way, what is the printing on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel; do you know? 417

A. Why, I have not taken particular pains to notice it on any cigarettes because when I pick up a package of cigarettes and am asked what is printed on it, I read it off and tell the man,—when a man is asking who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes, I could tell him without looking, or Beech-Nut gum, but when you ask what is on any particular package it is difficult to remember.

X-Q. 17. You haven't noticed?

418 A. I haven't noticed in the ordinary small run, but asked to do a thing, it would be very easy to notice it.

X-Q. 18. In other words, if you are asked to look at a package of cigarettes to see what is printed on it, you would of course be able to look at it and tell what was on it, but aside from that you would not notice particularly?

A. Yes; but if you ask me what I do know, or what I notice, that is different. I know that practically all the companies print their names on the packages, particularly cigarettes. If you asked me to give those, referring to particular cigarettes, I could not say, but 419 I know that all do put their names somewhere on the package. You see there is a point there, on which way you ask your question.

X-Q. 19. Yes. Could you tell me offhand what is printed on the face of a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes, underneath the red panel?

A. Why, yes; on the Lucky Strike, the "American Tobacco Company" is on there. I remember about them. I don't remember about the Camels, but I will say that it is so used, because I know that the tobacco company is particular to get their name somewhere on the package in front.

420 X-Q. 20. On the front of the package underneath the red panel, you remember seeing that the "American Tobacco Co." is printed there?

A. I wouldn't say specifically in front of the package but I do know they print it on Lucky Strike to some extent,—and I know they have a label on the package, like stamping cigars, and the law applying to it; but on cigarettes I couldn't state specifically whether they all really do put it in front.

X-Q. 21. How many packages of Lucky Strike cigarettes do you suppose you have handed out over the counter? Of course you could not say within ten thousand.

A. I could give you a good estimate, very easily. Well, I should judge that we handle over the counter—you mean in single packages or cartons? 421

X-Q. 22. I am talking about the retail packages.

A. The retail packages,—we handle, I should judge, well—I should judge that we handle about 500 packages a day.

X-Q. 23. Now, you have been in the tobacco business for about four years?

A. That is steadily for four years now. I have been in the tobacco business a good number of years more than that; but if you ask me if that is my vocation, I would say yes, for the last four years. But I have been doing a tobacco business in off hours and vacation times longer than that, but most of my time has been spent in my profession. 422

X-Q. 24. You sell in your store a very small quantity of gum, relatively, and you don't feature your gum particularly?

A. No, we don't feature gum. We carry gum, because tobacco men who come in, simply demand it, and we carry it as an accommodation.

X-Q. 25. They expect to find gum for sale?

A. They expect to find gum, because we have to accommodate them, but we don't feature it in our business. Our business is tobacco. 423

X-Q. 26. Now, in regard to this business of the name on the retail package, if I understand you, you would not immediately notice and remember what is printed on a package of cigarettes, unless you were asked to look for it?

A. No, of course not. I have too many brands to look at,—too many brands to see.

X-Q. 27. Now, about these Mogul cigarettes and Murads,—and did you say Egyptian Dieties?

424 A. Yes, Dieties,—they are all included. I probably missed one or two of the brands, naming them offhand.

X-Q. 28. And in these one or two cases that you were asked about the manufacturer of Beech-Nut cigarettes, you told the people that they were made by the same crowd that made the Moguls and Murads?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. What manufacturer's name is featured on the Moguls and Murads and Dieties; do you know?

A. Why, I have never taken particular notice, as I say, of any particular case, but when you ask me to specify a case like the Beech-Nut cigarette, I know that 425 P. Lorillard Co. manufacture them. If you take one particular case I might be able to tell you; but if you are taking it offhand in a number of instances,—for instance, like the Camel, and I happen to notice it on the Camel, I could say whose name is printed on it, but if I didn't notice, I couldn't say. Of course I know who makes it, but I couldn't say whose name is on there; but in the case in question I happen to know that Lorillard's name is printed on Beech-Nut cigarettes and on the packages of Scrap tobacco. But I have not taken notice on either Helmars, or some of the other brands, but I do know it is not on the front of Helmars.

426 X-Q. 30. It is not on the front of Helmars?

A. No, I think not.

X-Q. 31. Now, how about the Egyptian Dieties and Murads and Moguls? What manufacturer's name is featured on those packages; do you know?

A. I don't think, so far as I remember, the name is featured on the front of the package.

X-Q. 32. There isn't any manufacturer's name featured on the front of the package?

A. No, not on the front. In the case of the high grade Turkish cigarettes you speak of, I think they are featured on the inside.

X-Q. 33. On the inside? 427

A. I think they are.

X-Q. 34. You must have sold a great many packages of Egyptian Dieties and Moguls??

A. Not so many Egyptian Dieties, but Moguls and Murads I have.

X-Q. 35. And you don't know whether there is any manufacturer's name featured on the front of those packages?

A. No, I don't think the manufacturer's name is featured on high grade cigarettes, not the name of the manufacturer.

X-Q. 36. You don't think it is? 428

A. I know they are featured, but I don't recall that they are featured on the front, I don't think they are. I know they are featured somewhere, but I think it is inside.

X-Q. 37. In what way is it featured on these brands?

A. The way it is featured, I think the original manufacturer's name is featured, and then the successor.

X-Q. 38. What is the original name?

A. I don't know how you pronounce it, S. Anargyros. In fact we receive their bills as "P. Lorillard Co. Successor to S. Anargyros", in the case of Turkish cigarettes. Whereas on the Beech-Nut cigarettes and Scrap 429 tobacco, we get the original P. Lorillard Co. bill.

X-Q. 39. And that is where you get your definite knowledge as to who makes them?

A. That is, as to the original maker,—and I don't say they are the original makers of Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Scrap, but our knowledge comes from the face of the bill, the maker of the cigarette, as I say,—The Turkish cigarettes, as I say, are somewhat different.

X-Q. 40. Well, then, if I understand your statement, except from the fact that you told these customers who inquired about it, they would have had very little opportunity to find out or know whether it was the Lorillard Company who made the Egyptian Dietics and the Moguls and Murads or not, no manufacturer's name being featured on that package; is that the case?

A. Why, just make that a little plainer, will you, please?

X-Q. 41. All I mean is that Anargyros' name is featured, as I understand you to say now, you think it was for instance on the Murad cigarettes. That would be the name that the customers would associate with the manufacture of those cigarettes, wouldn't it?

A. Not necessarily, because it is darned hard for customers to associate cigarettes with the man who makes them.

X-Q. 42. Is that so?

A. Very few customers ask me who makes Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut gum; they are not concerned about it.

X-Q. 43. They rely on the name and label?

A. That is the idea; but when you feature Beech-Nut cigarettes, as we feature cigarettes we give them all a show. Understand, we do not take any particular brand. We feature sometimes Camels. We are out for the sales, not any particular brand; and if we can qualify the cigarette, we do it. Now, with the Beech-Nut cigarette, we qualify it with the statement that it is made by the people who make a good brand of cigarettes, such as the Moguls, Murads, and Helmars. If a person comes in for chewing tobacco, and I am featuring Apple, I say it is manufactured by the same people who make Camels. They don't care who makes it, but it is customary for us to mention the name of the company to them.

X-Q. 44. What do you mean by, "It is the custom to tell them?"

A. We tell them who makes a cigarette and qualify 433 it with who makes some other brand along with it.

X-Q. 45. You do it in the ordinary course of business?

A. Oh, yes, in the ordinary sales.

X-Q. 46. If I came into the store and asked for a Camel cigarette, would you tell me who makes them?

A. Oh, no. If I was featuring Apple tobacco, and you came in and asked for B. L. and I wanted to feature Apple, I would ask you if you had ever tried Apple, and if you said no, I would tell you that is was manufactured by R. J. Reynolds, but at the same time we are not attempting to wean you from B. L., and give you 434
Apple. I am just featuring Apple for that day. We don't feature every day, but once in awhile we give each company an opportunity.

X-Q. 47. That is an effective way to sell; the one product on the other products?

A. The other products, on which we give the name of the company who makes them. I, as a matter of fact, know that the people who smoke care very little who makes it, some do, but, as a general rule people care very little, who smoke, who makes it.

X-Q. 48. If that is a fact, why do you tell them who makes it? 435

A. We simply prevent them from being misled. Now, I could just as easily say that Beech-Nut cigarettes are made by R. J. Reynolds Company, but that would not be just. Whether he is interested, I can't exactly say, except I do know that nine out of ten people are not interested in who makes any particular brand.

X-Q. 49. But you produce an effect on the sales by arguing it?

A. It is a fact, because we carry the other brand of cigarettes. If we are featuring a sale on Helmars, and the same company make Beech-Nut cigarettes, we mention the name.

436 X-Q. 50. You use that as a sale argument?

A. Of course in featuring for that day, we don't always do it, but if a man comes in and asks for Camels, I don't give him a Beech-Nut and try to push it over on him, but if I am specializing on Beech-Nut, I tell him they are made by the people who make —

X-Q. 51. The reason is that you are attempting an effective way to sell it?

A. That is the idea.

X-Q. 52. And if he has a high regard for that product, he is apt to buy it?

A. Certainly.

437 X-Q. 53. If he likes the other products of that company who makes the cigarette, the chances are that he will buy it?

A, Yes, sir.

X-Q. 54. Now, you say that people come into your store,—and I think it is common experience—and ask for "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. And if he comes in and asks for Beech-Nut —

A. (Witness interrupting) He usually refers to Beech-Nut cigarettes.

438 X-Q. 56. And if he asks for "Beech-Nut", you hand him cigarettes?

A. Yes, usually; but if he specifies gum, he gets Beech-Nut gum, and if he specifies Beech-Nut Scrap, similarly he gets Beech-Nut Scrap. So gum is in the same position as Beech-Nut Scrap. If he specifies Scrap, he will get Scrap; and if he specifies gum, he will get gum.

X-Q. 57. I see. If you happen to be right —

A. Why, in the usual course of business we are right, he usually gets cigarettes, but he gets what he wants, if it is not Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 58. Now, Mr. Hurvitz, I wish you would go back 439 in your mind, if you can, to the time you first put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes, and tell me, if you remember, how you came to put them in. Did a jobber, or a Lorillard man, or somebody come around and offer you these cigarettes, to put them in for you?

A. The Lorillard representative comes in, just as the representative of any company comes in, and we give them the same opportunity that we give every other big representive company that advertises their brand.

X-Q. 59. And he came in and told you that they were coming out with the Beech-Nut cigarette, and got you to take those cigarettes and sell them? 440

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. You knew that they were Lorillard products before you ever sold them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. That is true?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 62. Because you are in the tobacco business?

A. Exactly.

X-Q. 63. Now, about this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco. Do you sell much of that?

A. Well, we sell quite a bit of Beech-Nut Scrap, as a scrap tobacco. Scrap is, as a general rule, not very 441 largely sold, but we sell more Beech-Nut Scrap than any other scrap.

X-Q. 64. There is not much market in this territory for Scrap, is there?

A. No.

X-Q. 65. Not so much as there is in the Middle West?

A. No; I know that it is sold out in the Middle West to a considerable extent.

X-Q. 66. One more question. Where do you have your gum and hard candies — do you sell hard candies?

A. We don't sell them retail.

442 X-Q. 67. How about mints?

A. We don't sell them retail.

X-Q. 68. Or Life Savers?

A. We sell them wholesale.

X-Q. 69. Where do you display, for instance, gum, in your store?

A. The retail gum, we display it right on top of the cigar showcase.

X-Q. 70. And the cigarettes are behind?

A, The cigarettes are behind, just as any tobacco dealer keeps them. You know, the cigars are generally in the showcase, and the cigarettes are back, and the 443 usual practice is for the gum to be on the showcase, so that all the customer does, usually, is to help himself. We, on the contrary, keep them in jars, because we prefer to give it out ourselves so that there will be no handling of it.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 37. I just want to ask one or two questions
444 in re-direct examination. You spoke in your featuring the Beech-Nut cigarettes that you mentioned they were made by the same concern that made the Murad and Moguls and Egyptian Deities?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 38. That is, you mean P. Lorillard Co.?

A. The Lorillard Company, yes.

R-D Q. 39. Why would you make that statement in connection with the Lorillard Company?

A. Well, we make that statement because the public, —that is, any of those who use Helmars, Murads and Moguls, know that Lorillard makes good cigarettes.

R-D Q. 40. In other words, you are selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes on the reputation of the Lorillard Company? 445

A. Why, certainly. Our chances of getting returns on Beech-Nut cigarettes, or products of any other company, would be small, unless we have a reputable firm behind them.

R-D Q. 41. So, as I understand you, the reputation of the Lorillard Co. is sufficient to sell them?

A. Sufficient to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes, yes.

R-D Q. 42. State whether or not you have ever sold any Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, on the reputation of the Beech-Nut packing Company? 446

A. We never did, and we never would, no more than I do the Beech-Nut gum.

R-D Q. 43. Beech-Nut gum on what, on the reputation of the Lorillard Company?

A. I would not depend upon the reputation of one company to sell the other company's goods. I would not expect to do it to the Beech-Nut people any more than I would expect to do it to the Lorillard Company.

R-D Q. 44. As I understand it, you would not sell one product upon the reputation of another concern, which may be a different product, although they both have the same name? 447

A. No.

R-D Q. 45. In your opinion would a tobacco user, or a customer, prefer a tobacco product made by a tobacco company rather than made by a food product company?

Mr. Hinton: I object to that.

A. I refuse to render such an opinion. I can't get into a man's head—I would not venture to say what a man would do.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

448 Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 71. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Hurvitz, you say you never sold any of these Beech-Nut cigarettes on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I understand you to mean that you never told anybody that they were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Of course not. I would not tell anybody, and I would apply the same rule to the Beech-Nut Packing Company products, you understand. That is, I would not treat one fairly and the other unfairly.

R-X Q. 72. What you mean is that you didn't tell 449 anybody that these cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Positively; I never did.

Mr. Hinton: I think that is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 46. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) But I understand you to say that the reputation of the Lorillard Company was sufficient to sell their product?

A. Yes; I have stated that before.

450 Mr. Hinton: I object to that as leading in form and as a conclusion of the witness.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

JOHN A. RATTO, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is John A. Ratto; age 28; residence 10 Hull Street, Boston; occupation, I am running my father's store, a fruit store, at 143 Causeway Street, Boston.

Q. 2. What lines of goods do you sell in that store? 452

A. Fruits, that is the main line,—tobacco, candies, gum and groceries, and soda.

Q. 3. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes like this exhibit package?

A. Beech-Nut cigarettes, yes.

Q. 4. And do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like this exhibit package?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. And also the Beech-Nut chewing gum, like the box which I show you?

A. Yes; it is a good seller.

Q. 6. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut cigarette? 453

A. Lorillard, it is written right on the package there.

Q. 7. And who makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. The Packing Company.

Q. 8. The Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. Did you ever have the impression, or belief, that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same concern that makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No.

Q. 10. Did you ever know of anybody who was so confused?

1026

454 A. I never came in contact with anybody.

Q. 11. You never had any inquiries or heard comments that would lead you to believe that they were made by the same people?

A, No, never.

Q. 12. You say that the maker's name appears on the package. You have no difficulty in reading that name on the package of cigarettes, have you?

A. No.

Q. 13. If a customer came into your store and wanted Beech-Nut gum, woud you be so confused as to sell him Beech-Nut cigarettes for Beech-Nut gum?

455 A. No.

Q. 14. And likewise, if he wanted Beech-Nut cigarettes, you would give him Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. Whose cigarettes?

A. P. Lorillard's.

Q. 16. Why wouldn't you confuse cigarettes with chewing gum?

A. Why, because of the difference in the packages. In Beech-Nut gum there is but one beech nut with leaves around it, and with the cigarettes there are two beech nuts. And the cigarette has a yellow border, and around 456 the gum (pointing to the oval) it has a red border.

Q. 17. Then from the dress and shape of the package you would have no difficulty in distinguishing them?

A. No.

Q. 18. State whether or not you would ever be confused into taking any gum for any cigarette?

A. No.

Q. 19. Why not?

A. Why, usually when a person comes in they distinguish what they want, whether they want gum or cigarettes.

Q. 20. You would not confuse the two goods?

A. Not I.

Q. 21. What would you think of a man who would confuse gum with cigarettes? 457

A. I guess he would not know what he was going to purchase. That is what I figure.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You say you run a grocery store?

A. Grocery.

X-Q. 2. A delicatessen store?

A. No, just Italan goods. 458

X-Q. 3. Italian goods, an Italian grocery. You sell Beech-Nut Packing Company goods there?

A. Not outside of Beech-Nut gum.

X-Q. 4. You don't sell any of their goods except Beech-Nut gum?

A. No.

X-Q. 5. You don't sell marmalade or bacon?

A. No.

X-Q. 6. And you handle tobacco?

A. Tobacco.

X-Q. 7. Now, how did you come to put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes; do you remember? 459

A. How did I come to put them in?

X-Q. 8. Yes.

A. Well, they were being advertised and there was a demand for them.

X-Q. 9. Did the Lorillard man come around to see you and get you to put them in?

A. Why, yes, he came to see me, and I put them in, but there was a demand for them before he came around. I didn't put them in as soon as they were out.

X-Q. 10. How long have you been selling tobacco products?

460 A. All of eight years.

X-Q. 11. Do people come into your store and just ask for "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes, certainly.

X-Q. 12. When they just come in and ask for "Beech-Nut" and don't say whether it is tobacco, cigarettes, or gum, what do you give them?

A. I ask them to distinguish whether they want gum or cigarettes.

X-Q. 13. Do you sell Lucky Strike cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. Do you sell Camels?

461 A. Camels.

X-Q. 15. Do you sell Fatimas?

A. Fatimas.

X-Q. 16. And Chesterfields?

A. Chesterfields.

X-Q. 17. What is printed on the Lucky Strike package, underneath the red panel with the name "Lucky Strike" in it?

A. Well, I tell you, I never looked at it. I think it is the American Tobacco Company that is printed underneath there.

X-Q. 18. I mean on the front of the package?

462 A. I think it is the American Tobacco Company. I know it is made by them anyway. I know that.

X-Q. 19. Being in the business you would know that, of course?

A. Certainly.

X-Q. 20. Now, what is printed on the package of Fatima cigarettes underneath the picture of the girl with he cimitar?

A. I think Liggett & Myers is printed there.

X-Q. 21. And what is printed on the Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel?

A. R. J. Reynolds, I think. I know he makes them.

X-Q. 22. That is printed underneath the camel? 463

A. Well, I won't say for sure, but I know he is the man who manufactures them.

X-Q. 23. You never noticed really what is printed on any of these packages, did you?

A. Well, I know there is on everyone of them a label, I know that, of a manufacturer, that I know, but just exactly where it is I couldn't say.

X-Q. 24. But you never noticed what is printed on the front of these packages, and underneath the device, the conspicuous device that is there on the label; you never noticed what is printed on the bottom of the front of the package, did you,—no reason why you should? 464

A. No.

X-Q. 25. Now, how many customers do you wait on in a day, do you suppose?

A. Well, I couldn't say.

X-Q. 26. Just give me an estimate. Would it be fifty?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. One hundred?

A. Between fifty and one hundred.

X-Q. 28. An that is in the grocery trade, or the whole business?

A. Well, it is mostly fruit. We did have a good to- 465 bacco line until prices went up.

X-Q. 29. How many people work in this place?

A. There is five.

X-Q. 30. That is a family, is it?

A. No; there are three in the family and two outsiders.

X-Q. 31. And I suppose in the ordinary course, when a man wants to buy cigarettes he comes in and asks for whatever brand of cigarettes he wants, and puts down his money, and takes the cigarettes and walks out, and 466 you don't have any conversation with him about who makes them, or anything of the kind?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. If he came into your store and wanted Camel cigarettes, he would ask for Camel cigarettes, and you would give them to him and he would pay for them, and take them, and walk out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. That is the ordinary course?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 34. Now, can you remember when you put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes? A year ago was that?

467 A. I couldn't say.

X-Q. 35. About a year ago?

A. I can't remember that.

X-Q. 36. You don't remember when you put them in. You don't remember about when you put them in?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. Now, were you making any special effort at the time you put in those cigarettes, or have you since that time, to remember any discussion that you may have had with your trade about them?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 38. It would be ordinary casual conversation
468 with a customer, and there would be no reason why you should remember that conversation any more than any other?

A. No.

X-Q. 39. You were not asked to notice and remember about that, were you?

A. No.

X-Q. 40. And you would very likely forget such a conversation about the manufacturer of Beech-Nut cigarettes, or any other cigarettes?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 41. If a man asked you who made Camel cigarettes, you would not remember that for a year and a half? 469

A. Well, I know that.

X-Q. 42. I know, but you would not remember that he asked you,—you would not pay any attention to it?

A. I never had such a question thrown at me anyway.

X-Q. 43. Nobody asked you that question?

A. No.

X-Q. 44. But if you were asked you would not be apt to remember it?

A. I know who makes the brand.

X-Q. 45. You know who makes them, yes, of course. 470

A. Yes.

X-Q. 46. So far as you know you may have had discussion on this question of who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes, particularly, when they first came out, and it might slip your mind?

A. No, I never had any.

X-Q. 47. Are you positive of that?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 48. They just came in and bought them and walked out of the store?

A. That is all.

X-Q. 49. And of course what they thought you don't know? 471

A. Of course I couldn't read a man's mind.

X-Q. 50. No, you are not a mind reader, and you can't tell why they bought them. All you know is that they asked for them?

A. Well, we keep our tobacco counter in one place and the confectionery on the other side, so naturally if the man wants to buy gum, it is right in front of him, and if he wants to buy tobacco, he walks up to the tobacco counter.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

472 Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 22. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You knew the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 23. What is the reputation of P. Lorillard Co. as tobacco manufacturers?

A. So far as I find them, they are O. K., and one of the biggest tobacco manufacturers in the country.

R-D. Q. 24. So you sold the cigarettes on the reputation of the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

473 Mr Hinton: I object to that as leading. The witness has already testified that he has had no conversation with customers about the manufacture of cigarettes.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X. Q. 51. (By Mr. Hinton.) Didn't I understand you to say that you simply sold these cigarettes when people asked for them, and you didn't have any discussion with them about who made the cigarettes?

474 A. Why, yes, I don't believe that anybody asked about them.

R-X. Q. 52. You never had any occasion to discuss the question of who made the cigarettes with any of your customers that you can remember?

A. No.

R-X. Q. 53. They came in and asked for the cigarettes and they took them and walked out, and that is all there was about it?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination. 475

R-D. Q. 25. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) As I understand you, you got these cigarettes from the Lorillard Company, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 26. And you didn't sell them on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company, did you?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as grossly leading.

R-D. Q. 27. State whether or not you have ever told anyone that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people who make the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 476

A. No, I never told anyone that. In fact I have never had anybody throw that question to me.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X. Q. 54. (By Mr. Hinton.) As a matter of fact, you don't know why they buy the cigarettes, and as you said, you are not a mind reader, are you?

A. No. 477

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

478 MAX DUBLIN, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answers to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Max Dublin; age 32; I live at 1,326 Blue Hill Avenue, Mattapan; manager for my father, A. Dublin, wholesale and retail tobacconists at 834 Washington Street, Boston.

Q. 2. How long have you been in the tobacco business, Mr. Dublin?

479 A. Well, I have worked at it—I have been in it 16 years, but I have worked at it before that; but I have been with my father 16 years.

Q. 3. In your store do you sell any goods besides tobacco products?

A. Yes; a little stationery, magazines, and also gum.

Q. 4. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette, like this exhibit package which I show you, and also the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, like this exhibit package which I show you?

A. Yes.

480 Q. 5. And do you also sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 6 How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Why, since they came out.

Q. 7. About how long ago was that?

A. I can't remember dates.

Q. 8. To the best of your recollection, approximately how long ago, a month, or year, or what?

A. Oh, it is more than a year. Let's see how long is it? Why, I think it is over two years, but I am not positive.

Q. 9. Who, if you know, is the manufacturer of the 481
Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. The P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 10. And who, if you know, is the manufacturer of the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 11. So far as you know, what is the reputation of the P. Lorillard Co. as a tobacco manufacturer?

A. Why, I have never had any trouble; I have found them always honorable and I know they don't do any misrepresentation, so far as I am concerned.

Q. 12. Is it a well-known concern?

A. Yes, their name is well known by everybody. 482

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as a conclusion of the witness.

Q. 13. State whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco was made by the same people that make the gum?

A. No, sir, because I always knew the packing company, and the Lorillard Company. I know some of the brands they make I use in my own home.

Q. 14. You mean some of the brands of the Beech- 483
Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. What do you use in your own home of those brands?

A. My mother buys them. We have used a ginger ale of theirs, and I think it is a pickle she uses. You know what I mean. And she has got, I think, a syrup from the Beech-Nut people. I have seen the name on the table, something like that, that they have, on there (indicating).

Q. 16. You are pointing to a package of gum?

484 A. Yes; something like that they have on the gum.

Q. 17. State whether or not you ever had any inquiries or heard any comments or remarks which would lead you to believe that customers or others, were under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people who made the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Why, in my experience I haven't had anybody ask me, but in an offhand way sometimes one would say, "Is the one made by the other, or is the other made by the other," and I would say, "No, one is the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and the other is Lorillard." I said, "P. Lorillard Co. makes tobaccos and cigarettes, and the 485 Beech-Nut Packing Company makes food products."

Q. 18. Were you ever confused,—or would you ever confuse tobacco with food products?

A. No, sir; I would not.

Q. 19. What would you think of a person who would confuse tobacco with food products?

A. I would not say what I think about others.

Q. 20. Would you think that he didn't know, or that he was crazy?

A. I don't know, I can't understand, because the packing of the cigarettes is so different. You can always tell it, and you can tell a package of gum when you 486 see it.

Q. 21. Well, are they separate and distinct products in your opinion?

A. Yes, surely. In fact, the largest selling gum is Beech-Nut, larger than Wrigley's, and I never had anybody ask if this concern made cigarettes or Scrap tobacco. I mean that P. Lorillard Co. made the Beech-Nut gum or the Beech-Nut Packing Company ever made the Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 22. State whether or not you have ever sold any Beech-Nut cigarettes as, or told anyone that those cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I absolutely never did. I don't do that way. 487

Q. 23. State whether or not you have known these Beech-Nut cigarettes to be advertised?

A. They have been extensively advertised. In fact posters put up all over the stores, on the windows and newspaper advertising that I have read myself.

Q. 24. State whether or not you ever sold any Beech-Nut gum on the reputation of the Lorillard Company?

A. Well, I personally believe that the Beech-Nut Packing Company has a wonderful reputation, and I also believe that P. Lorillard Co. has a wonderful reputation; and I believe that the Beech-Nut Packing Company gum is selling on their own merit, and the cigar- 488 ettes are selling on their merit as being manufactured by the P. Lorillard Co.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as an opinion of the witness.

Q. 25. There is no confusion in your mind on this point at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. 26. State whether or not it is the practice, so far as you know, in the cigarette business, to wrap cigarettes in transparent paper, like this package of Beech- 489
Nut cigarettes which I show you?

A. That has been done for over five years to my knowledge. The different manufacturers started in, and they are practically all packing in this way, outside of a few packages of the Turkish goods.

Q. 27. Is your store located in a business section or a residential section?

A. Why, it is now practically a wholesale district,—or rather a retail district for credit furniture dealers. That is practically what is there now.

Q. 28. How many customers do you serve a day, about,—approximately, I mean?

490 A. Well, it is about 700 a day.

Q. 29. How did you come to know that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were put up by the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Why, it is customary when a new brand comes out, for a salesman to come in the store, and he says, "Here is a new product of the P. Lorillard Co." I happen to know who the P. Lorillard Co. are, but I know of dealers who do not know who the P. Lorillard Co. are, and the P. Lorillard Co. man says, "They manufacture Helmars and Trophies and Moguls, and so forth, and B. L. tobacco." So there is no confusion. They let them understand. They say, "This is the P. Lorillard Co. who 491 make these cigarettes."

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as the opinion of the witness.

Q. 30. And they state that the P. Lorillard Co. make these well-known brands?

A. Yes.

Q. 31. And it is on that reputation that they sell the cigarettes?

A. Yes. Anybody knows that when they buy a product from the P. Lorillard Co. they guarantee the brand, 492 that they put them in, and if anything goes wrong they have nothing to lose.

Q. 32. And that is the reputation of the Lorillard Co.?

A. That is the reputation of the P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 33. And their brands are well known?

A. Yes, they are very well known.

Q. 34. What are some of their other brands?

A. The B. L. chewing tobacco, Murad cigarettes, Helmars and Trophies and Moguls, and all the well-known brands.

Q. 35. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing a package of cigarettes, or a package of Scrap tobacco, from a package of gum, or food products?

A. No, sir. I sold Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco first. I 493 sold that long before I sold this. (Pointing to a package of Scrap tobacco, and also a package of cigarettes.)

Q. 36. How long have you been selling the Scrap tobacco, about?

A. Why, I have sold Scrap tobacco since we have been in business.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You say that the Beech- 494
Nut chewing gum is one of your best sellers. As a matter of fact it is your best selling chewing gum?

A. Yes, it is, in my store.

X-Q. 2. And you make approximately 700 sales a day in your store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. Do you mean that you personally make that many sales?

A. I didn't say that I make personally that number of sales. I say the sales in the store are about that.

X-Q. 4. How many clerks work in your store?

A. I and my father, and I have another gentleman 495 who helps me out.

X-Q. 5. How many are there ordinarily, one or more than one?

A. Sometimes one and sometimes two.

X-Q. 6. Never more than two?

A. Never more than two.

X-Q. 7. You are in the wholesale and retail business?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 8. And you operate that business in this same store, the wholesale sales and the retail?

A. Yes.

496 X-Q. 9. And you job these Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 10. And do you job other tobacco products?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 11. Do you job gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. When you talk about 700 sales a day, do you mean retail sales to consuming customers, or do you include the wholesale too?

A. No, sir; there are 700 retail sales. In fact, I believe it is more.

497 X-Q. 13. Just the retail sales?

A. Yes, sir. We also handle newspapers; don't forget that we sell over 200 newspapers a day. That is 200 customers. It probably looks large to you.

X-Q. 14. Now, you say that some dealers don't know who the P. Lorillard Co. are?

A. No, sir; some dealers do not.

X-Q. 15. You mean tobacco dealers?

A. Why, no, sir; they are fruit merchants, or maybe they run a barber shop and handle, as a side line, tobacco.

X-Q. 16. They handle tobacco?

498 A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 17. They handle cigarettes, and perhaps chewing tobacco and cigars there in that business?

A. It is a side line.

X-Q. 18. I am not talking about whether it is a side line or not. They are selling tobacco products to the public?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 19. And they don't know who the P. Lorillard Co. is?

A. Why, they are new merchants in the business, and they have not got to distinguish one manufacturer from the other. In fact, some think that the tobacco companies are one concern, because they buy all their tobacco from the jobber, and they think the jobbers are the owners of the product, when he sells it,—they think he owns the brand,—these small fellows don't know the difference. 499

X-Q. 20. They don't know who makes the stuff?

A. No, the small dealers who handle it as a side line; but there is nobody who sells tobacco only but who knows who manufactures it.

X-Q. 21. Would you expect a man in the tobacco business as you are, would know the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Certainly. 500

X-Q. 22. But a man who is handling tobacco as a side line may not,—that is about it, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir; that is, I have found some in my experience that way.

X-Q. 23. Now, when you mentioned Murads, Moguls, Egyptian Dieties,—do you know that brand?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 24. Do you know what manufacturer's name is featured and made prominent, if any, on those products?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. What?

A. Some of them say S. Anargyros, and it says on some, "Stock controlled by P. Lorillard Co." 501

X-Q. 26. What is featured on that package (showing witness box of Egyptian Dieties)?

A. Both names. The other name is written fancy, and the "P. Lorillard Co." is very plain.

X-Q. 27. Very small type, isn't it?

A. But it is distinct; you can see it.

X-Q. 28. You can see it if you look for it?

A. Well, I can see it, and I have poor eyesight.

X-Q. 29. Now, the Egyptian Dieties, do you sell those?

502 A. The Egyptian Dieties, I know all about the Egyptian Dieties, but I am not in a section that buys that cigarette,—I am not in a section where they pay 25 cents for a package of cigarettes.

X-Q. 30. How about the Murads, do you sell that brand?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. Is that an Anargyros brand?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 32. Is the name Anargyros featured on that?

A. It is on there.

X-Q. 33. Is the name, "P. Lorillard Co." printed on 503 there, do you know?

A. I think it is in the inside, on a piece of paper between the cigarettes, the name, "P. Lorillard Co." I am not positive, but I think it is.

X-Q. 34. Did you ever notice what is printed on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 35. You couldn't say, you never noticed?

A. I have never noticed.

X-Q. 36. You would never notice in the natural course of events, because you would simply take the cigarettes 504 off the shelf and hand them out?

A. I know that R. J. Reynolds make the cigarette, and I know they are Camels, and I put them on the shelf, and if anybody wants them I hand them out to them.

X-Q. 37. How many Camel cigarettes do you suppose you handle every day?

A. I handle 50 000 a week, I couldn't say by the day, but I know I buy 50 000 a week.

X-Q. 38. How about Lucky Strike cigarettes, do you happen to have noticed what is printed on the bottom of the front face of the Lucky Strike package?

A. I think it says on the Lucky Strike, "Man- 505 ufactured by the American Tobacco Co."

X-Q. 39. You know that they are manufactured by the American Tobacco Co.?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 40. And you are guessing that the name appears on the package, are you not?

A. No, the Lucky Strike, it appears on the new brand which is put out,—which we are putting out. As you know, they put on the name.

X-Q. 41. Well, you know that.

A. That is all I can say. The American Tobacco Company, they put that on their new brands. They 506 have not been doing it very long. For instance, most of the old packages, they have Wright's name and then their name on the back; but on the new brand they put their name on.

X-Q. 42. I am not talking about the general practice. I want to know if you can tell me specifically what is printed on the bottom of the package of Lucky Strike?

A. Oh, no, I could not.

X-Q. 43. You never noticed?

A. No, sir; but I have noticed on other brands. When the brand came out, I noticed when they came out with a new brand, they make this statement, "Manufactured 507 by the American Tobacco Co."

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as not responsive.

X-Q. 44. Now, you can't remember with any degree of accuracy when you first put out these Beech-Nut cigarettes,—when you first started selling them?

A. No, because we handle so many different brands. I couldn't remember.

X-Q. 45. Do you remembber whether some Lorillard man, or some salesman came to you and told you that 508 these cigarettes were coming out and you wanted to stock them?

A. The usual method or way they sell me, the salesman, sometimes Mr. Madden of the Lorillard Company comes in and says to me, "Here is a new cigarette we are manufacturing. I want you to put them in. You know our reputation, and that cigarette will sell. So long as we manufacture it you are not taking any chance." Of course I have in mind that it is the P. Lorillard Co. who manufactures them.

X-Q. 46. Of course you know that he refers to the P. Lorillard Co.?

509 A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 47. And he tells you that they are coming out with these cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 48. And you know then that it is the Lorillard brand?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 49. It is very simple, isn't it? Now, you said that you had an occasional inquiry from a customer about whether one concern that makes the gum, whether the same concern makes the cigarette, indicating some doubt in the mind of the customer. Is that the fact?

510 A. Why, I have had,—yes, I have had very few retailers that I sell, which I sell to, small dealers, I don't sell to the big stores, and I have had perhaps a few consumers that I have heard them talking, but not while the purchase was made in the store. When the Beech-Nut cigarette first came out, I said, that is the same brand that they have had, they have had that brand for years. They had the Beech-Nut scrap, which I have always carried, and I have always informed the public that one brand was the Beech-Nut Packing Company, and the other the P. Lorillard Co. that makes the Helmars and the Trophies, and so forth.

X-Q. 50. But you say you have had this question come up with the retailers to whom you have sold the Beech-Nut cigarette? 511

A. I have had one or two, or more, I wouldn't say definitely on it, and I satisfied them,—I showed them the name on the goods. In fact I can't tell why they ask me, because the name "P. Lorillard Co." is there. The fact is when I see this picture on the Murad, when I see the picture, I know it is very plain that it is Lorillard's. When you see that brand you know it is their brand.

X-Q. 51. Of course a man who has been in the business for a great many years could tell that, and of course you could tell that. 512

A. Yes, I could tell the Murad was made by them.

X-Q. 52. On account of the style of advertising it?

A. I know that picture, I know that that picture is P. Lorillard's picture.

X-Q. 53. Now, you made no special effort, of course, and there is no reason why you should, to remember all the conversation you had with the consuming public and the retail dealers on this question?

A. Why, I could not, no.

X-Q. 54. You don't remember exactly when the cigarette came out, and of course you would not remember the incidental conversations you had with your customers and the retailers? 513

A. I always said to them,—I say to them of all the brands I ever sold, for instance, I saw a cigar called "Beech-Nut" cigar, and I don't know who makes it,—in fact I have seen it in stores,—but I know it is not the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as not responsive to the question.

514 X-Q. 55. Now, do you ever have people come in your store and say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 56. And what do you do then?

A. Why, some of the customers I happen to know, and when I know a customer that comes in and buys cigarettes every day, and he says, "A package of Beech-Nut", I give him a package of cigarettes; and if a lady comes in and asks for "Beech-Nut" I would give her gum.

X-Q. 57. And if it was not a lady or customer that you know, what would you do?

515 A. I would ask them whether it was cigarettes or gum that they wanted.

X-Q. 58. Have you got them, the gum and the cigarettes, side by side in your store?

A. No, sir; I have the gum in a jar on the case.

X-Q. 59. Are the Fatimas wrapped in a glazed paper package?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 60. Or the Camels?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 61. The Fatimas and the Camels are very popular brands, are they not?

516 A. Yes.

X-Q. 62. They sell in great quantities?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 63. The Camels sell more than any other, doesn't it?

A. Why, it does in my store.

X-Q. 64. You say you have used the Beech-Nut products in your home?

A. Yes; my mother has bought them. I have not bought any of them.

X-Q. 65. You have seen the Beech-Nut label on those goods?

A. Yes, and I have seen their advertising. 517

X-Q. 66. Do you see any similarity between the Beech-Nut label, as you remember it, and the label on these cigarettes?

A. Personally, I think the labels do—that the name somehow or other makes it look the same.

X-Q. 67. You think they look a good deal alike, don't you?

A. The Beech-Nut brand, yes, sir.

X-Q. 68. That label on the cigarette looks to you very much like the Beech-Nut brand?

A. Why, that type,—the type looks the same to me.

X-Q. 69. The labels? 518

A. Not the label, the type of the "Beech-Nut". I mean the Beech-Nut type,—at one time I worked in a printing business, and the type looks the same to me.

X-Q. 70. Now, you said in one place in your testimony that everybody knows the Lorillard Company?

A. Everybody that handles tobacco.

X-Q. 71. You said that dealers that didn't handle tobacco to any great extent didn't know the Lorillard Company,—what did you mean?

A. When I answered that, I meant every man who is in the tobacco business knows the P. Lorillard Co.

X-Q. 72. You mean people who specialize in some way or other in the tobacco business, that is what you meant by "everybody"? 519

A. Yes.

X-Q. 73. Naturally the Lorillard Company, being one of the largest companies in the business, people who deal in its product would know who they were?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 74. You don't mean the ordinary fellow on the street?

A. No.

520 X-Q. 75. As a matter of fact, the ordinary fellow on the street would not know about the Lorillard Company, would he?

Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to, as he has not testified to what the ordinary man on the street thinks.

A. I don't know what he thinks.

X-Q. 76. You don't know what he thinks?

A. The average man, no, sir. I happen to know anybody in the tobacco business knows who P. Lorillard 521 Company is.

X-Q. 77. You would expect a man in the tobacco business would know who P. Lorillard Co. is?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 78. Now, Mr. Dublin, in ordinary practice a man comes into your store to buy cigarettes, and I suppose he walks into your store and he asks you for a package of Camels, he planks down his money, and you hand him a package of Camels and he walks out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 79. In ordinary practice you don't have any conversation with him as to who makes Camel cigar-522 ettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 80. You are not a mind reader?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 81. You don't know why he buys Camel cigarettes from anything he says, except in rare cases?

A. No, sir; I don't.

X-Q. 82. And that is true of most of the stuff that you sell, isn't it?

A. That is true of the most of the brands I sell, I don't know what the customer thinks.

X-Q. 83. You are not in the business to stand behind the counter and discuss with customers as to who makes all these various products? 523

A. No, sir; I don't but if any customer should ask me, I would tell him.

X-Q. 84. Oh, yes, of course.

A. That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 37. (By Mr. Cavanagh): State whether or not you have found that all the retailers know who make the Beech-Nut chewing gum, that is, the barbers and persons you have spoken of? 524

A. Why, I think everybody does who handles it. When I say "everybody" the Beech-Nut brand is on the Beech-Nut Packing Company products and, to my way of thinking, they probably know by seeing it. And the retailer also knows the P. Lorillard Co. in their line; and I think people who buy and handle Beech-Nut gum know that it is made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

R-D Q. 38. And who do they know the cigarettes and tobacco are made by?

Mr. Hinton: Oh, I object. 525

Mr. Cavanagh: Mr. Hinton's whole cross-examination has been devoted to what other people think, and really I am entitled to a few opinions on the other side.

Mr. Hinton: I don't think that that statement is quite accurate.

R-D Q. 39. Who do they know that the cigarettes are made by?

A. Why, by the tobacco manufacturers.

R-D Q. 40. What tobacco manufacturers?

A. Why, when I sell Beech-Nut cigarettes, I take the 526 order as manufactured by the P. Lorillard Co., and if there is any doubt in the customer's mind I tell them that they are manufactured by P. Lorillard Co., and if he is a small retailer, and he don't know who is the manufacturer, as they sell different brands of P. Lorillard Co., I mention the different brands. There is never an argument in the case. I had occasion to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes to a man last week, and I said, "If they don't sell, I will take them back. They are made by the same people that sell the large size Helmars," and he wanted to carry these, and I told him "If you carry these (referring to a package of Beech-527 Nut cigarettes) you are carrying them as you carry the large size Helmars, because they have a good backing behind them."

R-D Q. 41. Did you ever know in your experience of any customer confusing a Beech-Nut food product, or Beech-Nut gum, with the Lorillard Beech-Nut products?

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 42. Do those two labels, the dress on those packages, look alike to you (showing witness a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and also a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum)?

528 A. No, sir; but so far as the type is concerned, they are somewhat similar.

R-D Q. 43. You mean the name, "Beech-Nut"?

A. Yes, sir; the name "Beech-Nut."

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading.

R-D. Q. 44. As to the color of the gum packages, is there any distinction between those and the cigarette packages?

A. They are both somewhat different.

R-D Q. 45. What is the color of the gum package?

A. It is yellow, and the beech nut is red.

R-D Q. 46. You wouldn't have any trouble in distinguishing the two, would you? 529

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 47. Did you ever know of the Beech-Nut Packing Company putting out any tobacco product at all?

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 48. Did you ever know of the P. Lorillard Co. putting out any food products, or chewing gum?

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 49. Did you ever know or see any Beech-Nut Packing Company product like that package of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco in appearance? 530

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 50. And likewise as to the Beech-Nut cigarette package?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 85. (By Mr. Hinton): This man to whom you sold the Beech-Nut cigarettes last week was a retailer who expected to sell them to the public? 531

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 86. And you told him who the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 87. And you told him that the Lorillard Company made the Murads and Moguls and those other brands?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 88. Did he handle the other brands?

A. Yes; and he also sells Beech-Nut gum.

R-X Q. 89: Had he previously bought any Beech-Nut cigarettes?

532 A. No, sir; he hadn't.

R-X Q. 90. So far as you know, he hadn't?

A. No, sir; so far as I know.

R-X Q. 91. And they have been on the market around here, you say, approximately two years?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 92. And he has been selling cigarettes?

A. Yes; but he don't carry a large line, because he has a fruit stand.

R-X Q. 93. I see, but he is selling cigarettes, and has sold them for years, so far as you know?

A. Well, he is only in business a little over a year.

533 R-X Q. 94. I see. Now, if I understand the latter part of your testimony, it is to the effect that you would not mistake a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes for a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 95. Or for a package of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 96. You would not. And you would not mistake a ham for a package of peanut butter, would you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 97. That has got nothing to do with the label
534 or names on the goods,—a cigarette package is a cigarette package, and a gum package is a package of gum?

A. Yes; I can tell the difference in the different brands.

R-X Q. 98. One is gum and the other cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 51. (By Mr. Cavanagh): And if any customer came in retail or ordinary customer, you would tell him the same as you told that retailer that bought the cigarettes? 535

A. I tell everyone, when we happen to sell a brand that he never had carried before—he might feel skeptical about it,—and I tell him that if he buys a brand of P. Lorillard Co. they will take it back and reimburse him, you know, and that is why I told him the same thing. If I sell Beech-Nut cigarettes, I say, "You don't take any chance, they will take them back and guarantee the sale, so you don't lose anything."

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

536

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 99. (By Mr. Hinton.) Then it is a very effective argument with which to get people to take your product, to tell them that it is made by the people who have such a good reputation?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 100. That their reputation is so good?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 101. That the reputation of the manufacturer is well known, and so they are taking no chance?

A. Yes, sir; and they back it up with advertising and everything else; they sample and advertise. I have seen Beech-Nut cigarettes advertised in foreign language papers myself. They have a reputation on these products, on these Beech-Nut products. 537

R-X Q. 102. You say you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 103. Do you find you can sell the gum on the reputation of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 104. In the same way?

A. Yes.

538 R-X Q. 105. But there is a great demand for the Beech--Nut Packing Company products, generally, so far as you know?

A. All I know is the gum. I know they have a good reputation.

R-X Q. 106. And that is a good sales argument in selling their stuff?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

539 R-D Q. 52. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) There is no confusion between the gum and the food product line, and the tobacco line so far as the "Beech-Nut" is concerned —

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading and indefinite.

A. Not so far as I know.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Deposition closed.
540 Signature waived.

AFTERNOON SESSION

1.30 p. m.

HARRY STONE, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Harry Stone; age 35; residence, city; occupation, my occupation is tobacco. 542

Q. 2. Are you the proprietor of a store?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. And where is this store located?

A. At 3 Causeway Street, Boston.

Q. 4. Do you sell any goods in that store besides tobacco?

A. Yes, we sell just gum, — razor blades and gum, Spearmint, Beech-Nut, Juicy Fruit, and such stuff, all Wrigley's brands, you know.

Q. 5. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette like package I show you, and this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like the package I show you? 543

A. Yes, we sell both packages, cigarettes and Scrap tobacco.

Q. 6. And is this the Beech-Nut chewing gum you also sell (showing the witness a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum)?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. Who makes the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. They are made by P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 8. Who makes the Beech-Nut gum, if you know?

A. I don't know; I never bought it direct; I don't know. The Beech-Nut Company, I suppose.

544 Q. 9. State whether or not you would ever be confused into believing that the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No; I know that P. Lorillard Co. make the cigarette and other brands of tobacco, but they have not got any gum.

Q. 10. Will you please state whether or not you ever knew of any customer or other person who was confused or deceived into the belief that the Beech-Nut gum people made the Beech-Nut cigarette?

545 Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading and calling for a conclusion of witness and answer based on hearsay.

A. I never heard of it; nobody was asking me that question, that the same people make the gum and the cigarettes.

Q. 11. Would you ever confuse tobacco, such as the cigarettes and this scrap tobacco, with chewing gum so that you would be deceived into taking one for the other?

A. No. In the first place a man comes into a store
546 and asks for Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut Scrap, and if he wants chewing gum he asks for Beech-Nut chewing gum.

Q. 12. What would you think of a person who would take Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco when he wants gum?

A. You mean when he comes in and asks for "Beech-Nut?"

Q. 13. Yes.

A. I would ask him what it was he wanted, Beech-Nut cigarettes or Scrap tobacco, or Beech-Nut gum. If a man comes in and expresses himself, "Beech-Nut" I mention the three names.

Q. 14. State whether or not you ever told any one 547 that the Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco was made by the gum people?

A. No, never.

Q. 15. State whether or not anyone ever asked you that question?

A. No, never did; no, nobody asked me.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Stone, do you run a 548 wholesale business as well as a retail business?

A. No; my business is more retail than wholesale.

X-Q. 2. But you have some wholesale business?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 3. You sell to tobacco retailers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. You job Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. No, I don't job that. I take up jobbing on my side; I buy Wrigley's, but we have a bigger demand for it than Beech-Nut, and I may sell these to retailers.

X-Q. 5. You buy this gum, whether it is Wrigley's or Beech-Nut, and you sell that to retailers? 549

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. You sell tobacco and gum?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette to these same people too?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 8. And the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 9. Do you know whether there is much market for Scrap tobacco in this territory, as compared with other territories?

A. What do you mean, my territory?

550 X-Q. 10. I mean as compared with the Middle West and other parts of the United States?

A. That is a thing I can't tell you; that I don't know. I can tell you in my store that I sell quite a lot of Beech-Nut Scrap.

X-Q. 11. What do you mean by quite a lot?

A. You know my business is mostly cigarettes; that section is the foreign section, and they all smoke cigarettes, but I can sell about four dozen of the Scrap, that includes wholesale and retail both. That Beech-Nut cigarette, we sell quite a few of, about 20,000 a week.

551 X-Q. 12. How many people work in your store?

A. Only one.

X-Q. 13. That is you?

A. Me and another fellow; I am the boss and the other fellow works for me.

X-Q. 14. Do you relieve each other?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. Do you sell razor blades?

A. Yes; Gillette razor blades and Gems, and others.

X-Q. 16. Stationery?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. Newspapers?

552 A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. Have a lot of newspaper trade?

A. We sell the newspapers just to cover the law, to keep open on Sunday.

X-Q. 19. I see. Now, Mr. Stone, in the ordinary course of events, I suppose a man comes to your store and asks for Camel cigarettes, we will say,—

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. —and he puts down his money,—

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. —and he takes his cigarettes and he walks out?

A. Yes, sure. 553

X-Q. 22. And you don't have any conversation with him about who makes the Camel cigarette, do you?

A. No, of course not. It is only one Camel cigarette in the market.

X-Q. 23. But you don't tell him who makes the Camel cigarette?

A. I don't have to; he don't ask me, and I don't have to tell him.

X-Q. 24. And it is so with your other brands, they come in, put down their money, and take the Camel cigarettes or the Beech-Nut cigarettes,—or whatever they ask for, and walk out? 554

A. Yes, whatever it is, and put down 15 cents, or whatever it is, and walk out.

X-Q. 25. And not being a mind reader you don't know what is in their mind at all?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Now, how long have you had these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. How long are they on the market?

X-Q. 27. How long have you sold them?

A. Since they came out.

X-Q. 28. How long is that?

A. It is almost 2 years, I think, I am not quite sure,— 555
I never stopped to think of it. I think around 2 years, as I figure it.

X-Q. 29. Would you make any special effort to remember it, if customers asked you whether the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the gum people?

A. They never did.

X-Q. 30. You never tried to remember that particularly?

A. They never asked me.

X-Q. 31. Are you absolutely positive that nobody ever asked you that?

556 A. No, never did. They come in and asked me to give them a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, as I said before, a package of gum, or Scrap tobacco.

X-Q. 32. And they walk out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. But frequently they come in and say, "Beech-Nut", don't they?

A. Well, I don't know,—I don't think so. Of course I know they want cigarettes, because everyone knows that there are Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 24. You testified on your direct examination that people sometimes came in and asked you for 557 "Beech-Nut", and you asked them which they wanted?

A. I didn't say that.

X-Q. 25. That never happened?

A. That never happened to me.

X-Q. 26. They don't come in and just ask for "Beech-Nut"?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 27. And you don't ask them what they want?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: I would like to have the witness' testimony read on this point.

558 (Witness's previous testimony read as follows:

"Q. 12. What would you think of a person who would take Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco when he wants gum?

A. You mean when he comes in and asks for "Beech-Nut?"

Q. 13. Yes.

A. I would ask him what was it he wanted, Beech-Nut cigarettes or Scrap tobacco, or Beech-Nut gum.

If a man comes in and expresses himself, "Beech-Nut" I mention the three names.")

X-Q. 28. We have just had read to us a portion of your direct testimony in point, and apparently you did testify that they came in and asked for "Beech-Nut" sometimes, and then you would ask them whether they wanted the Scrap tobacco, gum, or cigarettes, is that true or isn't it? I want the fact. 559

A. I will tell you. So far as I remember, they are so used to getting Beech-Nut cigarettes, that when they come in and ask for it, just "Beech-Nut", I know what they want.

X-Q. 29. Do you sell any other Beech-Nut products besides the gum, cigarettes and Scrap tobacco?

A. No. 560

X-Q. 30. Do you sell mints?

A. Mints, no.

X-Q. 31. Sell any lime or lemon drops or small candies, or anything of that kind?

A. No; no candy line at all.

X-Q. 32. Do you put out any brands of tobacco of your own?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination. 561

R-D Q. 16. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) When a customer comes in and throws down 5 cents and says that he wants some chewing gum, just like the tobacco, do you have any argument with him?

A. No.

R-D Q. 17. And suppose a man comes in asks for "Beech-Nut", what would you ask him?

A. I would ask him Beech-Nut Cigarettes or Beech-Nut tobacco, or Beech-Nut gum? That is what I mean, but usually he don't come in and just ask for Beech-Nut.

562 R-D Q. 18. Approximately, or in a general way, about how many customers do you serve in a day,—just in a general way?

A. Between 800 and 1,000.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

BENJAMIN LESCOVITZ, a witness called in behalf of 563 the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence, and occupation?

A. Benjamin Lescovitz; age 30, residence 967 Cambridge Street, East Cambridge; occupation, storekeeper: cigar store.

Q. 2. How long have you been keeping store?

A. Three years in Cambridge.

Q. 3. What kind of goods do you sell?

564 A. Tobacco.

Q. 4. Anything else besides tobacco?

A. Yes sir; I sell tonics and chocolates, that is about all.

Q. 5. Do you sell Beech-Nut gum, like this exhibit package of Beech-Nut gum which I show you?

A. Yes, Beech-Nut and Spearmint and Juicy Fruit.

Q. 6. Do you also sell the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco like these exhibit packages I show you?

A. Yes, sir; I sell all of those.

Q. 7. Who makes the cigarettes and the Beech-Nut tobacco, if you know?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 8. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut gum? 565
A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.
Q. 9. Were you ever confused into the belief that the tobacco or the cigarettes were made by the people who make the Beech-Nut gum?
A. No, sir.
Q. 10. Did you ever have any inquiries or comments from anybody who did believe it?
A. Yes, sir; I had two fellows ask me, and they said, "Benny, what is this? Is this made by the same company?" (Pointing to a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes) as the Beech-Nut chewing gum." I says, "No, this is made by the P. Lorillard Company, (pointing to a 566 package of Beech-Nut cigarettes), and this is made by the "Beech-Nut Packing Company, (referring to a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum). Only them two fellows asked me that.
Q. 11. How long ago was that?
A. That was last winter. They didn't ask the question because they were interested, but because of curiosity they asked it.

Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as a conclusion of the witness.

Q. 12. State whether or not you have sold either the 567
Beech-Nut cigarette or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco as a product of the Beech-Nut packing Company?
A. I don't get it.
Q. 13. Did you ever sell these tobacco products as the goods of the gum people?
A. No, sir; that is impossible. If a fellow comes around and asks, "Give me Beech-Nut tobacco," I am not going to hand him a package of gum.
Q. 14. Why wouldn't you, naturally?
A. It is the same thing as if a man comes in and 568 asks for a horse and I give him a cat. They are both animals. If a man comes in to buy a package of gum and says, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut", it is my duty to ask, "Do you want Beech-Nut cigarettes?" "No, gum", so I have to give him the gum.

Q. 15. So you never had any confusion in regard to that?

A. No, absolutely not.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading and indefinite.

Q. 16. Will you please state whether or not you ever 569 had any confusion between the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, or the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No, absolutely no confusion at all.

Q. 17. State whether or not you have any difficulty in distinguishing between a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, or a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, or a package of Beech-Nut gum?

A. It is all different colors anyway. Cigarettes are red, and the Scrap tobacco is a white ground, and the Beech-Nut gum package is a different color; it looks kind of yellow; it is more like a light yellow.

Q. 18. Regarding the shape of the packages, state
570 whether or not in your opinion does the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco,—package of the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, in any way resemble a package of Beech-Nut gum?

A. Absolutely not; it is not the same.

Q. 19. Would you have any trouble in distinguishing the goods?

A. Never; absolutely no. It is all different.

Q. 20. State whether or not if a customer came into your store and asked you for a package of Beech-Nut gum you would be confused or deceived into handing him Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes for the gum?

A. It is an impossibility. If he is asking for gum, I have got to give him gum. 571

Q. 21. State whether or not you consider gum to be the same kind of goods as tobacco?

A. No, sir.

Q. 22. How many people do you serve a day in your store, about,—just approximately?

A. I am not sure.

Q. 23. In a general way?

A. Around 400.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

572

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Since February last year; February I began, just when they came out.

X-Q. 2. Just when they came out?

A. Just when they came out I got them.

Mr. Cavanagh: February, 1921, that is?

The Witness: Yes.

X-Q. 3. Did you make any special effort to remember whether people asked you about the people who made the cigarettes and the gum last year? 573

A. No.

X-Q. 4. You didn't keep any notes of the names of people who asked you about whether or not the cigarettes were made by the gum people, did you?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 5. You didn't make any effort to remember it at all?

A. Absolutely no; because you see the customers are in the store, and they simply asked me, as a foolish

574 question: "Say, Benny, is this the same company, the Beech-Nut gum and the Beech-Nut cigarette?" And I said, "No, the gum is made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company and the cigarettes are made by P. Lorillard Co."

X-Q. 6. When they asked you, you told them they were made by different companies?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 7. And you didn't pay any attention at all to it at the time?

A. No.

X-Q. 8. And you couldn't say definitely how many 575 times it happened, could you?

A. No; they didn't ask me any more. About two fellows asked me.

X-Q. 9. You don't remember whether there were any others or not?

A. No.

X-Q. 10. There may have been others?

A. No. I will tell you; I, myself, was in the store last year, and I could remember easily enough if anybody asked me, but nobody asked me; two fellows only asked me.

X-Q. 11. You don't think there were any more than 576 that?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. But you paid no attention to it?

A. I didn't pay any attention, but I would remember if some customers asked me the same question over again; but only two fellows did ask me that question.

X-Q. 13. Now, in the ordinary course, suppose a customer comes there and asks for Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Camel cigarettes, or something like that, he puts down his money and takes the goods and walks out,—that is what he does, isn't it?

A. If I hand him the item, he gives me the money, yes. 577

X-Q. 14. You don't have any discussion with a customer as to who makes this or that?

A. No, unless somebody asks the question.

X-Q. 15. Now, when you were talking about confusion between the tobacco and the gum, and the cigarettes, what you meant, I suppose, was that you were able to tell a cigarette package from a package of gum, and from a package of Scrap tobacco, very easily?

A. Positively.

X-Q. 16. You would not ever get confused into mistaking a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes? 578

A. No. When they ask for Beech-Nut cigarettes, I reach out and get hold of the cigarettes, and when they ask for something else I will give them that. There is never any mistake.

X-Q. 17. When a customer comes into your store and just asks for "Beech-Nut" you say, "What do you want, the cigarettes, gum or tobacco?"

A. Yes; I never know. Now, the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco is a slow seller in my store, but take the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut gum sells very well, and if a man comes around and says, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut," I say, "Which do you want, cigarettes or gum?" And he says, cigarettes or gum. 579

X-Q. 18. And there is no more discussion than that?

A. Positively not; and he knows from the price which it is; the gum is only a nickel, and cigarettes are 15 cents.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 24. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) State whether or not when you say, "Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut 580 gum," do you have any discussion with the customers, or do they say which they want, and throw down their money, and take it and go out?

A. They say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nut gum," or "a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes," and I give it to them.

R-D Q. 25. And that is all there is to it?

A. Yes.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

581 Signature waived.

HUGH F. WALLACE, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Hugh F. Wallace; 514 Broadway, Somerville, Mass.; saelsman for Leopold, Morse Co.

582 Q. 2. What line of business is Leopold, Morse Company engaged in?

A. Clothing, furnishings, shoes.

Q. 3. Mr. Wallace, I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which are in this case as an exhibit. Did you ever use those cigarettes as a consumer?

A. I have.

Q. 4. How long have you been smoking them?

A. 12 or 15 months.

Q. 5. So far as you know, what concern manufactures those cigarettes?

A. P. Lorillard, so far as I know.

Q. 6. Did you ever believe that any other concern 583 manufactured them?

A. I never did, no.

Q. 7. I show you a package of Beech-Nut gum, which is in this case as an exhibit. Can you state whether or not you have ever used any Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I have; yes, I have used it.

Q. 8. State whether or not you were ever confused or thought that the cigarettes were made by the same people who make the gum?

A. No, I knew that they were not, because I see the name, "P. Lorillard Co." all over the cigarette package, and the name of the packing company on the oth- 584 er,—on the gum package.

Q. 9. Did you ever have any difficulty in distinguishing between the two packages?

A. No, I never did.

Q. 10. How often have you bought the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Well, I use about a package every day.

Q. 11. How long have you been using them, do you say?

A. About 12 months, 12 or 15 months. How long have they been out?

Q. 12. Oh, about that time. If you went into a store 585 state whether or not you could be confused or deceived in taking a food product, or Beech-Nut gum in place of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

Q. 13. Why not?

A. I could tell from the red package what I was getting and by the signs on it.

Q. 14. Could you tell the difference between the two products?

A. Yes, easily.

586 Q. 15. In other words, you would not confuse cigarettes with gum or food?

A. No.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton): Mr. Wallace, are you acquainted with any of the Lorillard men in Boston?

A. Well, I ran a store in City Square, in Charlestown, Massachusetts, for a long time.

587 X-Q. 2. What kind of a store?

A. Gent's furnishings; and there was a Mr. Madden, who worked for the company, and he had the habit of coming in, and he is the man who started me on Beech-Nut cigarettes. I smoked Murads before, but I have been smoking Beech-Nuts ever since.

X-Q. 3. And this man was the employee of the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I suppose so. He had the habit of coming into our store.

X-Q. 4. And he gave you some samples of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

588 A. That is how I got started on them. Before that he came and asked me if I smoked cigarettes, and I told him yes, and at that time I was smoking a Murad. He got me started on these Beech-Nuts, and I have smoked them ever since.

X-Q. 5. He gave you samples and told you that it was a good cigarette, and you started smoking them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. You knew that he was Lorillard man, and he told you he had this brand, this new brand of cigarettes—

A. I didn't know at this time whom he was working for, but I did know,—I could see the name—"P. Lorillard Co." on the package. 589

X-Q. 7. Yes, but this man was an employee of the Lorillard Company?

A. I suppose so.

X-Q. 8. And he gave you samples?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 9. It would not be possible that he would give you samples of somebody else's cigarette, if he was a Lorillard man, but it would be a Lorillard product?

A. Yes, of course.

X-Q. 10. Now, you say that before that you smoked Murad cigarettes? 590

A. Murad cigarettes.

X-Q. 11. Who is the manufacturer of the Murad cigarettes?

A. I suppose Lorillard, but I don't know for sure.

X-Q. 12. Didn't you ever get samples of Murad cigarettes from your friend, the Lorillard man?

A. No, not at that time; I don't know that they passed them out at that time.

X-Q. 13. You bought them on the market?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. How many packages of Murad cigarettes do you suppose you smoked? 591

A Oh, a lot of them.

X-Q. 15. You smoked them for some time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. A year or two?

A. Oh, four or five years, I think.

X-Q. 17. What manufacturer's name is printed on the Murad cigarette package?

A. That I don't know; I have smoked them and never noticed.

X-Q. 18. Did you ever smoke the Fatima cigarette?

A. No.

592 X-Q. 19. Did you ever smoke the Lucky Strike cigarette?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. What is printed on the bottom of the front of Lucky Strike cigarette packages?

A. You have got me. I am no cigarette man, but I have smoked them.

X-Q. 21. What is printed on the bottom of the front of the Chesterfield cigarette package; do you know that?

A. I don't know. I know it is a white package.

X-Q. 22. But you never noticed the name of the 593 manufacturer on any of these other cigarettes that you have seen or smoked?

A. No, but take the Perfection cigarette, I know that that is a Liggett & Meyers, and Sweet Caporal is Dukes, I think, I am not sure,—or Kinney Borthers.

X-Q. 23. What is on the front of the Sweet Caporal, near the bottom?

A. Kinney Brothers.

X-Q. 24. That appears on the package near the bottom?

A Near the bottom.

X-Q. 25. When did you first notice the name "Beech-594 Nut Packing Company" on the gum package?

A. Well, I have often bought the package, the gum, and I have gone to stands on the Elevated structure and bought Beech-Nut gum.

X-Q. 26. And you read the name carefully enough to see the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company"?

A. Not carefully, but I just glanced at it.

X-Q. 27. Did you know before you prepared for this testimony that there was "Beech-Nut Packing Company" printed on the gum packages?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 28. Then with reference to the Murad cigarette and the Lucky Strike cigarette, you don't know what is printed on those packages, but in respect to the chewing gum you do know? 595

A. Well, some of them I do, and some I do not.

X-Q. 29. You just happened to notice those two things?

A Not only on those, but I have noticed on the Sweet Caporal cigarette, and I think Liggett & Meyers on the Perfection, and the Chesterfield, I don't just know what that is, or the Mogul.

X-Q. 30. Now, do you ever use any of the Beech-Nut Packing products in your home?

A. Yes, sir; my sister has bought it.

X-Q. 31. What kind of product? 596

A. Bacon, that is all I remember of seeing there. I suppose there have been other goods in there, but that is a long strip of bacon, and very thin,—I remember that.

X-Q. 32. It comes in closed packages?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 33. Have you examined that label recently?

A. No, I have not noticed that.

X-Q. 34. Do you know whether the name "Beech-Nut Packing Company" appears on that label?

A. I do not.

X-Q. 35. You don't know? 597

A. I don't know; I never looked at it.

X-Q. 36. Did you ever handle any tobacco products?

A. I never did, no, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 16. (By Mr. Cavanagh): Mr. Wallace, I call your attention to a package of Murad cigarettes, and also to a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is in this case as an exhibit. In your opinion—both of those 598 packages bear the name of "P. Lorillard Co.",—in your opinion, which appears more prominent, the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the Beech-Nut cigarette package, or the Murad cigarette package,—which would strike your eye first?

A. On those two samples I think the word "Lorillard"—

R-D Q. 17. Well, I mean between the two packages, which name, "P. Lorillard Co." could you read more easily?

A. This package right here (pointing to the package of Beech-Nut cigarettes). The Beech-Nut cigarettes 599 has the name most prominent, I think, of the two.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 37. (By Mr. Hinton): Mr. Wallace, you have examined these two packages of cigarettes on the table immediately in front of you. Have you seen the name of P. Lorillard on this Murad cigarette package?

A. Yes, I have seen it in black and white, isn't that, on the face, the black running on the bias there across the face of it?

600 R-X Q. 38. Will you please examine that carefully? (Witness does so.) You find that the black and white print is not the name "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. No, I see it is not.

R-X Q. 39. Do you find the name, "P. Lorillard Co." on that package which you have now again examined for some time? (Referring to package of Murad cigarettes.)

A. I don't see it on there at all.

R-X Q. 40. You haven't seen it at all?

A. Yes, I see it now.

R-X Q. 41. You finally see it when you study it over carefully? 601

A. Yes; right on the bottom.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 18. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You had some difficulty in finding the name "P. Lorillard Co." on the Murad package. I now put this Beech-Nut cigarette package at the other end of the table, approximately four feet away. Do you have any difficulty in reading the name, "P. Lorillard Co." on it? 602

A. I can read it very easily.

R-D. Q. 19. I put the two packages at a distance across the table (referring to the Beech-Nut cigarette package and the Murad cigarette package). State whether or not you can read the name of "P. Lorillard Co." on each of them, and on which is it the most prominent?

A. I can read the name "P. Lorillard Co." there on the Beech-Nut cigarette package, but not on the Murad, it is too small.

R-D. Q. 20. Which appears the more prominent to you? 603

A. The name on the Beech-Nut cigarette package

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: I have no further questions.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

604 GEORGE O. ADAMS, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your full name?

A. George O. Adams.

Q. 2. Are you the proprietor of the cigar stand in the Chamber of Commerce Building?

A. I am.

Q. 3. How long have you been proprietor of this stand?

605 A. Since November, 1921.

Q. 4. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I do.

Q. 5. And also the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Who, do you know, make the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 7. Have you ever had any inquiries, or heard any comments from customers, asking if the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut gum?

606 A. No.

Q. 8. Did you ever have any confusion in that respect between the two goods at all?

A. No.

Q. 9. And you have been here daily at this stand since you bought it?

A. Every day.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Cross Examination. 607

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) How long have you been in the tobacco business?

A. Since November.

X-Q. 2. You just started in in November?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 3. Did you make any special effort to remember whether people asked you about these cigarettes?

A. No special effort, no.

X-Q. 4. Did anybody ask you to make a note of any questions that have been asked you in that connection?

A. What do you mean? 608

X-Q. 5. Did anybody ever ask you to try to remember and make a note if anybody did ask you about the chewing gum an cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 6. And you made no special effort to remember?

A. No.

X-Q. 7. Now, this is a very busy little stand in the Chamber of Commerce which you keep?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 8. And people walk by rapidly and slap down their money and ask for this or that kind of goods and take the goods and walk along? 609

A. Yes.

X-Q. 9. And it is a very rare thing for you to have conversation of any kind about the manufacturer of the product you sell?

A. Yes; they call for what they want and get it and go on.

X-Q. 10. And of course you have no way of knowing what is in the man's mind, but if he asks for Beech-Nut cigarettes, he gets them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. And he walks off?

610 A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. Do you sell any other Beech-Nut Packing Company product except gum? Do you sell mints?

A. No, I don't think I have anything but the gum.

X-Q. 13. Can you tell offhand what is printed on a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel?

A. No. I could not.

X-Q. 14. You sell lots of those, don't you?

A. Quite a few.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

611

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 10. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) If you have had any great number of inquiries as to who made the Beech-Nut cigaretes, you would recall it?

A. Yes, of course.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading, and calling for the conclusion of the witness.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

612 Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

GEORGE C. SMITH, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. George C. Smith; 152 Chestnut Avenue, Jamaica Plain; occupation, manager of the Faneuil Hall

Smoke Shop, 1 Faneuil Hall Square, Boston, Massa- 613
chusetts; 29 years old,—born in 1892.

Q. 2. What do you sell in your store, Mr. Smith?

A. We sell tobacco, sodas, lunches, and Beech-Nut gum. That is all we sell of the Beech-Nut product.

Q. 3. I show you a box, or a package of the Beech-Nut gum, an exhibit in this case. Is that the kind of gum you sell, which you refer to?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes like the package I show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Who makes the cigarettes? 614

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 6. And who makes the gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 7. Would you ever be confused into believing that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Personally, no.

Q. 8. Do you handle the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, like the package which I show you?

A. We do.

Q. 9. Who makes the Scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard. 615

Q. 10. Have you always believed that he made this tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard so far as I can remember.

Q. 11. Did you ever believe that that was made by the gum people?

A. No.

Q. 12. Did you ever hear any comments or remarks from customers, or people which would lead you to believe that they thought that either the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco was made by the concern that makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Well, I can remember distinctly two cases where 616 people have come in and asked me if the Beech-Nut Packing Company put out the cigarette. That is when they first came out. I told them that they had nothing to do with each other.

Q. 13. How long ago was that?

A. That is when the Beech-Nut cigarette first came out. I think that is pretty nearly two years, very close to it.

Q. 14. And those are the only two instances of that?

A. That is the only two I can remember.

Q. 15. How many customers a day do you serve, approximately?

617 A. About 375; it will average more than that in a week's time, because Saturdays it will run 600 or 700 customers. That is on cigars alone; it does not include the fountain or lunches.

Q. 16. Is your store located in a business section of the city?

A. It is right in Faneuil Hall Square.

Q. 17. It is right in the business section?

A. Yes, right in the market there.

Q. 18. State whether or not you ever heard of the Lorillard Company making either chewing gum or food products?

618 A. No; I never heard of it.

Q. 19. State whether or not you ever heard of the Beech-Nut Packing Company making tobacco products?

A. I never heard of it, no.

Q. 20. If a person came into your place of business and wanted to buy Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, could you be confused into selling him Beech-Nut gum in place of it?

A. No, I would not be confused.

Q. 21. Why?

A. Because they are different altogether.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination. 619

X-Q. 1. (ByMr. Hinton.) How long have you been manager of the Smoke Shop?

A. I think I have been down there two years the first of June.

X-Q. 2. How long have you been in the tobacco business?

A. I have been in the tobacco business ten years last May.

X-Q. 3. Now, Mr. Smith, did you make any particular note of the inquiries that you referred to, about whether the cigarettes were made by the gum people,— 620 did you make a note of it at the time?

A. I made no note of it, no.

X-Q. 4. Did you pay any particular attention to it?

A. No.

X-Q. 5. Did you make any effort to remember it?

A. No, I didn't.

X-Q. 6. But you can remember two cases?

A. I can remember two cases, there may have been five or six, but I can't remember over two.

X-Q. 7. There may have been others?

A. There may have been others, but I don't remember it. 621

X-Q. 8. Now, I suppose a man comes into a busy place like yours, and he asks for what he wants, and he planks down his money, and gets it and goes out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 9. And if he asks for Camel cigarettes he gets them and goes out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. And he does not discuss Camel cigarettes with you?

A. No.

X-Q. 11. Of course, you can't tell what he thinks about it, unless he tells you?

622 A. No.

X-Q. 12. Do you sell much of that Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Well, the Scrap tobacco is not a big seller; that is, I would not call it a big seller, not in the store that I am in, but I probably sell six dozen a month. I don't call that big.

X-Q. 13. Have you examined a package of this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco recently?

A. Well, no, not particularly I have not.

X-Q. 14. Do you know whether the name Lorillard's is on this scrap tobacco?

623 A. Yes, I do.

X-Q. 15. Where is it?

A. I believe it is on the front of the package, right on top.

X-Q. 16. Up here at the top where I show you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 17. Do you know what is written in the other three panels, that is like that on this package (indicating a package of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco.)

A. What do you mean, on the other side?

X-Q. 18. Well, there are four panels on this package like this panel with the name "Lorillard's" in it.

624 Can you tell me what is written in any of the other three?

A. Well, "Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco", on one, and there should be the factory number there somewhere.

X-Q. 19. How does Beech-Nut gum sell in your store?

A. It sells very good. That is, I say good; we sell probably four boxes a week.

X-Q. 20. Is it the best selling gum you have?

A. Yes, it is.

X-Q. 21. Do people ever come into your store and ask you for a package of "Beech-Nut" without saying whether they want cigarettes or the gum?

A. I never had them say that to me in any case. If a man should come in, and I am on the cigar counter and asks for "Beech-Nut", I should ask him, "Cigarettes" or "Scrap"? 625

X-Q. 22. You don't carry your gum on the same counter with your tobacco?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 22. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) When a man comes in and wants to buy Beech-Nut gum does he throw down a nickel and take the gum without talking about it? 626

A. Yes; they never say anything.

R-D Q. 23. Just the same as they do with the cigarettes which you spoke of?

A. Yes, and he goes off. If I am on the counter and he asks for gum, he gets it and goes off.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

(The taking of further depositions adjourned to Thursday, August 10, 1922, at 10 a. m.)

628

Room 401, Exchange Building,
53 State Street, Boston, Mass.,

August 11, 1922.

The further taking of testimony is resumed at 10 a.m.

Present: Same as before.

AARON ANSEL, a witness called in behalf of the defendant being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavan-
629 agh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age, residence, and occupation?

A. Aaron Ansel; age 24; residence 884 Washington Street,—that is the business place.

Q. 2. And your occupation?

A. Well, owner of a cigar store.

Q. 3. Is this cigar store located in a business or residential section of the city?

A. Business.

Q. 4. What is the name of the cigar store?

630 A. It goes under the name of the "Economical Tobacco Company."

Q. 5. You are a clerk in that store?

A. No, I am part owner with my father in the business.

Q. 6. Do you serve customers in that store?

A. Yes; I do.

Q. 7. About how many customers do you serve a day,—approximately?

A. Fifteen to sixteen hundred.

Q. 8. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. And do you also sell Beech-Nut gum in your 631 store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes; P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 11. And do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes; P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 12. And do you know who makes the gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 13. Will you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco 632 and the Beech-Nut cigarette were made by the same company that makes the gum?

A. I never was.

Q. 14. Will you state whether or not during your experience or service in your store you ever have had any questions come up, or heard any remarks or inquiries from customers, or others, which would leave you under the impression that they thought the gum people made the cigarettes?

A. Well, just once; I recall one person.

Q. 15 How long ago was that?

A. That was about seven or eight months ago. 633

Q. 16. And that is all you can remember?

A. That is all I can recall.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton): How many people work in that store that you run?

A. There are—well, all in all?

X-Q. 2. Yes.

A. There are five.

634 X-Q. 3. Is that a cigar store exclusively?

A. Well, it is a wholesale cigar store, and retail; we also carry confectionery.

X-Q. 4. Roughly, what proportion of your business is a wholesale business, do you know?

A. Well, I should say about 75 per cent.

X-Q. 5. 75 per cent. wholesale and—

A. 25 per cent. retail.

X-Q. 6. Yes. Now, did you make any effort to remember if customers asked you about these Beech-Nut cigarettes and who they were made by?

A. Well, no; nobody ever asked me about who they 635 were made by.

X-Q. 7. So far as you can remember?

A. So far as I can remember; yes.

X-Q. 8. But at the time those questions might have been asked you, would you make a note of them, or try to remember them?

A. No; but if they asked me I would remember them all right.

X-Q. 9. You wait on a great many customers every day?

A. Yes; I am behind the counter all the time.

X-Q. 10. And everything that any customer said, 636 you would remember that?

A. Yes; I would remember that positively.

X-Q. 11. You would remember all that is said to you?

A. Yes; everything is remembered.

X-Q. 12. If a hundred customers came to you and made remarks, you could remember a year afterwards the remarks?

A. Oh, yes; I have a good memory on that; I try to get an idea of it anyway.

X-Q. 13. Even though it was just a casual remark at the time they said it?

A. Oh, yes, I would remember.

X-Q. 14. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes? 637

A. Now, I don't really remember when they first came out, but I believe it is over a year ago now.

X-Q. 15. About how many packages would you sell a day when they first came out?

A. Well, I would sell on an average in a day about 150 or 160 packages,—a day.

X-Q. 16. A day or a week?

A. A day.

X-Q. 17. Now, when a man comes into your store in the ordinary course of business, and asks for Camel cigarettes, he puts his money down, takes the goods and 638 walks out, and you would not in the ordinary course have any discussion with him about who makes them?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. And you could not tell from looking at his face when he walked in, or at the back of his head when he walked out, about what he thought about who made that stuff?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. You would have no idea about what was in his mind?

A. No.

X-Q. 20. Unless he told you? 639

A. No.

X-Q. 21. In the ordinary course he would not tell you, would he?

A. That is right.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 17. (By Mr. Cavanagh): Will you state whether or not if 10 or 15 people had come into your 640 store daily and asked you if the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the gum people you would have recalled it?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading.

A. Oh, yes, I would.

R-D Q. 18. Will you state whether or not you ever told anyone that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the gum people?

A. Oh, no: I never told anybody that. I always knew it was P. Lorillard Co. that made the cigarettes.

641 Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

R-X Q. 22. (By Mr. Hinton): Did you ever tell anybody that they were not?

A. Yes, I did; one party he wanted to know, and I just told him about it.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

642 GEORGE DOUGALL, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your full name, Mr. Dougall?
A. George Dougall.
Q. 2. Where do you reside, Mr. Dougall?
A. I live at 96 Grant Street, Somerville, Mass.
Q. 3. And what is your occupation?
A. Manager cigar store department.

Q. 4. What store are you connected with? 643

A. L. K. Liggett & Company.

Q. 5. Where is their store located?

A. 242 Huntington Avenue, Boston.

Q. 6. How many years have you been the manager of that cigar store?

A. I have been manager in the cigarette department about 8 years.

Q. 7. In this store do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Do you sell any Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir.

Q. 9. In that store do you sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 644

A. We do.

Q. 10. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Why, P. Lorillard Co. makes the Beech-Nut cigarette.

Q. 11. Do you know who manufacturers the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 12. Will you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 645

A. Why, I never was under the impression. There was only once that I can remember when a young fellow asked me, when they first started, he came in—

Q. 13. I mean yourself,—were you ever yourself under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same concern that makes the gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 14. Well, will you please state whether or not you have had any questions, inquiries, or comments made by customers, or others, which would lead you to think that 646 they were under the impression that these cigarettes were made by the gum people?

A. I have just had one instance that I remember.

Q. 15. Please state it.

A. That is when the cigarettes first came out somebody came in the store and asked me if they were made by the same people that made the gum.

Q. 16. What was your answer?

A. Why, I told them that the cigarettes were made by the P. Lorillard Co. and that the gum was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 17. About how many customers a day do you serve 647 in your store?

A. Well, I serve about 800 or 900.

Q. 18. Is the store located in a business section of the city?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 19. How long have you been selling Beech-Nut cigarettes, about?

A. Well, I have been selling them since they came out, that is about a year and a half or two years, isn't it? I could not exactly tell you the exact time.

Q. 20. And as far as you recollect you have only had this one inquiry in regard to who manufactures them?
648 A. That is the only one.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You wait on 800 or 900 customers a day?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. How many people work behind the counter in that store?

A. Well, I am the only one that is there on the cigar counter just now. We have had two men until just lately. 649

X-Q. 3. And that keeps you pretty busy, I suppose?

A. Yes, it does.

X-Q. 4. I suppose you are handing out goods just about as fast as you can, in the ordinary course?

A. Yes, sure.

X-Q. 5. Customers coming in and buying goods and walking out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. Now, in the ordinary course a man comes in and wants, for instance, Camel cigarettes, and he asks for a package of Camel cigarettes, and takes them and 650 puts down his money, and walks away with the goods, and you don't have any conversation with him about who makes the goods?

A. No.

X-Q. 7. And not being a mind reader you can't say what he thinks about them as to who makes them, can you?

A. Why, no, not when he don't bring up the subject.

X-Q. 8. How long ago was this single inquiry that you heard?

A. That was just when we were first putting them out. That is when we had a display on the counter. 651 There was one while that the Liggett Company displayed them on the counter and also put a sign in the window.

X-Q. 9. Were you asked by anybody at that time to make a note of any inquiries or remarks that you had or might hear?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 10. You made no special effort to remember it?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 11. And you say you are quite busy and there is no reason why you should make a special effort to re-

652 member a remark of a customer like that,—you would not pay particular attention to it,—you would not, would you?

A. Why, yes, I would pay particular attention to it if they spoke to me about it.

X-Q. 12. It would be an important matter to you?

A. Why, yes. it would be an important matter.

X-Q. 13. Why would you pay attention to it?

A. Why, a man behind the counter is supposed to satisfy the public. If you came in and asked me a question, you would think I was a very poor salesman if I could not answer that question.

653 X-Q. 14. Oh, perhaps you misunderstood me. I appreciate that you know who makes the products you sell, and I appreciate that you would not misrepresent any product to anybody.

A. No.

X-Q. 15. But I am talking about your remembering the conversation that you may have had with the public, or with some person or persons. You don't make it a practice to remember everything that anybody says to you?

A. Oh, no, of course not.

X-Q. 16. You couldn't possibly do that, busy as you
654 are, and remember it for a year or so?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. You sell Camel cigarettes, of course, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 18. Lots of them?

A. I should say we do.

X-Q. 19. How many of those do you suppose you hand out in a week?

A. Ten or twelve thousand a week.

X-Q. 20. Do you know what is printed on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of the camel?

A. Let me see, I think it is "manufactured by the Reynolds Co." isn't it? That is, I don't know,—I may be mistaken, but I think that is what it says on the bottom. 655

X-Q. 21. You never noticed, did you?

A. Why, yes, I have noticed that there is some printing there of some kind, but whether it is on the front or back, I don't know. It is not so plain as on some cigarettes.

X-Q. 22. That name, "Reynolds" on the front, you mean?

A. Not so plain as some.

X-Q. 23. I show you a package of Camel cigarettes, and if you will examine those you will find that the name does not appear on the front of the package. 656

A. Well, I see it is not. It is on the back. I knew it was there somewhere—it is on the back.

X-Q. 24. You never noticed that it was on the back before, did you?

A. Why, no, I can't say that I did.

X-Q. 25. You never noticed what, if anything, is printed on the front of Lucky Strike cigarettes, underneath the red panel?

A. I might notice it by looking it over and forget it. I will tell you that when we get a new brand of cigarettes we generally look and see who makes it, and generally the name is on most of them. 657

X-Q. 26. But aside from some special reason for making an examination of the package you would not notice what is printed on it at all?

A. Oh, no.

X-Q. 27. And you would not be able to say, although you might be handing out 10,000 a week?

A. Sure.

658 X-Q. 28. But you would recognize a package of Lucky Strike or Camel cigarettes, instantly?

A. Yes, surely.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 21. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Who makes the Lucky Strike, if you know?

A. The American Tobacco Company, isn't it?

R-D. Q. 22. Will you state whether or not if say a
659 dozen people a day had come into your place and inquired whether the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the Beech-Nut gum people, that you would have recollected that fact?

A. Why, yes, I should think I would.

R D. Q. 23. Such inquiries would have been impressed on your mind?

A. Why, surely.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

661

Lynn, Mass., August 10, 1922.

The taking of depositions resumed at Lynn, Mass., at 10.30 a. m.

Present: Same as before.

MARTIN O. CONNORS, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answers to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

662

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Martin O. Connors; occupation, manager of A. S. Hovey Store, 17 Exchange Street, Lynn, Mass.

Q. 2. In what line of business is A. S. Hovey engaged?

A. Cigars, tobaccos, confectioneries and sodas.

Q. 3. Is this store located in a business or residential section?

A. In a business section.

Q. 4. Approximately, or in a general way, how many customers do you serve a day?

A. Probably a thousand customers a day is their average.

663

Q. 5. It is a pretty busy store?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Do you handle the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 7. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes, and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 8. Do you handle Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 9. Do you know who makes that?

664 A. The Beech-Nut Food Products Company, I imagine, is the name of the company.

Q. 10. How long have you been handling the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Since their inception in this market,—let's see. I think a couple of years or so.

Q. 11. State whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco was made by the people who make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. I never knew that anybody other than just the P. Lorillard Co. made the cigarettes.

665 Q. 12. State whether or not you ever have had any customers or persons make any comments or queries as to whether the cigarettes were made by the people who make the gum?

A. I never had anybody raise the question as to the possibility that the tobacco and the food products were produced by the same concern.

Q. 13. You handle quite a bit of the Lorillard goods, do you not?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. And, so far as you know, what is the reputation of P. Lorillard Co. in the tobacco trade?

666 A. Why, their reputation ranks fully as high as any of the other different tobacco companies; I never heard their integrity questioned.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You are the manager of the A. S. Hovey Company?

A. The A. S. Hovey store.

X-Q. 2. Is there more than one store operated under that name?

A. No. 667

X-Q. 3. It is not a chain proposition?

A. No; it is an independent proposition.

X-Q. 4. How long have you been manager of this store?

A. I have been manager five years.

X-Q. 5. You do the buying, of course?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. And supervise the store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. And spend a good deal of your time in that kind of work in addition to waiting on the counter?

A. I do very little waiting now. Most of my work 668 is supervision.

X-Q. 8. I see. You have a good many clerks here who work under you?

A. Well, I have had, at times, 15 or more in help, clerks, and so forth,—there are 10 clerks at different times.

X-Q. 9. And the supervision and management of course takes most of your time?

A. It takes most of my time.

X-Q. 10. Mr. Connors, when a person comes in and buys cigarettes, for instance Camel cigarettes in the ordinary course, he just comes in and asks for Camel 669 cigarettes, and puts down his money, and gets them, and walks out.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. And there isn't any discussion as to who makes the product?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. In the ordinary course you don't discuss with customers who make the various brands you sell here, do you?

A. No.

670 X-Q. 13. And not being a mind reader, you don't know what they think about it unless they tell you?
A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 15. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) And when they purchase gum, they just simply come in and ask for the brand of gum that they want, and put down the money, take it and go out?

671 A. Yes; the Beech-Nut gum,—most of my customers, the Beech-Nut customers, come in, and it is zip bang, there's your money, we punch it up, and they are gone.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 14. (By Mr. Hinton.) Do you ever have anybody come in and ask just for "Beech-Nut"?

A. On one occasion, I, myself, had someone step up to me at the tobacco counter and ask for Beech-Nut, and I, seeing the possibility of a little levity, paused, and 672 repeated, "Beech-Nut"? And they said, "Cigarettes". I just gave them a chance. I felt that personally—it was a patron of mine for years,—and I didn't feel it was a person who was trying to trap me to hand them out cigarettes instead of gum or gum instead of cigarettes, and at the time I paused I was reaching for cigarettes,—and you know how customers will straighten up and look at the rack, and in that way they give us the cue of what they are asking for,—and I reached out, and just to interject a little levity, I said, "Beech-Nut"? And he said, "cigarettes".

R-X Q. 15. In your store here the chewing gum and cigarettes are on opposite sides of the store? 673

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 16. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You have personally sold or served both the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the gum to customers.

A. Oh, yes.

674

Mr. Cavanagh: That will be all.
Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

TIMOTHY JAMES DUMAS, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation? 675

A. My name is Timothy James Dumas; I live 21 Moulton Street, West Lynn; place of business 68-70 Magrane Square, West Lynn.

Q. 2. What line of business are you in?

A. Cigarettes, tobacco, and gent's furnishings.

Q. 3. Besides cigarettes, tobacco, and gent's furnishings, do you sell other things?

A. Package candy and gum and magazines, newspapers, periodicals.

Q. 4. How long have you been in business here?

A. 27 years.

676 Q. 5. Is this a business or residential section?

A. Well, now I call it the business section.

Q. 6. It was a residential section once?

A. It was, yes; it is partly now, but it is mostly business now.

Q. 7. Approximately how many customers do you serve a day, or week?

A. Well, I will wait on probably 2,500 people a month.

Q. 8. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes, like this exhibit package, like I show you, and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

677 Q. 9. Who, if you know, makes those products,—or who is the manufacturer?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 10. Do you sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I do.

Q. 11. Who makes that, if you know?

A. Well, I can't answer that question, I am sure, right out. I suppose it is—I get it from jobbers—I suppose it is the gum company, I don't know who it would be, whether it is Wrigley's, or who it would be.

Q. 12. State whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-
678 Nut Scrap tobacco were made by the same people that make the gum?

A. Well, I couldn't say about that. Well, I will tell you, I never bought any gum from Lorillard that I know of. I buy tobacco from Lorillard, but I never got any gum from Lorillard. I know I get my gum from that candy man, and lately I get my gum through the tobacco jobber; they are selling gum now.

Q. 13. State whether or not you ever had any comments or inquiries made by customers or purchasers as to whether the Beech-Nut cigarette or the Scrap tobacco was made by the same people who make the gum? 679

A. Well, I can state beyond a shadow of a doubt that they are made by different people.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as a conclusion of the witness.

Q. 14. Did you ever have any inquiries made in that direction?

A. No. They come in here and get it, and of course people come in and call for Beech-Nut tobacco and Beech-Nut gum. 680

Q. 15. State whether or not you would confuse Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco with chewing gum?

A. I never had any trouble in that direction.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton): You have a clothing store and you sell hats, and a good many kinds of clothing here, don't you? 681

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. A sort of a small department store, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. And your tobacco and gum business is very small in comparison with the rest of your business?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 4. And these 2500 customers a month, are those who purchase anything in the store, any of the dry goods and so forth?

A. Yes, sir; and tobacco and cigars.

X-Q. 5. Now, Mr. Dumas, do you remember how 682 you came to put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes? Did a man from Lorillard's, or a jobber come around here and put them in here for you?

A. Of course ever since I handled tobacco, I have got it through Manning; he is a jobber.

X-Q. 6. And his salesman came around, and you know he was a Lorillard man?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. And told you that they were putting out the Beech-Nut cigarettes and you put them in?

A. Well, I do all my business through him,—I do my business in the tobacco line through one man,—I 683 leave it to him.

X-Q. 8. When you say you never heard any comments or remarks or had any inquiries from your customers, you mean you don't remember any?

A. I don't remember any now.

X-Q. 9. You are pretty busy in this store most of the time, are you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. And there is no reason why you should remember such comments, remarks or inquiries?

A. Well, if I heard any comments, I would naturally think there was something funny about it,—if I heard 684 any comment, if I had any inkling for a moment that there was any confusion between the two companies and thought there was anything wrong, I would naturally like to know what it was,—that is what you mean?

X-Q. 11. Yes; what I wanted to know is if you made any special effort to remember any comments, remarks or inquiries that you may have heard?

A. No. At one time I was buying my gum from the candy people, and I was buying my ciagrettes and tobacco from the tobacco people—

X-Q. 12. Now, just one more question. So far as you know, you can't remember any discussion whatever about that question with your customers?

A. Never heard a word about it with any of them, 685 that I could honestly swear to.

X-Q. 13. You wait on the tobacco counter yourself all the time?

A. Not all the time; I have a clerk here.

X-Q. 14. But you do wait on it sometimes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. I suppose in the ordinary course a man comes in and asks for Camel cigarettes, for instance, and he put his money down and takes it and walks out?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 16. And he does not ask you who makes them?

A. No. 686

X-Q. 17. And you don't know what he thinks about them as to who makes them?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. No way to tell, unless he told you?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. And none of your customers ever tell you what they think about the Beech-Nut cigarettes or any other cigarettes, that you can remember?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination. 687

R-D. Q. 16. (By Mr. Cavanagh): If there had been any remarks, or comments, extended comments by customers as to confusing the gum and the tobacco manufacturers, you would remember it, wouldn't you?

A. I certainly should, sure.

R-D. Q. 17. And if people come in and they want to buy gum they usually don't hold any discussion with you as to who makes it?

A. No; they ask for Beech-Nut gum or Wrigley

688 Spearmint; they call for the gum that they want, and get it.

R-D Q. 18. Do you know where the store of C. A. Wilkins is located in West Lynn?

A. I do.

R-D Q. 19. It is in West Lynn here, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D Q. 20. About how far from here is it?

A. Well, it is three-quarters of a mile.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

689 Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 20. (By Mr. Hinton.) One more question: How many of these Beech-Nut cigarettes do you suppose you sell here, as a rough guess?

A Well, I might sell five cartons a week; that is, average about five cartons a week,—that is about 50 packages a week. That is, here in this store. My other store would probably do the same.

R-X Q. 21. But you are located in this store?

A. Yes, right here.

R-X Q. 22. This is where you work?

690 A. Yes; I sell about five cartons a week of Beech-Nut cigarettes here.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all

691

PHILIP H. MORAN, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Philip H. Moran; age 34; 30 Kirkland Street, West Lynn; propreitor of a store.

Q. 2. What kind of goods do you keep in this store, Mr. Moran?

A. Cigarettes and tobacco and tonics.

692

Q. 3. How long have you been in this place of business here?

A. About 12 years in this particular location.

Q. 4. Do you know of a store here occupied by C. A. Wilkins, in this neighborhood?

A. Yes, sir; up on the corner of Myrtle and Boston Street.

Q. 5. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette and Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. Who makes these products, if you know?

A. The Lorillard people. I don't know the exact initials, but I know it is Lorillard.

693

Q. 7. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Since they were first put on the market, very shortly after, I think the first week after the salesman came around.

Q. 8. How long ago is that, approximately?

A. Well, I don't know whether it is—I couldn't exactly say whether it is one year or five years, or ten years, but it seems to me it must be five years.

Q. 9. We are talking about the cigarettes now, and not the scrap tobacco.

694 A. Oh, about two years.

Q. 10. Do you sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Do you know whose product that is, or what concern makes it?

A. Well, I don't know,—I know it is not made by the Lorillard people. I think it is the Beech-Nut Packing Food House, or some organization like that. I have never looked at a package to see who it is. (Witness examines package of Beech-Nut gum.) I know it is not made by the Lorillard people. The Beech-Nut Packing Company, it says on here. (Witness looking at a pack-695 age of Beech-Nut chewing gum.) I suppose it is made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 12. Were you ever under the impression that the cigarettes and the scrap tobacco,—the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco,—was made by the same people who make the gum?

A. No.

Q. 13. State whether or not you ever heard any customers make any comment, or inquiries, or remarks, which would lead you to believe that they were under the impression that the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut 696 gum people?

A. I never had anybody question the brand. If they come in and want Beech-Nut cigarettes they specifically specify cigarettes, and if they want chewing gum they ask for chewing gum. They never make any inquiries about it; they don't care who it is made by.

Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as a conclusion of the witness.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination. 697

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You say the people come in and ask for Beech-Nut cigarettes, and others come in and ask for Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 2. Did you ever have anybody ask for just "Beech-Nut"?

A. I don't believe I ever did; I can't recall it.

X-Q. 3. Do you spend all your time here?

A. The biggest part of the time here.

X-Q. 4. This is a one-room store, and you run a pool room in addition to it in back? 698

A. Yes.

X-Q. 5. And a lunch counter?

A. Yes; a little bit of everything.

X-Q. 6. Now, you have been selling these Beech-Nut cigarettes approximately for two years?

A. Yes, sir; I would say two years. In fact ever since they were put on the market.

X-Q. 7. And you don't remember any customer ever having asked you any questions about who made them, or anything of that kind?

A. No, they never did.

X-Q. 8. When you say they never did, you mean you don't remember it? 699

A. I think I can truthfully say that they never did.

X-Q. 9. Would you make any special effort to remember it,—did anybody ever ask you to make a note of such questions?

A. No, they didn't.

X-Q. 10. Or anything of the kind?

A. No. Of course when the salesman comes in selling them, of course, they are naturally interested in knowing who made the cigarettes,—at least I was, and I found who made them, the Lorillard people.

700 X-Q. 11. When you put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes, did the jobber, or the Lorillard agent come in and get you to put them in?

A. I believe the agent came in first.

X-Q. 12. He came in first and told you they were coming out with a new kind of cigarettes and that you better put them in?

A. Yes, he asked me if I would put in some at the time.

X-Q. 13. And of course you knew who made them?

A. Yes; I presume that everybody knew who made them.

701 X-Q. 14. That is not based on anything anybody told you?

A. No; that is just my supposition.

X-Q. 15. You knew yourself?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 16. When a man comes in to buy Camel cigarettes, or other brands of cigarettes, he comes in and puts his money down and takes the goods and walks out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. And you don't have any discussion with him as to who makes the Camel cigarettes?

A. I don't know who makes them. I give him the 702 brand he calls for. I am interested in making the sale, that is all I am interested in, the sale of them.

X-Q. 18. Do you know who makes the Camel cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Who makes the Camels?

A. The American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 20. Who makes the Fatimas?

A. Why, I don't know; I think they are made by the ame house, I wouldn't say; I don't know exactly.

X-Q. 21. Do you know who makes the Lucky Strike?

A. No; I was under the impression that the American Tobacco Company did. 703

X-Q. 22. You are not sure who makes some of these most popular brands?

A. Yes. I know some of them, but there are some I don't know.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 14. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) When customers come in and want chewing gum, do they have any discussion with you as to who makes the gum? 704

A. No; they never ask; they just come in and say chewing gum,—a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum, or Spearmint Chewing gum. They always use the words "chewing gum."

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 23. (By Mr. Hinton.) How many of these Beech-Nut cigarettes do you suppose you sell a week, approximately,—of course you don't know exactly? 705

A. Oh, I should say 600 cigarettes,—about 60 packages.

R-X. Q. 24. About 60 packages?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

706 JOHN J. LECOLST, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answers to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your full name?

A. John J. LeColst.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business?

A. Right here.

Q. 3. What is the address?

A. 747-½ Western Avenue, West Lynn.

707 Q. 4. What line of business is this, what do you sell?

A. Well, cigars and tobacco and periodicals and stationery, and different things.

Q. 5. How long have you been in business?

A. Well, going on 30 years.

Q. 6. How long have you been in this store?

A. In this store, it will be six years next month; but I have been in business around West Lynn longer than that.

Q. 7. This store is in West Lynn, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. You sell Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco and the 708 Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Do you know who those are made by, the manufacturer?

A. Well, I suppose—I know the Beech-Nut cigarettes are made by the Lorillard Company, and the tobacco, the Scrap tobacco, the Lorillard man was around, he was the first man that brought it around.

Q. 10. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. Do you know who makes that?

A. Well, the Beech-Nut gum—I don't know exactly who makes it,—the Beech-Nut Company, I suppose. I don't know the name of the company. 709

Q. 12. Can you state whether or not you were ever under the impression or thought that the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco were made by the same people that make the gum?

A. No; I was always of the impression that Lorillard made the tobacco and cigarette, and the Beech-Nut people made the gum.

Q. 13. Did you ever hear any remarks, or comments, or inquiries from any of your customers here that would lead you to the impression that they thought that the Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco were made by the same people who make the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 710

A. I never heard that remark, no.

Q. 14. Approximately how many customers do you serve a day or week here, just as a general thing?

A. Well, between three and four hundred.

Q. 15. A day?

A. Yes; according to my register there, between three and four hundred. Sometimes there is more,—some particular Saturday it runs probably up to five hundred. That is the sales. Of course I take the register every night. . 711

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. LeColst, you have been in the tobacco selling business for 30 years?

A. Going on 30 years. . There were two years that I was out. I was in the wholesale liquor business at the time they had a license here; two years I was out.

X-Q. 2. And you have in the course of that time dealt in a great many Lorillard products?

712 A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. And you say that you supposed the scrap tobacco was a Lorillard product because it was brought in here by a Lorillard agent?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. And did the Lorillard man bring around the Beech-Nut cigarettes when they first came out?

A. Yes; it was a Lorillard man,—that is, he said he was from Lorillard's. In fact I knew him by sight. I knew all the old timers, but they are changing all the time, and the new fellows I don't know.

X-Q. 5. And there was no doubt in your mind after 713 that that the Beech-Nut cigarette was a product of the Lorillard Company?

A. No. In fact before I ever had any Beech-Nut cigarettes Donahue told me that Lorillard was putting out the cigarette. Donahue is a dealer, a jobber in Lynn, the biggest jobber in Lynn. He gets the bulk of my business; him and I are old friends, we were old friends. Mr. Donahue is dead now.

X-Q. 6. Now, when you say you never heard any remark made by your customers, you mean you don't remember any?

A. I don't remember any.

714 X-Q. 7. How long have you been selling Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I couldn't tell exactly the day when they came around. I was the first one that had it, but I never paid any attention to the date.

X-Q. 8. About a year and a half ago?

A. Yes; when they first introduced them in Lynn.

X-Q. 9. You never made any special effort to remember any discussion you might have had about them with customers?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all. 715
Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Stipulation in re THOMAS E. BLAKE'S Deposition.

It is hereby stipulated by and between counsel for the parties that if Thomas E. Blake of 625 Boston Street, West Lynn, Massachusetts, was called as a witness in this case, he would testify as follows:

My name is Thomas E. Blake, address 625 Boston 716
Street, West Lynn, Massachusetts; of lawful age; occupation, grocer, and I also sell tobacco products, confectionery, candies and gum. I sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes and also the Beech-Nut chewing gum. I know the Beech-Nut cigarettes are a product of the P. Lorillard Co., and the same have been advertised by posters placed in my windows. I never had any customers or persons ask me whether the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people as make the gum, and I never heard any comments or inquiries made by a customer in this respect. My store is directly across the street 717 from the store of Mr. C. A. Wilkins.

On cross-examination the witness will testify: I do not sell many Beech-Nut cigarettes and I do not make a practice of discussing with customers the question of who makes the various products I sell. . I have been selling Beech-Nut cigarettes ever since they came out, and when I say that I have had no comments, remarks or inquiries about them, I mean that I do not remember any at the present time There was no reason for me to make any attempt to remember such comments, remarks, or inquiries, nor have I made any such attempt 718 to remember them in the ordinary course of business. My store is a small one-room store, operated by myself with the assistance of my wife and a boy. It is a residential store.

It is stipulated by and between counsel that the C. A. Wilkins store mentioned in the above stipulated deposition of Thomas E. Blake, as the store directly across the street from the Blake store is the C. A. Wilkins who was called as a witness in behalf of the plaintiff in the above entitled case.

719 Salem, Mass., 2.30 p. m.

EDWARD ADELMAN, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your full name, Mr. Adelman?
A. Edwin Adelman.
Q. 2. Address?
A. Home address?
Q. 3. Yes.
A. 247 Lafayette Street, Salem, Mass.
720 Q. 4. And your occupation?
A. Proprietor.
Q. 5. Proprietor of what kind of a store?
A. Cigar store.
Q. 6. Where is this store located?
A. 127 Washington Street, Salem, Mass.
Q. 7. How long have you owned this store here?
A. This store,—I have owned it since the first of April, 1922.
Q. 8. How long have you been in the tobacco business, approximately?

A. Well, I have been in the tobacco business since 1903. 721

Q. 9. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette, like that exhibit package which I show you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 10. And do you also sell the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. Do you know who manufactures those two products?

A. The Lorillard Company.

Q. 12. Do you sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir. 722

Q. 13. Do you know whose product that is?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 14. Were you ever under the impression, or did you ever think that the Beech-Nut cigarette or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco was made by the same people who make the gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 15. In your experience in the tobacco business in stores have you ever heard any comments or any inquiries from customers or others which would lead you to believe that they were under the impression that the same concern that made the gum made the Beech-Nut cigarettes? 723

A. No. I have had people ask me, "Is it made by the same company?" But they were not impressed that it was. In fact the name on the cigarette, or in the advertising I have seen always had the name Lorillard on it.

Mr. Hinton: The witnesses' statement as to the impression of the people who asked him the question referred to is objected to as a conclusion of the witness, and the last part of the answer objected to as volunteered.

724 Q. 16. State whether or not you ever sold the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco to customers as the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 17. State whether or not you have ever had any customers ask you for Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

Q. 18. So far as you know, what reputation has the Lorillard Company in the tobacco business?

725 A. One of the best; they have as good a reputation as any of them and, personally, I like the Lorillard Company to do business with better than any of the others.

Q. 19. Mr. Adelman, did you ever know a young man by name of Edward Moscovitz?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 20. Did he ever work in this store?

A. He worked in this store, but he didn't work for me; he worked in this store before I took charge.

Q. 21. Who owned this store before you took charge?

A. The Bieringer-Hanauer Company; it ran under 726 the name of "Schryver's Segar Store",—it was run by Bieringer-Hanauer, and then they changed the name to the Schryver Segar Store.

Q. 22. Did you work in the store at that time?

A. No, I worked in this store before the Beech-Nut cigarette came out.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton) You say you have been in the tobacco business some time before you took this store?

A. Yes, sir. 727

X-Q. 2. Where were you located?

A. Well, I went to work for the United Cigar Stores Company, I believe it was 1903, and I was with them about five or six years, and then I was with the American Tobacco Compnay in 1910-11, and then I was with the United Cigar Stores again for, I don't remember the year exactly, but for another year, and then I went back with the American Tobacco Company again, and after that I went with Bieringer-Hanauer Company, and I was with them about four years, until I took charge of this stand on the corner of Essex and Washington Street, Salem, Mass. I ran that stand for 728 myself, the Cigar end of it, until we sold out to Shulte Co., and then I bought this store.

X-Q. 3. This is a United Cigar Store that you are operating here?

A. No, sir; this is my own store, operating the United agency; I have the agency for the United Cigar Stores, selling their brands.

X-Q. 4. And you have been in the tobacco business and intimately associated with the various big companies in the business for a great many years, haven't you?

A. Yes; a great many years. 729

X-Q. 5. That is either employed by big tobacco companies or—

A. Yes; in the tobacco business practically all my life.

X-Q. 6. Did you handle the Beech-Nut cigarettes prior to the time you came to this store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. Where were you then?

A. On the corner.

X-Q. 8. Did you put them in there yourself?

A. What do you mean?

730 X-Q. 9. Did you buy them, introduce them in the store?

A. Did I introduce them? They were introduced to me.

X-Q. 10. And who did that?

A. As near as I can remember, the jobber salesman.

X-Q. 11. He came around and told you that it was a new cigarette, and he wanted you to put them in, and you took some of them?

A. No. I don't put in any cigarette that comes along, I want to know who makes them, and if I know that there is a reliable company back of them, I buy some.

731 X-Q. 12. Yes; and he told you at that first interview about the Beech-Nut cigarettes, that the Lorillard Company was putting them out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. Of course you were in doubt about them up to that time?

A. No, I was not in doubt about them. In fact Mr. Belt was here and told me about them.

X-Q. 14. Who is Mr. Belt?

A. I don't know what position he holds with the Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 15. But he is one of their men, one of their vice 732 presidents?

A. I don't know what position he holds.

X-Q. 16. A very high position he holds in that company, doesn't he?

A. Yes, I think so, but that was two or three months after I had them in; I guess he was making a trip through this part of the country, and I had known about them before,—put them in before I had met him.

X-Q. 17. Now, how many customers do you suppose ever asked you whether the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the gum people?

A. I don't think there was over one or two that I had any talk with about them. 733

X-Q. 18. That is, you didn't have any discussion on that subject with any of your customers except perhaps one or two?

A. That is all. In getting a new cigarette to sell, of course you introduce a new cigarette to a customer, or you will never sell them,—do you know what I mean? A new product, Beech-Nut gum, for instance, if it is something new, you would have to tell them about it, how good it was; and so with the Beech-Nut cigarette, you would have to introduce them to the customer, and in the general talk a great many times they asked: "who makes them?" But there was never any doubt in the customer's mind, so far as I know, that it was not the Beech-Nut Packing Company that made them, because I would never think of the Beech-Nut Packing Company making cigarettes, because I know that they are not in the cigarette game. 734

Mr. Hinton: The last part of the answer is objected to as volunteered testimony.

A. (Continued.) Of course that is my experience, being in the tobacco business, knowing the sales as I do. 735

X-Q. 19. That is, being so intimately acquainted with the business that you have followed all your life you would not think that, naturally?

A. Yes; I don't mean a stranger in that line,—I don't know anything about what they might think, but I don't think they would.

X-Q. 20. You don't know what someone not connected with the tobacco business might think?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. All you know is what you think yourself?

A. Yes.

736 X-Q. 22. Now, I wonder if you can tell me what is printed on that Lucky Strike package (indicating a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes) underneath the red panel with the words "Lucky Strike", under the name "Lucky Strike"?

A. "It is toasted." "The American Tobacco Company." I can't tell now whether it says, "Manufactured by", or not, but I know that the American Tobacco Company's name is on there.

X-Q. 23. On the front?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. What is printed on the Camel cigarettes
737 underneath the picture of the Camel, on the front, do you know?

A. It is the R. J. Reynolds Co.

X-Q. 25. That is, underneath the picture of a Camel on front of the package?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. As a matter of fact you knew that the American Tobacco Company made the Lucky Strike cigarette, and that the R. J. Reynolds Company made the Camel cigarette.

A. Yes.

X-Q. 27. And that is why you assume that those 738 names are printed on the front of the packages?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. But you have no definite picture in your mind of what might be there?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. For instance, I call your attention to a package of Camel cigarettes, and you find, do you not, that the name you mentioned is not in the place you thought it was?

A. Well, I said that because I thought it was. I really would not gamble on it, on that particular thing.

X-Q. 30. Now, how many packages of Camel cigarettes do you hand out in the course of a week, do you suppose,—just a rough guess? 739

A. Well, me, personally, do you mean?

X-Q. 31. Yes.

A. I will tell you: We wait on about 400 customers on an ordinary day, and I don't think that I wait on more than 150 of that 400, because I have two men; but I should say on the Camels that I might hand out 50, and I might hand out 10 packages a day.

X-Q. 32. And Lucky Strike about the same?

A. Yes, I should think so.

X-Q. 33. If I understand you, in introducing a new cigarette you find it a very pursuasive argument to the customer to tell him that it is made by some reputable concern, who makes other well-known brands, and you mention the name of the concern as a rule? 740

A. No, we don't mention any concern's name as a rule. We mention that it is a reputable concern, why you might say, "The same people that make—" mentioning another cigarette, saying, for instance, "Made by the same people who make the Turkish Trophies, or the same people who make the Murad".

X-Q. 34. In other words, if you can assure him that it is a reputable concern of high standing that makes the product, and mention another product made by the same concern, it helps the sale? 741

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 35. And he is apt to have a favorable opinion of this product of the concern that makes the other product?

A. Yes; we usually use that as an argument.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

1122

742 Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 23. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) When you were introducing the Beech-Nut cigarette, what did you tell the customers as to the concern that made it and the brands that they made?

A. You mean what reputation they had?

R-D Q. 24. Yes; what concern did you tell them was making it?

A. I told them the Lorillard Company, because the Lorillard Company makes a great many brands that you might call popular brands, salable brands, high grade 743 brands. I might mention Helmars, Murads, and Mogals, —that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the concern that makes those brands. They have been on the market so long that it has a lot of weight.

R-D Q. 25. Then you don't introduce a new cigarette brand, or a new tobacco product on the reputation of chewing gum people, do you?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading.

R-D Q. 26. State whether or not in your business that you would introduce to your customer a new cigarett 744 brand, or chewing tobacco on any chewing gum concern's reputation?

A. No.

R-D Q. 27. Will you please state whether or not in your mind there would be any confusion between tobacco products, such as cigarettes and scrap tobacco, and chewing gum?

A. There would be no confusion in the mind.

R-D Q. 28. You sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum here, do you not?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 29. State whether or not you have ever had any customer come in and ask you for Beech-Nut chewing gum, and on the strength of that inquiry you have given him Beech-Nut tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes, in the place of the gum? 745

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: I have nothing further.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

JOHN T. POWERS, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh: 746

Q. 1. What is your name, age residence, and occupation?

A. John T. Powers; 29 years; 79 Highland Avenue, Salem, Mass.; manager of this establishment.

Q. 2. What business is this establishment,—where is it located?

A. Cigar business, tobacco business, located at 222 Essex Street, Salem, Mass. 747

Q. 3. How far is it from the Adleman United Agency Store, Adleman's store, 127 Washington Street?

A. Oh, about 300 yards, I should think.

Q. 4. How long have you been in business here, Mr. Powers?

A. It is going on four years.

Q. 5. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. We certainly do.

748 Q. 6. Who manufacturers the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 7. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes. We had some mints, but they are almost gone now.

Q. 8. Who makes the Beech-Nut gum, if you know?

A. If I remember right, some packing company out in Canajoharie, New York.

Q. 9. State whether or not you ever thought or were under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco was made by the gum 749 people?

A. No, I never was under that impression. They are two separate concerns, as I understand.

Q. 10. State whether or not you ever had any inquiries, or ever heard any comments or remarks made by customers or others that would lead you to believe that they were under the impression that the Beech-Nut Packing Company, or the gum company, made the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. 11. You never heard of any such inquiry, did you?

A. No.

750 Q. 12. How many customers approximately do you serve a day here, in a general way?

A. About 600.

Q. 13. It is a pretty busy corner here?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. How long have you been selling Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I have sold them for a long time, I guess ever since they came out. I can't just remember. I now we have handled them ever since they were manufactured, I guess.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all.

Cross Examination. 751

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You are here by yourself in the store?

A. With a clerk.

X-Q. 2. And you make 600 sales a day?

A. Pretty nearly, approximately.

X-Q. 3. And I suppose in the ordinary course if a customer comes in to buy, for instance, cigarettes, and he asks for Camels, he takes the goods and puts down his money and walks out, and there is no conversation one way or the other; is that the case?

A. It depends on the customer. If I knew him quite 752 well I might talk with him, we might pass the time of day,—is that what you mean?

X-Q. 4. Yes. Of course you would pass the time of day. But in the ordinary course you would not discuss with the customer who manufactured Camel cigarettes,—he would ask for them and take the goods and pay for them and go out?

A. I imagine so; the average customer.

X-Q. 5. Did you make any special effort to make a note, or to remember any inquiries you may have had in connection with the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Why would I do that? 753

X-Q. 6. That is what I am asking you. Did you?

A. No.

X-Q. 7. Nobody asked you to make a note of any inquiries that you may have received and remember who asked you the questions?

A. What do you mean, regarding these here questions?

X-Q. 8. Yes.

A. No.

X-Q. 9. There is no reason why you should remember for a year and a half or two years any comments or re-

754 marks about the Beech-Nut cigarette that may have been made in the store?

A. I don't know of any reason why I should remember it; it had nothing to do with me.

X-Q. 10. You wouldn't have paid any attention to it one way or the other?

A. I don't imagine I would.

X-Q. 11. When you say that no such comments and remarks were made, what you mean is, you don't remember?

A. Not to my knowledge.

755 Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 15. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) State whether or not if ten or fifteen people came in and asked you if Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum, you would not have remembered that?

A. Well, I suppose if they made it very plain and definite that I naturally would remember it. Anybody would remember it, I think.

R-D. Q. 16. If a stream of people had been coming in 756 and asking you if Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people who made the gum, you would have remembered it?

A. I think I would; I think anybody with any sense of reason would have remembered anything of that description.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Mr. Hinton: Nothing more.
Deposition closed.
Signature waived.

757

DENNIS T. O'CALLAHAN, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Dennis T. O'Callahan; age 46; residence, 6 Larchmore Road, Salem.

Q. 2. Occupation?

A. Salesman.

Q. 3. For what concern are you a salesman? 758

A. W. P. Radford & Company.

Q. 4. What is the business address of that concern?

A. 159-163 Washington Street, Salem.

Q. 5. How far is that from the United Cigar Stores?

A. Oh, I should say 100 yards. They are right up the street, you see.

Q. 6. Do you know the name of the man who runs that store?

A. Yes, sir; Adelman.

Q. 7. And that is 127 Washington Street?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. How long have you been in the tobacco business? 759

A. 20 years.

Q. 9. Does this Radford store here handle the Beech-Nut cigarette and Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. We do, sir.

Q. 10. Do you know what concern is the manufacturer of the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Co.

Q. 11. Do you handle Beech-Nut gum in this store?

A. We do not, sir.

Q. 12. You don't sell anything but tobacco?

760 A. Well, we handle some other gums, but no Beech-Nut gum.

Q. 13. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No; I suppose it is that Beech-Nut Packing Company, so far as I know.

Q. 14. Can you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette or the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Never under that impression, sir; I always knew who made them.

Q. 15. In your experience can you state whether or 761 not you have to your own knowledge ever heard any inquiries, remarks or comments by customers that would lead you to the impression that they thought the Beech-Nut gum people made the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. I have heard people make inquiries into that you know, whether or not the Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco and the gum and the other Beech-Nut fruit products were all one and the same, and I tried to tell them the difference.

Q. 16. Well, can you give us an incident of that talk? Did you have any conversation with any one about it?

A. I can tell you one incident, one particular incident
762 I remember. A man employed by the Beech-Nut Food Products, and who was in conversation with Mr. Radford, and they conferred with me relative to this same question, whether or not people had the impression that their goods and our goods were lined up with one another.

Q. 17. Did you take part in that conversation?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. What did you say?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as irrelevant.

A. So far as I know I told them at the time, any one I had conversation with that the Beech-Nut Food Products and the Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco were different and separate products, made by separate firms. I told them there was no confusion about it. 763

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as conclusion.

Q. 19. You told them that?

A. I told them that, the parties that were in the store talking. That was some time back.

Mr. Cavanagh: I think that is all. 764

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You have been in the tobacco business 20 years?

A. Yes, right here.

X-Q. 2. Wholesale and retail?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 3. And you don't sell the Beech-Nut gum, never sold it

A. No. I know I have often had calls for it on the outside, and I guess we have tried to get it.

X-Q. 4. Now, how many people do you suppose you have discussed this question with as to who makes the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 765

A. I think about a half a dozen. It would be only in conversation, you know. Sometimes some one would be talking and the question would be brought up, and they would leave it to me as a tobacco man to decide, and I would try to tell them, so far as I knew, that there was a distinction between the parties who made the food products and the Beech-Nut tobacco products.

X-Q. 5. And you would settle the matter for them?

A. I would as best I could to their satisfaction.

766 X-Q. 5. And that is all the discussion you ever had on this question, with half a dozen people, who left it to you to decide that question?

A. Yes; and, as I told Mr. Madden the other day, I have eaten Beech-Nut bacon, and it is good stuff, and I always have a good word for it at any time.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 20. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) State whether or not you ever told anybody that the Beech-Nut gum was 767 manufactured by the same people that made the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. No.

R-D Q. 21. What concerns did you tell them made the Beech-Nut cigarettes and the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. I told them that the P. Lorillard Co. made them.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 7. (By Mr. Hinton.) Do you remember, Mr.
768 O'Callahan, whether you ever had the impression that the Beech-Nut people and the Lorillard people were a part of the same crowd?

A. No. When the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came on the market,—and of course you would—and I took a package and looked at it to see who it was made by, and when I saw "P. Lorillard Co." on the package that satisfied me, and I never confused them. I could see their name on the cigarettes, and on the tobacco, and I could see the name of the Beech-Nut Packing Company on the Beech-Nut products. I know I ate that bacon a great many years ago, before we handled Beech-Nut cigarettes, or Beech-Nut chewing gum; I would see those products in the store, and I would try them, and I would buy them again. 769

R-X Q. 8. You never were under the impression or told anybody that the two companies had some sort of a connection with each other?

A. Never; and those who inquired about it, I tried to tell them the difference,—I tried to tell them that the Beech-Nut Packing Company and P. Lorillard Company were two different and distinct companies, that one made the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes and that the other made food products.

770

Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

(Adjournment taken to Friday, August 11, 1922, to meet at Room 401, Exchange Building, Boston, Massachusetts, at 10.00 a. m.)

Lawrence, Mass., August 12, 1922.

The further taking of depositions resumed at Lawrence, Mass., at 10 a. m.

Present as before. 771

THOMAS J. MAGUIRE, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) What is your name?
A. Thomas J. Maguire.
Q. 2. And your occupation?
A. Well, news dealer and tobacconist.
Q. 3. Where is your place of business located?

772 A. 24 Amesbury Street, Lawrence, Mass.

Q. 4. Are you the proprietor of this store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. How long have you been in the business?

A. 17 years the first of this October.

Q. 6. How long have you been located at this place?

A. 17 years.

Q. 7. Been here ever since you opened up business?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. I do.

Q. 9. Do you also sell the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

773 A. No.

Q. 10. Do you know what concern makes the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. What concern?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 12. And do you also sell any Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Do you know what concern makes that?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. What concern?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

774 Q. 15. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people that made the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No.

Q. 16. Will you state whether or not you are constantly on duty here in the store?

A. Practically 16 hours every day, seven days every week.

Q. 17. Would you state whether or not you ever had any customers or others ask any questions, or make any comments or inquiries which would lead you to believe that they thought that the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people that made the gum? 775

A. No; never had any suggestions in regard to that.

Q. 18. What, so far as you know in your business, is the reputation of P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Why, the very best.

Q. 19. Mr. Maguire, do you know who keeps the grocery right across the alley here?

A. Yes.

Q. 20. Who?

A. M. J. Bailey.

Q. 21. And about what is the number of that Bailey store? 776

A. It would be 34 Amesbury Street.

Q. 22. About how many yards from your place of business is the Bailey store?

A. 25 at the most,—between 20 and 25, 25 at the most.

Q. 23. Practically the next door?

A. Practically the next door,— only three doors below.

Q. 24. Will you state whether or not you ever knew a party named Craven working for M. J. Bailey, grocer, of Lawrence?

A. Yes; James Craven,—I know him well. 777

It is stipulated between counsel that James Craven referred to by the witness is working in the Bailey grocery store, next door to witness' place of business, that he is the same James Craven of Lawrence who testified as a witness on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

778 Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) You work alone in your store, do you, Mr. Maguire?

A. I am alone while I am here.

X-Q. 2. You sometimes have someone to help you?

A. My wife comes in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

X-Q. 3. Do you have, Mr. Maguire, people come in and ask just for "Beech-Nut", without saying whether they want the gum or cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 4. You remember that they do not?

779 A. No, they do not.

X-Q. 5. When did you first put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. So far as I know, it was when they first came on the market; I don't remember just when it was.

X-Q. 6. And that was about a year ago?

A. It was fully a year ago.

X-Q. 7. Who put them in for you, do you remember?

A. Well, I can't recollect whether — I know I ordered them through Mr. Hayes, my jobber. I would not put them in until I had constant call for them. That is my rule, not to put in any goods until I have a call for 780 them.

X-Q. 8. But they were brought to you by the jobber before you put them in?

A. I couldn't say about that, sir; I have no recollection of anything of that kind.

X-Q. 9. Now, were you asked to make an attempt to make a note of or remember any comments, remarks, or inquiries that may have been made by customers?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 10. There is no reason why you should try to remember any incidental remarks that customers made to you when they purchased the goods, is there?

A. No, not particularly.

X-Q. 11. And you made no effort to do so? 781

A. No; they would ask for the goods, and I would sell them to them.

X-Q. 12. In other words they would ask, for instance, for Camel cigarettes, and they would get Camel cigarettes and walk out?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 13. Or they would come in and ask for Beech-Nut cigarettes, and get them, and walk out, without having any conversation with you, in regard to who made them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. You can't remember any such conversation? 782

A. No.

X-Q. 15. Mr. Maguire, you are acquainted with Mr. Craven?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. He is an honest man, so far as you know, and you would believe him under oath?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: I think that is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 25. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Mr. Maguire, will 783 you state whether or not if daily or weekly customers had come in and inquired whether or not the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people that made the Beech-Nut gum, you would have remembered such inquiries?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as leading.

A. I think that I would remember it.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

784 Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 17. (By Mr. Hinton.) Mr. Maguire, how many of these Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell here a week, approximately?

A. Probably about 20 cartons a week, 200.

R-X Q. 18. Twenty cartons a week?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 19. Is that about what you have been selling since they came out, about 20 cartons a week to your customers?

A. Yes.

785 R-X Q. 20. About how many Camels do you sell a week, approximately?

A. Oh, I sell 2,000 camels a week. Camels, of course, are the best sellers in the market.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 26. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) About how many customers do you serve here in a day, approximately?

A. At a very low estimate, 700.

786 R-D Q. 27. This store is near one of the main streets of Lawrence?

A. Yes, sir; it is near the main street.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

787

PETER PETERS, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. (Mr. Cavanagh) What is your full name?

A. Peter Peters.

Q. 2. Your age, Mr. Peters?

A. About 42.

Q. 3. What is your occupation, your business?

A. Store keeper.

Q. 4. What sort of goods do you sell?

A. Candy, tobacco and fruit, groceries, tonic, you know—soft goods. 788

Q. 5. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. Do you sell any Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, not now. I used to sell it before.

Q. 7. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Who makes it?

A. Leroyd or Alroyd, or Ralroid,—I don't know how to spell the name.

Q. 9. You don't know how to spell the name? 789

A. I don't know how to spell the name, but it is right on the package, anyway.

Q. 10. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Sure.

Q. 11. Who?

A. Beech-Nut Packing Company; their name is all marked on the package.

Q. 12. Will you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No; it is a different company, anyway.

790 Q. 13. Will you state whether or not you ever had any questions asked you by customers which would lead you to think that they believed the cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum?

A. No.

Q. 14. You never had any such questions asked you?

A. No.

Q. 15. How long have you been in business here?

A. A little over six years.

Q. 16. How many customers do you serve a day, approximately,—in a general way?

A. That is something I could not tell.

791 Q. 17. Well, I mean in a general way, is it ten, or fifty, or a hundred?

A. Well, about fifty,—I think a little more than fifty, —perhaps,—small sales.

Q. 18. Do you know where M. J. Bailey's grocery store is located in Lawrence?

A. No.

Q. 19. How far is 34 Amesbury Street from here?

A. The street runs this way (indicating). It is way up across Essex Street anyway.

Q. 20. About how far, about how many blocks?

A. Two, I guess,—about two blocks.

792

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton). What is the size of your store, about, do you know?

A. What?

X-Q. 2. How big is your store?

A. What do you mean, how big?

X-Q. 3. The number of feet, how long or how wide, approximately?

A. I didn't measure it, I don't know.

X-Q. 4. About 20 feet, by 10, something like that? 793

A. Of course I didn't measure it. If I said, maybe it would be wrong, see. Why, what is the idea? You can measure it now if you want to.

Mr. Cavanagh: Put it down in a general way, if you want to.

X-Q. 5. It is a one-room store?

A. Yes, one room, and one room in back.

X-Q. 6. Another room in the back that you put things in?

A. Yes. 794

X-Q. 7. You sell some kinds of groceries here?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 8. Candies and tobacco?

A. Candies, tobacco and fruit.

X-Q. 9. You are the proprietor, running the store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. Any other help?

A. No help.

X-Q. 11. How many of these Beech-Nut cigarettes do you suppose you sell a day?

A. I couldn't tell you; sometimes we sell just a few, and sometimes we sell more. 795

X-Q. 12. How many do you buy a week?

A. I am buying nothing last week; the week before I bought two cartons,—a week before last.

X-Q. 13. And none since?

A. No, none since.

X-Q. 14. And that is about the way it goes?

A. That is about the way it goes, slow, you know.

X-Q. 15. You say you sell the Beech-Nut gum here?

A. Yes, sir..

X-Q. 16. Who makes the Fatima cigarettes, do you know?

796 A. I didn't look to see.

X-Q. 17. Can you tell me out of your head who makes the Fatima cigarettes?

A. Of course I don't handle much of them.

X-Q. 18. How about the Camels, do you know who makes them?

A. The Camels?

X-Q. 19. Yes.

A. No,—the American Tobacco Company, I think..

X-Q. 20. Who makes the Lucky Strike, do you know?

A. Meyers, or Miles,—I don't know.

X-Q. 21. And who makes the Moguls?

797 A. I don't handle them.

X-Q. 22. Did you ever handle the Murads?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 23. Who makes those?

A. I don't know; I didn't look on the packages.

X-Q. 24. Who makes the Helmars?

A. I couldn't remember who makes them, but of course when I look at the package I can tell.

X-Q. 25. But in the ordinary course you would not look on the package, unless somebody asked you?

A. No.

X-Q. 26. Now, did they ever ask you to look on the 798 package, and ask you who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 27. Or the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No. You can see it on the package.

X-Q. 29. Who put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes, Mr. Madden?

A. No; Mr. Casey. I buy from Mr. Casey.

X-Q. 30. Who is he, a jobber?

A. Yes, a jobber,—Mike Casey.

X-Q. 31. Now, you say that you never had any discussion with your customers about who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes? 799

A. No.

X-Q. 32. Nobody ever asked you, and you never told anybody?

A. No; because, as you ask me now, I would have to look. I could tell if I looked who made the cigarette. If anybody asked me who makes it, I would say, see the package, that is all.

X-Q. 33. Did you ever try to remember, say a year ago—if people would ask about that, would you try to remember, if you could, any of those questions?

A. What questions? 800

X-Q. 34. About who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. If they asked me the question?

X-Q. 35. Were you asked to try and remember whether you were asked in regard to who made them?

A. Oh, about a year ago, you mean?

X-Q. 36. Yes.

A. Nobody ever asked me, no.

X-Q.37. You didn't pay any attention, but so far as you remembber now nobody asked you, but you don't know definitely.

X-Q. 38. Nobody asked me who made then. They asked for the Beech-Nut cigarette. 801

X-Q. 39. And you sold them, and they walked out?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 40. And so far as you know you had no talk with anybody about it?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Deposition closed.

Signature waived.

802 LOUIS SCHEIPERS, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Louis Scheipers; my residence is 28 Oakwood Avenue, Lawrence, Mass.; age 37; occupation tobacconist and confectionery business. I run a tobacco store down below here, and a candy store here.

803 Q. 2. How many stores have you?

A. Two.

Q. 3 Are you the proprietor of these stores?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. The present store, where this testimony is being taken, is located where?

A. 541 Essex Street, Lawrence.

Q. 5. Is that the main street of the town?

A. Yes, it is the main street.

Q. 6. And do you sell tobacco in this store?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. What else?

804 A. Candy, Beech-Nut products of both kinds.

Q. 8. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes here?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. And do you also sell Beech-Nut gum?

A. Beech-Nut gum, and Beech-Nut marshmallow.

Q. 10. Do you sell any Beech-Nut scrap in your store?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Who, if you know, makes the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard.

Q. 12. Who makes the Beech-Nut gum and the Beech-Nut Marshmallow?

A. Why, the Beech-Nut Food Products Company, whoever they are. 805

Q. 13. About how many customers a day do you serve in this store, at 541 Essex Street,—the candy store?

A. Five or six hundred.

Q. 14. And about how many at the tobacco store?

A. Down below?

Q. 15. Yes.

A. Oh, I probably sell more than that down there.

Q. 16. Do you wait on customers in both stores?

A. Well, I am not putting in much time down at the other store now, but I wait on customers there sometimes when they go to lunch. 806

Q. 17. But you wait on customers here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 18. Do you know where M. J. Bailey's grocery store is located?

A. Yes; right around the corner from me; their store is right around the corner on Amesbury Street.

Q. 19. How far is the Bailey store from the present store, here?

A. About two blocks.

Q. 20. Will you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco were made by the same people that made the Beech-Nut gum, and the Beech-Nut candies? 807

A. No; I always thought they were two different concerns, one was a tobacco and the other a food product company.

Q. 21. State whether or not you ever had any inquiries for or questions from your customers which would lead you to believe that they thought the Beech-Nut cigarette or the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco was made by the Beech-Nut Food Products people?

A. No.

808 Q. 22. You never had any such inquiries?

A. No; we have always sold the two products, we have sold the cigarettes and the gum.

Q. 23. How long have you had the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Why, ever since they came out. I have been in the tobacco business 19 years. The same with the scrap.

Q. 24. What, so far as you know, is the reputation of the P. Lorillard Co.?

A. Why, A No. 1; they have always used me all right.

809 Mr. Cavanagh: I think that will be all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) The store in which you work is a candy store, soda, and confectionery?

A. Yes; and a tobacco counter too.

X-Q. 2. A tobacco counter in it, and that is where you spend most of your time?

A. Yes; since last December.

X-Q. 3. You wait on the counter steadily?

A. On the tobacco counter all the time.

810 X-Q. 4. Were you asked, say a year ago, when the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came out, to make a note of any remarks of customers, any remarks that customers may have made to you about those cigarettes?

A. No, not that I remember.

X-Q. 5. You don't remember?

A. I don't remember being asked, really.

X-Q. 6. Were you making any effort to remember at that time, if you were asked?

A. No; I don't remember being asked at all.

X-Q. 7. I understand that, but did you make any effort to remember at that time; was it something you would watch out for at the time? 811

A. No.

X-Q. 8. I suppose customers come into your store, and ask for Camel cigarettes, or Beech-Nut cigarettes, or whatever they want, and take the goods and go out usually, and they don't tell you, or they don't have any talk with you about who they think makes them, do they?

A. Not very often, no.

X-Q. 9. It would not be an ordinary thing for a man to walk into your store and say, " I know who makes the Camel cigarettes," or "I don't know who makes the Camel cigarette." 812

A. No.

X-Q. 10. He buys them as Camel cigarettes? A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. Did you ever have anybody come in and ask for just "Beech-Nut" without specifying?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. You don't remember that?

A. No.

X-Q. 13. Do you know what is printed on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the picture of a camel? 813

A. I guess there is a name underneath, but I can't think of it.

X-Q. 14. The manufacturer's name?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. And who is the manufacturer?

A. I know it is Reynolds.

X-Q. 16. That is printed underneath the picture of the camel on the front?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. What is printed on the front near the bottom on a package of Lucky Strike, do you know?

814 A. It is marked, "P. Lorillard Co." I don't know whether it is front or back.

X-Q. 18. Is it on the front or back?

A. I mean American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 19. If you will take my word for it, the names that you mention do not appear on either of the two packages in the place mentioned. Now you said if a customer comes in to buy for instance, Camel cigarettes, in the ordinary course he takes the goods and walks out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. He does not discuss with you who makes 815 them?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. Of course you don't know what he thinks about that, not being a mind reader?

A. No.

X-Q. 22. You don't know anything about that?

A. No.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D Q. 25. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Will you state
816 whether or not if you had any inquiries, or repeated inquiries as to whether the cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum you would recall those inquiries?

A. What do you mean?

R-D Q. 26. If you had people come in, one after another, and they made repeated inquiries whether the cigarettes were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut gum, would you recall those instances?

A. Why, yes; I would know that there were two concerns that made the different products, all the time.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination. 817

R-X Q. 23. (By Mr. Hinton.) You would know that it was the Beech-Nut Packing Company that made the gum?

A. Yes, because I passed the Beech-Nut factory one time, on my way to New York, and I know where the factory is, and I always know that P. Lorillard Co. made the cigarettes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.
Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.
Deposition closed. 818
Signature waived.

ARAM GULIAN, a witness called in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to interrogatories by Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your name, age residence and occupation?

A. Aram Gulian.

Q. 2. Age?

A. 20. 819

Q. 3. Residence?

A. 201 Jackson Street, Lawrence.

Q. 4. Occupation?

A. Drug clerk.

Q. 5. Where are you a drug clerk?

A. Liggett's drug store.

Q. 6. Where is that located?

A. Corner of Amesbury and Essex Street, — 361 Essex Street.

Q. 7. Is it a corner drug store?

A. Yes; corner Amesbury and Essex Street.

820 Q. 8. Do you know where the store of M. J. Bailey, grocer, is located?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. How far away is that from where you work?

A. 20 or 30 feet, right across the street.

Q. 10. The Liggett store is in the business section of the city, a corner store?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. In that store do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. Do you sell scrap tobacco?

A. No, we don't; just the cigarettes.

821 Q. 13. Do you sell any Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. Do you know what concern makes the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 15. And do you know who makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company, so far as I know.

Q. 16. Will you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same concern that makes the Beech-Nut 822 gum?

A. No; I never was.

Q. 17. How many customers do you serve a day in that store, approximately,—that is, in a general way?

A. Oh, a couple of hundred, possibly.

Q. 18. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. About a year, I guess, or a year and a half.

Q. 19. Will you state whether or not in your experience you ever had any customers inquire or make any remark which would lead you to think that they thought the cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum?

A. No, sir. 823

Q. 20. You never had any such instances?

A. No; I don't remember of any.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 1. (By Mr. Hinton.) Are you behind the tobacco counter in that store?

A. Yes; a part of the time, not always.

X-Q. 2. You are the general clerk of the store, and you do everything? 824

A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. How many clerks are there in the store?

A. I should think about 8 or 9,—that is regularly.

X-Q. 4. Do you do the tobacco buying?

A. Ordering it; yes.

X-Q. 5. Are you acquainted with Mr. Madden of the Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir. You see we do it direct from New York, and we have no way of getting in contact with the salesmen.

X-Q. 6. This man here, (referring to Mr. Madden), you don't know him? 825

A. Of course I saw him in the store when he came in before,—of course I have seen him.

Q. 7. You put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes over in that store yourself, did you?

A. Myself?

X-Q. 8. Or did you do it on instructions from New York?

A. I had nothing to do with that. That comes in the candy department.

X-Q. 9. Did you receive any advance notice before you put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes that the Lorillard Company was coming out with the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

826 A. I don't think so.

X-Q. 10. How did you come to put them in?

A. We got instruction letters from New York, saying that the Beech-Nut cigarettes have just come out and you can order if you want, and when we have them on the standard list we can order.

X-Q. 11. You knew before you ever got the Beech-Nut cigarettes who made them?

A. I didn't know they were made by Lorillard until I received them.

X-Q. 12. When you received them you looked on the package?

827 A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. And you didn't know before you got the goods?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. All you knew, it was "Beech-Nut cigarettes?"

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. Were you making any effort, Mr. Gulian, a year ago, to make a note of or remember any comments or remarks that your customers might make about these Beech-Nut cigarettes when they bought any?

A. No.

828 X-Q. 16. You paid no particular attention to it?

A. I didn't pay attention to it, no.

X-Q. 17. You can't remember any particular case now when you discussed the matter of who they were made by with any particular customer?

A. No, I don't think anybody passed a remark; they came in and bought it and went out.

X-Q. 18. They didn't ask any questions about them, so far as you are concerned?

A. No, not as far as I am concerned.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

Re-direct Examination. 829

R-D Q. 21. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Will you state whether or not if you had had any remarks addressed to you, or inquiries, or questions asked you as to whether the cigarettes were made by the gum people, would you be likely to recall that?

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

A. Would I recall it?

R-D Q. 22. Yes; if you had had a lot of questions asked you about it? 830

A. I suppose I would.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 19. (By Mr. Hinton.) That would depend on how many you had ask you, I suppose?

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: That is all.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT,

DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company, Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company, Defendant.
} In Equity

839

Worcester, Massachusetts,
August 16, 1922.

Testimony taken on behalf of the defendant, P. Lorillard Company at Worcester, Massachusetts, at two o'clock P. M., August 16, 1922, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel before Penelope Comberbach, a Notary Public in and for the County of Worcester, acting as Examiner by consent of counsel.

Present: Sebastian Hinton, Esq., of Offield, Poole Hinton & Scott, attys. for Beech-Nut Packing Company; 840 Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh & Whitehead, attys. for P. Lorillard Co.

SAMUEL S. BROADBENT, a witness called on behalf of the Defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, in answer to interrogatories propounded to him by Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., as follows:

(By Mr. Cavanagh).

Q. 1. What is your full name?
A. Samuel S. Broadbent.

Q. 2. What is your occupation? 841

A. You ought to know without asking. I am a druggist.

Q. 3. Where is your store located?

A. It was located at 83 Maywood Street, Worcester.

Q. 4. How long have you been in this present location?

A. I am just working here. I have only been here a few weeks.

Q. 5. What is this address?

A. 24 Lincoln Square.

Q. 6. Where was your former place of business?

A. 83 Maywood Street. 842

Q. 7. How long were you there?

A. Six and a half years.

Q. 8. While at 83 Maywood Street, did you sell the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. While at 83 Maywood Street, did you sell "Beechnut" scrap tobacco?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. 10. Do you know who makes the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. I knew that from the time you started to advertise them, because I saw the name. 843

Q. 10. What concern?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 11. And did you sell "Beech-Nut" gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. Please state whether or not you ever thought the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes were made by the same people that make "Beech-Nut" gum?

A. No, because I saw the advertisement when they first came out in the paper, saying they were made by Lorillard & Company.

Q. 13. Please state whether while you were at that 844 store selling cigarettes and gum, you ever had any comments or inquiries which would lead you to believe the gum people were putting out the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. Not as far as I remember.

Q. 14. You cannot recall any such?

A. I can't remember of having any.

Q. 15. Was the Maywood Market near your place of business?

A. Next door but one.

Q. 16. Do you know who ran the Maywood Market?

A. Well, at the present time, Bottomley; but before 845 that, Bullard & Kirby. I guess they were out of it before "Beech-Nut" cigarettes were on the market.

Q. 17. You knew Mr. Bottomley, Mr. Dorris Bottomley?

A. Yes.

(It is STIPULATED that the Dorris Bottomley referred to is a witness called by the plaintiff Beech-Nut Packing Co., in prima facie proof, and is the son of Bottomley referred to as owning the Maywood Market.)

846 Cross Examination by Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 18. How long have you been selling tobacco products?

A. How long have I?

X-Q. 19. Yes.

A. Well, I have sold them ever since I have been in the drug business, and I have been in that about thirty years.

X-Q. 20. Have you sold other Lorillard brands besides "Beech-Nut?"

A. Of what? Cigarettes, cigars?

X-Q. 21. Cigarettes? 847

A. I don't remember. I don't know what other brands they make, really.

X-Q. 22. The only brand you can identify positively as a Lorillard brand is the "Beech-Nut?"

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. Do you know who makes the "Camel" cigarette?

A. No, I don't know as I do.

X-Q. 24. Do you know who makes the "Fatima" cigarette?

A. I wouldn't have known about those only from reading their ad in the paper, and, seeing the name 848
"Beech-Nut," I looked to see if it was made by the "Beech-Nut" people and I saw that name "Lorillard," underneath, and that fixed it in my mind.

X-Q. 25. When you first saw the "ad," you thought it might be made by the "Beech-Nut" people, and you made a closer examination and found they were made by Lorillard?

A. I did. That is what fixed it in my mind.

X-Q. 26. If there had not been some question in your mind about it, you would not have made that close examination?

A. Well, I looked to see from curiosity, to see if it 849 was the Packing People putting out cigarettes also; that is why I looked it over.

X-Q. 27. Do you sell "Murad" cigarettes?

A. Yes, I think we have them.

X-Q. 28. Do you sell "Mogul" cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 29. Do you sell "Helmar" cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 30. Do you know who makes those cigarettes?

A. I do not.

850 X-Q. 31. And you cannot name any Lorillard brands at all of cigarettes?

A. No. As I told you, that was the only thing that fixed that in my mind, was reading the ad through to see—

X-Q. 32. Now, I want you to go back, if you please, o the period of a year and a half ago when "Beech-Nut" cigarettes first came out here. Were you making any special effort at that time to make a note of anything customers might say about these cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 33. You were not paying any particular atten-
851 tion to that, one way or the other, were you?

A. No.

X-Q. 34. And there is no reason why you should have remembered all this time any remarks you would have heard?

A. Well, I would be apt to, if anything was said. I think I would have been apt to remember it. As far as I know, I never had anyone make any confusion between the two at all.

X-Q. 35. As far as you know?

A. As far as I remember.

X-Q. 36. As far as you know? As far as anybody
852 has told you?

A. No, as far as I can remember.

X-Q. 37. How many packages of "Beech-Nut" cigarettes were you selling?

A. Oh, I don't know; they were not a big seller over there.

X-Q. 38. Well, how many would you sell?

A. I don't think I would average a carton a week.

X-Q. 39. That is, twenty packages a week?

A. It wouldn't average that; say probably two cartons in three weeks.

X-Q. 40. How are they going now?

A. They are not selling very fast here. I am talking about the store over where I was. 853

X-Q. 41. And they are going at about the same speed here?

A. Yes, not any faster than that.

X-Q. 42. Do you remember whether you ever had anybody come in your store and ask just for "Beech-Nut?"

A. I don't think so. I think they usually said whether they wanted gum or mints or cigarettes.

Signature waived.

HENRY FREEMAN, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, in answer to interrogatories propounded to him by Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., as follows: 854

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your full name?

A. Henry Freeman.

Q. 2. What is your residence?

A. 7 Beaconsfield Road, Worcester.

Q. 3. What is your occupation?

A. That cigar store down there.

Q. 4. Where is that located? 855

A. 198 Front Street, Worcester.

Q. 5. That is the business section of Worcester?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. How long have you been in the cigar business in Worcester.

A. Twenty years next February since I have been down there.

Q. 7. What kind of goods do you sell in that store besides tobacco? Tobacco products? Do you sell anything else?

856 A. Why, gums a little, Arrowmints.

Q. 8. Do you sell the "Beech-Nut" cigarette in your store?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Do you sell the "Beech-Nut" Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Who if you know makes the "Beech-Nut" cigarette?

A. The Lorillard Company.

Q. 11. And, if you know, who makes the scrap tobacco?

A. Lorillard is who we buy it from.

Q. 12. Do you also sell "Beech-Nut" gum?

857 A. No.

Q. 13. How long have you been selling "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. (After referring to Mr. Madden as to how long it had been in this section) says: About two years.

Q. 14. What is the reputation of the Lorillard Company in the tobacco business, if you know?

A. Well, they are known to be of a pretty good reputation. I have always known them to have a pretty good reputation in the tobacco line.

Q. 15. Please state whether you were ever under the impression the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes were made by the 858 same people that make the "Beech-Nut" gum?

A. Never.

Q. 16. Will you please state whether you ever had any customers make any inquiries, comments or remarks which would lead you to believe that they thought the Gum people were putting out "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. I don't remember any.

Cross Examination by Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 17. Did you put in the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes since they came out in this section?

A. Yes. 859

X-Q. 18. So you remember how you came to put them in? Did Lorillard's man come around and sell them to you?

A. Lorillard's man.

X-Q. 19. Of course you knew before you put them in they were a Lorillard product?

A. I did. I know they were sold in other sections. I have seen them up thru Western New York before they ever came here.

X-Q. 20. How many clerks work in your store?

A. Why, two or three there, at different times.

X-Q. 21. You do a wholesale business? 860

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. What percentage of your business is wholesale, approximately?

Mr. Cavanagh: Just in a general way.

A. Ninety per cent.

X-Q. 23. How much of your time do you spend behind the counter?

A. My time?

X-Q. 24. When you are in the store?

A. Oh, two or three hours a day, perhaps. 861

X-Q. 25. You were not making any effort to make a note or remember any comments or remarks or inquiries that the customers may have made about this "Beech-Nut" cigarette, were you?

A. What?

X-Q. 26. Question read to witness.

A. Nothing more than some people were smoking it; that is all. That is, you know what I mean—people who would smoke the cigarette telling me about how good a cigarette it was.

X-Q. 27. Question again read, and explained to witness.

862 A. No.

X-Q. 28. When you say that you had heard no such comments, remarks or inquiries, what you mean is you do not remember any?

A. No, sure I don't.

X-Q. 29. What are the leading brands of cigarettes that sell in this section and which are made by the Lorillard Company—do you know?

A. "Beech-Nut" is one. That wouldn't include the others, would it?

X-Q. 30. I want to find out.

A. I mean Turkish cigarets.

863 X-Q. 31. Just mention any.

A. Helmar, if you call it their brands; Murad, and "Beech-Nut".

X-Q. 32. Mogul?

A. Yes. Deities.

X-Q. 33. Can you think of any other Lorillard brand of cigarets?

A. Ziras are sold a little here.

X-Q. 34. Do you think of any others?

A. (Enumerating): Helmars, Moguls, Murads, Beech-Nut, Ziras, Deities—that is about the only ones.

X-Q. 35. You carry a pretty full line in your store 864 don't you?

A. Pretty much.

X-Q. 36. You try to carry everything in demand?

A. As a rule.

Re-direct Examination by Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 37. Can you state whether or not if the number of customers who had been coming into your store daily was any large number, coming in and asking if the gum people were making the cigarettes, whether you would have remembered that fact?

Objected to by Mr. Hinton as leading and calling for conclusion of the witness. 865

A. They never did.

R-D Q. 38. If they did, you would have remembered it?

A. I would remember it.

Signature waived.

ANDREW J. WRIGHT, a witness called in behalf of the Defendant, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, in answer to interrogatories propounded by Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., as follows:— 866

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. What is your full name?

A. Andrew J. Wright.

Q. 2. What is your address?

A. 500 Park Avenue, Worcester.

Q. 3. What is your occupation?

A. I am out of a job at present; I have just sold out.

Q. 4. Well, what line of business were you in, recently?

A. This line here. 867

Q. 5. You kept this store, did you?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. What kind of a store?

A. Call it a variety store, we call it; some call it department.

Q. 7. What do you sell? What do you sell in this store?

A. Why, groceries, notions, confectionery, ice cream, soda and tobacco.

Q. 8. "And tobacco"?

A. Yes.

868 Q. 9. How long did you keep this store?

A. I sold out a week ago last Monday (about August 7th).

Q. 10. And you kept here for how long?

A. Eleven years ago the first day of June I owned the place.

Q. 11. You kept the store for eleven years?

A. A little over.

Q. 12. While you were keeping this store, did you sell "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Did you sell "Beech-Nut" scrap tobacco?

869 A. No.

Q. 14. Did you sell the "Beech-Nut" chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. Will you state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut Gum people made the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes?

A. No, I never was.

Q. 16. Do you know who makes the "Beech-Nut" cigarets?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. What concern?

A. Lorillard.

870 Q. 18. Will you please state whether or not you ever heard any customers ask any questions and make any inquiries from you which would lead you to believe they thought the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that made the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Never did that I remember.

Q. 19. About how many customers a day did you serve in this store?—approximately; in a general way?

A. Well, I don't know; that is pretty hard to say.

Q. 20. Just in a general way—whether one, or fifty, r a hundred?

A. Well, probably two or three hundred.

Q. 21. Do you know where the Maywood Market is located around here? 871

A. Yes.

Q. 22. How far is it from here?

A. Across the street.

Q. 23. Right across the street?

A. Well, it is on the other street, that block over there (indicating).

Q. 24. Do you know the name of the proprietor or person running it?

A. Yes.

Q. 25. Who is it?

A. J. T. Bottomley. 872

Q. 26. Do you know a Dorris Bottomley?

A. Yes.

Q. 27. Did he work in the market?

A. Yes. He is in the company now.

It is stipulated that the Dorris Bottomley is the same party heretofore called as witness for plaintiff.

Cross Examination by Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 28. How many packages of those "Beech-Nut" cigarettes do you suppose you sell, a day? 873

A. Why, probably at the present time one of those little 20 package cartons—a carton a week.

X-Q. 29. About twenty a week?

A. Yes; not over that.

X-Q. 30. When they first came out, how many did you sell, approximately?

A. Well, probably the most I have sold would not average over double that.

X-Q. 31. Forty (40) packages a week would be your biggest sale?

874 A. When they first came out and during the campaign of doing the advertising, I had a show window in there; I would probably double that. I don't think it would be more than that.

X-Q. 32. That would be your biggest sale,—forty packages?

A. I should say so.

X-Q. 33. How many people work in your store?

A. Four.

X-Q. 34. It is your family?

A. No, two outsiders.

X-Q. 35. And these hundred customers a day come 875 in for newspapers and all the various goods you sell?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. What are the leading Lorillard brands of cigarettes you sell?

A. I would have to look at the packages to tell you who makes them.

X-Q. 37. Can you name any other Lorillard brand of cigarettes except the "Beech-Nut" without looking at the packages?

A. Very doubtful.

X-Q. 38. Do you know the name of the makers of the "Camel" cigarettes?

876 A. I couldn't say, without looking.

X-Q. 39. Do you know who makes the "Fatima" cigarettes?

A. Again, I wouldn't say without looking.

X-Q. 40. Or Chesterfields?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. Or Deities?

A. No, I don't handle them.

X-Q. 42. Murads?

A. The Greek,—I don't know what his name is; I don't know how you pronounce it.

X-Q. 43. Or Moguls? 877

A. Why—

X-Q. 44. Some Greek makes the Moguls?

Mr. Cavanagh: Anargyros.

A. Yes, I guess that would be it. I was trying to make it begin with an "S."

Mr. Cavanagh: S. Anargyros.

X-Q. 45. You have been selling Deities and Moguls?

A. Deities I haven't handled for a long time.

X-Q. 46. You still sell Moguls? 878

A. Yes.

X-Q. 47. You sell Helmars?

A Yes.

X-Q. 48. Do you know who makes Helmars?

A. Well, let's see. Isn't that by the same people that makes Moguls?

X-Q. 49. Do you know? Whether you know or not?

A. If I was going to say I should say it was the same people that make the Mogul. I wouldn't swear to it.

X-Q. 50. So the only cigarettes of which you can name the manufacturer definitely is "Beech-Nut?"

A. Why, let's see. No, I guess "Sweet Caps" (Cap- 879 orals)—isn't that the American? Well, I wouldn't undertake to name them accurately.

X-Q. 51. Can you name any other except "Beech-Nut?"

A. Because I never pay any attention to those things. Most of these cigarettes have been manufactured by somebody and have been consolidated with other concerns; without paying any particular attention I know they have been but who the originators are and who owns them, I wouldn't be sure.

880 XQ. 52. When the "Beech-Nut" cigarettes were put in your store, did a Lorillard salesman get you to take them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 53. You knew, of course, he was a Lorillard man?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 56. You knew the cigarettes were a Lorillard product before you ever saw them because he told you about them?

A. I knew it because I had to sign a paper when I got them. I know if there hadn't been a specialty man 881 around I would never probably have put them in without having a sufficient knowledge of them.

X-Q. 57. Do you know what is printed on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the camel, without looking?

A. It seems as tho the word "Camel" is there, but I wouldn't swear to it.

X-Q. 58. I mean, underneath the picture of the camel?

A. Not without looking. I couldn't. You mean in lettering?

X-Q. 59. Yes.

882 A. No, I couldn't.

X-Q. 60. Do you know whether there is anything there or not?

A. No.

X-Q. 61. You sell lots of Camels?

A. More than anything else, perhaps, with the exception of Lucky Strike.

X-Q. 62. When you say you haven't heard any comments, remarks, or inquiries from customers, you mean you do not remember any at this moment?

A. No. I don't remember any.

X-Q. 63. Were you interested enough at the time those cigarettes came out to make a note of or remember any such remarks and did you make any such note? 883

A. I never gave it any consideration at all.

X-Q. 64. You didn't try to remember or pay any attention to it?

A. No.

X-Q. 65. Do you know what is on a package of "Beech-Nut" cigarettes? Do you know if there is anything printed on there?

A. Somewhere it says, "Beech-Nut" on there; I couldn't tell where, I don't know whether there is any name printed on there or not; I mean, without looking. 884 I presume there is.

X-Q. 66. But you do not remember ever having seen it?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination by Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D. Q. 67. I show you a package of "Beech-Nut" cigarettes. Can you read that name on the front of it?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 68. What is the name?

A. P. Lorillard Company. Of course, I knew that 885 was on the package somewhere. I haven't my glasses with me, but I can read that.

R-D Q. 69. Will you state whether or not if you had had customers coming in here daily, asking if the cigarettes were made by the gum people, whether you would have remembered that or not?

Objected to by Mr. Hinton as leading.

A. Sure.

R-D. Q. 70. If they had been, you would have remembered it?

A. Yes.

886 Re-cross Examination by Mr. Hinton:

R-X-Q. 71. You mean, you knew they were not made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. Yes, sir.

Re-redirect Examination by Mr. Cavanagh:

R-R-D. Q. 72. You would have remembered such inquiries—is that what you mean?

Objected to by Mr. Hinton as leading.

887 A. Yes, I would.

Signature waived.

Present Sebastian Hinton, Esq., of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, attorneys for Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Richard B. Cavanagh, Esq., of Meyers, Cavanagh and Whitehead, attorneys for P. Lorillard Company. 897

August 17th, 1922.

MR. HERBERT R. HOOPER, a witness called on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant herein, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows in answer to the interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, counsel for P. Lorillard Company:

Q. 1. By Mr. Cavanagh: What is your full name?
A. Herbert R. Hooper.

898 Q. 2. And what is your residence and occupation?

A. 48 Chase Avenue, Springfield.

Q. 3. Occupation?

A. Manager here just now.

Q. 4. What kind of a store is this?

A. F. W. Nash Company, combination stationery, cigars and tobacco.

Q. 5. Located at?

A. 371 Main Street, Springfield.

Q. 6. It is in the business section of the city is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. How long have you been located at this store?

899 A. Two years.

Q. 8. How long have you been in the tobacco business?

A. Well, since 1889 I believe.

Q. 9. Is this store located in the same neighborhood as the Springfield Public Market?

A. Springfield Public Market is right next door.

Q. 10. Do you know who runs that market?

A. Man by the name of Isenburg.

Q. 11. Have you ever sold the Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Sell now.

Q. 12. Beech-Nut chewing gum?

900 A. Yes.

Q. 13. Any other products of the Beech-Nut people that make the gum?

A. No, I think not, nothing else.

Q. 14. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Sure.

Q. 15. What concern?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 16. How long have you been selling Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. As long as they have been making them.

Q. 17. How long have they been making them? 901

A. About a year and a half.

Q. 18. How long were you selling the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. That dates back quite a while.

Q. 19. Before you ever sold the cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 20. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that make the chewing gum?

A. No.

Q. 21. Will you please state whether or not in your business here you ever had any comments or questions 902 or inquiry from customers which would lead you to believe that they thought the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that make the chewing gum?

A. I don't remember hearing the question put. I don't remember having it put or hearing it discussed.

Q. 22. Are you working here in the store regularly every day?

A. Yes.

Q. 23. And waiting on customers?

A. Yes.

Q. 24. In a general way about how many customers do you have in this store a day, just in a general way? 903

A. I would say an average of 700. I guess it would go up more than that, but that is safe.

Q. 25. Can you state whether or not you handle any other Lorillard brands?

A. Oh yes, we handle nearly all of them?

Q. 26. Can you name some of them?

A. Cigarettes?

Q. 27. Cigarettes.

A. We handle their Helmars, Moguls, Murads and nearly everything that they make I guess.

Q. 28. So far as you know what reputation has the 904 Lorillard Company in business, what has been your experience in that direction?

A. It has always been good, good reputation in a business way.

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 29. By Mr. Hinton: You do the buying here do you?

A. In the tobacco line, yes.

X-Q. 30. How long have you been in the tobacco game?

905 A. Since 1888, 88 or 89.

X-Q. 31. You have been a retail salesman of tobacco all that time?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. What were you doing?

A. I was out for the American as Division man.

X-Q. 33. For the American Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, quite a while.

X-Q. 34. At the time the American Tobacco Company and the Lorillard Company were the same company?

A. No; I went out after they split.

X-Q. 35. Were you ever employed by the American 906 Tobacco Company when the Lorillard Company was a part of that company?

A. I don't think so, no.

X-Q. 36. When were you employed by the American Tobacco Company?

A. I went to work for the American Tobacco Company in January 1912 I think and quit two years ago, quit in July 1920.

X-Q. 37. As a salesman?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. And before 1912 what were you doing?

A. I was with Barnett.

X-Q. 39. What do they do? 907

A. They were retail and wholesale tobacco business.

X-Q. 40. So you have been intimately associated in the tobacco business since 1888?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 41. When these Beech-Nut cigarettes came out a year and a half ago could you give me an approximation of how many packages you sell a day here?

A. No; I couldn't.

X-Q. 42. Don't they sell like Camels for instance?

A. No.

X-Q. 43. Ten packages or five or what?

A. Ten would probably be putting it strong enough 908 when they first started.

X-Q. 44. Do you work at the front of this store where the tobacco counter is all by yourself?

A. Most of the time, yes.

X-Q. 45. And wait on several hundred people a day?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 46. Were you trying at the time to make a note of or remember any discussion that you might have heard about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 47. You made no effort to remember any casual conversations? 909

A. No; had no occasion to.

X-Q. 48. You were very busy, had no occasion to, and you see lots of customers every day?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. And your memory is not infallible?

A. Certainly not.

X-Q. 50. What is written on the front of a package of cigarettes, on the Camel cigarettes besides a Camel?

A. What is written on it? Nothing especially that I know.

910 X-Q. 51. What is printed on a package of Lucky Strike cigarettes underneath the red panel Lucky Strike?

A. I don't even know that, might be the factory number, but it is more likely on the reverse side.

X-Q. 52. You have sold lots of Camels over the counter?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 53. And thousands of packages?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. And many thousands of packages of Lucky Strike cigarettes, but never noticed it?

A. No.

911 X-Q. 55. When these Beech-Nut cigarettes were put in Mr. Hooper, do you remember whether the Lorillard agent came around and got you to put them in?

A. I don't remember, but undoubtedly we bought them because we very seldom take on a new brand without a fellow coming in and seeing us.

X-Q. 56. You knew it was a Lorillard product before you saw it?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 57. Did you ever examine a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes closely?

A. I don't know as I ever examined any package of 912 cigarettes closely.

X-Q. 58. What is printed on the front of a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Name is on there I know.

X-Q. 59. The name of the cigarette?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 60. The name Beech-Nut?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. What else is on the front of the package? Ever notice anything else on the front of the package?

A. No.

X-Q. 62. During this whole, practically the whole of this examination a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes with 913 the glaze paper removed has been lying right in front of you hasn't it?

A. Yes, but I haven't taken the trouble to look at it.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 63. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Would you look at that package of cigarettes and tell me whose name was on it?

A. Sure. The Lorillard Company.

R-D. Q. 64. What would that indicate to you?

A. Indicate it is made by the P. Lorillard Company.

R-D. Q. 65. Who makes the Lucky Strike? 914

A. American Tobacco Company.

R-D. Q. 66. Who makes the Camel cigarette?

A. Reynolds.

R-D. Q. 67. What is the name?

A. R. J. Reynolds Company.

R-D. Q. 68. What company manufactures or puts out the Murad?

A. Lorillard Company.

R-D. Q. 69. Will you please state whether or not you have had numerous inquiries made to you, or inquiries made as to whether or not the gum people were putting 915 out this cigarette, would you remember those inquiries or that fact?

Objected to.

By the Witness: Oh sure, would have been apt to.

R-D. Q. 70. It would have impressed itself upon your mind?

A. Sure.

R-D. Q. 71. State whether or not you ever knew any customer to be confused into making—have you ever 916 had any customer ask you was the Beech-Nut cigarette made by the gum people?

A. I don't think I ever had that question put to me.

R-D. Q. 72. State whether or not you would ever sell a customer a package of cigarettes for gum or a food product?

A. Not unless I was foolish.

Re-cross Examination.

R-X. Q. 73. (By Mr. Hinton.) You have been manager here two years?

917 A. Yes.

R-X. Q. 73. Who is the owner of this store?

A. Mr. Nash. He is down there if you want to see him.

R-X. Q. 75. And you came direct here from the American Tobacco Company?

A. Yes, quit them one week and came here the next.

R-X. Q. 76. Did they have anything to do with your getting this position here?

A. Absolutely nothing.

R-X. Q. 77. You left them voluntarily?

A. Yes.

918 R-X. Q. 78. On good terms with them?

A. Yes.

R-X. Q. 79. Were with them over ten years?

A. No. I was with them from 1912.

R-X. Q. 80. Nine years?

A. Only about eight years, seven years and a half.

R-X. Q. 81. Now when a man comes in to buy a package of Camels, Camel cigarettes, he asks for his Camels, put down the money and picks up the goods, walking out and unless he tells you you have no means of knowing what is on his mind?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination. 919

R-D. Q. 82. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) And likewise when they come in and get a package of Beech-Nut gum?

A. Certainly not.

R-D. Q. 83. It is the same proposition, you don't have time to discuss—

A. I wait on from 300 to 500 people a day, figure the minutes and you notice a fellow don't have a great deal of time for discussion.

MR. WILLIAM W. PROVOST, a witness called on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant herein, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to the interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, counsel for P. Lorillard Company: 920

Q. 1. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. William W. Provost.

Q. 2. Age?

A. 32.

Q. 3. Residence?

A. 20 Scott Street. 921

Q. 4. Springfield, Mass. Occupation?

A. Cigar and periodical business, candy.

Q. 5. Do you have charge of this store here?

A. Yes, all of them.

Q. 6. All of the stores?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. What concern do you work for?

A. Roberts Smoke Shop.

Q. 8. And how many stores have they here in Springfield, about?

A. Have ten here in town. They are not all cigar stores.

922 Q. 9. Where is this present store we are in now?

A. 785 Main, corner Main and Marble.

Q. 10. Did you ever handle the Beech-Nut cigarettes in the store?

A. Yes; handled them, had them practically ever since they were out, that is, here in town.

Q. 11. About how long ago?

A. I couldn't tell you that, two years I should say.

Q. 12. Did you ever handle this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. About how long were you handling that in a
923 general way?

A. I should say longer than that.

Q. 14. Before you had the cigarettes?

A. Before we had the cigarettes.

Q. 15. When the Beech-Nut cigarette was first put in your store who did you think made it?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 16. What led you to that belief?

A. Well, the name is on the package on the bottom.

Q. 17. You also handle the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. Do you know the name of the concern that 924 makes that?

A. Yes; the Beech-Nut Packing Company. I think that's the name of the company, the people that make the Beech-Nut brands.

Q. 19. What Beech-Nut brands?

A. Bacon and such things.

Q. 20. Food products?

A. Yes.

Q. 21. Were you ever under the impression that this Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people that make the gum?

A. No.

Q. 22. State whether or not in your experience in 925
the stores you have ever heard of any questions or comments or inquiries from customers which would lead you to believe that they thought the gum people made the cigarettes?

A. No.

Q. 23. Did you ever have any such questions at all?

A. No one ever asked me that, no customers coming in.

Q. 24. Never had any discussion about the matter at all?

A. No.

926

Cross Examination.

X-Q. 25. (By Mr. Hinton): How long have you been selling tobacco over the counter?

A. 17 years.

X-Q. 26. Who did you work for before you worked for your present employer?

A. I started in with him.

X-Q. 27. You have been working in these smoke shops 17 years?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 28. And have been in this store two years?

927

A. No. I have been down here about a year and—I have been down here about six months, in this store here.

X-Q. 29. Where have you been?

A. I have been with him in all of his stores for 16, 17 years. Of course this is our headquarters now. At one time our headquarters was up the street about four blocks and five years ago I had Chestnut Street.

X-Q. 30. Do you people put out any brands of cigars of your own?

A. No.

928 X-Q. 31. You don't put out any?

A. No.

X-Q. 32. Do you remember when you put this Beech-Nut cigarette in, whether the Lorillard man came around and got you to put it in?

A. He did.

X-Q. 33. Did he come around and sell it to you?

A. Yes, a salesman came in and we put the brand in through a salesman.

X-Q. 34. And of course you knew he was a Lorillard man?

A. Yes.

929 X-Q. 35. You knew they were Lorillard goods before you opened the first carton because he told you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 36. Have you made any effort to make a note of or remember any comments or inquiries that might be asked you by customers.

A. In regards to who it was made by? No, I never have. People might have but I never run—no one ever asked me that. No, I have never been asked that.

X-Q. 37. You don't remember it, in other words?

A. No; I have never been asked that.

X-Q. 38. Do you know what is written on a package
930 of Camel cigarettes?

A. I don't mean by that, people might have asked, people might have asked, but never have asked me.

X-Q. 39. No. What is printed on a package of cigarettes underneath the picture of the Camel?

A. The name of the people that manufacture it.

X-Q. 40. And how about Lucky Strikes underneath the red panel front and back?

A. I think that comes on the side of those.

X-Q. 41. Underneath the red panel?

A. I don't know as I could tell you exactly. You will find the name of the manufacturers of cigarettes sometimes on the front, sometimes on the sides or sometimes 931 on the back. I couldn't tell every cigarette on every package. If I wanted to find who made it it is usually on there somewhere.

X-Q. 42. On there somewhere?

A. Somewhere.

X-Q. 43. How many of these Beech-Nut, how many packages would you sell a day here, do you suppose?

A. Well, I couldn't tell you that, how many we sell a day because we don't take daily inventories and I'm not behind the counter in any one store. Probably use around 10,000 Beech-Nuts a month.

X-Q. 44. I mean in this one store? 932

A. That I couldn't tell you.

X-Q. 45. Five packages a day?

A. Might be five, might be one, might be none. I couldn't tell you how they sold in each individual store per day.

X-Q. 46. How many in this store?

A. I couldn't tell about this store because I'm not behind the counter.

X-Q. 47. How long has it been since you gave up working behind the counter?

A. When I work behind the counter it is to fill in in an emergency. I haven't worked behind the counter 933 steady for ten years.

X-Q. 48. Just except occasionally for a short time?

A. The only way I could tell the number of Beech-Nuts per day is an estimate, I can tell you about what we use that goes through the stock room, each store.

X-Q. 49. You spend very little time behind the counter?

A. Very little.

X-Q. 50. Many days you are not at all?

A. I am in the store, every day, every store every day, once a day, sometimes oftener than once a day.

934 X-Q. 51. You don't work behind the counter. How often are you behind the counter?

A. I couldn't tell.

X-Q. 52. Once a month?

A. Yes, and sometimes no. If the girl is busy waiting on people I would step behind and wait on them.

X-Q. 53. You don't work steady behind there as much as once a month?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination.

935 R-D. Q. 54. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) You have worked behind the counter in the store?

A. Yes.

R-D. Q. 55. And have sold Beech-Nut cigarettes behind the counter.

A. Yes.

MR. JOSEPH EQUI, a witness called on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant herein, being first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows, in answer to the interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, counsel for P. Lorillard Company:

936

Q. 1. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) What is your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Joseph Equi.

Q. 2. Legal age I suppose and residence?

A. 1699 Northampton Street.

Q. 3. Occupation?

A. I am the manager of the business here.

Q. 4. This business is a confectionery and tobacco and soda water store?

A. Yes, sir; ice cream, soda water.

Q. 5. Address is? 937

A. 359 Dwight Street.

Q. 6. Holyoke, Mass. Did you ever sell the Beech-Nut cigarette here?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. How long have you been selling them in a general way?

A. I couldn't say. We had them when they came to Holyoke, must be over a year ago.

Q. 8. Ever sell the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes. We have it now.

Q. 9. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes? 938

A. I suppose the same people that make the tobacco.

Q. 10. Do you know the name of that concern?

A. Lorillard is it?

Q. 11. Lorillard. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum here?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. Did you ever believe the Beech-Nut tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people that made the gum?

A. No; I don't believe that.

Q. 13. State whether or not you ever had any questions asked you by customers or others that would lead 939 you to believe that they thought the gum was made by the tobacco people?

A. Never had customers inquiring about that, whether the gum or tobacco was made by the same people, never had that question made.

Q. 14. Thought it was made by the same people, Beech-Nut cigarettes, as made the scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

940 Cross Examination.

X-Q. 15. (By Mr. Hinton.) How many of those Beech-Nut cigarettes would you sell here in a day?

A. I should say maybe a box or two a week, carton or two a week, that is about 200.

X-Q. 16. 40 packages a week?

A. About that, about 40.

X-Q. 17. This is mainly a soda fountain?

A. Yes, fountain, sell candy and fruit, cigars.

X-Q. 18. When the Beech-Nut cigarettes were put in did the Lorillard man come around and put them in do 941 you remember?

A. That I couldn't say. I don't know whether the jobber introduced the cigarette or the salesman, that I couldn't say. I don't recollect that.

X-Q. 19. How much of that scrap do you sell here, Beech-Nut scrap?

A. It's hard to say, sometimes it sells faster than others. Well, I should say possibly, well, a carton a month, maybe they wouldn't reach a month, the container, I think that is two dozen.

X-Q. 20. How many packages?

A. It varies, sometimes might sell—

942 X-Q. 21. The average would be one a month?

A. Little better than one a month, just a little better, varies all the time.

X-Q. 22. Did you make any effort to remember whether or not you heard any discussion about these cigarettes when they came out, pay any particular attention to it?

A. No.

X-Q. 23. You knew before you saw the goods that they were Lorillard goods?

A. Why, it was written on the package if I remember right, usually on the package who they were made by,

X-Q. 24. You saw it on the package? 943

A. Naturally, a new product, kind of curious to find out who put it out.

X-Q. 25. So you examined the package?

A. Ordinary way you know.

X-Q. 26. That's the way you remember. Who makes the Mogul cigarette, do you know?

A. Mogul? I think the American.

X-Q. 27. Who makes the Murads?

A. Same, American.

X-Q. 28. Who makes the Fatimas?

A. Reynolds.

X-Q. 29. Who makes the Camels? 944

A. Same, Reynolds.

X-Q. 30. Who makes the Helmars?

A. American.

X-Q 31. Who makes the Lucky Strike?

A. American.

X-Q. 32. Can you name any Lorillard brand of cigarettes except the Beech-Nut?

A. I think the Piedmonts, I wouldn't say for sure. No, I don't think Piedmont.

X-Q. 33. You can't name any other Lorillard brand of cigarettes except the Beech-Nut. Can you name any other Lorillard brands of tobacco except scrap? 945

A. Mechanic's Delight is made by them.

X-Q. 34. Any other?

A. We don't handle all their products. I guess that's about all we handle.

X-Q. 35. Do you know of any other Lorillard products?

A. Unless it is the Lorillard, this yellow snuff is put out by them.

X-Q. 36. That is a snuff, is it?

A. Yes, that is a snuff, think it is; I'm not sure.

946 X-Q. 37. You sell the Murads and Helmars and Moguls?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. Sell the Egyptian Dieties?

A. I wouldn't say yes or no. I think we are all out of them but we sell them.

X-Q 39. Who makes them do you know?

A. Don't remember. I couldn't say.

X-Q. 40. Can you name any Lorillard brands of cigars?

Objected to.

947 By the Witness: Not that I know of.

X-Q. 41. As far as you know they don't make any cigars?

A. Not that I know. If they do we don't carry them.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 42. (By Mr. Cavanagh.) If you had had any inquiries from customers asking you if the cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum, you would remember it wouldn't you?

948 Objected to as leading.

By the Witness: Yes, I think I would.

R-D. Q. 43. You wouldn't have any difficulty remembering inquiries along that line?

A. I could recollect them easy enough if I had anyone bring that matter up.

949

MR. FERDINAND RIGALI, Jr., a witness called on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant herein, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows in answer to the interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, counsel for P. Lorillard Company:

Q. 1. By Mr. Cavanagh: Will you plaese state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Ferdinand Rigali, Jr.

Q. 2. Age?

A. 25.

Q. 3. Residence?

950

A. 1616 Northampton Street.

Q. 4. Occupation?

A. Fruit dealer.

Q. 5. What store do you work in?

A. Right here. We only have one store.

Q. 6. Address?

A. 773 Dwight Street.

Q. 7. Do you know a store kept by a party by the name of Carlton here in Holyoke?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. 8. Where is that store?

A. Just about four streets from here.

951

(It is stipulated, the Carlton referred to, is a witness heretofore called for Plaintiff.)

Q. 9. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes in the store?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Do you know what concern makes those?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. What is it?

A. Lorillard.

952 Q. 13. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. Do you know what concern makes that?

A. Yes; Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 15. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that make the gum?

A. Not the people.

Q. 16. Will you please state whether or not you ever had any customers ask any questions or make any inquiry which would lead you to believe that they thought the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that 953 made the gum?

A. I have had to my, I think I had about two people ask me. I couldn't say who the people were, just people that came into the store.

Q. 17. How long ago was that?

A. Quite a while ago after they came out one party asked me who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes and went as far as to ask me if the Beech-Nut Packing Company made them. I told them certainly not, that's as far as the argument went. He didn't know probably.

Q. 18. Those are the only two occasions?

A. That's the only two occasions I have had unless 954 the other boys have had.

Q. 19. About how many customers do you serve a day in this store, in a general way how many coming in, in general?

A. I don't know.

Q. 20. Approximate it.

A. 700, 800, sometimes 500 a day coming in during the day, 500 people

Cross Examination. 955

X-Q. 21. By Mr. Hinton: You carry fruit and run a soda fountain here?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. Have tables behind?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. And carry candy and cigars?

A. Tobacco.

X-Q. 24. Do you do the buying here?

A. Yes; I do.

X-Q. 25. When these Beech-Nut cigarettes came out did a Lorillard salesman come and get you to put them in? 956

A. Yes; there was a salesman to get the trade.

X-Q. 26. You knew they were Lorillard goods before you put them in?

A. Certainly I know they were Lorillard goods. They told me who they were in fact. Naturally, all the boys do when anybody comes in we have a new cigarette such and such a concern, we have other goods that we sell.

X-Q. 27. Did you make any effort to remember, make a note of any comments or inquiries that you had about these cigarettes from your customers?

A. Only those occasions when a certain fellow come 957 in, that's what brought it to my mind. I never even stopped to think about the Beech-Nut Packing Company being in this proposition at all. I buy cigarettes from a concern, know they are made by a cigarette people, naturally they come in, I hadn't the least thing in my mind until this party come in and asked me if it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company or who it was made by, being Beech-Nut cigarettes just like other things are made by Lorillard, certain kind of tobacco same name as the other doesn't necessarily have to be the same concern make it We have different kind of 958 goods by the same name we have used too, in the George Washington coffee, a long time ago—

Answer objected to by Mr. Hinton as not responsive.

X-Q. 28. You were not paying any particular attention to this at the time, were you, you weren't trying to remember?

A. No.

X-Q. 29. Every time you had an inquiry?

A. I was in one way because I was interested in the 959 fact and this party asked me. I had no other inquiries outside of this person. I can't recollect you know.

X-Q. 30. You didn't make a note every time anybody asked you about that.

A. No.

X-Q. 31. You didn't try to remember?

A. No; I didn't make no notes only as to my mental—

X-Q. 32. Who makes the Mogul cigarette do you know?

A. Mogul cigarettes? No; I don't.

X-Q. 33. Who makes the Murads?

A. I don't know who makes the Murads. Murads and Helmars are made by the same people, made by the 960 Lorillard people aren't they?

X-Q. 34. Who makes the Helmars?

A. I think the Helmars are made by the same people.

X-Q. 35. Who makes the Camels?

A. Camels made by the Reynolds.

X-Q. 36. Who makes the Fatimas?

A. Fatimas by the Liggett & Myers.

X-Q. 37. Who makes the Lucky Strikes do you know?

A. American.

X-Q. 38. Name any other Lorillard brand of cigarettes?

A. Cigarettes?

X-Q. 39. Yes. 961

A. I don't believe I do know only those, the Beech-Nut, no I don't think I can name other Lorillard outside of that Beech-Nut. 111 I think it was.

X-Q. 40. Can you name any Lorillard brands of chewing tobacco?

A. I can't think of it now, Mechanics' chewing.

X-Q. 41. Any others?

A. No; not any chewing tobacco.

X-Q. 42. How about cigars?

Objected to.

962

X-Q. 43. How about cigars, can you name any Lorillard brands of cigars?

A. No; I don't think we handle any of their cigars at all.

X-Q. 44. You carry quite a lot of chewing tobaccos?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 45. Carry Climax?

A. No.

X-Q. 46. Polar Bear?

A. No.

X-Q. 47. Scrap? B. L.?

A. Yes, we carry B. L. 963

X-Q. 48. Murads, Moguls and Helmars?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 49. And Deities?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination.

R-D. Q. 50. By Mr. Cavanagh: You say you handle a George Washington coffee?

A. Yes; we used to handle it and a while ago—

964 R-D. Q. 51. Ever handle any tobacco of George Washington?

A. Tobacco compact? No, we had George Washington smoking tobacco, that's all.

R-D. Q. 52. If you had had inquiries as to whether one person thought the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum you would remember that wouldn't you?

Objected to.

R-D Q. 53. If you had had inquiries?

965 A. On this occasion I remember it this one occasion, that's how you are always yourself.

STIPULATION

It is hereby stipulated by and between counsel that if GORDON MICHAELS were called as a witness on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, he would testify as follows:

My name is Gordon Michaels and I am of lawful age and keep a store at 1012 State Street in the City of Springfield, Mass. In this store I sell soda water, candy, 966 confectionery and tobacco products. I have sold Beech-Nut cigarettes since they first came out about a year and a half ago, and have handled the scrap tobacco some three or more years. I also sell Beech-Nut gum, Beech-Nut popcorn, and have handled Beech-Nut ginger ale. I have been at this place of business for about seven years. I knew that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Lorillard Company, or the same people that made Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, but never thought that the gum people had anything to do with either. I never had any persons ask if the gum people made the cigarettes so far as I can remember. This store is located diagonally across 967 the street from 1083 State Street and is also located in the same neighborhood as drug store of Broughton.

On cross examination, witness would testify: I sell very little of the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and would probably average not more than one carton, namely 20 packages, a week of Beech-Nut cigarettes. I made no effort to remember any comments, remarks or inquiries that customers may have made, nor was there any reason why I should do so. I knew the cigarettes were made by the Lorillard Company before I saw them because they were put in by a Lorillard agent who told me they were a Lorillard product. 968

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

vs.
P. Lorillard Company.

In Equity
No. 3056.

December 11, 1922.

977 Depositions taken on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant, in the above entitled action, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, before Lafayette P. Temple, a Notary Public in and for the City of Baltimore, State of Maryland, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, at his office, 110 East Lexington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, beginning on the 11th day of December, 1922, at 10:30 o'clock a. m.

Present in behalf of the plaintiff, Messrs. Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott (by Mr. Sebastian Hinton).

Present in behalf of the defendant, Messrs. Meyers, Cavanagh & Whitehead (by Mr. Richard B. Cavanagh and Mr. Thomas L. Preston).

978

SAMUEL RACKMALES, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Samuel Rackmales; I am of legal age;

I reside at 856 West Lexington Street, Baltimore, Maryland; my place of business is 115 West Fayette Street; my occupation is that of merchant, specializing in tobaccos. 979

Q. 2. How long have you been engaged as a merchant in the tobacco business?

A. About fifteen years.

Q. 3. How long has your place of business been located at 115 West Fayette Street?

A. Six months.

Q. 4. This is the business section of Baltimore City, is it not?

A. Yes. 980

Q. 5. Approximately how many customers a day do you serve?

A. About five hundred.

Q. 6. And about how many clerks do you employ?

A. Just myself and my daughter.

Q. 7. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Do you know what company puts out those brands of tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. What company puts them out? 981

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 10. Do you sell the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Will you please state whether or not you were ever under the impression that the same people who put out the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes also made the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I have always known that they were two separate and distinct units. I have always known that.

Q. 12. That is that the cigarette and the tobacco were made by one concern and the chewing gum by another?

982 A. Yes, they are different concerns entirely.

Q. 13. Did you ever hear of the Lorillard Company putting out any Beech-Nut chewing gum or any food products?

A. I have never heard of their producing anything in the nature of food products, not to my knowledge.

Q. 14. Will you please state whether or not you ever had any questions asked you or ever heard any comments or inquiries from customers which would lead you to believe that they thought the same concern which put out the Beech-Nut cigarette and the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco also put out the Beech-Nut chewing gum and the Beech-
983 Nut food products?

A. In my experience of fifteen years in handling both products I have yet to find one customer to ask that question.

Q. 15. You have never had any such question asked you?

A. Never in the history of fifteen years merchandising have I ever had one person ask that question.

Q. 16. From your experience in the business, what would be your opinion of any customer who would confuse tobacco with chewing gum.

A. As far as opinions go, I would figure that the 984 average man has enough intelligence to realize that a tobacco is not a food. That is the way I look at it. A food product and a tobacco product I should figure are two different and separate items entirely, there is just as much difference between them as there is between a horse and an automobile.

Q. 17. You sell the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, do you?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. Is that a good seller?

A. Fairly good.

Q. 19. I understand you also sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 20. Have you ever had any person ask you for Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut Cigarettes made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company? 985

A. Never.

Q. 21. You have never sold any goods under those conditions?

A. No, sir; no one has ever asked that.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. What were you doing before you opened this store? 986

A. I was in the same line of business. Previous to opening this store I was at 506 North Eutaw Street.

X-Q. 2. You had another tobacco store, had you?

A. Yes, I had another tobacco store.

X-Q. 3. Between what years did you have that?

A. Between 1918 and 1921.

X-Q. 4. Before that what did you do?

A. Before that I was with A. A. Brager.

X-Q. 5. What do they do?

A. That is a large department store here in Baltimore I was manager of that department for seven consecutive years. 987

X-Q. 6. That would be from 1911 to 1918?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. And before that, what did you do?

A. Before that I was with Bernheimer Brothers.

X-Q. 8. What do they do?

A. That is another department store here in Baltimore. I was general salesman for everything in the house.

X-Q. 9. Did you have any business connection with tobacco before 1911?

988 A. At the time I was with Bernheimer I don't believe I did.

X-Q. 10. Do you sell many of these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I sell on an average of a thousand a week.

X-Q. 11. That is fifty packages?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. How many did you sell when they first came out, do you remember?

A. When they first came out I don't believe there was any difference as far as the sales went; it has not been an extremely big seller with me. I should judge 989 that is about an average of what I have been selling.

X-Q. 13. Do your customers ever ask you who makes the Camel cigarettes?

A. No, sir..

X-Q. 14. Do they ever ask you who makes the Fatima cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 15. Are they in the habit of discussing with you who makes the cigarettes, or telling you who they think makes the cigarettes?

A. I doubt if I have had one customer since I have been in business to ask questions as to who makes the 990 products.

X-Q. 16. Do they talk to you on other subjects?

A. We converse on nearly every subject as far as that is concerned, but I have yet to find a person to start a conversation with reference to the manufacture.

X-Q. 17. You say that you have been selling this scrap tobacco for fifteen years, is that correct?

A. Approximately. To count back, there is eight and four, that would be twelve years, to be exact, although I have had lines of tobacco and cigarettes for myself previous to that, on my own hook, off and on, maybe for a year or so after I left Bernheimer's. To come right down to the real years, I have been handling that brand for eleven years. 991

X-Q. 18. That is this package of Beech-Nut scrap which Mr. Cavanagh showed you and which is marked as an exhibit in this case?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. You have been handling that eleven years, you say?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. How long have you been handling the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Since they first put them on the market. 992

X-Q. 21. When was that?

A. About nine months ago, I guess.

X-Q. 22. That would be about the spring of 1922?

A. I think that is when they started. I am not familiar with just when they did put them out. Such things as that do not lie on my brain but I figure about nine months, maybe a month or two longer.

X-Q. 23. Do you think you got them as soon as they came in this territory?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 24. You know that you did, don't you?

A. Yes. 993

X-Q. 25. Your relations with the Lorillard Company have always been very satisfactory, have they?

A. Sometimes we have had a little disqute or two, but it does not amount to anything. You know how it is in business, you will have your little troubles.

X-Q. 26. You carry a full line of their goods, do you?

A. Almost.

X-Q. 27. How long have you done that?

A. Ever since I have been in business.

994 Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1. What is the general reputation of the Lorillard Company in their line of business, so far as you know?

A. Their reputation is that I think they are open and above-board, clean.

R-D Q. 2. They are very large tobacconists, aren't they?

A. Yes.

995 R-D Q. 3. You do not know exactly the date when you first sold the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco, do you?

A. I can get the exact date when I started in with Brager. They have the records of it up there. The years come and go and I can not run back to the exact date myself.

R-D Q. 4. You can tell the difference at a glance between a package of Beech-Nut Cigarettes and a package of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and a package of Beech-Nut Chewing Gum, can't you?

A. Absolutely.

R-D Q. 5. They each have an individuality of their 996 own, haven't they, as to form and shape?

A. Positively. This is a cigarette package and if you offer this to a man as chewing gum he would tell you right away that those were cigarettes. You could not confuse them in a thousand years. The gum has an individual packing, ninety-nine out of every hundred packages of gum are packed in that way. I have yet to see one package of chewing gum packed that way (indicating cigarette package).

R-D Q. 6. Does the same apply to the scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, the difference is so vast that a child could discern the difference.

Re-cross Examination. 997

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. You are quite sure, then, that no customer would ever mistake a package of chewing gum for a package of cigarettes?

A. No customer would ever confuse either the packing or anything else.

R-X Q. 2. You mean that he would know that one was cigarettes and the other was gum?

A. Yes.

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.) 998

MORRIS J. GOODMAN, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation. 999

A. My name is Morris J. Goodman; my place of business is 31 East Baltimore Street; my home address is 3100 Holmes Avenue, Baltimore, Maryland; occupation, proprietor of Goodman & Miller; I am of lawful age; my business is that of confectioner and tobacconist.

Q. 2. In your store here what sorts of goods do you handle?

A. Candies, cigars and sodas.

1000 Q. 3. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. We do.

Q. 4. How long have you sold it?

A. Ever since I have been in business, about seven years.

Q. 5. Do you sell the Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Do you sell Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. I do.

Q. 7. Do you sell any other Beech-Nut products?

A. Beech-Nut mints.

Q. 8. Were you ever under the impression that the 1001 Company that makes the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and the Beech-Nut Cigarettes also made the Beech-Nut Gum and the Beech-Nut Mints?

A. No, I was not.

Q. 9. You always knew what company made the Beech-Nut Tobacco?

A. I did.

Q. 10. Did you ever hear any comments or inquiries or remarks from any of your customers which indicated that they thought that the same company made the food products and also the tobacco products?

A. No, I did not.

1002 Q. 11. You never heard any comment of that sort?

A. No, sir.

Q. 12. Do you think that a customer could confuse any one of those three packages (exhibiting to witness package of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco, Beech-Nut Cigarettes and Beech-Nut Gum)?

A. No.

Q. 13. Do you think any customer could mistake the gum package for the cigarette package or the gum package for the scrap tobacco package?

A. Do you mean in package form?

Q. 14. Yes.

A. No.

Q. 15. The cigarette package has a personality of its own, isn't that true?

A. I don't know whether it has or not, but I guess it will have in course of time. I can not tell yet. It is selling pretty fair.

Q. 16. I do not mean particularly that cigarette package, but any package of cigarettes has an individuality of its own, has it not?

A. Yes, individual wrappers. We can generally tell by the box what kind of cigarettes they are. We never look at the names of any cigarettes, practically. Any man in the business does not look at the name Piedmont or Chesterfield or Murad or Lucky Strike or Sweet Caporal. We tell them from the back, like this; we never look at the front mark.

Q. 17. Do you sell Chesterfield pipes here?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. And you also sell Chesterfield cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Are they made by the same company?

A. That I do not know, but I do not think so. I think they are made by the W. D. C. Company.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. Do the W. D. C. Company make the pipe?

A. Yes, but I don't know whether they make the Chesterfield or not.

X-Q. 2. What is written on the front of this package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, do you know?

A. I never took that much interest to know.

X-Q. 3. Did you ever see the manufacturer's name written on it anywhere?

A. Yes, P. Lorillard's name is on the back of it.

1006 X-Q. 4. Who put in these Beech-Nut Cigarettes for you, what salesman, do you remember?

A. That I can not remember; that was too far back.

X-Q. 5. Was it some Lorillard salesman?

A. I am quite sure it was.

X-Q. 6. Some Lorillard salesman who came around and introduced them?

A. Yes, but I don't know exactly who it was.

X-Q. 7. You knew before you saw the goods that they were Lorillard's products?

A. Yes, the minute he showed me the cigarette I knew it was a Lorillard man.

1007 X-Q. 8. The tobacco salesman brought them in?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 9. How much of a sale do you have for the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. A very big demand, one of the biggest demands we have on gum.

X-Q. 10. What were you doing before you operated this store?

A. I was connected with the Jaffe Company in the same line of business.

X-Q. 11. What office?

A. I had charge of Washington Hotel Cigar Store, in 1008 Washington, D. C.

X-Q. 12. What does that company do?

A. They are out of existence right now.

X-Q. 13. What did they do when they were in existence?

A. Sold cigars and cigarettes and tobacco. I was one of the firm of Jaffe & Company.

X-Q. 14. During what period was that?

A. During 1917 to 1920.

X-Q. 15. What were you doing before that?

A. I used to work with the Globe Cap Company, selling hats and caps.

X-Q. 16. Did you make any special effort to make a 1009 note of or remember anything that customers might say about this question of who made the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. No, I don't remember anybody asking me that question.

X-Q. 17. There is no reason why you should have remembered it, is there?

A. No. Nobody asked me that I can recollect.

X-Q. 18. And there is no reason why you should have remembered it if there had been?

A. No.

X-Q. 19. When did the cigarettes come out, do you 1010 remember?

A. I don't think they have been out very long; I guess about a year, isn't it?

X-Q. 20. That would be December, 1921.

A. If it is about a year it would be then, yes.

X-Q. 21. How long have you been handling the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. I have been handling it here for about four years.

X-Q. 22. What sort of demand do you have for the scrap tobacco?

A. A bigger demand than for any scrap tobacco we have. 1011

X-Q. 23. How do you sell scrap here in comparison to plug tobacco?

A. This is not a big tobacco section around here, but we sell more scrap than we do plug.

X-Q. 24. Is that true of this territory generally?

A. We do not have the class of trade in this section for the chewing tobacco that we have for the plug tobacco.

X-Q. 25. Who makes the Lucky Strike Cigarette?

A. The American Tobacco Company.

1012 X-Q. 26. Do you know who makes most of the brands of cigarettes that you sell?

A. That is pretty hard to tell, because some of the bigger sellers are made by Liggett & Myers, and R. J. Reynolds and the American Tobacco Company and the P. Lorillard Company. I think they are pretty well divided, myself. What one has not a demand for the other one has in the way of brands. The Liggett & Myers Company has the biggest selling brands and the American Tobacco Company has the most brands. P. Lorillard & Company has a great many brands, so I think it is pretty well divided myself.

1013 X-Q. 27. How many brands do you sell?

A. Of tobacco?

X-Q. 28. Of cigarettes.

A. I couldn't tell you offhand. I know there are a good many of them.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. Did you ever see a package put out by the Beech-Nut Packing Company that looked like that cigarette package?

1014 A. No. I am not acquainted with the Beech-Nut products. I have only handled the gum and I could not tell what other packages they put out. We handle the Beech-Nut gum and Beech-Nut Mints, and they are nothing like the package of the Beech-Nut Cigarette.

R-D Q. 2. Is the demand for the gum as good now as it was before the Cigarette came on the market?

A. It is as good as ever we had it.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1015

CARL W. JACOBSON, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. State your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Carl W. Jacobson; I am of lawful age; my business address is 3311 Pennsylvania Avenue; Occupation; delicatessen merchant.

Q. 2. Do you sell tobacco here in your delicatessen store?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 4. Do you sell Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Do you sell Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Do you sell any of the other Beech-Nut products?

A. Beech-Nut Peanut Butter.

1017

Q. 7. Did you ever think that the same company that manufactured both the Beech-Nut Cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco also made the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. No, never, it is a different kind of business altogether.

Q. 8. Did you ever hear any comments or inquiries or remarks from any of your customers which indicated that they were under the impression that the same Company made both the cigarette and the chewing gum?

A. No, I never did.

1018 Q. 9. About how many customers do you have here a day?

A. Between two hundred and fifty and three hundred.

Q. 10. Do you think those packages look alike (displaying to witness a package of Beech-Nut Gum and Beech-Nut Cigarettes)?

A. No, I do not.

Q. 11. A cigarette package has an appearance of its own which in no way resembles the appearance of a gum package isn't that so?

A. I would answer that by saying no, they are two 1019 different looking packages altogether.

Q. 12. Do you know what company makes the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. After I had a conversation with you I do, but I didn't know it before.

Q. 13. What would you think of a man who came into your store wanting to buy Beech-Nut Cigarettes and would take a package of Beech-Nut Gum in place of it?

A. It could not happen.

Q. 14. You sell Del Monte Butter here, do you not?

A. No, I used to handle it.

1020 Q. 15. At the same time that you sold Del Monte Butter, did you sell other products called Del Monte?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. And they were made by different companies, were they?

A. Yes, entirely different.

Mr. Hinton: This line of testimony is objected to unless the labels involved are produced.

Cross Examination. 1021

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How many of these Beech-Nut Cigarettes do you sell in a week?

A. Very little.

X-Q. 2. How many do you buy?

A. A carton at a time only, ten packages.

X-Q. 3. How often do you buy a carton of the Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. I have not bought any since I have been here, three months.

X-Q. 4. Then your sales in the Beech-Nut Cigarettes 1022 are negligible?

A. Very slow.

X-Q. 5. Have you any on sale now?

A. Yes, I have a few packages.

X-Q. 6. How long have you had them?

A. About three months.

X-Q. 7. And one carton of ten packages lasts you three months?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 8. Ten packages of the cigarettes supplies your call for them for three months?

A. Yes, it is a very slow seller with me. 1023

X-Q. 9. And you have no fixtures here to display your cigarettes?

A. They are displayed the same as any other cigarette.

X-Q. 10. But they are up on the wall, nobody would notice them particularly?

A. No.

X-Q. 11. What Beech-Nut products do you say you sell?

A. Peanut Butter and Chewing Gum.

1024 X-Q. 12. Is that all?

A. That is all.

X-Q. 13. Will you please look around your store and tell me what those bottles are up there?

A. Catsup.

X-Q. 14. You sell Beech-Nut Catsup, do you?

A. That is the same people that make the Peanut Butter.

X-Q. 15. Do you sell any other product that you can think of that is made by the Beech-Nut people?

A. Not that I know of; I know there is a Beech-Nut Tobacco, but I don't handle it.

1025 X-Q. 16. Who makes that, do you know?

A. If I handled it I would know, but I imagine it is the same people who make the cigarettes.

X-Q. 17. But you don't know who they are?

A. I know now, the P. Lorillard Company, but I did not know it before. I never expected that the Chewing Gum people manufactured cigarettes.

X-Q. 18. Do you see any resemblance between the oval device on the package of gum and that on the package of cigarettes?

A. None whatever.

X-Q. 19. Absolutely different?

1026 A. Absolutely different.

X-Q. 20. No similarity of any kind?

A. Not to my eye. If I had looked close maybe there would be, but I don't see any.

X-Q. 21. They are totally different?

A. Totally different, package and wrapper and everything.

X-Q. 22. I am not talking about the wrapper.

A. The wrapper has got the oval mark on it, you see. If you take the oval off you see nothing but the silver paper on there.

X-Q. 23. I am talking about the oval device that appears on the package of gum and on the package of cigarettes?

A. It is different altogether, no similarity at all.

X-Q. 24. No suggestion of similarity?

A. No.

X-Q. 25. And it is impossible to think that one resembles the other in any way?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 26. Just as different as night and day?

A. As different as a can of tomatoes of one kind and a can of tomatoes of another kind with a different label on.

X-Q. 27. Now regarding this Del Monte products, will you show me those packages that you are talking about?

A. I haven't got the Del Monte butter here now; I don't handle it any more, but I had it here. My brother-in-law packs it.

X-Q. 28. He made the Del Monte butter?

A. He is incorporated under the name of the Del Monte Company.

X-Q. 29. Is he still making it?

A. Yes, you can get it right up the street.

X-Q. 30. How long has he been making it?

A. About a year. Before that he packed under a different name.

X-Q. 31. You do not know why he took the name of Del Monte for the butter, do you?

A. No, sir, just having a well advertised name, nothing else.

X-Q. 32. He thought the advertising of the name Del Monte would sell it?

A. Yes, it is a good name and he just picked that name.

X-Q. 33. And it is widely advertised?

1218

1030 A. Yes, there are Del Monte fruit packers and the Del Monte fish packers and they are different people altogether. The Del Monte people are in California, and it is absolutely a different concern. That has nothing to do with the Del Monte Fruit Packing company at all.

Mr. Hinton: The answer is objected to as not responsive to the question, and as voluntary on the part of the witness.

X-Q. 34. Did you ever display any placards or posters 1031 or signs about these Beech-Nut Cigarettes, do you remember?

A. I displayed it, but not in this store. I displayed it in the store I had before.

X-Q. 35. How long ago was that?

A. About two years ago.

X-Q. 36. You never sold the scrap tobacco, you say?

A. No.

X-Q. 37. During the time that you have testified a package of these Beech-Nut Cigarettes has been lying on the table in front of you and you have been handling it, have you not?

1032 A. Yes.

X-Q. 38. I wonder if you can tell me what is written on that package?

A. No, sir. I don't know what is written on any package.

X-Q. 39. You would not notice that?

A. No, I do not have time to read anything like that.

X-Q. 40. I show you this name through the wax paper on the front; can you see that?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 41. What is that name?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 42. But you had not noticed it before I showed it to you? 1033

A. As I told you before, I never took time to read any packages. I do not bother with who packs them. What business man thinks about looking at a package of cigarettes? I only wish I sold enough of them. I could sell a thousand packages a week without knowing who packs them.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. Do you sell much of the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum? 1034

A. No, I don't sell much of that, either. You could find maybe a box or a box and a half in here.

R-D Q. 2. Do you sell Sunshine Biscuits?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 3. Do you sell Sunshine Cigarettes?

A. No.

R-D Q. 4. Do you sell Blue Ribbon Salmon and Blue Ribbon Tuna Fish?

A. Yes, the Blue Ribbon fish.

R-D Q. 5. Do you sell Blue Ribbon Playing Cards? 1035

A. No.

R-D Q. 6. Do you sell Blue Ribbon Tobacco?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Hinton: All this line of testimony is objected to unless the labels involved are produced. It is objected to as irrelevant and immaterial and also as entirely outside of the line of cross examination.

R-D Q. 7. Were you ever under the impression that the Company that makes Beech-Nut Gum and Beech-Nut Peanut Butter made the Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

1036 A. No, I was never under that impression, because it is a different line altogether.

Re-cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. What were you doing before you opened this store?

A. I was a salesman in the same line.

R-X Q. 2. Delicatessen line?

A. Yes.

1037 R-X Q. 3. How long were you a salesman in the delicatessen line?

A. I have been in that business on the street for the last fifteen years. I have not done anything else but selling, traveling and city salesman.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel).

THEODORE HAVELMAN, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

1038

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Theodore Havelman; my address is 957 Pennsylvania Avenue; my business and home address are the same; I am of lawful age; my occupation is that of clerk in a general store. This is my brother's place.

Q. 2. What sort of goods do you sell in your store here?

A. I have tobacco, ties and leather goods, almost anything of that kind.

Q. 3. Do you sell stationery here?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. And you sell playing cards?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. Postals?

A. Yes, anything in the stationery line.

Q. 6. Baseballs and toilet articles?

A. Yes, baseballs and gloves and toilet articles.

Q. 7. And flash lights?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. And cuff buttons?

A. Yes, a little of everything. This is a general store.

Q. 9. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco here?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. How long have you handled that?

A. I guess two or three years or more; I couldn't say exactly; I have handled it ever since it has been on the market.

Q. 11. Do you handle the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. Do you handle the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 13. Do you handle any other Beech-Nut products?

A. Not outside of the cigarettes and the Scrap Tobacco.

Q. 14. Did you ever think that the company that makes the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and the Beech-Nut Cigarette also makes the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. No, I have no such idea.

Q. 15. Did you ever hear any remarks or inquiries or comments from your customers which indicated that they were under the impression that the same company

1042 made the Beech-Nut Tobacco that makes the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. No, I have not.

Q. 16. About how many customers do you have in and out of your store a day?

A. A hundred or a hundred and fifty and sometimes two hundred.

Q. 17. Is the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco a good seller with you?

A. No, not here.

Q. 18. Is the Beech-Nut Gum a good seller?

A. Not much. I don't believe I sell a package in a 1043 month.

Q. 19. How long have you handled the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. I could not say that exactly. I guess for years, since it has been on the market. But as a rule the colored people all they know is Wrigley's Chewing Gum. Of course a white person now and then will call for Beech-Nut Gum, but it is very seldom called for among the colored people.

Q. 20. (Displaying to witness package of Beech-Nut Scrap, Beech-Nut Cigarettes and Beech-Nut Gum): Do you think that the Beech-Nut Cigarette package that I 1044 now show you looks like the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum package?

A. No, only in the name, that is all I can see. I do not see any similarity there. One has a red band and the other is just plain white.

Q. 21. What would you think of any one who would take this chewing gum package as a substitute for the cigarette package?

A. I do not think a man who wants cigarettes would take gum, nor do I think the man that wanted gum would take cigarettes.

Q. 22. If he wanted cigarettes he could not possibly think he was getting them if he got this package, could he? 1045

A. No. If I went in for a package of chewing gum I am not going to let them give me cigarettes, and if I want cigarettes I don't want chewing gum.

Q. 23. Do you handle Mogul playing cards?

A. Yes.

Q. 24. And do you sell Mogul cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 25. Do you sell Sunshine Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 26. And do you sell Sunshine Biscuit? 1046

A. No, we don't handle them.

Mr. Hinton: This line of testimony is objected to unless the labels involved are produced.

Q. 27. Will you give me a package of the Mogul playing cards and a package of Mogul cigarettes, if you please?

(Packages produced by the witness and handed to counsel.)

Q. 28. Did you ever suppose that the same company made the playing cards and the cigarettes? 1047

A. No, I would not think so.

Q. 29. Why is that, why would you not think so?

A. I never gave the cigarette people or these people credit for making cards. I imagine that they only handle certain stuff in their line.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How many of these Beech-Nut Cigarettes do you sell here in a week?

A. Sometimes one, two or three or four packages.

X-Q. 2. How much of the Scrap Tobacco do you sell?

A. About a dozen a week. There is not much scrap sold in this neighborhood.

X-Q. 3. About how much of it do you buy?

A. About two or four dozen.

1049 X-Q. 4. How often do you buy the cigarettes?

A. The cigarettes I generally buy a thousand of at a time. I guess six hundred will last for some time.

X-Q. 5. That is you buy ten cartons?

A. Five cartons, two hundred in a carton. And other times I mix them up and only buy one carton.

X-Q. 6. You say this store is in the colored section of the City?

A. Yes, it is all colored through here.

X-Q. 7. Most of your customers are colored people?

A. Yes, mostly all colored.

X-Q. 8. You would not call it a prosperous or wealthy 1050 section of town, would you?

A. No, not exactly. It is all working people that come here, laboring people.

X-Q. 9. And you sell very little Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Very little.

X-Q. 10. You never paid any particular attention to any comments or remarks that your customers might have made, did you?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 11. There was no reason why you should, was there?

A. No.

X-Q. 12. Do you know who makes the Camel Cigarettes? 1051

A. I think Reynolds makes them.

X-Q. 13. Do you know who makes the Fatimas?

A. I think the Liggett & Myers people make them, but I am not sure. I never went that close to look at the name.

X-Q. 14. Do you know what is written on the package of Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. I know the name Lorillard is on there.

X-Q. 15. When did you first notice that?

A. I have noticed that at times on account of ordering them through different jobbers. 1052

X-Q. 16. Who brought the cigarettes in here at first, some Lorillard salesman?

A. I could not say. My brother was here at that time.

X-Q. 17. You do not remember?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 18. Your store consists of one room about fifteen feet wide, would you say, and about twenty-five feet deep?

A. I imagine so.

X-Q. 19. And you live over the store?

A. Yes. 1053

X-Q. 20. How many people work here in the store?

A: Just us two brothers. Now and then my mother or sister may come in the store while we are eating, or something like that.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. If there had been a considerable number of remarks which indicated confusion as to the maker of 1054 the Beech-Nut Tobacco and the Beech-Nut Gum, would you or not have remembered it?

A. I should think so, if I heard it. But there is not one out of a thousand who would ever think of looking at a name on any package.

Mr. Hinton: That is objected to as an opinion of the witness.

The Witness: I am only giving my opinion now. If they want Beech-Nut Tobacco or Beech-Nut Gum, they are not worrying about who makes it, as long as they see the name on there. It is just like a new 1055 firm coming along and putting tobacco on the market, they don't ask you who makes it, or who is putting it out, they will buy it and if they like it they will buy it again, otherwise they will not buy it. If a man wants a pack of chewing gum, in my estimation, he doesn't want a pack of cigarettes, and if he wants cigarettes he don't want chewing gum.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1056 ELMER C. KAISS, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Elmer C. Kaiss; my business address is 1121 Light Street, Baltimore, Maryland; residence, 1131 William Street; my occupation is that of 1057 manager of J. F. Obrecht, wholesale and retail tobacco.

Q. 2. In addition to tobacco, what sorts of stuff do you sell in your store?

A. Pipes, leather goods, Eversharp pencils, Wahl pens and razors, razor blades, smoking sets.

Q. 3. Playing cards?

A. Yes, playing cards, in fact, anything that you would find in this kind of business.

Q. 4. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. How long have you sold it?

A. I don't know how long it has been on this market. 1058
We have handled it as long as it has been on this market.

Q. 6. Do you sell Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. Have you sold them since they have come out on this market?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Do you sell Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Do you sell any other Beech-Nut products?

A. Not that I know of, no.

Q. 10. Were you ever under the impression that the Company that makes the Beech-Nut tobacco and the 1059
Beech-Nut Cigarette also made the Beech-Nut Chewing gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 11. Did you ever hear any comments or inquiries or remarks from any of your customers which indicated that they were under the impression that the same company that makes the Beech-Nut Cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap also made the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. No.

1060 Q. 12. Do you think that the cigarrette package and the gum package look alike?

A. No, I can not say I do.

Q. 13. What would you think of a man who can be so confused as to take Beech-Nut Gum if he wanted Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. He could not do anything like that, I am sure.

Q. 14. You think a man would be crazy who could confuse those things, don't you?

A. Certainly I should think he would be.

Q. 15. Do you sell Chesterfield pipes?

A. Yes.

1061 Q. 16. And do you sell Chesterfield Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. Do you sell Velvet pencils?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. And Velvet tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Did you ever hear of anybody thinking that the Chesterfield pipe and the Chesterfield cigarettes were made by the same company?

A. No, sir.

Q. 20. Or that the Velvet pencils and the Velvet tobacco were made by the same company?

1062 A. No, sir.

Q. 21. About how many customers do you have here a day?

A. About three hundred and fifty on an average.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How long have you been in this store?

A. About ten or eleven years.

X-Q. 2. What did you do before that?

A. I was in a general house furnishing store. 1063

X-Q. 3. What did they sell there?

A. Anything pertaining to the household, cooking utensils, china ware, bricabrac and so forth.

X-Q. 3. For the past ten or twelve years you have been in the tobacco lines, selling tobacco at this store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. How are the Beech-Nut Cigarettes going, are you selling many of them now?

A. At the present time they are a little slow in sales around here. Of course you can not always blame that on the brand, because it is due to prices at times.

X-Q. 5. Do you remember when you put them in? 1064

A. I think it has been over a year ago. I guess about a year and a half.

X-Q. 6. You are not making any effort to make a note of or remember instances where people may have made remarks to you or inquiries about the cigarettes, are you?

A. I do not quite understand you. Remarks about the cigarettes?

X-Q. 7. Yes, about the Beech-Nut cigarettes and who made them?

A. No.

X-Q. 8. You did not make any effort to remember 1065 whether there were any such remarks or not, did you?

A. Remarks about who makes the goods?

X-Q. 9. Yes.

A. No, they can see that plain enough; it is on the front of the package.

X-Q. 10. As a matter of fact, when those cigarettes were put in some Lorillard man came and put them in, didn't he?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. And you knew before you saw the goods who they were made by?

1066 A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. I suppose you had been handling the scrap tobacco so long that you do not remember about when that came out?

A. No, I can not remember how long ago it was, but it must have been ever since it was on this market, I am quite sure.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

1067 R-D Q. 1. If there had been a considerable number of remarks among your customers about who made the Beech-Nut Gum or who made the Beech-Nut Cigarettes, you would have remembered it, wouldn't you?

A. Yes, I am quite sure I would, but I don't know of any one making any remark to me in regard to that.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

(The taking of depositions was thereupon adjourned until to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.)

1068

December 12, 1922.

The taking of depositions was then adjourned to this 12th day of December, 1922, at ten o'clock a. m., at the same place, at which time and place I attended, and, in the presence of counsel for the respective parties, proceeded to take the following depositions, that is to say:

JOSEPH H. NELSON, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows: 1070

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Joseph H. Nelson; I live at 907 Harlem Avenue and have my business at that address also; my occupation is that of merchant, candy, stationery, handkerchiefs and so forth. I also have a branch office of the post office located in the store. My 1071 store is situated in West Baltimore out of the central business section.

Q. 2. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. How long have you sold that?

A. A couple of years, I judge.

Q. 4. Is it a good seller?

A. Fairly good seller as a scrap tobacco.

Q. 5. Do you sell Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

1072 Q. 6. How long have you sold those?

A. Since they have been on the market.

Q. 7. Do you sell Beech Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. How long have you sold that?

A. I guess five or six years. It has been many years I know.

Q. 9. Do you know what company makes the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 10. Were you ever under the impression that the same Company made the Beech-Nut Gum and the Beech-1073 Nut Cigarette?

A. No, sir.

Q. 11. About how many customers a day do you have here?

A. About seven hundred or seven hundred and fifty.

Q. 12. Did you ever hear any comments or inquiries or remarks of any kind from your customers which indicated that they thought the same company made both the tobacco and the gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 13. If there had been any considerable number of remarks of that sort, would you have remembered it?

1074 A. Yes, I am sure I would.

Q. 14. Do you think the cigarette package and the gum package look alike?

A. No, sir.

Q. 15. That name, P. Lorillard, on the front of the package, can that be easily read?

A. I believe so.

Mr. Hinton: The question is objected to as leading, and further objected to on the ground that it calls for the opinion of the witness and is secondary evidence.

Q. 16. Would you prefer to have tobacco made by a straight tobacco company, or by a company which was engaged in the manufacture of food products and also in the tobacco business? 1075

A. As far as I am personally concerned, I guess it is natural that I am in business for myself and for the most profit and it does not matter to me who puts out the product.

Q. 17. Do you sell Piedmont matches?

A. No, but we did some years ago.

Q. 18. At the same time that you sold those Piedmont matches, were you also handling Piedmont cigarettes? 1076

A. Yes.

Mr. Hinton: This line of testimony is objected to unless the packages or labels referred to are produced and offered in evidence.

Mr. Preston: Samples of all these articles are in the possession of counsel for the P. Lorillard Company in New York and will be introduced in evidence at a later date.

Q. 19. Do you sell Ever-Ready pencils?

A. Yes. 1077

Q. 20. Do you sell Ever-Ready razor blades?

A. Yes.

Q. 21. Do you sell the Comet match?

A. No, sir.

Q. 22. Do you sell the Comet Tobacco?

A. Yes, sir, we sell the Comet Tobacco.

Q. 23. Do you sell the Pluto match?

A. Yes.

Q. 24. Do you sell Pluto Water?

A. We do.

Q. 25. The Piedmont matches and the Piedmont

1078 Cigarettes are not made by the same company, are they?

A. No, sir.

Q. 26. Nor the Ever-Ready pencil and the Ever-Ready razor blades?

A. No, sir.

Q. 27. Nor the Pluto match and the Pluto water?

A. No.

Q. 28. And you never heard of anyone who assumed that those articles were made by the same companies, did you?

A. No, sir.

1079

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How many people work at your store?

A. Just at the present time, two.

X-Q. 2. And you have seven hundred customers in here a day?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. How do you get that number, do you count them?

A. By the total of the cash register.

X-Q. 4. You make seven hundred sales a day?

A. Yes. This is a post office station and I figure it in this way: We run about four hundred cash sales and we figure that the other three hundred would be postage stamp sales.

X-Q. 5. How much of this Beech-Nut Scrap do you buy?

A. When we buy, we buy about a gross at a time.

X-Q. 6. How often do you buy it?

A. I guess about once a month.

X-Q. 7. How many cigarettes do you buy?

A. We generally buy those by the thousand, too. 1081
That lasts us about the same length of time.

X-Q. 8. Waiting on four hundred customers a day, I suppose, keeps you pretty busy, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 9. Is it your usual condition to be actively jumping from one customer to another about as fast as you can wait on them?

A. Pretty much so.

X-Q. 10. You do not try to remember any causal remarks that they may make, do you?

A. As a general rule they do not make any remarks. If they make remarks then I, being the proprietor, would 1082 note the remarks, because we try to rectify all remarks. What I mean by that is I try to keep people satisfied.

X-Q. 11. That is what you are interested in, whether they are satisfied or not?

A. Sure.

X-Q. 12. You do not start conversations with them?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 13. You are in business for profit and to supply the demand and that is where your interest begins and ends, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. Do you see any similarity between the oval 1083 device on the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum and that of the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. Now that you call my attention to it, I see that all of those are oval, and that lets it out. Then the name is similar.

X-Q. 15. There is some similarity?

A. Only in the oval shape. There is no similarity in the color of the package.

X-Q. 16. I am not talking about the package, I am talking about this brand on here.

1084 A. Only in the oval, just as I say. I noticed all three of them when you put them together.

X-Q. 17. You do not see any further similarity than that?

A. No.

X-Q. 18. Who put in these Beech-Nut Cigarettes for you?

A. The salesman for the P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 19. You knew they were a P. Lorillard product before you got the goods, didn't you?

A. I don't know about that. All their products are introduced by the missionary men.

1085 X-Q. 20. And the same with scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

X-Q 21. Can you tell me what is printed on the front of a package of Camel's Cigarettes underneath the picture of a camel?

A. On the Camel Cigarettes it has a camel and I will not be sure whether it is the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company or not, but I think it is.

X-Q. 22. Underneath the camel in the front, you mean?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23 What is printed on the bottom of a package
1086 of Fatima cigarettes, underneath the girl and the scimitar or half-moon?

A. I don't just remember unless it is Liggett & Myers Tobacco Comppany.

X-Q. 24. You just know it is made by them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 25. What is printed on the front of this package of scrap tobacco except the name Beech-Nut?

A. We do not read that.

X-Q. 26. Did you ever notice the name of a manufacturer printed on the scrap tobacco anywhere?

A. On the front or on the back?

X-Q. 27. Front or back? 1087

A. I think so, yes.

X-Q. 28. Where is it?

A. On the bottom. On the scrap tobacco, do you mean?

X-Q. 29. Yes.

A. It is up at the top, just P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 30. On the front or back?

A. I don't know which you consider front and which you consider back.

X-Q. 31. How about the Beech-Nut Cigarettes, what is printed on them?

A. It is just Beech-Nut Cigarette and P. Lorillard on 1088 the bottom.

X-Q. 32. Did anybody ever call your attention to the P. Lorillard on the bottom?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 33. You just happened to remember that?

A. From handling it, yes.

X-Q. 34. You would not remember what is on the bottom of a Camel cigarette package or a Fatima cigarette package, or any other package, but you do remember about this?

A. I can remember that because you showed it to me.

X-Q. 35. Who showed it to you? 1089

A. You did just then.

X-Q. 36. The other day?

A. No, right now.

X-Q. 37. That is the first time you noticed it?

A. I don't memorize anything unless my attention is drawn to it.

X-Q. 38. Then you would not have noticed it unless your attention had been drawn to it, as far as you can tell?

A. Probably not.

1090 Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. I show you a package of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco; whose name is written across the top of the front of that package?

A. P. Lorillard, if you call that the front of the package.

R-D Q. 2. Seeing that name would mean what to you? State whether or not seeing that name would indicate to you that P. Lorillard was the maker of that tobacco?

1091 A. Yes.

R-D Q. 3. Whose name appears written on the front of the cigarette package underneath the label?

A. P. Lorillard.

R-D Q. 4. That is easily read, isn't it?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 5. State whether or not seeing that name would indicate to you that P. Lorillard was the manufacturer of that product?

A. Sure.

R-D Q. 6. Do you think that that name P. Lorillard Company on the Cigarette Package is more conspicuous 1092 than on any other cigarette package that you know of?

A. I believe it is.

Mr. Hinton: I object to that question as leading.

R-D Q. 7. (Exhibiting to witness package of Beech-Nut Gum): Has the sale of the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum fallen off any since the cigarette came on the market?

A. I don't know. We never did sell very much of it. We sell about a box a week and that lets us out.

R-D Q. 8. Has that been the case pretty much ever since you put the gum in?

A. Yes.

Re-cross Examination. 1093

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. What is printed on the bottom of the package of Lucky Strike Cigarettes underneath the red panel?

A. I could not tell you.

R-X Q. 2. Is it "American Tobacco Company"?

A. I know from this (indicating). It may be "American Tobacco Company, Successor."

R-X Q. 3. But it is the name of the manufacturer?

A. I don't know whether it is Patterson or what. 1094

R-X Q. 4. Why do you say that this name P. Lorillard Company behind the glazed paper is more conspicuous than that on any other cigarette package?

A. It is. I will produce those cigarettes that you mention and I will show you that P. Lorillard is more conspicuous.

R-X Q. 5. I wish you would.

(Witness produces packages of Camels, Chesterfields and Lucky Strikes.)

A. On the front of the Lucky Strike package it has no name whatever, so I don't know who it is made by. 1095 On the Camel, no name whatever. On the Chesterfield it is Liggett & Myers, and it is about, I judge, not one-eighth of an inch high, the letters. I doubt whether it is one-eighth of an inch. On the Fatima it is a little plainer.

R-X Q. 6. But you could not tell without looking at the packages what any of the lettering was printed on any of those packages, could you?

A. I don't scrutinize each package. All I look for is the name "Lucky Strike" or "Camel" or "Chesterfield" or "Fatima."

1096 R-X Q. 7. I want to call your attention to what is printed on the bottom of the front of the Lucky Strike package; you will see the word "Cigarettes" there?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 8. Is that more or less conspicuous than the words "P. Lorillard" on the Beech-Nut Cigarettes? I call your attention to what is printed on the bottom of the front of the Camel Cigarette; is that more or less conspicuous than the "P. Lorillard" to your eye?

A. To my eye, yes, it is more conspicuous because the glazed paper sort of obscures it a little.

R-X Q. 9. Look at this Fatima package underneath
1097 the picture of the girl and the moon and there you will find "Turkish Blend Cigarettes, Cameron & Cameron, Richmond, Virginia," and so on. Is that inscription more or less conspicuous to your eye than the "P. Lorillard" on the bottom of the Beech-Nut Cigarette package?

A. The P. Lorillard is more conspicuous.

R-X Q. 10. Why do you say that?

A. It shows up better because there is not so much reading matter. Do you understand what I mean?

R-X Q. 11. It shows up better than this "Turkish Blend Cigarette"?

1098 A. Yes. There is so much reading matter there that your eye does catch it as quick as that.

R-X Q. 12. On the Chesterfield Cigarette package you find an inscription, "Cigarettes" at the bottom of the package and underneath that the name of the manufacturer; do you find that more or less conspicuous than the inscription on the Beech-Nut Cigarette package?

A. The "P. Lorillard" is in black letters and the other — I don't know what color it is.

R-X Q. 13. As a matter of fact, you never noticed any of these inscriptions and would not do so unless your attention had been called to them, would you?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 14. Therefore it does not make any difference how relatively conspicuous they are if you would not notice any of them? 1099

A. I do not know about that. No matter whether we are conscious of the fact or not, if it is conspicuous we will notice it even if we are not conscious of it. But, just as I say, if it is not conspicuous you give it the go-by.

Mr. Hinton: I am not interested in any unconscious effect the inscription may have. I think we understand each other. That is all.

1100

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. This package of Chesterfield cigarettes is wrapped in glazed paper, is it not?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 2. Is this package of Lucky Strike Cigarettes which I show you also wrapped in glazed paper?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 3, You know it to be a common thing for different brands of cigarettes to be wrapped in glazed paper? 1101

A. Yes, now it is.

R-D Q. 4. Do you know why that is done?

A. To keep the cigarettes in good condition.

R-D Q. 5. Do you think that is a good thing to do?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 6. State whether or not you think that in spite of the fact that the Beech-Nut Cigarette package is wrapped in glazed paper that the name P. Lorillard & Company written on the front of the package is easily read?

A. Yes, it is.

1102 R-D Q. 7. And that name P. Lorillard Company is more conspicuous than the name Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company on the front of the Chesterfield pack, is it not?

A. Yes, because the black letters show up better than gold.

R-D Q. 8. State whether or not the name "P. Lorillard Company" on the cigarette package is more conspicuous than the name "Cameron & Cameron" on the front of the Fatima package?

A. I believe it is.

R-D Q. 9. State whether or not the name of the manu-
1103 facturer appears at all on the front of the Lucky Strike package?

A. It does not.

R-D Q. 10. State whether the name of the manufacturer appears at all on the front of the Camel cigarette?

A. It does not.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1104 J. T. WOODALL, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is J. T. Woodall; legal age; residence, over my store at 1901 Columbia Avenue; occupation, tobacco, candy and novelty merchant.

Q. 2. Will you please describe your store?

A. I have a ground floor room about twenty by twenty-five feet in an old building across from the General Electric Company's plant. I am my own clerk except that my wife helps me at times. 1105

Q. 3. In addition to tobacco, what sort of goods do you sell in your store here?

A. Candy and pie and stuff, drinks and confectionery.

Q. 4. Do you sell clocks?

A. No.

Q. 5. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. How long have you sold it? 1106

A. Going on six years.

Q. 7. Is that Scrap Tobacco a good seller with you?

A. Yes, it is here.

Q. 8. Do you sell Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. I have sold them; I haven't got any now. I am out of them just now.

Q. 9. Do you sell Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Were you ever under the impression that the Company that makes the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and Beech-Nut Cigarettes also made the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum? 1107

A. No, sir.

Q. 11. Did you ever hear any comments, remarks or inquiries among your customers which indicated that they were under the impression that the same Company made the gum which made the tobacco?

A. No, sir.

Q. 12. You have a restaurant in the back of your store, haven't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. 13. Do you think the cigarette package looks like the gum package (displaying to witness Beech-Nut Cigarette package and Beech-Nut Gum package)?

1108 A. Not at all.

Q. 14. Do you think the Scrap Tobacco package looks like the Gum package?

A. No, sir.

Q. 15. What would you think of any one who, if they wanted cigarettes, would accept this gum package as a substitute?

A. He would have to be a blind man to do that.

Q. 16. I show you a package of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco; whose name appears on the top of the front of that package?

A. P. Lorillard.

1109 Q. 17. Would that indicate to you that Lorillard was the manufacturer of that tobacco?

A. According to all of the rest of the goods, yes, the goods that they manufacture.

Q. 18. Whose name appears on the front of that cigarette package underneath the oval design?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 19. Would that indicate that Lorillard is the manufacturer of that tobacco?

A. I should think so. I do not see why they would use that name if they did not manufacture it.

Q. 20. And that name is easily seen through the 1110 glazed paper covering, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 21. Do you know it to be a common custom to wrap cigarette packages in glazed paper?

A. Yes.

Q. 22. Would you prefer to have a tobacco product made by an out and out tobacco manufacturer, or one made by a company which makes tobacco in addition to a large line of food products?

A. I would rather deal with a regular tobacco manufacturer who absolutely makes nothing but tobacco.

Q. 23. I show you a package of Chesterfield Cigarettes; will you state whether or not the name "Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company" on the bottom of the front of the cigarette package is more or less conspicuous than the name "P. Lorillard Company" on the front of the Beech-Nut package. 1111

A. It is; without that paper on it one is as visible as the other.

Q. 24. I show you a package of Camel cigarettes; does the name of the manufacturer appear on the front of the Camel cigarette package?

A. No, sir.

Q. 25. Does the name of the manufacturer of the Lucky Strike Cigarette appear on the front of the package? 1112

A. No, sir.

Q. 26. Is the name "P. Lorillard Company" on the front of the Beech-Nut Cigarette Package more or less conspicuous than the name "Cameron & Cameron Company" on the front of the Fatima cigarette package?

A. Yes, it is more conspicuous.

Q. 27. Because it is larger?

A. It is not as plain as what it is there on account of the glazed paper over it.

Q. 28. The Chesterfield Cigarette package is wrapped in glazed paper, is it not?

A. Yes. 1113

Q. 29. Is the Lucky Strike Cigarette package wrapped in glazed paper?

A. Yes.

Q. 30. Has the sale of the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum decreased since the Beech-Nut Cigarette appeared on the market?

A. No, not to my knowledge.

Q. 31. Do you sell more packages of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco than you do packages of Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. By a hundred times.

1114 Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How much scrap tobacco do you sell, the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. I sell about six or eight dozen a week.

X-Q. 2. How many packages of Beech-Nut Cigarettes do you sell?

A. I have not sold any lately. I never sold over one or two cartons a week.

X-Q. 3. That would be from ten to twenty packages?

1115 A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. When did you first notice the name P. Lorillard on the package of cigarettes?

A. When it was first introduced.

X-Q. 5. Who makes the Sweet Caporals, do you know?

A. The American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 6. Who makes the Camels?

A. The same people, the American Tobacco Company —no, Reynolds. Reynolds makes the Sweet Caporals, don't they? Or is it the American Tobacco Company?

X-Q. 7. Who makes the Piedmonts?

A. Liggett & Myers.

1116 Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. Do you sell Sunshine cigarettes?

A. I do, or rather I did sell them.

R-D Q. 2. Do you handle Sunshine Biscuits?

A. No, sir.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1117

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if

ALBERT F. SCHUELER were called as a witness for the defendant in this case he would testify as follows:

On Direct Examination:

That I am the proprietor of the tobacco store at 231 West Camden Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and I have had this store for thirty-three years. In addition to 1118
tobacco I carry toilet articles, razors, clocks, gum and candy. I have handled the Lorillard Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco since 1915 and it sells well in this neighborhood. I have handled the Beech-Nut Cigarettes since 1921. I always knew that the Lorillard Company made both of these products and I never had any customers ask me who made the Beech-Nut Cigarettes or who made the Scrap Tobacco, and I never heard any remarks or inquiries from my customers in that regard. I think any man who would accept a package of Beech-Nut Gum in place of a package of Beech-Nut Cigarettes would be crazy. I sell Velvet pencils and Velvet Tobacco; 1119
Chesterfield pipes and Chesterfield cigarettes. The Velvet pencil and the Velvet tobacco are made by separate and distinct companies and the Chesterfield cigarette and the Chesterfield pipes are made by different companies and I never heard of any one who assumed that the case was otherwise.

On Cross Examination

In addition to operating a store I manufacture cigars, having a small cigar factory and employing a number of men. I am very busy waiting on the trade and I made no effort to make a note of or remember any comments, remarks or inquiries that may have been made about the cigarettes or the scrap tobacco.

Re-direct Examination.

If there had been a great many of these remarks I think I would have remembered it.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if the witness.

WILLIAM D. LILLY, were called as a witness to testify for the defendant, he would, when interrogated, testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

I am forty-six years old and am the proprietor of a tobacco store at Howard and Baltimore Streets, the same being in the heart of the business district of Baltimore City. I have a thousand retail customers a day. I also am a tobacco jobber. I have been in the tobacco business for twenty-four years. I handle the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco. I found out that the P. Lorillard Company made this tobacco when it first came out; I learned it in the usual way that people find out those things. I have handled the Beech-Nut cigarettes since they came on the market and I was familiar with the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and I assumed that they were made by the same people. When the cigarettes first came out I remember hearing a few questions from customers indicating that they thought that the same company made

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if

ALBERT F. SCHUELER were called as a witness for the defendant in this case he would testify as follows:

On Direct Examination:

That I am the proprietor of the tobacco store at 231 West Camden Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and I have had this store for thirty-three years. In addition to 1118
tobacco I carry toilet articles, razors, clocks, gum and candy. I have handled the Lorillard Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco since 1915 and it sells well in this neighborhood. I have handled the Beech-Nut Cigarettes since 1921. I always knew that the Lorillard Company made both of these products and I never had any customers ask me who made the Beech-Nut Cigarettes or who made the Scrap Tobacco, and I never heard any remarks or inquiries from my customers in that regard. I think any man who would accept a package of Beech-Nut Gum in place of a package of Beech-Nut Cigarettes would be crazy. I sell Velvet pencils and Velvet Tobacco; 1119
Chesterfield pipes and Chesterfield cigarettes. The Velvet pencil and the Velvet tobacco are made by separate and distinct companies and the Chesterfield cigarette and the Chesterfield pipes are made by different companies and I never heard of any one who assumed that the case was otherwise.

On Cross Examination

In addition to operating a store I manufacture cigars, having a small cigar factory and employing a number of 1120 men. I am very busy waiting on the trade and I made no effort to make a note of or remember any comments, remarks or inquiries that may have been made about the cigarettes or the scrap tobacco.

Re-direct Examination.

If there had been a great many of these remarks I think I would have remembered it.

STIPULATION.

1121 It is further stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if the witness.

WILLIAM D. LILLY, were called as a witness to testify for the defendant, he would, when interrogated, testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

I am forty-six years old and am the proprietor of a tobacco store at Howard and Baltimore Streets, the same being in the heart of the business district of Balti-
1122 more City. I have a thousand retail customers a day. I also am a tobacco jobber. I have been in the tobacco business for twenty-four years. I handle the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco. I found out that the P. Lorillard Company made this tobacco when it first came out; I learned it in the usual way that people find out those things. I have handled the Beech-Nut cigarettes since they came on the market and I was familiar with the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and I assumed that they were made by the same people. When the cigarettes first came out I remember hearing a few questions from customers indicating that they thought that the same company made the cigarettes and the gum. I do not think that the 1123 gum package and the cigarette package look alike and nobody would have any difficulty in distinguishing between a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and a package of Beech-Nut Gum, nor would anybody accept one of these in place of the other.

Cross Examination.

It is quite natural that waiting on a thousand customers a day I have not time to have any discussion with any of the customers, nor did I make any effort to make a note of or remember what they said about 1124 the Beech-Nut Cigarettes. I merely happen to remember a few remarks that were made.

STIPULATION.

It is further stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if SOL LEVIN were called as a witness to testify on behalf of the defendant that he would, upon interrogation, testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

1125

I am twenty-one years of age and I am a clerk at the cigar stand at the Southern Hotel at Baltimore, which position I have occupied for three years. This Hotel is located in the heart of Baltimore City. We do not handle the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco, but we do handle the Beech-Nut Cigarettes, though we sell not more than two cartons a month of the Beech-Nut Cigarettes, which is twenty packages a month. I do not remember having heard any comments from customers or any questions asked as to who makes the Beech-Nut cigarettes, nor anything that would indicate to me that 1126 those customers thought that the cigarettes were made by the same people who manufactured the gum.

Cross Examination.

I made no particular effort to remember any comments that may have been made about the Beech-Nut cigarettes. Our sale of these cigarettes amounts to less than twenty packages a month and that would not satisfy the ordinary demands of one cigarette smoker.

STIPULATION.

1127 It is stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if W. FRIEDMAN were called as a witness to testify for the defendant that, upon interrogation, he would testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

My name is W. Friedman and I operate a tobacco store at 632 South Broadway. I have run this store for seventeen years. I am assisted in running it by two daughters and one son. I estimate that we have a total of five hundred customers a day. We sell tobacco and 1128 candy and ties and knives, baseball gloves and so forth. I have handled the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco since 1915 and have handled the Beech-Nut Cigarettes since they came on the market. The Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco is a good seller in this neighborhood. I knew that P. Lorillard made the scrap tobacco. I never was under the impression that the gum people made the tobacco products. The Beech-Nut Cigarette package and the package of Beech-Nut chewing gum are totally different in their appearance and no one would mistake one of these packages for the other. I do not remember having heard any comments or remarks or inquiries from cus-

the cigarettes and the gum. I do not think that the gum package and the cigarette package look alike and nobody would have any difficulty in distinguishing between a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes and a package of Beech-Nut Gum, nor would anybody accept one of these in place of the other. 1123

Cross Examination.

Cross Examination.

I made no particular effort to remember any comments or remarks or inquiries made by the customers. I do not sell many Beech-Nut Cigarettes. To the best of my recollection the scrap tobacco was put in by a Lorillard Salesman and the Beech-Nut cigarettes were put in by a Lorillard salesman, so that I knew before I saw the goods who they were manufactured by. 1130

Re-direct Examination.

If there had been a great number of remarks indicating confusion in the minds of the customers as to who made the Beech-Nut tobacco and who made the Beech-Nut gum I believe I would have remembered it.

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} In Equity No. 3056.

December 13, 1922.

1136

Depositions taken on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant, in the above entited action, pursuant to notice and agreement of counsel, before Edward N. Legg, a Notary Public in and for the City of Philadelphia, State of Pennsylvania, acting as Special Examiner by consent of counsel, beginning on the 13th day of December, 1922, at two o'clock p.m.

Present in behalf of the plaintiff, Messrs. Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott (by Mr. Sebastian Hinton).

Present in behalf of the defendant, Messrs. Meyers, Cavanagh & Whitehead (by Mr. Richard B. Cavanagh and Mr. Thomas L. Preston.)

1137

WILLIAM WASCHLER, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Will you state your name and address?

A. My name is William Waschler; address, 827 Chesnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. I am located in the business section of the city.

1138 Q. 2. What sorts of goods do you sell here?

A. Tobacco and smokers' articles.

Q. 3. Do you sell gum?

A. Yes, we sell some gum.

Q. 4. Do you know of the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. What is the reputation of the Lorillard Company?

A. It is good, that is so far as I know.

Q. 6. Do you handle a full line of Lorillard products?

A. Yes. That is, all the stuff that sells with us. There are some things they make that do not sell with us, 1139 but we carry a full line of what we need.

Q. 7. Will you name a few of the products you sell?

A. Cigarettes, tobaccos, Murad Cigarettes, Melachrino, Helmars, Trophies and all those.

Q. 8. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. How long have you sold that?

A. Since five years ago when I went in business.

Q. 10. Is that a good seller?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. How much of that do you sell a week?

A. About a gross or so.

1140 Q. 12. How many packages are in a gross?

A. 144.

Q. 13. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. How long have you handled those?

A. Since they were put on the market.

Q. 15. Do you sell Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. Do you know what company makes Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. What company is it?

A. P. Lorillard Company. 1141

Q. 18. Were you ever under the impression that the same company that makes the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes also makes the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Never.

Q. 19. Did you ever hear any comments or remarks or inquiries among your customers which indicated such a confusion on their part?

A. No.

Q. 20 Whose name appears on the front of this scrap tobacco package (Beech-Nut Scrap)?

A. Lorillard. 1142

Q. 21. Will you state whether or not that would mean to you that Lorillard was the maker of that package?

A. Surely.

Q. 22. Whose name appears on the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. The same, Lorillard.

Q. 23. Would that mean to you that Lorillard was the maker of that cigarette?

A. I would imagine so.

Q. 24. Do you think this cigarette package and the gum package bear any resemblance to one another? 1143

A. A trifling resemblance, yes, a slight resemblance in that egg-shaped part of it.

Q. 25. As a package, do you think the packages look alike?

A. No.

Q. 26. In regard to the label, in what respects do you consider that they look alike?

A. Just the shape and the letters in it, of course, the word "Beech-Nut."

Q. 27. You know the oval shape to be a very common device on all sorts of package goods, do you not?

1144 A. Yes.

Q. 28. What would you think of a man who, if he wanted Beech-Nut cigarettes, would allow anybody to give him a package of Beech-Nut gum?

A. I would say that he belonged in Norristown, our favorite insane asylum.

Q. 29. Do you consider chewing gum in the same class with tobacco products

A. No, they are far, far apart.

Q. 30. Is the sale of the Beech-Nut gum as good now as it was before the appearance of the Beech-Nut cigarette?

1145 A. It has not changed any on account of that.

Q. 31. You sell as much as you did before the cigarette appeared?

A. Just as much.

Q. 32. Would you prefer to handle a tobacco product put out by a straight tobacco firm, or would you prefer to have it made by a company which also manufactured food products?

A. A straight tobacco company, if possible, any time.

Q. 33. Is this Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco the best scrap seller that you have?

A. It is.

1146

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. What do you say the name of this store is?

A. Waschler & Sachs.

X-Q. 2. Is this one of a chain of stores?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 3. Do you put out any of your own brands of cigars here?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 4. Or cigarettes? 1147

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 5. You say you see some resemblance between these packages as far as that oval label goes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. And of course the name, Beech-Nut?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. And the lettering?

A. Yes, that is all.

X-Q. 8. I suppose you are pretty busy here, are you not?

A. Generally, yes.

X-Q. 9. You do not make a practice of talking with 1148 customers about what they think?

A. Yes, when we are not very busy we sometimes do.

X-Q. 10. Do you discuss with your customers the question of who makes Camel cigarettes, for instance?

A. Once in a while.

X-Q. 11. That is a practice of yours, is it?

A. It is once in a while.

X-Q. 12. And your customers will talk about who makes the Camel Cigarettes?

A. Once in a while, yes.

X-Q. 13. You do not do that often, do you?

A. No, sir, we do not have time. 1149

X-Q. 14. How many times have you done that in the last year?

A. Too many times to mention.

X-Q. 15. How many times have you discussed with customers the question of who makes the Camel cigarettes?

A. A great many times; I didn't count them.

X-Q. 16. And the same with the Lucky Strike and Piedmont?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. And all the other goods that you sell?

A. Yes.

1150 X-Q. 18. Every once in a while, when you are not busy, you do discuss those matters with your customers?

A. A customer comes in and starts talking and we will answer and we will talk about it for a while.

X-Q. 19. In the ordinary course of business, doesn't he just come in and put his money down, take his package and walk out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. And if you do talk about anything it is baseball, or something of that kind, isn't it?

A. Yes, but if they ask us we answer them.

X-Q. 21. You were not making any effort to remem-
1151 ber or making a note of any questions that you may have heard about these cigarettes, were you?

A. No, I have no reason to do that.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. About how many customers do you have in and out of your place here in a day?

A. On an average of 1800.

R-D Q. 2. If you had heard a considerable number of 1152 those remarks indicating confusion in the minds of your customers as to who made the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and who made the Beech-Nut Gum, do you think you would have remembered it?

A. Yes, if I had heard a good many of them I would. I don't think I have heard anybody mention that there was any confusion in that regard at all.

Re-cross Examination

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. They all knew the difference between gum and cigarettes.

A. Yes, they all knew the difference between gum and cigarettes. They ought to. 1153

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

SAMUEL B. WELSH, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination

1154

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. What is your name and address?

A. My name is Samuel B. Welsh; my address is 703 Chestnut Street. I am occupied in the business district of Philadelphia.

Q. 2. What lines of goods do you carry?

A. Cigars, cigarettes and tobaccos, Beech-Nut gum, candies and Beech-Nut mints and so forth and so on.

Q. 3. Do you carry anything in the nature of dry-goods or any other class of goods except confections and tobacco? 1155

A. No, sir, confections and tobacco only.

Q. 4. Do you know of the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, very well, for a good many years.

Q. 5. Is that company known in this neighborhood as a prominent tobacco company?

A. Very much so.

Q. 6. Do you handle a full line of the Lorillard products?

A. A full line.

Q. 7. Will you name a few of them that you carry?

1156 A. Beech-Nut cigarettes, Helmar cigarettes, Murad cigarettes, Union Leader tobaccos and several others, Sensation Tobacco and others.

Q. 8. Do you know whether the Lorillard Company has advertised its products extensively in Philadelphia and in this neigborhood?

A. I do not think they have. What do you mean by that?

Q. 9. I mean in the nature of window display?

A. Oh, window display, yes, they have always had very nice window display all around. I have noticed the window displays.

1157 Q. 10. Their window display and advertisements of that sort, how do they compare with those of other tobacco companies?

A. It is very much more so than other tobaccos, their window displays. Their newspaper advertisements are not as extensive as some others, but their window displays are good.

Q. 11. Do you sell Beech-Nut scrap tobacco like this package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 12. How long have you handled that?

A. I guess we have handled that Beech-Nut Scrap
1158 for twenty or twenty-five years. Beech-Nut Tobacco has been on the market, I think, that long, hasn't it? It has been so commonly known that I can not remember.

Q. 13. Do you remember ever having seen a package of Beech-Nut tobacco with the picture of a squirrel on the front of it?

A. No, I don't remember ever seeing that.

Q. 14. But you have handled the tobacco put up in this sort of package for many years?

A. Yes, I think there has been a Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco on the market — well, I can't recall how long back.

Q. 15. But as long as it has been on the market you 1159 have handled it

A. Yes. Didn't it use to be made by a Cincinnati concern before you got it?

Q. 16. I could not say for certain about that. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. And do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. And Beech-Nut mints?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Do you know what company makes the Beech-Nut Tobacco products? 1160

A. Yes.

Q. 20. What company is it?

A. The Lorillard Company.

Q. 21. Did you ever think that the same company that made the Beech-Nut Tobacco Products also made the Beech-Nut chewing gum and the Beech-Nut mints?

A. No.

Q. 22. How many customers do you have in and out of your store in a day?

A. On an average of four thousand customers.

Q. 23. Did you ever hear any remarks or inquiries or comments among those customers which indicated that 1161 they were in any doubt as to whether the same company made the Beech-Nut Tobacco that made the Beech-Nut gum and mints?

A. Never in the world; I never heard it brought up. I have never heard that discussed.

Q. 24. Whose name appears across the front of the scrap tobacco, at the top?

A. Lorillard's.

Q. 25. Did you ever see a package of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco without Lorillard's name on it?

A. I don't think so, not in the latter years.

1162 Q. 26. And that would mean to you that Lorillard was the maker?

A. Yes.

Q. 27. Whose name appears on the front of the cigarette package?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 28. Is that name easily read through the glazed paper covering on that package?

A. Yes, to me it is.

Q. 29. Do you know it to be a common custom to wrap cigarette packages in glazed paper?

A. Very much so. They would not sell without it

1163 now. Those that do not do it are behind the times.

Q. 30. What would you think of any one, who if he wanted a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would accept a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I would not know. Nobody who ever came in my store would do that.

Q. 31. You think those two packages look alike?

A. Not a particle, not as far as the gum is concerned. It never was confusing, I don't think. I have never found it so.

Q. 32. Do you regard gum and tobacco as in the same class?

1164 A. Different classes altogether.

Q. 33. Is your sale for Beech-Nut gum as good as it was before the Beech-Nut cigarette appeared on the market?

A. Yes, and for Beech-Nut mints much heavier, you can not get it half the time.

Q. 34. Would you prefer to handle a tobacco product put out by a straight tobacco concern, or tobacco put out by a company that also manufactures various sorts of food products?

A. I would rather buy it from the straight tobacco concern.

Cross Examination. 1165

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. You do a strictly retail business here, do you not?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 2. No jobbing?

A. Not so much.

X-Q. 3. But you are a jobber, though, are you not?

A. We do some wholesale business, but we put ourselves out as strictly retail.

X-Q. 4. Do you do any wholesaling of confectionery, or just tobacco? 1166

A. Confectionery and gums.

X-Q. 5. How long have you been actually engaged in handling tobacco?

A. So long ago that I almost do not remember. About forty-seven years.

X-Q. 6. How long have you run this store?

A. This store has been running about fifteen years.

X-Q. 7. What were you doing before that?

A. The same line of work. The Scarlett Company, that is the name that this store operates under, has been running about fifteen years. Then before that we called ourselves the Progressive Cigar Store. That was long before the United came on the market. It was thirty-seven years ago. Here is a certificate that is thirty-seven years old (handing paper to counsel). 1167

X-Q. 8. You mean this is your picture here?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 9. Do you wait on the retail trade yourself, or do you have help for that purpose?

A. I wait on a great deal of it.

X-Q. 10. Did you ever try to remember any comments or remarks or inquiries that you had about this question of who made the cigarettes?

1168 A. I would remember it if there had been any comment on it.

X-Q. 11. How long do you say this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco has been on sale here?

A. I can not remember that. I don't remember just when it came in.

X-Q. 12. You said twenty or twenty-five years ago, didn't you?

A. It has not been that long. I will tell you what I was thinking of. I was thinking of that Cincinnati concern. They manufactured some scrap tobacco. I can not quite remember when the Beech-Nut came in.

1169 Q. 13. How long have Beech-Nut cigarettes been out in this District?

A. About two years now, or a year and a half.

X-Q. 14. Do you remember any customer asking you who made Camel cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 15. Or who made the Fatimas?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. Or any other brand of cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 17. They never discuss that question with you, do they?

1170 A. No, They do not care who makes them.

X-Q. 18. They come in and put their money down, take their package and walk out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. Not being a mind reader you do not know what they think about it?

A. No, I do not believe one out of a thousand would know who made Murad cigarettes, if you ask them right offhand.

X-Q. 20. They buy it on the brand, do they?

A. They buy it on the brand, yes.

Re-direct Examination. 1171

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. When you say that your customers buy a product on the brand, do you mean that they buy it on the quality of the goods?

Mr. Hinton: That is objected to as leading.

A. Yes, the quality of the goods.

R-D Q. 2. What do you think is the prime concern of a customer in regard to the products that he buys? 1172

Mr. Hinton: The question is objected to as calling for a mere opinion of the witness.

A. I don't quite understand what that question means.

R-D Q. 3. State whether or not the quality of a product is the chief consideration that the customer goes by?

A. Of course. There is no other quality of scrap tobacco on the market that the customer likes as well as he does the Beech-Nut, I don't think, not in this market. 1173

R-D Q. 4. If you had heard any considerable number of remarks or comments or inquiries in connection with the Beech-Nut Cigarette and the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and the Beech-Nut gum and mints, would you have remembered them?

A. Yes, I would remember it if I heard any.

R-D Q. 5. How many customers a day do you have?

A. About four thousand.

1174 Re-cross Examination.

R-X Q. 1. How much of the Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell?

A. We sell a very limited amount of Beech-Nut cigarettes just at the present time.

R-X Q. 2. How many packages a week do you sell?

A. We may sell two or three thousand cigarettes a week of the Beech-Nut brand.

R-X Q. 3. That would be fifty packages?

A. About fifty packages.

R-X Q. 4. How do they compare with the Camels?

1175 A. That I don't know. We sell more Camels.

R-X Q. 5. A great many times more?

A. Yes.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 6. How much Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. We sell in the neighborhood of three or four gross a week.

1176 R-D Q. 7. How many packages are there in a gross?

A. 144.

R-D Q. 8. Have you any other scrap tobacco that sells as well as that Beech-Nut scrap?

A. No.

R-D Q. 9. Have you any other scrap tobacco that sells half as well as that?

A. Red Man sells next to it in this location. Of course in other locations there may be other scraps that sell better, but here it is almost all Beech-Nut.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1177

BENJAMIN NEWMAN, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Will you kindly give me your name and the address of your store.

A. My name is Benjamin Newman; the address of this store is 2241 North Front Street.

Q. 2. Is this store located in what is known as the Kensington District?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. Is that a good distance from the business center of Philadelphia?

A. This is one of the business centers of Philadelphia.

Q. 4. How many customers do you have in and out of your store here in a day, about?

A. We average about fifty.

Q. 5. What sorts of goods do you handle?

A. Tobacco, cigarettes, cigars, candy, matches, razor blades, pipes and so forth.

1179

Q. 6. Do you sell toilet articles?

A. A few.

Q. 7. Do you sell playing cards?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Do you sell tobacco pouches?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Do you know of the Lorillard Tobacco company?

A. Yes, I have known of them since I have been in business.

Q. 10. What is the reputation of the Lorillard Company?

1180 A. It is one of the finest companies to deal with that I have ever dealt with since I have been in business.

Q. 11. Do you know whether the Lorillard Company has advertised their products extensively in this community?

A. Yes, they have, especially Beech-Nut Tobacco, they have advertised that, not all their brands.

Q. 12. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco like the package I show you (exhibiting package of Beech-Nut Scrap)?

A. Yes, that is one of my biggest sellers.

Q. 13. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette like this?

1181 A. Yes.

Q. 14. Do you know what company makes them?

A. The Lorillard Company.

Q. 15. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. No, I do not.

Q. 16. Did you ever sell it?

A. Yes, but it lay on the shelves and so I discontinued selling it.

Q. 17. How long ago did you discontinue selling it?

A. Two years ago.

Q. 18. How long before that did you put in the Beech-Nut gum?

1182 A. I had it a short time. A salesman came in and sold me a box of Beech-Nut gum and gave me a discount and I thought I would work up a little trade, but I didn't work up any trade and I discontinued selling it. It is not a good seller and I could not do anything with it at the price.

Q. 19. You have seen this gum on the market, haven't you?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. 20. How long have you carried Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. Since it was on the market.

Q. 21. Is that a good seller? 1183

A. It is my best seller; I do not sell anything as much as I do that.

Q. 22. Have you any other scrap tobacco that sells half as well?

A. No, sir. The Red Man sells next.

Q. 23. Whose name is written on the front of the Beech-Nut Tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 24. Is that easily read?

A. Yes, it depends upon the person, though, you know.

Q. 25. I mean this: You can read that readily through 1184
the glazed paper cover, can you?

A. I can see positively the P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 26. Have you ever heard in your store or anywhere else any remarks or inquiries or comments which indicated that any one was under the impression that the Beech-Nut gum was made by the same company that makes the tobacco?

A. No, I never did.

Q. 27. What would you think of a man who, if he wanted a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would accept a package of Beech-Nut gum in place of it?

A. Even at the present time if any one comes in and 1185 asks for Beech-Nut I always ask him whether he wants the cigarettes or the tobacco. I have to ask him what he wants, whether it is chewing gum, tobacco or cigarettes.

Q. 28. But what would you think of a man who would accept the Beech-Nut gum under the impression that he was getting Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. If a man wants cigarettes he doesn't want chewing gum.

Q. 29. Do you think it would be possible for anyone to be confused to that extent?

1186 A. No, positively not.

Q. 30. How much of this Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. Twelve gross.

Q. 31. How many packages are there in a gross?

A. 144 packages.

Q. 32. Do you regard tobacco and gum as in the same class?

A. Positively not. I know as a fact that anybody who wants to stay away from tobacco that he gets chewing gum. The chewing gum helps him to lay off the tobacco. I have several customers who say that is the 1187 only way to let tobacco alone, is to chew gum. So this is a different class entirely.

Q. 33. Would you rather handle a tobacco product produced by a straight tobacco company, or a tobacco product which is put out by a company that also manufactures food products of various sorts?

A. It stands to reason that people who are in the tobacco business—I would rather handle their goods because I know what they are making.

Q. 34. Do you sell Star Shaving Brushes?

A. Yes.

Q. 35. Do you sell Star tobacco?

1188 A. Yes.

Q. 36. Did you ever hear of anyone who was under the impression that those two articles were made by the same company?

Mr. Hinton: That is objected to as incompetent and irrelevant.

A. No, positively not.

Mr. Preston: It is certainly material in a case in relation to the identity of the names of two articles, to show that it is a very common thing for various articles made by different companies to go under the same name, as this would indicate that people have not the right to assume that when the articles are in different classes, identity of name indicates identity of origin. 1189

Q. 37. Do you sell Uncle Sam Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 38. Do you sell Uncle Sam pipes?

A. Yes.

Q. 40. Did you ever hear of anyone who thought that the Uncle Sam tobacco and the Uncle Sam pipes were made by the same people? 1190

Mr. Hinton: Objected to as incompetent and irrelevant.

A. No.

(Note: It is stipulated that this objection may apply to this entire line of examination without repetition. This line of examination is also objected to unless the packages or labels referred to are produced.)

Mr. Preston: Samples of all of the packages referred to are in the possession of the Lorillard counsel at New York and will be introduced in evidence at a later date. 1191

Q. 41. Do you sell Steamboat playing cards?

A. Yes.

Q. 42. Do you sell Steamboat matches?

A. Yes.

Q. 43. Did you ever hear of any one who thought that both of those articles were made by the same company?

A. No, never.

1192 Q. 44. Do you sell Gem matches?

A. Yes.

Q. 45. Do you sell Gem razor blades?

A. Yes.

Q. 46. Did you ever hear of any one who thought that the Gem matches and the Gem razor blades were made by the same people?

A. No, sir, I never did.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

1193 X-Q. 1. Do you do a jobbing business here, Mr. Newman?

A. Jobbing and retail both.

X-Q. 2. What proportion of your business is jobbing?

A. The jobbing is bigger than the retail.

X-Q. 3. Do you put out your own brands of cigars?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. What brands of cigars do you put out?

A. "Newman's Best," "Newman's Havana Smoker and "Newman's Special."

X-Q. 5. Do you make those three brands yourself, or do you have them made?

1194 A. I do not make them myself. I have them manufactured. I do not find time to make them, so a man makes them up for me.

X-Q. 6. And that is a common practice in the tobacco game, isn't it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. It is a common practice to have tobacco products made up and sold under private brands?

A. Yes, exactly.

X-Q. 8. Are you here in the store by yourself most of the time?

A. Yes, with the exception of Monday and then I go out.

X-Q. 9. You made no effort to remember whether customers ever asked you about these Beech-Nut cigarettes, or who they were made by, did you? 1195

A. A customer never asks who makes them.

X-Q. 10. Not so far as you can remember?

A. They have never asked me. The average customer just buys without asking. Just stop anybody on the street, anybody you choose, and ask him who makes Beech-Nut tobacco and I am sure—

Mr. Hinton: I object to that as not responsive to the question.

The Witness: (Continuing) If he asks for something and I give him something else he would not accept it. He goes by the Beech-Nut because he knows Beech-Nut is good, and I am sure that if the Beech-Nut changed its package then I would have to keep explaining what it is. That is what I have found in my eleven years of business. He just goes by the looks of it. 1196

X-Q. 11. In other words they buy on the brand and by the make?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 12. And if they have a high opinion of other products under the same name they are apt to buy a new one. 1197

A. They have got to try it out first. It is a question of quality.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. Is it not a fact that the thing which induces a customer to buy a product is the quality of that product?

1198 A. Positively the quality.

R-D Q. 2. In your opinion, does a man buy the goods because he likes the name?

A. No, sir, not by the name, always the quality.

R-D Q. 3. Do you job anything except tobacco products?

A. Whatever you see here I job.

R-D Q. 4. Confections also?

A. Yes, confections, matches and so forth. The retail business I am just trying to build up and most of my business is jobbing.

R-D Q. 5. If you heard a considerable number of re-
1199 marks or comments in regard to who made the Beech-Nut tobacco and who made the Beech-Nut gum and whether they were made by the same Company, do you think you would have remembered them?

A. I would remember it positively. I knew who makes the Beech-Nut gum and who makes the Beech-Nut tobacco.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1200 HARRY S. SYLK, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. What is your name and what is the address of your store here?

A. My name is Harry S. Sylk; the address of this store is 3362 Kensington Avenue, Philadelphia.

Q. 2. This is located in what is known as the Kensington business district, is it not? 1201

A. Yes.

Q. 3. How many customers do you have here a day?

A. Six or seven hundred, on an average.

Q. 4. What sorts of articles do you sell?

A. Cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, toilet articles, stationery and patent medicines.

Q. 5. Do you sell thermos bottles?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. And do you sell candy and perfumery?

A. Candy and perfumery and clocks and novelties.

Q. 7. Games? 1202

A. Yes, and pipes and all that stuff. I sell perfumes of all kinds.

Q. 8. Do you handle Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco like the Beech-Nut package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. How long have you handled it?

A. In this store here I have handled it for the past two years.

Q. 10. Were you in a similar business prior to that?

A. I have always been in the tobacco business.

Q. 11. And you sold this before you came here?

A. Yes. 1203

Q. 12. How long have you been handling it altogether?

A. For the past six or seven years.

Q. 13. Do you know what company makes it?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 14. Is it a good seller?

A. Yes, the best we have in the chewing tobacco line.

Q. 15. Have you any other scrap tobacco that is half as good a seller as the Beech-Nut Scrap?

A. In this section we have the Red Man Tobacco.

Q. 16. Is that half as good a seller as the Beech-Nut?

A. Just about half as much.

1204 Q. 17. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes such as those in this package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 18. Do you know what company makes that?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 19. Whose name is written on that package just beneath the label?

A. P. Lorillard.

Q. 20. Can you read that easily beneath the glazed paper?

A. Yes.

Q. 21. Do you know whether or not it is the common 1205 custom to wrap cigarette packages in glazed paper?

A. Sure, I know it is.

Q. 22. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum also?

A. Yes.

Q. 23. Do you know what company makes that?

A. The Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 24. Were you ever under the impression that the same Company that made the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes also made the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No.

Q. 25. Did you ever hear any comments or inquiries
1206 or remarks among your customers which indicated to you that they were under the impression that the tobacco products were made by the same company that makes the chewing gum?

A. No.

Q. 26. Do you regard tobacco in the same class with gum or in a different class?

A. In a different class.

Q. 27. What would you think of any one who would accept Beech-Nut gum thinking it was a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes? In other words, what would you think of any one who would allow a storekeeper to substitute a gum package for a cigarette package? 1207

A. I would think they were crazy, or something like that.

Q. 28. Whose name is written on the front of the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 29. And that would mean to any one who saw it that Lorillard was the maker, would it not?

A. Sure.

Q. 30. Has the sale of your Beech-Nut Chewing Gum decreased since the appearance of the Beech-Nut cigarette on the market? 1208

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. 31. Will you state whether or not it is about the same, or whether it has increased?

A. It is about the same.

Q. 32. Would you rather handle a tobacco product put out by a straight tobacco company or a tobacco product put out by a tobacco company that also made various sorts of food articles?

A. I would rather have the tobacco made by a tobacco company altogether.

Q. 33. Do you sell Blue Ribbon Cigars?

A. Yes. 1209

Q. 34. Do you sell Blue Ribbon Playing Cards?

A. Yes.

Q. 35. Did you ever hear of any one who thought that the Blue Ribbon Playing Cards were made by the same people who make the Blue Ribbon Cigars?

Mr. Hinton: This line of examination is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial and it is further objected to unless the labels and packages referred to are introduced.

It is stipulated that this objection will be allowed

1210 to apply to this entire line of examination without repetition.

A. No.

Mr. Preston: Samples of all these articles are in the possession of the Lorillard's counsel in New York and will be introduced in evidence in the case at a later date.

Samples of the Blue Ribbon Playing Cards and of the Blue Ribbon Cigars are now produced for purposes of inspection or cross examination by opposing counsel.

1211

Q. 36. Do you sell Chesterfield pipes?

A. Yes.

Q. 37. Do you sell Chesterfield cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 38. Do you sell Uncle Sam Playing Cards?

A. Yes.

Q. 39. Do you sell Uncle Sam Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 40. Did you ever hear of any one who thought that the playing cards were made by the same people who make the tobacco?

1212 A. Not at all.

Q. 41. Do you sell Apple Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 42. Do you sell Apple Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 43. What is the nature of the device on the Apple Tobacco, the label?

A. The shape of an apple.

Q. 44. And what is the color?

A. Red in color.

Q. 45. What is the picture on the front of the Apple gum package?

A. An apple, that is also red. 1213

Q. 46. Do you sell Star Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 47. Do you sell Star shaving brushes?

A. Yes.

Q. 48. Do you sell Velvet pencils?

A. Yes.

Q. 49. Do you sell Velvet Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 50. Did you ever hear of any one who thought that the Velvet pencil and the Velvet Tobacco were made by the same firm?

A. No, sir, not at all. 1214

Q. 51. Do you regard them as in the same class of products?

A. Not at all.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. This store consists of one room about twelve feet wide?

A. Sixteen by forty-five.

X-Q. 2. And your family runs it?

A. Yes. 1215

X-Q. 3. And you live over the store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. How many members of the family are usually on duty?

A. About three.

X-Q. 5. How many packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes do you suppose you sell in a week?

A. I guess about 350 or 400, or something like that.

X-Q. 6. Do you mean cigarettes or packages?

A. Packages.

1216 X-Q. 7. You sell 300 packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes a week?

A. Something like that, yes.

X-Q. 8. How many packages of Camel cigarettes do you sell a week?

A. About four thousand or five thousand.

X-Q. 9. That many packages a week?

A. Yes, about four cases, a thousand in a case. There are ten packages in a carton and fifty packages in a case. I guess it would be about two thousand a week or more cases.

X-Q. 10. Do you sell as many as 350 packages of the 1217 Beech-Nut a week, are you sure about that?

A. No, it would not be that much. About 3,000 a week would be right.

XQ. 11. It would run about 150, wouldn't it?

A. Yes, I figured double.

X-Q.-12. How much of that Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco do you sell?

A. About 2½ gross a week.

X-Q. 13. And you wait on 700 customers a day?

A. About seven hundred, sometimes it runs more.

X-Q. 14. How do you know it is seven hundred, do you ever count them?

1218 A. We have our cash register count.

X-Q. 15. The register count would show seven hundred?

X-Q. 16. What did your register count show yesterday?

A. (After examining register slip): 575.

X-Q. 17. Do you do any jobbing business here at all?

A. A little, very little.

X-Q. 18. What do you job, tobacco?

A. Tobacco mostly; mostly cigars.

X-Q. 19. When the Beech-Nut cigarettes were put in here I suppose they were put in by some Lorillard man, were they not, or don't you remember?

A. I guess I ordered them through a jobber first. 1219

X-Q. 20. But you knew in advance, before you saw the goods, that they were a Lorillard product?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 21. And you have been handling the scrap tobacco how long?

A. For the past two years about; since we had the store.

X-Q. 22. How long have you been selling tobacco?

A. Five or six years.

X-Q. 23. Where did you work before you came here?

A. The retail stores.

X-Q. 24. In Philadelphia? 1220

A. Yes.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. Do you do any confectionery jobbing at all?

A. Only chewing gum, that is all; a little bit of candy.

R-D Q. 2. What day of the week was yesterday?

A. Tuesday.

R-D Q. 3. On Saturday do you do a great deal more 1221 business than on Tuesday?

A. Four times as much.

R-D Q. 4. The average number of customers in this store, then, you estimate as seven hundred and fifty?

A. At an average, yes. On Saturday we will run maybe about 1100 or 1200, but during the week we may run 500 or 600.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1222 DAVID ORNSTERN, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. What is your name and what is the address of your store.

A. My name is David Ornstern; the address of the store is 2462 Kensington Avenue.

1223 Q. 2. And this store is located in the Kensington business district of Philadelphia, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. What sorts of articles do you sell in your store?

A. Articles such as tobacco, smoking articles.

Q. 4. Do you sell razor blades?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Chewing gum?

A. Yes, Chiclets, cough drops and so forth.

Q. 6. Do you know of the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, I have been dealing with them for some time.

1224 Q. 7. Has the Lorillard Company advertised its products extensively in this neighborhood, do you know?

A. Ever since I remember they have been advertising, yes.

Q. 8. Do you handle Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. I do.

Q. 9. How long have you handled that?

A. For about nine years, if I remember right.

Q. 10. What company makes that Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 11. Whose name appears on the front of the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco at the top?

A. P. Lorillard, Beech-Nut Tobacco. 1225

Q. 12. How much of that Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. I average two gross now, but I used to average much more than that.

Q. 13. How many packages would two gross be?

A. 288 packages.

Q. 14. Do you sell any other scrap tobacco that sells as well as the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. No, sir, Beech-Nut is my best seller.

Q. 15. Have you another scrap tobacco that sells half as well as the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. No, I can not say that I have. This is my best 1226 seller.

Q. 16. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes such as those in the packages I show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. Do you know what company makes those?

A. P. Lorillard.

Q. 18. Whose name is written on the front of that package just beneath the name?

A. Lorillard Company.

Q. 19. And that can be easily read through the glazed paper covering?

A. Yes. 1227

Q. 20. Do you know it to be a common custom to wrap cigarette packages in glazed paper?

A. They are all wrapped that way that I know of.

Q. 21. Do you handle Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 22. Have you seen Beech-Nut Chewing Gum on the market?

A. I have heard once in a while about it, but I never did handle it.

Q. 23. Have you ever bought any Beech-Nut products in any other stores, such as Beech-Nut mints?

1228 A. No, I have not.

Q. 24. In going about in Philadelphia, have you seen advertisements of any of those articles, Beech-Nut gum or Beech-Nut mints?

A. I have seen Beech-Nut Tobacco and I have often seen that advertised.

Q. 25. But I am speaking of Beech-Nut Food Products, not the tobacco.

A. To tell you the truth I don't go out much and I don't see really much of it, but I have heard of Beech-Nut Chewing Gum, naturally. There was a fellow in one day trying to sell me that gum and I told him I don't get 1229 any calls for it, I only get a call for Spearmint gum, and as I haven't much room I handle only the Spearmint gum.

Q. 26. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut chewing gum was made by the same company that made the Beech-Nut Tobacco?

A. No, I knew it was not made by the same company.

Q. 27. Do you regard chewing gum and tobacco as the same class of goods?

A. No, I do not; it is an entirely different line. How can you compare tobacco and chewing gum?

1230 Q. 28. What would you think of a man who would allow any one to substitute a gum package for a cigarette package?

A. It would be a mighty poor substitute, that is all I can say.

Q. 29. Do you think that the cigarette package and the gum package look anything alike?

A. No, sir.

Q. 30. Would you prefer to handle a tobacco product put out by a straight tobacco company, or a tobacco product put out by a company that also makes various food articles and also tobacco?

A. Naturally I would rather handle tobacco that is 1231 made by people with experience in tobacco only.

Q. 31. About how many customers do you have in your store here a day?

A. I average about four hundred and fifty daily, four hundred or four hundred and fifty sales.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. I suppose you are in business to sell things to the public?

1232

A. Yes.

X-Q. 2. If you could sell an article to the public you would not care who it was made by provided there was a demand for it, is that right?

A. Naturally, yes.

X-Q. 3. Who does make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. I don't know who makes it, to tell you the truth. I have never handled it and I never went into the question of finding out who makes it and I never have had an idea who makes it. I knew it was not made by P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 4. Of course you have dealt with the Lorillard 1233
Company for a great many years?

A. Yes, but I did not go into any details to find out who made the Beech-Nut gum. As you say, that is all I handle, just what is in those three jars there, and what I have in there is just Chiclets and Spearmint, and cough drops and they are all put in recently.

X-Q. 5. How many Beech-Nut cigarette packages do you sell a week?

A. I sell quite a few Beech-Nut cigarettes. I just took a lot out of the window. I judge I go as high as ten thousand a week of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

1234 X-Q. 6. That would be how many packages?

A. That would be fifty cartons or five hundred packages.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1. You said, I believe, that you regard tobacco and gum as in different classes?

A. Yes, naturally I do.

R-D Q. 2. Will you state whether or not you would 1235 conclude that the Beech-Nut gum was made by a company that you know to be in the Tobacco business?

Mr. Hinton: The question is objected to as calling for an opinion and a conclusion and speculation on the part of the witness.

A. Naturally I would expect it to be made by a company that is in that line of business.

Re-cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

1236 R-X Q. 1. Can you name any other products that are made by the same people that make Beech-Nut Gum?

A. No, sir, I am not familiar with that.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.).

(The taking of testimony was then adjourned until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock.)

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY.

Beech-Nut Packing Company
vs.
P. Lorillard Company.
} In Equity 3056.

December 14, 1922.

The taking of testimony in the above entitled cause was then adjourned to this 14th day of December, 1922, at 9:30 a. m., at which time I attended, and, in the presence of counsel for the respective parties, proceeded to take the following depositions, that is to say: 1238

EDWARD G. HOCH, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh: 1239

Q. 1. Please state your name, residence and occupation

A. My name is Edward G. Hoch; I am of lawful age; I reside at 1311 Russell Street, and my occupation is that of manager of the cigar department of the Manufacturers' Club.

Q. 2. How long have you been in the Manufacturers Club cigar department here?

A. About twelve years.

Q. 3. Do you know of the Lorillard Company, the tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes.

1240 Q. 4. I show you a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes in this case; do you sell these cigarettes?

A. Not any more, we used to sell them..

Q. 5. I also show you a package of scrap tobacco; do you sell any of this?

A. No, no scrap tobacco or plug tobacco at all.

Q. 6. I show you a package of Beech-Nut Chewing Gum; do you sell this?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. How long is it since you sold Beech-Nut cigarettes here?

A. I could not say that. When they first came out 1241 we put them in.

Q. 8. From whom did you purchase those cigarettes, do you know?

A. T. H. Hart & Company.

Q. 9. Those people are jobbers, are they not?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. P. Lorillard.

Q. 11. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people who make the Beech-Nut gum?

1242 A. No.

Q. 12. Did you ever hear of any comments or inquiries from customers or patrons of yours which would lead you to believe that they thought that the gum and the cigarettes were made by the same people?

A. None whatever.

Q. 13. You never had that in your experience?

A. No, sir.

Q. 14. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing a package of cigarettes from a package of gum like these Beech-Nut Cigarettes?

A. No, you would not have any difficulty because 1243 they are both different.

Q. 15. The package of cigarettes, from your experience, has a individuality of appearance all its own, has it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. Does the same remark apply to the gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 17. Approximately how many people do you serve at your cigar counter here a day?

A. About two hundred and fifty.

Q. 18. This manufacturers Club is one of the largest clubs in Philadelphia, is it not? 1244

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Approximately how many members are there?

A. About 3,800.

Q. 20. And it is located in the heart of the business district?

A. Yes, Broad and Walnut.

Q. 21. At this counter do you sell candy as well as tobacco products?

A. Yes.

Q. 22. Do you sell any other Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. Just the Beech-Nut gum and Beech-Nut mints. 1245

Q. 23. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing in appearance between a package of scrap tobacco and this package of gum?

A. There is the same difference that there is between day and night.

Q. 24. You would not have any difficulty in distinguishing between them?

A. No, sir.

1246 Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. You never carried the scrap tobacco?

A. No sir.

X-Q. 2. When did you put in the cigarettes, do you know?

A. When they first came out we put in a few of them.

X-Q. 3. How many do you suppose you sold a week?

A. We did not sell very many of them because the trade for the cheap cigarette is very limited here.

1247 X-Q. 4. Your people did not like that cigarette?

A. I can not say they did or did not; they were not selling very well, however.

X-Q. 5. When you did first put in these cigarettes, do you remember how many packages you sold in a week?

A. No, that I could not say.

X-Q. 6. How many did you buy?

A. We only bought them in small quantities because we get our stock twice a week from the jobber.

X-Q. 7. What do you mean by small quantities?

A. Two or four hundred, one or two cartons at a time.

1248 X-Q. 8. When did you discontinue the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. About a couple of months ago.

X-Q. 9. What was the average purchase of those cigarettes during the time that you were handling them?

A. That I could not say. Just as I said before, the sale of that cigarette was very much limited and what it was I could not say.

X-Q. 10. Please try to give me an estimate; did you sell ten packages a week up to the time you quit handling them?

A. No, I did not sell that many.

X-Q. 11. Did you sell five packages a week? 1249

A. I guess about five at that time, yes.

X-Q. 12. And when they first came out, how many were you selling, more than that or less than that?

A. They were going fair when they first came out.

X-Q. 13. But your trade here stopped buying them presumably because they did not like them?

Mr. Cavanagh: That is objected to as calling for a conclusion and as attempting to elicit an answer for which there has been no foundation laid.

A. Yes, they got tired of them, I guess. I could not tell that from the smokers' standpoint. You see here 1250 at this place we do not push any individual brand, we give them just what they ask for. We do not specialize in anything, we sell just what the people demand.

X-Q. 14. Was there a demand for those cigarettes when they first came out?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. And the people did buy them for a while?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. And then they stopped buying them?

A. Yes, then they stopped buying.

X-Q. 17. And then you discontinued selling them? 1251

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. You could not tell me how much they bought at the beginning?

A. No, because I did not keep a record of that.

X-Q. 19. You do not remember any customer having made any remarks at all about those cigarettes?

A. None whatever.

X-Q. 20. Do you remember any customer having said anything about the quality of those cigarettes?

A. None whatever.

1252 X-Q. 21. As a matter of fact, the customers in this club do not talk to you about that sort of thing, do they?

A. No, because I don't bother about that.

X-Q. 22. They walk up and put down their money and get what they have purchased and walk away again?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. And you do not make any effort to discuss the quality of the goods, or the manufacturer, or anything else with the customer, do you?

A. No.

X-Q. 24. You wait on them and you are busy doing that?

1253 A. Yes.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1. Most of the cigarettes you sell here are highgrade cigarettes?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 2. Pallmalls and Egyptian Deities and such cigarettes?

A. Yes, and Murads and Turkish cigarettes.

R-D Q. 3. Do you sell the Pallmall Candy here?

1254 A. No.

R-D Q. 4. But you do sell the Pallmall cigarettes?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 5. If you had any number of inquiries as to whether the people who made the cigarettes were the same people who manufactured the gum, would you recall such instances?

A. Yes, I would recall it. There were none.

Re-cross Examination. 1255

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. Would you consider Beech-Nut cigarettes quality cigarettes like the Pallmall, or not?

A. I have never smoked a Beech-Nut cigarette, so therefore I do not know.

R-X Q. 2. You do not know anything about their quality?

A. I can tell the quality if I smoke them, but I have never smoked a Beech-Nut cigarette.

R-X Q. 3. You do not know how it compares with a 1256
Pallmall cigarette or Egyptian Deity or any other brand of cigarettes?

A. That is a foolish question to ask because there is as much difference between that tobacco and the Pallmall cigarette as there is between day and night.

R-X Q. 4. What is the difference?

A. One is genuine turkish and the other is domestic.

R-X Q. 5. Which would be the quality goods?

A. The Pallmall.

R-X Q. 6. As compared with the Beech-Nut?

A. Yes, Beech-Nut is cheaper quality.

R-X Q. 7. And you would not consider the Beech-Nut 1257 cigarette a so called quality cigarette, then, would you?

A. I could not say that; it may be in its class.

R-Q. 8. You would not consider the class in which it is to be a quality class, would you?

A. No. It has a quality of its own, that is the way I would figure it.

R-X Q. 9. How does that quality compare with what you know as the quality kind of cigarettes?

A. Like Camel or like Lucky Strikes, that is what I would class the Beech-Nut cigarette with.

R-X Q. 10. How about the Piedmont?

1258 A. The Piedmont is a Virginia cigarette, that is a different class; that is in a class of its own.

R-X Q. 11. You would not class those two together?

A. Not Piedmont and Beech-Nut, no.

R-X Q. 12. If you turned your mind back to the period during which you were handling and selling these Beech-Nut cigarettes to the extent of approximately five packages a week, I want to ask you once again, are you perfectly sure you have never heard any customer make any remark of any kind about the cigarettes?

A. None whatever, no.

R-X Q. 13. And you cannot remember having heard 1259 anything at all?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1. The Pallmall cigarette is an expensive cigarette, is it not?

A. Yes.

R-I Q. 2. It retails for about twenty-five cents?

A. Yes.

1260 R-D Q. 3. And the price of the Beech-Nut is about fifteen cents, isn't it?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

FRED J. HAHN, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 1. Will you please tell us your name and age and occupation?

A. My name is Fred J. Hahn; I am of lawful age; my occupation is that of manager of the cigar and candy stand in the Land and Title Building, at the corner of 1262
Chestnut and Broad, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Q. 2. How long have you been the manager here?

A. Twelve years.

Q. 3. This stand is in one of the busiest sections of the City of Philadelphia, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarettes like the package in this case?

A. I did sell it, yes.

Q. 5. Do you sell the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 6. Do you sell any Beech-Nut chewing gum or oth- 1263
er candy products?

A. Beech-Nut mints, but I will not sell the gum.

Q. 7. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. What concern makes it?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 9. Were you ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut cigarette was made by the same people who make the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No.

1264 Q. 10. Did you ever have any of your customers ask you questions or make any comments or inquiries which would lead you to believe that they thought the gum was made by the same people who made the cigarettes?

A. No, nobody ever asked me.

Q. 11. You never knew the question to be raised?

A. No.

Q. 12. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing a package of cigarettes or a package of scrap tobacco from a package of chewing gum?

A. Do you mean would I have any difficulty in distinguishing the difference between the two? Sure I 1265 would not have any trouble; one is yellow and the other is red and striped.

Q. 13. What would be your opinion of a man who wanted a package of cigarettes or a package of scrap tobacco if he took a package of gum in the place of it?

A. I would think he was crazy to take gum for tobacco.

Q. 14. You think the scrap tobacco and the gum each has an individuality in appearance all its own, then?

A. Yes.

Cross Examination:

1266 By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How many of those Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell in a week?

A. Very few of them.

X-Q. 2. About how many packages a week?

A. The Beech-Nut cigarette does not take; I did sell some of them. They sold for a while.

X-Q. 3. What is the matter?

A. They do not sell, that is all. My trade is mostly Murad and Camels and Piedmonts and Rameses.

X-Q. 4. What do Piedmonts sell for?

A. Fifteen cents, Camels and Lucky Strikes and 1267
Fatimas and Chesterfields, these are the only cigarettes we sell.

X-Q. 5. When the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came out, did you have a demand for them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 6. What was your average sale approximately in packages per week?

A. About twenty packs a week.

X-Q. 7. And you are not selling as many as five a week now, are you?

A. No.

X-Q. 8. How long did that demand of approximately 1268 twenty packages a week keep up?

A. About four or five weeks, that is all.

X-Q. 9. Then they stopped buying?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 10. Did you ever hear anybody say why he stopped buying the cigarettes?

A. They did not like them, that is all.

X-Q. 11. Did you hear any number of people make that remark, that they did not like the cigarettes?

A. The same remark, that they did not care for them. They would try them, a Camel customer would try them and then he would come back and ask for Camels again. 1269

X-Q. 12. How many times do you suppose you have heard that?

A. Only a few times. The average person will not say anything. They will just say, "Give me so and so."

X-Q. 13. They do not discuss with you what they think?

A. No.

X-Q. 14. There is no reason why they should, is there?

A. No, they just change their brand and that is all.

X-Q. 15. You are alone in looking after this stand, aren't you?

1270 A. Yes.

X-Q. 16. It keeps you pretty busy waiting on the people that come here?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. You do not have much time to talk?

A. No, not much. I am here all the time. I never get a dinner hour from morning until night.

X-Q. 18. You are on the job all the time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. You knew, of course, before these cigarettes came in that they were a Lorillard product?

A. Sure, they called on me, the Lorillard man called 1271 on me.

Re-direct Examination:

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1 You say you do not sell the Beech-Nut gum now?

A. No.

R-D Q. 2. Why not?

A. Because of the conditions, the way they raise their price against other brands, you can not sell them at that price. I stopped selling them when they made them
1272 ninety cents. I would not put it back again. They made the price ninety cents and I threw it out and I would not put it back.

R-D Q. 3. As to cigarettes, different customers have different tastes and different likes and dislikes for different brands?

A. Yes.

R-D. 4. That is all a matter of individual taste, certain brands they like and others they do not like?

A. Yes.

Re-cross Examination: 1273

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. With cigars and cigarettes, will you say it was altogether a matter of individual taste whether a man likes the goods or not, and would you say that there is no such thing as a good cigar and a bad cigar?

A. Certainly there is such a thing as a good cigar and a bad cigar, but it must suit a man's taste.

R-X Q. 2. How about cigarettes?

A. The same way.

(Testimony of witness concluded.) 1274

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

FRANKLIN P. STERN, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination:

By Mr. Cavanagh: 1275

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Franklin P. Stern; I am fifty-three years of age; my occupation is that of cigar dealer; my business is located at 20 North Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Q. 2. How long have you been in business?

A. All my life; I have been here at this store thirty-three years.

Q. 3. What goods do you sell besides tobacco?

1276 A. Chewing gum, candies, razor blades, pipes and smokers' articles.

Q. 4. Do you sell the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Do you sell the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. How long have you been selling the scrap tobacco?

A. Ever since it has been on the market.

Q. 7. How does that Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco sell?

A. Very good, indeed.

1277 Q. 8. It is a good seller?

A. Yes, the best scrap seller there is.

Q. 9. Who makes the Beech-Nut scrap, do you know?

A. Lorillard Company.

Q. 10. Who puts out the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. Lorillard Company.

Q. 11. Did you ever have any customers make any comments or inquiries, or ask any questions which would lead you to think that they thought the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people that made the Beech-Nut chewing gum

A. Positively not.

1278 Q. 12. Were you yourself ever under the impression that the Beech-Nut tobacco or the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people who made the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No, I knew different.

Q. 13. Would you have any difficulty in distinguishing the appearance of a package of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes from a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Absolutely none.

Q. 14. A scrap tobacco package and a cigarette package have an individuality of their own?

A. Yes, distinctly different from the gum.

Q. 15. Do you sell other articles of different classes and different kinds that have the same name? 1279

A. Yes.

Q. 16. For example, what articles?

A. Apple chewing gum and apple chewing tobacco.

Mr. Hinton: This line of testimony is objected to as immaterial and irrelevant.

Q. 17. I call your attention to a piece of Apple plug tobacco; is that the Apple tobacco to which you have referred?

A. Yes. 1280

Q. 18. And I call your attention to a package of Apple Chewing Gum; is that the Apple gum to which you have referred.

A. Yes.

Q. 19. And you sell both of these articles in your store here, do you not?

A. Yes.

(For convenience in the taking of defendant's depositions it is stipulated that the various exhibits or articles under the same name may be introduced hereafter in evidence and identified, by a separate or general stipulation, subject to any objections which the plaintiff's counsel may wish to make to the introduction or to the materiality or admissibility of the exhibits.) 1281

Q. 20. Do you sell Eveready matches?

A. Yes.

Q. 21. And Eveready razor blades?

A. Yes.

Q. 22. Are those made by different concerns?

A. They are.

1282 Q. 23. What is the reputation of the P. Lorillard Company in the tobacco business?

A. A No. 1.

Q. 24. It is a very large manufacturing concern, isn't it?

A. It is.

Q. 25. As a tobacco man and speaking from your experience, would you prefer to purchase a tobacco product from a tobacco manufacturing company, or from a concern which makes food products?

A. From a tobacco manufacturing company.

Q. 26. Did you ever hear of the Beech-Nut Packing
1283 Company, the chewing gum people, ever putting out any tobacco products?

A. Never.

Q. 27. Did you ever hear of the P. Lorillard Company ever putting out any food products?

A. Never. .

Q. 28. This store is in a busy section of the City, is it not?

A. Yes, centrally located.

Q. 29. And you have about how many customers a day here in your store?

A. Close to a thousand.

1284

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How many of those Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell now, how many packages a week?

A. Just now we have laid them off because we have another brand that we are putting out. When we were selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes we were selling about 10,000 a week, or 500 packages.

X-Q. 2. Up until when?

A. That was up until about six weeks ago. 1285

X-Q. 3. Then, although you were selling five hundred packages a week, you discontinued the sale of them?

A. Yes, because we had them on at a special price; we were selling the 20-cent cigarette at ten cents.

X-Q. 4. Are they a 20 cent cigarette?

A. No, I am mistaken; a 15-cent cigarette; we were selling them at ten cents.

X-Q. 5. How long have you been selling them at ten cents; do you always sell them at ten?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 6. Before you began to offer them at ten cents, how many packages were you selling a week? 1286

A. About twenty-five.

X-Q. 7. Then you began offering them at ten cents a package and sold about five hundred packages a week?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 8. Until you got rid of your stock?

A. Yes, and then we got another brand to take its place. We could not buy them then to sell at ten cents.

X-Q. 9. When those cigarettes first came out, how many packages did you sell a week, approximately?

A. About twenty-five a week. They started off and held one pace.

X-Q 10. There was no difference; they began at 1287 twenty-five packages a week and sold right straight along about twenty-five a week?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 11. And then for a while you sold five hundred packages a week?

A. At the cut prices, yes.

X-Q.12. And then stopped?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 13. Are you quite sure that when you first put in the cigarettes you did not sell more than twenty-five packages?

1288 A. I would not say: To my estimation it was close to twenty-five a week.

X-Q. 14. No variation?

A. No variation.

X-Q. 15. What is the average purchase of a cigarette smoker?

A. Approximately a package a day, I would say.

X-Q. 16. Then twenty-five pacakges a week would satisfy the demands of three or four or five cigarette smokers?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 17. Or else twenty-five packages a week would 1289 be sold to a great many more people who would buy one package and then never buy another package?

A. Yes, that is the idea.

X-Q. 18. Which of those explanations do you think is the most probable for the fact that you sold twenty-five packages a week only?

A. The explanation would be this, that the blend did not seem to suit the public on cigarettes and they tried them and did not buy any more.

X-Q. 19. I suppose a great many people would buy a package and try them and then not buy another package?

1290 A. Yes.

X-Q. 20. And the reason for that is, as you just said, they did not seem to like it?

A. They did not like the blend.

X-Q. 21. Then you had a good stock of these cigarettes on hand and you cut the price to get rid of them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 22. And you got rid of 500 packages at ten cents?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 23. You said people did not seem to like the blend of those cigarettes, is that a statement made on the basis of anything that your customers said to you about those cigarettes? 1291

A. No, they simply tried them and did not buy again.

X-Q. 24. They did not tell you whether they liked them or not?

A. No, they just went back to their old blends.

X-Q. 25. You did not hear any customers say anything about the cigarettes?

A. No, sir, they did not.

X-Q. 26. They never said anything of any kind except to ask for the cigarettes and then not buy them any more? 1292

A. That is right.

X-Q. 27. How long have you been selling that Apple chewing gum and the Apple chewing tobacco?

A. The Apple chewing gum has been on the market about four months and the chewing tobacco has been on the market about ten or twelve years.

X-Q. 28. Is the Apple chewing tobacco a good seller?

A. Very.

X-Q. 29. How many clerks do you employ here?

A. Three besides myself.

X-Q. 30. I do not suppose you can tell exactly, but how many packages of those Beech-Nut cigarettes would the average purchaser buy before he quit using them? 1293

A. I couldn't give you an idea of that, That would be very hard to tell. The average smoker usually tells on one package of cigarettes whether it suits his taste or not. That is the average man.

X-Q. 31. Then in so far as the purchasers who would buy those Beech-Nut cigarettes and then fail to repeat, your twenty-five sales a week would represent about twenty-five people a week who bought a package a week?

A. Experimenting on the cigarettes.

1294 X-Q. 32. And they quit because they did not like it?
A. Yes.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1. At the time you reduced the price of the Beech-Nut Cigarettes there was a price cut war on in Philadelphia, was there not?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 2. And the prices were being cut on all domestic cigarettes, practically?

1295 A. Yes.

R-D Q. 3. And throughout the whole city of Philadelphia it was well known that there was a price-cut war on?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 3. And a tobacco store had to cut the prices to sell any goods?

A. To sell any goods, otherwise they were not salable.

R-D Q. 4. And the price was cut on the various standard brands?

A. Yes, nothing sold at normal prices.

1296 R-D Q. 5. Everything was cut?

A. Everything was cut. There is a little thing that I would like to explain in addition to that that may bear on this question. In our stock of cigarettes, if w do not turn it over once a week, we consider it a dead brand and our main object, then is to sell them quickly. Having fresh cigarettes is what makes them salable.

R-D Q. 6 You mean by that that cigarettes must not be dried out?

A. Yes, they must not be dried out, the goods must be fresh to be sold. . This is especially true of cigarettes. Cigarettes must turn over once a week with us.

R-D Q. 7. Different customers have different tastes in that regard? 1297

A. Absolutely.

R-D Q. 8. You find that in the scrap tobacco the same rule applies?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 9. The Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco is a great seller with you, is it not?

A. The best we have.

R-D Q. 10. Lots of your customers like that scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 11. And they might not take the same liking to other brands of scrap? 1298

A. That is correct.

Re-cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

R-X Q. 1. As a matter of fact, in order to put an end to the discussion, you did cut the price more on your Beech-Nut cigarettes than you did on the other cigarettes?

A. Yes, because we consider that a dead brand.

R-X Q. 2. You wanted to get rid of it? 1299

A. We wanted to clean it up.

R-Q Q. 3. And you did not want to deal in it any more?

A. Not unless they came back.

R-X Q. 4. Because your customers, having tried them, did not like them?

A. They did not like the cigarettes.

1300 Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 1. And it may have been a question of their own taste?

A. Certainly. The blend did not seem to suit.

R-D Q. 2. One may like one blend and another man may like another blend?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

1301 (Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

LOUIS GRAY, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and 1302 occupation.

A. My name is Louis Gray; my store here is No. 52 North 13th Street; the store is located in the business section of the City of Philadelphia.

Q. 2. What sort of goods do you handle?

A. Just what you see here, all kinds, tobacco, razor blades, toilet articles, gum, and a little candy.

Q. 3. Do you sell playing cards and perfumery?

A. Yes.

Q. 4. How many customers a day do you have approximately?

A. About four hundred and fifty.

Q. 5. Do you know of the P. Lorillard Company? 1303

A. Yes.

Q. 6. Do you handle Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco like this package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 7. Do you know what company makes that?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. What company makes it?

A. Lorillard Company.

Q. 9. Do you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. Do you know what company makes the Beech-Nut cigarette? 1304

A. Yes.

Q. 11. What company is it?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 12. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum here?

A. No sir.

Q. 13. Did you ever handle the Beech-Nut gum?

A. I did, but not here, not in this store. I had another store where I used to handle it.

Q. 14. How long ago was it that you used to handle it?

A. About a year ago.

Q. 15. Do you know what company makes the Beech-Nut chewing gum? 1305

A. The Beech-Nut Company, Beech-Nut Mint Company that makes the Beech-Nut mints.

Q. 16. Were you ever under the impression that the same company made the tobacco that made the mints and the gum?

A. No.

Q. 17. Either in this store or in the store where you worked before, did you ever hear any customers make any remarks which indicated that they were under the impression that the same company that made the gum also made the cigarettes?

1310

1306 A. No, not in the stores where I was.

Q. 18. A cigarette package has an individuality of its own as far as its appearance goes, has it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. And does the same thing apply to the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 20. And the appearance of the cigarette package is entirely different from the appearance of the gum package, is it not?

A. Yes.

Q. 21. What would you think of any one who would 1307 mistake a package of Beech-Nut chewing gum for a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. In what way? I don't understand you.

Q. 22. What would you think of a man who would accept Beech-Nut gum under the impression that he was getting a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, would that be possible?

A. If he would come in and ask for Beech-Nut, do you mean?

Q. 23. Would it be possible for any one to take Beech-Nut gum in place of Beech-Nut cigarettes, if he wanted the cigarettes?

1308 A. No.

Q. 24. Is the Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco a good seller?

A. Yes.

Q. 25. Have you any scrap tobacco that is as good seller as the Beech-Nut scrap?

A. Not here I have not.

Q. 26. How much of the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. About eight dozen.

Q. 27. Did you ever hear of a tobacco company making food products?

A. No, I never did.

Q. 28. Did you ever hear of a food products company making tobacco? 1309

A. No.

Q. 29. Would you prefer to handle a tobacco which was put out by a straight tobacco company, or a tobacco which was put out by a food products company that also made tobacco?

A. I think I would prefer to buy from a straight tobacco company.

Q. 30. Is your sale for Beech-Nut gum as good as it was before the Beech-Nut cigarette made its appearance on the market?

A. I do not have a call for Beech-Nut gum once in 1310 six months, and the price is so high that there is no profit in it.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. How many packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell a week, approximately?

A. About a thousand Beech-Nut cigarettes a week.

X-Q. 2. That would be fifty packages?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. Are they selling as well now as they did in 1311 the beginning, or not so well?

A. They are not selling so well on account of the other cigarettes coming down so low in price.

X-Q. 4. How many packages did you sell when they first came out, how many packages a week?

A. We sold more at that time, before the other cigarettes came out.

X-Q. 5. About how many?

A. About 3,000.

1312 X-Q. 6. In other words, you sold at least three times as much in the beginning as you do now?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 7. Wouldn't it be closer to five times?

A. Maybe a little more; I can not give you exactly the figures.

X-Q. 8. How long did you say you had been in this store?

A. Over a year.

X-Q. 9. Before that you were in another tobacco store?

A. Yes.

1313 X-Q. 10. How many years were you there?

A. About two years.

X-Q. 11. What were you doing before that?

A. In the tobacco game, but not in the retail game.

X-Q. 12. In the wholesale line?

A. Manufacturer of cigars.

X-Q. 13. Were you a manufacturer of cigars before?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 14. When you were a cigar manufacturer, did you make any private brands of cigars?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 15. Did you make cigars which were branded 1314 with some brand that bore the name of some particular retailer?

A. No, I could not do that.

X-Q. 16. I mean did you furnish him with his brand?

A. Oh, yes.

X-Q. 17. The retailers would order their brands from you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 18. Their own private brands?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 19. You did not make any effort to make a note or to remember any remarks or comments or inquiries that customers may have made about the Beech-Nut cigarettes, did you? 1315

A. No, I did not.

X-Q. 20. Did anybody ever say anything to you about the Beech-Nut cigarettes, except to buy them?

A. No.

X-Q. 21. From the time you first put them in until the present time there have been no remarks of any kind made to you by anybody over the counter about those cigarettes?

A. Do you mean as far as the quality is concerned?

X-Q. 22. Or about anything?

A. No. 1316

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. How long ago was it that you sold 3,000 Beech-Nut cigarettes a week?

A. Just before the price of the other cigarettes came down.

R-D. Q 2. In your opinion, was the decrease in the sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes due to the cut in the price of the other brands?

A. Yes. 1317

Mr. Hinton: I object to the question as calling for the opinion and conclusion of the witness.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1318

HARRY A. LINN, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. What is your name, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Harry A. Linn; the address of this store is 2557 Kensington Avenue, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

1319

Q. 2. What sorts of stuff do you sell in your store in addition to tobacco?

A. Everything, toys, novelties, magazines, clocks.

Q. 3. Do you sell playing cards?

A. Yes, playing cards, perfumery, soda and everything.

Q. 4. Do you know of the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 5. Do you handle the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco like the package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. How long have you handled it?

1320

A. For the last ten years anyway.

Q. 7. Is that a good seller with you?

A. It is.

Q. 8. Do you know what company makes this?

A. Sure.

Q. 9. What company?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 10. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 11. Do you know what company makes them?

A. The same company.

Q. 12. How do those sell? 1321

A. Not so extra with me.

Q. 13. Is it a fair seller?

A. A fair seller.

Q. 14. Do you sell Beech-Nut chewing gum like this package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 15. Were you ever under the impression that the same company that made the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum also makes the Beech-Nut tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. No, it never entered my mind.

Q. 16. Do you know what company makes the Beech- 1322
Nut chewing gum?

A. I did not take interest enough in it to find out.

Q. 17. Did you ever hear any remarks or comments among your customers which indicated that they were under the impression that the chewing gum was made by the same company that made the tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 18. How many customers do you have in your store in a day, on an average?

A. I never took a figure on that.

Q. 19. Can you approximate how many?

A. About three or four hundred, I guess. 1323

Q. 20. How much of this scrap tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. About ten dozen or twelve dozen a week.

Q. 21. Have you any other scrap tobacco which is as good a seller as that Beech-Nut Scrap?

A. That is about my best seller, the Beech-Nut Scrap. The Omega comes next.

Q. 22. Whose name appears on the front of the cigarette package?

A. Lorillard.

1324 Q. 23. Can you read that readily from where you stand?

A. Certainly.

Q. 24. And you are about four feet from that package?

A. Yes.

Q. 25. You know it is a common custom to wrap cigarette packages in glazed paper, do you not?

A. Yes.

Q. 26. The cigarette package has an individuality of its own as far as its appearance is concerned, isn't that true?

1325 A. Yes.

Q. 27. And the same thing is also true of a chewing gum package?

A. Yes.

Q. 28. What would you think of any one who would mistake the gum package for the cigarette package?

A. I would say that he was crazy altogether. If anybody wants gum he doesn't want tobacco and if anybody wants tobacco he doesn't want gum.

Q. 29. Do you regard gum and tobacco in the same or in different classes?

A. Different classes entirely.

1326 Q. 30. Did you ever hear of a tobacco company putting out any food products?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. 31. Did you ever hear of a food products company making any tobacco?

A. Not to my knowledge. Maybe they did.

Q. 32. Would you prefer to handle tobacco made by a straight tobacco company, or tobacco made by a company that also makes various food products?

A. If they handle tobacco only they generally know their business better. I would rather buy from a tobacco company.

Q. 33. Is your sale of Beech-Nut gum as good as it 1327 was before the cigarette appeared?

A. Beech-Nut gum is a slow seller with me.

Q. 34. About how many packages a week of the gum do you sell?

A. Very little.

Q. 35. Do you sell twenty packages of the gum a week?

A. About that, I would say.

Q. 36. How many packages of Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. About twelve dozen.

Q. 37. What is the reputation of the Lorillard Com- 1328 pany in this community?

A. Good, to my knowledge.

Q. 38. Can you say whether the Lorillard Company advertises their wares and products extensively in this district?

A. Sure they do.

Q. 39. Do you sell the Gem razor blades?

A. Yes.

Q. 40. Do you sell Gem matches?

A. No, I have none on hand today. Sometimes I do sell them.

Q. 41. You have handled the Gem match? 1329

A. Yes.

Q. 42. They are not made by the same company, are they?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Mr. Hinton: This line of testimony is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial to any issue in this case.

1330 Cross Examination

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. Do you have a record of the number of purchases made, a record from your cash register?

A. Do you mean of the sales?

X-Q. 2. Yes.

A. I never take a note of how many people come in here in a day. It is all foolishness because some kid can come in three times a day for some little thing. It does not mean the number of customers coming in.

1331 X-Q. 3. Would that show how many sales you made a day?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. Would you mind telling me how many you made yesterday?

A. I don't mark down the sales, I just mark down the receipts, not the sales, because while you are sitting there I can ring up three times for you. You will order one thing and pay for it and I will ring it up and pretty soon you will order something else.

X-Q. 5. I would like to know how many times you did operate it, if you will tell me.

1332 A. I don't keep track of that.

X-Q. 6. Are you here by yourself most of the time?

A. I am always here, but I have help.

X-Q. 7. How much help?

A. One, sometimes two.

X-Q. 8. How many packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell a week?

A. About two or three cartons.

X-Q. 9. Did you ever hear any customers say anything to you about those cigarettes, any remark of any kind except to say, "Beech-Nut cigarettes" when they bought them?

A. That is about all, Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 10. You never heard anybody express any opin- 1333 ion of any kind about them?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 11. As to whether they liked them or not, or anything about them?

A. When they come in for Beech-Nut cigarettes they make up their mind before they come in that they want Beech-Nut cigarettes. It is not like a man purchasing a cigar. They ask my opinion sometimes as to whether it is a good one or a bad one, in the case of cigars; but with the cigarettes they make up their minds whether they want them before they come in.

X-Q. 12. How long have you been selling tobacco? 1334

A. For the last fifteen years.

Re-direct Examination

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. If you had heard a considerable number of remarks which indicated confusion in the minds of the customers, or which indicated that they thought that the same company which made the gum also makes the tobacco, would you have remembered it or wouldn't you?

A. Nobody ever asked, it never came into my mind.

R-D Q. 2. If there had been a considerable number of 1335 those inquiries, you are sure you would now remember it?

A. Surely.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1336

DANIEL M. HARBOT, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Daniel M. Harbot; the address of this store is 6802 Tacony Street, Philadelphia.

1337 Q. 2. How far are we from the center of Philadelphia?

A. By rail thirteen miles and by road about nine miles.

Q. 3. How many people do you have in and out of your place a day?

A. My register goes anywhere from 200 to 325 customers, that is sales.

Q. 4. You are near the Diston Saw Works, are you not?

A. A half a square down the street are the Diston Saw Works.

1338 Q. 5. Do you serve lunches here?

A. Yes.

Q. 6. You have a great many of those workers in here to lunch?

A. Quite a few.

Q. 7. What sort of stuff do you sell here in addition to tobacco?

A. Pies, light lunches, soft drinks, ice cream, groceries of a small description.

Q. 8. Do you sell razor blades here?

A. Yes, razors and razor blades, hair-pins, shoe strings, collar buttons, gloves, candy, hosiery, suspenders, false faces and other things too numerous to mention. 1339

Q. 9. Do you sell Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco like the package I now show you?

A. Yes.

Q. 10. How long have you sold it?

A. Ever since it has been on the market.

Q. 11. How much of that do you sell a week?

A. From twelve to fifteen dozen.

Q. 12. Have you any scrap tobacco that sells as well as that Beech-Nut Scrap?

A. No.

Q. 13. Do you sell Beech-Nut cigarettes? 1340

A. I have them for sale, but I don't sell them.

Q. 14. Do you know what company makes these Beech-Nut tobacco products?

A. Lorillard makes the tobacco, but I don't know who makes the cigarettes.

Q. 15. Who would you think makes the cigarettes?

A. I don't know, I never bothered to find out.

Q. 16. Will you look at that package of cigarettes; whose name is on the front of it?

A. Lorillard. I never tried to look at it before.

Q. 17. Do you handle Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes. 1341

Q. 18. Did you ever think that the same people who made the Beech-Nut chewing gum also made the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I never thought anything about it.

Q. 19. Do you know what company makes the Beech-Nut gum?

A. No, I never looked.

Q. 20. Do you think that the cigarette package looks like the gum package?

A. No.

Q. 21. Did you ever hear any remarks among your 1342 customers that indicated that they thought the same company made the gum that made the tobacco?

A. No, I never did.

Q. 22. And you yourself were never under the impression that the two things were made by the same company?

A. I never considered it, to my knowledge.

Q. 23. Can you read that name Lorillard Company on the front of that package easily through the glazed paper?

A. Yes.

Q. 24. You know that it is a common custom to wrap 1343 cigarette packages in glazed paper, do you not?

A. It is lately, yes.

Q. 25. How much Beech-Nut Chewing Gum do you sell here a week?

A. About three packages.

Q. 26. How much Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco do you sell?

A. Twelve or fifteen dozen.

Q. 27. Did you ever hear of a Tobacco company putting out food products?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. 28. Did you ever hear of a food products company
1344 making tobacco?

A. I never heard of it.

Q. 29. Would you rather have a tobacco product made by a straight tobacco company, or one made by a food products company that made tobacco as well?

A. Candidly I guess if I chewed it I would not care where it was made as long as it was good.

Q. 30. Will you state whether or not you handle the following products: Do you sell Apple Tobacco?

A. Yes.

Q. 31. Do you sell Apple Chewing Gum?

A. Yes. That is another one like Beech-Nut cigarettes, we have it to sell, but we sell very little of it.

Q. 32. I show you a piece of the Apple Plug Tobacco and a package of the Apple gum; what is the device on the Apple Tobacco? 1345

Mr. Hinton: That speaks for itself. We object to it.

A. It is a tin tag, that is about all.
Q. 33. What does it represent?
A. It represents an apple.
Q. 34. What is the picture on the front of the gum?
A. An apple.
Q. 35. Are they both red?
A. They are. 1346
Q. 36. Do you sell Comet Playing Cards?
A. Yes.
Q. 37. And Comet Tobacco?
A. Yes.
Q. 38. Do you sell Velvet pencils?
A. I do sell them, or I did.
Q. 39. Do you sell Velvet Tobacco?
A. Yes.
Q. 40. Do you sell Chesterfield pipes?
A. No.

Mr. Hinton: This line of testimony is objected to as irrelevant. 1347

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q 1. You cater to the laborers in the Diston Saw Works and their families, I suppose?

A. There are very few families in this neighborhood. The majority of them in this neighborhood are coons, as far as families are concerned.

1348 X-Q 2. You will put in stock anything that you can sell and that you have a demand for?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 3. It does not make any difference to you who makes it, does it?

A. No, sir, not so long as it sells.

X-Q. 4. How many packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes did you sell a week when they first came out; did they go pretty well for a while?

A. For the first couple of weeks they did, yes.

X-Q. 5. Then they fell off?

A. Yes.

1349 X-Q. 6. How many are you selling now?

A. We sell a pack a week; if we sell a pack a week now we are lucky.

X-Q. 7. What made the demand for them fall off?

A. The other cigarettes dropped in price, the Camels and the Piedmonts dropped down in price. When the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came out they were twenty for fifteen cents and we were getting twenty cents for Camels and Piedmonts, and then they dropped and that knocked the sale out on Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 8. What was your maximum sale of Beech-Nut Cigarettes in packages per week, would you say?

1350 A. When they first came out?

X-Q. 9. Yes.

A. I would say from twenty to twenty-five packs.

X-Q. 10. Never anything to amount to anything?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. A cigarette package has an individuality of its own, as far as its appearance is concerned, is that true?

A. Yes. 1351

R-D Q. 2. And the gum package also has an individual appearance of its own?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 3. Is there any similarity in the appearance of a cigarette package and a gum package?

A. There is a lot of difference between a pack of cigarettes and a pack of chewing gum, as far as the looks is concerned.

R-D Q. 4. Do you think any one could confuse the two?

A. Only if he was blind.

R-D Q. 5. And you say you sell now about a package 1352 a week of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Some weeks, and some weeks I don't sell a package.

R-D Q. 6. How many packages of Beech-Nut Chewing Gum do you sell a week?

A. One or two.

R-D Q. 7. How many packages of Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco do you sell in a week?

A. From twelve to fifteen dozen.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of 1353 counsel.)

JOSEPH COHEN, a witness produced on behalf of the defendant, being by me first duly sworn, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Preston:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

1354 A. My name is Joseph Cohen; my place of business is 934 North Second Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; I am in the tobacco business.

Q. 2. Retail business here, are you not?

A. Yes.

Q. 3. What sorts of articles do you sell here?

A. Cigars and cigarettes.

Q. 4. Do you sell candy?

A. Not retail.

Q. 5. You sell gum, I believe?

A. Not retail.

Q. 6. You do not sell any Beech-Nut gum at retail 1355 at all?

A. No.

Q. 7. Do you job tobacco and confections?

A. Yes.

Q. 8. Do you job Beech-Nut gum?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. How long have you been handling Beech-Nut Scrap tobacco like this package I now show you?

A. As long as I have been in business, seven years.

Q. 10. Is that scrap tobacco a good seller on this market?

A. Very good..

1356 Q. 11. Is there any other scrap tobacco that is as good a seller as that?

A. Not with us there is not.

Q. 12. Do you handle the Beech-Nut cigarette?

A. We do.

Q. 13. How many people come in and out of your store here a day, about?

A. Closer to a hundred than it would be to a thousand.

Q. 14. Did you ever hear any discussion or any remarks among your customers which indicated to you that they thought that the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum was made by the same people that made the Beech-Nut Tobacco? 1357

A. No.

Q. 15. You know what people make the Beech-Nut Tobacco and the Beech-Nut Cigarettes, do you not?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. Which company is it?

A. The P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 17. You never thought yourself, that the same company made the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum and the Beech-Nut Tobacco?

A. No.

Q. 18. Do you regard the Tobacco and the gum as in the same class? 1358

A. As far as selling them is concerned I imagine they work together because it would be natural for a tobacco man to handle chewing gum. They have done it as long as I remember.

Q. 19. Do you regard tobacco and gum as in the same class of goods?

A. No.

Q. 20. Did you ever hear of a tobacco manufacturing concern that made gum and also made food products?

A. No sir.

Q. 21. Did you ever hear of a food manufacturing concern that made tobacco products? 1359

A. No sir.

Q. 22. Do you think that a cigarette package and a gum package look at all alike?

A. They have the oval there.. I never paid much attention to either one. That has the oval and the words "Beech-Nut" written in it in the same way and that may have something to do with it.

Q. 23. Is it true that a cigarette package has an individuality of its own? You know a cigarette package when you see it?

1360 A. Of course.

Q. 24. You think that no one could confuse a cigarette package with a gum package?

A. No sir.

Q. 25. Do you know the oval to be a common device upon various articles on the market?

Mr. Hinton: The question is objected to as leading.

Q. 26. Will you state whether or not you know the oval to be a common device?

1361

Mr. Hinton: I make the same objection.

A. I do not know. I really could not answer that. I would not think that because it had an oval that it would necessarily have to be a cigarette package.

Q. 27. Whose name is written on the front of that cigarette package underneath the label?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 28. You can read that through the glazed cover, can you not?

A. Yes.

1362 Q. 29. Would seeing that name on there indicate to you that Lorillard Company was the maker?

A. Naturally, yes.

Q. 30. You never saw a package of those cigarettes without Lorillard's name on it, did you?

A. No, I don't think I did. I have never paid much attention to that.

Q. 31. And you never heard of any one who thought that the people who make the Beech-Nut tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarette also made the Beech-Nut gum?

Mr. Hinton: The question is objected to as calling for hearsay testimony and for the conclusion of the witness. 1363

A. No, sir.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Hinton:

X-Q. 1. When did you first notice the name P. Lorillard on these Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. I never noticed the name other than the fact that I know when the Beech-Nut cigarettes first came out that they were introduced by Lorillard's man. 1364

X-Q. 2. But you never noticed that they had that P. Lorillard on there before this moment, did you?

A. I could not say. I would not know now unless you gentlemen asked me about it and I looked at it, because I didn't pay that much attention to an individual package.

X-Q. 3. Your business is mainly jobbing?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 4. Very small retail trade?

A. Very little. 1365

X-Q. 5. Who do you job to, what kind of people? Any particular kind of trade?

A. Yes, the average small store.

X-Q. 6. Small tobacco stand?

A. Yes, or small store, a few drug stores.

X-Q. 7. Do you go out and sell goods yourself personally?

A. I do, yes.

X-Q. 8. How much of a sale have you got on these Beech-Nut Cigarettes now?

A. Very little.

X-Q. 9. What is the matter with them, do you know?

1366 Mr. Preston: The question is objected to as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

A. Maybe it is because of the price, I don't know.

X-Q. 10. Did you have a good sale for them at the beginning?

A. Yes, for the reason that at the time they first came out the other cigarettes were much higher, that is the leading brands like Camels and Piedmonts were retailing at twenty cents and Beech-Nut came out at a cheaper price.

X-Q. 11. They will not hold their own against other 1367 cigarettes of the same price?

A. I can not say. The cigarette may be just as good but maybe there are too many other leading brands selling for fifteen cents today so that there is not room for a cigarette of that sort.

X-Q. 12. Have you ever heard any remarks from your customers about these Beech-Nut cigarettes at all?

A. In reference to what?

X-Q. 13. About anything?

A. No, with the exception that at one time there were a few sold in town below the regular price, that is the retail price was cut, but that was mainly due, I suppose, 1368 to the distribution.

X-Q. 14. I am talking about remarks from the customers, did you ever hear anybody say anything about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

X-Q. 15. Or the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco?

A. No.

X-Q. 16. You cannot remember any remark of any kind at the moment?

A. No.

Re-direct Examination. 1369

By Mr. Preston:

R-D Q. 1. Will you state whether your experience leads you to believe that the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco is the best tobacco seller on this market?

A. We sell more Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco than we do any other scrap.

R-D Q. 2. Do you sell much more?

A. Yes, pretty nearly twice as much of the Beech-Nut Scrap as we do of the next best.

R-D Q. 3. Did you ever look carefully at a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes before? 1370

A. No. This has really been the first time I ever looked at it as close as I am looking at it now.

R-D Q. 4. If you had looked at it, without paying any attention to what is on there, could you fail to see that name Lorillard?

A. No, that is perfectly plain.

R-D Q. 5. And if you saw that it would seem to you that Lorillard was the maker, would it not?

A. Exactly.

R-D Q. 6. You knew before that Lorillard did make the Beech-Nut Cigarette?

A. Yes. 1371

R-D Q. 7. Will you state whether or not you assumed that Lorillard made the Beech-Nut Cigarette from the fact that you handled the Lorillard Beech-Nut Scrap and knew that they made the Scrap?

A. Yes.

(Testimony of witness concluded.)

(Signature of witness waived by consent of counsel.)

1372

It is hereby stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if

M. PODOLNIC of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, were called as a witness on behalf of the defendant, that he would testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

My name is M. Podolnic; I am fifty-two years of age; my address is 320 South Street, Philadelphia. I keep a cigar and novelty store and have been in business about 1373 thirty years. I handle from five hundred to a thousand customers a day. In my novelty shop I sell suit cases, pipes, watches, clocks, canes, gum, fountain pens, cameras, razors, playing cards and other novelties, but I must say that I do not sell any of the Beech-Nut Packing Company's products, although I do sell chewing gum of other companies. Since 1915 I have been selling Lorillard's scrap tobacco and it is the best seller that I have in scrap tobacco. I have also been selling the Beech-Nut Cigarettes and I know that the Scrap Tobacco and the Cigarette are Lorillard products. I
1374 never supposed that the scrap tobacco or the cigarettes were made by the same people who put out the Beech-Nut gum. The Beech-Nut scrap is my best selling scrap tobacco. The Beech-Nut cigarettes do not sell as well with me. I do not remember having heard any of my customers make comments or remarks or inquiries of any kind about the Beech-Nut scrap, or make any remarks that would lead me to believe that they thought these products were made by the same people who made the gum.

1375

STIPULATION.

It is hereby stipuated by and between counsel for the respective parties that if the witness

WILLIAM SOBEL were called as a witness to testify for the defendant, the Lorillard Company, that he would testify as follows:

Direct Examination.

My name is William Sobel; I live at 518 South 56th Street, Philadelphia, with a place of business at 1317 Filbert Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. I run a cigar and lunch room and have been in business about eight years and serve about three hundred customers a day. I have been selling Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco since about 1915 and have also sold the Beech-Nut cigarettes. I also sell the Beech-Nut gum and mints. The Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco is the best selling Scrap Tobacco I have, but the Beech-Nut cigarettes do not sell so well with me. It never occurred to me that the Beech-Nut Tobacco and the Beech-Nut Cigarettes were manufactured by the same people that made the Beech-Nut gum, nor did I ever hear any comments or inquiries or remarks from my customers which would lead me to believe that they thought that the tobacco and cigarettes were made by the same people that made the gum. I would think a man was crazy who would take cigarettes for gum.

1376

Cross Examination.

I do not remember any customers making any remarks at all about Beech-Nut Scrap or Beech-Nut Cigarettes. I know that the Cigarettes are a Lorillard product and knew that before I saw them, as they were put in by a 1378 Lorillard agent. I have been handling the scrap tobacco for some years and I knew that that was a Lorillard product.

STIPULATION.

It is stipulated by and between counsel for the respective parties that the witness WALTER I. DAVIDSON, if called to testify for the defendant Lorillard Company, would testify as follows:

1379 Direct Examination.

My name is Walter I. Davidson; I am twenty-seven years of age; I have a store at 712 Spring Garden Street in the business district of Philadelphia, and serve about six hundred customers a day. I sell pipes, candies, gum, razors, toilet articles and magazines. I have been selling Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco since 1915 and the Beech-Nut cigarettes since about 1921, and I know that these are products of the P. Lorillard Company. I sell Spearmint chewing gum and also sell Beech-Nut gum. I am selling Beech-Nut gum now and have sold the Beech-Nut mints.
1380 I was never under the impression myself that the Beech-Nut Scrap Tobacco and the Beech-Nut Cigarettes were made by the same people that make the Beech-Nut Chewing Gum, or the Beech-Nut mints and candies, and I never heard of any comments or inquiries or remarks from my customers which would lead me to believe that they thought that the tobaccos and cigarettes were made by the same people who make the gum I might also say that I sell Chesterfield pipes and Chesterfield cigarettes, Apple tobacco and Apple gum, Eveready matches and Eveready safety razors, and I have also handled

Sweet Caporal cigarettes and Sweet Caporal candy cigarettes. These articles, although going by the same name, are made by different concerns. 1381

Mr. Hinton: This testimony with respect to the other articles being sold under the same name is objected to as irrelevant and immaterial, and it is stipulated that this objection may apply to this line of testimony without repetition.

Cross Examination.

I don't remember having heard my customers make any remarks of any kind about Beech-Nut cigarettes or scrap tobacco. The Beech-Nut cigarettes were put in by a Lorillard agent and I knew who made them before I saw the goods. I have been handling the scrap tobacco for several years and it is my best seller. 1382

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY

Beech-Nut Packing Co.,
Plaintiff,
vs.
P. Lorillard Company,
Defendant.
} In Equity No. 3056.

Depositions taken in behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant, before Henry F. Weller, a Notary Public and Court Reporter, acting as Special Master, by consent of counsel, pursuant to notice and by agreement of counsel, 1388 at the office of Francis X. Boden, Majestic Building, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, beginning Monday, January 29, 1923, at 2:30 o'clock P. M.

Present: H. McClure Johnson of Offield, Poole, Hinton & Scott, for Beech-Nut Packing Company; Richard B. Cavanagh of Meyers, Cavanagh & Whitehead and Thomas L. Preston for P. Lorillard Company.

WILLIAM GOLDSTEIN, a witness produced in behalf of defendant, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, 1389 deposes and says, as follows:

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. William Goldstein, age 32, residence 4839 Hutchison Street, Chicago, Illinois. I am head salesman for P. Lorillard Company in the Cigarette Department, which is called the S. Anargyros cigarette department.

Q. 2. How long have you been connected with P. Lorillard Co.?

A. I have been with P. Lorillard Company since the 1390 dissolution of the American Tobacco Company in 1911. It has been eleven years, I should judge ten or eleven years, I started sometime during the summer months, I don't remember exactly which date it was.

Q. 3. What territory do you cover at the present time and what are your duties?

A. At the present time I am the assistant of Mr. C. W. Burkley who is the head salesman in charge of the cigarette department in Cook County, Illinois, Lake County, Indiana, and Lake County, Illinois. I look after the cigarette department, the S. Anargyros cigarette business in the city of Chicago and the adjoining terri-

1391 tory mentioned, calling on jobbers, calling on retailers, work with our retail salesmen, in other words, generally looking after the interest of the products listed under the S. Anargyros name, Murad, Egyptian Deities, Helmar, Mogul, London Life and Turkish Trophies cigarettes.

Q. 4. How long have you been engaged on these duties in this Chicago territory?

A. Since January 5, 1922.

Q. 5. Where were you before that? What did you do?

A. I had charge of the state of Wisconsin from 1392 January 3rd, 1921, up to December 16th, 1921, that is for about a year as head salesman in charge of the S. Anargyros cigarette department of the Lorillard Tobacco Company. I was given charge of the marketing of Beech-Nut cigarettes which was introduced in the Milwaukee territory on September 26th, 1921.

Q. 6. Then, as I understand it, you were located here in the territory of Wisconsin for about one year, from January, 1921, until December, 1921, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 7. And where were your headquarters?

A. Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Q. 8. What address? 1393

A. 84 Detroit Street.

Q. 9. And what duties did you perform during that year's period when you were in the Milwaukee territory?

A. I called on jobbers, called on retail dealers, interviewed consumers in the interest of the sale of the S. Anargyros brand of cigarettes, worked with my retail salesmen and generally looked after the promotion end of the brands of cigarettes known as Egyptian Deities, Murads, Mogul, Luxury, Helmar, London Life and Turkish Trophies.

Q. 10. What was your position or what was your title? 1394

A. Head salesman.

Q. 11. Did you have salesmen under you?

A. Yes, sir, from January, 1921, until the early part of September I had two men. From September until the end of the year I had three in my department and during the Beech-Nut campaign I was given the assistance of another man who worked in the tobacco department, which gave me a total of four at the end of the year.

Q. 12. What do you mean by the "Beech-Nut campaign"?

A. The marketing of Beech-Nut cigarettes. 1395

Q. 13. When was that cigarette introduced into this Wisconsin territory under your charge?

A. September 26th, 1921.

Q. 14. How long did you continue to have charge of this introductory campaign?

A. Until our vacation period, which commenced on December 16th, 1921.

Q. 15. Now will you just tell us in your own words precisely what system or procedure you followed in introducing the Beech-Nut cigarettes into the Wisconsin 1396 territory, beginning, as you have stated, September 26th, 1921?

A. The most essential thing in marketing a new product of that kind is to get the distribution, when you are selling the retail dealers, and while we are selling the retail dealers we had the general duties which consists of different advertising which is furnished by the company, indoor advertising and exterior advertising. Along with that we sample customers who we find are smoking competitive brands of cigarettes. About the first effort was to place the cigarettes with the retail dealer in getting our distribution. Then second was the getting the 1397 general distribution of our advertising matter, third was the sampling and building consumption for the brand we were placing on the market.

Q. 16. How many men did you have under you as a crew in introducing this brand during this campaign?

A. Five including myself.

Q. 17. Now, I want you to tell me just exactly how a man would proceed to introduce the brand to the retailer or to the trade.

A. Well, first he is given territory in the morning which he is expected to cover that day. Then he is given the allotment of cigarettes which he carries along to sell 1398 for cash in order to get immediate distribution and get them on sale right there before the consumer. When you call on the retailer you introduce yourself as a salesman of the P. Lorillard Company, advise the dealer, "We are making Beech-Nut cigarettes, the latest addition to the numerous brands made by the P. Lorillard Company", and we would go on and tell that we were the manufacturers of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the tremendous popularity of the brand, then we would go on and tell him we were also manufacturers of such well-known brands of cigarettes as Egyptian Deities, Helmar and Murad cigarettes and tell him the brands put on had to sell for fifteen, twenty and twenty-five cents and due 1399 to the fact all other brands of this character and class are selling for twenty and eighteen cents, there is no doubt in the world, due to the high qualities of Beech-Nut cigarettes you will have some ready sales in this brand. Some salesmen would call attention to the fact they had been marketed in other territories and met with great success. And he would open up his carton, his carton would have been open at all times while talking to the retailer, and he would say, "I want very much to leave this little package of Beech-Nut cigarettes, it will cost you $1.14", and take out his order book and commence to write up the order, and the dealer would say, 1400

"All right, I will take it", and the salesman would write up an original and duplicate and make a tissue copy also, handing the white copy to the dealer, and bring the other copy back to me to show where he placed the cigarettes. That is the way the average salesman would talk to the retailer or jobber.

Q. 18. How do you know he would proceed that way?

A. Because he was taught along those lines by myself in charge of the territory. When we opened up the campaign we had a little school. We went a day or two before the campaign and were told these things.

Q. 19. Now, when a salesman would go into a store 1401 what would he have with him, if anything?

A. When he would go in a store, his earlier calls he would make in the morning, he would have two thousand Beech-Nut cigarettes consisting of ten cartons of this size (witness shows carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes containing ten packages) which contain two hundred cigarettes. Then he would carry along the various advertising material, which, at the opening of the campaign consisted of window posters, interior card tackers and exterior tackers used on the outside of the dealer's store front and in all cases he was instructed when he called 1402 on a dealer, after he had sold them, to tear off these edges (indicating edges of carton), tear off the end flap on the carton and place the carton card inside and ask the dealer if he would not allow him to place this on the cigar counter so it would be readily seen by the consumer. Then his instructions were to get the window poster on a dealer's store that he sold cigarettes to, and if possible to get some of the other advertising material displayed which he carried along with him. At all times salesmen were sufficiently supplied with advertising material which was the most essential thing in the promoton of the brand, creating business on the brand.

Mr. Johnson: Objection to all that part of this witness' testimony in which he tells what the agents would do.

Q. 20. (Mr. Cavanagh.) Upon what do you base your statement that the agents would do this?

A. Well, because as I told you, in the early part here it has been customary at all times in marketing a new brand or when we had new work to perform, the head salesmen were requested to school their retail men on the proper line of work expected of them, and naturally 1404 I would take it for granted the men instructed would follow out my instructions, and if they did not follow out along those lines and after I had checked up their territory and found out from the retail dealers they didn't do that, I immediately dispensed with their services.

Q. 21. Did you personally take part in the introduction and sale of this Beech-Nut brand of cigarettes beginning September 26th, 1922? That is, did you visit the trade and introduce it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 22. Where?

A. I worked what I call in Milwaukee the Loop or downtown district. I worked the sections bounded by the river or Sycamore Street up to Wells Street and possibly four or five blocks the other side of East Water Street going east, up as far as Byram's Store on Grand Avenue, which took in the immediate downtown, all of the important dealers in the town. 1405

Q. 23. That is, sir, it included the business section of Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir, and then I incidently worked with my retail salesmen from day to day, calling on retail dealers and placing advertising matter and sampling consumers, everything to promote the creation of the demand, which naturally a man would do. 1406

Q. 24. So as to avoid a long repetition, did you or did you not follow out the procedure or system in introducing the brand that you have described as the instructions to your salesmen?

A. Absolutely, in every detail.

Q. 25. You followed that out?

A. Absolutely.

Q. 26. That card to which you refer as having asked the retailer to permit you to stick into the carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes and put on the counter, will you read what it says on that card, so we will have it on the record? 1407

A. "Lorillard's Beech-Nut Perfect Cigarettes, 20 for 15 Cents, Mildest of Them All."

Q. 27. That is a small yellow card about three inches by five or six?

A. Five or six inches.

Q. 28. And that comes in each carton of cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 29. For how long a period were you engaged in this work of introducing the Beech-Nut cigarettes in Milwaukee?

1408 A. From September 26th, 1921, up until vacation period started, December 16th, 1921.

Q. 30. Now, where else outside of Milwaukee in the state of Wisconsin did you personally have charge of a crew introducing this cigarette?

A. Nowhere else.

Q. 31. Just the city of Milwaukee?

A. Just the city of Milwaukee, yes, this territory included Waukesha County, Racine County and Kenosha County.

Q. 32. Then you did go outside the city of Milwaukee?

1409 A. Yes, sir.

Q. 33. Into neighboring cities or towns?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 34. Are you acquainted with the Lorillard Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 35. How long, to your knowledge, has that scrap tobacco been on sale in Milwaukee and vicinity?

A. Well, I have understood it was placed in this market sometime during the year 1919, the latter part.

By Mr. Johnson: Objection, as hearsay.

1410

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 36. Mr. Goldstein, are you acquainted with Mr. E. R. Lewis, who, I understand, is or was division representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company in Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir, I was introduced to him by a retail dealer in the city here.

Q. 37. Mr. Lewis has testified on behalf of the Beech-Nut Packing Company in this case and has stated he was acquainted with you and that he met you about the time you first came here, that is around the first of the year 1921. What have you to say as to that? 1411

A. To my knowledge the first time I met Mr. Lewis was in the cigar store known as the "Loop Cigar Store" located on East Water near Wisconsin, and was introduced to the gentleman by a clerk in this store known as Charlie Tuckwell. I came in there about nine o'clock one morning and Mr. Lewis and another gentleman was in the store, I didn't learn the other gentleman's name, and as I walked in Mr. Tuckwell called me over and said—I am known as "Bill" to Tuckwell, never known as Goldstein, we are very good friends, he said, "Bill, this is Mr. Lewis, representative of the Beech-Nut Packing Company." 1412

Q. 38. And about when was that?

A. Sometime between September 26th, 1921, and October 5, 1921.

Q. 39. And that was the first time you ever met Mr. Lewis?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 40. And you were introduced to him by Mr. Tuckwell?

A. By Mr. Tuckwell as the P. Lorillard Company representative in charge of Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 41. So, as far as your knowledge goes, you did not meet Mr. Lewis around there the first of the year 1921 when you first came here? 1413

A. Absolutely not.

Q. 42. Mr. Lewis has testified for the Beech-Nut Packing Company that he first met you about the first of this year (meaning 1921) at the store of A. S. Goodrich. Do you agree with that?

A. No, sir, I do not recall meeting him in A. S. Goodrich's store at any time.

Q. 43. Now, Mr. Goldstein, as I understand it, you say you were introduced to a Mr. Lewis, the Beech-Nut 1414 Packing Company representative, by Mr. Tuckwell at the store where the latter was employed, sometime around or shortly after September 26th, 1921. Is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 44. And I understand you to say there was another man with Mr. Lewis at the time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 45. Did you know that gentleman's name?

A. No, sir, I was never introduced to that gentleman. I know he was in the company of Mr. Lewis because he talked to Mr. Lewis, but I was never introduced to him.

1415 Q. 46. Was anyone else present when you met Mr. Lewis?

A. Well, there were several people in the store which is quite a hang-out, you know, for different people in there, but nobody paid any particular attention outside of Mr. Tuckwell, who introduced us, and he was present during the entire time I was in this particular store in the company of Mr. Lewis.

Q. 47. The Beech-Nut cigarette was not on sale in this territory the first of the year, in January, 1921, was it?

By Mr. Johnson: Object to that as a leading question.

1416

A. No, sir.

By Mr Cavanagh:

Q. 48. Mr. Lewis in his deposition for the plaintiff has testified that when he first met you in the fore part of the year (1921) you told him about the sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes in the east, what have you to say as to that?

A. No, sir, I have never had any conversation with Mr. Lewis or never had any acquaintance with Mr.

Lewis prior to the time we marketed the Beech-Nut cigarettes in September, 1921. 1417

By Mr. Johnson: Objection to the manner in which these questions are being asked. If Mr. Cavanagh wants to get this information he can get the witness's story without reading from the record.

Mr. Cavanagh: Without entering into any argument with counsel it is obvious that following the usual practice in taking of depositions going to the presentation of evidence it is necessary not only to present the evidence on behalf of the defendant, but to distinguish and if not a fact to re-but the evidence given on behalf of the plaintiff, and Mr. Cavanagh is referring to the record solely and for the purpose alone of making sure that he does no injustice to this plaintiff by inadvertently misquoting or misinterpreting any statements of plaintiff's witnesses. 1418

By Mr. Johnson: Objection to all questions put in this manner.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 49. Now, Mr. Goldstein, I want you to tell us in your own words just exactly what took place and what conversation you had with Mr. Lewis of the Beech-Nut Packing Company when or after you were introduced to him by Mr. Tuckwell, which you say was the first time you met him. 1419

A. Well, after I was introduced to Mr. Lewis—I was introduced to him as a Lorillard representative in charge of Beech-Nut cigarettes and he was introduced to me as a Beech-Nut Packing Company representative in charge of Beech-Nut gum and Mr. Lewis asked me whether we were putting on a very big campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes and I said, "Yes." He said, "What success are you meeting with?" I said, "As well as we had hoped 1420 for the brand is doing very nicely." And he asked me if we made any other Beech-Nut brand and I said, "Yes, sir, we manufacture Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut plug", and I asked him if he had ever heard of Beech-Nut scrap and called his attention to the fact Beech-Nut scrap was a tremendous big seller in the city of Milwaukee, and he said, "Yes, I have heard of it in Pennsylvania some years ago, it was a very big brand over there." We talked about general things and I just don't remember the exact words that transpired. We talked about the marketing of Beech-Nut cigarettes and I told him it was a very good quality of cigarette and we hoped

1421 to make a big seller out of it. But I had an appointment at nine-thirty with one of my jobbers and I told him I would have to run along, I had an appointment to keep, and I opened up a carton of cigarettes, which I carried at all times to use as samples in sampling consumers and I asked Mr. Lewis if he smoked and he said yes, and I presented both Mr. Lewis and his friend with packages of Beech-Nut cigarettes and I told him I thought he would find Beech-Nut cigarettes as high a quality as the rest of the Beech-Nut line, particularly Beech-Nut scrap tobacco. Then Mr. Tuckwell, who was back of the counter, and present at the coversation, due to the fact he was 1422 not a smoker of domestic, but smoked Turkish cigarettes, I presented him with a couple of packages of Murad cigarettes, and he invited us across the street to have a soft drink, and we went across the street into an ice cream parlor and the three of us had a Coca Cola and we stood around there and talked about different things that possibly any salesman would talk about, you know, but in parting I said to Mr. Lewis, "If you can do anything to help further the sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes I will appreciate it, and in turn if I can do anything for Beech-Nut gum I will reciprocate" and with that we parted.

Q. 50. How many times after that do you recollect 1423 meeting Mr. Lewis, if you did?

A. To my knowledge the second time I met Mr. Lewis was in a cigar store known as Kerns & Son, which was across the street from the Loop Cigar Store. I don't just recall whether Mr. Lewis was in there with a friend of his or whether I was in this store first, and he came in, and at this meeting I was introduced to another gentleman, I don't just recall his name, and we chatted a little bit and during this conversation nothing was said about tobacco, cigarettes or gum or anything else, and on leaving I had some business to transact with Milton Kerns, who was manager of this store and on leaving I 1424 noticed his friend was smoking a cigar and I presented Mr. Lewis with a package of cigarettes, knowing he was a cigarette smoker and I asked his friend if he indulged in cigarettes and he told me he did not, so I didn't give him any, and with that I left.

Q. 51. Please state whether or not on that occasion you had any coversation about the Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut gum, further than offering him the cigarettes?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. 52. Did you meet him on any other occasion, to your knowledge? 1425

A. Yes, the next time after that I met him in Kenosha, Wisconsin. He was in a jobber's known as Beck & Mahlsted, I came into this jobbing house and Mr. Lewis was there and I believe that at this meeting Mr. Dick Mahlsted, who is part owner in this business, was there, and the only thing was mentioned about cigarettes or gum was, he said, "Well, it is a funny thing, here is a Beech-Nut cigarette man and a Beech-Nut gum man, you fellows ought to get along pretty well."

Q. 53. Who said that?

1426 A. Mr. Mahlsted. And I said, "Yes, I know Mr. Lewis and we get along very nicely together."

Q. 54. Is that all that happened on that day?

A. That is all happened in that place.

Q. 55. And do you recollect ever meeting Mr. Lewis at any other place at any other time?

A. No, sir, not to my knowledge. Absolutely never had any other meetings with him.

Q. 56. When you were first introduced to Mr. Lewis it was made known to you that he was a Beech-Nut Packing Company salesman?

A. Absolutely, I know that clearly.

1427 Q. 57. And it was made known to him that you were a P. Lorillard Company representative?

A. I was introduced to him as the P. Lorillard representative of Beech-Nut cigarettes. If his hearing was good he surely knew I was.

Q. 58. Now, as I understand your testimony, you had charge of the introductory or missionary crew in Milwaukee or territory on this Beech-Nut cigarette, starting about September, 1921. Will you please state whether or not you gave the members of this crew any instructions in connection with the introduction of Beech-Nut cigarettes, and in connection with the products of the

1428 Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. 59. Tell us in your own words what you did.

A. At one of the meetings that we had, and many times after that I called their particular attention to the fact that Beech-Nut cigarettes was the product of Lorillard Tobacco Company, as they knew, and in calling on retail dealers to make it very clear to them that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were manufactured by P. Lorillard Company so there would be no confusion. The reason I did that, I had read in a tobacco journal and possibly some other papers that there was some sort of suit going on at the time about the label or trade mark, and I didn't want my salesmen to be the cause of any confusion to the retail dealers or consumers they may have sampled in the course of a day's work, which I knew was the wish of the company at the time, and every man was instructed to make it very clear to the retail dealer, before he even showed him the Beech-Nut cigarettes, during his introduction to them to say, "I represent the Lorillard Tobacco Company, we are now putting on Beech-Nut cigarettes," and in mentioning Beech-Nut cigarettes to also mention, "We are also the manufacturers of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and such other famous brands of cigarettes as Murads, Egyptian Dieties and Helmar cigarettes." They were also told in sampling consumers, when they made their approach to the prospective consumer and sampled them on Beech-Nut cigarettes to call attention to the fact Beech-Nut was manufactured by the P. Lorillard Company, manufacturers of Murads, Egyptian Dieties and Helmar cigarettes, which were the largest selling high-grade cigarettes in the United States. And I made sure this instruction was followed out, and I also called on retail dealers with my salesmen and every time I was with them they used just such instructions as I gave them. 1429 1430

Q. 60. When you made a sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes in this introductory campaign in this territory, that is, to the retailer, just exactly what took place? Did you take cash and give them the receipt or what did you do? 1431

A. The dealer was sold a carton of cigarettes in all cases where he wished to buy it direct from our salesman, and in such cases he was given a carton or two, whichever quantity he bought, and he was given a receipt for it, which we call a retail order blank. I believe there is one of the blanks there now (indicating).

1432 Mr. Johnson: I want an objection to this testimony in which the witness tells what his salesmen did, as being hearsay only, and secondary evidence.

It is stipulated that this objection shall apply to all testimony of this character without repetition.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 61. I understood you to testify that you have personally solicited retailers and dealers on this Beech-Nut cigarette during the introductory campaign and have personally sold the cigarettes. Will you tell me just 1433 exactly what you did when you sold the cigarettes to the dealers?

A. Well, whenever I sold the dealers a carton or whichever quantity of cigarettes he might have wanted, if I could interest him to buy them for cash I gave him his wished quota, giving him a receipt in what we call a retail order blank made out in original, duplicate and tissue paper copy, marked on there his name, put on there "Cash Sale," his address, the quantity of cigarettes purchased, and the selling price, marked on there "Paid," and then signed my name to it.

1434 (The three sheets referred to are marked defendant's Exhibit 10 A, 10 B, and 10 C, respectively for identification.)

The Witness: (Continuing) Of the three sheets, the white one marked "A" I gave to the customer, the one marked "B" was attached to the duplicate daily report as a record in our office as to who the cigarettes were sold to, and the thin tissue paper sheet marked "C" was kept in our order book for a record for the particular salesman who sold the goods.

Q. 63. What appears printed at the top of that white slip "A" and the yellow slip "B"?

A. "P. Lorillard Co., Inc. 119 West 40th Street, New York, N. Y." 1435

By Mr. Cavanagh: The triplicate sheets produced and referred to by the witness are fastened together to form one exhibit and are now offered in evidence and the Notary is requested to mark the same Defendant's Exhibit 10 A, 10 B, 10 C, retail order blanks.

Q. 64. So far as your knowledge extends, from whom would the retailer subsequently obtain the repeat orders of the cigarettes, if he wanted it? 1436

A. Well, most generally he would get it from the jobber, but in some cases he purchased them from our retail salesmen on our re-canvassing of the trade after the first introductory visits were made. In such orders we call them reorders.

Q. 65. Will you please state from your own knowledge whether or not you ever knew one of your salesmen on this campaign to go into a store without advertising matter?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. 66. Likewise will you please state whether or not a salesman to your knowledge would go to a store or did go into a store with only one package of cigarettes? 1437

A. No, sir.

Q. 67. What did he usually take in there, so far as you know?

A. He usually carried in the cigarettes he had to sell for cash. He was thoroughly instructed if it was any time before five o'clock, which was usually the hour for him to quit work, between five and five-thirty, if he ran out of selling stock to come back to the warehouse or go to the nearst jobber to his territory and re-

1438 purchase the amount of cigarettes he had sold during that day's work. Therefore at all times when he called on retail dealers he had sufficient cigarettes to sell for cash to the retailer.

Q. 68. In addition to introducing and selling the cigarettes yourself, personally, to the retail trade around Milwaukee, will you please state whether or not you ever accompanied any of your salesmen into a store?

A. Yes, I have at different times, when I check up on our territory and meet them on our territory I usually spend an hour or two with them, call on retail dealers and show them the proper way to approach a dealer and 1439 the proper way to sell him, particularly the sampling of consumers.

Q. 69. Do you know a party here in Milwaukee by the name of J. Brimakow?

A. Yes, sir, he was a retail clerk in a drug store that I did business with, he was known as the manager of the cigar department of Kiefer Drug Company.

Q. 70. Where was that concern located?

A. West Water Street.

Q. 71. Do you know of your own knowledge whether Mr. Brimakow purchased for his concern any Beech-Nut cigarettes, and if so will you state the circumstances as 1440 you know them?

A. Well, it was about a month prior to the time we had marketed the brand, I made one of my usual visits to his store and had sold him some Murad and Helmar cigarettes, and he said he had had a call for Beech-Nut cigarettes, and I said, "Yes, that is one of our products, you know that, don't you, Joe?" and he said, "Yes, I know Lorillard Company makes them, can't you get some of them?", I said, "No, I am sorry, I don't know when my company will get ready to market the brand here, but they have been placed on the eastern market and, as I understand, they are moving along very well, and no doubt those consumers who have been calling for them 1441 have just come from the east, and then he said, "Yes, they did." Sometime after that I called on Brimakow, about two weeks later, and he had Beech-Nut cigarettes in stock and I inquired as to the sale of them and he said they were moving along very well, he had a brand on sale for fifteen cents, which was the regular price and due to the fact I had received some correspondence from the company requesting me to make positive that Beech-Nut cigarettes were not placed on sale in any part of my territory until September 26th, which was set as the opening day of the campaign, I asked Mr. Brimakow if he would not refrain from selling the Beech-Nut cigar- 1442 ettes until such time as we got ready to market the brand, as other dealers had called for them, due to the fact he was selling them, and I was unable to supply them an it was causing hard feelings among some of my good friends among the trade. And I had this conversation, I asked him where he had obtained his Beech-Nut cigarettes and he told me from the National Cigar Company at Chicago, Illinois, which is one of the direct buyers of the Lorillard Tobacco Company. At this interview I had with him he promised me he would stop selling the brand. Two or three days later I received some information he had still some Beech-Nut cigarettes on sale. 1443

I had written my Company to tell them the circumstances, that Beech-Nut cigarettes were on sale in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and being supplied by the National Cigar Company, and I requested them to ship Beech-Nut cigarettes into Milwaukee, which they did. And while all this correspondence was going on this market was opened up on Beech-Nut cigarettes and I believe up until that time Mr. Brimakow had sold approximately forty thousand Beech-Nut cigarettes.

1444 Mr. Johnson: Objection to that part of this answer which is hearsay only and not good evidence from this witness.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 72. So Mr. Brimakow had the cigarettes on sale before you started the campaign here on September 26th, 1921?

A. Yes,sir.

Q. 73. Did you ever tell Mr. Brimakow that he would be discontinued handling it if he did not uphold the price on the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

1445 A. No, sir. The day prior to the marketing of this brand, September 26th, I called on all large cut-rate dealers in the city of Milwaukee and told them that due to the fact Beech-Nut cigarettes was a high quality cigarette, we were going to try to market Beech-Nut cigarettes as a fifteen cent cigarette, and I would personally appreciate it if these cut-rate dealers who had built their business on cut-rate business would refrain from cutting the price on Beech-Nut cigarettes as I did not think it necessary to sell Beech-Nut cigarettes cheaper than fifteen cents.

1446 Mr. Johnson: Objection to this answer as not responsive.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

Q. 74. Is that all the conversations you had about that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 75. Did you know Mr. Brimakow before he went to work for the Kiefer Drug Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 76. Where was he working?

A. I first met Mr. Brimakow after I came into the territory, January, 1921, at the Central Drug Company. At that time he was manager of the cigar department. 1447

Q. 77. Where is the Central Drug Company located?

A. On Third Street.

Q. 78. Who runs it?

A. At that time it was run by a gentleman named Reinhardt; since then it has been run by Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Kemp, who, I believe, were joint partners in this business.

Q. 79. To your own personal knowledge is Mr. Brimakow with the Kiefer Drug Company?

A. I am almost positive he is not. 1448

Q. 80. But you don't know yourself?

A. I am positive he is not.

Q. 81. Will you please state whether or not you, at any time, or upon any occasion represented, stated or intimated to any person or dealer that the Beech-Nut cigarettes or Beech-Nut scrap tobacco were made by the same concern that makes the Beech-Nut food products, chewing gum and other like products, that is, the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Absolutely not, never.

Q. 82. Would you state whether or not you ever knew any of your agents to make such representation? 1449

A. Never.

Mr. Johnson: Objection to that last question and answer as an opinion of the witness, unfounded on anything that has preceded.

Q. 83. (Mr. Cavanagh.) It has been testified to on behalf of plaintiff in this case by one Clarence W. Smith that he met you in Kerns & Son Cigar Store on East Water Street in Milwaukee the latter part of 1921, while he was in company with Mr. Lewis of the Beech-Nut 1450 Packing Company and that you exhibited a package of cigarettes and said, "These cigarettes are quality goods like the rest of the Beech-Nut line." Did you ever make any such statement in Kerns & Sons Cigar Store?

Mr. Johnson: Objection to the manner in which this and all similar questions are put to the witness.

A. No, sir, there was no remark made in regard to the quality of the brand or the character of the cigarette. The only thing I said at that meeting, at which Mr. Smith was present in company with Mr. Lewis, I pre-1451 sented Mr. Lewis with a cigarette, due to the fact I knew he was a cigarette smoker, and I asked Mr. Smith, who was the gentleman with Mr. Lewis at the time, whether he indulged in cigarettes and he promptly told me he did not indulge in cigarettes and possibly the exhibit he referred to is the package I offered him when I asked him if he was a cigarette smoker.

Q. 84. Is that all that occured?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 85. Did you know whether his name was Smith or not?

A. I couldn't say. As I mentioned in the early part 1452 of my testimony I did not remember the gentleman's name in the company of Mr. Lewis, but I remembered that Mr. Lewis had a party with him and I was introduced to him. This was the second meeting in Henry Kerns & Sons Cigar Store.

Met pursuant to adjournment, parties appearing as before.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 86. Mr. Goldstein, are you employed by P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 87. How long were you working in Milwaukee for them? 1454

A. Just one year.

X-Q. 88. What were the dates when you came to Milwaukee for the P. Lorillard Company, and the date you left Milwaukee

A. I took charge of the Wisconsin territory on January 5th, 1921, and left here at the commencement of winter vacation on December 16th, 1921, and I was transferred to Chicago territory, which took effect January 3rd, 1922.

X-Q. 89. Was your vacation time in between December 16th and January 5th?

A. That was vacation period, a little over two weeks, 1455 I think about fifteen days.

X-Q. 90. How long have you been with the P. Lorillard Company all together?

A. Since 1911, about eleven years excluding the time I put in the service, in the United States Army.

X-Q. 91. What have you been doing for them during the rest of the time?

A. I was employed in Chicago—do you wish me to give you an idea of just what I have done for them?

X-Q. 92. Yes, just briefly.

A. I commenced as retail salesman and for four or five years I travelled—

1456 X-Q. 93. When was that?

A. From 1911 until about 1916, I believe. I covered practically all states east of Illinois on different campaigns, introductory and advertising campaigns and sampling campaigns and then I believe it was the latter part of 1916 or early part of 1917 I was promoted to head salesman.

X-Q. 94. Were you working out of Chicago during that time?

A. No, I worked at various headquarters, different headquarters, Detroit and Cleveland and sometimes it was Boston, and that is about all. Cleveland, Detroit and 1457 Boston were the different headquarters I worked in during the time I was a retail salesman for them.

X-Q. 95. Did you take part in a number of introductory campaigns in new brands during that time?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 96. What did you do for them after 1916?

A. I believe it was the latter part of 1916 or early part of 1917 I was promoted to the head salesmanship, still working under the supervision of a head salesman named H. A. Asby. I met Mr. Asby in Akron, Ohio, and I was advised I was promoted to head salesman to take charge of the Colorado territory, which embraced Colo-
1458 rado and part of Wyoming. I stayed in that territory until I was called to service in the United States Army.

X-Q. 97. When was that?

A. That was the latter part of—about the middle of 1918, I believe. I just don't know the exact date.

X-Q. 98. When did you get out of military service?

A. In January, 1919.

X-Q. 99. What did you do then?

A. Then I went to Utah and took charge of Utah as head salesman, which embraced the territories of Idaho—

X-Q. 100. For whom?

A. Lorillard Tobacco Company—which embraced the territories of Utah, Idaho, part of Nevada and a part of Wyoming. 1459

X-Q. 101. How long were you there?

A. I was there until I was transferred to Milwaukee in January, 1921.

X-Q. 102. Did you take part in any introductory campaigns of new brands while you were there in that Utah-Idaho-Wyoming district?

A. Why, yes, I introduced Windsor Castle Fags cigarettes.

X-Q. 103. Will you name some of the brands that you introduced during the time you have been with the P. Lorillard Company? 1460

A. Well, the campaigns I personally conducted were on Windsor Castle Fags while I was out in Utah, and Beech-Nut cigarette campaign from September 26th, 1921, up until the time I left Milwaukee territory, those were the only two campaigns I personally conducted, but I assisted in different works which consisted in marketing such new brands as London Life, Nebos, Zira, Zubelda's and Tiger cigarettes.

X-Q. 104. Any others?

A. That is all of the new brands.

X-Q. 105. Can you name any of those brands which you have just mentioned that the Lorillard Company had taken over from other companies? 1461

A. No, all these brands I have mentioned are brands represented by trade marks that Lorillard Company had personally controlled. I never worked on another brand that the company had taken over from other manufacturers. London Life was an origination of the company, likewise with Tigers, likewise with Nebos, likewise with Zira and Zubelda. And the last brand I worked on was Beech-Nut which the company had scrap tobacco on the market by the same name for several years, and Beech-Nut plug.

1462 X-Q. 106. Do you know whether any of these brands you have mentioned were made by subsidiary companies?

A. No sir, these brands were all manufactured by the Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 107. Were any of these Anargyros brands?

A. London Life was an Anargyros brand, but it is not a subsidiary of P. Lorillard Company, it is just a trade name the P. Lorillard Company had acquired during the dissolution of the American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 108. What name appeared on London Life as to makers?

A. "S. Anargyros".

1463 X-Q. 109. What is your present position?

A. I am head salesman.

X-Q. 110. What does your work consist of?

A. My work consists of assisting Mr. C. W. Burkley, who is also head salesman in charge of S. Anargyros cigarettes in Chicago territory, which takes in Cook County, Illinois, Lake County, Indiana and Lake County, Illinois.

X-Q. 111. What position did you hold here in Milwaukee?

A. Head salesman in charge of the brands manufactured by the P. Lorillard Company which are under the 1464 supervision of what we call the S. Anargyros department.

X-Q. 112. What brands are those?

A. Murad, Egyptian Deities, Helmar, Mogul, Luxury, London Life and Turkish Trophies.

X-Q. 113. Whose name is on the packages of those cigarettes as to maker?

A. Well, it reads "S. Anargyros, capital stock owned by P. Lorillard Co."

X-Q. 114. Which of those names, S. Anargyros or P. Lorillard, appears more prominent on the package?

A. Well, the "S. Anargyros" on these particular brands appear in larger type.

X-Q. 115. Very much larger? 1465

A. Well, possibly twice the size, maybe two and a half times the size of "P. Lorillard Company".

X-Q. 116. When you glance at a package of these Murads, what name do you see as you glance casually at the package?

A. "S. Anargyros."

X-Q. 117. It is considerably larger than the name "P. Lorillard Co."?

A. Yes, possibly two or two and a half times the size of P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 118. When you look at it from five feet away you don't see the name "P. Lorillard Co." at all, do 1466 you?

A. I see it, because I know just where it is.

X-Q. 119. But if you didn't know it was there, there wouldn't be much chance of your seeing it, would there?

A. That is a question, it all depends on how closely I would look.

X-Q. 120. In your sales effort do you offer these cigarettes as a S. Anargyros product?

A. Well, we offer them as a Lorillard product to the trade, but these brands, I believe, have been identified by the consumers of high-grade cigarettes as those formerly manufactured by the S. Anargyros brands which 1467 I understand, and have always heard from consumers, predominates in high class cigarettes about in the same category as Tiffany in New York in diamonds. In fact, I have been in stores in territories strange to me, and I walked in and said, "I want a high-grade Turkish cigarette—

By Mr. Johnson: I object to the latter part of this answer as entirely unresponsive to the question.

The Witness: (Continuing)—they invariably hand you a brand of those manufactured by Loril-

1468 lard Company and say, "Here is a Murad" or a Diety or Mogul, "which is one of the S. Anargyros products manufactured by the P. Lorillard Company."

X-Q. 121. Are you quoting the dealers when you say that?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 122. Did you ever hear a dealer say, "This is a package of Murad cigarettes made by the S. Anargyros Company which is owned by the P. Lorillard Company"?

1469 A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 123. Did you ever hear a customer ask for a Lorillard Murad?

A. Well, as a rule, let us assume he goes into a store, the ordinary consumer won't go in and say, "Give me Lorillard's Murads," he will say, "Give me a package of Murad cigarettes."

X-Q. 124. Is the name "Lorillard" featured at all on the package of cigarettes you mentioned?

A. Yes, it is on there and we feature it in our sales talk.

X-Q. 125. Is the name "Lorillard" featured on any 1470 of those packages of cigarettes?

A. Yes, I would say it is, it is on there.

X-Q. 126. When you can't see it when you are five feet away from it, would you say the name "Lorillard" was featured on that package of Murads or on the package of any of those other brands when it is not on there big enough so you can see it when within five feet of it?

A. I would say it is featured on there, because the Lorillard name is on every package of these so-called S. Anargyros brand of cigarettes.

X-Q. 127. As a matter of fact, Mr. Goldstein, isn't it the brand of the cigarette, Murad or Moguls or London Lifes, the people ask for? 1471

A. As a rule the ordinary consumer does, yes.

X-Q. 128. Isn't it the brand that sells the particular cigarette?

A. Sure, it is the trade name that sells it, but the average consumer that calls for that trade name knows it is a product of the Lorillard Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 129. How did the sales of the new product, Beech-Nut cigarettes, when they were first put on, compare with the volume of sales of the other brands you mentioned as having taken part in introducing?

A. Well, do you refer to the sales of Beech-Nut 1472 cigarettes in the territory I work?

X-Q. 130. Yes, only in the territory you observed.

A. During the time I was here in charge of the campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes I always classed them as fourth sellers.

X-Q 131. What do you mean by that?

A. I mean by that the leading seller, first seller, was Camels, the second seller was Lucky Strike, the third seller was Chesterfields and the fourth seller was Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 132. But, as compared with the other new brands of cigarettes put out by the Lorillard Company, 1473 did you find that the Beech-Nut cigarette sold more easily at the start than other brands you had put on first?

A. No, I can't say that it did. I worked on a brand, Nebo cigarettes, the first brand Lorillard manufactured after the dissolution, and Nebos in six weeks from the time we put them on the Chicago market were the largest selling brand on the market at that time. So I cannot say Beech-Nut cigarettes outsold any of the other new brands.

X-Q. 133. Did any of these new brands that you took part in introducing, fail as a commercial brand?

1474 A. Well, I could not exactly say whether they failed. Most of these brands are still being manufactured and are scattered throughout the United States. In some places the sales are a little larger in volume than other places, but to my knowledge all of the so-called brands I have mentioned are still being manufactured by P. Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 134. None of them have been discontinued?

A. Not to my knowledge, no sir.

X-Q. 135. What was your district while you were stationed here at Milwaukee?

A. Well, when I came to Milwaukee I took charge
1475 of the entire state of Wisconsin excluding the points around the extreme northern end, which was under the supervision of Minneapolis, Minnesota. During the Beech-Nut campaign my territory was confined to Milwaukee county, Waukesha County, Racine County and Kenosha County.

X-Q. 136. And was the rest of the state taken out from under your charge during the Beech-Nut campaign?

A. As far as Beech-Nut cigarettes were concerned, yes, sir, but I still had maintained my regular territory on the Turkish brands we manufactured.

1476 X-Q. 137. On all of the brands except Beech-Nut?

A. On all of the brands except Beech-Nut.

X-Q. 138. Then am I correct in understanding that for general purposes the whole state of Wisconsin is one district except the northern part which goes into the Minneapolis district?

A. Yes, sir, it did at that time, during 1921. Of course, I am unable to say whether it is managed that way now.

X-Q. 139. Was the state of Wisconsin sub-divided into smaller districts during the Beech-Nut cigarette campaign?

A. Well, you see there were during 1921 three head 1477 salesmen in the territory and that consisted of the tobacco department head salesman, the scrap department head salesman and the Turkish brand head salesman, and in order to get an immediate distribution the entire state was divided among us three.

X-Q. 140. That is the usual state of Wisconsin district was divided into three parts?

A. Three territories.

X-Q. 141. For the purpose of the Beech-Nut campaign?

A. For the purpose of getting a thorough distribution as quick as possible.

X-Q. 142. Was the Beech-Nut cigarette campaign 1478 started and continued during the same period of time in all three of the Wisconsin districts?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 143. What, just in general, were the other two districts? That is, what parts of the state?

A. Well, I really couldn't tell you just exactly what counties they took in.

X-Q. 144. I didn't mean by counties, but as for instance the eastern part or western part, north of your district—

A. Well, I believe that the part north of Racine and 1479
Kenosha county was handled by Mr. Marks, who was a scrap man.

X-Q. 145. Is that the district immediately north of Milwaukee, you mean?

A. I believe so, and his pivot point I think was Green Bay.

XQ. 146. Green Bay then was in Mr. Marks' district?

A. I believe it was.

X-Q. 147. And Appleton?

A. No, I am not positive whether Appleton was in 1480 Mr. Marks' district, but I imagine it would have been, because when I was given my territory I was given my four counties and really paid no attention as to what the other men drew, as far as territories were concerned.

X-Q. 148. And Manitowoc?

A. Manitowoc, I think, was in Mr. Marks' territory.

X-Q. 149. And Sheboygan?

A. I believe that would go in his territory.

X-Q. 150. What else, in outline, was the other district?

A. The other district, I believe, is what was called the western side of the state and that was held by Mr. Frank Hopewell. His pivot point, I believe, was Madison 1481 Wisconsin. That was the largest point in this territory.

X-Q. 151. What crews did you have in your district for this special Beech-Nut campaign—cigarette campaign?

A. You mean the amount of salesmen I had?

X-Q. 152. Yes.

A. There were five, including myself.

X-Q. 153. Was that all one crew?

A. Yes, sir. I had three retail salesmen and one was working for Mr. Frank Hopewell, formerly in the Milwaukee territory, was put under my supervision at the 1482 time.

X-Q. 154. Did you have any other crews beside these four men and yourself, working under you?

A. During the Beech-Nut campaign?

X-Q. 155. During the special introductory campaign of the Beech-Nut cigarettes.

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 156. Did you have the same four men right through the campaign?

A. Well, there was one man resigned, prior to the termination of the campaign, and I continued with three retail salesmen.

X-Q. 157. Will you give me the names of these four men, please? 1483

A. They were a Mr. Gimbel—

X-Q. 158. Do you know his initials?

A. E. A. Gimbel, and W. C. Jackson and a Mr. William New—he was with me a short time, and a Mr. M. J. Schimmel.

X-Q. 159. Taking Mr. Gimbel, of these four men you have just named, do you know how long he had been with the Lorillard Company before that?

A. Well, when I acquired the Milwaukee territory I had no memorandums turned over to me as to the exact date of his employment, but I understand he was with 1484 our company about four or five years.

X-Q. 160. He was an experienced man then in your company's employ?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 161. Do you know where he is now?

A. I couldn't say. I haven't been in touch with him since I have left this territory.

X-Q. 162. Is he still in the employ of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir, he left our employ since, and I couldn't tell you where he is located.

X-Q. 163. W. C. Jackson, was he with the Lorillard 1485 Company before that?

A. I understand about a year and a half.

X-Q. 164. In what territory immediately before that, do you know?

A. I believe he had been, ever since his employment with the company in the Wisconsin territory.

X-Q. 165. Do you know what territory Mr. Gimbel had been in immediately before that campaign?

A. In the Wisconsin territory also.

X-Q. 166. Is Mr. Jackson still in the employ of the P. Lorillard Company?

1486 A. No, sir.

X-Q. 167. Do you know where he is now?

A. I couldn't say.

X-Q. 168. Mr. New, do you know whether he was with the P. Lorillard Company before that campaign?

A. No, sir, I employed Mr. New about two weeks prior to the introductory campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 169. About two weeks before?

A. About two weeks prior to that.

X-Q. 170. Was he a tobacco man?

A. No, he was hired to work Helmar cigarettes.

1487 X-Q. 171. I mean, had he had previous experience in the tobacco trade?

A. From the information I was able to get from him and some of the references he had gotten for me prior to his employment, he had selling experience, but no tobacco experience.

X-Q. 172. Is he still with the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir, he resigned about seven weeks, I believe, after the date he was employed.

X-Q. 173. Why did he resign?

A. He went into the railroad game. He formerly was selling and soliciting freight business for some 1488 railroad and I understood he was going back into that business.

X-Q. 174. Did you have the hiring and firing of these men, this crew?

A. Why, yes. We pick our prospects, line up their references, send in what we call their employment papers regular form to fill out, and request our New York office to grant us permission to employ whatever particular prospect it may be, and if their references we have mailed in meet with the approval of our superiors they usually wire or write us, "It is O. K. to employ Mr. So-and-so."

X-Q. 175. Did you request Mr. New to resign? 1489

A. No, sir, he resigned of his own accord.

X-Q. 176. Had there been any complaint or dissatisfaction with his work while he was with you?

A. Absolutely none.

X-Q. 177. Had Mr. Schimmel previously been with the P. Lorillard Company before this campaign?

A. Yes, I believe he was with them about nine months.

X-Q. 178. In what territory?

A. In the Milwaukee territory.

X-Q. 179. Was he an experienced man in the tobacco trade?

A. Yes, sir. 1490

X-Q. 180. Is he still with the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, he is working under the supervision of Mr. Frank Hopewell.

X-Q. 181. Which one of these four is the one that you say you took over from Mr. Hopewell's previous district?

A. Mr. Schimmel.

X-Q. 182. During the course of your campaign did you have any other men under you for the Lorillard Company at all?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 183. Not even temporarily? 1491

A. No, sir. There was a window man here who worked under the supervision of Mr. Frank Hopewell in the window trimming department, Mr. Smith, but he was not working under my supervision, but h had assisted me in putting in our regular window trims.

X-Q. 184. What were Mr. Smith's initials?

A. I can't say just exactly what his initials were because he never worked under my supervision, but I always addressed him as "Mr. Smith" and he addressed me as "Mr. Goldstein".

X-Q. 185. In working your district, Mr. Goldstein, 1492 how did you assign these four men that you have just named?

A. There was not any particular territory assigned to any of the men, due to the fact we wanted to get our distribution as quickly as possible I thought it was essential to cover the main thoroughfares of the city first and I worked car-line streets only and routed the men daily. I started them from the central part of the city, commenced on a car-line and worked out to the end.

X-Q. 186. The same man go pretty much all the way out on one car-line?

A. Yes, if it happened to be Fond du Lac Avenue
1493 the same man would work Fond du Lac Avenue, but possibly the next day he would be working another end of the city.

X-Q. 187. Could you tell me just in outline just what principal car-lines Mr. Gimbel worked?

A. Well, he had worked Third Street, he had worked Center, he worked Grand, he worked Wisconsin, and such other small branch lines as lead off of these streets.

X-Q. 188. Can you name, just in outline, what car-lines Mr. Jackson worked?

A. Well, he had worked Center.

X-Q. 189. That is a different Center from the one Mr.
1494 Gimbel worked?

A. There is one west and one east.

X-Q. 190. Well, which, do you remember?

A. Mr. Jackson worked west. He had worked Oakland, East Water, West Water and also worked Third Street.

X-Q. 191. Is that the same Third that Mr. Gimbel worked?

A. Yes, sir. He also had worked Fond du Lac Avenue.

X-Q. 192. Which end of the Third Street car route was Mr. Jackson on?

A. He commenced on Grand Avenue and worked north. 1495

X-Q. 193. And was Mr. Gimbel on Third Street south?

A. Well, he had worked Third Street south, but the streets over there are very much cut up. He started at Grand Avenue and worked south and then he would cut off into possibly Mitchell and Eighth. I have been away from here now a year, but in my work on Anargyros cigarettes I personally covered very little of the outlying sections.

X-Q. 194. You didn't go out very much into the outlying sections?

A. Very, very seldom. 1496

X-Q. 195. About what percentage of your trade was in the outlying sections, roughly?

A. You mean, cigarette dealers?

X-Q. 196. Yes.

A. Well, on Beech-Nut cigarettes I would judge possibly—on domestic cigarettes of the character of Beech-Nuts I would judge possibly sixty-five per cent.

X-Q. 197. About sixty-five per cent. of the dealers were in the outlying districts?

A. On the Anargyros brands possibly about from twenty-five to thirty per cent.

X-Q. 198. Just quickly in outline can you give the car routes Mr. New worked? 1497

A. He had worked all car-lines practically on the south side of the city. I could not just name them. I know one of the principal ones was Mitchell Street.

X-Q. 199. He worked on routes these other men worked on also, did he?

A. He had also re-worked Third Street and had re-worked Walnut Street and Fond du Lac. They were pretty much scattered around, you know, changed around.

X-Q. 200. Walnut, did you say?

1498 A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 201. And Mr. Schimmel, just briefly?

A. Mr. Schimmel had a Ford car and due to that fact I assigned him to working all of the outlying sections off of Street cars commencing on the northwest side and his time was taken up considerably in helping me transfer around cigarettes to jobbers and placing up outdoor advertising in the immediate loop.

X-Q. 202. He had the outlying districts beyond the car-lines, you say, in general?

A. Yes, that is when he was not working with me.

X-Q. 203. Did you ever have any complaints in re-
1499 spect to any of these four men in your crew, as to the way they were presenting Beech-Nut cigarettes to the dealers?

A. How do you mean? From retail dealers or jobbers?

X-Q. 204. From anybody.

A. Never.

X-Q. 205. Did you ever have to caution them as to their methods?

A. Well, no, I never had to caution them because I had at different times during the campaign joint dealings with them which we call schooling meetings, and 1500 brought out just how I wanted them to approach the retail dealers and how I wished them to approach the consumer, and by checking up their work I found my instructions were followed out very closely.

X-Q. 206. Did you ever have any complaints as to the work of Mr. Gimbel?

A. Never.

X-Q. 207. As to the way he was offering these Beech-Nut cigarettes to the dealer?

A. Never.

X-Q. 208. Found no fault at all?

A. No, sir, he was a very thorough man.

X-Q. 209. Did you have any complaints in regard to 1501
Mr. Jackson?

A. None, whatsoever.

X-Q. 210. Did you ever have to warn Mr. Jackson?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 211. In regard to his methods of selling Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A No, sir.

X-Q. 212. Did you ever have any complaints in regard to Mr. New?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 213. Did you ever have to warn Mr. New?

A. No, sir. 1502

X-Q. 214. Did you ever have any complaints in regard to Mr. Schimmel?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 215. Did you ever have to warn Mr. Schimmel?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 216. Did the P. Lorillard Company ever send you any instructions to instruct the salesmen not to put forward these Beech-Nut cigarettes as a product of the gum people?

A. Well, I had received a letter—the only instructions, what I might call instructions were prior to the opening of this campaign, I was called to Chicago, my 1503 letter was signed by my general sales manager in charge of the Turkish cigarette department, Mr. C. C. Auld to meet a Mr. E. J. Bush in Chicago.

X-Q 217. When was this?

A. This was prior to September 26th, 1921.

X-Q. 218. What was Mr. Auld's position?

A. At that time general sales manager of the Turkish department.

X-Q. 219. Was he manager of the Turkish sales in Chicago?

1504 A. No, throughout the United State, from what I understand.

X-Q. 220. Will you please tell what took place at that meeting, in regard to instructions?

A. I went over there and met Mr. E. J. Bush and a Mr. Fitzsimmons who had charge of the Beech-Nut scrap business and a Mr. Everett Meyer who had charge of the tobacco department for the central western states and at this meeting we were allotted our respective territories we were to cover on Beech-Nut cigarettes and all of the head salesmen present at this meeting were given a sales talk, and our attention was particularly 1505 called to the fact that in marketing Beech-Nut cigarettes we should not meet with any trouble because we had such wonderful brands as Beech-Nut scrap to call to the retailer's attention that we were the manufacturers of, that had made such tremendous success and we had such brands as Murad, Egyptian Dieties, Helmars and Moguls, they were the leaders in their respective class, and in mentioning these brands to the retail dealers, we would no doubt get a quicker co-operation from them. The entire talk was along those lines, explaining how they wanted us to sample, how they wanted the advertising to be placed, and that just about terminated our 1506 campaign. Of course, the meeting lasted practically all morning, but the entire meeting was based on those lines.

X-Q. 221. Do you remember the date of that meeting?

A. I believe it was about three days prior to the time we had opened up our campaign in Wisconsin.

X-Q. 222. Did you receive a letter from P. Lorillard Company calling that meeting?

A. Just as I have mentioned, I received a letter from our general sales manager advising me to meet Mr. E. A. Bush in Chicago, and mentioning a certain date, and to be guided by any instructions he might give me, which was the customary way of the company doing business.

X-Q. 223. Did you ever receive from the P. Lorillard Company written instructions for yourself or to be relayed to your salesmen as to the way you should present these cigarettes to the market and to refrain from letting the idea be given that they were put out by the gum people? 1307

A. I never received any written instructions, because I imagine the company didn't think it necessary.

X-Q. 224. Did you at any time receive a written or printed letter or circular giving you such instructions or warning to be careful in that regard?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 225. You have never at any time received such a letter or circular? 1308

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 226. Did you ever write or issue a circular letter warning your salesmen?

A. No, sir. At these meetings that I had with my salesmen everything was done in person, because I was right here with them all of the time and I called their attention to the way I wanted them to present Beech-Nut cigarettes in the trade. I instructed them that in introducing themselves to the trade I wanted them to make it clearly understood to the retailer that they were representatives of P. Lorillard Company who manufactured Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and such other brands as Murads, Egyptian Deities, and Helmar and also Mogul and then tell them, "We are now putting on a new brand of cigarettes called Beech-Nut cigarettes, which is the latest addition to the numerous trade marks we already have on the market." 1309

X-Q. 227. Do you ever receive circular letters from the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, I received circular letters in regards to different methods of sampling, or maybe received a circular from the general sales manager telling us what he had 1510 seen in other territories that would be beneficial in promoting larger sales on our products.

X-Q. 228. You have been, you say, ten or eleven years with the P. Lorillard Company. From your experience with that company, isn't it usual for them to send such a circular or letter in regard to anything which they want to impress upon their salesmen?

A. As I say, if they had something they wanted to impress upon us in regard to new methods of working or new methods of sampling or advertising they would write us about it and send us out a regular circular letter, or possibly a circular letter from the sales 1511 manager requesting us to read such letter to our retail salesman.

X-Q. 229. If the general sales manager of the P. Lorillard Company or any branch of the Home Office had wished to impress these instructions upon you, wouldn't you have expected some letter or circular on it?

By Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to, as the witness is not competent to answer this. He is not supposed to know what is in the minds of the officials of the Lorillard Company as to what 1512 they regard as important.

(Last question read to the witness).

A. Well, in this particular case I would not because the company—

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 230. Just in general.

A. As I say, in general I would not expect instructions of this kind because the company knows that the men in their employment in charge of territories are well acquainted with the products of the Lorillard Company, and we all know that Beech-Nut scrap is one of our famous trade mark brands and that naturally they would not be sending us instructions telling us we should not mention anybody else's product with them. I imagine if the company had to send me instructions of that kind they would immediately dispense with my services. 1513

X-Q. 231. About how often, Mr. Goldstein, did you hold these meetings of your salesmen in your district?

A. Well, incidentally these instructions were given to them practically from day to day or every other day. These instructions were given to them practically continuously. 1514

X-Q. 232. You spoke of having meetings at which you gave instructions.

A. The instruction meetings I referred to are little meetings held prior to the time the men started out to work in the morning.

X-Q. 233. Then these meetings you speak of for the purpose of giving instructions were informal times when you came together in the morning before beginning your day's work?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 234. You said on direct examination, I believe, that at these meetings you specially told the salesmen that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were a Lorillard product, is that right? 1515

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 235. Now, why was that necessary to tell four Lorillard salesmen that one of the products which your company was putting out was their own product?

A. Well, we not only do that with Beech-Nuts, we do it with all brands. We go to a retail dealer we naturally call attention to the fact it is a Lorillard 1516 product to bring attention to which manufacturer is producing the cigarettes.

X-Q. 236. This is the salesmen you said you were talking to?

A. These instructions were relayed to them so they in turn could relay the information to the retail dealers. As I said in that direct examination, I had read in the newspapers and also in the tobacco journal there was some sort of case going on on the question of trade marks, and I didn't want any possibility of confusion in my territory, and I took it upon myself to enlighten the men, figuring possibly they might run across some 1517 dealer who, when they first mentioned Beech-Nut to him might say, "Who made this, the Beech-Nut Packing Company?" I wanted to avoid all of that and therefore gave them their instructions.

X-Q. 237. As I understood you to say, you specially told your salesmen that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were a Lorillard product. Did you think that even your own salesmen were in uncertainty as to the origin of these cigarettes?

A. Absolutely not, because my salesmen that worked for me prior to this campaign had heard of Beech-Nut cigarettes and the success they were meeting with in the 1518 east and the numerous requests they had had from retail dealers as to when they would be able to get them. They knew it was a product of the Lorillard Company, and the reason I had given these instructions was to avoid any possibility of confusion.

X-Q. 238. Had you found some confusion?

A. Absolutely none.

X-Q. 239. Then isn't it peculiar you should have thought it necessary every day to repeat these instructions, when you found no confusion at all out in the trade?

A. These instructions were only given to them as to Beech-Nuts, but instructions were given to them it 1519 was a product of the Lorillard Company, that was done in order to impress on the retail dealer that we were the manufacturers of successful brands and therefore wanted to bring out the fact we were again making a new brand of cigarette and to impress on the retail dealer it was a Lorillard brand.

X-Q. 240. As you have gone about in your day's work during the weeks of this Beech-Nut cigarette campaign did you have any questions asked you as to who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I never had a consumer or retailer ask me that question because when I personally approached a 1520 retailer or wholesaler I made it understood at the start that I was representing Lorillard Company, manufacturers of Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarettes. Only in one case I stopped a consumer who I had seen smoking a cigarette and as usual I would walk up to any man, possibly yourself if I saw you on the street smoking a cigarette, I would say, "Pardon me, I notice you indulge in cigarettes and I would like very much to present you with a package of cigarettes manufactured by the P. Lorillard Company", and this man stopped and he said, "I wouldn't smoke that cigarette manufactured by people who have to resort to burglary." And I said, 1521
"You are all wrong on that, where did you get that information?" He said, "I have a friend of mine who sells Beech-Nut gum and he told me that." I said, "I am telling you he is all wrong, I would like to get his name and I would like to have a meeting with him and possibly yourself." I said, "We have manufactured Beech-Nut scrap for a great number of years, to my knowledge, and the gentleman that told you that has absolutely told you something false that would hurt the prospect of the promotion of this brand." "Nevertheless", I said, "I wouldn't like to have you feel that way about it, I would 1522 like to have you accept this package of cigarettes and give them a good trial, you will find them a very fine quality of cigarette." That was the only case I had ever had where a man mentioned Beech-Nut gum or Beech-Nut products to me.

X-Q. 241. Is that the way you approached Mr. E. R. Lewis and his friend who was with him the day you have told about in your direct examination in the Loop Cigar Store?

A. I did not approach Mr. Lewis—I was introduced to Mr. Lewis.

X-Q. 242. Well, did you open up with similar remarks
1523 that you say you used to every one that you met, "I am a Lorillard man"—

A. No, I didn't say I was a Lorillard man, I said I represent the Lorillard Company, manufacturers of these cigarettes. When I met Mr. Lewis I was introduced to him by Mr. Tuckwell as a Lorillard representative and there was not any necessity of my telling him that, he knew that, and I was told he was the Beech-Nut Packing Company man.

X-Q. 243. To go back to these instructions, I understood you to say on your direct examination that you told your salesmen that these Beech-Nut cigarettes were 1524 of a high quality and emphasized to them the quality of the cigarette, is that correct?

A. You mean, our salesmen?

X-Q. 244. Yes, in your meetings that you have described.

A. Well, I told them the Beech-Nut cigarettes were a very high quality domestic cigarette.

X-Q. 245. Now, are you familiar in general with the Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. None other than the fact I know they manufacture Beech-Nut bacon and Beech-Nut gum.

X-Q. 246. Have you seen their products in stores at different places?

A. Well, in the character of stores I call on I don't 1525 see any Beech-Nut bacon, but I do see Beech-Nut gum.

X-Q. 247. Have you seen their advertising in magazines and posters and bill boards and such?

A. I read very little magazines, therefore have never noticed any advertising. As far as bill boards, I have never seen a Beech-Nut bill board. I have seen little ads, and window displays which I would call window screens, set up by the salesman who worked the territory.

X-Q. 248. You have seen considerable Beech-Nut Packing Company advertising, haven't you?

A. These screens I mention, which I believe carried a picture of their factory or their different machineries 1526 they manufacture with. I have never taken pains enough to see what the ad represented, but I knew it was a Beech-Nut ad.

X-Q. 249. You get about a great deal, don't you, Mr. Goldstein?

A. In cigar stores only.

X-Q. 250. But you have to get about from store to store, don't you?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 251. You must pass a great many sign boards?

A. I do.

X-Q. 252. A great many windows? 1527

A. I do.

X-Q. 253. And is it possible for you to say you haven't seen any great amount of Beech-Nut Packing Company's advertising?

A. I say I have seen Beech-Nut screens, but I don't ever recollect seeing a Beech-Nut bill board.

X-Q. 254. You know that the key word of all Beech-Nut Company's advertising is quality of the goods?

By Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to as being improper cross-examination, as nothing was 1528 said about the quality of Beech-Nut goods or their standing, on direct examination, and furthermore this witness is absolutely not competent to answer any such questions.

The Witness: No, sir, I can't say that I do. I have never had any occasion to hear that and I never met any Beech-Nut representative outside of the fact I met Mr. Lewis and during that conversation he never mentioned to me their trade name or mark was "quality".

X-Q. 255. Didn't you know when you emphasized to 1529 your salesmen the word "quality" in connection with these Beech-Nut cigarettes, you were putting in their hands the very material for connecting this product up with the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

By Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to as absolutely improper. There is nothing in the record to show that this Beech-Nut Packing Company is the possessor and sole owner of the common, every day, wholesome English word "quality" for food products, chewing gum or what not, let alone tobacco.

1530 Mr. Johnson: Answer the question, please.

A. No, sir, I didn't know that I was using any of their words that they may control or phrases they may control, as I had used the word "quality" in practically every brand I sample. When I sample Murads I bring out the point very clear, "Murad cigarettes contain the highest quality of Turkish tobacco on the market", and I have used that word ever since I have been in the cigarette business.

Adjournment Taken to 2:00 o'clock p. m. this day.

January 30th, 1923, 2:00 p. m.

Met pursuant to adjournment, parties appearing as before.

WILLIAM GOLDSTEIN resumes the stand for further cross-examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 256. I understood, Mr. Goldstein, on your direct examination, that you told your salesman from time to 1532 time to put these cartons of Beech-Nut cigarettes on the shelves in stores. Did you caution them at that time to avoid having them put right alongside the Beech-Nut Packing Company's product in the same store?

A. They were not told to put them on a shelf. My instructions to them were to get the dealer, after he succeeded in selling a carton or two for cash,—if possible to get the retail dealer to put them on the cigar case, which is the first place the consumer coming in the store would be likely to see the brand.

X-Q. 257. Don't your salesmen place these things in stores that keep general lines of goods as well as cigar 1533 stores only?

A. Oh, yes, if they just happen to run across possibly a stationery store or grocery store that may happen to handle cigarettes, but as a rule a cigarette salesman is not going around calling on grocery stores or other lines of merchants that carry cigarettes outside of drug stores or cigar stores or confectionery shops or soft drink parlors, just look for cigarette dealers in places that do business of that kind.

X-Q. 258. Haven't you found dealers of cigarettes in the small towns or the general stores?

1534 A. Yes, in the smaller towns, but I personally have had little dealings in the smaller towns for the reason I have always worked the Anargyros brand of cigarettes, with the exception of the special campaign.

X-Q. 259. The Beech-Nut cigarette being a cheaper cigarette, did you not expect they would be carried by a greater variety of stores?

A. Absolutely.

X1Q. 260. Did you ever caution your salesmen about that, having them placed alongside of the Beech-Nut Packing Company products?

A. I don't recall ever mentioning in my conversation
1535 to any salesman the Beech-Nut products, outside of the fact when I talked to them I said, "The reason I want you folks to mention particularly Lorillard Company and Beech-Nut scrap and other brands, I do not want any confusion about the Beech-Nut name or some other article made under the Beech-Nut label."

X-Q. 261. Were you able to go with your salesmen in very many cases to see how they carried out your instructions?

A. At times when I got a little time away from calling on my jobbers and downtown dealers I spent a little time with them but mostly I went around and checked over 1536 their work from their daily reports.

X-Q. 262. Could you say about what percentage of cases you were able to watch what your salesmen were actually doing?

A. Well, possibly in twenty per cent of the sales they made.

X-Q. 263. Do you mean that you went with them in about twenty per cent of the visits?

A. No, not with them, but about twenty per cent of the merchants they had sold cigarettes to, twenty per cent of the most important merchants I had gone around later on and inquired as to the success of the brand, and to look around to see how they had placed the adver- 1537

tising material.

X-Q. 264. But in what portion of the cases were you able to go in with the salesmen?

A. Oh, very small, about possibly five per cent of the dealers they called on.

X-Q. 265. Then have you any means of knowing what your salesman said or did when he went into these stores to place Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Only in the places where I personally was in the store when they called on the retail dealer.

X-Q. 266. You had very little means of knowing then what the salesman had actually said or done at those 1538 times?

A. Yes, I had means of knowing. When I called on the retail dealer my remarks were as a rule along this line. I would go in there and introduce myself as Mr. Goldstein, the representative of the Lorillard Company, and, "I am interested in the marketing of this brand and looking after the interests of the Beech-Nut cigarettes and I came in to find out whether you carried this brand on hand." And he said, "Yes", and I said, "Did my salesman place advertising material here?" or "I don't see any around." The chances are in placing up material the retail dealer will jerk down the advertising 1539 matter after the retail saelsman leaves, so to make sure whether he has any on his report I would inquire to that effect, but as a rule if a salesman did anything out of the ordinary, that the retail dealer would not expect a salesman to do, he would naturally tell me about it.

X-Q. 267. Didn't you hear any inquiries from any of these dealers of any kind, on their part, as to whether the Beech-Nut Gum people were putting out these cigarettes?

A. Never.

X-Q. 268. But is it not true that you had very little opportunity yourself to observe what your salesmen said 1540 and did when they went in to make sales of the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Only in the places I was with them.

X-Q. 269. Is that not true, you had very little opportunity yourself to observe what your salesman said or did?

A. I have considerable opportunity in the places I was with them and where I had inquired in regard to their work and how they had conducted their work.

X-Q. 270. But when you only went with them in perhaps five per cent as you have said, of their visits, you yourself had very little opportunity, did you not, for ob-1541 serving what they said and did at those times?

A. Yes, but I could judge from that five per cent when I worked with my salesmen in the most important sales of my territory, and when I judged that five per cent I could almost figure out exactly how they had conducted their work and duties in the remaining ninety-five per cent.

X-Q. 271. But how can you know what the salesman said or did at that time if you were not there?

A. Well, it has always been the policy with our company to train our salesmen to do their work and conduct the business along the lines laid out by the company and 1542 their head salesman. We have always felt if the salesman is properly trained by the head salesman, in ninety-nine per cent of the cases he conducts his work along that line.

X-Q. 272. Did you ever accompany this salesman, W. C. Jackson, you have mentioned, on any of his visits?

A. Did I ever accompany Mr. Jackson?

X-Q. 273. Yes.

A. Yes, I have.

X-Q. 274. Do you know the C. H. Beese grocery store at 701 Murray Avenue?

A. Just know of them, only within the last week or ten days. I went out to see what character of store it was, but Mr. Beese is not in there any more. 1543

X-Q. 275. What was the reason for your going out there?

A. Well, I just went out to see whether that particular dealer was located on any of the routes I had worked my salesmen on.

X-Q. 276. What did you find in that respect?

A. I found I never routed a salesman to work that part of Murray Avenue. The store does not directly face a car-line, and a salesman who works that territory was not to work that particular store.

X-Q. 277. What car-line is that on? 1544

A. The side of the building facing on Folsom, if I am not mistaken, and the front of the building facing directly on Murray Avenue which hasn't a car-line and if the salesman was over there he was off his route.

X-Q. 278. What car-line route in general, as you have outlined them, is that on?

A. The closest to that particular store?

X-Q. 279. Yes.

A. Oakland Avenue.

X-Q. 280. Did your man, Mr. Jackson, ever visit that store?

A. Not to my knowledge, he has not. 1545

X-Q. 281. Have you looked into that on your records?

A. On my records? Well, I wouldn't have any means of knowing on my records, the only way I would know is from the routes I had given him, unless he had gotten off his territory. Possibly he had, but if he stuck to his territory and was not loafing on the job, he was not there. I know we had never sold that gentleman any cigarettes and it is most likely he was not in there, because the dealer from the information I got from the dealer out there, Mr. Beese did not carry any cigarettes or tobacco products.

1546 X-Q. 282. But that is on the Oakland Avenue car-line, didn't you say?

A. No, it is not on the Oakland Avenue car-line. It is a block from the car-line street, Oakland Avenue, or whatever street it is, is a block west of there—or north of there.

X-Q. 283. It is in the territory of the Oakland Avenue car-line?

A. It is in the vicinity, but a salesman may be routed to work East Water Street and cross East Water, say from Sycamore to Grand and not touch any of the corner stores on Grand Avenue, but adhere strictly to Third 1547 Street or East Water Street.

X-Q. 284. When you say, Mr. Goldstein, on your direct examination, that your salesman would do this and would do that, how could you possibly know that your salesman certainly did such things as you said?

A. The reason I take it for granted they did, is because of the continuous checking I did, which was one of the most important duties in my work, checking my salesmen up to see if they are following out my instructions. If they were not, I would have dispensed with their services.

X-Q. 285. You did take it for granted?

1548 A. Absolutely, because I never found any of my salesmen doing otherwise.

X-Q. 286. It was a mere guess on your part?

A. No, it was no guess at all, absolute positive checking from records of what they do, and inquiring from different people they come in contact with.

By Mr. Johnson: This last answer is objected to, except the first sentence, as not responsive.

X-Q. 287. You introduced some order slips, Mr. Goldstein. Were these always issued when your salesman made a sale of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. When they made a cash sale they left the retail dealer what is known as the white slip, which I consider the original, and he brought the duplicate attached to his duplicate daily report for my records and kept a tissue paper copy for his records. And when he sold through a jobber he brought me back the original to turn in to the jobber for delivery and left the retailer the duplicate yellow slip to show that the retail dealer had purchased the goods and signed for them, and the white slip he brought back attached to his daily report for my records. 2342

X-Q. 288. Did your salesmen always issue these order slips?

A. Absolutely. 2343

X-Q. 289. Did you ever have any trouble with them about their failing to do that?

A. Not to my recollection.

X-Q. 290. Do tobacco jobbers have order slips of a similar character to that, with their own name at the top?

A. You mean similar to?

X-Q. 291. Yes.

A. No, I don't recollect any jobber having forms of this kind. They usually have a large bill head.

X-Q. 292. But of the same character? 2344

A. No, I don't think so. In fact, I have never seen one.

X-Q. 293. Did the Lorillard Company or your department organize any daily or weekly or monthly competitions among your salesmen to induce increased sales or make an offer to the man who would make the most sales in a given period?

A. Not in my territory, no, sir.

X-Q. 294. Have you heard of that being done in connection with these Brook-Nat cigarettes?

1552 A. I heard indirectly, with other salesmen, there were other salesmen that worked competitive districts like that.

X-Q. 295. Was there any of that in the state of Wisconsin?

A. I couldn't say.

X-Q. 296. Were any other kinds of inducements or bonuses offered to your salesmen or to your jobbers' salesmen?

A. Yes, the jobbers' salesmen and the jobber received a circular letter telling that from September the 26th up until some time in November he would receive 1553 twenty-five cents a thousand on each thousand Beech-Nut cigarettes sold to the retail dealer, and my salesmen and myself were offered a bonus on all of the introductory business we had obtained on Beech-Nut cigarttes.

X-Q. 297. Have you a copy of that circular you speak of?

A. No, I have not. All my correspondence that transpired between the company and myself was destroyed when I left Milwaukee, Wisconsin, as I didn't want to carry all of this stuff along. It was really unimportant and I destroyed it upon leaving Milwaukee 1554 for Chicago.

X-Q. 298. Can you tell me if it was similar to some circulars that are now on exhibit in this case?

Mr. Cavanagh: That question is objected to as improper cross-examination, as this witness did not testify on direct as to anything in connection with these circulars. Counsel for Lorillard Company is willing to allow all latitude of cross examination, but sees no sense in going so far afield.

By Mr. Johnson: This witness was avowedly put on to explain the methods of distribution of the Lorillard products.

By Mr. Cavanagh: Witness was put on to explain the method of introducing the matter to the trade, not any question between the Lorillard Company and salesmen on any bonus proposition, if that is what Mr. Johnson is after. 1555

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 299. I show you three circular letters marked Plaintiff's Exhibit #12-A, # 12-B and #12-C. Will you tell me whether the circular which was sent to jobber salesmen in this district were similar to this, just in general. 1556

A. (Witness looking at same) I don't recollect this circular (referring to Exhibit 12-C) ever being mailed to any particular jobbers in this state. This (referring to Exhibit 12-A) is a similar circular; was mailed advising the jobbers in the state of Wisconsin Beech-Nut cigarettes were being introduced and making a blanket offer. This is the exhibit here (indicating).

X-Q. 300. Plaintiff's Exhibit 12-A?

A. Yes, but the dates were different on that.

X-Q. 301. Did the circulars that came into this district of this character, offering this additional compensation to the salesmen for selling Beech-Nut cigarettes, contain any warning to the salesmen not to take any chances in having the Beech-Nut cigarettes put forward as a product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company? 1557

A. Well, the circular, to my recollection, spoke of nothing else but Lorilard's Beech-Nut cigarettes and what they requested of the jobbers or wished jobbers to do for them in helping market Beech-Nut cigarettes, the only instruction I recollect put on there was not to sell any one dealer any big quantity, I would suggest not over five thousand, which was in order to keep the merchandise fresh in the dealer's stock.

1558 X-Q. 302. Then, do I understand you that this special inducement to increase sales was made without any warning being issued at the same time of the danger of confusion among the consuming public?

A. Well, this circular did not go to the jobber salesmen, it just went to the jobber and the jobber in turn—Lorillard has no connection in the course of their business with the jobber salesmen—

By Mr. Johnson: Objection to this as not responsive.

(Last question read).

1559

A. There was not any warning of confusion or anything given in the circular.

X-Q. 303. In your direct examination, Mr. Goldstein, you told about meeting Mr. E. R. Lewis of the Beech-Nut Packing Company. Will you please state again the first time you ever met him?

A. The first time I met him, Mr. Lewis, was some time after September 26th, shortly after we opened up the campaign, in a store known as the Loop Smoke Shop, which is on East Water Street, near Wisconsin, and to my knowledge Mr. Lewis and another gentle-

1560 man, that I was not interested in until later on, were in this store when I came in, I should judge about nine o'clock in the morning.

X-Q. 304. Were you introduced to the other gentleman?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 305. Not at all?

A. Not at all.

X-Q. 306. Did you talk to the other gentleman?

A. No, sir, our conversation was purely and only with Mr. Lewis.

X-Q. 307. Do you remember what the other gentleman looked like?

A. Well, I didn't take any particular pains to find out. I was more or less in a hurry and had an appointment with jobbers and had a very brief conversation with Mr. Lewis, and the fact Mr. Lewis didn't make any attempt or Mr. Tuckwell did not make any attempt to introduce me to him, I didn't pay any particular attention to him. 1561

X-Q. 308. Do you remember seeing Mr. Lewis before at any time?

A. Not to my knowledge, I don't. I possibly saw him, but didn't know the gentleman.

X-Q. 309. Didn't you and he visit the same trade, to a great extent? 1562

A. Well, yes, I imagine we do, because practically every cigar store carries the candy and the gum that he sells, but I don't ever recollect running across him in any of the stores until this particular time I was introduced to him.

X-Q. 310. But you and he were practically running in and out of the same offices a great deal?

A. The same dealers?

X-Q. 311. Yes.

A. That may have been, I couldn't say, but I don't ever recollect noticing him.

X-Q. 312. It is quite possible he may have noticed you even if you didn't notice him? 1563

A. That may be. Lots of people may have noticed me that I don't know. I couldn't account for the things he sees.

X-Q. 313. He might even have said, "Hello," to you a great many of times without you remembering it?

A. I don't recall it, because any man saying "Hello" to me, I would try to find out who he was or at least I would make some remark to him, such as, "You look familiar to me, but I can't just place you," or something like that, to find out whether he recognizes me.

1561 X-Q. 314. What was the next meeting that you remember between yourself and Mr. Lewis?

A. The next meeting was in the store known as Kerns & Sons cigar store, directly across from the Loop Smoke Shop.

X-Q. 315. When was that?

A. Oh, I should judge possibly sometime during the month or the early part of October. I can't just say the exact date, because I had no object at that time to remember the dates of meeting him. Just a casual meeting in the store.

X-Q. 316. Do you remember definitely which of those 1565 meetings came first?

A. The meeting where I was first introduced to him in the Loop Cigar Store, by Charles Tuckwell.

X-Q. 317. Are you sure of that?

A. Absolutely.

X-Q. 318. When was the other meeting you mentioned at Beck & Mahlsted's?

A. That was sometime, I should judge, the latter part of October in a city known as Kenosha, Wisconsin.

X-Q. 319. Can you think of any other circumstance that enables you to fix the date?

A. No, I could not. I was running in and out of Ken-1570 osha practically three or four times a week, in between Milwaukee, Kenosha and Racine. Those were the three largest points I had to work and I was running in and out of there right along.

X-Q. 320. That time you went to Chicago to the meeting called by Mr. Bush, was it?

A. The first meeting prior to the marketing of the Beech-Nut cigarette?

X-Q. 321. Yes, at the time of that meeting did you stop at Kenosha on your way back to Milwaukee?

A. No, I went directly to Chicago to meet Mr. Bush, because—

X-Q. 322. (Interrupting.) I mean from Chicago, coming back to Milwaukee, did you stop at Beck & Mahlsted at that time? 1567

A. Well, I don't recall whether or not I did, I don't just recall that.

X-Q. 323. How long before the start of the campaign was that, did you say?

A. I should judge about three days prior to September 26th.

X-Q. 324. You don't remember stopping there and telling a group of men in that office of the coming campaign?

A. I don't recall that. 1568

X-Q. 325. You don't recall seeing Mr. Lewis there at that time?

A. No, sir, I didn't know Mr. Lewis at that time.

X-Q. 326. When you came to Milwaukee to take this P. Lorillard position in January, 1921, you became rather a marked figure, didn't you, as holding a position of that kind with such a well known company?

A. Well, I wouldn't say a marked figure. I made it my business to become permanently acquainted with the people in position to do me some good in the furtherance of the sale of the brands I represented, yes.

X-Q. 327. That was one of your objects, to become well known? 1569

A. Among retail dealers and better class of consumers, yes.

X-Q. 328. It is quite possible, isn't it, that Mr. Lewis knew who you were very soon after you arrived?

A. He possibly knew who I was, but as I didn't know him I couldn't say. He may have known a lot of things I didn't know anything about.

X-Q. 329. Was I correct in understanding you to say

1570 that even after this time you met Mr. Lewis in the Loop Smoke Shop that you never saw him any other times except the three times you have mentioned?

A. Not to my recollection, no, sir.

X-Q. 330. You don't remember seeing him, even though you were in and out of the same dealers' offices frequently?

A. No, I don't recall ever seeing him or having any conversation other than the three times I have mentioned.

X-Q. 331. Did I understand you to say, Mr. Goldstein, in your direct examination, that you referred to 1571 Beech-Nut cigarettes in your conversation with Mr. Lewis, as one of the Beech-Nut lines?

A. Well, it came about in this way. Do you wish me to tell you just exactly how it was said and brought about?

X-Q. 332. Just answer the question, yes or no.

A. I was in this particular store, the first meeting when I presented Mr. Lewis with a package of Beech-Nut cigarettes. He was smoking a cigarette at that time and I said, "I notice you are a cigarette smoker, I would like to present you with a package of our Beech-Nut cigarettes and you will find the Beech-Nut cigarettes as 1572 high a quality of cigarette as the rest of the Beech-Nut line, particularly Beech-Nut scrap." That was the exact conversation regarding Beech-Nut line.

X-Q. 333. Did you make a practice of referring to the Beech-Nut line and meaning those Beech-Nut tobaccos and cigarettes put out by the Lorillard Company?

A. Absolutely not. The reason this line was mentioned was because Mr. Lewis had put a direct question to me prior to that as to whether or not we manufactured any other Beech-Nut goods and I had told him, "Yes, we manufacture a Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut plug, you have no doubt heard of them as the largest 1573 scrap tobacco dealers in the world." And he said, "Yes, I heard of Beech-Nut scrap in Pennsylvania several years ago." Then I made the remark, "You will find Beech-Nuts as high quality cigarettes as the rest of the Beech-Nut line, particularly Beech-Nut scrap."

X-Q. 334. Do you know Mr. Charles Tuckwell?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 335. Was he in the Lorillard Company while you were there?

A. Just what do you mean by that?

X-Q. 336. While you were in the Lorillard Company.

A. Was he employed by them? 1574

X-Q. 337. Yes.

A. Yes, he was employed by the Lorillard Company while I was in their employ, yes, but not since I have been in the Wisconsin territory.

X-Q. 338. Do you know why he left the Lorillard Company?

A. I couldn't say, I haven't any means of knowing that.

X-Q. 339. Did you see him often during the campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Oh, yes, practically when I was in town every day and sometimes two or three times a day. 1575

X-Q. 340. Was he a friend of yours?

A. Well, he is so far that he did everything he possibly could to help me increase my business here. I would consider that a friend, I would consider him a a very dear friend.

X-Q. 341. Was he friendly then to the Lorillard Company at the time you were introducing the these Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 342. Well, I couldn't say whether he was a friend of Lorillard Company, but I know he was friendly 1576 to their representatives and naturally he must have been friendly to the company.

X-Q. 343. Have people ever asked you if the Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Never.

X-Q. 344. You have never heard any comments or curiosity in regard to that question?

A. That was only once, and that was when I mentioned to you as the experience I had when I was sampling the comsumer. That is the only direct connection the consumer or anybody had brought out to me, mentioning 1577 the Beech-Nut Packing Co.

X-Q. 345. Did you ever make the statement that most people took Beech-Nut cigarettes to be a product of the gum people?

A. Absolutely not.

X-Q. 346. Did you ever make the statement that the Lorillard salesman could offer cigarettes as the product of the Beech-Nut gum people, that there were no instructions against it?

A. Absolutely not.

X-Q. 347. Why were you transferred to Chicago, Mr. Goldstein?

1578 A. Well, I will tell you just exactly why, the way it was explained to me. The early part of last year the Vice-president of our company, Mr. B. L. Belt, was there in Chicago and I had asked him what their motive was in coupling me up with another head salesman to assist him, and he says, "Why, because we feel you are the proper man for this territory, we are promoting you by putting you here." That is the information I received from one of the officials of the company, due to the fact Chicago is one of the largest, in fact the second largest, Turkish market we have, and I had a wider experience and was put in that territory.

X-Q. 348. Did the campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes 1579 continue after December 16th, 1921, when you left here?

A. Do you mean in Milwaukee?

X-Q. 349. In Wisconsin.

A. I couldn't say. I don't have any idea as to what line of work they did in this territory after I left here.

X-Q. 350. How long was the special introductory campaign announced for when you entered into it?

A. Well, it was not set for any definite date, but I was to work Beech-Nut cigarettes as my first leader until I was further advised.

X-Q. 351. Had the campaign been withdrawn at the time you left Milwaukee? 1580

A. No, sir.

Cross Examination Closed.

Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 352. In your cross-examination a few moments ago you refered to sampling the consumer. Will you just explain what you mean by that, how you proceeded to "sample the consumer" with Beech-Nut cigarettes?

1581

A. Well, what I mean by sampling the consumer, it has always been the policy of the Lorillard Tobacco Company to do as much work directly with the consumer as possible and in interviewing a consumer we come in personal contact with the consumer and in this way we are able to tell him of the quality of our brand and try to make a prospective consumer out of our competitive smokers. As a rule when a man is—when for instance I am out for business during the course of my day's work I carry along several packages of cigarettes, particularly during the Beech-Nut campaign I sampled between I

1582 should judge ten and fifteen packages a day and every time I saw a competitive consumer smoking such brands as Camels, Lucky Strikes, Chesterfields, Fatimas and Omars, I make it my business to stop this individual and try to interest him to try a package of our Beech-Nut cigarettes and see if I cannot convert him over to smoke our brand, and usually when a stranger was approached we would walk up in this manner, "Pardon me, sir, I notice you are indulging in cigarettes. Do you smoke domestic cigarettes all of the time" "Well", he would say, "yes" or, "no." If he would say yes I would say, "I am interested in the marketing of Beech-
1583 Nut cigarettes, which is the latest brand marketed by the Lorillard Tobacco Company. This brand is guaranteed to retail at fifteen cents. You will find Beech-Nut cigarettes guarantee the highest grade Virginia and Burleigh tobacco obtainable and including we put in the finest quality Turkish leaf money can possibly buy, and there is no doubt in my mind if you will accept a package of these Beech-Nut cigarettes and will give them a good fair trial you will like them in preference to the brand you are smoking." Then he perchance may ask a question or two about the process of manufacture or the difference between the brand he is smoking and this 1584 brand, and naturally the answers pertain to what questions he would put to us, which we are prepared to answer. A man would happen to say, "Well, I just smoke domestic cigarettes, occasionally I like Turkish", then I would call attention to the fact we are also the manufacturers of such brands as Murads, Helmar and Dieties under the brand of S. Anargyros Company and "you have surely heard of those brands." "Oh, yes." "If you don't like Beech-Nuts I would appreciate your business on one of the Anargyros brands", re-mentioning the names of our most important brands. Of course, this sampling, you know, is a thing some men give you a lot of time to talk to and others wouldn't. You run 1585 across a business man, he hasn't much time, you have to make it brief as posible and others are willing to listen and really want information about the different methods of manufacture of the different grades of tobacco put in the cigarettes and will ask questions. We call that advertising to the consumer.

R-D Q. 353. In sampling the consumer will you state whether or not you ever had any of them ask, "Was that cigarette made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the Beech-Nut gum people "

A. I have always eliminated the possibility of any confusion by mentioning, "This is the latest addition to 1586 the Lorillard brands, the latest brand manufactured by the Lorillard Tobacco Company." That eliminates any possibility of the consumer even asking if we manufacture gum or candy or any such products made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company because he is told right then and there it is a product of the Lorillard Tobacco Company.

R-D. Q. 354. Now, when you were instructing or schooling your crew as to approaching the trade and consumers, what instruction did you give them? The same as this or different?

A. I gave them exactly the same instructions I have 1587 told you I used in sampling the consumer, asked them to follow that out in every case.

R-D Q. 355. You have spoken of these four men you have had in your missionary or campaign crew at that time. Were all of these four men so instructed?

A. Absolutely.

R-D Q. 356. How many times?

A. Well—

R-D Q. 357. Approximately, daily or weekly?

A. Possibly two or three times a week.

1588 R-D. Q. 358. You had charge of these men, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D Q. 359. What would happen to them if they disobeyed these instructions?

A. If I found they did, I dispensed with their services.

R-D Q. 360. What did you say the names of those men on the crew were?

A. E. A. Gimbel, W. C. Jackson and there was a Mr. New,—I can't remember his initials. He worked for me a short time, and M. J. Schimmel.

1589 R-D Q. 361. Can you give me an idea where each of these men are now?

A. Mr. New was a resident of Milwaukee, he lived on the south side. I had his record at the time, where he was, where he lived, and his record when I lived here. These records were all left in Milwaukee with Mr. Hopewell, and Mr. Gimbel also was a native of Milwaukee and I guess he is living here. Mr. Jackson is, I presume, around Milwaukee here somewhereon. He is a single man, but I don't know just exactly where he could be located, but he is around Milwaukee. I have heard from folks that he has been seen.

1590 R-D Q. 362. And where is this other man?

A. Mr. Schimmel? He is still employed by the Lorillard Tobacco Company.

R-D. Q. 363. So, as far as you know, all of those men are in and around Milwaukee, are they not?

A. I imagine so, yes, sir.

R-D Q. 364. Do you know the house address of any of them?

A. Not at this time, I don't so, sir.

R-D Q. 365. Do you know Mr. Schimmel's address?

A. Mr. Schimmel?

R-D Q. 366. Yes.

A. I believe he lives at 1322 Fond du Lac Avenue. 3349

R.D.Q. 367. He is a man that is still with you?

A. He is still with the company, that is the reason I know that.

R.D.Q. 368. Will you please state whether or not you ever instructed or permitted any of your crew to take orders for Hoods Nat final products?

A. That is ridiculous. Absolutely not. We are not allowed to take orders, even for competitive brands of cigarettes and tobacco. If you got an order from the dealer and the dealer says, "I would like to have some Chesterfields," or any other competitive brand, he was told he couldn't do that—"I am sorry, but I cannot put 3389 that down in my order book, as that goes in as a report and you would have to phone your order to the jobber." Our salesmen are not allowed to sell other merchandise than our own.

R.D.Q. 369. Will you please state whether or not you ever know any of your crew to take any order for final products or to ask for any order of final products?

A. Never, absolutely not.

R.D.370 When one of your crew went into a store to sell a cigarette or introduce the tobacco, who was he supposed to see in there? 3389

A. Well, naturally he was supposed to see the buyer, the man who manages the store or has authority to do the buying, if he is going to to sell merchandise.

R.D.371. What was he supposed to have with him, under your instructions?

A. During the Hoods Nat campaign?

R.D.Q. 372. Yes.

A. He at all times had a sufficient amount of cigarettes with him to sell to retail dealers for cash and along with that he carried sufficient advertising. I should judge when he would leave in the morning he 1594 would carry possibly from fifty to seventy-five different pieces of advertising and from ten to fifteen cartons of cigarettes. When he got rid of this he reported up there to 84 Detroit Street, which was our warehouse at that time, and he would pay us for the cigarettes sold for cash and I would give him an equal amount in return for that money to replenish his stock, and then he would fill his supply of advertising matter again and would not report back again until the following morning.

1406

R-D Q. 373. Would he go into a store with a single package of cigarettes?

1595 A. Absolutely not.

R-D. Q. 374. Without any advertising matter or cards?

A. Absolutely not. A man was instructed when he called on a retail dealer he was at all times to have at least two or three cartons of cigarettes, so if the dealer wished to buy them for cash he would deliver them right then and there, and if he ran out of cigarettes to sell for cash he was to come back to the wareroom or nearest jobber and replenish his stock.

R-D. Q. 375. You say you were out near this Beese store a few days ago. What kind of store is that?

1596 A. I should judge from the looks of the place it is a first class grocery store.

R-D Q. 376. Is it out in the suburbs or in the city?

A. Well, it is in the city, it is right directly in the city of Milwaukee.

R-D Q. 377. If one of your men of your crew went into that store and the buyer wasn't there or he didn't sell cigarettes, was he supposed to be half an hour or an hour in that store?

A. Absolutely not, if he wasn't living there. He wouldn't have any objective in staying there half an hour or even five minutes. 1597

R-D Q. 378. Have you ever been in Mr. Beese's store?

A. Well, just recently. I walked in there to get an idea of what character of store it was and who it was owned by, and whether they had ever had Beech-Nut cigarettes or sold cigarettes, and I found Mr. Beese had sold out, and I can't just repeat the gentleman's name who owns it now. I found that Mr. Beese never carried cigarettes or tobacco products of any kind.

R D Q. 379. Could you find out if a Miss Heller was working there yet? 1598

A. Working there now?

R-D Q. 380. Yes.

A. No, she is not working there any more.

R-D. Q. 381. How do you know?

A. Because I have inquired from this dealer and he told me she resigned when he had taken over the store.

R-D Q. 382. Did he tell you about anything she said to him before she left?

A. Well, I inquired as to—

By Mr. Johnson: Objection to that as hearsay.

The Witness (Continuing): I inquired from this merchant and asked him who owned this store and he told me he did, and I asked him if Mr. Beese ever owned this store and he said, "Yes, I purchased the store some time in the middle of 1922." I asked him if he has an employe there by the name of Miss Heller and he said, "No, she left here when I purchased the store, I asked him how long she had worked there, and he said, "Approximately two years." I asked him whether he has any means of knowing whether she was ever acquainted with any Beech-Nut man and he said "Why 1599

1600 yes." "How do you know?" He said, "Well when I purchased the store she left here, she told me she knew the Beech-Nut man." And he further said that when she left she had recommended the purchase of Beech-Nut Packing Company's goods.

Mr. Johnson: Objection to this question and answer as incompetent, irrelevant, as hearsay, as secondary evidence.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

1601 R-D Q. 383. I understood you to testify on cross examination that you did not know whether or not a Lorillard man was in that store or not, one of your crew.

A. Well, I doubt very much whether there was a Beech-Nut cigarette man in there.

R-D Q. 384. Of your own personal knowledge you don't know whether he was in there or not?

A. Absolutely not.

R-D Q. 385. I understood that Mr. Schimmel had no particular route, but worked in general around Milwaukee, is that right?

1602 A. Well, his instructions were, due to the fact he had a car and could readily get around in the scattered sections, to work all of the scattered sections first, and I started him off on the northwest side, working all systematically but the car-line streets, and considerable of his time was spent driving me around to the jobbers and helping me place interior and exterior advertising.

R-D. Q. 386. Now, as to these jobbers, on cross-examination you were referred to certain exhibits, circulars, purported to be sent out by the P. Lorillard Company and marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 12-A, B and C. Do you personally know what jobbers received these, or if any jobbers received them?

A. Well, I wouldn't call them circulars. When we 1603 marketed a brand over here I was not requested to solicit orders for Beech-Nut and the company sent each jobber in the territory a blank order on it, which has been the customary thing in marketing new brands of cigarettes and in so doing they sent the jobber this particular letter which Mr. Johnson called a circular, notifying him of the shipments made to him and the quantity of cigarettes and also mentioning the offer they make indirectly to the jobber for the jobber salesmen.

R-D Q. 387. But you don't know whether the jobbers received those letters or not, of your own knowledge personally? 1604

A. No, I have no means of knowing what correspondence the jobbers received from the New York office because I received no copies of them.

R-D. Q. 388. Do you know who owns or runs the Loop Cigar Store?

A. Yes, sir, it is owned by the Cavala Tobacco Company. The owners of that firm are Mr. George Panagis and Peter Panagis.

R-D. Q. 389. Now, when you had this conversation with Mr. Lewis in this cigar store at the time you say you were introduced by Mr. Tuckwell, what impression did you get from his questions that you say he asked 1605 you?

A. The questions of Mr. Lewis?

R-D. Q. 390. Yes.

A. Well, from the little notices I have been reading in the paper about the litigation going on between the Beech-Nut Packing Company and the P. Lorillard Company I sort of felt he was trying, by the question he put to me, "Do you manufacture any other Beech-Nut line?" it looked to me as if he was trying to get me to commit myself to say yes, we manufacture other lines, but when I said yes, we made other Beech-Nut lines and I men-

1606 tioned to him we manufactured Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut plug, it seemed to me he was trying to make me commit myself in some way.

R-D. Q. 391. That is, you mentioned to him tobacco lines?

A. Absolutely, Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut plug.

R-D. Q. 392. And those are tobaccos?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 393. I understand you are now in the Chicago territory for the Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 394. Is that a larger territory than the Mil-

1607 waukee district?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 395. Much greater population, I presume?

A. Oh, certainly.

R-D. Q. 396. Now, about this S. Anargyros concern, who controls that, if you know?

A. Lorillard Tobacco Company. All of the S. Anargyros brands are brands owned and controlled by the P. Lorillard Company.

R-D. Q. 397. What kind of cigarettes do they manufacture?

A. The brands they manufacture?

1608 R-D. Q. 398. Yes.

A. Are known as Turkish cigarettes, which are all Turkish brands manufactured by the P. Lorillard Company put under the name of "S. Anargyros."

R-D. Q. 399. Will you please state whether or not in the marketing of your Beech-Nut cigarettes or any other Lorillard tobacco product you would think it either necessary or advisable to trade on the reputation or name of any other concern?

A. You mean in the Lorillard tobacco, marketing a new product? Asbolutely not.

R-D. Q. 400. Why not?

A. Because we are known as the manufacturers of 1609 the greatest percentage of volume of Turkish cigarettes marketed in the United States, and then again we are known as the manufacturer of the famous Beech-Nut scrap, which I believe consists of about seventy-five or eighty per cent. of all of the scrap manufactured in the United States, and it would be ridiculous of any salesman who has had any experience at all to come out and mention the reputation of the other manufacturers when he has such famous brands as the Moguls, Egyptian Dieties, Murads and Climax plug to talk about, which are very famous in that particular line in tobacco commodities.

1610

By Mr. Johnson: Objection to that part of his answer which gives statistics as to the distribution and sales of Beech-Nut scrap tobacco, as hearsay.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D. Q. 401. How long were you in the army?

A. I should judge all told about eleven months.

R-D. Q. 402. And that was the only period for eleven years that you were not with the P. Lorillard Company, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir, absolutely. 1611

R-D. Q. 403. Did you go over seas?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 404 Did you see any active service?

A. Absolutely.

R-D. Q. 405. Were you wounded?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D. Q. 406. In what battle?

A. In the St. Mihiel sector.

Re-direct Examination Closed.

1612 Re-cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

R-D. Q. 407. Were you disappointed in the quality of the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, I was not exactly disappointed in the quality of the Beech-Nut cigarette. The brand was manufactured on a similar test that helped make Beech-Nut scrap a great seller. It is inclined to be a little sweet, which did not meet with the approval of the average smoker that liked a little more kick to it. The quality 1613 was all right, but the kick was not there, and that is the only complaint we ever heard on that brand.

R-D. Q. 408. Are you handling the distribution of them now in Chicago?

A. No, sir, the only brands I handle now are the Turkish brands of cigarettes in Chicago. The Beech-Nuts are under the supervision of the tobacco department which worked all of the Lorillard products.

R-D. Q. 409. Did you get any letter or circular at all from the P. Lorillard Company instructing you and your salesmen not to offer these Beech-Nut cigarettes as the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

1614 A. No, sir, I didn't receive that, because I imagine the company felt it was unnecessary to call their head salesmens' attention to that fact, as they sort of felt it wouldn't be done.

R-D. Q. 410. You are sure you never got any such letter or circular from the P. Lorillard Company?

A. I am sure I did not.

CHARLES TUCKWELL, a witness called on behalf of the defendant, P. Lorillard Company, being first duly sworn, deposes and says in response to interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Charles Tuckwell, age 32, residence 1237-25th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, cigar clerk.

Q. 2. Where are you employed, Mr. Tuckwell? 1616

A. 409 East Water Street, Cavala Tobacco Company.

Q. 3. How long have you been employed at that place?

A. Since September 8th, 1921.

Q. 4. Do you know from whom that store is leased?

A. Piggly Wiggly Company.

Q. 5. What is the address of it?

A. 409 East Water.

Q. 6. Where were you employed before that?

A. M. L. Annenberg.

Q. 7 In the same business?

A. Cigar and newspaper business, not as a clerk. 1617

Q. 8. What were your duties around there?

A. Salesman, and collect for the Sunday papers, Chicago papers.

Q. 9. At your store, at your present place of employment you sell the Beech-Nut cigarette and Beech-Nut scrap tobaco?

A. Both.

Q. 10. Do you sell any products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Beech-Nut gum.

Q. 11. Do you sell any candies of that company?

A. Just the gum.

1618 Q. 12. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarette, to your knowledge?

A. Oh, it has been over a year now, I think it was a year last October or thereabout.

Q. 13. Are you acquainted with Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes.

Q. 14. How long have you known Mr. Goldstein?

A. About January, 1920.

Q. 15. Do you know what concern he represents?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 16. What line of business are they in, do you know?

1619 A. Manufacturers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco.

Q. 17. Do you know Mr. Lewis of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 18. What does he do with that company, as far as you know?

A. He sells Beech-Nut products, as far as I know.

Q. 19. How long have you known Mr. Lewis?

A. About two years.

Q. 20. Now, Mr. Tuckwell, do you know personally if Mr. Lewis knows Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes, sir.

1620 Q. 21. How do you know that?

A. I introduced him to Mr. Goldstein.

Q. 22. Will you please state the circumstances and when and where you introduced Mr. Lewis and Mr. Goldstein?

A. I don't know about what date it was, it was about the time Mr. Goldstein was putting on Beech-Nut cigarettes for the Lorillard Tobacco Company, and Mr. Lewis happened in the store one day, one morning, and when Mr. Goldstein came in a few minutes after he did and I said, 'Mr. Lewis, I want you to meet Mr. Goldstein, the P. Lorillard Company is putting on Beech-Nut cigarettes", and then I says, "Mr. Goldstein, meet Mr. Lewis 1621 of the Beech-Nut Packing Company."

Q. 23. Did you hear or were you present at any conversation then between Mr. Lewis and Mr. Goldstein?

A. They did talk about their products between themselves, but waiting on trade I didn't get much of it.

Q. 24. Was anybody else in that store with Mr. Lewis at the time?

A. There was one man there he introduced me to as sort of an investigator of some kind for the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

Q. 25. Do you recall what his name was?

A. I don't know what his name was. 1622

Q. 26. Then when you introduced Mr. Lewis to Mr. Goldstein you mentioned the concern that each worked for to the other?

A. Absolutely.

Q. 27. Did you hear any part of the conversation at all between Mr. Lewis and Mr. Goldstein?

A. Well, I just got straggles of the conversation, it was both their products, same as any salesmen meeting one another would carry on.

Q. 28. Can you remember any of that conversation, state any of it?

A. Mr. Lewis asked Mr. Goldstein if they made any 1623 other Beech-Nut products and Mr. Goldstein said they made Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut plug.

Q. 29. Will you please state whether or not you heard Mr. Goldstein say anything to Mr. Lewis which would lead you to believe that Mr. Goldstein was trying to leave the impression or statement that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, Mr. Goldstein didn't say anything to that effect. It seems to me like Mr. Lewis and Mr. Goldstein both being in the employ of their respective companies 1624 would know that one did not make cigarettes and the other did not make gum.

Q. 30. So you didn't hear any such conversation?

A. No, absolutely not.

Q. 31. Have you ever heard any comments or inquiries or remarks from any of your customers which would lead you to believe they thought the cigarettes or scrap tobacco were made by the same people that made the gum?

A. Very seldom, if ever.

Q. 32. You don't recall any such?

A. No, it has been four or five years.

1625 Q. 33. Before the cigarettes were on the market?

A. Before the cigarettes were on the market.

Q. 34. Would you yourself ever confuse such products as cigarettes or scrap tobacco with gum or candies or food products?

A. You mean, the Beech-Nut? No.

Q. 35. Why not?

A. I was employed by Lorillard's for about seven years and I knew positively they did not make any ham, bacon, candies or gum.

Q. 36. Never heard of them making such products?

A. Never.

1626 Q. 37. What has their line been directed to entirely?

A. Lorillards?

Q. 38. Yes.

A. Tobacco and cigarettes and little cigars.

Q. 39. Did you know of the P. Lorillard Company making any packing products at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. 40. Have you ever sold any tobacco products as those of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. Never.

Q. 41. About when was it you say you introduced Mr. Goldstein to Mr. Lewis?

A. I think about October. I don't know, it was when 1627
Mr. Goldstein was putting on Beech-Nut cigarettes for Lorillard.

Q. 42. What year?

A. 1921, that was the only year Mr. Goldstein was in this territory.

Q. 43. And was it in this cigar store which is leased from the Piggly Wiggly on East Water Street where you are at present that you introduced them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 44. Are you still buying goods from Mr. Lewis of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. I never bought goods from Mr. Lewis, my firm 1628 buys goods from them. At that time I don't believe they did buy direct.

Q. 45. But you knew Mr. Lewis?

A. I knew Mr. Lewis and knew what he did.

(Direct Examination closed.)

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 46. Where is this store, Mr. Tuckwell, in which 1629 you say this incident happened?

A. 409 East Water Street.

X-Q. 47. What sort of tobacco store is that?

A. Retail cigars and tobacco.

X-Q. 48. Any wholesale?

A. No wholesale.

X-Q. 49. About what size store room is it, just roughly?

A. It is ten by about sixty feet.

X-Q. 50. How many clerks have you?

A. Just one.

1630 X-Q. 51. Just yourself?

A. Just myself, and I have one of the boys from the wholesale department relieve me at noon and at night.

X-Q. 52. And have you yourself anything to do with the wholesale department?

A. Nothing.

X-Q. 53. About how many customers come into your store in a day, approximately?

A. Four hundred and fifty to five hundred.

X-Q. 54. You are kept pretty busy then waiting on those people, aren't you?

A. Quite busy.

1631 X-Q. 55. As a rule have you much time to talk to individuals?

A. At certain times, before the banks open up and right after lunch, about two or two thirty.

X-Q. 56. When did this meeting of Mr. Goldstein and Mr. Lewis take place in your store?

A. I don't know exactly what date it was, I think it was in October some time, about 9:30 in the morning.

X-Q. 57. How do you remember that date?

A. I don't remember the date, but I kind of remember the month because they just put on Beech-Nut cigarettes in that month.

1632 X-Q. 58. Had they already put them on?

A. Just started to put them on.

X-Q. 59. Had you known Mr. Lewis for long?

A. I had known Mr. Lewis for about two years.

X-Q. 60. Had you known Mr. Goldstein for long?

A. He succeeded me, I think, in January, 1921.

X-Q. 61. Succeeded you in what?

A. As head salesman for the state of Wisconsin for the Lorillard Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 62. And you were with the Lorillard Tobacco Company yourself for how long?

A. Seven years.

X-Q. 63. What makes you think that Mr. Lewis and Mr. Goldstein had never met before? 1633

A. Because I had introduced them.

X-Q. 64. Did you have any way of knowing that they had not been introduced before?

A. No, sir, only by the way they acted. If they had met before one of them would have said he had the pleasure of meeting Mr. So-and-so previously.

X-Q. 65. Do you remember their ever being together in your store before?

A. Not before. If they had I would have introduced them, I believe.

X-Q. 66. You never saw them together before? 1634

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 67. About what time of day was that?

A. About 9:30, I should judge.

X-Q. 68. You say there were a good many people in the store?

A. I didn't say there was a great many before the banks opened up, the banks open up at ten o-clock.

X-Q. 69. You say you didn't hear much of their conversation?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 70. You said that, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir. 1635

X-Q. 71. And you have also said you only heard straggles of the conversation?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 72. So you really wouldn't have an opportunity really to say what they did say or didn't say to each other at that time, if you only heard snatches of it?

A. Only what I told Mr. Cavanagh.

X-Q. 73. You heard the part that you told Mr. Cavanagh, but as to the rest you wouldn't be able to say what they said or didn't say, would you?

A. No, sir.

1636 X-Q. 74. Then you cannnot be sure, can you that they did not converse along a great many different lines, from the few remarks you have repeated as you having heard?

A. I didn't get the meaning of that.

X-Q. 75. I say, they might have had a great deal more conversation than the few remarks you repeated?

A. They might have, although they were there only about half an hour.

X-Q. 76. Were they talking together about a half hour?

A. The three of them were together about half an 1637 hour, whether talking together, I don't know. Mr. Goldstein was sampling consumers.

X-Q. 77. Did you ever hear Mr. Goldstein speak of the Beech-Nut line of products he was selling?

A. Only tobaccos and cigarettes.

X-Q. 78. Did he speak of the tobaccos and cigarettes of the Lorillard Company as the Beech-Nut line of products?

A. No, sir, not that I know of, I never heard him say that.

1638 By Mr. Johnson: Will you please read to the witness again Q. 28 of the direct examination where Mr. Lewis asked Mr. Goldstein if the Lorillard Company put out any other Beech-Nut products.

(Thereupon the said question was read)

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 79. You remember, then, do you, Mr. Tuckwell, Mr. Goldstein referring to other Beech-Nut products of the Lorillard Company at that time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 80. Did you ever hear him at any other time refer to the group of Beech-Nut products of the Lorillard Company? 1639

A. Mr. Goldstein always would talk about Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut tobacco owing to the big sale of Beech-Nut scrap. He was putting on Beech-Nut cigarettes on Beech-Nut scrap's reputation.

X-Q. 81. In your store did you ever refer to the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes together as Beech-Nut products? Did you ever speak to your customer of those two things as Beech-Nut products?

A. Only when they come in and say, "Give me a package of Beech-Nuts" I would ask them what kind of Beech-Nut they wanted, cigarettes, gum or tobacco. 1640

X-Q. 82. Did you have many ask you just for Beech-Nut? Was that question often asked of you?

A. "Give me a package of Beech-Nuts."

X-Q. 83. Was that often asked of you?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 84. And what did you usually say?

A. "What kind of Beech-Nuts do you want?"

X-Q. 85. How many different Beech-Nut products did you carry at that time?

A. Three. 1641

X-Q. 86. What were they?

A. Gum, scrap tobacco and cigarettes.

X-Q. 87. Did you ever see Mr. Goldstein and Mr. Lewis together after that?

A. No, never did.

X-Q. 88. Did each of them come into your store frequently? Did you often see one or the other of them in your store?

A. Yes, quite often.

X-Q. 89. So they might have been in there together without your noticing it, might they not?

1642 A. They might have been.

X-Q. 90. Wasn't it even probable they would have been in there together, if each of them came in so many times, as you say? Quite likely they may have been in there together a number of times?

A. They may have been, but I didn't notice.

X-Q. 91. Did you ever see them together before this meeting you have described?

A. I never saw them before that, not together.

X-Q. 92. Was each one of them coming into your store from time to time before that?

A. Yes, sir, Mr. Lewis used to come in when he wasn't 1643 on the road about every other day, maybe twice a week. Mr. Goldstein when he was in town used to be in every day, and sometimes twice a day.

X-Q. 93. Is it not quite likely they were in there together previous to that meeting, without your noticing it?

A. Well, hardly, because I notice pretty nearly everybody comes in. The store is a little small.

X-Q. 94. You wouldn't be able to say, would you, that it was not possible for them to have met in your store before the meeting you have described, would you?

A. They might have met, but not knowing one ano-
1644 ther—I don't think they knew one another before I introduced them.

X-Q. 95. To go back to this meeting you have described again, there was considerable of their half hour's conversation that you did not hear, as I understand it?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 96. You have said, Mr. Tuckwell, you were employed by the Lorillard Company for seven years. When did you leave that company?

A. November, 1920.

X-Q. 97. And since then have you been in tobacco stores?

A. Calling on retail trade and working in retail stores. 1645

X-Q. 98. You have been in the tobacco business ever since then?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 99. And you have been handling, have you, Lorillard brands.

A. I have been handling the Lorillard brands.

X-Q. 100. Quite a number of them?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 101. When this Beech-Nut cigarette first came to your store then, came into your stock, you knew it was a Lorillard product? 1646

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 102. Before it ever came to your store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 103. Have you handled or do you handle Camels and Lucky Strikes and Fatimas?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 104. Who puts out Camels?

A. R. J. Reynolds.

X-Q. 105. Who puts out Lucky Strike?

A. American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 106. And who puts out Fatimas?

A. Liggett & Meyers. 1647

X-Q. 107. About how many Beech-Nut cigarettes do you sell a day, do you know?

A. Now?

X-Q. 108. Yes.

A. Three or four packages.

X-Q. 109. Have you sold more than that every day at other times?

A. When Mr. Goldstein was putting them on, yes.

X-Q. 110. When did you sell the most, at what period, I mean?

1648 A. About the 1st of November, I think, Mr. Goldstein gave us permission to.

X-Q. 111. What year?

A. The year they put them out, I think that was 1921, when Mr. Goldstein was here.

X-Q. 112. About how many did you sell a day then, can you remember?

A. Why, that deal was only on one day. We were allowed to sell two packages and give one. That is what they call a factory deal, sold about three thousand that day. That would be about one hundred and fifty packages.

1649 X-Q. 113. Are you pretty familiar with the faces of the people who come into your store?

A. Pretty familiar.

X-Q. 114. Do you know whether many of the same people who bought Beech-Nut cigarettes at first repeated on them?

A. For a while, but they are not now.

X-Q. 115. Did you hear these people say anything about the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. They would ask for them and I would give them to them.

X-Q. 116. Did you hear anything said about the 1650 quality of the cigarettes?

A. Never.

X-Q. 117. Where is the gum, the Beech-Nut gum you have spoken of, displayed for sale in your store?

A. On the top of the counter.

X-Q. 118. What is inside of the counter?

A. Cigars.

X-Q. 119. Where are the cigarettes from there?

A. Back of them in a coop like this, painted black (indicating).

X-Q. 120. Just about directly back of the counter where the gum is?

A. No, the gum is at this end and the cigarettes are 1651 in the middle. They have the gum in a big glass jar, you know.

X-Q. 121. You have said on direct examination that you heard a few comments and inquiries about who made the Beech-Nut gum as I understood it. Can you describe any more in detail those incidents? What remarks or questions you had asked you these times you have spoken of?

A. I don't know what you mean.

X-Q. 122. You have already said, in reply to Mr. Cavanagh's question, that several years ago, but not recently you have heard a few comments and inquiries 1652 as to who was putting out the Beech-Nut tobacco?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 123. Do you remember what kind of question they asked?

A. Just asked me who was putting out Beech-Nut tobacco and I told them Lorillard was.

X-Q. 124. They asked you whether the same people were putting it out as were putting out the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Didn't mention the Beech-Nut gum.

X-Q. 125. Do your customers ever ask you who makes the different brands of cigarettes or brands of 1653 tobacco?

A. Very, very seldom.

X-Q. 126. That was unusual then, was it, for these questions to be asked?

A. At that time I was in the employ of the Lorillard Company and they just started to put on Beech-Nut scrap in the state of Wisconsin and those that have asked me would be retailers, wouldn't be customers, because I had nothing to do with the scrap end of it when I was here with Lorillards.

X-Q. 127. Did any of these people who inquired

1654 say why they were interested or why they were curious about who was making them?

A. No, just asked me who was putting them out, just the same as they would any new cigarette.

X-Q. 128. This is tobacco you are speaking of?

A. Yes, sir, the same thing applies to cigarettes.

X-Q. 129. As I understand it, on the direct examination you said you had not heard any of those comments or inquiries in regard to Beech-Nut cigarettes, is that right?

A. Inquiries you were just asking about?

X-Q. 130. Yes, similar inquiries about Beech-Nut 1655 cigarettes.

A. Very seldom.

X Q. 131. You did hear some, you think?

A. Maybe one or two when they were first put out.

X-Q. 132. Then you did hear some of the same kind of inquiries as to who was the maker?

A. At that time I was back of the counter. They could see a carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes on the counter and say, "Who is putting this out, something new? I would say, "Lorillard Tobacco Company."

X-Q. 133. But as you were busily waiting on these several hundred customers as they came into your store 1656 you didn't have much chance to notice what the customers were saying, did you?

A. Well, different remarks they would make, they would direct them at me.

X-Q. 134. Did you make any attempt to remember what remarks or inquiries or comments were made on that subject at the time?

A. Only what I have told you.

X-Q. 135. I mean, at the time did you make any effort to remember or did you make any notes?

A. No, just passed it up same as I would if anybody asked me, "Have you got anything new to smoke." 1657

X-Q. 136. Did anyone ever ask you to keep any note or memorandum of such questions?

A. No, never.

X-Q. 137. And all you can say is that you do not remember many of such inquiries or comments, is that right?

A. If I had to tell you what the customer said, I could not, because I just passed them right up.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D. Q. 138. Mr. Tuckwell, how long to your knowledge has the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco of the Lorillard Company been on sale in the Milwaukee teritory?

A. I think in 1918 is when they started to work it.

R-D. Q. 139. Had you seen it on the market here before then?

A. I think there was a few jobbers in Milwaukee had Beech-Nut scrap.

R-D. Q. 140. If you had heard, since the cigarette was introduced here in 1921, numerous comments or inquiries as to who it was made by or whether it was made by any other company than the Lorillard Company, it would have been impressed on your mind, wouldn't it? 1659

A. I think it would.

January 30th, 1923.

Met pursuant to adjournment; parties present as before.

MICHAEL SPHEERIS, a witness called on behalf of defendant, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, deposes and says, as follows:

Direct Examination.

1661 Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. My name is Michael Spheeris, age 38, residence 348-12th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, occupation merchant.

Q. 2. Where is your place of business located?

A. 420 Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Q. 3. What do you sell in your store, Mr. Spheeris?

A. Tobacco, cigarettes, candy, chewing gum and cigars.

Q. 4. Do you sell the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

1662 A. I do.

Q. 5. Likewise do you sell the Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 6. Do you sell any other products of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No.

Q. 7. Candies or anything of that sort?

A. No, nothing else.

Q. 8. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco in your store?

A. Well, I don't remember exactly, but it is pretty 1663 close to three years, I guess.

Q. 9. How long have you been selling the Beech-Nut cigarettes in your store?

A. About a year and a half, I think, ever since they came out here.

Q. 10. Do you know who makes the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. What concern?

A. Lorillard.

Q. 12. Now, will you state in your own words when you first put in the Beech-Nut cigarettes just exactly how 1664 you came to put them in and what happened? That is, who brought them to you and what you did.

A. Before the Beech-Nut cigarettes came here we had calls from different people asking if we had cigarettes and we told them they were not in town yet, but when they came in town Lorillard's man, their specialty man, came to us and got in an order.

Q. 13. Do you know who that specialty man was?

A. Mr. Goldstein, a fellow by the name of Goldstein.

Q. 14. And he called upon you to ask you to take an order, did he?

A. Yes, sir. 1665

Q. 15. When he called on you first to get this order, what did he say? Did he make any remarks or anything?

A. He didn't make any remarks of any kind. He mentioned Beech-Nut cigarettes and he asked whether I would allow him to put a poster of Beech-Nut cigarettes in the window.

Q. 16. Will you state whether or not he had the posters with him?

A. He had posters with him, yes, sir, when the cigarettes were in town.

1666 Q. 17. Did you give him an order for the cigarettes at that time?

A. I did.

Q. 18. Will you state whether or not you allowed him to put the posters in the window?

A. I allowed him to put the posters on the window, yes.

Q. 19. What kind of poster was that, do you know?

A. A great big poster says on it, "Beech-Nut cigarettes, made by Lorillards."

Q. 20. You knew he was a Lorillard man when he called, did you not?

1667 A. I did, yes.

Q. 21. Will you state whether or not he made a remark or said anything which would lead you to believe that these cigarettes were made by the same people made the gum?

A. He made no such remarks. I knew they were made by Lorillard's and I knew the gum was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, a different company entirely.

Q. 22. Were you yourself ever confused or led into belief that the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco or Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same people who made the 1668 gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 23. And did you ever hear of any remarks or questions asked by any of your customers which would lead you to believe they thought the Beech-Nut scrap and Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the gum company?

A. None of them ever mentioned anything like that, none of our customers. That is, the consumers came in and said, "Give us Beech-Nut gum" or "Scrap" or "Beech-Nut cigarettes."

Q. 24. So you have never had inquiries of that sort at all?

A. No. 1669

Q. 25. When Mr. Goldstein first called upon you to take that order, will you state whether or not he left any cigarettes with you at the time?

A. He did, yes.

Q. 26. How were those cigarettes packaged?

A. In a carton like this (witness indicates carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes) stands it like that and sets it on the counter like that (indicating).

Q. 27. Will you just describe what he did with the carton of Beech-Nut cigarettes when he left them with you?

A. I remember he gave us a carton for some of the 1670 cigarettes we bought, that is, he was doing it of his own free will. That is, just like giving it away for giving a good sized order.

Q. 28. You gave him a good sized order for cigarettes?

A. Yes.

Q. 29. Did he himself place the card on the counter as you have described it?

A. Yes, sir, he placed the card on the counter.

Q. 30. That is that yellow sign or card?

A. A card like this here (witness takes yellow card and sticks in the end of carton of cigarettes). 1671

Q. 31. When Mr. Goldstein sold you this first order of Beech-Nut cigarettes, will you state whether or not he left any sort of receipt or anything of that sort?

A. Well, that was an order like this here that he left with us (witness handles a yellow slip B of Defendant's Exhibit 10), and this one he signed and turned over to the jobber. We had these two slips, there was a carbon in between, and signed the white one on top. That had the jobber's name mentioned on top here and the amount of cigarettes we ordered. And he left this one with us so we would know what we ordered (witness indicating B of Defendant's Exhibit 10).

1672 Q. 32. Whose name appears at the top of those slips?
A. That is Lorillard's.
Q. 33. Did you pay in cash for those cigarettes at the time?
A. No, we paid the jobber.
Q. 34. But he left you the cigarettes and the receipts?
A. Yes.
Q. 35. Do you know of a store kept by William Weigel at 810 Wells Street, Milwaukee?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. 36. How far from your place of business is that store?
1673 A. About three and a half blocks.
Q. 37. Is that the same Wells Street your store is on?
A. Yes, sir.

(Direct Examination closed.)

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 38. What is your business address?
A. 420 Wells Street.
X-Q. 39. What kind of business, retail or wholesale,
1674 do you do in your store?
A. Tobacco, cigarettes and candies.
X-Q. 40. Retail or wholesale?
A. We wholesale everything and retail everything.
X-Q. 41. Do both kinds of business?
A. Yes, we do both kinds of business in the same place.
X-Q. 42. Same store?
A. Yes.
X-Q. 43. Same clerks?
A. Same.

X-Q. 44. Both wholesale and retail business? 1675

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 45. About how large is your store, just roughly?

A. It is a small place, twice as big as this room here. (Indicating).

X-Q. 46. About how many feet square, would you say?

A. It is about twenty feet wide and thirty-five feet long, that is a rough guess.

X-Q. 47. How many clerks do you have in there?

A. There is three of us in the store always; that is, changing hands right along.

X-Q. 48. You have three clerks there regularly?

A. No, not regularly, one is there always, but there 1676 is three of us working there.

X-Q. 49. About how many customers come into your store each day?

A. That I couldn't say.

X-Q. 50. Approximately?

A. Maybe five hundred, maybe less, maybe more. That I couldn't say offhand how many.

X-Q. 51. Do you keep a cash register?

A. Yes, we do.

X-Q. 52. Do you take off the total number of sales at the end of a day?

A. Well, we don't pay attention to that. I never look 1677 at how many come in a day.

X-Q. 53. Then do these five hundred—

A. (Interrupting) I mentioned approximately—that is a rough guess.

X-Q. 54. These five hundred approximate people keep you pretty busy, do they?

A. Oh, pretty busy, yes.

X-Q. 55. Do you have much time to talk with each one of them?

A. Once in a while, yes.

1678 X-Q. 56. But as a rule do you exchange remarks with the customer?

A. Yes, sometimes. If a customer starts to talk to me I would give him an answer, whatever he wants to know.

X-Q. 57. But is it the usual thing for a customer to ask you who makes the article he is buying?

A. Well, that I don't say, none ever mentioned to me, maybe it was once or twice, whether it is made by the same people make the Beech-Nut cigarettes, the gum was made by the same people or—well, I always knew that. I explained it to him. Maybe there is one or two 1679 since I have been in business there asked if it was the same people made the Beech-Nut cigarette that made the Beech-Nut gum, but I never had that asked very often.

X-Q. 58. Do you remember what these you mentioned who did ask—do you remember what they said?

A. I remember a fellow once asked me, he said, "Is this the same people is making the Beech-Nut gum?" I said, "Lorillard only makes tobacco, don't make any gum."

X-Q. 59. Do you remember that man's name?

A. No, I couldn't say, I don't remember that.

X-Q. 60. Do you remember what anyone else said?
1680 A. I don't think I ever had any conversation—such conversation with anybody else.

X-Q. 61. How does the customer as a rule make his purchases? Does he walk in and say, "I want a package of Camels", put down his money and walk out again?

A. Yes, and I gave him a package of Camels and he walked out. If he would say anything to me I talked to him, yes, but the most of them walked away. If he doesn't say anything, I don't say anything to him.

X-Q. 62. If he doesn't say anything, do you know what he is thinking about as to who made the article he is buying?

A. I don't know whether he knows it or not. 1681

X-Q. 63. You are not a mind reader, are you?

A. No.

X-Q. 64. In most cases, then, you don't know, do you, who the people think made the Beech-Nut cigarettes or any article they buy, do you?

A. That I couldn't say, whether they know it or not.

X-Q. 65. That is, you don't remember, do you?

A. I don't say I don't remember. I don't know. If anyone asks me a question if I know if the people know what they are buying, who makes the article they are buying, I don't know if the man knows who makes the cigar he buys. 1682

X-Q. 66. Did you make any attempt to remember how many people were asking about whether the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the Beech-Nut gum people?

A. Why, I think it was only one or two, when the cigarettes came out, that ever asked me if it was a different company, that is the consumers. If they ever asked, it was one or two. Of course, the Beech-Nut sign was on the window, "Made by Lorillard." There wouldn't be any sense for any man to ask me who made the Beech-Nut cigarettes because it is right on the sign.

By Mr. Johnson: Objection to this answer as not responsive. 1683

Will you read the question.

(Last question read)

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 67. Did you make any attempt to remember how many people asked you about the Beech-Nut cigarettes and tobacco?

A. No, sir.

1684 X-Q. 68. Did anyone ask you to make a note of that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 69. Then you have no reason to remember one way or the other, have you, as to that?

A. No reason to remember? What do I know whether Lorillard had any trouble with us here? If there was any such thing I would put it down and take the names and show it to you.

X-Q. 70. Do you remember when it was you made this first purchase of Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. That was in the year 1921, around in August, if I am not mistaken, between August and July. Either it 1685 was July or August, I don't remember right off, but I remember the time they came here.

X-Q. 71. About how many were you able to sell at that time per week, say?

A. In retail or wholesale?

X-Q. 72. We are speaking of retail now.

A. Probably could sell about a thousand a week, or two thousand.

X-Q. 73. Is that a thousand cigarettes or a thousand packages?

A. A thousand cigarettes, that makes fifty packages.

X-Q. 74. What proportion of your business is whole-
1686 sale? Half of it or three quarters?

A. Ninety per cent.

X-Q. 75. —is wholesale?

A. Yes, and probably more.

X-Q. 76. How did the Beech-Nut cigarettes sell in your store after that, retail, how many a week?

A. Well, not very many, we didn't sell very many.

X-Q. 77. Did the sales increase?

A. They were sold good for a while when they first came out and then dropped off. Now they don't sell at all.

X-Q. 78. Could you tell whether the same customers 1687 were coming back to buy again retail after their first purchases?

A. Well, some, yes. Some they didn't come back.

X-Q. 79. Did you hear any remarks as to how they liked the cigarettes?

A. Well, just like anybody else, some they like it and some they didn't like it.

X-Q. 80. Are you selling them now?

A. I don't think we have any of them now. We don't sell none.

X-Q. 81. When did you last sell any quantity of them?

A. About a year ago. . 1688

X-Q. 82. You haven't sold very many in the last year, is that it?

A. No.

X-Q. 83. Did you know before you bought these first Beech-Nut tobacco and cigarettes for the first time that they were Lorillard products?

A. What? The cigarettes?

X-Q. 84. Both of them, when you first bought the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco did you know it was a Lorillard product before you got it into your store?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 85. Did you know the same thing at the time 1689 of your first purchase of cigarettes?

A. Absolutely.

R-D Q. 86. When the cigarettes first came out, if you had had a lot of inquiries from customers as to whether 1690 it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Campany, or the gum people, you would have remembered?

A. If there were a lot of them I would have remembered that.

R-D. Q. 87. How does the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco sell in your store?

A. It sells fair.

R-D. Q. 88. —in comparison with the other scrap brands how does it sell?

A. Good. Best of all the other scrap tobaccos.

R-X Q. 89. In regard to the order slips which you spoke of on direct examination, did you say that the jobber's name appears at the top?

A. The jobber's name appears where it says, "Jobber". The manufacturer's name appears on top.

R-X. Q. 90. You buy from jobbers, too, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

1692 R-X Q. 91. Are you familiar with tobacco jobbers' order slips?

A. I am.

R-X Q. 92. Do most jobbers have an order slip somewhat of this same kind?

A. Well, some they have and some they have not, but none with Lorillard's name on it. They got their own name on it.

R-X. 93. Did they have their name printed at the top?

A. Yes.

R-X. 94. Same as Lorillard's name is printed at the top here (indicating)? 1693

A. Yes, some jobbers they have.

JOHN W. SMITH, a witness called on behalf of Defendant, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, deposes and says, as follows:—

Direct Examination. 1694

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. John W. Smith, age 27, residence 1206½-9th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, occupation window trimmer.

Q. 2. Are you ever employed by the P. Lorillard Company, tobacco manufacturers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 3. Where?

A. At the Milwaukee office.

Q. 4. Here in Milwaukee, Wisconsin? 1695

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. How long were you employed by the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Approximately three years.

Q. 6. What were your duties with the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Window trimmer.

Q. 7. Just what did you do in that line?

A. Well, putting in special display with the Lorillard Tobacco Company.

1696 Q. 8. In the windows in various stores?

A. Yes.

Q. 9. Were you employed by the P. Lorillard Company when the campaign of putting the Beech-Nut cigarettes on in the state of Wisconsin or Milwaukee territory was started?

A. I was in their employ before that and during the time they opened up the campaign.

Q. 10. About when was it they opened the campaign?

A. Well, I think about—during the month of September, I remember that. I am pretty sure it was September.

1697 Q. 11. 1921?

A. 1921.

Q. 12. Do you know Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 13. Was he with the Lorillard Tobacco Company at the opening of their campaign?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 14. Here in Milwaukee?

A. In Milwaukee.

Q. 15. Did you do any work under him?

A. Not directly under him. I was in a different department from Mr. Goldstein's department.

1698 Q. 16. Will you state whether or not you trimmed any windows with Beech-Nut signs?

A. Yes, sir, I have, that is if it was included in the special display gotten out by the window display department.

Q. 17. Did you ever attend any meetings or were you present at any meetings Mr. Goldstein had with his salesmen and listened to any instructions that he gave?

A. Well, I have been there in the morning when he has given instructions, packing up my things, getting ready to go, but never being directly in the meeting, just what I hear now and then from being around with him.

Q. 18. Can you state what you heard Mr. Goldstein tell these salesmen at these meetings just in your own words? 1699

A. Well, I heard him mention something about this here tangle in Beech-Nut gum and under no circumstances to give any dealer the impression they were connected with that company, the gum company.

Q. 19. You were present when Mr. Goldstein told this?

A. That was my understanding from what I heard.

Q. 20. At those meetings?

A. Yes, I was not paying particular attention to it because I was not on the selling force. 1700

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 21. Have you been a window trimmer all your business life?

A. No, sir, just since I started with the Lorillard Company.

X-Q. 22. What did you do before that?

A. Clerical work. 1701

X-Q. 23. With what companies?

A. With the New York Central Railroad before I was in the army.

X-Q. 24. What department of the company?

A. The commercial office in Milwaukee.

X-Q. 25. When did you enter the employ of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. 1919, I think the month of July.

X-Q. 26. Was that when you came out of the army?

A. Shortly after I came out of the army.

1702 X-Q. 27. Are you still with the P. Lorillard Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 28. What are you doing now?

A. Same line of work, but with a different company.

X-Q. 29. Whom are you with now?

A. Well, it is about three companies consolidated together under the Cavala Tobacco Company of Chicago, and doing advertising for about three companies.

X-Q. 30. But you are trimming for the tobacco
1703 trade, are you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 31. In these morning meetings that you spoke of on your direct examinations were you with the group of men that Mr. Goldstein was talking to?

A. I was in the same office, but only here and there, getting my stuff together, not listening directly to them.

X-Q. 32. Getting your trimming material together?

A. Getting my material together, walking around in the same room, couldn't help hearing different remarks.

X-Q. 33. Did you only hear remarks now and then?

A. You mean at that same morning I spoke of?

1704 X-Q. 34. Any one morning.

A. Well, I have heard a lot of remarks going on, which I probably don't remember.

X-Q. 35. Did you overhear such remarks more than one morning?

A. Well, there was a little session there probably a week long they talked about that more than any other time, I think, when this here first came up.

X-Q. 36. About what week was that?

A. I couldn't say.

X-Q. 37. Was it soon after the start of the special Wisconsin campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. That I wouldn't remember. Might have been a 1705 month, might have been a couple of weeks.

X-Q. 38. It was that fall, was it?

A. I don't know. As I say, not being under Mr. Goldstein I didn't pay any special attention to that, because I had my own work to do.

X-Q. 39. What did you hear Mr. Goldstein telling his salesmen?

A. If anybody was to ask him, that was the point, whether they were connected with this Beech-Nut gum company, to tell them positively not.

X-Q. 40. Did you ever go about through the city with Mr. Goldstein on his trips during this campaign? 1706

A. Well, I have made calls with him, because I have an automobile at one time and if he was going my way I would take him up there and probably wait a few minutes until he got through with the dealer he might be talking to, and then we would go on until he finally dropped off somewhere.

X-Q. 41. Did he ever direct your window trimming? I mean, at any particular store?

A. No, I can't say that he has.

X-Q. 42. Did he ever make suggestions how you should put your materials in the window?

A. Not that I remember of hearing him say. 1707

X-Q. 43. Are you familiar with the Beech-Nut gum and hard candies?

A. I don't understand your question.

X-Q. 44. Have you seen around about Milwaukee the Beech-Nut gum on sale and the mint packages?

A. I have seen the gum, I am sure of that, and I have an idea I have seen these little mint packages with their label on.

X-Q. 45. Similar packages?

A. Very similar.

1708 X-Q. 46. Have you seen those in any of the same stores in which you were trimming windows?

A. Well, I guess practically everybody had Beech-Nut gum, if they handled gum at all, and they usually handle gum in cigar stores in which I have been trimming.

X-Q. 47. Did you trim the window at the suggestions of the store where you went, in most cases? Would they suggest the kind of display you make in their window?

A. We would put our display in first and tell them we would put in merchandise they might wish to show in there with it, and they would hand me jars of cigars 1709 and tobaccos which I would put in with our display.

X-Q. 48. Did you ever put in any Beech-Nut gum or hard candies or display matter in regard to them in th same window?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 49. Were you ever asked to do that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 50. Have you ever gone into a store with Mr. Goldstein when he was placing cigarettes or his advertising material?

A. Well, yes, I have, but I can't say it was Beech-Nut. I know of different pieces of advertising he put 1710 up on Turkish cigarettes, but I do not remember any special time he put up Beech-Nut advertising. He may have taken in Beech-Nut cigarettes, but I couldn't say for sure whether Beech-Nut or Turkish.

Q. 3. Are you acquainted with Mr. Goldstein of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 4. Were you connected with the P. Lorillard Company during the time the introductory campaign on the Beech-Nut cigarette was being conducted in Milwaukee and vicinity under Mr. Goldstein?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 5. And about when was that?

1716 A. The campaign was about September 26th, I believe, it began.

Q. 6. What year?

A. 1921, I think. I am not positive.

Q. 7. Did you take any part in that campaign?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 8. Just tell us in your own words what you did.

A. I called on retailers. I being the only one had a car, I called on retailers in the side streets and putting up advertising of different kind and description and sold these different dealers each a small quantity of

Beech-Nut cigarettes so we could give them a start on it, introductory item with them. 1717

Q. 9. When you called on a dealer or retailer to introduce the cigarettes, tell us just how you proceeded or what you did.

A. "Mr. So-and-so, I am a representative of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company, doing a little advertising on Beech-Nut cigarettes. I would like to introduce this cigarette to the consumers. We are not trying to place a large quantity with you, just one carton." Then I would try to put up some advertising for the gentleman and proceed on my way to the next one.

Q. 10. If the dealer took a carton of the cigarettes, did you give him any receipt or anything of that sort? 1718

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 11. Are these receipts made out on the blanks like I show you (showing order blank)?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 12. The white blank marked "A" and the yellow blank marked "B" and the tissue paper sheet?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 13. When you went into the store what did you carry with you?

A. My sample case containing the cigarettes and advertising. 1719

Q. 14. You always had those with you when you went in the store?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 15. Did you ever attend any meetings at which Mr. Goldstein gave any instructions to the crew?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 16. How often?

A. Quite often.

Q. 17. Well, approximately? Once a week or a couple of times a week or what?

A. Most every day, I might say.

1720 Q. 18. What instructions did Mr, Goldstein give you at those meetings?

A. My instructions were that upon entering a store I was to introduce myself as representative of the P. Lorillard Company, manufacturers of Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut tobacco and a few Turkish cigarettes, and under no circumstances were we to mention Beech-Nut Packing Company's articles with ours.

Q. 19. Did you ever have any of your customers ask you if these Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Beech-Nut scrap, was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company, the same people make the gum?

1721 A. Very little, sir, if any.

Q. 20. Do you recall any?

A. No, sir, I don't think I do.

Q. 21. How many customers did you visit a day, approximately?

A. About twenty.

Q. 22. And for about how long a period of time did you visit these customers? That is, how long did your campaign extend, just approximately?

A. Approximately three months.

Q. 23. Will you state whether or not you ever told or intimated to any person that Beech-Nut cigarettes 1722 were made by the same people who made the gum?

A. No, sir.

Q. 24. What kind of advertising was it that you put up in these stores and that you carried with you to put up in the stores?

A. Posters, also enamel signs.

Q. 25. Were they window signs or wall signs?

A. The enamel signs were for outside walls and the displays we carried with us also for the windows.

(Direct Examination Closed.)

Cross Examination. 1723

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 26. Are you still in the employ of the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 27. What were you doing before you joined them about two years ago, as you say?

A. I represented the American Tobacco Company.

X-Q. 28. How long were you with them?

A. Two months.

X-Q. 29. What did you do before that? 1724

A. I was a shipping clerk.

X-Q. 30. In what kind of house?

A. Tool manufacturing concern.

X-Q. 31. Were you in the tobacco trade before that?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 32. How long had you been with the P. Lorillard Company at the time this introductory campaign on the Beech-Nut cigarettes began?

A. About seven or eight months.

X-Q. 33. How long did it continue in this distrtict?

A. About three months.

X-Q. 34. Beginning when? 1725

A. September 26th, 1921, continued until about December 16th of the same year.

X-Q. 35. To be concluded about December?

A. About that time. I don't recall just when it did conclude because our vacation came in at that time and that is all we did on that.

X-Q. 36. When you were just describing in direct examination what you did and said when you entered a dealer's establishment to sell him cigarettes, you do not mean that you did exactly that thing in every case, do you?

A. Yes, sir, in every case.

1726 X-Q. 37. Just exactly the procedure you stated?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 38. Were you able to say that you always did that very same thing?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 39. Said the same things?

A. With a few words thrown in—a few other words thrown in here and there, but always introducing myself the same way.

X-Q. 40. You can't remember of one instance where you parted from that procedure to any extent?

A. No, sir.

1727 X-Q. 41. Did you ever receive any written instructions from Mr. Goldstein telling you to be careful not to put these Beech-Nut cigarettes forward as seeming to be the product of the Beech-Nut Packing Company?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 42. You never received any such written instructions?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 43. Did you ever receive such written instructions from the P. Lorillard Company home office?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 44. Through what period of time did these 1728 meetings that you speak of, when Mr. Goldstein talked to you, take place?

A. Every morning.

X-Q. 45. Beginning about when?

A. Beginning right at the time we first had begun our campaign on Beech-Nut cigarettes.

X-Q. 46. You mean September 26th?

A. September 26th, yes, sir.

X-Q. 47. And through what period did those meetings run?

A. Until practically the end of the campaign and on to the next year too. It has been mentioned to the crew very often we should not mention Beech-Nut 1729

Packing Company's products with Lorillard's.

X-Q. 48. When did Mr. Goldstein leave this district?

A. The first of 1922.

X-Q. 49. His meetings did not run into that year, you don't mean that?

A. No.

X-Q. 50. You mean his successor continued the meetings?

A. Yes, sir, his successor.

X-Q. 51. How often did you say those took place?

A. When Mr. Goldstein was on we received those instructions most every morning, approximately every 1730 morning. I won't say very often, but quite often, I might say, in the morning before we left the office we were carefully instructed not to mention Beech-Nut Packing Company with Lorillard's name.

X-Q. 52. How long did you spend in his office as a rule before getting out in the morning?

A. We would get down to the office at eight and we would leave between eight thirty and a quarter to nine, never later than a quarter to nine. We were always out at a quarter to nine.

X-Q. 53. These meetings were rather informal then, I suppose?

1731

A. Informal, yes sir.

X-Q. 54. Did he go through the same ceremony every morning, tell you these things that you were describing in direct?

A. Yes, sir.

XQ. 55. Did he tell you in those morning meetings that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the P. Lorillard Company?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 56. What was the necessity of telling the Lorillard employees that their own company made the product?

1732 A. He didn't say it in just those words you use, he didn't mention those words. He did say we weren't to mention Beech-Nut Packing Company's name with Lorillard's products. We were not to use that Beech-Nut Packing Company's label with Lorillard's label in calling on these dealers.

X-Q. 57. Did you ever hear Mr. Goldstein refer to the Beech-Nut cigarettes as one of the Beech-Nut line?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 58. Did you ever hear any of your brother salesmen refer to the Beech-Nut cigarettes as one of the Beech-Nut line of products?

1733 A. No, sir.

X-Q. 59. You have gotten about a good deal, haven't you, Mr. Schimmel, in this Milwaukee district during that campaign and since?

A. Beg pardon?

X-Q. 60. You have moved about a good deal among the dealers, among the public?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 61. Have you heard any quetion asked or any comments or inquiries as to whether the Beech-Nut cigarettes and scrap tobacco were made by the people that made the gum?

1734 A. Very little.

X-Q. 62. But have you heard a few?

A. Once or twice, but very seldom. I did hear once in a while something.

X-Q. 63. Can you tell any of the things that you heard?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 64. Did you make any attempt at that time to remember these incidents?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 65. Did anybody ask you to make a note of such incidents?

A. No, sir. 1735

X-Q. 66. You were very busy at that time, weren't you?

A. Yes, sir.

X-Q. 67. Don't you mean that you don't remember any such inquiries except the few exceptions you have mentioned? You mean you don't remember?

A. I don't remember.

X-Q. 68. Do you know the C. H. Beese grocery store on Murray Avenue?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 69. Did you ever hear of it?

A. No, sir. 1736

X-Q. 70. The C. H. Beese grocery store, 701 Murray Avenue?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 71. You never went there?

A. No, sir.

X-Q. 72. Did you keep a memorandum or note book of the places you called during that campaign?

A. No, sir.

Cross examination closed.

Re-direct Examination. 1737

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 73. You were asked on cross examination about Mr. Goldstein going through a certain ceremony of schooling the salesmen. Will you please state whether or not he was on that occasion instructing you how to approach people?

A. Yes, sir, to a certain degree.

R-D Q. 74. In what way?

A. To absolutely be sure to mention that we were representatives of the P. Lorillard Company, selling the 1738 Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut tobacco, manufacturers of the Beech-Nut tobacco.

R-D Q. 75. Did he mention you should speak of any other Lorillard brands?

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 76. What brands does Lorillard manufacture in the Turkish lines?

A. Helmars, Turkish Trophies, Dicties and Moguls.

R-D Q. 77. Are all of those well-known brands?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D Q. 78. Did you ever sell any of them?

A. No, sir.

1739 N-D Q. 79. You never sold the Turkish brands?

A. No, sir.

R-D Q. 80. What do you sell chiefly?

A. Beech-Nut cigarettes and Beech-Nut scrap tobacco at the present time.

R-D Q. 81. Who do you work under now?

A. Mr. Frank Hopewell.

R-D Q. 82. You say that on one or two occasions you might have heard people ask you, "Were the cigarettes made by the gum people or Beech-Nut Packing Company?" What did you tell them?

A. Why, they would say to me, "Well, we sell your 1740 Beech-Nut gum", and I would emphatically deny it and say, Beech-Nut gum was not made by P. Lorillard Tobacco Company, it was made by the Beech-Nut Packing Company.

R D Q. 83. How often would that happen?

A. Very few times.

R-D Q. 84. If it had happened very often would that have impressed itself on you that people were making those inquiries?

A. It might.

R D Q. 85. If people asked you the same thing one hundred times a day or one hundred times a week would you remember it or would you not? 1741

A. Yes, sir.

R-D Q. 86. I asked you, would you or would you not. Will you state whether or not?

A. I would.

R-D Q. 87. Would have what?

A. It would have impressed itself upon me.

R D Q. 88. Will you state whether or not you have ever mentioned to customers those famous Turkish brands of Lorillard Company?

A. I have, sir.

R-D Q. 89. In what way? 1742

A. The dealer would ask me if we made any other well-known cigarette and I would naturally mention Murads and Helmars and so on.

Re-direct Examination Closed.

Re-cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

R-X Q. 90. What was your district during this Beech-Nut cigarette campaign?

A. The territory west of Third Street, I would say, or the northwest end of town. 1743

R-X Q. 91 Was that entirely referring to Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir.

R-X Q. 92. Did you get outside of Milwaukee very far?

A. No, sir.

R-X Q. 93. Do you know what territories the other members of the crew had?

A. No, sir, I don't remember.

R-X Q. 94. When Mr. Goldstein was going through this morning exercise of his while you salesmen were in 1744 his office, did he tell you to emphasize the quality of the Beech-Nut cigarettes in presenting them to the dealers?

A. I don't remember.

R-X Q. 95. Did he tell you to emphasize that the Beech-Nut cigarettes were another of the many other brands?

A. No, sir, he never said.

Mr. Cavanagh: Other brands of what? The question is objected to as indefinite.

A. He never mentioned anything about—he never 1745 told us to say anything about the quality of the other brands, if that is what you are arriving at.

R-X Q. 96. (By Mr. Johnson) As you have been selling the goods of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company have you found that the people wanted a certain brand, such as the Beech-Nut cigarettes or the Moguls or the Murads, or did they want a Lorillard brand?

A. They would call the brand they wanted, they would call it by name.

Re-cross Examination Closed.

1746 Re-direct Examination.

By Mr. Cavanagh:

R-D Q. 97. Will you please state whether or not in these morning instructions or meetings he told you to emphasize that the Lorillard Company made other famous brands and mention them by name?

A. He did not tell us to emphasize the fact we made other brands. However, he did say, where it was necessary to sort of impress upon the quality of Murads and Helmar cigarettes and in this way bring forth the point that Beech-Nut cigarettes were of good quality.

R-D Q. 98. So he did mention these other brands, such as Murads and Moguls at the time he was instructing you about the Beech-Nut, didn't he? 1747

A. Occasionally, yes, sir.

Mr. Cavanagh: That is all.

Mr. Johnson: That is all.

Deposition Closed.

Signature waived.

(An Adjournment is here taken to ten o'clock January 31st, 1923)

January 31, 1923, 10:00 A. M. 1748

Met pursuant to adjournment, parties present as before.

DANIEL PAICOPOULOS, a witness produced in behalf of the defendant, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Preston, deposes and says as follows:

Q. 1. Will you please state your name, age, residence and occupation?

A. Dan Paicopoulos, thirty-seven years of age, reside at 722 Wells Street, occupation cigarettes and tobacco. 1749

Q. 2. What is the address of your store here?

A. 405 Wells Street.

Q. 3. How far is your store from 810 Wells Street?

A. About five blocks—four blocks.

Q. 4. Do you sell Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. 5. How long have you handled that?

A. Ever since I am in the business, about twelve years.

Q. 6. Do you handle Beech-Nut cigarettes?

1750 A. Yes, sir.

Q. 7. And how long have you handled them?

A. For more than a year.

Q. 8. Do you know what company makes Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Sure, I do, P. Lorillard.

Q. 9. Are you handling Beech-Nut chewing gum?

A. I do once in a while.

Q. 10. Do you know what company makes that?

A. No, really I don't know.

Q. 11. Have you ever been under the impression that Beech-Nut chewing gum was made by the same company 1751 makes the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No, sir.

Q. 12. Have you ever heard any remarks or inquiries among your customers which indicated in any way that they were under the impression that Beech-Nut chewing gum was made by the same company makes the Beech-Nut tobacco and the Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. No.

Q. 13. And if you had heard a great many of those remarks do you think you would have remembered it?

A. Well, sure I would. I can't remember anything 1752 like that, I never heard anything like that.

Q. 14. Do you remember who it was first sold you Beech-Nut cigarettes?

A. Well, if I am not mistaken it was Mr. Goldstein.

Q. 15. When Mr. Goldstein introduced those Beech-Nut cigarettes to you did he tell you that he was a representative of the Lorillard Tobacco Company?

A. Yes.

Q. 16. Did he make any statement which in any way could have led you to believe that the Beech-Nut cigarette was in any way connected with the Beech-Nut gum?

A. Never mentioned anything like that, never mentioned any Beech-Nut gum. 1753

Q. 17. Did Mr. Goldstein have any advertising matter with him when he introduced those cigarettes into your store?

A. Yes, he put up posters in my window.

Q. 18. He put some posters in your window?

A. Yes.

Q. 19. Did you buy any Beech-Nut cigarettes from him at that time for cash, or through the jobber?

A. The first I bought was from the jobber, not for cash, but I gave the order through the jobber.

Q. 20. Did Mr. Goldstein leave you a duplicate of the order you gave him on a blank like the one I now show you, a yellow order slip, (showing same to witness)? 1754

A. He gave me a copy of this.

Q. 21. And whose name appears on the top of that blank?

A. "P. Lorillard."

Q. 22. Is your Beech-Nut scrap tobacco a good seller?

A. Sure, it is a good seller.

Q. 23. Is it as good a seller as any other scrap tobacco that you carry?

A. I don't handle anything else but Beech-Nut scrap.

Q. 24. Beech-Nut is the only scrap tobacco you handle? 1755

A. I have the other, but they don't go as fast.

Direct Examination closed.

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Johnson:

X-Q. 25. Mr. Paicopoulos, is your business wholesale or retail?

1756 A. Wholesale and retail.

X-Q. 26. About what proportion of it is wholesale, would you say?

A. Well, I sell wholesale outside myself and retail here in the store, but I sell the most wholesale out.

X-Q. 27. Do you make sales in the front of the store yourself?

A. No, I deliver stuff, I sell stuff outside to the other stores.

X-Q. 28. Is this one of a chain of stores?

A. What is that?

X-Q. 29. Have you other stores beside this one?

1757 A. No, I say I sell to my customers outside wholesale and retail, retail I sell whatever comes here. Wholesale I go out and get orders as I deliver.

X-Q. 30. How many men have you in the store in which you sell retail?

A. My brother Louis and two of my brother-in-laws.

X-Q. 31. How many do you keep in the store at one time usually?

A. Usually one.

X-Q. 32. And of the business that you do in that front store, about what per cent. of it would you say is wholesale? One-half or three-quarters?

1758 A. Wholesale is three-quarters. I don't do much retail here.

X-Q. 33. About what is the size of your store in the front part, just roughly, how many feet long and wide?

A. Oh, I never measured it.

X-Q. 34. Just roughly, don't you know whether it is twenty by twenty or what it is?

A. I never pay any attention to it. If you walk out you can measure it, I can't say.

X-Q. 35. I would just like to have you say, because you are the owner.

A. About twenty by twenty. I am not sure, I never measured it. 1759

X-Q. 36. About how many customers come in in a day, retail customers?

A. About two hundred or three hundred.

X-Q. 37. That keeps you pretty busy waiting on them?

A. Oh, not much.

X-Q. 38. Do you have much time to talk to each customer?

A. I talk to the customer for what? They come in and say, "Give me a package of this" and I hand them the stuff and they go out. If I know the fellow and they want to talk to me I can talk as much as they want to. 1760

X-Q. 39. How long have you been selling Beech-Nut scrap tobacco?

A. Since I am in business, nine or ten years.

X-Q. 40. During that time since you have been selling Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and Beech-Nut cigarettes have you heard any one asking you who made them or whether the same people made them that made the Beech-Nut chewing gum or peanut butter?

A. No.

X-Q. 41. You never heard anyone asking that or talking about it?

A. No. 1761

X-Q. 42. Did you make any attempt to remember such questions?

A. If somebody asked me I told them P. Lorillard, but I can't remember anybody asking me about that.

X-Q. 43. Then when you say you didn't hear any such questions or remarks you mean you don't remember of them now, is that it?

A. I can remember nobody asking such a question.

X-Q. 44. When did you first buy Beech-Nut cigarettes?

1762 A. A little over a year, I think, at the time they first come on the market. It was over a year, I think. If I look at the bill I can find it.

X-Q. 45. Who first came in to offer them to you for sale?

A. Mr. Goldstein.

X-Q. 46. Did you buy some the first time any man came in to offer them to you?

A. They gave me the price and I bought them.

X-Q. 47. Did you buy them the first time a salesman came in with them?

A. Yes.

1763 X-Q. 48. You are sure that is Mr. Goldstein who came in first?

A. Mr. Goldstein was the man who sold me the first lot.

X-Q. 49. Did he come into your store?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 50. When was that?

A. Well, I can't remember, but it was a little over a year anyway. I can't remember exactly the day.

X-Q. 51. But you do remember, do you, it was Mr. Goldstein who came into your store the first time that you had these cigarettes offered to you?

1764 A. Yes.

X-Q. 52. Did you know Mr. Goldstein at that time?

A. I know him.

X-Q. 53. You say you knew him?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 54. Do you know who he represented?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 55. Who?

A. P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 56. Then before you got the Beech-Nut cigarettes for the first time you knew that they were made by the P. Lorillard Company, did you?

A. Yes.

1765

X-Q. 57. Did you know they were made by the Lorillard Company before you ever saw a package of them?

A. Before I saw them?

X-Q. 58. Before you ever actually saw a package of the cigarettes.

A. Before I saw them I don't know who made them, but at the time they represented the Beech-Nut cigarettes they told me they were made by the P. Lorillard people, and then I knew. Before I had them how can I know?

X-Q. 59. But I mean, before you saw a package of the cigarettes did yor know that these Beech-Nut cigarettes that were on sale—

1766

A. (Interrupting.) Yes, I knew they were made by P. Lorillard.

X-Q. 60. Now these order slips which Mr. Preston has shown you, did Mr. Goldstein leave one of these yellow duplicate slips with you at that time?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 61. Have you bought anything since then from P. Lorillard Company salesmen?

A. I buy, yes.

X-Q. 62. Have they always left with you one of these yellow order slips?

1767

A. Yes. (Producing paper) I think I have one here now. When I give an order to a salesman they leave one like this (indicating), this is a different company. One he sent to the jobber and my jobber sent me the stuff and I check it up to see if that is the way I gave it to them.

X-Q. 63. You buy from tobacco jobbers some time too, don't you?

A. Well, not all of the time.

X-Q. 64. Who are the Borden Sales people in New York?

1768 A. This is the first order I gave them.

X-Q. 65. Are they tobacco jobbers?

A. No, this is candy, a different line of business, this is all candy.

X-Q. 66. When you have bought from jobers have you had order slips left with you similar to this? Not just like this, I mean, but similar to this with the jobber's name at the top?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 67. Do these tobacco jobbers duplicate order slips have their own name at the top of it?

A. Yes.

1769 X-Q. 68. How did the Beech-Nut cigarettes sell after you put them in?

A. They were good sellers.

X-Q. 69. About how many a week did you sell at first?

A. I sell them at least today yet.

X-Q. 70. About how many a week did you sell during the first part of the time you were selling them?

A. I can't understand that.

X-Q. 71. Do you know about how many Beech-Nut cigarettes a week you sold during the first part of the time when you put them in stock?

A. I can't remember.

1770 X-Q. 72. Did your sales increase?

A. Not now.

X-Q. 73. No, but I mean after the first did the sales increase?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 74. For about how long?

A. Well, they increased for two months, but they don't go now like they started. They don't go as fast as they started. When they put them in they were selling good, after a couple of months don't sell like usual.

X-Q. 75. Did you notice whether many of the same people who came into your store bought a second time after they had bought once of these Beech-Nut cigarettes? 1771

A. I can't remember.

X-Q. 76. Did you hear any of them say what they thought of them?

A. Well, I can't remember that now.

X-Q. 77. About how many a week are you selling now?

A. Now the only thing—I don't sell much now.

X-Q. 78. Can you say about how many? One carton a week?

A. Sometimes I sell ten cartons a week and sometimes I don't sell in two weeks ten cartons. When I get orders I sell it, if I don't get orders how can I sell it? 1772

X-Q. 79. Do you sell Camel cigarettes?

A. Sure, I do.

X-Q. 80. Who makes the Camels?

A. R. J. Reynolds.

X-Q. 81. Do you sell Lucky Strikes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 82. Who makes those?

A. American.

X-Q. 83. Have you sold many Camels?

A. Plenty.

X-Q. 84. A great many?

A. Yes. 1773

X-Q. 85. Have you handled the packages yourself?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 86. What is on a package of Camel cigarettes underneath the Camel? What is printed on the Camel package underneath the Camel?

A. The name of the company who made it.

X-Q. 87. Have you sold many Lucky Strike cigarettes?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 88. Have you handled the packages yourself?

A. I handle some myself too,—plenty.

1774 X-Q. 89. What is on the Lucky Strike package underneath the red panel?

A. It says "Made by American Tobacco Company."

X-Q. 90. Have you handled many Fatima cigarettes?

A. Yes, not so many of them as Camels and Lucky Strikes.

X-Q. 91. Have you handled the packages yourself?

A. Yes.

X-Q. 92. What is on the Fatima package underneath the picture of the lady and the scimitar?

R-D Q. 96. Will you please state whether or not you have always known ever since you handled the Beech-Nut scrap tobacco and Beech-Nut cigarettes what company made them?

A. P. Lorillard.

R-D Q. 97. Is a good deal of your time spent among the retail tobacco dealers in the city of Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir.

R-D Q. 98. Do you spend considerable time in your own retail store here?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 99. Have you ever in your experience, as far as your memory goes, heard any remarks which indicated that people were under the impression that Beech-Nut tobacco and Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same company that made Beech-Nut gum? 1777

Mr. Johnson: Objected to as grossly leading.

A. No.

R-X Q. 100. You have already said, Mr. Paicopoulos, that in most cases your customers come in and ask for what they want and pay their money, take the package and go out?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 101. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

R-X Q. 102. In most cases nothing is said, is that correct?

A. What? 1779

R-X Q. 103. In most cases they don't say anything about who they think make the article they are buying?

A. If anybody asks me I tell them what I know.

R-X Q. 104. But in most cases do they say anything?

A. Well, they tell me that time they ask me if it is a new cigarette who it is made by, they ask me, many of my customers, but after that nobody appeared to ask anything about Beech-Nut who make it, they don't pay any attention to it.

R-X Q. 105. Then, Mr. Paicopoulos, you have had 1780 questions of this kind in regard to the Beech-Nut cigarettes, have you?

A. I told you, when they come they ask me who made it, because it is a new cigarette, they want to know who made it. They ask me who made it, I tell them P. Lorillard. That is alright by that time and then nobody asked anything.

R-X Q. 106. And with the ordinary customer, as you have already said, he walks in up here at the counter and says he wants a package of Camels, let us say, puts down the money, you give him the package and he turns around and walks out, is that right?

1781 A. Yes.

R-X Q. 107. But you can't tell from looking at his face as he comes in or the back of his head as he goes out what he is thinking about or is he thinking about who makes the Camel cigarettes, can you?

A. I cannot.

R-X Q. 108. You are not a mind reader?

A. No.

R-X Q. 109. Unless he says something you don't know what he is thinking in regard to that, do you?

A. I can't say what he has got in his mind, if he asks me any questions I answer him.

R-D Q. 110. Was it only when the Beech-Nut cigarettes was a new product that you had any inquiries as to who was the maker of those cigarettes?

A. Yes.

R-D Q. 111. When they were a new product did anybody ever ask you if Beech-Nut cigarettes were made by the same company makes the Beech-Nut gum? 1783

A. No.

ALBERT MARKS, a witness called on behalf of P. Lorillard Company, defendant, being first duly sworn, in response to interrogatories propounded to him by Mr. Cavanagh, deposes and says, as follows: 1784

Q. 1. Please state your name, age, residence and occupation.

A. Albert Marks, 43, Green Bay, Wisconsin, salesman.

Q. 2. For what concern?

A. P. Lorillard Company.

Q. 3. What line of business is P. Lorillard Company in?

A. Tobacco and cigarette business.

Q. 4. How long have you been with the P. Lorillard Company? 1785

A. Nine years.

Q. 5. Will you name some of the tobacco and cigarette brands manufactured and marketed by P. Lorillard Company?

A. Well, the scrap tobaccos would be the Panhandle, Old Nut, Tomahawk, Honest Scrap, Polar Bear, Open Book, Havana and Beech-Nut tobacco. We don't call that scrap, it is Beech-Nut tobacco. Now, the other tobaccos would be Beech-Nut Chewing tobacco, plug tobacco, Red Cross, Climax, and the smoking tobaccos would be Yacht Club, Stag, Union Leader and Sensa-1786 tion, and our cigarettes would be Murads, Helmars, Egyptian Dieties, Moguls, Nebos, London Life, Tigers, and Beech-Nut cigarettes. Little cigars would be Between the Acts, Royal Bengals, St. Legers, Sub Rosa, and Old Virginia Cheroots.

Q. 6. I wish you would start at the beginning and come down to date, tell us in your own words just where, since you have been located with the Lorillard Company, you have been stationed, that is, what places or terrtiories and what your work in those territories has been, just your own history.

A. Well, when I started with P. Lorillard Company,
1787 at that time we had different departments. In fact, we did up until 1922. There was a scrap department, a little cigar department, cigarette department and plug and smoking departments, but I was always associated with what we call the scrap department in Chicago headquarters. And in 1919 we started opening up Wisconsin. In fact, we had worked Wisconsin at different points previous to that time, such as Beloit, Janesville, Kenosha and Racine on scrap tobaccos. And in 1919 we came up into the southern part of Wisconsin and into Milwaukee and the company established my headquarters at Milwaukee in the fall of the 1788 year 1919. Then we opened up Milwaukee with our entire line of scrap tobaccos. And the following year we went up the Fox River Valley and what part of the state we would have time to make before the winter set in. And during the end of the year 1921 they launched the Beech-Nut cigarette and we were called in, that is, I was. All of the head men I understand were there of the different sections of the country, other states as well, called into Chicago in preparation for this drive on Beech-Nut cigarettes.

Q. 7. As I understand it you were located in Chicago from the time you first went with the company up until 1919, is that correct?

A. That is correct. 1789

Q. 8. And what were you selling or doing in Chicago, what was your position and duties?

A. Selling the scrap tobacco, Polar Bear and Honest Scrap when I first started selling. Then at different times we were put on special work to help some other department out in smoking tobacco and little cigars. Assigned to that perhaps maybe a month or two in a year, something of that sort, but we were always considered the scrap department.

Q. 9. So you were in Chicago on scrap tobaccos up until 1919, is that right?

A. That is it.

Q. 10. Then you were assigned to the Milwaukee territory in 1919, is that correct? 1790

A. Yes.

Q. 11. What duties were you assigned here for? What was your work when you came here?

A. Up to that time, you mean?

Q. 12. No, here in 1919.

A. On scrap tobaccos, Polar Bear, Honest Scrap and Beech-Nut tobacco.

Q. 13. What was your position?

A. Well, I was retail man up until November, 1919, and in November I was appointed head salesman. 1791

Q. 14. In the scrap tobacco department?

A. In the scrap tobacco department at Milwaukee, my headquarters.

Q. 15. You had nothing to do with cigarettes in 1919, did you, in Milwaukee?

A. No.

Q. 16. What did your territory cover when you were here in 1919 on scrap tobacco?

A. Well, the entire state of Wisconsin and the upper peninsular of Michigan.

1792 Q. 17. You have spoken of handling Beech-Nut scrap in this territory at that time. Just tell us what you did in that connection?

A. Well, I just don't understand what you mean by that.

Q. 18. Did you sell it any place?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. 19. And how long did you continue to work exclusively on the scrap tobacco department after you came here in 1919?

A. Up until the first part of 1922.

Q. 20. And during all of that time you worked ex-
1793 clusively on scrap from 1919 to 1922?

A. No, I worked on cigarettes on September 26th, 1921.

Q. 21. Tell us just what occurred in that connection, how you came to work on cigarettes.

A. Up to that time, up to September we were called into Chicago in regard to putting in this Beech-Nut cigarette, and there were men called in from all over this part of the country, head men, and our boss Mr. Fitzsimmons of the scrap tobacco was in Chicago and there was something said about asking him if he wanted his men in a meeting they were going to have and he 1794 said it was not necessary, that his boys knew all about special work on anything special, they were specialty men and it was not necessary and he dismissed us, for us to come back later in the day and all of the Fitzsimmons men, the scrap department men, were dismissed. The latter part of the day we went back and Mr. Fitzsimmons said there was not anything necessary he could say to us in regards to the work, that we knew exactly what to do and to place the Beech-Nut cigarettes just the same as we had always previously worked our scrap department.

Q. 22. So when was this meeting at Chicago, approximately when?

A. Well, let us see, it was about the 23rd or 24th 1795 of September.

Q. 23. What year?

A. That was 1921.

Q. 24. You had some meeting at Chicago, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 25. Where did you go from Chicago at that time after you left there?

A. To Milwaukee.

Q. 26. You came back to Milwaukee?

A. Yes, we were assigned to territory to work, so many counties. We took the Fox River Valley, that is Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, 1796
Appleton, Green Bay and Manitowoc. My boys were here in Milwaukee so we moved up to Sheboygan.

Q. 27. As I understand it, to pursue this matter logically and in order, you were assigned a territory. When and where and by whom were you assigned that territory?

A. By Mr. Fitzsimmons.

Q. 28. At Chicago?

A. At Chicago.

Q. 29. And you came back to Milwaukee?

A. I came back to Milwaukee to instruct my men to get their cars, we had two cars, to open up these towns 1797 they assigned us and we drove through on the two cars and took the interurban here up to Sheboygan.

Q. 30. Has that territory which you were assigned any term or name, such as the Northern District of Wisconsin or Western?

A. They call it the Fox River Valley territory.

Q. 31. And that is the territory to which you were assigned in September 1921?

A. That is right.

Q. 32. Then you went, as I understand it from Milwaukee up to the Fox River Valley, to your territory?

A. Yes, sir.

1798 Q. 33. And you took your crew with you from Milwaukee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. 34. Where did you make your headquarters for that Fox River Valley territory?

A. Our headquarters were at Milwaukee at all times.

Q. 35. Did you have any sub-headquarters?

A. The only headquarters we had was the hotel we were stopping at while in town. Our headquarters were always in Milwaukee.

Q. 36. But you worked at different towns and stayed in the Fox River Valley on this Beech-Nut cigarette 1799 campaign?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. 37. How many men did you have in a crew?

A. I had four men.

Q. 38. And about when did you start that campaign?

A. About the 26th of September.

Q. 39. What year?

A. 1921.

Q. 40. Can you give me the names of those men you had?

A. Yes, there was Roy Hansen, Urban Zimlicka and a fellow named Lloyd Whitney.

1800 Q. 41. Are all of these men with you now or with the company?

A. No, sir.

Q. 42. Do you know where they are, or where they are located?

A. I don't know anything about them.

Q. 43. Tell me, as near as you know?

A. Morris Miles lives at Lansing, Iowa, and Zimlicka lives at Linden, Wisconsin, and Whitney lives at Marshfield and Hansen lives at Oshkosh.

Q. 44. Were these men or any of them with you prior
